Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Miss Caroline B. Drake, of Duer street, is confined to her home by illness.

Miss Mary VanEps, of East Fifth street, has returned from a visit with Somerville friends.

George M. Anderson, of this city, left yesterday for St. Louis, where he will seek a position.

Mrs. William L. Saunders, of Washington Park, is convalescing from a recent operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Lewis Bird, of Grandview avenue, who has been ill for some time, is now in a critical condition.

Edgar Adams, of the borough, has returned from Chicago, where he spent the holiday season with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Stillman, of West Seventh street, left yesterday for Florida, where they will remain for a time.

Mrs. William Townley, of East Second street, who has been ill for the past few days, is now gradually recovering.

Mrs. William J. Buttfield, of Rockview Heights, who was recently operated upon for appendicitis, is steadily improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Talford, who have been spending the past month in New York State, have returned to Plainfield.

Miss Madeline Reed, the young daughter of Senator and Mrs. Charles A. Reed, of Washington Park, continues to improve from a recent operation performed for appendicitis.

THEATRICAL.

The theatre scenes in Klaw & Erlanger's "The Billionaire" at Daly's Theatre New York,, where Jerome Sykes is entertaining capacity audiences in his latest role of "John Doe" in this screamingly funny musical farce, are the talk of New York and the surrounding cities. Klaw & Erlanger have done more to effectually satirize the foibles of New York "first-nighters" and some well-known patrons of theatres in this piece, than all the cartoonists and comic papers have ever accomplished. And yet it is all done in such a good natured spirit that even the subjects consider it innocent fun and laugh as heartily as their neighbors who escape the shaft of the librettist's wit. The new farce keeps an audience in a roar of laughter from start to finish, and when not laughing it is applauding with all its energy the brilliant specialty and musical features. The show goes at a whirlwind pace from the time the curtain rises and not a moment occurs that is not occupied by novelty till its final fall amid the cheers of an audience that has been amused as people are seldom entertained in a theatre.

Although Mrs. Fiske's production of "Mary of Magdala" at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, is now in its third month, it is still without a rival among the many attractions at the various Broadway theatres. The play contains features to interest every class of theatregoer, be he lover of the dramatic, the impressive or the spectacular. There are episodes in Heyse's drama, as it is acted by Mrs. Fiske and her admirable company, that exceed in power anything that has been offered on the contemporary stage. The beautiful settings and costumes arouse wonder and applause and the storm scene stands as an unparalleled achievement in stage mechanics. Seats are selling a month ahead. Matinees are given on Saturdays only. The performance is over at 11 o'clock, and residents of the suburbs have therefore ample time to catch theatre trains on all railroads.

Shake Off Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, January 27. Train leaves New York, foot of Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day leave Washington at 9:50 p. m., January 28, and arrive Jacksonville at 7:40 p. m., January 29. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en-route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington. The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. Its free for the asking. 1 10 5 eod c 2

COAL ON FREE LIST.

Both Senate and House Pass the Bill.

PUBLIC DEMANDED THE ACTION.

Republican Leaders Declare That It Will Not Relieve Present Distress—Seizure of the Mines Is Considered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The bill reported from the ways and means committee to provide for a rebate of the duties on foreign coal for a period of one year was passed in short order by the house yesterday by practically a unanimous vote, 258 to 5, those voting against it being Messrs. Cushman and Jones (Wash.), Gaines (W. Va.), Mondell (Wyo.) and Patterson (Pa.), all Republicans. The bill was considered under the operation of a rule which cut off opportunity to amend. The only opposition to the measure came from some of the members representing coal states, who expressed the fear that the admission of Chinese mined coal in Canada would injure the coal industry of their states. Both Mr. Dalzell (Pa.) and Mr. Payne (N. Y.), the Republican leaders, expressed the opinion on the floor that the bill would not relieve the existing distress. They said it would satisfy, however, public demand for action and show the disposition of congress to do what it could.

The Democrats, although they all supported the bill, took the view that it did not go far enough, saying that coal should go on the free list, and when the bill came back from the senate with a provision which virtually placed anthracite coal on the free list they applauded vigorously. Mr. Dalzell in the course of his remarks said that there was practically no anthracite coal in the world except that in the United States and a little in China. The senate amendment was adopted without division.

Rapid progress was made with the army appropriation bill after the coal bill had been passed. The most important amendments adopted were to increase the number of officers in the signal corps by twenty-three—namely, one colonel, two lieutenant colonels, four majors, eight captains and eight first lieutenants—and another to prevent the discontinuance of the army transport service without action by congress.

The most radical action yet suggested in congress in connection with the matter of relieving the coal situation was taken this morning when Representative Jenkins, chairman of the house judiciary committee, introduced a resolution of inquiry into the feasibility of government control of coal mines and coal transportation agencies.

The resolution will go to the committee on rules, where the advisability of reporting it to the house will be considered.

The senate acted promptly on the house bill providing rebates of the duty on coal and passed it unanimously without debate a few minutes after it was brought over from the house. The militia bill also was passed, with an amendment striking out of the bill the section providing for a reserve force of trained men, thus removing the objections made against it.

For an hour and a half Mr. Tillman occupied the attention of the senate in a characteristic speech, in which he denounced trusts and monopolies and severely criticised the attorney general.

The statehood bill was up for a short time, during which Mr. McCumber spoke in favor of granting statehood to Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

After a brief executive session the senate adjourned.

The Czar Praises Witte.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 15.—The czar has addressed a rescript to Minister Witte expressing his gratitude for M. Witte's decade of successful work as minister of finance. The czar says his confidence in M. Witte's devotion to the throne and the empire has greatly lightened his own labor for the country's welfare. He compliments M. Witte highly upon his successful handling of the national finances and upon his instruction of the czarewitch in the principles of political economy. In conclusion his majesty says: "I hope that the throne and country may long retain your valuable services."

Hudson River Bridge Destroyed.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 15.—A covered bridge 120 feet long across the upper Hudson river at Glen has been swept away by the breaking up of a jam of logs and ice which had been forming for a week. The jam was over a mile long. The wrecked bridge is lodged twenty-five rods farther down the river. Another jam is forming at this point and the water is setting back over the lowland. The Adirondack railway bridge across Glen creek near the original jam is in danger of being destroyed.

Boy Shot to Save Mother.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 15.—In defense of his mother Thomas Whitman, aged thirteen years, shot twice with a pistol and instantly killed his aunt, Miss May Phipps, aged thirty-five years, at their home here. Miss Phipps, who had been insane several years, in a fit of anger began choking her sister and probably would have killed Mrs. Whitman had not the boy shot her.

American Consul's Wife Assaulted.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—A dispatch to a news agency from Algiers says the wife of Daniel S. Kidder, the American consul there, was assaulted by footpads in the street during the evening. She was knocked down and robbed of her purse and jewels. The police are searching for Mrs. Kidder's assailants.

CANAL BILL OFFERED

The $81,000,000 Scheme Up at Albany.

THE PROPOSED ROUTE OUTLINED.

In Both Houses of the New York Legislature Governor Odell's Pet Measure Has Been Introduced.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 15.—The senate convened last night, with Lieutenant Governor Higgins presiding. The general list of committees and the assignments of clerks were handed down. There was nothing of an unusual character in the committee assignments to indicate any special friction.

In the assembly Mr. Palmer of Schoharie, the minority leader, attempted to introduce by unanimous consent a resolution calling upon the New York senators and congressmen to vote for the "speedy and permanent abolition" of the tariff on coal, but was ruled out on objection by Mr. Rogers of Broome after a breezy tilt with the speaker. Minor appointments of speaker and clerk were announced, and the assembly adjourned until 11 a. m. today.

The anticipated $81,000,000 canal improvement bill was introduced in both houses, Assemblyman Bostwick of the Nineteenth New York district acting as sponsor in the assembly. The bill provides for the so called "inside Oneida-Seneca-Mohawk route" and authorizes the issue of $81,000,000 of bonds at 3 per cent. The route of the improved Erie canal is as follows:

From the Hudson river at Waterford to the Mohawk above Cohoes falls, thence in the Mohawk river canalized to Little Falls, thence by the existing canal and feeder to the Upper dam, through the Mohawk canalized to Jacksonburg, to Herkimer, to a point six miles from Rome, down Wood Creek valley to Oneida lake, through Oneida lake to the Oneida river, to Three River point, to the outlet of Onondaga lake, thence through the state ditch at Jacks reefs, so on up the Seneca river to Crusoe creek, thence to a point two miles east of Clyde, along the present route to Fairport, cutting across Irondequoit Creek valley to Pittsford through the country south of Rochester to the Genesee river near South Park, across the river through a dam pool, thence west to the outskirts of Rochester and thence along the present route to Buffalo.

The route of the Oswego canal as enlarged and rebuilt will be from the junction of the Oswego, Seneca and Oneida rivers northward to Lake Ontario at Oswego, along the Oswego river canalized and the present Oswego canal. The route of the Champlain canal as enlarged and rebuilt will be from the Hudson at Waterford, thence up the Hudson canalized to Fort Edward, thence by present route to Lake Champlain near Whitehall.

The bonds are to be exempt from taxation and are to be issued by the comptroller subject to the supervision of the canal fund commissioners. They are to bear 3 per cent interest, payable semiannually in New York, and are to run not more than eighteen years.

Within three months after the issuance of the bonds the state superintendent of public works and the state engineer and surveyor are directed to commence the improvement of the three canals.

A Florida Sanitarium Burned.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Jan. 15.—Fire which destroyed the Bryan sanitarium, a three story infirmary on Baylen and Garden streets, caused the death of W. L. Bracken of St. Andrews, Fla., one of the inmates, and seriously, perhaps fatally, injured Captain William Hudson of this city, who occupied a room in the hospital. Twenty-five patients were confined in the building and several persons are reported to have received more or less severe injuries from the flames.

Locomotive Combine For Scotland.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—A dispatch received here from Glasgow says that a meeting of the shareholders of three of the largest locomotive works in Scotland has been called for Jan. 23 to ratify an agreement to combine capital to the amount of $10,000,000. The companies concerned in the matter are the Hyde Park Locomotive works of Glasgow, Dubs & Co. of Polmadie and the Atlas Locomotive works of Springburn.

Fire In a Cleveland Store.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 15.—Fire in Brown Bros' house furnishing goods store on Ontario street did damage estimated at $100,000, much of the loss being by water. The adjoining store of Nathan & Skall, carrying the same line of goods, was damaged $50,000 by water and smoke. The insurance is 80 per cent with both firms. Mr. E. B. Brown of Brown Bros. states that the fire was probably of incendiary origin.

Rosebery to Wed an American?

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 15.—A letter received here from Mrs. Joseph Armstrong, who is at present in Vevay, Switzerland, says the engagement is reported there of Mrs. Alice Carr Chauncey, formerly of Louisville, but now residing in Cannes, France, and Lord Rosebery, the former prime minister of England.

Governor Davis Begins Second Term.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 15.—Governor Jefferson Davis was inaugurated for his second term of two years yesterday afternoon in the presence of the general assembly and a large gathering of citizens. In his message to the general assembly the governor urged the passage of a rigid antitrust law.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; brisk southwest winds.

ALL WRONG.

The Mistake is Made by Many Plainfield Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache.

To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine relief is cure.

Backache is kidney ache.

You must cure the kidneys.

A Plainfield resident tells you how this can be done.

Mr. Jos. VanArsdale, carpenter and contractor, living at 213 Spooner avenue, says: "For several years I suffered from severe pains in my back, hips and loins so bad at times that it was almost impossible for me to get around and attend to my work. Any stooping or heavy lifting aggravated it and if I contracted a cold it always settled in my back and at such times my suffering was something intense. When Doan's Kidney Pills came to my notice I was in pretty bad shape and procuring them from L. W. Randolph's drug store I took a few doses when I found they were helping me and on completing the treatment I was quite free from pain. I always keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand so as to have a sure remedy close by if the trouble should ever return.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

SHOE-SELLING CHALLENGE!

Bargains that have not been and cannot be matched.

THE CLIMAX of big value-giving—another demonstration of the greater bargain getting and giving possibilities of a State-famous department. Planned on a scale of such magnitude that any attempt to rival either lines or prices must, perforce, prove futile. Among other large deals recently made, the purchase of Balsh & Allen stocks is perhaps the most important. The foregoing concern has for many years been prominent in the wholesale shoe business of New York city, and, having recently retired, sold us over ten thousand pairs of Women's, Misses' and Children's Shoes for LESS THAN FACTORY COST OF PRODUCTION. Losses for somebody redound to the benefit to those shrewd enough to avail themselves of opportunities the like of which have never before been possible, and may not occur again even here.

SPORTING GLEANINGS.

New Cup Defender Growing—New Orleans Winners.

BRISTOL, R. I., Jan. 15.—The raising of the keel frames of the midship section of the new yacht ordered as a prospective cup defender has been accomplished at the Herreshoffs, and it is now possible to obtain some general idea of the form of the craft.

While her lines in many respects conform to those of the Constitution, there will be less dead rise, less curve at the garboards, the bilges somewhat harder and a considerably flatter floor. The departure from the Constitution's lines is, however, not at all extreme.

Owing to the stern post not being in position the framing is being worked farther forward than aft, and there are now several frames out ahead of the lead keel.

As in the other cup defenders more reliance is placed in the belt and longitudinal frames, of which there are fifteen in the midship section. The belt frames are 6 feet 8 inches apart, with intermediate frames between. As usual the connections are made by "T" bars, and the plating will follow the belt frames end for end. On the whole the work is progressing favorably, and there appears to be every prospect that the new boat will be overboard before the middle of April.

New Orleans Winners.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15.—Stratton II. and Old Hutch were the only winning favorites. Ecome, who won the fifth race, was backed from 15 to 8 to 1, and the ring profited but little by the very poor showing made by Satin Coat, a strong favorite. While at the post for the third race Old Hutch was kicked in the stifle and pulled up quite lame. The stewards have refused all privileges to A. P. Mathieson, in whose name Hiram Johnson, the alleged ringer, ran and won recently. Mathieson was given a certain time to produce the horse, who was removed from the track after the race, but thus far he has failed to do so.

Mayor Will Not Allow Fight.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 15.—Mayor Phillips has notified "Spider" Garrity, manager of the proposed six round fight between Ole Olson of Chicago, known as the "Terrible Swede," and "Kid" Williams of Philadelphia, that the contest could not take place. Garrity went to Governor Yates at the executive mansion and appealed to him, but Governor Yates declared he would permit no prize fighting in the state and that if Mayor Phillips had not prohibited the contest he himself would prevent it if he had to call out the militia.

New England Baseball League.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—Applications for franchises in the organization were received at the annual meeting of the New England Baseball league from New Bedford, Brockton and Taunton. New Bedford was admitted. A number of appeals and protests which grew out of last season's games were disposed of and the league organized for next season, which is to be opened on May 1 and closed Sept. 12.

Rogers Accuses Johnson.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—John I. Rogers, treasurer of the Philadelphia National League Baseball club, in an interview denounced President Johnson of the American league as a man who fails to keep his word and denied that the peace committee of the National league which met a similar committee from the American league in Cincinnati had power to act.

International Automobile Races.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—It is probable that the next automobile race for the international cup will be held in Ireland, as the difficulties encountered are disappearing.

A Million Dollar Sugar Plant.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 15.—Contracts have been let by the Longmont Beet Sugar company for the construction of a beet sugar factory at Longmont, Colo., that will cost more than a million dollars. The plant will have a capacity of 1,200 tons daily. Local promoters announced today that money to build the factory is to be furnished by H. O. Havemeyer and his associates.

Chamberlain Governor of Oregon.

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 15.—The two houses of the legislature met in joint session to canvass the vote for governor at the last general election. The vote was officially announced as follows: Chamberlain (Dem.), 41,857; Furnish (Rep.), 41,581; Hunsaker (Pro.), 3,483; Ryan (Soc.), 3,771. Chamberlain's majority, 276. Governor Chamberlain was subsequently inaugurated.

Lexow Buys a Paper.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 15.—The Nyack Evening Star, the only Democratic paper in Rockland county, has been sold by the stockholders to ex-Senator Lexow and a party of Republican friends, who will make it a Republican or independent paper. The price was not made known.

Spark Was Fatal to Two.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 15.—J. Mulgrez, a Slavish miner, and his wife, living at Sturgeon Station, near McDonald, Pa., were fatally injured and their house was wrecked by an explosion of a keg of gunpowder. Mulgrez was filling a can with powder when a spark from the kitchen stove fell in the keg.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Five buildings at Piqua, O., were badly damaged by fire, entailing a total loss of $150,000.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad company offered to increase the wages of engineers 10 per cent.

The Prussian budget estimates for 1903 show a deficit of more than $18,000,000, making a loan necessary.

Twelve Men Blown to Pieces In Powder Explosion.

BUILDINGS SCATTERED OVER ACRES

Cause of the Accident at Departure Bay, B. C., Will Never Be Known, as There Are No Surviving Witnesses.

NANAIMO, B. C., Jan. 15.—A terrific explosion occurred at the Hamilton Powder company's works, Departure Bay. George Simonetta, James Fulforte and ten Chinamen were killed. Only one body, that of a Chinaman, was recovered. Others were absolutely blown to fragments. The gun cotton storage house exploded first, the concussion exploding the gelignite in the drying house, 400 feet away, where the great loss of life is supposed to have occurred. The ground was excavated to a depth of six feet where the buildings stood. The buildings were blown into kindling wood and scattered with fragments of human flesh over several acres.

The tramway was torn up and a length of steel rails twined spirally around a tree like a whiplash. James Preston, a nitroglycerin maker, had a miraculous escape and owed his life to his coolness. He was running his machinery, 4,000 feet from the explosion, when it occurred and was thrown down. The window and a part of the wall were blown in, but he kept his machinery running in spite of the concussion, which almost stopped it, and never left his post, thus preventing a third explosion.

The works are three miles from Nanaimo, and broken windows here testify to the tremendous force of the explosion. The management states that it is utterly impossible to assign a cause. No witnesses survive.

Five Quakers on Wilcox Jury.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 15.—The net results of the day's proceedings in the Wilcox murder case at Hertford, N. C., are eleven jurymen, with the regular jury and the special venire of 100 exhausted and a second venire of twenty-five men drawn. The jury as it stands is composed of men of good appearance and of fair intelligence. Lewis Felton, a negro, is among those chosen, and five of the selected jurymen are Quakers.

FRANCE WATCHES MOROCCO.

Two Battalions of Troops In Algeria Get Waiting Orders.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Two battalions of the foreign legion, stationed in Algeria, have been ordered to be in readiness to proceed to the Moroccan frontier. The troops are being equipped for active service in the field.

A dispatch received here from Tangier, Morocco, says a courier who has arrived there from Fez brought reassuring intelligence. Nothing is known at Tangier of the reported defeat of the sultan or of his rumored retreat westward.

Lapham Not to Be Tried.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Jan. 15.—George H. Lapham, the former president of the Penn Yan National bank, which he is charged with wrecking in 1898 and misappropriating $40,000, will never be tried on that charge. He is nearly seventy years of age, has sustained two strokes of apoplexy and is now confined to his bed in a private hospital in this city. Three physicians who have examined him testified in the United States court here that if Lapham was forced to attend court he might collapse. The case was therefore put over the term, but as Lapham is a hopeless invalid United States District Attorney Brown says he thinks he will never be brought to trial. Lapham is being sued by his wife for divorce.

National Live Stock Convention.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 15.—Interesting addresses occupied the entire time of the short session of the National Live Stock association yesterday. Among the speakers was W. A. Harris, United States senator from Kansas, who spoke on the "Louisiana Purchase Exposition and What It Will Do For the Live Stock Industry," a subject originally assigned to Hon. D. R. Francis, president of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, who was unable to keep his engagement on account of illness. "Every citizen of the United States should take a peculiar interest in the Louisiana Purchase," said Senator Harris. "It is second in importance only to the Declaration of Independence to the people of this country."

Shot Prisoners In Jail.

ANGLETON, Tex., Jan. 15.—Late at night several men entered a cell of the county jail in which Ransom O'Neal and Charles Tunstall were confined with a number of other negroes and shot the two men to death. The other prisoners were warned to cover their heads with blankets, which they did. The negroes were charged with the murder of County Attorney Smith at Columbia several weeks ago.

Union Boycotts a Dance.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 15.—A dance given by Company K of the Second regiment was boycotted by members of the local labor unions. Company K was in active service during the recent strike on the Hudson Valley railway. The dance was a success, however.

White Mountain Preserve Favored.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 15.—Both branches of the legislature have passed a joint resolution in favor of a national forestry reserve in the White mountain region. Senator Gallinger is expected to present this matter in congress at once.

THE BOROUGH ELECTION.

North Plainfield is going to have an election in the course of two months which gives promise of being a highly exciting one. Of late, all sorts of exciting things have been happening in North Plainfield but this promises to be the equal of any past event as far as excitement is concerned. In another column will be found a careful and impartial review of the situation over the brook. It is too early yet to make predictions of any great value but all sorts of conjectures are rife and it is interesting to know what they are.

From the present outlook it seems very likely that Mayor N. B. Smalley will be renominated and will have a fair chance of re-election. Mr. Smalley is by no means the typical mayor of a suburban town. He has methods of his own which he has utilized since he was raised to that office but no one can truthfully say that he has not administered the borough's affairs in a satisfactory manner. Although he has in many ways departed from the beaten track, his own ways have often proved the excellence of his judgment regarding both men and municipal affairs.

There is one thing about it. Although Mayor Smalley is strongly in favor of the Greater Plainfield scheme, he has not allowed his interest in the affairs of the present municipality to lag so far, nor is he likely to do so in the future if he should be re-elected. It is this fact that will probably win for him the support of many citizens who strongly opposed annexation in the special election. Whatever one may say about the Mayor, his integrity and honesty of purpose cannot be questioned. He may be a clever politician, he is certainly diplomatic, but what most interests the taxpayers, he is a large property owner in the borough and he looks after the interests of the others who own property as well as himself.

This suggestion of a resident of the borough that Former Mayor W. L. Saunders be nominated is a deserved compliment paid to a man who is entitled to all the honor which the borough can confer on him. It is doubtful whether Mr. Saunders' business duties would permit him to accept such a nomination. There is other work before Mr. Saunders. The fight for consolidation is not yet over by any means and when the next campaign starts it will be to Mr. Saunders that we will look to assume his position as leader of the greater city forces. When city and borough are one, it would be the happiest kind of a compliment to name Mr. Saunders as mayor of the greater city.

Happy Asbury Park! No one can blame the people of that shore resort for feeling a trifle optimistic. The two special elections were held and the voters of that city, almost to a man, declared themselves in favor of the issuance of bonds to meet the payment for the purchase of the beach and sewer system and the proposed beach improvements. It is now assured that Asbury Park is to own its own beach and will be able to do with it as it pleases in the future. Properly conducted, Asbury Park ought to become the greatest and most popular sea shore resort in the vicinity of New York. The changes that are to be made there will be watched with great interest by the people of Plainfield and every other city in the State which annually sends a delegation to enjoy the sea breezes there.

The head of "Chicago's biggest savings bank" is quoted by the Philadelphia Record as saying that until recently banks did not advertise. He does not consider the publication of a lot of figures as advertising. "We use a certain aomount of space in the newspapers, with short, sharp and fetching reasons why every reader should become a saver, and we show how it can be done. The result is thousands of new accounts. We consider that we benefit the public as well as ourselves."

Senator Strong, of Middlesex, is going to be severely criticized by many for the bill which he has introduced into the upper house of the Legislature providing for placing all the sheriffs on salary according to the size of the county instead of being paid by fees. The opposition is likely, however, to be chiefly of a selfish character. It will really be better for a county official to know just what is coming to him rather than be compelled to count on an uncertainty.

Senator Cross and Assemblyman Newcorn have been well taken care of in their respective houses of the Legislature this winter. No one expected the Assembly to put Assemblyman Hall on any committee of importance. Union county usually manages to have one representative who is tucked away in the unimportant places.

Those who are interested in the work of the Young Men's Christian Association will do well to visit the annual meeting of that organization tonight. The work of the association will be comprehensively summed up in the annual report of the president, Stephen Cahoone.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

N. K. Barnes, grocer, 245 West Front street, is advertising his closing out sale in this issue. This will afford great bargains to the housewife as all goods must be sold before April 1.

It doesn't cost anything to see the Backus gas log at Gavett's. As a heat producer and a saver of coal and money it's equal is yet to be found. Drop in at any time and see it demonstrated.

R. W. Barnes, the Park avenue grocer, announces these specials during the present week: Apples, lemons, bananas, oranges, baked beans, potato chips, mince meat, home made crullers, and honey both in the comb and in bottles.

Although their store is located in the East End, Callahan & Sons are ready to supply residents in any part of the city with the best of everything in the fancy and staple grocery line. Drop a postal or 'phone your order and it will receive careful consideration.

S. Hirsch, of 432 Watchung avenue, has arranged with some New York tailors to supply him with some of the most attractive spring styles for costumes for his large custom trade in this city. A visit at his dressmaking parlors will not fail to be of benefit to the prospective purchaser of new spring dresses.

Nobody can deny the fact that Warnock's confectionery and pastry are examples of the baker's skill. They are as near perfection as it is possible to attain. Nearly everybody in Plainfield uses Warnock's goods and it is because they know a "good thing" when they see it. Warnock's ice cream is delivered any day in the week.

WOODHULL & MARTIN.

SAYS 'TIS CRUEL.

J. E. Martine Calls Attention to the Transportation of Animals on the Railroads in Cold Weather.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I beg to call attention of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, to the transportation of animals across this State. The other day about 5 o'clock in the evening, while the thermometer was close the zero point, there passed through this city on one of the railroad trains an open or slatted car filled with poor animals being whirled along at railroad speed in this zero weather. The low moans these poor suffering creatures gave out was evidence of their torture, and quite enough to shock the sensibilities of anyone with a spark of humanity.

I appeal in the name of humanity to our legislators to see to it that some legislative act be enacted and enforced that shall regard the comfort of dumb animals, while being transported across our State. A very little trouble would provide animals in such weather with closed cars. I trust at least the representatives of Union county may move in this direction. Such a measure would raise the approval and commendation of every human man, woman and child in the land.

DUNELLEN.

Plans are being laid to start a rescue mission in this place. If the plans are carried out William Richards, a well known worker in that line, will be in charge. The W. C. T. U. rooms on Washington avenue will be used and a series of meetings will be conducted there.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle was leader at the special prayer meeting in the Methodist church last evening. Another prayer service will be held this evening.

There is need of ashes being spread on the sidewalks on Washington avenue as they are slightly down hill and a number of nasty falls have occurred.

The recent trouble at Levering & Garrigues' factory has all blown over and the brickwork over the engine has been built up again.

The young daughter of Frank Voorhees is recovering from the effects of a dog bite and now no ill results are looked for.

The local banjo club is planning to hold another reception this winter as the last one proved very successful.

Postmaster Dealaman still continues in the same serous condition and is growing slowly weaker.

Garretson & Gray have finished sending a large amount of stone to out-of-town parties.

The W. C. T. U. will hold their regular monthly business meeting this afternoon.

The Epworth League has planned to hold a sociable on the 29th of this month.

The cornet band held a regular meeting and practice last evening.

William Anderson spent yesterday in New Brunswick on business.

Miss Edna Kent, of Orange, has been visiting friends in town.

John Moynihan is confined to his home by a slight illness.

NEW MARKET.

LeRoy Clawson, of Samptown, is much improved from a broken leg. The bandages will be removed in a few days.

Prayer meeting was held last evening in the First Baptist church. Rev. Frank Fletcher was leader.

There was a large number on the ice yesterday afternoon and last night.

E. A. Cane has recovered from a slight illness.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The case of Peter Ritter, charged by Geo. Sticker, of the borough, with disorderly conduct, which was to have been heard before Judge Clark, Tuesday, was withdrawn by the plaintiff paying the costs. The facts of the case showed only a personal quarrel over a whip and as the two interested parties were willing to settle their troubles without the aid of the law, the Judge allowed the case to be withdrawn.

MANY WANT COAL.

But There is Still Plenty and the Price Remains Where it Was.

The local coal dealers report that during the past few days there has been a lively rush for coal in both small and large quantities. Nearly all of the yards have a good supply and the dealers have not yet had any trouble in filling orders. It has been necessary to put on extra help and additional teams to promptly fill rush orders. The usual price of $6.50 still prevails and there does not seem to be any prospect of an increase for the present.

Coal is constantly being received at the local yards and thus far no complaints have been heard regarding delay in shipment. The majority of the coal is of excellent quality and gives satisfaction.

TO DEBATE AGAIN.

Y. M. C. A. Debating Club Will be Reorganized Saturday.

A meeting was held last evening at the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of talking over the advisibility of reorganizing the debating society which was so enthusiastically conducted a year ago. Those at last night's meeting were highly in favor of reorganization and it is probable that officers will be elected at the next meeting which will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The debating club will be for the young men of the association. There seems to be a good field for such a club in this city and there is no doubt but it will meet with popular favor.

Opens Bankruptcy Case.

Assemblyman William Newcorn has received a decision from Vice-Chancellor Emery reopening the bankruptcy case of V. L. Frazee for the settlement and disposition of a second mortgage, held by Wilkinson, Gaddis & Company, of Newark. This company secured a decree under the foreclosure proceedings instituted by Mrs. Mary O. Moore. The recent decision sets aside the defendant's decree and opens the case again.

Track Hand Killed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Roselle, Jan. 15.—Robert Guegoss, a track hand employed on the New Jersey Central, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon a short distance west of the Roselle station. He was run down by a local passenger train, the man not noticing its approach in time to get out of the way. The remains were taken to the Elizabeth morgue.

Rubber Clothes for Firemen.

A consignment of rubber clothing arrived at fire department headquarters yesterday morning. The shipment comprised one pair of rubber boots and seven coats of the latest pattern for the use of the call men of the department. In the afternoon Frederick Breen, the artist, painted the company numbers on them and they will be placed in service today.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 18, "A Message From His Word." Text, Jer. xv, 16; John xv, 7; Acts xx, 32.

A bank check payable to your order may be given you for a sum sufficient to meet all your needs and provide luxuries such as you have long wished, but if it is written in a strange language and you do not understand its signs or meaning it is valueless to you. You are still in poverty and wretchedness while the means of procuring wealth is in your hand.

God's word, the expression of God's thought, His feeling and will toward you are given you. He offers; He promises. How slightly has His message impressed most of us!

The offer, "Ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you."

The condition, "If ye abide in Me and my words abide in you."

It matters not how great the amount of electrical power generated and stored, unless there is some way of applying it to the car wheels the car is motionless. There must be a good conductor used for feed wire. No matter how good a motor and feed wire the car may have, unless there is power generated and transmitted the car will not move.

The only motive power to goodness and blessedness this world now knows or ever has known is the God Spirit. So far as men have been united to that power they have been happy and powerful for good. However we lack goodness and blessedness, that lack is because of defective connection with God.

How few are conscious of the love, faith, patience, meekness, hope and joy which the Christian life is capable of affording them—some power, but more of weakness; sometimes of joy, but more of depression; some resistance of evil, but more of yielding to it; some faith, but more of doubt; some hope, but more of fear; some love, but more of indifference or dislike; some doing of duty, but more of inactivity—all this because the divine thought has never been received nor the divine joy been felt. The word has not been heard by the inner soul depths. The soul in us has not known the divine voice speaking. He has not communicated Himself to us.

But what a change when we do hear the voice of the Son of God and His word abides in us! What consciousness of knowledge! How the truth holds us as magnets hold steel! What tides of power and joy thrill through the being as pulsations of electric energy throb along the wires!

"Thy words were found, and I did eat them, and Thy words were unto me a joy and rejoicing of my heart."

He says, "Abide in Me."

The Father's Hand.

Nor is the sense of safety all that is awakened in the memory by a father's hand. It tells also of guidance and companionship. Not only in stormy evenings was the large hand reached down to clasp the little one, but memory is filled with pleasant outings and beauties of the country, always guided by the father's hand. The hand of father came to mean so much, both of pleasure and comfort, that the phrase is never seen or used but a sacred tenderness steals into the heart. All this and much more the Heavenly Father is to His children. We reserve our thoughts of the Father too frequently to the days of stress and grief and forget that it is the Father who gives the joys and pleasures too. We think so much of the pitying Father and imagine falsely that His care is confined to circumstances that call for pity. His hand is a bountiful hand, filled with pleasures. "The way is dark; my Father, take my hand," is often upon our lips, but just as true and far more frequently the path has many flowers all planted by one hand, life has many gifts all given by one hand, the days are crowded with joys all showered from one hand, and this hand is "my Father's hand."—Episcopal Recorder.

Requires Constant Attention.

It is not with Christians that they can be made once for all and left to grow as they may. Christianity requires constant attention. Christians need to be confirmed and reconfirmed and spoken to every day. There are works which, once done, are done forever, but Christianity is not one of them. We have to watch until the end. Our very last action may be an action of resistance.—Joseph Parker, D. D.

Trusting the Supreme Ruler.

Many times in history sudden and unexpected events have changed the fate of nations. We can only wait and pray and do our part to uphold righteousness, to plead for freedom from human tyranny and to extend the knowledge of the truth. Then we can trust the Supreme Ruler to guard His own and to carry His purposes to final triumph.—Congregationalist.

Kindness.

I wonder why it is that we are not all kinder than we are. How much the world needs it! How easily it is done! How instantaneously it acts! How infallibly it is remembered! How superabundantly it pays itself back!—Henry Drummond.

Truth.

Truth is always a constant factor. The grass may wither and the flower fall from its stem, but God's word remains the same.—Presbyterian Journal.

Secret Devotion.

Secret devotion is the very essence, evidence and barometer of vital and experimental religion.—Spurgeon.

For the Future.

Live in the present that you may be ready for the future.—Reformed Church Messenger.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 18—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Endeavorers in training for church work.—Acts ii, 17; 18; Prov. ii, 1-8; Mark i, 16-20.

"For Christ and the church" is the motto of the Christian Endeavor society. Its purpose has ever been not simply to lead the young to Christ, but to train them for service in His church. Christian Endeavor has ever claimed to be a means and not an end, and perhaps if more practical emphasis had been placed upon this fact Christian Endeavor would be stronger today in its old centers than it is. In many cases, instead of graduating its members into church work and taking up a new band to train, the early members have continued to do the work and hold the offices, with the result that as they did for one reason or another drop out no one remained to take up their labor. One may always remain an Endeavorer at heart, but not always in activity in the society if it is to be a young people's society and to develop the young for the church.

The training of the young for the important work and responsible positions in the church of Christ on earth is a most praiseworthy mission.

1. It is possible. The essential element in the performance of Christian work is the possession of the Holy Spirit. Spiritual work must be under the direction of the Holy Spirit. The possession of the spirit for service is possible to the young. "And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of My Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions." First on the list of those to receive the Holy Ghost were the young—the young men and also the young women. It is therefore possible for them to engage in real spiritual work and by constant practice to be developed into more proficient workmen for God.

2. It is Scriptural. God trained men in their youth for great missions in after years. He trained Joseph and Moses in Egypt, Samuel in the temple and Josiah in the royal palace. Christ also called men into a training school for future service. For three years He trained the apostles for the great mission of preaching the gospel to the whole world. Paul selected young men—Mark, Timothy and Titus—and developed them into workmen that needed not to be ashamed. And not only do the clergy need to be trained for their work, but also the laity. We live in a day of consecrated lay workers, and that their labors may be blessed to success these workmen need to be trained while young for their service.

3. It is practicable. Youth is the training time. The mind is plastic and may be molded. Methods of work have not become fixed habits and may be changed and directed. Proficiency in any vocation in life can only be attained by careful training in youth. Any instance to the contrary is the exception and not the rule. How important, then, that in the days of one's youth we should not only be taught to remember God and to consecrate our lives to Him, but also trained for His service! The youth of today must be the men and the women of tomorrow, and if enabled to do the work of men and women they must be trained for it. The Christian Endeavor society can perform a grand mission in training Endeavorers for future church work. This is its supreme purpose, and every effort should be made to effect this purpose.

BIBLE READINGS.

I Sam. iii, 10-21; Prov. xxii, 6; Eccl. xii, 1; Luke ii, 40-52; Acts xii, 12, 25; Rom. xii, 1, 2; I Cor. xv, 58; Gal. vi, 1-10; II Tim. ii, 19-26; I John ii, 14.

Echoes From Elliott.

The consecration meeting is as old as the Bible.

Happy the man whose hands are just full of service.

Some people work harder to escape work than they would work if they did work.

It's the "overflow" of your life that will make you a blessing.

We must "fill up" on something. Some people try to put in a little religion and a good deal of the world, and it makes very bad filling.

Many Christians are spiritually "balky."

We may consecrate ourselves and yet withhold our service, and we may render a deal of so called "service" and yet withhold ourselves.

God wants an offered service, a willing service, a service not to men, to the pastor, the church, the society, but a service unto the Lord.—Rev. Dr. John H. Elliott in a New York Convention Address.

Paragraphs From "Farmer John."

"Next to an out and out bad man the devil dotes on the man who is of no particular use in the world."

"It pays better to endeavor to become what you ain't than to try to fool people into thinkin' you're it."

FASHIONABLE SHADES.

Green Overdone—The New Mulberry Red.

A good deal of striped and spotted velvet is used for afternoon reception gowns.

In Paris there is a perfect rage for white crepe de chine worn with sable even in the daytime, but naturally only for indoor festivities. Plain velvet hats are perfectly charming, and very exclusive folks are wearing emerald green velvet, with long stoles of marten and big picture hats of green beaver. Green in such fabrics cannot get very common, though this charming color is slightly on the wane.

The coming color is a dull red, almost a mulberry shade, which is very chic and has already found its way into the world of millinery. Hats of this color are trimmed with chiffon and roses of many hues or autumnal berries.

The best milliners keep one color throughout a hat, using several tones. No longer are startling bits of color seen in contrast on one hat.

There is a good deal of chenille being used, mixed in all sorts of ways, some of it forming network decoration for the brims of hats or toques.

The cut shows a sable toque trimmed with a long white feather, held in place by a jeweled buckle.

EVENING DRESSES.

Net and Veiling Gowns Are the Height of Fashion.

Imported dancing frocks are shown with skirts which barely reach the ground.

A Vienna model seen recently had a skirt made in the new double style, the two skirts appliqued with guipure of the applique type and with narrow velvet ribbon running in stripes over the seam of each gore and finished with a fringe and a motif of pearls.

These long stripes from the waist are exceedingly fashionable, and a ball gown of point d'esprit was recently trimmed with satin ribbons about an inch wide placed in groups of three and finishing with deep loops left loose at the end. Rows of fine punched insertion encircled the skirt at intervals of eight or nine inches, and these rows of lace went over the ribbon and kept it in place.

Net gowns are very fashionable, and a fine brussels net with tiny ring spots is much used in cream and ficelle. There are usually many flounces on this type of gown, and it is quite smart to have three graduated ribbons on each flounce, the deepest at the edge.

The evening gown shown is of veiling trimmed with narrow ribbon and embroidery. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

It was not so much fun cleaning these beauties, but Mr. Kent had completed the task when he was joined by Mr. Haven. Together they prepared the late breakfast and at four o'clock all were seated around the table. They pronounced the fish excellent and gave Mr. Kent a vote of thanks, promising him a decoration on their return to civilization.

All adjourned to the veranda and Mr. Carmody brought up the subject of building a boat with which to escape to the mainland. Sidney Hammond said it was useless to continue the exploration of the island. In his opinion it was about ten miles long, running north and south, and probably four or five miles wide. The snow-capped mountain undoubtedly belonged to the range forming the backbone of Mexico and Central America. It was sufficient to know that they were not more than 150 miles from the mainland. Sidney suggested that a man be detailed to watch the ocean each day from the gateway to the bay, and volunteered his services for the morrow. It was decided to erect a flagstaff at this point and float a white flag from it as a signal of distress.

"We will begin the building of a boat or raft to-morrow," said Mr. Carmody, the chairman of the committee of escape. "I have my plans practically completed and I will submit them to you now for approval, rejection or modification. My suggestion is that we build a raft in the form of a houseboat. I doubt if we have the materials with which to construct a lifeboat, with pointed bows and stern. Again, such a boat is not nearly as safe as a raft. From what Hammond has learned, I am of the opinion that any number of ships pass to the east of us at a distance not exceeding 25 miles. While our objective point is the mainland, we must calculate on the possibility of being blown to the east. The Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea are thronged with ships of all kinds. It is likely that this island lies a little off the regular course of traffic, but we are certain to sight some vessel in short order. Therefore I favor a craft which will have more of safety than of speed."

"That is my idea exactly," said Mr. Morton. "I believe we will be picked up inside of 48 hours at the most. We must construct a raft or houseboat which can survive any ordinary storm. Even if the waves do beat over it occasionally, our plight will be much better than if our boat were capsized in the first heavy sea."

"No ordinary wave will beat over the raft I have planned," said Mr. Carmody, producing a rough sketch of the plans. "I propose a craft 40 feet long and 14 feet wide. It will be square at both ends. We will frame the hull out of solid timber. I notice that there are some tall, straight trees back of the bungalow which will serve admirably for our purpose. I have built many ships and barges, and we have the tools and materials to do a good job. The best plan will be to frame the hull on shore, and then take it apart and put it together again in the water. Of course we could build the raft complete and launch it from the stone pier, but it will be safer to build it from the water.

"We will build a house or cabin 8x24 feet. It will be high enough to stand upright in. There will be three staterooms, each with two sleeping bunks. Then there will be a combined kitchen, dining-room and storeroom. This cabin will be braced in every direction, and I have worked out a plan by which no ordinary sea can cause serious trouble. A raft built like this will ride the waves safely."

Mr. Carmody's plans also provided for six oars or sweeps and a rudder. Through the roof of the cabin two masts were stepped, each carrying a boom and a three-cornered sail. He had found a pile of canvas awnings which had not yet been put in place on the windows of the bungalow. These promised to make excellent sails. For two hours the houseboat was discussed, and the plan suggested by Mr. Carmody was adopted. It was decided to begin work on the boat early the following morning.

While Mr. Carmody and others went to select the trees for the frame work of the houseboat, Sidney and Mr. Kent rowed across the bay and took an observation from the rock overlooking the inlet. There was no vessel in sight, though Sidney thought he could trace a line of smoke at the edge of the southeastern horizon. They felled a tall pine tree and trimmed it for a flagstaff. Early the following morning five of the men raised the pole on the rock, having first provided a flag which they nailed to the top.

Sidney and Mr. Kent watched the sun as it dropped behind the western ridge of hills. The air was remarkably clear, and the snow-capped mountain peak showed plain in the purple distance.

"This island is a great mystery to me," said Hammond. He was looking at the mountain. Its base faded away as the sun declined, but the top glowed like a pearl where the light yet reflected from the dazzling snow.

"There are few peaks like that on the American continent," said Sidney. "I have been looking up the subject of high mountains along the American coast. We surely are more than a thousand miles west of New York and we are in tropical waters. The coast of South America swings away east of New York, so we cannot be there. I can find but two places which coincide with the time indicated by our watches."

"What are they?" asked Mr. Kent.

"The Caribbean sea along the east coast of Yucatan and Balize, and the east coast of Mexico along the Gulf of Mexico," said Sidney. "There are no such peaks as that visible from the east coast of Yucatan, to say nothing of from islands yet farther east. Cape Catoche, the east point of Yucatan, is in just the same longitude as Chicago. We are west of that. The only waters west are those of the gulf and the Bay of Campeachy, a part of the gulf forming the northern boundary of Yucatan and Tobasco, and the eastern shore of the southern portion of Vera Cruz. From these waters you can see the gigantic peaks of the volcanoes Popocatapetl and Orizaba."

"DO YOU THINK THAT IS ONE OF THEM?" ASKED MR. KENT.

"Do you think that is one of them?" asked Mr. Kent, looking at the mountain, whose very top yet showed white and pink in the last rays of the sun.

"That mountain is Popocatapetl, unless I am much mistaken," said Hammond. "But there is no island on the map east or southeast of it. An island the size of this should show on a good map of Mexico, and there are two modern and excellent ones in our library."

"It is too deep a problem for me," said Mr. Kent. "It is getting dark. Let's be getting back to camp."

They reached the bungalow in time to partake of a light repast, including some excellent berries which Mr. Haven had found on the edge of the south jungle. It was a cool and pleasant evening, and after work was done chairs were placed on the veranda, cigars lit, and a general discussion followed.

Remarkable Chinese Custom.

In China it is nothing out of the way for a criminal under sentence of death to secure, at a price, a substitute to die for him at the hands of the executioner. Money, of course, comes mainly into play, the price going to the substitute's relations. A remarkable case of such substitution is reported from Foo Chow. The particulars to hand show that, when a certain childless criminal there was adjudged to death, his family met to see what should be done. The superstition of the land ran counter to a man dying without leaving a son, at least, to worship him after death. The criminal had a brother who had so many sons that he had no fear of being left without worshipers. The family decided to put him in as substitute for the childless one, so that the latter could live on to get a son. The military mandarin concerned was bought over, the criminal was set free and his guiltless brother's head was cut off. The family, the mandarin and the public were satisfied. But the mandarin's superiors did not see it in that light, and informed the prefect at the city. He ordered the mandarin to be scourged like a common coolie.—N. Y. Tribune.

Centenary of the Use of Coal.

On February 11, 1802, a citizen of Wilkesbarre—Jesse Fell—in the presence of various notabilities of the town publicly demonstrated the use of coal as fuel. The very grate then first used in the country still exists, it is said, in place in its chimney.—N. Y. Sun.

Edibles in Bookbinding.

Eggs, condensed milk, olive oil and vinegar are all used in the binding of books. Sometimes the ingredients get into the letterpress.—Science.

Sugar-Making in Italy.

The manufacture of sugar in Italy now suffices for two-thirds of the national consumption.—N. Y. Sun.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

COAL STRIKE HEARING.

Erie Company Presents Its Case. No Use For the Union.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—Recognition of the union which the anthracite coal operators maintain is not an issue before the coal strike commission, was the principal demand attacked by the Erie company yesterday in its contest against the claims of the United Mine Workers of America.

General Superintendent W. A. May of the Hillside Coal and Iron company and the Pennsylvania Coal company, which are controlled by the Erie, was on the witness stand for a long time and gave testimony tending to show that since the advent of the union into the anthracite regions the workmen were less efficient; that a lack of discipline has reached; that it interfered with authority and limited the earning capacity of the employers. On cross examination Mr. May said he thought that where the company and the men disagreed some good might result by calling in a third party. Other witnesses were called who corroborated much of Superintendent May's testimony.

Samuel J. Jennings of Forest City, a general foreman of the company, testified that the occupation of a miner is healthy and that he never saw a miner suffering from asthma. He corroborated testimony already given to the effect that the relations between the company and the men before the advent of the union were cordial, and related instances of inability of those in authority to always maintain discipline about the mines. He charged that this was due to the union, the men feeling safe in resisting authority. The witness said he was able to earn $5 a day as a miner, but on cross examination he said he earned only $60 to $80 a month when he worked as a contract miner. He explained that he was not working full time then.

Wayne MacVeagh and Major Everett Warren, counsel for the Erie company, expect to conclude their case this afternoon. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company will follow the Erie.

Stole Coal to Save Life.

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 15.—W. Fred Himmelsberger, who was arrested for stealing coal from cars passing over the Pennsylvania railroad cut off, north of the city, was discharged from custody. Himmelsberger said he had money to pay for coal, but could not get any, and he stole it to keep his wife and children from freezing. The railroad officer who had preferred charges against him requested his discharge on the ground that they did not want to prosecute men in his plight. Every train of coal passing around the city is boarded and robbed to some extent. The local famine in this city is now being felt more keenly than ever.

Detroit In the Coal Business.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 15.—Friday morning the municipal coal commission of Detroit will begin delivering coal, a ton only to each purchaser, at the Lindemann coal yard at Theodore and Dequindre streets. The commission has 2,200 tons of Jackson Hill soft coal at the yards, has 400 tons more on the way and about twenty cars available that are lying on the tracks between Detroit and Toledo. The price per ton at which the commission will begin doing business is $6. Half ton lots will go at the same rate. The dealers of the city are today asking $6.50 for the same coal.

Stole Coal, Skipped Jewels.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 15.—Burglars ransacked the residence of Mrs. Adelaide Anderson during the afternoon and carried off 400 pounds of anthracite coal in sacks. They did not touch jewelry and plate.

England Must Imitate Us.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Dr. William Smart, professor of political economy of Glasgow university, delivered a lecture last night before the Society of Arts on "Industrial Trusts." He opposed the view that American commercial combines sought to crush British competition or to secure an international monopoly. What they wanted, he said, was high prices under protection in the American markets. Dr. Smart said that the United States had set the pace in large production and that if Great Britain desired to retain her place among the exporting nations many of her industries must be built up on the large scale similar to that in the United States.

Ecuador Elections.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Jan. 15.—The election for a vice president of this republic, which began last Sunday, has ended. The returns from Guayaquil are in favor of Alfredo Baquerizo-Moreno. Returns from the rest of the country have not yet been received, but it is believed that they will favor Senor Baquerizo-Moreno, as he is the candidate of the government. The people showed the greatest indifference to the election. No civilians voted, and only soldiers were seen at the polls.

Postal Receipts Increase.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The receipts of the fifty largest postoffices of the United States for December as compared with December, 1901, show a net increase of 14 per cent, or $734,235. Dayton, O., showed the largest increase, almost 34 per cent, and Los Angeles ranks next, with over 32 per cent. New York city receipts aggregated $1,289,111, an increase of 15 per cent; Chicago $852,186, an increase of 9 per cent.

Veins of Anthracite Discovered.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 15.—A twenty-three inch vein of anthracite coal has been uncovered at Mount Patrick, in Perry county, fourteen miles north of Duncannon. A Baltimore syndicate will start mining on an extensive scale in the spring.

ART CATALOGUE.

Needed Addition to Art Department of Public Library is Completed.

A much needed catalogue of the pictures and art objects of the Public Library has now been completed and a type-written copy hangs in each room of the gallery, thus enabling visitors to ascertain the artists.

The catalogue is also on the more permanent form of cards, forming part of the card catalogue which is kept in the reading room.

It has been decided to allow the collection of photographs illustrating Italian art to remain in the reading room during January. This collection illustrates Italian art from the fourteenth to the seventeenth century, and is fairly representative of the artists of that period.

The Art Gallery hours are on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, from 2 to 5 o'clock.

WHIST CLUB.

Miss Ernestine C. Smith Entertained Fortnightly Club Last Night.

Miss Ernestine C. Smith, of Madison avenue, entertained the Fortnightly Whist Club at her home last evening. The full membership of the club, twenty, was present. Mrs. Frank H. Smith was awarded the prize for the women, while John G. McLaughlin was given the prize for the men. After the play dancing was enjoyed and later refreshments were served. Mrs. H. Sloat Potter, of East Second street, will entertain the club Thursday evening, January 29.

Star Course for Boys.

The Star Course entertainment for the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will be held this evening at the association hall when Harry Bryant, ventriloquist, of New York, will entertain. The programme promises to be an interesting one as Mr. Bryant is well-known in this city, where he has entertained before on numerous occasions. Miss Lillian Glenn, pianist, will render several selections during the evening.

Last Day of Grace.

Today is the last day of grace for all borough taxpayers to pay their taxes to Collector George F. Brown. Tomorrow the delinquents will be visited by Special Marshal Henry Meyers who will collect them. Special Marshal Francis Whiteley was chosen for the work but he is confined to his home by illness and another officer had to be secured.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, at a regular meeting last evening, witnessed the installation of officers by District Deputy White, of Perth Amboy. The officers are as follows:

Grand knight, A. E. LaPorte; deputy grand knight, John P. Owens; recorder, G. P Kiely; financial secretary, John Hines; chancellor, W. J. O'Keefe; lecturer, W. A. Boone; warden, C. P. Guinee; inside guard, Frederick J. Hillman; outside guard, Thomas J. Carty; trustees, J. J. Kenney, J. C. Traynor and J. C. Lynch. The other business of the evening was of a routine nature.

TWO MORE FIRSTS.

Wm. Gray, of Stebbins Place, Wins More Prizes for Pigeons.

Judges at all the large bird and poultry shows continue to award prizes to William Gray, of Stebbins place, for his black nun pigeons. Yesterday he secured two firsts at the Madison Square Garden show. The birds are a beautiful pair and the owner has received many offers for them. At nearly every exhibition in which he has entered them they have out-classed all other entries.

FINE SKATING.

Many Young People Have Been Out Enjoying the Sport.

Skating has been very good for the past few days and all the ponds in this vicinity have had their quota of young people sliding over their glassy surfaces. New Market, New Brooklyn, and Herman's pond are all in excellent condition. On Tier's pond the work of cutting ice began yesterday. Very few skating accidents have been reported so far this year.

Mr. Randolph in Commercial.

On the occasion of the merging of the Atlantic Trust Company with the Metropolitan Trust Company, of New York, the retiring president of the Atlantic Trust Company, Lewis V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, received from the trustees of the institution in addition to the resolutions appreciative of his worth, the gift of $30,000 in recognition of his valuable services. The New York Commercial of January 5 has a picture of Mr. Randolph with a sketch of his career.

Question of Authorship.

To The Editor of the Daily Press:—Will you kindly make a correction in your paper with reference to the authorship of the Flower Cantata given Tuesday night in the First Presbyterian church. To Martin A. Korff is due the credit of the plan, the words and music of the entire cantata with with the simple exception of the music of the last chorus.

TRUTH ABOUT GARWOOD CO.

FORECLOSURE WAS MERELY STEP TO ACHIEVE DESIRED RESULT.

Corporation is Perfectly Solvent, But the Minority Stockholders Wished to Withdraw.

Recently, there have appeared various articles in Union county papers regarding the foreclosure proceedings against the Garwood Land and Improvement Company, and the articles seem to be at variance with the facts as set forth in a statement made by the company.

In 1892, the Garwood Land and Improvement Company was organized by several men of strong financial and banking interests and then owners of the New Jersey Central. The company issued $150,000 first mortgage bonds, due July 1, 1902, and drawing 6 per cent interest. These men subscribed for over 70 per cent. of the entire issue and invited some of their friends to subscribe to the extent of less than 30 per cent. The holders of this thirty per cent. have had their 6 per cent. interest for ten years, and upon maturity of their bonds were paid the full face value. The men holding the 70 per cent. paying the others in full and thereby owing the entire issue. Owning it all they naturally want the property vested in themselves free of all encumbrances. The only legal method to accomplish this is foreclosure of the mortgage and sale of the property. When this is accomplished, the property will be in the hands of men of the highest integrity and financial responsibility. The community will be largely benefitted and it is believed the town of Garwood will develop very rapidly. Every opportunity will be offered the prospective home seeker, and every effort put forth to maintain the broad, liberal management heretofore existing.

Wedded at Pastor's Home.

In a very quiet manner, Albert Aitkin and Miss Bertha Perrine, both of this city, were married last evening, by Rev. L. R. Howard at his home on West Fifth street. The young people were unaccompanied. They will spend a few days in New York and on returning will take up their residence in the West End. The groom is in the employ of W. W. Wilson.

Tinners on Strike.

All the men in the tinning department of A. M. Griffen's hardware store went out on strike this morning at 9 o'clock. Two men were received into a Perth Amboy union under protest of the local union, and when they returned to this city to work this morning the other men refused to work with them. The strike is not general.

Plainfielders on Board.

The American Liner St. Louis, which is now two days overdue and about which considerable anxiety is felt, has among its first cabin passengers Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Langford and Miss Dorothy Langford, of Albert street, this city. They have been in Europe on a pleasure jaunt.

Brought Here for Interment.

The remains of Mrs. Marianna Stelle, who died at her home in Brooklyn, Saturday, will be brought to this city today for interment in the Methodist cemetery. She was eighty-fours years old and was the widow of the late Benjamin Stelle.

Another Patient.

Mr. Leighton, husband of the young colored woman, who was taken ill with a light attack of small-pox several days ago, was removed to the isolation hospital, last evening. He also has a light case. Both husband and wife are doing well.

The Safest Car.

The question of safest car in case of collision is receiving much attention by railroad men. Some of them feel some fear and are not partial to the smoker on account of its forward position in a train generally.

Death of Little Child.

Carrie Madison, the two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Geneva Madison, of West Third street, died Tuesday afternoon after a brief illness. The funeral and interment will take place this afternoon.

—At the regular meeting of the Plainfield Rescue Mission tonight there will be music, singing and speaking.

YEAR'S WORK AT Y. M. C. A.

Review of Season's Achievements of That Association Made by the President.

AT ANNUAL MEETING

Complete Text of the Annual Report Presented by Stephen Cahoone, President of the Y. M. C. A., at the Annual Meeting of the Association Held Last Night.

The annual report of Stephen Cahoone, president of the Plainfield Young Men's Christian Association, which was presented at the annual meeting of the association, last evening, was as follows:

The past year, in some ways, has proved one of the best in the history of our association, the principal event having been the enlargement and growth of our boys' work, under the care of Secretary Robbie, who came to us last July; the details and results will be referred to later in this report.

During the year just closed there have been held in our large hall, on Sunday afternoons, fifty-two religious meetings for men, with an average attendance of 107. Interesting and forceful speakers have addressed these meetings, and we have endeavored to make the music, both vocal and instrumental, a marked feature at the services, and believe that their results have been commensurate with the thought and care bestowed upon them. We often ascertain, upon inquiry, that men come to these Sunday afternoon meetings who do not attend either church or any religious service; many of those who have expressed an interest in spiritual things are backsliders, who, for some reason, have wandered away from God, but who frequently testify to renewal of their Christian faith and purpose through the leading of the Holy Spirit in our meetings. Besides these gospel meetings on Sunday, we held services during the week of prayer for young men in November, and our own workers have, at different times, assisted at religious gatherings outside of our building. There have also been meetings for boys on eight occasions, with an average attendance of twenty.

Bible study has been carried on in the following classes: Young men's, average attendance, 6; gymnasium, average attendance, 9; Mr. Murray's class, average attendance, 5; boys' class, average attendance, 13; Volunteer League or mission Bible study, average attendance, 14; total, 47.

We have been represented at Northfield every year since 1887, and in 1902 there were nine in attendance from Plainfield. At the Lake George conference there were three present, and at the Eastern conference for foreign work at Trenton, December 2 to 4, six of our members were privileged to attend that helpful convention gathered to consider that great topic, the association's work among young men in foreign lands.

In connection with our Volunteer League or missionary study class, three of our Sunday afternoon services were devoted to the cause of foreign missions, and in this way we have sought to interest young men in the most vital subject of this age, the evangelization of the whole world; the offerings taken at these services and at the league meetings have amounted during the year to $44.21, and this sum has been sent to the International committee for mission work. Our association also made its regular contribution of $25 to the above committee, and also $50 toward the work in our own State.

The physical department of our association retains its popularity, and the capacity of our gymnasium, and the time and strength of our physical director are about the only limits to the development and growth in this line. We have recently built quite a number of lockers in our gymnasium, but soon more will be required, and the floor space where they can be placed is limited. The formal opening of the physical work department for the season was held on the fourth of October, and regular class work began on the 7th. The director has carefully supervised the different interests of this department, and not only have regular class exercises occupied much of his time, but he has also given special attention to such matters as baseball and outdoor recreations, bicycle runs, basket ball, bowl-

WOODEN WEDDING AND CARD CLUB MEETING

Double Event at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Smith, of Washington Avenue.

A DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

WOODEN WEDDING RECEPTION HELD IN THE AFTERNOON.

In the Evening the Fairview Whist Club Was Entertained—The House Was Prettily Decorated—Received Many Gifts.

A delightful social event of yesterday was the wooden wedding celebration by Mr. and William B. Smith, of Washington avenue, together with the entertainment of the Fairview Whist Club, of which the celebrators are members, in the evening. While the wedding celebration was in the afternoon from 3 to 7 o'clock, it afforded an opportunity for nearly seventy-five guests from this city and New York to call and extend their congratulations. The house was very prettily decorated with southern smilax, roses and carnations. In the reception room, parlor and halls these decorations were most attractive.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were assisted in receiving by their daughters, Miss Mary Smith and Miss Drucilla Smith. A pleasant feature of the afternoon was the piano selections by Miss Seward, of Cranford. Among the New York guests present at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Martha, the Misses Gordon, Miss Caruthers, Mr. and Mrs. Franke, Miss Franke, Mrs. Pifer, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Opdyke and Mrs. Fembro. Everyone enjoyed the social features and the host and hostess were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents in woodenware. During the reception refreshments were served.

In the evening from 8 to 12 o'clock the Fairview Whist Club was entertained. After the play it was learned that Mrs. Salmon C. Baker and Mrs. L. B. Woolston were the winners of the first and second prizes for the women, while James F. Buckle and L. B. Woolston had won the first and second prizes for men. Following the announcement of the prize-winners, a social time followed and refreshments were served. A feature of this affair was the phonograph concert given by Salmon C. Baker.

LAST INSTALLATION.

District Deputy Becker Will Conclude His Work This Evening.

District Deputy Grand Master John Becker, Sr., and staff, of this city, installed the officers of Westfield Lodge, No. 169, I. O. O. F., Wednesday evening. The staff was accompanied by many members of Queen City and Plainfield Lodges, who were afterward entertained in a pleasant manner. This evening Deputy Becker will install officers of Hansa Lodge, of Elizabeth, which will conclude his work for the term.

Guest of Gov. Odell.

Assemblyman Edward R. Finch, formerly of this city, but now of New York, was a guest at a dinner given by Gov. Odell Wednesday evening. In the make up of committees at Albany, Mr. Finch has been placed on the taxation and retrenchment committee and the committee of affairs of cities. It is said that during the session Mr. Finch will present a number of important measures in the lower house of the Legislature.

Unusual Twist.

John Stafford, of Essex street, is confined to his home by a badly sprained ankle received at the Pond Tool Works in a peculiar manner. He was walking near a rail of the indoor track when his foot became wedged in a crevice between it and the boards. He was thrown down and the ankle became twisted.

Repairing Electric Clocks.

An expert electrician from New York has been in the city for a few days making the necessary repairs to the electric clocks operated by the master clock at the North Avenue station. The old batteries were removed and new ones put in their place.

Turkey Supper.

The annual turkey supper under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church will be given in the lecture room of the church on the evenings of Thursday and Friday, January 29 and 30.

CAPTURED HER AFTER FIGHT

Deputy Sheriff Weaver Had Trouble in Getting Witness for the Grand Jury.

LACKED SOME CLOTHING

But the Deputy Sheriff Decided She Must Go and the Remainder of Wardrobe Was Added Outside—Her Relatives Handled the Officer Very Roughly.

Trouble in huge bunches was encountered by Deputy Sheriff Peter V. Weaver, yesterday morning, when in the discharge of his duty he attempted to serve a supboena for the Grand Jury upon Louise Colucci, an Italian girl living on Lake street. It requird two visits to the house to accomplish the process and then it was done only by getting a bench warrant from Judge Vail which empowered him to arrest the young woman. In doing so, the deputy sheriff was handled more roughly than he has been for many a day and is now walking about with a perceptible limp.

Not suspecting the least resistance, Weaver ambled up to the Colucci domicile early in the morning and presented his summons. The girl flatly refused to receive it, stating that her lawyer informed her she would not again have to appear in court. Remonstrances were of no avail and the deputy sheriff, seeing there were too many of her countrymen about the place, hurried back to town and thence to Elizabeth where he secured the necessary warrant.

Armed with this and backed up by Patrolman McCarthy he again hied himself to Lake street and informed Louise she must accompany him. Louise had a mind of her own and thought she didn't. At the time she was in a partial state of dishabille but this didn't phase the deputy although it is said McCarthy kept his head averted. The latter finally grabbed Louise and started for the door with her while Weaver attempted to hold back five or six of her aunts, grandmothers and other female relatives who were urged to go at him by several men standing about.

Despite his caution, some one planted a foot on his right shin. This was followed by a real hard blow on the neck and by the time he reached the porch feet and fists mixed with lingerie were flying all about him. He was about to descend the steps when one of the women took careful aim and caught him squarely in the ribs with a No. 8 shoe. The force of the blow sent him spinning and he would probably have received more but for McCarthy springing at the mob in the rear and driving them back. Louise was not properly dressed to be brought to town and this resulted in a dilemna.

Weaver was unable to hold Louise owing to his hurts and he refused to go back in the house where a grinning face was pressed against every window pane. A truce was finally arrived at by several of the women coming out with the captive's apparel and she was dressed on the sidewalk without the usual boudoir accessories. She conducted herself in a placid manner after that and was safely taken to Elizabeth.

The girl is wanted in a case that is to come before the Grand Jury simply as a witness. A short time ago she was a principal in a city court trial and at its conclusion her lawyer told her it was finished and she would no longer have to appear. When the deputy appeared with the subpoena she thought it was for the same case and hence her refusal to accept any summons.

HELPS HEAVY TRAINS.

Jersey Central is Using Its Heavy Engines to Assist on Grades.

In order to facilitate the removal of coal from the Pennsylvania fields to tidewater, the New Jersey Central is using some of its largest freight and passenger locomotives. The huge engines are also placed at various places along the road to help trains over grades. One plies between Dunellen and Graceland, acting as pusher for all coal trains passing through Plainfield.

LOCAL MUSIC LOVERS GIVEN RARE TREAT

The Eighth of A. H. Atterbury's Subscription Concerts Proved a Great Success.

HELD AT THE CASINO

SOLOS, DUETS AND QUARTETTES BY VOCALISTS OF UNUSUAL ABILITY.

John C. Dempsey Received a Particularly Flattering Reception, While All Those Who Took Part Were Well Liked.

Marked by an assemblage of more brilliancy than attended any one of its predecessors, the eighth of Albert H. Atterbury's subscription concerts took place in the Casino, last evening. The careful selection of artists and the allotment of numbers made it one of the best entertainments local musical lovers have yet enjoyed.

The participants were Miss Edith R. Chapman, soprano; Mrs. Adele Laeis Baldwin, contralto; William H. Rieger, tenor; and John C. Dempsey, basso. Richard T. Percy presided as conductor. To tersely sum up the work of each artist, it need only be said that it was flawless.

In the quartette selections, complete harmony prevailed, the tones of each member being carefully modulated. Mr. Dempsey is an adept at balancing and his timely intonations were noticeable. The initial and closing numbers were of this nature. The latter was in two parts the first, Foster's "Old Folks at Home, or, Swanee River" and the other "Auld Lang Syne" in both of which the volume was magnificent.

A very pleasing number was Thomas' "Night Hymn at Sea," sung by Miss Chapman and Mr. Dempsey as a duet. Its briefness was regretted as it was the only time they appeared together. Mr. Dempsey was allotted one individual number but his listeners refused to be satisfied with this and an encore and he afterward sang again. While not exceptionally deep, the earnestness which he imparted to his voice makes it impossible to neglect any low touches.

Clearness seemed to be the most important feature of Mrs. Baldwin's rendition of two double numbers. They were Brahm's "Sapische Ode," Chaminade's "Silver Ring," Bungert's "John Anderson, My Jo," words by Burns, and Rogers' "The Captain." She sang without effort, yet had no difficulty in reaching the fathermost part of the hall.

Miss Chapman is possessed of a voice that seemed particularly adapted to her music. Its range is wide and this her numbers demanded. She appeared at her best in Holmes' "La Belle du Roi."

The work of Mr. Rieger was not the least admired and that he was thoroughly enjoyed was demonstrated by his recall after nearly every appearance. He gave Braga's "Bella del tuo Sorriso," Gow's "Day Break" and d'Hardelot's "All for You," exclusive of encores. All proved delightful as the tempo was greatly varied and permitted him to demonstrate his versatility.

ROSELLE WEDDING.

Former Captain of Roselle's Bowling Team Married Miss Greves.

The marriage of Miss Edith Greves, daughter of Lewis Sandford Greves, to Charles Adrian Smith, both of Roselle, was celebrated Wednesday evening at St. Luke's church, Roselle The bride, who is well-known in this city, is a sister of Selden Campbell Greves, the best man and president of The Daily Press Bowling League. The groom has been captain of the Roselle Casino bowling team for several years. The wedding was an event of much interest to Roselle society.

MAN GROUND UP BY TRAIN

Unknown Tramp Cut to Pieces by Car Wheels Near Netherwood This Morning.

NO CLUE TO IDENTITY

Undertaker and Assistants Had to Gather Up Scattered Fragments—Was Supposed to Have Been Walking on Track—Thought to Have Been a Tramp.

An unknown man, presumably a tramp, was struck and instantly killed by the 10:44 west-bound express of the New Jersey Central, opposite the Netherwood water station, this morning. The body was thrown beneath the wheels and literally ground to pieces, the remains being scattered along the tracks almost to the Netherwood depot. The train was stopped but it was impossible for the crew to do anything and word was sent to the North Avenue station. With several assistants Undertaker George Cole secured the fragments and prepared them for burial.

It is impossible to determine who the man was as the features are not recognizable. Apparently he was thirty years of age, with black hair and dark complexion. As near as can be determined he wore a pair of overalls and a black coat.

The engineer of the train declared the man was walking along the eastbound track and suddenly stepped over in front of the engine. He attempted to get back but was struck by the pilot.

FIRST "AT HOME."

Given by Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth and Miss Mary Wadsworth at Their Home Yesterday.

The first "at home" given by Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth and Miss Mary Wadsworth was held yesterday afternoon at their home on West Eighth street when there were fifty present.

The decorations in the parlors and reception room were of pink throughout. Pink roses and carnations assisted in carrying out the effect.

The receiving party who assisted Mrs. and Miss Wadsworth in receiving were: Mrs. E. J. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Joseph W. Sandford, Jr., Miss Bushnell, Miss Agnes Strong and Miss Elizabeth Bowen.

Mrs. Wadsworth wore a gown of lavender silk with rich lace trimmings while her daughter was attired in a gown of pink silk with lace trimmings. Miss Wadsworth carried a bouquet of white and pink roses.

CLERKS WERE GUESTS.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Shupp Entertained Employes of Hill & Shupp.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Shupp entertained the employes of Hill & Shupp at their residence on Madison avenue last evening. The evening was very pleasantly spent in playing games and listening to musical selections rendered by the following: Miss Nettie Kreitling, Miss Justina Smith, Kenneth Shupp and John E. Dayton. At a late hour refreshments were served.

Among those present were: Misses Justina Smith, Amelia Beekman, Minnie Hassinger, Emily Schreiner, Edna Kennedy, Emma Stram, Elizabeth O'Keefe, Elizabeth Hughes, Elizabeth Guinee, Minnie Smith, Nettie Kreitling, Elizabeth Meaney, Miss Summers, Agnes Malloy, Miss Guest, Miss LaMalta, Miss Titus, Miss Gatzali, Miss McGinnis; Kenneth Shupp, Caspar Waglow, A. E. Hoagland, James Downing, L. B. VanCamp, Chester C. Brown, Griffeth Jenkins, Thomas DeMeza, H. Nethein, John E. Dayton and Henry Risberg.

In Honor of Guest.

A family gathering was held last evening at the home of Chief Marshal Wm. B. Campbell, of Somerset street, in honor of Mrs. Campbell's cousin, Miss Painter, who is visiting at the house for a few days. There was a score of young people present and the evening was spent in singing, dancing and in a general social time. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Funeral of Thomas McCauley.

Funeral services over the remains of Thomas McCauley were held from St. Mary's church this morning with a large attendance present. Division No. 4, A. O. H., attended in a body. The mass was conducted by Rev. Father Smith. Interment was made afterwards in Mount Olive cemetery, Elizabeth.

PRAISE FOR RETIRING SUPREME COURT JUDGE

Craig A. Marsh Spoke in Behalf of the Bar of the State of New Jersey.

AT COURT YESTERDAY

IT WAS LAST CASE OF JUSTICE COLLINS, PRIOR TO HIS RETIREMENT.

Marshall VanWinkle Spoke for the Hudson County Bar—Justice Collins Was Quite Affected by the Remarks of These Gentlemen.

The Supreme Court of New Jersey will lose a distinguished judge on the retirement from the bench of Hon. Gilbert Collins. He tried his last case yesterday. Craig A. Marsh, who happened to be engaged as counsel for the New York Insurance Company, defendant, in that case, availed of the opportunity to make an appropriate address.

He voiced the regret of the bar of the State when they learned of Justice Collins' resignation, and the universal esteem and affection which the members entertained for the Judge whose six years' labors on the bench of the highest courts of the State had been marked, not merely by good learning and ability, but by such fine courtesy to counsel and careful consideration for the rights of suitors, as to be the common theme of expression of appreciation by lawyers all over the State.

Marshall VanWinkle spoke in similar manner for the Hudson county bar. Justice Collins had difficulty in overcoming his emotion. He expressed his appreciation of which had been said on behalf of the bar on this and other occasions. Such expressions had come to him from all parts of the State and touched him deeply. He thanked the bar and heartily reciprocated their cordial good wishes. All other cases, he said, would stand over until public announcement should be made of the first sittings of the Supreme Court Justice who should be assigned to resume the trial of causes in the Hudson circuit.

TALK ON KOREA.

Dr. Speer's Companion in the Trip Around World Will Lecture Here.

At a meeting of the Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue church, held yesterday afternoon, it was announced that F. Henry Grant, who accompanied Dr. Robert E. Speer in his tour around the world two years ago, would give an illustrated lecture on "Korea" in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church on the evening of Saturday, February 14, for the benefit of the band. Mr. Grant is an interesting speaker and the views which will be exhibited will add greatly to what is sure to be an interesting talk on the Korean country.

IMCREASE POLICE SALARIES.

Steps Toward That End Will Probably be Taken by the Council.

When the Common Council meets Monday evening, in adjourned session, plans will probably be laid for presenting an ordinance to increase the salaries of the police and at the regular February meeting action will be taken. It seems to be the general opinion of the Councilmen that the police should receive more pay, thus raising the standard for first-class men, and there is not likely to be any opposition to the proposed plan.

Oriental for Sixteen.

Grand Orient Adams, of Oriental Court, No. 14, Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city, assisted by other members of the court, conferred the oriental degree on sixteen members of the order in Mack Council rooms, Elizabeth, Tuesday evening. Grand Orient Adams was accompanied by several members of the court from this city.

Charge of Embezzlement.

A local business man appeared before the county prosecutor at Elizabeth, yesterday, and preferred a charge of embezzlement against a well known Plainfielder. An additional charge will be made today when the complainant will appear before the Grand Jury. Until then the facts of the case will not be made public.

Whist Club Entertained.

The Every Week Whist Club was entertained Wednesday evening by Miss Justina Smith, of the borough. Nearly the full membership was present and a very pleasant time was had. Next week the club will meet at the same place, when prizes will be offered. A social time follows the play.

Y. M. C. A. IS YEAR OLDER

Annual Meeting for Electing Directors and Hearing Reports of the Departments.

PROSPEROUS CONDITION

Six Directors Chosen—Report of President Stephen Cahoone Presented—Chairmen of Committees Summed Up the Work of Their Different Departments.

The election of six directors and the reading of the reports of the year's work in bringing young men into a better living knowledge of the Master, as well as training them in a healthy spiritual and physical manner, occupied the attention of those interested in that work at the annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association last evening. The meeting was held in the small hall and there were a large number of people present who listened to the encouraging reports read by the chairman of the various committees. These showed that the work accomplished in this city by the association during the past fiscal year has been productive of better results than even the most sanguine had anticipated. The results have been uniform in all departments; religious work, educational, physical and juvenile. Financially the association has a better record than it had at the close of the last fiscal year as there is an increase in the surplus.

The meeting opened at 8 o'clock with a short entertainment by Harry Bryant, a ventriloquist, of New York, while the directors were in session in the parlors of the association, where the report of the nominating committee was submitted and claims were paid in closing up the work of the past year.

President Stephen Cahoone, of the Y. M. C. A., opened the meeting by reading a passage of Scripture found in John I-35, after which Joseph W. Gavett lead in prayer. In the absence of the secretary, A. B. Beers, George S. Clay was appointed secretary pro tem. He read the minutes of the last annual meeting and later the report of the nominating committee wherein were the nominations for six directors to serve for the ensuing year. These were Stephen Cahoone, William D. Murray, E. L. Bonney, A. B. Beers, Nelson Runyon, Horace J. Martin and William S. Tyler. Later in the meeting when the nominations were acted upon it was found that there was one too many nominations for the office and Horace J. Martin withdrew in favor of Mr. Tyler, after which those nominated were unanimously elected. They will meet for organization in a few days.

President Cahoone read his report which was a most interesting one and showed lucidly what progress had been made by the association. It will be found it full in another column.

The reports of the various committees, the pith of which was contained in the president's report, were then read, the first being the report of chairman, George M. Rittenhouse, of the religious work committee. Ira A. Travell, chairman of the educational work department, read the report of that branch of the work. It was announced that a class in "first aid to the injured" would be opened in the near future with Dr. Norman H. Probasco as instructor. The report of the physical work department was equally interesting. It was read by the physical director, C. E. A. Heywood.

Curtis M. Thorpe read the treasurer's report but on account of several late subscriptions the report was not read in its entirety. It showed, however, that the association was on a good financial basis and had a surplus greater than that of the previous year.

Before the meeting closed John H. Doane made a motion to the effect that a vote of thanks be extended to The Daily Press and other local newspapers for favors shown during the past year which was unanimously adopted.

Remembered Local Assemblyman.

Some of Assemblyman Newcorn's friends remembered him on the day of the opening of the Legislature and presented him with handsome flowers. One large basket of roses was presented by several Plainfield friends.

YEAR'S WORK AT Y. M. C. A.

ing, chess, checkers, and other games. Our new tennis courts in the rear of the building have been well patronized, and what are termed the "summer privileges," especially the swimming pool, which are offered at reduced rates for a limited period of the year, have been availed of and appreciated by those using them. Base ball was a prominent feature during the summer months, and the "League," of which our association was a member, successfully furthered the objects for which it was formed, and the financial results were satisfactory, even beyond our expectations.

The attendance at the different gymnasium classes during the year year has been as follows: Boys' class, average attendance, 39; young men's average attendance, 22; business men' average attendance, 7; Leal's average attendance, 20; total, 88.

The physical director has also taken parties of boys to Rutgers College, New York City, and Bronx Park, Naval Y. M. C. A., and United States Navy Yard, and has held athletic contests for men and boys at intervals. He has also during the year given eighty-one physical examinations to men and boys, besides examining candidates for the city police. He has also given individual instruction to many, looked after the spiritual welfare of the men and boys under his care, and exercised a general supervision over this department. The number of different men and boys that availed themselves of our physical privileges during the year was 245.

The educational department, while showing no increase in numbers over the previous year's record, which was the highest in enrollment and attendance for four years, and the largest in number of classes in our history, nevertheless, has given evidence of the care bestowed upon it by the committee in charge, and also of the faithful and efficient services of the various instructors. Preparatory to the fall and winter's work our general secretary and the chairman of the committee visited different machine shops, to ascertain the needs of the men, and to gain the co-operation of the managers. There was also a conference of the foremen on September 13, and State Educational Secretary Browne held meetings at the shops, calling attention of the men to the advantages of our educational classes.

During the past year we have given instruction in the following studies: Mechanical drawing, English, mathematics, stenography and typewriting, bookkeeping, Spanish, and also first aid to the injured. The calendar for these classes, with curriculum, teachers, and other information, can be found in our annual "Prospectus" issued last October.

The boys' work, as before stated, has been a marked feature in 1902, and it is with great satisfaction that we note results, even in so short a time, in this department, under the direction of our new secretary, Mr. Robbie. On August 31, there were sixty boys in the junior department, while, on December 31 there were 117; a large increase in four months. Mr. Robbie has been untiring in his efforts, both to reach as many boys as possible, and also to interest and profit them in all ways. He has at different times taken parties of them to the New York City Associations, to the Elizabethport ship yards, and different machine shops in our city and elsewhere, besides giving them various kinds of outings, as well as indoor amusement. He has looked carefully after their spiritual needs, as well as their mental and physical, and in the brief term that he has been with us, has demonstrated that he is well qualified for his position, and his influence over the boys has been salutary and helpful. Other features of this junior department have been the furnishing and arranging of rooms for the boys on the third floor of the building, the formation of the boys' musical club and orchestra, and the boys' camp, in July, at Lake Wayawanda, attended by thirteen of our juniors, of which number ten signified their intention to live Christian lives, and have been organized into a Bible class. At the State conference on boys' work, held October 24, at Orange, seven from our department were in attendance. The figures relating to the religious meetings, Bible classes and gymnasium work, are given under their respective departments.

On December 6 there was given a gymnasium exhibition to school boys, on which occasion there were 100 visitors present, and recently Mr. Robbie aided in forming a boys' club at Hope chapel. Our building is still largely used by different organizations of our city, religious, philanthropic, and social, and during last year upwards of 150 meetings were held in various parts of this building, by fifteen or more societies and boards; there was no charge made for such use of our rooms, and we shall always consider it an honor to act as host in welcoming these and kindred organizations, as they may wish to avail themselves of whatever privileges we can offer them. Our large hall is used for our Sunday afternoon services, our "Star Course," and other entertainments, and we have rented it during the year, on different evenings, for various purposes.

The "Star Course," as usual, was well patronized, gave general satisfaction, and while all our members have free admission to these entertainments, the financial results have even surpassed those of the preceding year. The supplementary course of illustrated lectures on travel, given during the winter and spring, while not designed for revenue, were appreciated by those in attendance. No admission was charged, although an offering was received, and as these lectures were designed to instruct as well as to entertain, they might properly be classified under the head of educational work. Another somewhat recent development has been the men's orchestra, filling a want that has long existed, for we have always realized that music was not a sufficiently prominent feature of our association work. This orchestra has had a creditable record, and on different occasions has been of great assistance in our religious meetings, and other gatherings in the building, while the concerts which they gave in our hall were greatly enjoyed by appreciative audiences.

During the year there have been social events of different kinds in the building, and in November Warren chapel tendered a reception to our members, which was greatly enjoyed by all of those present. There was a watch-night meeting on December 31, and on New Year's Day we kept open house. On Christmas evening a dinner was given to fifty needy boys, and on Thanksgiving a dinner to young men away from home, which was so appreciated by the participants that it is to be hoped we may repeat it as often as the day returns. We also observed the thirty-fifth anniversay of our association in October, when we were privileged to present our work in the churches, and also to receive offerings from them for its support. Thus we have tried to promote a social spirit among our members, and make the building attractive to young men, and while something is being accomplished there is room for larger results along this line, and I trust that the social committee may plan for greater things during the coming year.

Our membership now consists of 330 men and 117 boys, a total of 447, against 383 last year, but the increase is due to the large accessions to our junior department, to which reference has already been made. There seems to be no good reason why this membership should not be greatly increased, when we consider the large number of young men in our city.

Turning now to that work performed by our general secretary, and others, of a more personal character, we enter a field where figures cannot adequately express the results accomplished, and to which reference may only be made in passing. Nearly 100 visits have been made to the machine shops in our city, numbers of men directed to suitable boarding places, others provided with permanent or temporary employment, or assisted in different ways. Visits have been made to the sick, men have been counselled in difficulties, advised with in spiritual matters, and many letters written to parents and friends about young men coming to, or departing from our city, and a vast amount of personal work of this character has occupied our secretaries and workers.

Financially, it is my pleasure to report that we have closed the year free of debt. The report of the treasurer shows total receipts from all sources, $7,950.16; disbursements, $7,936.18; leaving a credit balance of $13.98. The sum of $12,638 has been contributed by a large number of persons in amounts of $100 and less. We wish again to extend the hearty thanks of our association to all those donors for the interest thus expressed in our work by their gifts.

For detailed statements of what has been accomplished during the year, you are referred to the annual reports presented at this meeting, and also to the monthly reports of committees and officers, which are on file, and open for inspection to all our members.

The thanks of our association are due to our employes, for the faithful performance of their several duties, and also to the teachers in our evening classes for the valuable service which they render us; and we should recognize the labors of our committemen, and of those who have in any way participated or aided us in the general work of our association. In recognizing the year's results, and those whose interest in this work for young men, and whose labors have made these results possible, we look beyond all human agency, and realize that whatever has been accomplished in our past history, has been due to the Divine Blessing, and Presence with us, and it is through the Power of the Holy Spirit, and in reliance on Him, that we anticipate larger measures of success in the future.

Stephen Cahoone,
President.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

ERIE ON THE STAND

CHAIRMAN GRAY AGAIN PRESIDES.

Several Mine Foremen Testified That the Union Was Detrimental to Discipline and That Mining Was a Healthy Occupation.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—Most of the testimony presented to the anthracite coal strike commission yesterday was of a corroborative nature, the Erie company, which has not yet concluded its case, producing numerous witnesses to prove that the miners' union is responsible for the alleged restriction of the hard coal production. The Erie company controls the Hillside Coal and Iron company and the Pennsylvania Coal company. During the examination of Edward Hutton, a foreman employed by the latter company, the fact was adduced that the practice of restricting the number of cars to be loaded daily by one man had been in operation as far back as 1895, long before the United Mine Workers of America entered the anthracite region. The union's responsibility rests with the enforcement of this rule and not with its inception.

Chairman Gray of the commission, who has been ill at his home in Wilmington, Del., for several days, was present at yesterday's sessions.

The majority of the witnesses were mine foremen, who testified that the union was detrimental to discipline at the collieries, that mining is a comparatively healthy occupation and to acts of lawlessness committed during the recent strike. One witness, William Zorn of Dunmore, a contract miner, testified that he had been prevented by the union from performing a certain contract, the driver refusing to furnish him with a sufficient number of cars.

President Mitchell explained to the commission that the union regarded with disfavor the practice of miners securing certain work by proposal. In the first place, he said, the lowest bidder always secured the contract, and he employs as many helpers as he deems necessary, paying them smaller wages than they would otherwise receive. In many cases one contract miner has employed from twelve to fifteen laborers to do the work while he would act as a superintendent, performing no part of the actual mining. This the union considers unjust to the other men, besides increasing the liability of accidents, as the contract miner could not pay proper attention to so many different jobs.

Closed For Lack of Fuel.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Business in East Chicago, Ind., has been brought to a standstill by lack of coal, says the Tribune. The plants of the Republic Steel and Iron company and the Emylewyn rolling mill have shut down, and 5,000 men, practically all of the workingmen of the town, are idle. The two plants consume 200 tons of coal a day, and the supply ran short last Saturday, when only one carload of coal arrived. No fuel has been secured since.

A White House Dinner.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained at dinner at the White House last night in honor of the diplomatic corps. More than seventy guests enjoyed the hospitality of the chief executive and his wife. All the nations diplomatically represented at Washington had a representative at the dinner with the exception of Belgium, which still mourns the memory of the late queen. Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, the official head of the corps in the absence of Dr. von Holleben, the German ambassador, escorted Mrs. Roosevelt to the table, the president leading the way with Mme. Azpiroz, the wife of the Mexican ambassador. In the state dining room where the guests were seated the decorations were the prettiest of the year.

Five Coasters Killed.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Jan. 16.—Five boys, whose ages range from thirteen to fifteen years, while coasting were struck by a train on the Philadelphia and Reading railway and instantly killed, and another was fatally injured. The dead are Dennis McGinley, John Coyle, Owen Cahill, Patrick Cahill and an unknown boy, who was mangled beyond recognition. John Heubner, the sixth victim, is said to be at the point of death. The boys were coasting on a bob sled. The railway crosses the street at the bottom of the hill, and the sled and express train reached the crossing simultaneously. The engineer was not aware of the tragedy until he reached the station, a mile distant from the scene of the accident.

Labor Troubles at Lynn.

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 16.—Fifteen of the shoe manufacturers of Lynn using the union stamp on their goods decided this afternoon to throw their lot with the Boot and Shoe Workers' union in its struggle for trade union supremacy with the Knights of Labor, and as a result of this decision it is expected that 200 cutters affiliated with the latter organization will strike. Both sides to the fight are well prepared and apparently eager for the fray. The Knights of Labor have pickets at every railroad station.

Fatal Colliery Explosion.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Jan. 16.—An explosion of gas occurred at Packer No. 4 colliery, by which two men were instantly killed and two others so badly injured that their lives are despaired of. There were several other men in the mine at the time of the accident, but they escaped injury.

SHOT BY TILLMAN.

South Carolina Editor In a Critical Condition.

DAYLIGHT TRAGEDY IN COLUMBIA

The Lieutenant Governor, Goaded by Harsh Editorials During Recent Campaign, Fired Upon His Enemy at Sight.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 16.—Mr. N G. Gonzales, editor of the State and widely known throughout the south is at the Columbia hospital in a critical condition as a result of a pistol wound inflicted by Mr. James H. Tillman lieutenant governor of South Carolina. The shooting occurred on Main street just at the intersection of Gervais street in full view of the state capitol. It was an awful tragedy in broad daylight on the most frequented street and corner in Columbia.

It was just a few moments before 2 o'clock when the cry was passed along the streets that "Jim Tillman had shot N. G. Gonzales!" The announcement went like a thrill through all Columbia, and there was a rush toward the scene of the tragedy to learn the facts and the condition of the distinguished editor. The office of the State is on the same block as the scene of the shooting, and it took only a few moments for a throng to assemble in front of the newspaper building. The excitement and the indignation on the street were intense.

Policeman Boland immediately after the shooting arrested Lieutenant Governor Tillman and took him to police headquarters, where he was relieved of two pistols, the one with which he shot Editor Gonzales and a second large revolver of .38 caliber. From the police station he was taken to the county jail, where he is in full protection of the officers.

No fight or words occurred between the men preceding the assault, and the only attributed cause for the shooting by Lieutenant Governor Tillman is that during the recent primary election Editor Gonzales opposed Lieutenant Governor Tillman in his race for governor and vigorously assailed him editorially.

During the progress of that campaign Editor Gonzales in his newspaper, the State, called Tillman a debauche and a blackguard and referred to him as a "criminal candidate" and a proven liar. It was this and other such editorial expressions, it is supposed, that goaded Mr. Tillman to the desperate deed. The campaign occurred last August, and since the first primary, Aug. 26, 1902, Editor Gonzales has had nothing to say about Mr. Tillman, except to comment on the result of the primary.

There appears to be no conflict of testimony as to the essential features of the tragedy. Mr. Gonzales was going home alone from his office to lunch, his route leading him down Main street to Gervais and thence east on Gervais street. As usual Mr. Gonzales was walking.

Lieutenant Governor Tillman had presided at the senate's session and remained around the senate chamber for a short time after adjournment. As he came out of the state house he was accompanied by Senator Talbird of Beaufort and Senator Brown of Darlington, and he was joined on his way uptown by Congressman Elect Wyatt Aiken and former Representative Dominick. The lieutenant governor and the editor of the State met at the corner of Main and Gervais streets just at the street car transfer station. There was no encounter or fist fight or quarrel. Lieutenant Governor Tillman, the testimony now all seems to be, simply drew his revolver and fired at Editor Gonzales.

Most of those who saw the affair say there was nothing said until after the shot.

It is declared here by close friends of the stricken editor that Tillman's life is perfectly safe from any mob attack and that there is no thought on the part of Mr. Gonzales' friends of avenging his shooting by acts of violence.

Young Heiress Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—Alice Boalt Tevis, the ten-year-old daughter of the late Hugh Tevis, is dead of acute Bright's disease. The little girl's mother was Alice Boalt Tevis, who died shortly after the birth of her daughter. The father, Hugh Tevis, married Miss Baxter, a famous Denver beauty, a few years ago and died in Japan while on the honeymoon. He left half his immense fortune to the little girl who passed away yesterday. The dead girl was heiress to several millions, having inherited vast wealth from relatives.

Ladies Also to Attend.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—By invitation of Colgate Hoyt the ladies of the ambassadorial corps will accompany their husbands to New York tomorrow to attend the Ohio society banquet. This is a departure in such functions that is well received in the diplomatic circle. The ladies will be entertained at the Manhattan hotel, and when the banquet is in progress at the Waldorf they will be seated in a special box. Mr. Whitelaw Reid and Mrs. Reid have arranged to entertain the ambassadresses at luncheon on Sunday in New York.

Navy Yard Short of Coal.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—A coal famine confronts the officials of the Brooklyn navy yard. An inventory taken disclosed the fact that there is only enough coal on hand to last five days. Contractors, it is said, confess their inability to fill orders, notwithstanding that they can be penalized by the government for failure to live up to their contracts.

THE Y. M. C. A.

A great and excellent work is being accomplished in Plainfield these days by the Young Men's Christian Association. Anyone who has any doubts on that subject will do well to read the review of the association's work as published in another column. It is customary for the president of the Y. M. C. A. to sum up the work of the year and present it as a report at the annual meeting of the association. Following out this custom, Stephen Cahoone, who is the executive head of the local Y. M. C. A. summed up comprehensively the accomplishments and happenings at the association during the last twelve months and presented it at the annual meeting last evening. The complete text of his report is published in this issue.

There are two significant facts about the report. It shows a steady growth in the membership and it demonstrates the fact that the association is not being conducted beyond its means. Everybody understands that the Young Men's Christian Association is not a self-supporting institution. It must depend on the subscriptions of the people of Plainfield to meet its obligations. Those in whose hands the management of the association has been intrusted have done well.

President Cahoone points out that the most important event has been the enlargement and growth of the boys' work. Any one who has been at all in touch with the association cannot help but see the wonderful strides made in that department since Kenneth Robbie assumed charge. He has interested the boys in the association as they never were before and there is every reason to believe that the present prosperity for that department is in reality only a start toward better things.

Considerable attention has been paid to the physical work department but there have been those who were afraid that the association would devote too much attention to athletics to the exclusion of the higher aims of the organization. No one wishes the association to become merely a huge athletic club but there is no way in which it can reach more of the young men of today than through this very branch. A physical work department with a variety of sports and frequent contests to interest the young men is sure to attract them. Then if the association cannot hold them, it is the fault of the association in general and not of the physical work department. With the Y. M. C. A. always in the foreground ready to encourage and support any healthy amateur sport, it would attract many young men to its doors who would, in time, be brought into the other branches of the work and thus accomplish that for which the association was formed.

Governor Murphy's recommendation in his annual message, which has just been presented to the State Legislature, regarding the installation of voting machines, is one that deserves attention from the Legislature. Those who remember the troubles all over this county at the last election will recognize the great need of some new means of ascertaining the opinions of the voters. In many precincts right in this county, the election officials did not finish their labors until the morning after election and the returns which were turned in were not always accurate. With voting machines, the count in each precinct would be known within fifteen minutes after the polls closed. The chief argument urged against them was their cost and Governor Murphy has a plan whereby the initial cost can be met without any burden to either the State or the local municipalities.

How unpleasant it must seem to the Republicans of Somerville to have one of their Democratic brethren appointed to a legislative office. If Former Chancery Clerk L. A. Thompson had accepted the harmony proposal made by Mayor N. B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, that office might have gone to a Republican.

If you have any idea, no matter how brilliant, just tell some Jersey legislator and he will introduce a bill providing for it. Anyone who has glanced over some of the remarkable bills that are introduced every session cannot help but wonder where all these ideas come from.

If only the trolley ran to South Plainfield, what a wonderful business it would have done the last few days carrying the young people who wanted to enjoy the skating there.

HAS NEW ROLE.

Walter Sherwin is to Appear in "Saved From the Sea."

Walter Sherwin, of this city, returned home yesterday from Troy, N. Y., where the "Blind Girl" company, of which he was a member, closed for the season. He has secured the role of "Surly Jim" in a new production of "Saved From the Sea," which is to open in New York Feb. 7. The part is one to which his talents are adapted and one of the most important in the cast.

Starting Ping-Pong.

After the regular business meeting of the Monroe Avenue church Epworth League, this evening, the members will begin the preliminary games of a ping-pong tournament. The players will all be from the League at the start and, if enough skill is attained, entries may be made in outside tourneys. M. L. Townley, of the Group League leaders, will be in attendance.

Had Hot Box.

Car No. 75, of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, rolled into town, yesterday afternoon, with one of the journal boxes smoking badly as a result of a hot box. Attention was attracted to the car by the cloud of smoke which arose from the axle box as the car was propelled along the street.

Sunday's Speaker.

Rev. John N. Freeman, of New York, who is temporarily filling the pulpit at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Mr. Freeman is an interesting speaker and his message for Sunday promises to be a helpful one to young men.

—The Young Women's Club will meet Monday evening and a full attendance of members is desired.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

L. L. Block, the butcher, is nursing a sore hand as a result of trying to cut frozen meat yesterday. In doing so he accidentally drove the cleaver into the fleshy part of the left hand, making a painful gash over an inch long. He went to Dr. Brakeley who was obliged to take several stitches to close the wound.

Adam Dealaman, who has been severely ill, has begun to show a marked improvement and is now allowed to take considerable nourishment.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, will give a chicken supper in the church next Thursday night.

Miss Nettie Brakeley, of Easton, Pa., has returned home after visiting her brother, Dr. P. W. Brakeley.

A. A. Parker, of this place, has been elected treasurer of the National Bantam Association.

A large crowd is expected at the dance to be given this evening by James Wotten, 2d.

Miss Viola Hill is nearly recovered from a recent operation for appendicitis.

Walter Craig entertained his friend, Mansfield Piano, of New York City, yesterday.

A large party of young people from here went to New Market skating last evening.

Henry Weidenhaupt and family will remove to Staten Island next month.

Mrs. Cornelius Taylor is entertaining her niece from Raritan this week.

Mrs. Lewis Tinsman is much improved from her recent illness.

Miss Mamie Hunt spent Wednesday with friends in Raritan.

One of the Sandford houses is being overhauled and renovated.

Mrs. Carpenter spent yesterday in Plainfield.

NEW MARKET.

The largest crowd of the season enjoyed the skating on the pond last evening. The ice was excellent and as the moon came out early it was quite light.

George Runyon, of Trenton, has been visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Runyon.

In the future the local grocery stores will remain open nights until 9 o'clock.

The brass band practiced last evening in the room over Rupell's coal office.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis will leave for the west the first of next week.

A meeting was held last evening by Friendship Council in the hall.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Arrangements are completed for the grand entertainment for the benefit of the baseball team, to be held on the evening of Lincoln's birthday, February 11. Some of the best performers doing the Keith and Proctor circuits will make their bow to a local audience. The younger set will enjoy a dance at the close of the programme.

The week of prayer services, which have been held during the past two weeks at the Baptist church, will probably come to an end tonight, the topic of the meeting being "The Soul Winner and His Stars."

Miss Alice Shott, who has been seriously ill for several weeks at the home of friends in New York, being threatened with typhoid fever, is reported as improving slowly.

David Dunn and John L. Darby are harvesting the annual crop of ice at the back pond. The large ice house near the dam will be filled with ice nearly ten inches thick.

The Berkeley Heights Social Club will hold its semi-monthly dance in the large hall at that place tomorrow night. A number from town will attend.

Albert Hollingsworth, who has been spending his holiday vacation with his father, has returned to his duties as a government surveyor in the west.

The members of the Epworth League are planning to to hold a social in the Methodist church during the latter part of the month.

Randolph Drake and Scott Terry have been drawn as petit jurymen from the township for the January term of court at Elizabeth.

Mrs. Hezikiah Hand, of Plainfield, was the guest Thursday of her mother, Mrs. Jacob Coles, of Front street.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., transacted routine business at its meeting in the Library rooms, last night.

George Traynor, of the borough, has accepted a position at the Safe Works, Plainfield.

Miss Susie L. Parse was the guest Thursday of friends in Plainfield.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

John Conners received a bad wound on his hand while at work yesterday morning.

Joseph H. Eckart, who is well-known here, is reported ill with pleurisy.

James H. Cubberley has returned from a two weeks' visit with relatives.

Moonlight skating is enjoyed on the lake by a number of our young people.

The Ladies' Aid Society met yesterday, and conducted regular business.

Fred Latourette has somewhat improved from his injury.

Mrs. John Geary has been ill a few days

ENTERTAINED BOYS.

Programme for Members of Boys' Department Given Last Night.

Almost two hundred boys were entertained last evening at the Y. M. C. A. Hall and the programme rendered was greatly enjoyed by the juvenile members of the asssociation and their friends.

Harry Bryant, the ventriloquist, who has appeared before Plainfield audiences on several occasions, entertained with an interesting exhibition of ventriloquism and presented an octologue in which he cleverly impersonated the voices of eight characters in the sketch without changing his costume. This was loudly applauded by the boys as were the selections rendered by Miss Lillian Glen, of this city, and Chester Briggs, both of whom were encored several times.

Cranford Wedding.

A wedding of much interest was celebrated Wednesday evening at Cranford, when Miss Georgine Reusch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Reusch, was married to Charles Crickenberger, of Westfield. There was a large number of guests present, including many from Dunellen and New Market as well as Westfield. Among those in the bridal party was Miss Jose Metze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Metze, of New Market.

Planning More Houses.

Charles L. Moffett and Elmer E. Gulick are planning to build a number of handsome residences in the vicinity of Park avenue and and Randolph road. Work will be commenced in the spring.

Lecture on Mexico.

Arrangements are being made for an illustrated lecture to be given by Rev. C. E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church on "Mexico." It will probably be given toward the last of this month.

Bought Building Lots.

Henry DeMott, the undertaker, of Somerset street, has recently purchased nine building lots on Jefferson avenue through the local real estate agency of William Pangborn.

Groom from Borough.

The marriage of Thomas A. Stine, of the borough, and Miss Beattie, of New York, will be celebrated Wednesday, January 21, at the home of the bride in New York.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

During this week John Wirth, the West Front street baker and confectioner, will make a specialty of Boston brown bread, made fresh every day.

Special bargains have been offered at the New York Bargain Store on West Front street since the holidays and some of the finest articles of men's and boys' wear are being sold at reduced prices.

"The Doll's Hospital," conducted by A. M. Harper on Park avenue, is a source of joy the year round. There are so many things to interest both young and old. Mr. Harper also keeps a full line of stationery.

Putnam & DeGraw, the West Front street dry goods merchants, are carrying a full line of desirable goods at reasonable prices. The men's furnishing goods department is well filled with attractive up-to-date goods, as is also the other departments.

In the use of drugs and compounding prescriptions the greatest care should be exercised. The drugs handled by L. W. Randolph, the West Front street prescription druggist, are absolutely pure and he guarantees accuracy in compounding prescriptions.

When you cough all night and cough all day, to R. J. Shaw's pursue your way. Upon his shelves he has the cure, that's quick and safe and always sure. The price is low, its never high; so buy it now before you get worse and spend ten times the original cost for a doctor's services.

A special inventory sale is now going on at the dry goods store of I. H. Boehm where some very excellent bargains may be secured in the women's suit department. Special inducements are being made in the millinery department where some of the very latest styles of hats, both trimmed and untrimmed are being sacrificed.

The local branch of the A. and P. Tea Company has made a great reduction in its prices on all household groceries. Especially is this true of A. and P. flour which is now retailing far below the former cost. It is sold either in barrel or bag lots. The A. and P. goods are standards the world over for excellence and when you buy them you are not purchasing adulterated articles.

WANT MORE PAY.

Reading Conductors Ask for the Adoption of a New Schedule.

A committee representing the conductors of the New York division of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company waited on Superintendent Beach, this week, and made a request for an increase in wages. They ask that a new wage scale be put in effect February 1. This calls for $3.19 per day, eleven hours, and a rate of thirty cents per hour for overtime. Heretofore the rate for conductors on the New York division has been $2.50 for the first year men, $2.75 for second year and $3 for the third year men.

Trust Company Officers.

At a meeting of the directors of the Plainfield Trust Company, held yesterday afternoon in New York, the officers for the ensuing year were chosen as follows: President, O. T. Waring, vice president, A. V. Heely; second vice president, Henry A. McGee; secretary and treasurer, J. Herbert Case.

Another St. Louis Passenger.

Besides those who are passengers on the long overdue steamer St. Louis, whose names appeared in last night's issue of The Daily Press, is Rev. Arthur Crane, formerly of this city, and father of J. Henry Crane, a New York lawyer, who resides on East Fifth street.

GERMAN CRUISER'S ACTION.

Fired a Shell at Puerto Cabello Fortress.

PUERTO CABELLO, Venezuela, Jan. 16.—The German cruiser Vineta at sunset fired a shell at La Vigia, the fort crowning the hills behind this port. The shell, which was fired because men were believed to be in the fort, exploded without causing damage.

The people of Puerto Cabello are at a loss to understand the action of the German cruiser. Early yesterday morning, however, Commodore Scheder sent the following communication to the Venezuelan authorities through William H. Volkmar, acting American consul here: "Referring to my letter of the 9th inst., I have to inform you that I fired a shell yesterday at Fort La Vigia because, against my explicit prohibition, the presence has been observed there of unauthorized persons. Judging from reports these persons were soldiers."

From information gathered here the statement of the German commander that there were unauthorized persons in the fort is incorrect.

Fighting at Tangier Renewed.

TANGIER, Morocco, Jan. 16.—Advices received here from Fez are to the effect that there is no probability of the proposed expedition against the pretender to the throne being dispatched until the sultan musters a larger force, which he will lead personally. There was a renewal of the fighting yesterday between the factions outside of Tangier. The house of a British subject was threatened with attack. The sultan's deputy sent troops to protect this property, whereupon the assailants retired. The imperial troops fired one village. Almost all the Europeans now in Tangier followed the operations on horseback.

Want a Duty on Lead.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 16.—A delegation representing the silver lead producers of the Kootenay district waited on the minister of finance and asked that a duty be imposed on lead and lead products so as to shut out all United States competition. The delegation will later on wait on all the cabinet.

A PLEASING MISSION

New Representative of Germany Interviewed.

PRAISE FOR PEOPLE AND PRESIDENT

Baron Von Sternburg Says His Object and Policy Will Be to Extend Friendship With the American People.

BERLIN, Jan. 16.—Baron Speck von Sternburg, the newly appointed charge d'affaires of Germany at Washington, spent the greater part of the day at the foreign office. He probably will be received by the emperor in audience next Saturday.

Regarding his American assignment, the baron said:

"His majesty has been pleased to commit to my care one of the dearest objects of his external policy, that of extending our friendship with the United States. This is for me a delightful work. The circumstances of each country place it beyond the jealousy and fear of the other, and we have at present good will, admiration and respect to build upon. His majesty so thoroughly appreciates the capabilities of Americans, their fair and brilliant women, their genius, their liveliness of disposition, the ease with which they do immense things and their loyalty to high aims that my work will be facilitated in every way by his government.

"Standing on either side of the entrance to the private office of the American ambassador here are busts of George Washington and Frederick the Great. These busts have been in the embassy and in the ministry before it since the early part of the past century. When I have called at the embassy, they always seemed to me to symbolize the relations between the peoples of Germany and of the United States. Since the Union was founded, since Frederick the Great recognized the independence of the American colonies, the good will of the house of Hohenzollern toward them has continued without interruption up to the present moment. Neither Prussia nor Germany has ever had a 'diplomatic incident' with the United States.

"It has happened that a portion of the American press has attributed to Germany unworthy and covert aims in the Venezuelan dispute. I am happy to say in behalf of my government that we neither have nor ever have had any purpose in connection with Venezuela other than to protect German residents there. One of my immediate duties after presenting my credentials will be to join in the negotiations in Washington for a final understanding with Venezuela. Although this question is not susceptible to instant settlement, Germany approaches it with most tolerant views since President Castro has shown a willingness to recognize that we have grounds for grievance. The position of the controversy is such that we may expect a conclusion measurably satisfactory to each government interested. The German government feels grateful to the United States for the part they have taken in advancing the adjustment that is now clearly in prospect. The Venezuelan affair will cause no further difficulty if all the persons concerned are of the Roosevelt type."

Colombian Politics.

PANAMA, Colombia, Jan. 16.—President Marroquin has declined his friends' proposal that he consent to be a candidate for re-election, saying that a stronger man than he is needed and adding that re-elections are among the main causes which make revolutions possible in Latin America. Dr. Joaquin Velez, former governor of Bolivar, and General Gonzales Valencia have been proposed as candidates respectively for the presidency and vice presidency by the Conservative party. The combination would be powerful but for the fact that Dr. Velez opposes the cession or lease of a canal zone to the United States. The strongest candidate in the field up to now is General Aristides Fernandez, minister of war, to whose activity and energy is credited the ending of the late revolution.

Pittsfield Trolley Men Indicted.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 16.—The grand jury in the case of Euclid Madden and James T. Kelly reported an indictment against each, charging manslaughter. These men were in charge of the electric car which last August ran into the carriage of President Roosevelt, with the result that Secret Service Agent William Craig, who was guarding the president, was killed. Both men when called to answer to the indictment pleaded not guilty. At a conference between counsel Wednesday next was fixed upon as the date for the opening of the trial.

National Convention of Grocers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 16.—The next convention of the National Association of Retail Grocers will be held at San Francisco. Important business transacted by the convention before final adjournment was the fixing of the per capita tax at 10 per cent per annum and the election of officers. The election resulted as follows: President, C. R. Lott, Chicago; vice president, A. W. Farlinger, Atlanta, Ga.; secretary, Fred Maron St. Paul; treasurer, F. A. Newland, Topeka.

To Paint Cleveland and Roosevelt.

BRAINERD, Minn., Jan. 16.—Freeman Thorpe, an artist, has left for Princeton, N. J., where he will paint a portrait of ex-President Grover Cleveland. From Princeton he will go to Washington and paint portraits of President Roosevelt, Secretary Hay and others.

Weather Probabilities.

Partly cloudy, warmer temperature, fresh west winds.

ARMY BILL PASSED.

Department of Commerce Discussed Tillman Talks on Trusts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The house yesterday passed the army appropriation bill and began consideration of the department of commerce bill under a special rule making it a continuing order until disposed of. The opposition to the measure came entirely from the Democratic side and was based chiefly on the ground that the transfer of the bureau of labor to the new department would subordinate that bureau to a department which would represent capitalistic interests. The friends of the bill denied the assumption that the head of the new department would be hostile to labor. They maintained that the bill would increase the dignity of the bureau of labor by giving the head of the department a seat in the cabinet.

In the senate Mr. Tillman continued his arraignment of trusts and monopolies and again charged that the attorney general was responsible primarily for lack of action against trusts.

The statehood bill was under discussion for a short time, Mr. Foraker urging the right of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico to be admitted into the Union.

Mr. McLaurin (Miss.) called attention to charges that the people of Indianola, Miss., had been guilty of threats and intimidation against the postmaster and declared them to be untrue, remarking that his object in bringing the matter to the attention of the senate was in order that his denial might go into the Congressional Record as an answer to those who made the charge.

The senate at 5 o'clock adjourned until Monday.

SOUTH AFRICAN LOAN.

Belt's House Offers to Advance the Sum of $150,000,000.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Members of leading firms representing South African interests held an important meeting at the offices of Werner, Belt & Co. during the afternoon and definitely agreed on a war contribution of $150,000,000 payable in three annual installments of $50,000,000 and covered by a loan not redeemable before ten years. The first $50,000,000 will be issued in 1904.

The assembled magnates appointed Baron Rothschild as an independent expert to choose the date of the issue.

An announcement of the agreement arrived at was cabled to Colonial Secretary Chamberlain at Johannesburg. His acceptance is anticipated.

Sigmund Neumann said after the meeting:

"The mine owners accepted the £30,000,000 proposition more readily because they had made up their minds soon after the war that they would be required to contribute no less than £100,000,000."

Mr. Neumann remarked that he considered the question of the importation of Chinese laborers to be settled, and he added:

"Of course it will provoke considerable opposition at Johannesburg, but we rely on Mr. Chamberlain to persuade the Afrikanders to see the question in a reasonable light."

New Tariff For Cuba.

HAVANA, Jan. 16.—Preparatory work in the formation of a new tariff to take the place of the tariff received by the Cuban republic from the American military government has been begun by the sending of a communication from President Palma to both houses of congress requesting the appointment of two members of each house who, with four government officials, will constitute a commission to prepare a tariff bill. It is understood that Secretary of Finance Montes and Administrator of Customs Rivera will serve on the commission. The government favors a moderate increase in the rates of duties, but there is no probability that anything approaching the rates levied by the United States will be reached.

Hawaii's Attorney General Resigns

HONOLULU, Jan. 16.—It is currently reported that Attorney General E. P. Dole has resigned his office. Several reasons are assigned for his action. One is that pressure was brought to bear upon him by certain leaders of the Republican party, and another is that he frequently held views in opposition to those of the governor on certain questions, which created unpleasantness between the two officials. The attorney general is a cousin of Governor Dole and has held office ever since the inauguration of the territorial government.

Sixty Shiploads of Coal Coming.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—It is said in Liverpool that since Christmas over sixty steamers have been chartered to load coal at various ports of the United Kingdom for the United States. According to cablegrams received at Liverpool from America no further orders for coal will be booked at present, the belief being that the orders already entered will cause a serious congestion and expensive delay in shipping to American ports.

Alleged Lynchers Arrested.

KOSCIUSKO, Miss., Jan. 16.—Sheriff Love and a posse have brought in and lodged in jail ten white citizens of the northern part of this county charged with the lynching of Jim Gaston and Monroe Hallum, two negroes, at a crossroads last August. These parties and a number of others have been indicted by the grand jury of Attala county.

Burghers For Somaliland Service.

DURBAN, Natal, Jan. 16.—A contingent of sixty burghers, formed for service in Somaliland, have just sailed from here for that place. Most of the burghers are ex-prisoners of war. The men have signed an agreement to serve for six months.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

Kilted Skirts—Walking Costumes. Kid Hats.

Women are wearing silk, satin or brocade evening petticoats in preference to those composed of cambric and lace. Zenana is of course a favorite winter material and obtainable in delightful shades, but it is better for dressing gowns and peignoirs, for even with shaped bands you cannot do away with a certain amount of thickness.

Cloth walking dresses in brown are much in favor, and they mostly boast the flat kilted skirts. Again, many of the bolero coats show plaits, these being loose either at the front or at the back. Plaits indeed are a fad just now, but they must be fitted and arranged so that their lines follow those of the figure they are to adorn or else disaster will lurk in every fold.

Kid hats are perhaps more new than pretty, though they are useful when devoted to motoring, and one of these in gray, bound with black braid and with bows and ends of braid at the back, has been especially designed for such exercise.

The up to date hat and muff shown in the cut are designed to correspond with the coat of light putty colored cloth. The hat is draped in the popular three cornered shape, with the edge of sable. There is a large ruche of ribbon and a bunch of violets under the brim. The muff is of the same cloth, with two large ruffles in each side, two bands of sable and a large fall of lace and violets on the left side.

FASHION NOTES.

Evening Garnitures—Elaborate Effects the Keynote.

There is a dearth of novelties in evening attire, but the soft textures still prevail, and there is a rage for spotted or speckled net. The slips or foundations worn with net chiffon and transparent skirts are still gored and edged with fussy frills, but the top is cut and fitted in sheath fashion. Slips with separate flounces of the godet order are only worn with heavier or nontransparent materials, as the line of heading is too obtrusive.

The floral garnitures are exceedingly lovely this winter and gain much in effect from a judicious mixture of ribbon. What, for instance, can be lovelier for a net gown than a cluster of salmon pink chrysanthemums resting on a few loops of flame colored satin ribbon and then wandering off into a slender trail of stems from which descend smaller buds and knots of ribbon? Exquisite garnitures of violets are made up with narrow pale blue ribbon.

The elaborate nightgown here shown might also be used for a negligee and will be found especially useful for a convalescent. It is made of nainsook, banded with lace insertion. Some of these form a pointed effect on the yoke. The rest outlines the bolero of all over lace.

CHAPTER XX.

LIFE IN THE BUNGALOW.

John M. Rockwell never displayed greater skill in the choice of lieutenants than in the selection of L. Sylvester Vincent as general superintendent of Social Island. Mr. Vincent proved to be a most capable manager. He formulated a set of rules and enforced them with the tact of the born executive. Since the discovery of the golden idols in which Mr. Vincent had an interest worth at least $175,000, that gentleman advanced himself several points in the social and financial plane; but he was too shrewd to be presumptuous. He became more and more popular with his associates, who discovered that some of his plans possessed merit, though others were beyond the pale of practicability.

On Saturday night, two days after the hurricane, the weather turned very warm. It was fairly cool in the shade of the trees, but unbearable in the open. There being slight reason to anticipate any favorable change, it was agreed to arrange such a division of the hours as should best conduce to comfort and to expediting work on the boat.

At the suggestion of Mr. Rockwell it was decided that all should arise in the morning in time to have breakfast as soon as it was daylight. At half-past two they were out of bed, and by four o'clock were hard at work. It was cool in these early hours, and all worked with a vigor which gave them a ravenous appetite for the substantial meal served at ten o'clock. The sun was then high in the heavens, and it was no longer safe to work. During the hours from 11 o'clock until five, the castaways enjoyed the delights of a siesta.

At five o'clock in the evening all were aroused, and after partaking of fruit or a light luncheon, returned to their labors. Three hours were thus stolen from the angry sun in the cool of the evening, and a total of at least eight hours devoted to work during the day. At eight o'clock in the evening dinner was ready, and at half past ten the toilers retired for the night. Eight hours for work, eight for sleep, and eight for recreation was the diurnal routine at Social Island bungalow.

The supply of bread left by Hestor was exhausted in three or four days. There was an abundance of flour, and for a time "baking powder biscuits" enjoyed much popularity, but it was not lasting.

"I would like a slice of good-old-fashioned home-made bread," said Mr. Rockwell one afternoon, and he voiced the common desire.

"I know how to make bread," said Mr. Pence. "I learned when I was a young man, and I could make it yet if we only had some yeast. I used to make mighty fine bread. It cost less than half what the bakers charged for it."

"There is a package of yeast stuff in the storeroom," said Mr. Vincent. "It is the kind of yeast—so the box says—that will keep for years." He brought in the package and Mr. Pence examined it critically.

"I don't know about this stuff," he said. "It is probably some new-fangled thing, and I am always afraid of these new rinktums. I made my own yeast out of hops."

"Go ahead and try it, Simon," said Mr. Kent. "It may be all right. Are there full directions on it?"

Mr. Pence found explicit instructions on the package, which was labeled "Yeast Foam." He said he was afraid he would spoil a lot of flour, but finally consented to make the attempt. All adjourned to the kitchen to watch the new baker. Mr. Pence put on a long white apron. Mr. Kent made a white paper cap and placed it on the head of the financier. Mr. Pence poured out a quantity of flour, added small portions of salt and sugar, and mixed the combination thoroughly. In the meantime the cake of "yeast foam" had been dissolved in warm water. Mr. Pence scooped a hole in the center of the flour and poured in a quantity of warm water. To this he added the dissolved yeast. He manipulated the flour so as to form a pasty mixture, which reposed in the center of an amphitheater of flour. Then he washed his hands of the yeast and flour, and took off cap and apron.

"That is the 'sponge,'" said Simon Pence, while the others listened with great admiration. "If that stuff is good, it will ferment and rise in a few hours. If it does, we will have some bread. If not, I have wasted 30 cents worth of flour. Let us hope for the best."

Mr. Pence watched the "sponge" as does a mother a sick babe. From time to time Mr. Vincent carried news bulletins to the ship builders, who were hard at work in the rear of the bungalow, felling trees for the raft or houseboat.

"It has started to come up!" he announced, as a 70-foot tree came crashing down after the well-directed blows of Palmer J. Morton.

"Good!" said Mr. Kent, as he lopped off a limb. "Tell Simon to keep his nerve and not get excited. We are pulling for him to win."

Mr. Pence again donned his apron and cap; rolled up his sleeves and began to knead the bread. He displayed much deftness in this operation. Starting from the inside of the pile of flour, he worked the white flakes into the "sponge," which grew in size and whiteness. For half an hour he toiled at this work. Then he put the plump mass back in the bread pan. Four hours later he kneaded it again, and it was now a huge light ball, and Mr. Pence was much elated. Two hours later he cut it into small pieces, kneaded it slightly, and put it in the small bread pans and after it had again "raised," he placed the pans in the oven. After an hour's baking, Vincent and Mr. Pence took from the oven eight loaves of bread, of which any housewife might well have been proud. The tops were a perfect yellow-brown, and the texture was of that firm but light nature which marks the apex of the baker's art.

In the search for suitable timber, Sidney Hammond had chopped down a tree containing a store of honey, and made the further discovery that tropical bees are stingless. Fresh bread and honey were a notable addition to the menu of Social Island, and Mr. Pence was awarded no end of praise. So thoroughly was he reinstated in the good opinion of the colony that it was agreed that all should make a trip to the ruined city, and help bring into camp the gold idols which had been discovered by Vincent and Mr. Pence. In fact, they made two trips, and reduced the supply to such an extent that the owners of the gold were able to recover the remaining idols at their leisure. At Mr. Pence's request these images were placed in his room, and he watched them with a vigilance as if this tropical wilderness were infested with professional burglars.

In accordance with Sidney Hammond's suggestion, a watch was maintained on top of the big rock overlooking the ocean, where the flagstaff had been erected. Mr. Carmody was assigned to this duty on Saturday. He rowed across the lake in the early morning, taking with him a rifle, a book, and luncheon.

After about two hours had elapsed a sail showed on the southeastern sea-rim! It was low down in the waters, but the air was wonderfully clear, and he could see that it was a large three-masted vessel. More than that, it was coming in his direction. Mr. Carmody watched the craft intently and ate his luncheon. The ship was now perceptibly nearer. With the glass he saw that it was a brigantine; square rigged on the fore mast and schooner rigged on the main and mizzen masts. Then the craft took a long tack out to sea and nearly disappeared, but it turned again and rapidly headed in a northwesterly direction. Mile by mile it approached, until with the glass he saw the sailors on her decks.

"They must see the white flag on this cliff!" he said to himself. They were not three miles away. Mr. Carmody stood on the highest point and waved his handkerchief. Nearer and nearer came the ship. He fired the rifle again and again. Could they see him? Would they understand? He plainly saw the lifeboats and the chart house of the oncoming vessel. Her masts rocked gracefuly in the swell of the ocean. He saw the jibs flutter in the fresh breeze. The bow swung to starboard; the long hull of the ship stood for a moment broadside to the shore; the huge sails flopped in the wind as she "came about;" they flattened as the ship obeyed the rudder; the masts careened and steadied; the foam showed white at her bows, and the ship stood away to the northeast on a starboard tack. Mr. Carmody saw the wheelman without the aid of a glass, and could see the faces of the sailors as the ship stood broadside the moment before she again went out to sea.

"They are scoundrels to pay no heed to a flag of distress!" he said aloud as the ship swiftly receded, and at last became a mere speck in the northeastern horizon. It was a sad awakening from a happy dream. Alas! how often we sail proudly by the fluttering rags of distress! Life's marooned are on islands in every metropolis. The battered hulks of humanity go down in sight and hearing of prosperous voyagers. Storm-tossed sailors, unable to breast life's tempestuous seas, perish on society's coasts, and no lifeboat puts out from shore. The wrecker burns his false lights along the rocks.

The indignation of Mr. Carmody was shared by his companions, but they regarded it as a hopeful sign that two ships already had been seen from the rocks. This proved beyond doubt that these waters were frequented by traffic, and there was a chance that some generous skipper might recognize their flag of distress.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?
In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.
The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.
This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.
With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.
Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

Dreyfus Gets Option on Baseball Club—Racing Results.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—Barney Dreyfus of Pittsburg has secured an option for the purchase of the Philadelphia National League Baseball club. The option will expire Sunday. Mr. Dreyfus held a conference with John I. Rogers, treasurer of the club, and at its conclusion joined the persons financially interested in the proposed deal. He said he thought the terms were fair and just and that he did not think there would be any trouble in reaching a satisfactory agreement.

So far as can be learned every share of the stock in the club will be purchased outright, and when this is effected President Reach will be allowed to become one of the members of the new syndicate.

Mr. Dreyfus declined to disclose any of the details of the deal. He said he was merely representing the gentlemen who desired to make the purchase and would have no financial interest in the club.

It is expected that official announcement of the sale will be made today.

Jeffries Explains Fight With Monroe

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 16.—The Herald today prints a signed statement from Champion James J. Jeffries concerning his recent bout with Jack Monroe at Butte, Mont. Jeffries declares that Monroe not only did not knock him down, but during the entire four rounds did not land a clean punch. Jeffries claims to have been deliberately jobbed out of the fight, as the third round, in which he sent Monroe to the mat for an eight count, was cut short fully a minute. "I made no attempt whatever to land on Monroe for the first two rounds," says Jeffries, "as I saw he knew absolutely nothing about the game. In the fourth round I could not get at him, as he repeatedly clinched or fell to the floor, and in this manner he managed to stay the limit. The reports that he knocked me down are absolutely untrue, and nobody knows this better than Monroe himself."

Oakland Results.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—A feature of the racing at Oakland today was the victory of F. W. Brode, a former American Derby candidate. He was quoted at 30 to 1 in some books, and, leading most of the way, won easily from Dollie Weithoff and Bernota. Bullman carried off the riding honors by landing three of his mounts in front. The weather was fine and the track fast.

Wrestling at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 16.—George Burlingame of this city disposed of Frank Phillips of Cincinnati in catch as catch can wrestling in two straight falls. In the first bout it required one minute to pin Phillips' shoulders to the mat, but in the second Burlingame rushed matters and had his man down in ten seconds.

New Orleans Races.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 16.—Hargis and L'Etrenne, both of whom scored easily, were the only winning favorites yesterday. Paul Creyton was run up to $1,205 after the second race and bought in. As the barrier went up in the last race Rough Rider, the favorite, reared up and was left at the post.

Princeton's New Golf Clubhouse.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 16.—The Lamar Golf clubhouse is now in course of erection on the new links near Mercer Heights. The house is the gift of the class of 1886, of which Mr. Lamar, one of Princeton's famous athletes, was a member. It will be two stories high and 175 feet long.

Bennings Race Track Changes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—August Belmont has filed a deed conveying the Bennings race track property to the Washington Jockey club of the District of Columbia, the new corporation formed to succeed the old Washington Jockey club. The consideration named is $200,000.

Ryan Knocked Out Stift.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 16.—Tommy Ryan, the middleweight champion, knocked out Billy Stift of Chicago in the fourth round of a ten round bout at the Delaware club last night.

Erie Switchmen Strike.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Jan. 16.—The 104 switchmen in the Erie yard were on strike for a few hours yesterday, returning to work on the understanding that their grievances would be satisfactorily adjusted within forty-eight hours. The men claim that the company violated agreements regarding the removal of newly appointed yardmasters and the reinstatement of men dismissed or transferred. During the strike only passenger trains were moving, and the yardmaster did the switching.

Want of Fuel Closes Factories.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 16.—The four largest manufacturing plants of Lafayette have closed on account of a shortage of coal. Street car and electric light companies have only two days' supply of fuel. Purdue college will be compelled to close unless coal is received this week.

INSTALLED ARCANUMITES.

Acting Grand Deputy Drummond Visited Greenbrook Council.

Acting Grand Deputy Samuel Drummond, of Bound Brook, visited this city, last evening, and installed the following officers of Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, Royal Arcanum: Regent, L. B. Skillman; vice regent, William Taylor; past regent, U. G. Pierson; orator, H. A. Todd; secretary, Webster Grant; collector, J. F. W. Bamberger; chaplain, Ira West; guide, R. B. VanArsdale; warden, Charles Mehlenbeck; sentry, John Higgins; trustees, M. C. VanArsdale, C. C. Davis and William Force.

Previous to the ceremonies three candidates were initiated. The business of the evening was followed by a social hour during which addresses were made by prominent visitors present.

COAL CARS HELD.

On Lehigh and Reading Awaiting Shipment to New York.

While all New York is clamoring for coal, there is still plenty of the scarce article held by the railroads, in this vicinity, waiting chance to ship it.

At South Plainfield the Lehigh Valley has 196 loaded cars on the sidings and 20,000 tons of anthracite at the storage plant. Near Bound Brook, at Port Reading Junction, the Philadelphia and Reading road has 150 cars. The Lehigh is sending all its supply to Perth Amboy as fast as it can be unloaded and is making no attempt to store it at South Plainfield.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

FINE MUSIC AND RECITATIONS

WERE FEATURES OF ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN AT CHURCH OF HOLY CROSS.

Affair Given Under Auspices of the Women's Guild of That Church Last Night.

Under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of the Church of the Holy Cross a pleasing entertainment was given last evening in the parish house. The programme was of a literary and musical character.

William Holmes sang baritone solos and Mrs. F. M. Ward rendered several contralto solos. Miss Daisy Zerbe, church organist, gave two choice piano selections and also acted as accompanist. Miss Marie Wilson, of New York, a clever reciter, gave some of her best selections and she was warmly received, as was also Maurice A. Audsley, who rendered violin solos. The other participant was Harry E. Hayden, of New York, who gave humorous selections. His stories were really funny and he had no trouble in keeping his audience in the best of humor.

In part first Mr. Holmes sang "A Red, Red Rose," with another selection for an encore, and Mrs. Ward sang "A Love Song," with a second song for an encore. Miss Zerbe gave one of Chopin's selections, while Miss Wilson recited "The Sweet Girl Graduate." Mr. Audsley's number was "Air Melodieux," by Carl Bohm.

Miss Wilson opened part second with a recitation, "Dolores Defies the King," arranged from in "The Palace of the King," by Marion Crawford. In this her work was seen to the best advantage. Mrs. Ward followed with "Little Boy Blue," by D'Hardelot, after which Miss Zerbe gave one of Wagner's selections. The concluding numbers were "Israel," by Mr. Holmes, humorous selections by Mr. Hayden and a violin solo by Mr. Audsley.

MOCK MARRIAGE.

Principal Feature of Concert Held at Calvary Baptist Church.

A successful mock marriage and concert was given in Calvary Baptist church, last evening, before a large audience. The first part of the programme consisted of recitations and dialogues by twenty-six young men and women and a well-rendered solo by William Johnson.

The participants in the mock marriage were as follows: Groom, Samuel Read; bride, Miss Rosa Roe; best man, William Johnson; bridemaid, Miss Clara Carey; minister, George H. Jones; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hancock. Afterward adjournment was taken to the basement, where refreshments were served.

Funeral of Miss Huff.

A large number of people attended the funeral of the late Miss M. Grace Huff, who passed away Tuesday, at her home at 111 New street this morning. The services were conducted at the house this morning at 9 o'clock and at 10 o'clock from St. Mary's church, where Rev. Father Egan officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery and the remains were borne to the place of rest by the following pallbearers: Albert Matthews, Thomas Breen, Theodore Shirley, William Westphal, Edward Townley and Wm. Townley.

Plainfielders at New York Teas.

Two interesting social affairs of yesterday afternoon were the teas given in New York, one by Mrs. Charles J. Fisk and the other by Mrs. Lee Ashley Grace. At each one there were a number of Plainfielders and the affairs were very delightful. Both of these women will continue these teas on Thursday afternoons during the rest of January.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Miss Morrison, of Dunellen avenue, has recovered from a recent illness.

Mrs. William Demarest, of Stone street, has entirely recovered from her recent severe illness.

Frank Stiglitz, of 815 West Fourth street, was taken to the hospital yesterday to be treated for an attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. W. J. Luckey, of West Second street, has returned home after spending several days with friends in New York State.

The Misses Della and Tina Voehl, who have been spending the past few days in New York, Brooklyn and Bayonne, where they have been the guests of friends, are expected home tomorrow.

WHIRLED ABOUT.

Frank Alexander Caught in the Machinery at Safe Works, and Just Escaped With Life.

Frank Alexander, an employe of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, sustained severe injuries while at work in the factory, yesterday afternoon, and but for the presence of mind of a fellow workman, would undoubtedly have met death.

He was passing by a revolving wheel which had a bolt projecting. The latter caught his clothing just below the knee and he was whirled about and into the machinery. A nearby mechanic reversed the machine in time to save him. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital where it was found his right leg had been badly torn and sprained and his head had been gashed.

CARNEY WAS THERE.

One of the Most Pleasant Features of Gathering at Cream Hollow.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haines, of Cream Hollow, entertained a large number of friends at their home last evening when seventy-five people enjoyed the evening in dancing and making merry until early this morning. Guests were present from this city, New York, Gladstone, Mt. Horeb, Warrenville and Bayonne.

Prof. Frazee's full orchestra was present and supplied the music for the dancing until midnight when a bountiful repast was served. A suitable prize was offered to the maker of the best cake on the table and it was awarded to Miss Ammons, of Mt. Bethel.

Miss Edith M. Custiman, of Gladstone, rendered several pleasing solos and introduced several new dancing specialties. John H. Carney, the well-known entertainer of the borough, was present and favored with some of his quaint dilect sketches which brought forth much applause.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Miss Lou Young, of East Front street, will entertain the Lenox Whist Club at her home, Wednesday evening, January 21.

Received Deed for Building.

The deed transferring the Schepflin property to Morris Abrams, the new owner, was received last evening by Mr. Abrams and it will be recorded today.

FACING STARVATION.

Thousands In Northern Sweden Are Destitute.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Telegrams from Stockholm, Sweden, confirm the distressing accounts of the famine in northern Sweden. About 70,000 persons are affected by the famine, which extends from the sixty-first to the sixty-seventh degree north latitude and from the gulf of Bothnia and the Russian border far into the interior. The starving people are eating pine bark, which is dried, ground to powder, mixed with stewed Iceland moss and made into a kind of famine bread.

Coincident with the failure of the crops is the extreme scarcity of fish. The fishermen return from their expeditions empty handed. Even ptarmigan (grouse of the northern regions), usually found in great numbers in the stricken district, have almost completely disappeared.

It is estimated that the expenditure of about $6,300,000 will be necessary to save the population from decimation. Thus far about $200,000 has been subscribed, of which sum over $12,500 was sent by Swedes in the United States. This amount does not include the money necessary to save the breed of cattle, which alone can live through an arctic winter, or supply seed for the spring sowings.

MURDER TRIAL FOR SOMERSET

County Authorities Believe That They Have Evidence to Convict Joseph Erner.

FOR MURDER OF DRIFF

He is Now in Jail at Somerville, and Prosecutor Says Grand Jury Will Indict Him for Homicide—Story of the Crime and Why Erner Was Suspected of the Deed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 17—Somerset county is to have another murder trial. Joseph Erner is now in the county jail here, charged with the murder of John Driff, of Bound Brook, early Christmas morning. County Prosecutor Griggs claims to have evidence which will, without doubt, result in the indictment of Erner by the next Grand Jury on the charge of homicide and which, the Prosecutor believes, will eventually result in the conviction of Erner in the county court.

When the murder first occurred, it was given out that there was no clue to the murder. At that time, however, the county authorities had their suspicions and County Detective Totten was assigned to the case. Since then he has been working industriously on it and last week secured the evidence which, he claims, will result in the conviction of Erner. This led to the issuance of a warrant for Erner and he was arrested last Monday by Detective Totten. The authorities so far have refused to divulge what the information was that the detective obtained.

Erner was arrested by Detective Totten as he stepped from a trolley car at the trolley station at Bound Brook. He was returning from his work at Dunellen where he was employed in a machine shop. He wept bitterly when told he was wanted for the murder of Driff, and denied having committed the crime. He continued to weep during the journey to the county jail, and his unusual behavior on the trolley car attracted general attention.

Erner is about thirty-five years old. He has a wife and three children, the youngest child is only four months old. He and a number of his kin known as the "Erners" live in a small settlement just north of the turnpike where it is crossed by the Chimney Rock railroad.

Erner was well acquainted with Driff, in fact Driff was his godfather. Erner was a pall bearer at Driff's funeral, and it is stated that his actions were so unusual when he saw the murdered man's body as to arouse the suspicion of Detective Totten.

Erner was also under the ban of suspicion from the fact that he was known to have been near the spot where Driff was found just previous to the murder. It was developed at the coroner's inquest that Erner and an Italian butcher quarrelled on Christmas eve at Bound Brook, and that Erner chased the Italian into Fazeko's saloon and threatened to kill him. Erner was ejected from the saloon and remained outside waiting for the Italian, but the Italian was afraid of Erner and remained in Fazeko's for the night. Driff was killed on the sidewalk about twenty-five feet from Fazeko's saloon by a blow on the head with a club which was found by his side.

One of the theories advanced at the time of the inquest was that Erner had mistaken Driff for the Italian in the dark, and on discovering his mistake had robbed his godfather to disown suspicion against himself. This theory was off set by the fact that there was an unknown highwayman in the neighborhood in which Driff was killed who had wielded the bludgeon for the purpose of robbery before.

The clubbing of old man Ross, who lived but a short distance from the scene of the Driff murder, a few months ago, was recalled. Ross who lived by himself and was believed to carry considerable money was struck from behind with a bludgeon in the hands of an unknown person, as he came out of his house at night. The blow almost killed him at the time and subsequently he became insane form the injury to his head.

The bludgeon found near Driff's body and now in possession of the authorities, is a nicely trimmed cedar club, several feet in length, that has evidently been in use for a long time. There are two wicked knots at the end of the club cleverly trimmed to crush the skull at a single blow.

Erner has retained Dungan & Reger as his counsel.

MAIL CARRIER TRIED FOR ABUSING HORSE

Wm. H. Ruckman Fines $40 for Using Horse Alleged to be Unfit to Drive About.

CASE WAS APPEALED

RUCKMAN CARRIES THE MAIL TO MT. BETHEL AND WATCHUNG.

Had Hearing Yesterday Afternoon Before Justice Mattison—Witnesses Testified That Animal Was Hardly Able to Move.

Charged with inhuman treatment of a horse, Mailcarrier William H. Ruckman, who carries the mail by wagon from this city to Mt. Bethel and points in that vicinity, was arraigned on complaint of Constable William N. Pangborn, a representative of the Society of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, before Justice William E. Mattison, yesterday afternoon, in the latter's court on Somerset street.

There was a large number of interested people in court when the case was called at 2 o'clock and among them were seven witnesses for the State. These were Freeholder Augustus Mobus, Chief Marshal William Campbell, George Totten, Township Clerk William Demler, Myrus Compton, Postmaster George Smith, of Watchung, and Special Officer William N. Pangborn. The latter acted as prosecutor. The defence was not represented by a lawyer. His only witness was Henry DeMott, undertaker, who testified as to the condition of the animal when it was housed in his stables.

It was declared that the defendant had been driving a horse which was disabled and was not fit for work. Witnesses testified that they saw the horse fall on Somerset street recently and that both knees were cut through to the bone. In spite of the warning of Officer Pangborn, it was alleged that Ruckman continued to drive the anmial when the horse was hardly able to move.

In summing up his case, Justice Mattison said that if he, the defendant, had bid for the contract of hauling the mails too low he would have to arrange to drive a better horse or arrange some other way of carrying the mails to and from Mt. Bethel. He fined the man $40 and costs, or commitment in jail until the fine was paid. The case was at once appealed and Ruckman's brother, B. F. Ruckman, of this city, went his bond.

Today State Officer Colonel Edwards, of Newark, will be in this city and will look at the animal.

CASE WAS DISMISSED WHILE SHE WAITED

The Complaintant in Chicken Thief Case Says She Was to Wait Until Notified.

AND SO SHE WAITED

MEANWHLE THE TWO MEN, CHARGED WITH STEALING, WERE DISCHARGED.

Hearing in Case Was to Have Been Held Before Justice Smalley Yesterday Afternoon—The Court Was Held in a Pool Room.

Over the green cover of a pool table in a room in the rear of a saloon justice was meted out yesterday afternoon by David Smalley, justice of the peace. The case in hand was that of two men who were charged with having broken into and stolen several chickens from the coop of Mrs. Shotwell, of Pearl street. The case was announced to be called at 3 o'clock but for some reason it was called an hour earlier.

The poolroom-court was crowded when Justice Smalley rapped with his lead pencil gavel that the Court would come to order but when the complainant was called no one was present to press the complaints.

The two men on trial, John Morecraft and Harry F. Hayes had secured William G. DeMeza as their counsel and he at once moved for a dismissal of the case on the ground that there was no one present to press the complaint. Justice Smalley, after a brief discussion, discharged the men.

After the case was over word was sent to Mrs. Shotwell, who was at her home on Pearl street, where she had been waiting for almost an hour, and where she says she was told to wait until she was wanted as witness, so that she would not have to have such a long wait in a poolroom.

She was highly indignant at not being called to testify to the court against the men. When seen by a Press reporter and akked why she did not appear said:

"I was told to wait at my house until I was wanted to testify so that I would not be obliged to wait in the room so long before it was my turn to testify. The first I knew of the case being over was when Officer Myers came to my house and told me that the case was over."

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED.

Miss Florence B. Vreeland Has Become Wife of A. M. Lederer.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Florence B. Vreeland, daughter of the late Frank Vreeland, of Easton, Pa., who has been residing with relatives in this city for the past year, and Albert M. Lederer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lederer, of this city. They were married November 16, in the parsonage of the First Presbyterian church at Madison by Rev. William Russell Bennett, pastor of that church. Mr. and Mrs. Lederer are now residing on Fairview avenue.

New Station in Jersey.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company has opened a new station three miles east of Phillipsburg, to be known as Apha. It is named for a new town which has been built there during the past two years. The old station half a mile east of Phillipsburg, known as Whittaker, has been abandoned.

Contests With Rahway.

Arrangements are being made for a series of games between the local Y. M. C. A. and Rahway for games of bowling and basket ball. The bowling games will not be rolled on the same night as the basket ball is played as one detracts from the interest in the other game.

New Quarters.

Lafayette Rosenstiehl, the Somerset street barber, will move into his new store and flat in his new building on Somerset street on or about the first of the month. The interior of the building is now almost completed and only the finishing touches need be applied.

New Members.

At the regular meeting of Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening, five new members were elected and several applications were received. The new members will be initiated Friday evening, January 23.

First Secret Lodge.

The first secret lodge at Columbia, Warren county, will be installed Tuesday evening, when a new lodge of Odd Fellows will be instituted. The town has a population of 250.

WILL INDICT "SPEAK EASIES"

The Local Police Have Been Quietly Collecting Evidence in These Cases.

NOW THEY ARE READY

Grand Jury Will Consider the Cases and a Big Bunch of Indictments is Expected—Many Subpœnas Have Been Issued.

A bombshell which the local police department has been preparing for the past six or eight months will drop inside the camp of this city's "speak easy" keepers when the Grand Jury opens Monday. The plans have been conducted so quietly very few of the parties concerned were "wise" until Friday when constables went about serving subpœnas. The latter have been distributed to the number of fifty and it is declared the combined evidence will result in more arrests for illegal liquor selling than has ever been made before.

It has been Chief Kiely's aim for the past year to wipe out these violators and for that reason he has had patrolmen posted about the suspected places on various occasions. Instead of having the sellers brought before the city court, where a mass of evidence is needed to secure a conviction, he has completed all plans to lay the matter before higher authorities.

The arrests will also include many small store keepers who, it is said, have been in the habit of disposing liquor on Sundays.

UNDERTAKER IS AFTER HIM

GEORGE COLE HAS SWORN OUT WARRANT AGAINST SAMUEL MANNING.

Claims That Man Passed Worthless Check on Him Two Weeks Ago—Arrested in Elizabeth.

A man who claims that his name is Samuel Manning and his residence as Somerville, was arrested in Elizabeth, yesterday, on a charge of passing worthless checks. The man, it is alleged, passed a check for $50 on George Cole, the undertaker, two weeks ago, after engaging Mr. Cole to bury his wife, who he claimed had just died. Manning told the undertaker that he wanted to make a few purchases in Plainfield before returning home and asked Mr. Cole to advance him something on the check, which Mr. Cole did. It was afterwards learned that the check was no good.

Yesterday it was learned that the man was in Elizabeth and had beea arrested. Mr. Cole went to Elizabeth yesterday afternoon, identified the man, and this morning he went before Justice Nash and made a complaint. The justice issued the necessary legal papers, which will be forwarded to Elizabeth, and as the Grand Jury meets Monday, it is likely that the case will be considered at the present term.

BOWLING THIS TIME.

Contest on the Alleys Was the Chief Feature of Meeting of Friday Night Club.

The second meeting of the Friday Night Club was held last evening at the Casino when there were quite as many present as there were a week ago. The ping pong tournament, which was a feature of the meeting a week ago, was not played last evening but instead a bowling tournament was held among the women. Miss Brown was the winner and Msis Mary Anderson Reinhart and Mrs. John D. Miller tied for second place.

Badmington and ping pong were enjoyed on the main floor of the building while in other parts cards and pool and billiards were the means of spending a very pleasant evening. The ping pong tournament will be played off next week Friday when the prize of a loving cup will be awarded to the winner.

Dancing Class.

Miss Maude Davenport's dancing classes met at the Park Club, yesterday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon the younger people were present, while the evening session was devoted to older persons. Much success has attended Miss Davenport this year in her efforts.

PARKS CAPTURED ONE; JUST MISSED OTHERS

Park Club and Roselle Casino Bowled Series on Park Club Alleys Last Night.

ONE RECORD BREAKER

IN THE SECOND GAME, PARKS WON BY REMARKABLE SCORE OF 878.

First Game Was Lost by Only Nine Pins, and the Third Game Should Have Gone to the Local Bowlers—The Score in Detail.

Out of the three bowling games rolled last evening between the Park Club and Roselle Casino teams on the Park Club alleys, the home team succeeded in winning one, the second, and they came mighty close to winning the other two. A little hard luck at times when better effort would have counted a great deal, was responsible for the loss of two games. The home team, as a whole, bowled better last evening than at any time this season. In a number of instances high scores were the rule and the Parks carried off the honors in this respect. Especially was this true in the second game, when they made a grand finish. W. R. Faber and Dr. Thiers rolled like veterans, each making six strikes. Faber made a score of 220 in that game and Dr. Thiers rolled a score of 188. With such an effort the visitors could not hope to win this game which was finished with a total score of 878 as against 750 for the visitors.

The visitors won the first game by only nine pins and the third game by forty-six pins. Nearly everyone believed that the Parks should have won all three games, but luck was against this. As the scores were so close, owing to the teams being matched so evenly, there was great enthusiasm among the supporters of the home team.

With the exception of Morris J. Dumont, who fell off materially in the third game, every one of the Parks did good work, as the scores will show. As for the visitors, they rolled a trifle stronger. Mulford was high man with a score of 203 in the first game, while Howe's scores were very good. The other members of the team held up their end of the game, making it possible for the team to carry off the honors.

Ralph Willis rolled in the first game for the Parks, but afterward his place was taken by William A. Townsend, who did excellent work. The scores are as follows:

PARKS.

	1st	2d	3d
F. O. Ball	156	157	167
Morris J. Dumont	185	143	117
Ralph Willis	127

MISS LORTON'S SURPRISE.

Friends Dropped In at Her Home Last Evening.

A birthday surprise party was given in honor of Miss Ethel Lorton at her home on Watchung avenue, last evening by her cousin, Harvey Morrison. Games and dancing were the main features of the evening. Among those present were the Misses Jessie Hill, Florence and Clara Kanen, Edith Glaentzer, Amy Moore, Ethel VanWinkle, Luella Day, Etta Trembley, Edna Oakley, Bertha Manning, Hazel Morrison, Sarah Hopewell and Ethel Lorton; Leo Moore, Raymond Harvey, Vincent Meaney, George Wilson, Jack Burke, Herbert Dobbs, John Harper, John Lyness, Alfred Keenan, Leslie Palmer, Irving Walsh and Harvey Morrison.

The young people had a most enjoyable evennig and so did "Aunt Mary" Force, who is nearing her eighty-eighth birthday. She did not tire of seeing the young people play games, dance, etc., and refused to retire until all had departed for home. During the evening refreshments were served.

Informal Tea.

A very informal tea was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Joseph O. Osgood, of Myrtle avenue, for a limited number of friends, the guests numbering nearly thirty. The affair was purely social and a most pleasant afternoon was spent.

DIDN'T GET LICENSE FOR FANWOOD HOTEL

Hotel Itself Hadn't Materialized Sufficiently to Comply With the Law.

TWO ROOMS FINISHED

PROPRIETOR FRANK E. NICHOLS SAID IT WOULD HAVE TWENTY-TWO.

Hearing on Application for License in Fanwood Township at Elizabeth Yesterday—The Several Remonstrances Were Filed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 17—In the Court of Common Pleas yesterday the matter of the application of Frank E. Nichols to keep an inn and tavern on Morse avenue in the township of Fanwood, against which there were three remonstrances, was brought up. The application was refused.

The applicant, represented by Lawyer English, said that he had been a resident of this county about one month, that he came here from Rosseville, Pa., where for four years he had been engaged in the hotel business.

He recently purchased the property and at once began the erection of a hotel building 50x30 feet, which when completed would contain twenty-two rooms in all.

Nichols, when closely questioned, admitted that when on January 1, he presented his application to the court, there were but two of the twenty-two rooms completed, and that up to the present time no other rooms could be considered as being in a habitable condition. In one of the two rooms finished, there were two white iron enameled beds, in the other a bed lounge, which he had procured from the proprietor of Galvin's Park, and for which he had agreed to pay $1.50.

Nichols testified that he had conversed with each of the signers to his application with the exception of a Mr. Reed, and that all of them had informed him that they were freeholders and legally qualified to sign.

The barn he had erected for the accommodation of horses was of rough boards, and the cracks between the boards at the present time were sufficiently large to see through. This he proposed to have speedily remedied.

Cross-examined by Paul Q. Oliver, counsel for the objectors, Nichols admitted that as yet the building was without chimneys. Two, however, would shortly be built, one at either end of the hotel to run up from the ontside.

It was further shown that in order to complete the building a force of 14 carpenters had been employed daily, Sundays included.

The court held that there was no necessity of obliging the objectors to proceed further in an attempt to show that the hotel was not required, because the applicant had not complied with the requirements of the law in asking for it. When the application was made the building was not in a habitable condition, and was not so at the present time.

Mr. English asked that the court permit the applicant to withdraw his application. This was denied because of the fact that the merits of the case had been gone into. The license was refused.

OVERCOME ON STREET.

Woman Taken With Epileptic Fit—Removed to Police Headquarters.

Shortly after being ejected from one of the Elizabeth cars, Mrs. Eliza Robinson, a colored woman whose home is in Roselle, was seized with an epileptic fit at the corner of Watchung avenue and Second street, late last night. She fell to the pavement and received a blow on the head which rendered her unconscious. In this condition she was found at 1 o'clock by Patrolmen Quaas and Saffron who had her removed to police headquarters.

Restoratives were applied but it was nearly 2 o'clock before she recovered her senses. As cases of this nature are not admitted to Muhlenberg Hospital, she was detained at the station until this morning when she was sent home.

Colored Man Broke Out of New Brunswick's Isolation Hospital—Was Captured.

HE STARTED THIS WAY

Local Police and Health Authorities Were Waiting for Him at Trolley Terminus, But He Didn't Appear—Was Captured at New Brunswick After a Fight.

The local police and health board authorities had a little scare, last evening, that sent officials from both scurrying to the western and southern outskirts of the city in search of a colored man suffering with small-pox who had broken out of the isolation hospital at New Brunswick. An embargo was placed on the Bound Brook and Dunellen cars and all roads leading from South Plainfield were carefully patrolled. Relief came shortly before midnight when word from New Brnuswick stated the fellow had been captured and safely housed.

The man has been in the New Brunswick isolation hospital suffering with a bad form of small-pox. He would have been released in one week but at present his condition is at the danger period. Early last evening he made his way out of the place and as he has friends in this city it was thought he would at once come here. Chief Kiely was informed by telephone and he in turn notified Inspector Addis of the Health Board.

The latter immediately donned his germ proof clothing and, driving to the Dunellen terminus, warned the conductors of cars on both the local and Bound Brook lines not to let him ride. Policemen were also despatched to the southern outskirts and carefully guarded every avenue of entrance to town. The cordon was maintained until the second word came from New Brunswick.

According to the New Brunswick police, the patient was aiming for Plainfield but kept under cover for some time after he made his way out of the hospital. He was caught near Franklin Park but only suffered himself to be retaken after a desperate struggle. The officers fought him for a long time and were finally forced to bind him with ropes and tie him in a wagon.

FATAL COAL GAS.

Killed Man in South Bound Brook Last Night—His Wife in a Critical Condition.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Jan. 17 — Thomas Crook, aged fifty years, was found dead this morning in his bed, having been asphixiated by fumes from a coal heater. His wife was found in an unconscious condition but it is believed that her life will be saved.

Crook was employed by the American Engine Company as machinist but lived in South Bound Brook. Yesterday the heater became out of order and a neighbor, John Vechte, stopped in to help repair it. This morning he went in to see how the heater was working and found the dead body of the husband in bed. The woman was removed to other quarters.

Sang New Songs.

Thirty-five of the singers of the Park Avenue Baptist church and Sunday-school met at the home of Mrs. Hawkins, of East Seventh street, last evening to sing the hymns in a new opening and closing exercise book which Superintendent G. E. Hall has bought for the school. Following the singing a delightful social hour was enjoyed, during which refreshments were served.

Suspicious Character.

The presence of a suspicious character in the neighborhood of Harrison avenue during the past few nights has alarmed the people living in that section. Several nights ago an attempt was made to effect an entrance into the West End Engine Company but the intruders were frightened away before they had gained admission to the fire house.

Birthday Was Celebrated.

A pleasant birthday party was held last evening at the home of Miss Helen Roberts, of Prospect place, in honor of her eighth birthday. The afternoon was very pleasantly spent in singing, listening to music, and playing games until a late hour when refreshments were served.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Primary Election Commission has reported a simple and effective plan of purifying the fountain of political affairs. If the act is passed, without material change, the gravest abuse of our political system will be in a fair way to be cured, nor is the expense so great as to cause any reasonable criticism, although the reform is so important that the question of cost should not be considered where efficiency is concerned.

There will be much opposition to the Primary Reform Act. Professional politicans who have held power and dictated nominations for both parties, by demoralizing the primaries, will endeavor to defeat the law and, their control of legislation is so great that they are likely to succeed, unless public sentiment is thoroughly aroused and legislators learn to fear the people more than the bosses.—Newark Call.

THEATRICAL.

One of the most quotable musical comedies that has come to Broadway in many seasons is "The Sultan of Sulu," at Wallack's Theatre, New York, in which Humorist George Ade has used for stage purposes the clever talent that has made his famous "Fables in Slang" so widely popular. Henry W. Savage's production of the Ade-Wathall musical satire appears to have made the hit of the year at Wallack's and the critics are predicting an unlimited run for the merry "Sultan" and his array of bewitching wives. Mr. Ade's humorous shafts are making New Yorkers laugh and have already found their way to clubdom and society.

Very extensive alterations in the stage at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, are being made for the presentation of Klaw & Erlanger's production of the latest Drury Lane spectacle, "Mr. Blue Beard," at this house Wednesday evening of next week, where it will make a long run. This extravaganza will be staged in fifteen massive scenes. During the performance fully sixteen hundred different costumes will be worn by a company, chorus and ballet of over four hundred people. There will be two great ballets presented, one called "The Land of Ferns" and the other "The Triumph of the Magic Fan." But scenery and costumes do not make up an entire production. John J. McNally, the author of the Rogers Brothers' farces, has written an entirely new book for "Mr. Blue Beard" and Frederick Solomon has provided a new score of popular music. The predominant interest of the story will be comic and it will be told with the spirit and dash that have contributed so much to the popularity of Klaw & Erlanger's musical entertainments. A large number of very original and attractive specialties will also have a place in the programme. While "Mr. Blue Beard" will be a production similar to "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" of last season, it will be of greater magnitude in the number of people employed, and far more gorgeous in the scenic embellishments and the costuming.

Shake Off Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, January 27. Train leaves New York, foot of Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day leave Washington at 9:50 p. m., January 28, and arrive Jacksonville at 7:40 p. m., January 29. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en-route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington. The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. Its free for the asking. 1 10 5 eod c 2

KODOL Digests What You Eat

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammeled action.

DOINGS OF SPORTSMEN.

Dark Outlook For the Yanger-Mowatt Fight at Chicago.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 17.—Governor Yates has sent a letter to Sheriff Barrett of Cook county calling that official's attention to the prizefight scheduled to be fought before the American Athletic club of Chicago next Monday night between Benny Yanger and Young Mowatt.

The governor calls the sheriff's attention to section 23 of the criminal code, which prohibits prizefights, and to section 235, prohibiting sparring and boxing exhibitions, and declares the proposed fight or exhibition will be clearly in violation of the law and that action should be taken by the sheriff to prevent the same. However, the governor adds, if the sheriff knows of any statute under which such fight or sparring exhibition can be permitted the governor requests Sheriff Barrett to inform him immediately.

Racing at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—In the six furlong handicap at Oakland yesterday clever sprinters went to the post, with Byron Rose the favorite. Money Muss raced out with Sad Sam and killed him off. Minder avoided the early pace and, taking the rail, landed Byron Rose a winner. Two horses fell in the hurdle handicap. Red Steel went down at the first jump and later leaped the fence. Corrillo also fell early in the race. Both riders escaped injury.

New Orleans Results.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17.—Rain made the track heavy and upset all calculations. Ahumada, who made a show of his field, and Amigari, who won with almost equal ease, were the only successful favorites. Imp. Corbleots Bay was claimed out of the first race for $1,115 by K. D. Orr. After winning the last race Boundlee was run up to $1,005 and bought by Cash Sloan. Ben Rigby, the jockey fresh from a European campaign, arrived.

Reardon Takes Wing Shot Prize.

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 17.—Maurice Reardon, a Hamilton wing shot, won first money in the Grand Canadian handicap, $500, the big event at the Hamilton Gun club's five day tournament. He alone of the forty-one competitors made a straight score, and when he killed his twentieth bird he was given an ovation. Many of the best wing shots in Canada and the United States competed in the big event.

Harvard Ball Player Disqualified.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 17.—Orville G. Frantz, the Harvard baseball player, has been permanently disqualified from taking part in Harvard athletics. Frantz made his reputation as a first baseman two years ago. Last spring he announced to the athletic committee that seven or eight years ago he played ball in the west and received $12 a week for expenses.

Yale Defeats Princeton.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 17.—In the first of the intercollegiate series of basket ball games Yale defeated Princeton at the Yale gymnasium by the score of 30 to 9. One thousand persons witnessed the game, which was full of excitement. The Yale team outclassed the Princeton five.

Charter Oak Stake Changes.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 17.—The proprietors of Charter Oak park at a meeting here decided to make the big Charter Oak stake open to 2:09 trots. The mark last year was 2:11. The stake will be contested for at the grand circuit meeting next fall.

Live Stock Convention Closed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 17.—The sixth annual convention of the national live stock convention adjourned to meet next year at Portland, Ore., after electing all the old officers for the ensuing year and taking the initiative in a systematic campaign of legislation against the proposed packing house merger. William M. Springer, general counsel of the association, in a spirited address outlined a bill which he has formulated "to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies" and which, he said, was merely an adaptation of the Sherman antitrust law and the Hoar bill, now pending in the senate.

Long Session of the Reichsrath.

VIENNA, Jan. 17.—The session of the reichsrath which began Thursday continued until 6 o'clock yesterday morning. The session has been continuous, and the reichsrath is still sitting this morning. There have been long obstruction speeches in the Czech language, with occasional outbreaks of disorder. The Czech minority is maintaining a quorum in relays. It is intended in an endeavor to break down obstruction to extend the session until tomorrow morning.

COLUMBIA'S TRAGEDY.

Gonzales Making a Plucky Fight For Life.

PHYSICIANS HOLD OUT LITTLE HOPE

Prayers In Schools and Senate For the Editor's Recovery—Tillman, Who Fired the Shot, Takes Things Calmly.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 17.—At last accounts Editor Gonzales was holding his own, but the doctors hold out little hope of his recovery from the bullet wound inflicted by Lieutenant Governor Tillman.

The best doctors in this part of the state are doing all they can to save his life. At the same time Mr. Gonzales is making a plucky fight for his life. As he has a strong constitution, excellent habits and a resolute will it is thought there is a chance he may pull through notwithstanding his critical condition and the very serious nature of the wound. His condition and the details of the tragedy are almost the only topics of conversation in South Carolina. Telegrams have come from all parts of the state and from many places beyond its borders expressing sympathy and asking for the latest news as to his condition.

All day long sympathetic crowds gathered around the bulletin board on Main street and expressed ardent hopes for the recovery of the stricken man. All the information obtainable was the bulletins of the physician posted on the boards. No one, not even members of his family, was permitted to see the patient.

When the city schools assembled and prayers were said, they included an appeal to God for the recovery of Mr. Gonzales. At the South Carolina college prayers were offered for the recovery of the stricken editor, and even in the senate chamber, where Lieutenant Governor Tillman had presided shortly before the shooting, the chaplain prayed that the Almighty would save the life of Mr. Gonzales.

Lieutenant Governor James H. Tillman, who had done the shooting, took things quietly and calmly during the day in the county jail, where he had a comfortable room on the second floor. He had some new furniture brought to his place of confinement and made himself comfortable.

Some visitors called on him, but most of the day he spent in consultation with his lawyers—Congressman George W. Croft, former Judge C. W. Buchanan and Mr. Coleman L. Blease.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

Bill to Fine Users of Portraits For Advertising—A Hit at Tipsters.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Under the provisions of a measure introduced by Senator Fitzgerald a fine of $500 or imprisonment may be imposed for painting or posting on billboards as an advertisement the photograph of a person without his or her consent. It also restricts the size and character of posters.

The measure declares that no advertising license shall be issued unless there shall first be paid a fee of not less than $2,500 in cities of the first class, $1,000 in cities of the second class and $500 in any other incorporated town or village of any subdivision of the state.

Immediately upon the posting or painting of any advertisement upon any wall or structure in the state of New York the person or firm posting the same shall pay to the financial officer of the place where the sign is posted the sum of 2 cents for every square foot of space used for the purpose of such sign. One-half of this goes to the state of New York.

It shall also be unlawful to erect in cities of the first and second class to be used for advertising purposes any fence more than six feet in height or any sign upon any roof more than two feet in height or to paint upon any wall any sign containing more than fifty square feet in area.

Professional tipsters who proclaim that they can successfully forecast the result of contests of skill, speed, power and endurance by man or beast are hit hard in a bill introduced by Assemblyman Ulrich.

The bill amends section 351 of the penal code by substituting a new section, which prohibits the printing, writing or circulation of information foretelling the result of the contests mentioned.

Predictions in newspapers inserted as news and not as advertisements are not included in the prohibition.

Golf and amateur baseball and football games where no admission is charged will not be Sabbath breaking, so far as the law is concerned, if a bill introduced by Assemblyman McInerney becomes a law.

The bill leaves in the prohibited class shooting, hunting, fishing, playing, horse racing, gaming or other public sports, exercises or shows on Sunday and all "noise disturbing the peace of the day."

The act is to take effect Sept. 1, 1903.

Death of Judge Rumsey.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Former Supreme Court Judge William Rumsey is dead at his home, 200 West Fifty-sixth street. He was sixty-two years old and had been ailing for some time. William Rumsey was born in Bath, Steuben county, N. Y., in 1841. At one time he occupied a pre-eminent place in the Republican party. As a soldier, jurist and author he achieved brilliant success and was prominently named for governor.

Schools Without Fuel Closed.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—Two of the public schools of this city have been closed on account of the coal supply becoming exhausted.

WAS ROASTED ALIVE

Witness at Glenn Trial Tells of an American's Fate.

BODY WAS THROWN TO THE HOGS.

Horrible Deed of Samar Insurgents Narrated by an Eyewitness. An Inspector Attacked by Bolomen.

MANILA, Jan. 17.—At the continuation of the trial of Major Edwin F. Glenn of the Fifth infantry, who is charged with unlawfully killing seven prisoners of war in Samar, a Spaniard who was at one time held prisoner by the insurgents testified that while he was confined at the headquarters of General Lukban in Samar in May of 1900 he saw an American prisoner roasted to death. The Spaniard said sticks were driven into the man's body, and he was slowly turned over the fire until dead. The body was then left to be devoured by hogs. He did not know the man's name, but thought he was an officer. Several American officers and men were captured or reported missing in Samar in 1900, and the victim is believed to have been one of these.

Other witnesses reviewed the Balangiga, Gandara and Catubig massacres. The defense produced a letter written by the insurgent leader Guevarra, in which he admitted that the Balangiga massacre was contrary to the laws of war.

Captain Abraham P. Buffington of the First infantry testified that Brigadier General Jacob H. Smith frequently offered protection to the natives and urged them to come inside the American lines. Lieutenant Pratt testified that General Smith in his orders had directed that the war be waged against ablebodied men, not against women and children.

Constabulary Inspector Fletcher while traveling alone in the province of Albay, Luzon, last Wednesday was attacked by thirty bolomen. Fletcher killed five of his opponents, but was himself wounded. He escaped, however, and formed a party which pursued the bolomen, overtook them and killed six more.

Death sentence has been imposed upon one of the natives who murdered five American soldiers in the cemetery at Binangonan, Luzon, on Decoration day of last year.

A PHILADELPHIAN'S GIFT.

Will of Dr. James Bequeaths Funds For a Hospital and School.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—The will of Dr. Bushrod James of this city, just probated, devises to the city of Philadelphia $55,000, several pieces of real estate in this city and several lots at Island Beach, N. J., for the purpose of establishing a free hospital in this city for the treatment of diseases of the eye and ear. The will directs that the $55,000 be invested as an endowment fund, the income to be used for the maintenance of an institution for the examination and treatment of eye, nose, ear, throat and pulmonary diseases. The proposed hospital is to be called the Washington James Eye and Ear Institute.

Dr. James also gives to the city of Philadelphia three houses, books, relics, jewels and $40,000 as an endowment fund for a free public library, which shall contain especially books for children, the aged and the blind.

To the city of Oakland, Cal., Dr. James bequeaths a lot of ground to be known as Bushrod park, provided the same is cared for by that city and that no penal institution or other buildings objectionable to the neighborhood be erected thereon.

The will also devises to the city of Coronado, Cal., a lot of ground in that city in trust to erect thereon a school of instruction for young people, to be called the Bushrod Washington James Institute. For the maintenance of this institute two other lots of ground in the same city are given. The city of Coronado is required to accept the gift within a year.

In the will Dr. James states that he has given the American Temperance university of Harriman, Tenn., a property for the establishment of a school for the study of domestic science, and he devises to this school $5,000 for the endowment fund.

Disbrow Found Not Guilty.

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Louis A. Disbrow was acquitted on the charge of killing Clarence Foster at Good Ground on the night of June 9. The verdict was generally anticipated and was reached by the jury after very brief deliberation. The case for the prosecution was throughout weak, the strongest point made against the accused being that he was the last person seen with Foster and Miss Lawrence on the night of the tragedy. The contention of the defense was that Foster and the girl committed suicide.

Caught Hindes In Boston.

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—After having been chased across the country by Arizona officials, who wanted him on a charge of embezzlement, Justin T. Hindes was arrested here. High Sheriff Joseph J. Roberts of Prescott, Ariz., immediately served requisition papers upon Governor Bates from the governor of Arizona Territory, charging Hindes with being a fugitive from justice. Transactions in a mining enterprise are said to be the basis of the complaint against Hindes.

Sending Aid to Finnish Sufferers.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The Christian Herald has cabled to the Finnish relief committee at Helsingfors its first remittance of $5,000 for the relief of the suffering people of Finland. The Christian Herald is arranging to cable relief at the rate of $5,000 a week.

PRIVATE WAR CLAIMS.

House Passes a Large Number—A Lively Debate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The house devoted the day to private war claims, passing about twenty. The two features of the day were the defeat of a claim of B. F. Moody & Co. of Keokuk, Ia., for the payment of the amount deducted from their contract for furnishing equipment [illegible] Iowa cavalry by the famous commission which unearthed the army contract frauds in St. Louis in 1863 and the fight of Mr. Payne, the floor leader of the majority, against an omnibus resolution to refer ninety southern claims aggregating $400,000 for stores and supplies taken by the Union army during the civil war to the court of claims for finding of fact under the Tucker act.

The former bill led to a lively controversy between two Iowa members, Messrs. Smith and Hedge. Mr. Hitt (Ill.), the chairman of the foreign affairs committee, was the stenographer of the commission and was able personally to corroborate Mr. Hedge in his opposition to the bill. The combination in favor of the omnibus claims resolution was too strong for Mr. Payne, but on the final vote the quorum failed. As the previous question had been ordered the vote on the adoption of the resolution will be the first thing in order on the next claims day.

Cuban Treaty Safe.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—President Roosevelt has been assured by Senators Aldrich, Lodge and Spooner of their belief that the Cuban reciprocity treaty would be ratified by the senate.

FRENCH DEPUTY FAINTS.

Affair Causes Excitement During Debate on Breton Dialect.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—Much excitement was caused in the chamber of deputies yesterday afternoon by the fainting of M. de Baudry d'Assen. While the member was speaking he fell from the tribune unconscious. He was carried to an adjoining room, where he gradually recovered and later returned to the chamber.

The greater part of the sitting was devoted to the discussion of an interpellation on the government's circular forbidding the use of the Breton dialect in preaching and in catechising in the churches of Brittany. M. Lamy, Republican-Liberal deputy from Brittany, denounced the circular as vexatious and tyrannical. He said that over 740,000 inhabitants of Brittany could only speak Breton. "To forbid the teaching of the catechism in Breton is to suppress the Catholic religion in Brittany," he said. "It is also the suppression of the Breton dialect, one of the most precious idioms of France, which has a place in the literary history of the country."

Premier Combes defended the measure as necessary. He said the priests ought to be auxiliaries to the teachers and to aid in the propagation of the French language.

PROTECTION IN AUSTRIA.

Commercial Alliance With Hungary Establishing a High Customs Tariff.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 17.—In the lower house of the Hungarian parliament Premier Coloman de Szell informed the deputies that under the recent ausgleich agreement a customs alliance between Austria and Hungary had been concluded for ten years. The essential points of the agreement were identical with similar previous arrangements. The most important change is the establishment of a customs tariff common to the two countries and giving the products of each half of the monarchy equality of treatment in the other.

"Our object," said the premier, "is to prevent, by higher agricultural duties, the raw products, which are kept out of other states by a protectionist policy, being forced on this country in competition with our products. In view of Germany's considerable increase of industrial duties it has become necessary to afford the Austro-Hungary industry similar protection."

Panama Route Abandoned.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Preliminary negotiations of a treaty with Nicaragua and Costa Rica looking toward the construction of an interoceanic canal by the Nicaraguan route have been opened. Colombia has been thrown over. This is known from the statement of a high official of the state department. The president and Secretary Hay are thoroughly convinced that Colombia is insincere and that she desires, even less now than three months ago, to conclude a treaty.

New Yorker Killed In Wilkesbarre.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 17.—Leopold Adler, a well to do citizen of New York city, was in Glen Lyon, a town near here, transacting some business when he was run into by a bob sled which came down a steep hill at rapid speed. He was knocked down, and a blood vessel in his head burst. He was removed to the Hotel Sterling, this city, where he died in a short time. The body will be taken to New York.

Second White House Musicale.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Mrs. Roosevelt gave the second of her Friday evening musicales at the White House last evening. A large number of guests was present. There was a long programme of solos with the harp and cello and songs, the entertainment lasting from 10 o'clock until midnight.

Soldiers Buried at Arlington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Twenty private soldiers who lost their lives in the Philippines have been buried at Arlington National cemetery with the usual military honors. All the interments were made in what is known as the Spanish war section of the cemetery.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Fuel Continues Scarce—Great Staples Maintain Firm Tone.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Fuel shortage is still the one seriously disturbing element in the industrial situation. Transporting facilities have been diverted from other merchandise, to the disadvantage of shippers, yet iron furnaces are unable to secure sufficient supplies of coke, and many other manufacturing plants are closed because of inadequate coal deliveries. Mines are more fully operated, but there is no prospect of normal conditions until spring.

Quiet conditions in the iron and steel markets do not mean dullness or diminishing consumption, but merely the oversold conditions of furnaces and mills, together with great uncertainty about keeping plants active on a day to day supply of fuel. Inquiries are numerous, especially in structural lines, but makers are not ready to accept bids until the future appears more definite.

New plans constantly come forward for large office buildings, notably at the west, which means vigorous consumption of structural steel, and the demands from car builders is phenomenal. Billets still arrive from Germany and Belgium, and in most departments of this industry the prospective purchaser has difficulty in securing contracts for delivery at a specified date. Practically the entire capacity of the leading plants is already booked for six months.

Only moderate fluctuations have occurred in the great staples, with the tendency upward and a conspicuously firm tone in evidence. Foreign inquiries continue on a large scale, and in many cases there would be a much heavier export movement if the grain could be moved promptly to the seacoast. Shipments of wheat, including flour, from all ports of the United States for the week were 3,797,864 bushels as compared with 4,348,431 bushels in the corresponding week last year.

Increased receipts of live stock fail to depress prices. Cotton is also maintained at a steady position by lower crop estimates and a uniform consumptive demand. Higher prices have been charged for refined sugar, and raw grades are firm, but weakness is the feature in coffee, owing to excessive supplies at all points.

Failures for the week numbered 267 in the United States against 334 last year, and 38 in Canada compared with 40 a year ago.

CONVICTED OF MALFEASANCE.

Municipal Officers of Illinois Town Sentenced to Prison.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—The trial of Fred F. Vanderburg, mayor; William D. West, city clerk, and John Strycklin, commissioner of streets, of the city of Brooklyn, Ill., charged with malfeasance in office and conspiracy to defraud the city, which has been on in the St. Clair county circuit court for the last four days, came to an end when the jury returned a verdict finding all three men guilty as charged, says a dispatch to the Tribune from Belleville, Ill.

Vanderburg was given two years in the Chester penitentiary and a fine of $500, Strycklin received one year and was fined $250, and the punishment of West was left with the court.

The indictment charged that Strycklin had carried a number of "straw" men on his pay roll for several months with the knowledge and will of Vanderburg and West. Orders would be drawn on the treasurer for pay for these men, and Strycklin would then, according to previous agreement, divide up the money equally with his copartners.

INFLUENCE IS BAD.

Mine Officials Blame Union Before Strike Court.

SCRANTON COMPANY OPENS CASE.

Men Compelled to Load Equal Number of Cars, Thus Restricting the Output—Petty Strikes Were Frequent.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—Mine officials were called to the witness stand yesterday and informed the coal strike commissioners that under the influence of the union the mine workers restricted the production of anthracite coal and otherwise interfered with the discipline of the employees.

The Erie company, which controls the Pennsylvania Coal company and the Hillside Coal and Iron company, closed its case early in the day after calling a physician who testified to the good health of the mine workers.

The Scranton Coal company, which operates besides its own the collieries of the Elk Hill Coal and Iron company, then took up the attack on the demands of the miners. The Scranton and the Elk Hill companies turn their coal over to the New York, Ontario and Western railroad, which virtually controls them. The witnesses called testified generally that no blacklist exists, that the contract miners work on an average of from six to seven hours a day, that the local unions compel the men to load an equal number of cars, thus restricting the output; that the men are careless in obeying orders and that frequent petty strikes occur because a union man is dismissed for insubordination. One inside foreman in his testimony said the employment of a check weighman, insisted upon by the union, has proved to be a good thing for the company because the miners sent to the surface cleaner coal—that is, coal with very little impurities in it.

The accountant for the Scranton Coal company presented figures which showed that since a check docking boss was employed by the company at the request of the miners the dockage against the men has been reduced about one-half. The miners pay the wages of the check weighman and the check docking boss.

OVERDUE LINER SAFE.

Great Anxiety Had Been Felt Because of Nonarrival of St. Louis.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Much distress among people in this city was relieved by the announcement last evening that the ocean steamer St. Louis, more than five days overdue, had been sighted off Nantucket light.

It is very unusual for a steamship to be five days late, and in view of the fact that so much was said about the bad condition of the St. Louis' boilers great anxiety was felt by all persons who had friends or relatives on board.

According to the message received, the steamer was going dead slow. Signals were made to the South Shoal lightship, but owing to the fact that a heavy gale was blowing they were unintelligible. The slow rate of speed at which the St. Louis was traveling indicates that unless she should be assisted she will not reach New York until late today. Appearances indicated that the St. Louis was short of steam power, and the signals were thought to imply that trouble with her boilers had been experienced.

The St. Louis sailed from Southampton Jan. 3.

Ohio Miners Would Curb Judges.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17.—The Ohio miners' convention yesterday unanimously adopted a report of the special injunction committee, in which they will demand of congress the enactment of laws classifying the causes which are subject to the jurisdiction of federal judges, approval of injunctions by two elective judges before being issued, time limit to answer at thirty days, right of trial by jury where contempt is charged for alleged violation of injunction, the presenting of reasonable proof in application for injunction, under penalty of imprisonment, and demanding that the judge who issues the injunction shall not sit at the trial of the defendant.

Operations Against the Pretender.

TANGIER, Jan. 17.—The latest news received here from Fez indicates that operations against the pretender commenced Jan. 11. No official information has been received since that date, but rumors from Tetuan indicate that fresh disaster has overtaken the imperial forces. These rumors are considered to be quite credible because of the well known incapacity of the commanders who were intrusted with the expedition. The tribal outbreaks around Tangier continue, but the local authorities are taking stronger measures to suppress them.

Geneva School Girls Shocked.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—A special dispatch from Geneva, Switzerland, says: "The principals of a number of girls' schools have complained to the authorities that they could no longer take out the girls for their usual walks because they were shocked at seeing the crown princess of Saxony driving with Professor Giron." The Berlin police have forbidden the sale of postcards having on them portraits of the crown princess and Professor Giron together.

Threw Powder Into a Stove.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Mrs. Alexander Underhill of Saugerties was seriously injured as the result of throwing into her kitchen stove a package of blasting powder which she supposed to be seeds.

Weather Probabilities.

Cloudy, with occasional rain; fresh southwest winds.

IT WILL NOT WORK.

After several hundred thousand dollars have been spent by the State in paying one-third of the cost of building good roads in the different counties of the State, the Board of Freeholders of Somerset county expresses a desire that its legislators attempt to increase the State's share in road building to one-half. The reason for this action is undoubtedly the demands that are being made on the Somerset county Freeholders from all over that county for new roads. If the State would pay half then Somerset county would be enabled to build more roads than it can under the present arrangement whereby it pays two-thirds to the one-third contribution of the State.

Nobody doubts for a moment that such a change of policy would work to the advantage of Somerset county where the people are beginning to wake up to the advantages of good roads. The objection would come from other counties which have been building roads under the present act and naturally would object to see Somerset and the other conservative counties get advantages that were not given to the more progressive ones.

This change in the share of the State's appropriation is not a new one as it has been brought up in the Legislature before. At that time the argument against it was precisely that noted. It did not seem fair to the progressive counties to see those that had delayed road building until now reap the benefits that really ought to go to the up-to-date ones if any favoritism at all was to be shown. This argument effectually ended the proposal before and there is every reason to believe that it will kill Somerset's attempt to revive it.

Plainfield, through its representative in the lower house, Assemblyman William Newcorn, may expect to play an important part in the Legislature at Trenton this winter. Mr. Newcorn is not saying much as yet but he may be expected to figure prominently in this winter's session, particularly as he was taken care of in the appointment of committees.

Already there is talk about the anti-pigeon shooting bill and the opinions of the Assemblymen and Senators on the committees to which such legislation would be referred. Whatever is the fate of the bill, one thing seems assured and that is that the bill will not be lost in the hurry of the final days of the legislation as it was last winter.

It is understood that the Common Council will proceed to act without delay on Mayor Jenkins' recommendation regarding increased pay for the police, and that the subject will be brought up at the Common Council meeting Monday night. The police committee has not yet announced any details regarding the plans it has in view.

Now that it is known that a prominent Somerville politician hadn't the slightest chance of landing a particularly desirable "plum" for which his name was mentioned, he announces that he has never been a candidate for the place. It is remarkable sometimes how circumstances alter cases.

An ardent advocate of trap-shooting suggests that when live pigeon shooting is abolished on the ground of cruelty, it would be well to consider the tortures to the victim to be found in fishing with a hook.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

All winter stock of clothing, sweaters and nuderwear must be sold to make room for new goods at the New York Bargain Store, 324 West Front street.

The Belleview Avenue Nursery is now booking all orders for plants and shrubbery to be delivered at an time designated. The firm's store at the present time was never more complete.

A splendid line of fresh vegetables is being shown today by T. L. Walsh, of North avenue. It embraces most anything needed to complete dinner for tomorrow. Low prices are a specialty.

W. W. Dunn, the Park grocer, makes a specialty of fresh table vegetables and by dealing at his up-to-date store satisfaction is sure to result. His Florida oranges are very fine and his vegetables are unsurpassed.

S. Scheuer & Company, of West Front street, are still doing a big business at the old stand. Their stock of goods is never failing. It is of the best quality at the lowest market prices. The firm also maintains a first-class meat market.

Some of the best assortments of men's neckwear are to be found at J. R. Blair's haberdashery on Park avenue. Everything there is the latest style and one of the most complete lines of dress suit cases and satchels is to be found at his store.

Smalley Brothers, the North avenue butchers, have recently received a number of very fine fowls which they are selling off at very reasonable prices. Their meats are the best that can be procured and their prices are in conformity with the best meats on the market.

In the short length of time Dudley S. Miller has been conducting a drug store in Park avenue, he has made an excellent reputation for fair dealing, prompt and reliable service. He makes a strong feature of his prescription department. Mr. Miller has had years of experience and is thoroughly reliable.

When in need of anything in the jewelry line it is best to trade with a reliable dealer. Such a person is Charles E. Vail, of Park avenue. You can depend on what he tells you and he will not misrepresent goods. You will find his stock complete and for the best quality of goods his prices are right.

Rogers is a synonym for fish. Webster doesn't say so but the Rogers Seafood Company does. The firm has handled all sorts of deep sea denizens for years and its buyers know how to purchase in order to give customers the benefit. They take nothing but the freshest of fish and then only direct from the nets.

Local Praise.

Charles L. Lewis, of this city, says: "A rare treat is in store for all who have the good fortune to hear Mr. Chapin's 'Abraham Lincoln' at Y. M. C. A. Hall, Monday night. He has brought to this wonderful impersonation a sympatetic and exhaustive study of years and it is difficult to realise that this is an impersonation and not the actual living presence of the great martyr President. He has collected one of the finest Lincoln libraries in this country and every detail of dress, manner and matter of speech and personality has been studied and reproduced with remarkable fidelity to the great original."

Workmen Installing.

District Deputy Henry Nischwitz and Assistant Deputy J. W. A. Bauersachs, of this city, installed the officers of Haufnung Lodge, No. 62, A. O. U. W., of Hoboken, Thursday evening. On the previous evening they installed at Upchurch Lodge, of Westfield. The district is one of the largest in this section of the State and Deputy Nischwitz has control of some very important lodges.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The motorman and conductor on one of the Bound Brook trolleys had a peculiar experience last night. A man afflicted with small-pox is at large and it is said is in this vicinity. A stranger got on the car at this place whose appearance tallied with the description of the escaped small-pox victim. The motorman and conductor believed they had the man so they hurried the car to Bound Brook and informed the authorities there of their discovery. They found that the man was merely a harmless lunatic whose peculiar actions had led the trolley crew to believe they had the man whose description was advertised.

A very large number of the friends of James Wotten were present at the dance given by him last evening in Apgar Hall. Mr. Wotten, together with the patronesses, Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Wilcox and Mrs. DeLong, helped to make everyone enjoy themselves. Music was furnished by Wotten and dancing was kept up until a late hour. Friends of the host were present from Plainfield, New York and other places and the occasion was a very pleasant one.

A party of employes of the United States Express Company from New York and other places journeyed here and enjoyed the skating at New Market Tuesday night. Afterwards they spent the balance of the evening at the home of Mrs. Frances Hunt, where games, dancing and refreshments made the occasion an enjoyable one.

A large number from here went to Cranford, Wednesday night to witness the marriage of Miss Georgianna Reusch to Charles Cuckenburger, of Westfield. The bride is a relative of Paul Reusch, of this place.

Special prayer meeting was held in the Methodist church last evening and was attended by quite a large number.

The will of the late Henry V. Dunham was admitted to probate Monday. The bulk of the estate goes to the widow.

Ford, past ruler of the Order of the Golden Sceptre, went to Hoboken today, to visit Court Hudson, No. 26, where with the Supreme Court officers, the officers of Court Hudson, will be installed. Fourteen candidates will be initiated, the degree work will be exemplified and a turkey supper will be given. There will be representatives present from both grand and local courts from several States and a large time is expected.

Odd Fellows Install.

District Deputy John Becker, Jr., and staff, accompanied by many local Odd Fellows, visited Hansa Lodge, No. 145, I. O. O. F., of Elizabethport, last evening, and installed its officers. The work was accomplished in a thorough manner and the deputy was warmly commended. The Plainfielders afterward took part in an entertainment and collation.

Plans Not Here.

Some delay is now occasioned in the repairing of Music Hall, through the failure of the architect to have the plans in this city. They are expected any day and when they arrive work will commence in earnest. Mr. Sherman, the owner, has also been delayed in coming to Plainfield on account of business elsewhere.

MISS DAISY LEITER.

In Company of Her Mother She Will Visit the Coronation Durbar at Delhi, India.

Miss Margaret Leiter, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, of Washington and Chicago, will be one of the best gowned women at the durbar, Delhi, India, and her entire wardrobe is the product of her native city, Chicago. Miss Daisy, as she is more familiarly known to the public, has always said that she obtained more satisfactory results by having her gowns designed in Chicago than in New York, Paris and London. When Mrs. Leiter decided to accept the invitation of her son-in-law, Lord Curzon, viceroy of India, and attend the great historic pageant known as the durbar, or crowning of the emperor of India, the momentous question rose of preparing suitable toilets for the grand event. Miss Daisy unhesitatingly said that she would obtain all she needed in Chicago. It has been stated that Mrs. and Miss Leiter carried with them abroad the most complete wardrobe ever taken from this country. Twenty-five trunks were required for the gowns, and other less delicate articles were sent in shipping boxes. In order to avoid any misunderstanding, either on arriving in England, where they first landed, or on their return to this country, Mr. Leiter had a complete inventory made of the ladies' gowns, jewels and lingerie and placed a copy in the hands of the United States customs officers in New York and sent another copy to the officials of England. This is the first time such a course has been adopted, and Mr. Leiter believes that he has spared his wife and daughter much trouble and annoyance. Miss Leiter has visited India before, but this is Mrs. Leiter's first venture into that mystical land. The ladies will remain in Delhi until February and will then go to Simla.

WOMAN BANK PRESIDENT.

Management of an Important New York Fiscal Institution Offered to Indiana Lady.

The organizers of a new bank for women in New York, who are said to already have secured promises of a clientage that will give the bank $5,000,000 in deposits in the first year, have offered the presidency of the institution to Mrs. Sarah F. Dick, of Huntington, Ind., who for years was the only woman bank cashier in the country. Mrs. Dick, who is the wife of a Huntington merchant, went into the First national there as assistant cashier in 1873. Her father was then cashier of the bank. When her father, John McGrew, became president of the bank in 1881 his daughter was chosen by the board of directors to succeed him as cashier. This position she held until recently. Her father declared he had never been able to find a man who was as good a judge of men as his daughter, and who made as few mistakes in making loans as she.

Mrs. Dick has declined the New York offer, in spite of the fact that a splendid salary was attached to the position.

How Smoke Is Utilized.

A novel method of getting rid of black smoke, and at the same time turning it to practical use, is now being adopted in some Belgian factories. The smoke is driven by fans into a porous receptacle over which flows a stream of petroleum or similar liquid. The smoke is thus caught and turned into a gas that gives great heat, and can be used for running gas engines.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Drug Clerk Picks Up Three Young Skunks Under the Impression That They Were Angoras.

Music surely hath charms when it brings to the surface from their burrow three handsome skunk kittens. This, says the Hartford (Conn.) Times, was the case on Sunday afternoon at Riverside park while the band concert was being rendered to thousands of people. The country boy may be green; he may be given even the title of "hayseed," but he knows a thing or two about skunk kittens.

Not so with the young helper in a Main street drug store. He was lacking the wisdom of the farm boy on this particular occasion. He wandered about the park in his Sunday clothes, and he was decidedly smart in appearance. As he meandered along the edge of the grove a little way apart from the crowd he espied three little skunk kittens—"regular beauties." He thought they were young Angoras, and he immediately picked them up and started for home.

The kittens were quiet for awhile, but that was caused more by fright than by natural instinct. As he struck into Morgan street a smell reached his nostrils that he recognized but couldn't locate. It seemed to be in his neighborhood all the time, and before he got to Front street the citizens and noncitizens of that locality were scattering in different directions, and all eyeing him in open-mouthed astonishment.

When he got to his place of business the proprietor took in the situation at a glance, and, plainly speaking, "fired out" the young man and his three skunk kittens, telling him what he had rolled in his arms at the same time. He dropped them outside the store, and it was then he came to his senses. The kittens were killed and then the young man turned to his employer and pietously asked: "What will I do?" The reply was:

"Go bury yourself."

CEMETERY FOR CATS.

Three Little Children of Norwich, Conn., Have Started a Unique Burial Ground.

"Cat Dale Cemetery" is the name three little children of Nelson place have given a burying ground at Norwich, Conn., which they have started for cats. It is not very populous just yet, but the children are hunting the neighborhood for the kind of cats that need burying.

A "cat funeral," as conducted by these youngsters, is one of the most imposing spectacles of the town. A wooden box is carefully lined and papered, the cat is placed in it and the top is nailed on. After the grave is filled in the children busy themselves writing epitaphs. The epitaphs over the two cat graves in the cemetery are as follows:

"Tom Goodwin. Died 8th of August, 1902. Tom died about the middle of the morning, August 8th. Emily Goodwin's cat. It was a good cat in its life. It was treated good and had a good home and had plenty to eat. This little girl felt very sorry to have her little pet die. It was the only one she had. But she was good to every dumb creature. She took care of it very well. Tom is dead now ..."

The children did not know so much about the second cat.

"Died on August 6, 1902. Good and noble in his life. A gray cat Lide on Whittaker's lorn on August 6. 19 and two. Some naughty boys threw it into a barel and threw some sand in its eyes. Suffered by some disease. Fed it and it would not eat. We named it Freddie. But now it is dead. Dide at 3:30 this afternoon. It is cut of its musery. Poor little thing. it is dead now."

DAINTY EFFECTS.

Tassels and Embroideries Figure on Many Gowns.

A popular fancy dies hard, and the blouse still lives to defy its detractors. For winter wear it is made of white cloth or white nuns' veiling, and elaborate insertions of Irish lace vie with stripes of Russian embroidery for the privilege of trimming it.

A remarkably pretty effect is achieved at a small cost by embroidering in colored cottons on a white flannel blouse.

Embroidery touches are now seen on nearly all the handsomer gowns. A gray zibeline costume in particular bore as its decoration straps of black velvet, hand embroidered in white silk in a small leaf design.

Tassels of every sort are a popular trimming. Pure black and pure white are of course favorites, but Persian tassels, combining all the colors of the rainbow, and tassels of cut amber pears and crystals are much worn and make a handsome effect on dressy gowns.

The pretty little coffee coat in the illustration is of pale pink brocade and accordion plaited chiffon. The undersleeves and main part of the body are of accordion plaited chiffon. The bolero and the sleeve uppers are made of brocade edged with mink.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART HATS.

The Fashionable Shapes Are All Large.

Such a thing as a small toque or turban is not obtainable. All the shapes are much larger this year.

Some of the picture hats are really enormous, but have beautiful curves, the best being copied from old prints. White felt, white beaver and white caracal hats are much worn in Paris. A bordering of dark green leaves on a white picture hat is very effective, especially if the wearer puts some green chiffon about her neck and keeps the rest white.

White is really a craze and is likely to continue so.

It is permissible to utilize one's summer dresses for indoor wear, and the clever woman makes many little changes in this manner. The veilings and crepe de chines can be given a heavier appearance by the addition of heavy guipure collars.

The jaunty sailor hat here shown is of champagne colored cloth, bordered along the brim with a wide band of reseda velvet. The hat has a soft crown, surrounded by a reseda velvet band finished on one side by a pearl and steel ornament, while on the opposite side clusters of reseda ostrich tips are arranged most picturesquely.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Memory Lesson.

"It seems to me," said the worried looking man, "that memory is very much a matter of habit. Now, for instance, there's the umbrella, generally supposed to be the most easily forgotten of all things. I never forget mine, for I am accustomed to carry it daily, rain or shine, and I should miss it almost as much as I would my hat.

"But I am not accustomed to carry parcels home, so in order to remember them I manage in this way:

"I carry my luggage in a certain number of pieces. I have, say, big parcel, little parcel, two overcoats and umbrella. When I enter or leave the train, I know that I ought to have five pieces, and I never forget them. Another way of remembering is to put the package on the floor of the carriage where I must stumble over it in going out. The other way is to carry it in my lap or to lean it up against me so that it will fall and attract my attention when I get up. If I neglect to take one of these precautionary measures the package is gone."

EVENING GOWNS.

The Useful All Black Gown—Revival of Jet.

Women with small dress allowances will do well to invest in an all black evening gown. It is useful for a hundred and one occasions and always smart, and the wearer never appears overdressed.

Jet is being worn again. It is a good idea to have a demitoilet blouse of inexpensive chiffon to wear in turn with a full dress bodice, for nowadays the latter is hardly a necessity at hotels and the quieter restaurants, while even at the opera one is glad occasionally of the demitoilet blouse.

Chiffon voile is a new fabric which will be much patronized for evening frocks this year. It has the airy appearance of chiffon, besides having admirable wearing properties. The gauzes and flowered crepes de chine are very suitable for either dinner or dance gowns.

If a girl has a good maid, a good figure, wears good corsets and knows how to put her clothes on, she ought to be able to make charming frocks at home at a small cost. Baby bodices are so becoming to young figures they depend principally for their success on a piece of good lace and a properly adjusted waistband or sash, but they must be put on with care and over properly adjusted corsets.

The illustration shows an elaborate dinner dress. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SIMPLE EFFECTS.

They Are Possible to the Woman With a Good Figure.

The corset of today seems to consist of nothing but a few strands of ribbon, but there is more to it than meets the eye, and never was this garment more difficult to make. There are certain things which every woman who aspires to be well dressed must spend her money on—namely, her corsets, her headgear and her boots. Once she has these important accessories correct, she will find it wonderfully easy to appear well dressed at a small cost. It was quite a different matter in the days of tightly boned bodices, but now a graceful figure can wear the simplest stuffs and designs and look better in them than many do in a French model frock.

Yet never was dress more magnificent. Witness the gorgeous fur garments and evening wraps.

Zibeline wraps are pretty, while not expensive, and therefore will prove welcome to the girl with a small allowance. Pale pastel cloths are also being used for this purpose. These wraps should not be made at home, for they require the skill of a good tailor or dressmaker.

The picture shows a three-quarter length coat made of cloth and trimmed with fur. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Sunday was observed as a day of rest. No work, other than the routine of housekeeping was performed. In the afternoon Sidney and Mr. Kent visited the park and brought back a fresh stock of bananas. On the preceding day Mr. Kent had shot a fine deer, and the Sunday dinner was excellent. Mr. Rockwell read aloud a chapter from the Bible, and made a short address, in which he said they had reason to thank Providence for having protected them in many perils on land and sea. He followed with an earnest prayer, in which he returned thanks to God for His manifold blessings and invoked His assistance in their future undertakings.

CHAPTER XXI.

THE BUILDING OF THE JUMPING JUPITER.

Work on the boat proceeded with great rapidity. Under the supervision of Mr. Carmody the foundation timbers of the raft were felled and rolled to the flat rock which served as a pier. His theory was to construct a raft with a sustaining power of 5,000 pounds. The buoyancy of the timber was carefully tested, and an allowance made for the loss by absorption of water. These experiments showed that the timber did not possess the proper specific gravity to sustain the weight of a cabin, masts and the eight voyagers. This necessitated a change of plan, and the construction of air-tight compartments. They therefore built a framework of logs 40 feet in length and 14 feet in width, and so mortised and pinned it together that it could withstand any ordinary strain. Every five feet it was braced with cross timbers. This framework was constructed on logs which served as rollers. They floored it over with the seasoned timber which had been found back of the storehouse. The cracks were caulked with fiber from the cocoa palm and smeared with pitch, which was found in abundance in resinous trees. Upon this foundation they erected the framework for a hull five feet in depth, and then rolled the structure into the lake.

L. Sylvester Vincent solicited the honor of naming the boat. He argued that he was the youngest member of the party and the most innocent. His request was granted, and he took his position at the forward end of the craft. In one hand he held a quart bottle of mineral water, while with the other he clung to one of the uprights. At a signal from Mr. Carmody the blocks beneath the rollers were knocked out and the scow started down the incline. There was a four foot drop from the rock to the water. With increasing momentum the structure rolled down the slanting surface. When the center passed the edge of the rock, the forward end dived. At that instant the alert Vincent smashed the bottle against the upright.

"I name thee—Jumping Jupiter—!"

The bow went 15 feet under water and L. Sylvester Vincent went with it. In the yeast of wave and foam Mr. Vincent rose to the surface near the center of the raft. He was badly disorganized, and for a moment sputtered and gasped for breath. But he was soon on his feet and was game to the core. The raft was a hundred yards from shore.

"Talk about your toboggan slides!" shouted Vincent, as he raised the broken bottle in the air. "That beats Coney Island. I name thee 'Helen Carmody!'"

"Hold on there!" yelled Mr. Kent. "You named that boat 'The Jumping Jupiter' before you went below. Stick to your first name, or you will queer the ship. 'The Jumping Jupiter' is a good name."

Mr. Carmody laughed uproariously.

"You gentlemen planned to pay my daughter a compliment, and I thank you for it," he said. "It is just as well. There is a yacht named after Helen. So we will stick to the name which Mr. Vincent first selected. It is an euphonious title, and I hope it will bring us good luck. Let's go out and help Vincent tow 'The Jumping Jupiter' back to the dock."

Day by day "The Jumping Jupiter" grew in size, if not in beauty. Her hull was divided into eight compartments, and these were sheathed and made as air-tight as possible. On top of them they built a 24-foot cabin with a storeroom and some rude bunks. From opposite ends of the cabin arose two short masts. At night they worked on the sails, and finally produced two triangular ones, sewed together from the window awnings which had been found in the bungalow. These were rigged lateen wise, with a long yard fashioned from a bamboo pole. It was decided to abandon the lookout on the rock, and to concentrate the entire working force on the boat. A long oar was pivoted at the rear to serve as a rudder, and an extra one was made for use in case of accident. On the bow they constructed a clumsy but strong windlass, as a capstan to lift the anchor. A 500-pound rock of irregular, jagged formation, was provided as an anchor. Mr. Kent suggested the use of the gold images for this purpose, but was greeted with so firm a refusal from Simon Pence that he was overruled.

On Tuesday General Superintendent Vincent announced that they had overlooked the fact that Monday was recognized in all civilized countries as "wash day." He found upon investigation that the table and chamber linen needed cleaning. He was reluctant to assign anyone to this duty, but offered his services, if he could have an assistant. Mr. Rockwell promptly volunteered. They found a "big wash" ahead of them, but tackled it with cheer and energy. There were no tubs in the bungalow, but there were plenty of largs casks, which when cleaned, served as well. Sidney Hammond succeeded in making two fairly effective washbords with a rabbet plane and a piece of hardwood plank. With plenty of soap and hot water the multi-millionaire and the Chicago promoter were soon hard at work.

There was an abundance of rope, and they stretched their clothes lines back of the bungalow. When ready with the first basket of washed linen, they found the lines occupied by parrots and other gaudily plumaged birds, who were disputing possession with a troop of jabbering monkeys. These were driven away, but they returned as soon as the laundrymen were out of sight.

A gray-bearded monkey grabbed a napkin and made for the tallest tree. Vincent arrived just in time to save a tablecloth from being torn to pieces by these bander-logs. It was then decided to hang out no clothes until all of the washing was done, and then to stand guard until it was dried. They accomplished their task before eight o'clock in the morning. Perhaps a scrupulous housewife might have found flaws in their work, but it was "good enough for a man," as Vincent expressed it.

Those who have followed these chronicles of the abducted millionaires, may have noted an absence of complaint or remonstrance at their fate. It is a matter of record that from the time Mr. Morton failed to swerve Walter B. Hestor and Capt. Waters from their purpose, the subject of the kidnapping or the incidents connected with it, never were made the subject of discussion. To a man, they accepted the situation which had been thrust upon them, with that imperturbable composure which defies the caprices of fate or circumstance. Every one of the six multi-millionaires had interests at stake hardly to be measured in money, but they preserved an unruffled mien, and deported themselves as if abduction were one of the common events of life, provided for in the table of chances and averages. They talked about New York as if it were a city within easy reach of "Morton Bay" and the Hestor Bungalow, and acted as if on a pleasure trip rather than the marooned victims of a plot.

This air of indifference was not assumed. It was second nature to these men. For more than a generation they had been on the firing line of humanity's most merciless battlefield. They had lived in an atmosphere of tumult. They had waged warfare on the edge of a volcano ever threatening an eruption. They had trained themselves to meet crises with placidity, and to float on the resistless tide of fortune with an even keel; ever alert to take advantage of the first change of wind or weather. Adversity was but an incident to be calmly studied and solved. Of such are the post-graduates of Wall Street.

An incident occurred on Thursday, the 18th of May, which disturbed the even course of events on Social Island

A MYSTERIOUS TREE.

Its Hollow Trunk Contained a First-Class Dumb-Waiter.

And on Top Lived a Man Who Sold Beer to Thirsty Travelers—What a Peace Officer Saw in Kansas.

"When a fellow is chased up a tree it's about the end, you think." The deputy sheriff, says the Chicago Daily News, crossed his feet as he emphasized the "you."

"Generally it's a case for the coroner," remarked another deputy, tossing the burned match toward the steam heater.

"Yes, but this is not a case of hanging. You remember when I went to Kansas to catch a gang of train robbers?"

"And never got a man," sandwiched in one of the hangers-on.

"That was the time I found a man up a tree. It was like this: I got into one of the eastern counties and made my business known to the official there. He thought and thought and tipped back in his chair, and the room in the courthouse got blue with smoke. Finally he said there was a suspicious character in the woods over toward another town, but that the only time one could find him was after dark.

"It was decided that we should drive to the place in the evening. So over the roads we went shortly after dark. The moon was shining and the flowers were blooming by the side of the wire fences. People took me for a drummer, and it puzzled them when they saw me get into the buggy with the sheriff. But off we went. We drove till we came to a bit of woods about a creek—such as they have in that country.

"'Here we are,' said the sheriff.

"I looked around for a house, but could see none. No, sir; there wasn't a building to the right nor the left. The sheriff seemed to know the ground, and hitched the horses in perfect confidence. I was sure there was a walk down the stream for us and prepared for one of the things the boys call a 'hike.' I put my revolver into my coat pocket and got ready for a battle with desperadoes."

"What did the sheriff do?" asked the first deputy.

"He lined up to a tree by the side of the road and folded his feet as men do when they go to a bar. Out of his pocket he took a silver quarter and pounded in a hollow place in the tree. Something came down and the silver disappeared. There was more noise and presently a suspicious clink of glass. Then the thing raced down again and the sheriff pulled out a bottle.

"There was something mysterious about that tree. In all my experience I had seen nothing like that and I knew something animate was in the branches. But the sheriff went back to his team and went off up the hill. When we were well out of sight and hearing the official pulled up by a fence and we stole back on our toes and sneaked across the field. Someone approached the tree and went through the same performance we had, no word being spoken. Then like Indians we crept up and saw a dark object on the ground. It was a man. Before he could get into the tree the sheriff caught him by the foot. I came up then and together we pulled our captive down to earth and put handcuffs on him. After that I climbed into the tree and found a whole case of beer in the branches and a dumb waiter that slipped up and down in the hollow trunk. That was all, except a rope and a board for the barkeep to sit on."

"The man under the tree—how about him?"

"Oh, he was not the one I was looking for, after all. By and by we let him go, for there was no evidence against him. But it shows how they do business in Kansas."

Supposed Corpse Sat Up.

John Bissman, a barber of Wellsville, O., was shaving a supposed corpse, Samuel Colledge, when he imagined that the body seemed warm. Further investigation showed that the man's heart was faintly beating. The preparations for the funeral were abandoned, and in a few days Mr. Colledge was able to sit up and take his rations.

GOT A REAL BARGAIN.

His Wife Cost Only $4.75, But Now Mr. Wilson Wouldn't Take a Million for Her.

When Nathaniel Wilson, a glass-worker, of Marion, Ind., led Miss Kathryn Overmeyer, of Gas City, to the altar, November 7, he completed a pretty little romance and at the same time got a lovely wife who cost him only $4.75.

A week before the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church of Jonesboro held an auction sale of girls at the home of Mrs. Frank Pierce. Real live girls, reveling in all the glorious charms of womanhood, were sold to the highest bidder. While the purchase of a fair charmer did not insure the buyer a partner for life, Nathaniel Wilson purchased Miss Kathryn Overmeyer and on Friday they were wed.

Mr. Wilson is a stranger in Indiana, having only recently moved to Marion city from Pittsburg. He is a handsome young man of 26 years, and, being a double-strength glassblower, commands a large salary. Several of his fellow employes, who were acquainted with the young women of Gas City and Jonesboro, were going to attend the auction sale of young ladies and asked Wilson to go with them.

When the sale opened a large white sheet was stretched across the end of a room and the girl to be sold was placed so as that her shadow would be revealed on the cloth. Not knowing whom she was the young men would bid for her for the evening.

Wilson took no part in this bidding until four young women had been sold, only one of whom brought over one dollar.

When the fifth young woman was placed on the stand the form of a handsome girl was pictured on the canvas. Wilson opened the bid with 50 cents. A young man from Fairmount recognized the form as that of one for whom he had great admiration, but with whom he was not acquainted. He raised the bid to one dollar. Twenty-five cents at a jump her price rose until the Fairmount man found that he had bid just as much as he had cash in his pocket. Wilson went him 25 cents better and bought the young woman for $4.75. An introduction followed immediately, and, what started as only a little fun ended in the marriage of the young couple in the Presbyterian church in Jonesboro.

Now Wilson says he would not take $1,000,000 for his bargain.

ALARM FOR THE DEAF.

They Don't Hear the Rattle of the Clock, But There Is Something Else Doing.

The Anaconda Standard says that an alarm clock for deaf mutes is the novel invention of Elza Cretzer, a deaf mute in the employ of the Washoe smelting plant.

The dropping of a pillow on the sleeping person is the awakening agent, and it is operated so that the pillow falls at the desired time. An ordinary alarm clock is placed in a cigar box which fits it closely. It is then nailed to the wall at the head of the bed. A string connects the clapper of the alarm clock with an ordinary spring mouse trap fastened to the top of the cigar box. By a system of small pulleys and screw eyes a pillow is fastened to the end of a string and pulled to the ceiling directly above the bed. An ingenious arrangement connects the other end of the string to the mouse trap. The clock is set, and when the alarm goes off the string attached to the bell clapper springs the mouse trap and releases the pillow, which drops on the persons sleeping in the bed beneath. "When it does not hit me it hits my wife," Mr. Cretzer wrote on a piece of paper, "and so I never miss a day any more."

SPRING RELEASES THE PILLOW.

BASKET BALL.

A change has been decided upon for basket ball practice hours at the Y. M. C. A. The change was adopted at a recent meeting of the leaders class and the new hours are as follows: Tuesday nights, 9:15 to 9:30; Thursday nights, 9:30 to 9:40 for teams only. Friday nights, 8 to 9:15, for all comers, and on the same nights from 9:15 to 9:30 will be devoted to team work. Saturday nights between 9:15 and 9:30 the ball will be out for all comers. The ball will be out at the times mentioned only. If a game is played on a Friday night the next Monday night will be devoted to practice.

BIRD HAS FLOWN.

Reported That Man Charged With Embezzlement Has Left.

It is reported in town today that the Plainfielder against whom a charge of embezzlement was entered, yesterday, before Prosecutor English, has suddenly left for parts unknown. Inquiry at his usual haunts failed to locate him and the authorities are convinced he has gone. The matter has not yet been brought to the attention of the Grand Jury but will be Monday.

Lunch-Box Social.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Bethel chapel, will hold a lunch-box social in the chapel Wednesday evening, January 28. Each woman is asked to bring a lunch-box for two and to provide two bows of the same color, one to be placed in the box and the other to be worn by the woman bringing the box. Thus she will secure a partner with which to eat lunch.

Tumbled Into Icy Water.

Jacob Reinmainn, of Mt. Bethel, the ice dealer, is very busy in putting in ice in his new ice sheds. Yesterday several men in his employ came near being drowned by the sudden breaking off of a section of the floe on which they were standing. They were rescued by several of their fellow laborers with long pike poles.

MISS CADY'S FIRST RECITAL

HELD AT RESIDENCE OF D. H. ROWLAND YESTERDAY AFTERMOON.

First of Series of Two to be Given in This City by That Accomplished Pianist.

The first of two piano recitals arranged to be given in this city by Miss Harriet Cady, a pupil of Rubenstein and Leschetizky, took place yesterday afternoon, at the residence of Mrs. D. H. Rowland, of West Seventh street. Seventy-five people were present and showed their appreciation of the artist's work by liberal applause.

Miss Cady's programme was in two parts, the first being a group of seventeenth century compositions and the other from more modern composers such as Chopin, Liszt and vonWeber. Her interpretation could not be improved upon and in every selection she exhibited a technique surpassed by few. The waltz time was perfect while the heavier numbers were given with an individual charm.

The second recital will take place one week from today at the home of Mrs. Rufus P. Linclon, of West Eighth street. Her programme will consist of selections from French, American, Polish, Russian and Scandinavian masters.

M'ALL AUXILIARY.

Annual Meeting Was Held Here This Morning.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Auxiliary of the McAll Auxiliary, which marks the founding of this work, was held this morning in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church. There was a good attendance and the meeting was filled with interest. Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, the local president, was in the chair and she made some very helpful remarks concerning the past year's work. Two interesting addresses were made by Mrs. Haynes and Mrs. Kelley, of Elizabeth, who told of the work in France.

Mrs. John Gray Foster, treasurer, also made a report showing that the year collections equaled those of last year's at this time. A interesting report was presented by Mrs. Charles S. Lee, secretary of the auxiliary.

Swore When Arrested.

John H. Cox, of South avenue, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged with using profane language. He was arrested by Special Officer McCarthy for riding his wheel on the sidewalk and then gave vent to sulphurous remarks. In court he apologized and City Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

Not Identified.

The body of the unknown killed on the New Jersey Central tracks near Netherwood, yesterday morning, still remains at Cole's undertaking parlors. Unless some claim is made for the remains they will be interred in the county plot, Monday.

TWO POINTS DECIDE CONTEST FOR LEAL'S

First of Series of Scholastic Basket Ball Games Played Yesterday Afternoon.

THE SCORE WAS 9 to 7

ONE OF THE CLOSEST GAMES EVER PLAYED IN LOCAL GYMNASIUM.

City High School Had Lead in First Half, But Leal's Braced Up Just Long Enough to Win by a Very Narrow Margin.

It was not until the second half ended that anyone knew how the first of the scholastic series of basket ball games, played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium between the Leal School and City High School teams yesterday afternoon, was going. It ended in a victory for the Leal boys by a score of 9 to 7, after one of the most exciting games played in the local gymnasium.

There is an old rivalry between the two schools which has resulted in some lively contests in the past. Both sides went in with the determination of winning yesterday's game and some very hard and fast playing was the result. Although the play was hard, it was quite free from roughness. The Leal boys had the advantage of height and weight but it did not count for so much until the second half. At times, both sides developed very fair team play. There was a tendency, however, to leave men uncovered at critical times.

At the start, the High School boys set a pace that surprised everybody. They had better team play and made a decidedly fast game. Leal's boys were inaccurate at goal throwing and failed to score from the field during the first half. It was an even thing in the first half with the score 3 to 1 in favor of the High School.

There was a change in the second half. The Leal boys became more aggressive, their team play appeared, while the High School contingent did not play with the same spirit that characterized their game in the first half. This lasted long enough for the Leal five to come to the fore. Then the High School team braced up and the windup was lively enough to suit anybody. The lead that Leal's had obtained was held despite the best efforts of their opponents and the game was finally won by just two points.

The teams lined up as follows:

Leal's School.		City High School.
Doane	right forward	Monro
R. Abbott	left forward	Shepherd
G. Abbott, capt	centre	Meeker, capt
Schoonmaker	right guard	Thompson

Score—Leal's School, 9; City High School, 7. Goals from the field—Doane, G. Abbott, Meeker (2). Goals on fouls—R. Abbott (4), Biglow, Meeker (3). Fouls—Leal's School, 7; City High School, 15. Referee—Charles B. Morse. Umpires—C. E. A. Heywood and Kenneth Robbie Timekeepers—C V. Fowler and Francis Anderson. Scorers—R. S. Lane and John H. Doane. Time of halves—20 minutes.

SURPRISE AT JERSEY CITY

LOCAL Y. M. C. A. BASKET BALL TEAM MEETS DEFEAT THERE.

Jersey City Five Was Swamped When It Came Here—Different Thing at Jersey City.

There was something of a surprise awaiting the basket ball five of the local Y. M. C. A. when it went to Jersey City last night. The Jersey City Y. M. C. A. team came here a short time ago and proved an easy victim for the local team. It was a different proposition which the local players encountered when they met the same team last night.

While the Jersey City boys had the advantage of knowing their own gymnasium, the first half showed the teams very evenly matched. The half ended with the score 10 to 9 in favor of Jersey City. The home team improved its game in the second half and finally won out by a score of 18 to 14.

The teams lined up as follows:

Plainfield.		Jersey City.
Denton	right forward	DeWolf, Dow
Hand, Neal	left forward	VanDeen
Cahoone	centre	Bohen

Score—Jersey City Y.M C A., 18; Plainfield Y. M. C. A., 14 Goals from the field—Denton (3), Hand, Neal, Cahoone, DeWolf, VanDeen (4), Bohen (3). Goals on fouls—Denton (2) Bohen (2). Fouls—Jersey City, 11; Plainfield, 9. Referee—J. D Downey, of Jersey City. Umpires—C. E. A. Heywood and Ray Smith, of Plainfield. Timekeeper—M. Hoffman. Scorers—Brokaw and Washar.

To Replace Street Signs.

The damaged street signs of the city are to be replaced by Street Commissioner Gavett, in accordance with a recent action of the Common Council when an appropriation for the work was made. Some of the signs are damaged as a result of boys shooting at them with flobert rifles and some are imperfectly made.

PARK BOWLERS ARE READY FOR CONTESTS

Ten-Pin and "Cocked Hat" Individual Tournaments Have Opened at Alleys.

PLAY BEGINS AT ONCE

ANNOUNCEMENT OF PAIRINGS FOR THE "COCKED HAT" TOURNAMENT.

Dates for Ending of Rounds Are Given—Much Interest in Bowling Now Shown by Members of the Park Club.

Bowling, both the old fashioned ten-pin game and the newer "cocked hat," is popular at the Park Club these days. When the season began it looked as if interest in that famous indoor sport was going to be slack at that local club this winter but the holiday series and later team matches with the prospect of two individual tournaments have all combined to change the situation.

When F. O. Ball was appointed at the head of a special committee to take charge of the bowling tournaments during the absence of A. B. Laing, chairman of the regular bowling committee, it was thought that the tournaments would be ready to start this evening. So quickly did the committee go about its work, however, that all arrangements have now been complete for several days and the committee has announced that the members can start their matches at once.

Handicaps and pairings for the ten-pin tournament were given in The Daily Press Monday. The details for the "cocked hat" tournament are now made public.

The time for the ending of the different rounds is announced as follows: Preliminary round, January 24; first round, February 14; second round, February 28; third round, March 14; semi-final round, March 21; final round, March 28.

Pairings for the preliminary and first rounds has been made as follows: Preliminary round, Frank Rogers and Morris J. Dumont; Wallace Guilford and Edward Overton, Herbert S. Rogers and Edmund Rushmore, Dr. Chas. R. Thiers and F. O. Ball, Chas. L. Nichols and Charles Dupee.

First round, E. M. Daniel and winner of first match in preliminary round, A. W. Kenworthy and J. H. Howell, Arthur Peck and B. S. Rockwell, William A. Townsend and C. Everett Murray, Clifford W. McGee and Charles A. Reed, William Barlow, Jr., and A. L. C. Marsh, John Valiant, Jr., and Allan B. Laing, Ralph T. Willis and Dr. R. W. Emerson, William R. Faber and F. H. Ball, J. I. Taylor and winner of second match in preliminary round, F. L. Curtis and winner of third match in preliminary round, J. C. Peck and H. C. Curtis, Henry D. Hibbard and James W. DeGraff, Geo. T. Rogers and winner of fourth match in preliminary round, Charles B. Morse and Samuel Townsend, George D. Hallock and winner of fifth match in preliminary round.

Settled Damage Suit.

Mrs. Lucy Acolia, of Watchung avenue, in her suit against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, for injuries received sometime ago, has been awarded $250 by the trolley company. She was represented by Codington & Swackhamer.

Libel Suit Settled.

The libel suit of J. B. Mills against the Evening Times Publishing Company, of Elizabeth, has been settled. The Times has paid $100 to Mr. Mills and will print a statement concerning the article which caused the trouble.

D. of A. R. Meeting.

The Continental Chapter, the local branch of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet Monday in regular business session at the home of the regent, Mrs. David P. Hall, of Madison avenue.

After Delinquents.

Henry Meyers, constable, has started to collect and unpaid tax bills in the borough. He has over 150 of them to collect and so far he has been very successful.

TO IMPROVE POLICE FORCE

Plans for Improving the Efficiency of That Department Likely to be Made.

THE PATROL SYSTEM

Details of the System Which it is Planned to Introduce in This City—A Patrol Wagon—New Police Headquarters—More Pay for the Policemen.

While Plainfield long ago laid aside many of its primitive methods of doing things, its police department today, while good as far as it goes, does not represent the highest type of efficiency. The question of improving this department by a police patrol system, mention of which has been made in these columns, is about to be decided in the affirmative. Mayor O. L. Jenkins, as well as every member of the Common Council, believes that the time has come when such a system should be adopted. With it in use it will give the city a police department equal to thirty men. The city is growing rapidly and with the present force it is simply impossible to cover it as a city of this size demands.

Members of the police department, as well as the members of the police board, have visited various cities and witnessed the operation of the Gamewell fire and police telegraph system. This is a recognized system and the company controls it in a number of the largest cities in the country. It is the same system used for fire purposes in Plainfield and is perfectly reliable. The police patrol system increases the efficiency of the fire system for an alarm can be given by it by one as well as the other. It increases the certainty of punishment for crime, and must, therefore, exercise the most powerful influence for its prevention.

It enables the patrolman to remain on his beat; if he arrests a party or wishes assistance he has only to go to the nearest box and make his wants known and in a short time he is relieved of his prisoner, and assistance is at hand. It makes every keyholder, to a considerable extent, a policeman, for he carries with him the power to summon the police to any point wherever he may see that their services are required.

In the first place the police board is anxious to secure a new headquarters and it is likely that during this year a new building suitable in every way for police work will be built. This will likely be erected in the vicinity of fire headquarters and will be a two-story structure, provided with cells, court room and private offices. There will also be provision for the keeping of a patrol wagon and, for the present, one horse. Arrangements will also be made for sleeping quarters, where officers connected with the department may sleep if necessary.

The present plan is to install fifteen police patrol boxes about the city and these will be located at points where they will be most needed and in such a manner as to cover the most territory possible. These boxes are each provided with a telephone, also an automatic device for calling for the patrol wagon, or notifying headquarters of a fire, the presence of thieves, a riot or any other kind of trouble, while another device provides for a test of the line. These boxes can be placed on a pole and are just as handy to reach as a fire alarm box. The box also has an arrangement whereby a patrolman covering a certain beat is obliged to report every hour. In this way headquarters knows exactly where the officer is or whether anything has happened whereby he was unable to report. At headquarters the patrolman's report is recorded on a piece of tape and this is kept on file as a part of each officer's report. The mechanism of the system is such that it is almost impossible for a mistake to be made, thus proving its superiority over those given verbally.

To install this system in Plainfield it is estimated that it would cost about $5,000 and this expense is considered trivial when the benefits and extra protection is counted. It is said that one prominent resident of the West End has arranged to have a private box placed in his home as soon as the system is installed.

Another thing engaging the attention of the Councilmen is that in OLD GUARD BOWLS.

Members of Defunct Country Club Spend Saturday Nights on Alleys.

For some time past some members of the defunct Union County Country Club, who still retain their love for bowling, have been meeting at the Casino Saturday nights to enjoy the favorite game. There are nearly twenty of the older members and they meet once a week to spend a few hours in this healthful exercise. No attempt is made to keep a record of the impromptu games which are rolled. Saturday night the usual number of men were present and several games were rolled. Some of the scores were high, showing that the old-time bowlers are still able to put up a good game.

UNCLE SAM DIDN'T FORGET

ROBERT HART IS NOW TO RECEIVE A GENEROUS SUM.

He Was Entitled to a Pension, But Couldn't be Found—Now He Gets It All.

Through the beneficence of Uncle Sam, Robert Hart, of South Second street, will shortly come into possession of a small fortune. Back pension amounting to something over $1,200 is due him and it has been promised him through the Boston pension office of the government. Officials have been in communication with Attorney V. W. Nash, Jr., and as soon as the preliminary arrangements can be completed, the money will be forthcoming.

Hart, who is a well-known figure in the West End, is at present employed in the foundry of the Pond Machine Tool Company. He enlisted during the Civil War and during an engagement was shot in the head. The bullet was never extracted and at frequent intervals since it incapacitated him. In 1891 he applied for a pension but it was five years later before it was granted. Hart at that time was living in New Haven, Conn., and just previous to the government's action he shipped on the brig "Mary Jane" for Honolulu. The postoffice authorities were unable to locate him and the papers were returned to Washington.

Nothing more was done in the matter until Hart placed the matter in Attorney Nash's hands a few weeks ago. Prompt response was made to his inquiries and all back pension will be sent on.

During his residence in this city, Hart has always been employed at Pond's. He is married and has a family.

I. C. T.'S BIRTHDAY.

Will be Celebrated February 11, With a Reception and Masquerade Dance.

At a meeting of the I. C. T. Club, held Saturday evening, the members decided to hold a large reception and dance on February 11, in commemoration of the first anniversary of the organization. The dance will be a masquerade and a feature of the evening will be an elaborate collation. It will be served at midnight and several of the city's prominent officials will be asked to address the members at that time. The club anticipates making it the grandest affair of the season.

The following committee was appointed to complete all arrangements: Leonce Texier, Ray King, Joseph Robinson, George L. Apgar, Fred Dunavan, Edward Mosher and Thomas Muir.

Dinner to Agents.

Superintendent Charles Ball, of the local office of the Prudential Insurance Company, will give a dinner, Friday evening, at the Hotel Kensington for his agents in this district, the medical staff and the secretary of the home office will be present. The affair is not given by the company, but by Mr. Ball.

Inspect Poor Farm.

The annual inspection of the Piscataway township poor farm was made by the county officials last week. Everything was found to be in excellent shape and Overseer Hummer was commended. The officials afterwards enjoyed a good dinner as the guests of the overseer.

Almost Up to Limit.

A regular meeting of the Orange Field Club will be held in the club rooms tomorrow evening, when all applications for membership must be presented. There are now but six more desired as the total number of members is limited to thirty-five.

Hospital Governors to Meet.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will hold a regular meeting Monday evening Jan. 26, when matters pertaining to the new hospital will be considered.

HOST OF CLAIMANTS FOR CORIELL ESTATE

Warren Township Man Made a Will That Didn't Suit All of His Heirs.

THEY'RE CONTESTING IT

GREAT ARRAY OF LEGAL TALENT IS INTERESTED IN THE CASE.

Case Appeared in Court at Somerville Friday, and Was Adjourned a Week—Several Caveats Were Filed Against the Will.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 19—Warren township has developed another remarkable will case that promises to outrival all others that have had their foundations laid in that section of Somerset county.

When Isaiah Coriell died a few months ago he left a very large estate and in accordance with his usual eccentric ways he left all his property, when his will was drawn years ago, to his niece and nephews living at the time of his decease.

That was very agreeable to them no doubt, but not so to a half dozen or more grand nieces and nephews, who have employed counsel and will endeavor to prevent the will from being probated.

The case came up in the Orphans' Court at Somerville Friday, but Judge Schenck was obliged to postpone the hearing for one week. A caveat has been filed against the will by Horace Codington for Cora May Mundy, a grand niece, from Warren township; another caveat by Reed & Codington, of Plainfield, proctors for George, Percy, Harry, Grace and Maggie Giddis, of North Plainfield, grand nephews and nieces; still another caveat by Hetfield & Hetfield, counsel for Clarence W. Mundy, of Plainfield, another grand nephew.

James L. Griggs, of Somerville, appears for the executor Jeremiah Codington, of Washington Valley; Jas. J. Bergen is lawyer for some nieces and nephews in Illinois as is also Hugh K. Gaston. W. R. Codington, of Plainfield represents the widow.

When this case gets at its height and all these legal lights appear the Court House will be well represented by members of the bar.

AT LEHIGH.

Register of That Pennsylvania College Just Issued.

The Register of Lehigh University, South Bethlehem, Pa., just issued, shows the attendance of 581 students, from twenty-seven States and six foreign countries. There are fifty-two in the teaching staff.

Twelve courses of instruction are offered at the university: The classical course, the Latin-scientific course, courses in civil, mechanical, metallurgical, mining, electrical and chemical engineering, analytical chemistry, geology, physics and electro-metallurgy.

A list of the graduates of the university, 1,248 in number during the thirty-seven years of its existence, indicates that this institution is exerting a very marked influence on the industrial development of the United States, and also of foreign countries.

The following prize scholarships will be open to competition at the annual examinations in June: Two in the classical course of $150 and $100 each and one in the Latin-scientific course of $125 annually in addition to free tuition. Provision is made for worthy and needy students whereby they may postpone payment of tuition until after graduation.

Park Club Events.

The entertainment committee of the Park Club has announced three events of interest. Wednesday evening, this week, there will be music for dancing at the club, and Tuesday evening, February 3, there will be a progressive euchre party. Music will also be furnished for dancing Tuesday evening, February 17.

Arrived on St. Louis.

J. Henry Crane, of East Fifth street, went to New York, yesterday to see his father, Rev. Arthur Crane, who was a passenger on the Steamship St. Louis, which arrived in New York, Saturday, several days late. It was Mr. Crane who drafted the resolutions condemning the company for its action. Mr. Crane sailed today for Savannah, where his wife is living. He expects to remain in the south.

VERTICAL IS MOST FAVORED

Results of the Investigations Made by Mr. Wightman Regarding Penmanship.

RECEIVED 439 REPLIES

Of That Number, 51 2-3 Per Cent. Favored the Vertical System—Some of the Reasons Given for the Choice—The Result of the Investigation in Detail.

The results of the recent investigations made by Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, of the North Plainfield schools, were made public this morning and they are very interesting in that there are more parents in favor of the vertical writing than the Spencerian or slant system. Since the investigations have been started, the details of which appeared in The Daily Press, the parents of pupils, not only on the other side of the brook but on this side as well, have evinced much interest in the results. In speaking of the results this morning, Superintendent Wightman, said that he was very much pleased with the interest taken in the matter by parents which was shown by the replies received from the circulars issued.

There were 439 replies received; 48 1-3 per cent. were in favor of the slant system; while 51 2-3 per cent. were in favor of the vertical writing. Out of the entire number of circulars sent out only one person was in favor of the medial slant.

The replies are on exhibition at the office of Superintendent Wightman at the High School building. They are divided into the following classes:

In favor of the slant system: Thirty-four preferred it because they claimed it was preferable in business; thirty-one liked it because it "looked better;" fifteen because it allowed for individuality in penmanship; seventeen because it was more rapid, and fifty-one gave no reasons.

In favor of the vertical style: Forty-five preferred it because it was more legible; twenty-six because it is easily acquired; nineteen liked it because of the reasons given in the circular; fourteen because it was more business-like; fifty-four merely gave their names; and seventeen gave no choice; 116 replies were headed duplicates because of there being several children in the family.

Those who have sent in replies in many instances are men who have many employes in Wall street and in other business offices and therefore their opinions for or against the vertical system carry much weight.

One person stated that in New York the vertical system has been abandoned but from printed lists recently received from the New York State Teachers' Association committee which has been investigating along the same lines followed by Superintendent Wightman, it is found that in the schools in that city the teaching of the two systems is optional with the principal. This Mr. Wightman says is not altogether practicable and hence the investigations in this city.

IN ORPHAN'S COURT.

Hatchett Estate Dispute Was Finally Settled at Somerville Saturday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 19—In the Orphans' Court, Saturday Judge Schenck finally settled the dispute in the Mary Hatchett estate, which has been pending for a year or more. The woman died in North Plainfield and when the executor of her estate accounted her son, George Hatchett, of Plainfield through his counsel, Horace Codington, of Somerville, filed exceptions to the accounts. The court sustained these exceptions in part.

The appilcation, on petition, in the estate of Benjamin Brown, of Bridgewater township, to remove the executor, George W. Brown, of Freemansburg, Pa., was granted. Alexander Brown, of Thomasville, Ga., was the applicant and he was represented by Horace Codington, of Somerville.

Injured While Wrestling.

Louis J. Clark, of Lincoln place, was kicked and severely injured while wrestling with some companions Friday evening, and was sent home, where he is now confined.

APPEAL TO NATIVE WORKERS TO UNITE

Objects of League of American Citizens Are Outlined by the Committee.

SAYS 'TIS TIME TO ACT

MEETING OF THE LEAGUE WILL BE HELD TOMORROW EVENING.

A Plan to Protect Wage Earning American Citizens From Invasion of Cheap Unnaturalized Foreign Labor—It is for Americans.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—If the wage-earning American citizens do not wake up at once, and get to work, they will be inquiring when it is too late: Why have I been asleep? There is a move on foot to organize a body to be known as the League of American Citizens. Very few know anything about this matter. Why? Because the citizens of this city do not attend the meetings. There is to be a meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Building Trades' Council Hall, 204 West Front street, which every American citizen is most cordially invited to attend.

We will tell you a little about the organization. The move was started by the Local Union, No. 155, of Carpenters and Joiners of America. There have been three meetings held with good results. Everything is in readiness for the organization to start off. The object of this organization is to protect the American citizens in our land. Any American citizen, regardless of creed or color, is entitled to become a member and should be willing to cast in his little mite for its support.

This is not a political party. It is to get more stringent laws enacted to stop the flow of foreign emmigrants of the lower class coming to this country, and to compell them to become naturalised Americans, if they come here to work. It is an organization which both union and non-union men can join, and can work hand in hand for one of the grandest moves ever started.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, there were 648,743 steerage aliens landed in this country, and not one had over $30 in money, and only 77,355 had that amount. They came here to take the place of our American citizens, and work for from 90 cents to $1.25 a day. They will live on nine cents a day, three loaves of stale bread at three cents each, and a pail of water.

We would like to ask, how many of our Americans can live on that amount of food? How many readers of this article have ever visited the living and sleeping apartments of this class? We have known thirty to live and sleep in a single room 10x20. The majority of them live like hogs; they sleep on the floor in all the filth imaginable. Is it any wonder these people can save money on the very small wages they earn? Is it any wonder our American citizens are out of work and unable to support their families? Is it any wonder that our citizens are compelled to beg and be classed as city poor? Is there not a cause for so many Americans being compelled to tramp from town to town looking for work, and are set down by those who have better success in life, as being low tramps?

Now, let us inquire of these so-called tramps and see how many are good birth and how many are driven from home to seek employment elsewhere. If a close examination is made, it will be found that about 90 per cent. are of this class.

What care the capitalists or operators for the wage-earners of America, whether working on the grade, or in the fine offices of New York or other cities? This question can be answered with one word—nothing. Should we allow the capitalists and operators to hoard up their milions and live in luxury by bringing unnaturalized foreigners here to do their work, and at the same time grind down our American citizens down to such a point that they cannot live? We say, No. If we allow this to go on, this country will become as bad as was Porto Rico, when under the rule of Spain, when many of her citizens were obliged to live without clothes enough to cover their nakedness.

Do we not owe to each other a brotherly love? If so, then it is true that we, as American citizens, should join hands with each other, and try to put down this, the greatest evil of our country. It is time we put a stop to other countries making this the dumping-ground for their scums. We do not believe in stopping anyone who wishes to come here to become a citizen, but we do believe they should be compelled to become citizens, and that, before they go to work.

HAYES' STORY.

Says He Was Unwittingly Dragged Into Chicken Stealing Case.

Harry Hayes, who was arrested recently with John Morecraft, charged with stealing chickens belonging to Mrs. Shotwell, of the borough, says that he was unwittingly brought into the trouble. He says that he was on his way home the night that the chickens were alleged to have been taken, and Morecraft asked him to assist in taking the chickens to his, Morecraft's, brother-in-law's home. Soon afterward they met a policeman and the two were arrested. Mr. Hayes bears a good reputation among people for whom he has worked and he says that it was the first time in his life he was arrested.

DID NOT ACCEPT THE BRIDGE

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS SOMEWHAT DISSATISFIED WITH LEUPP BRIDGE.

Its Acceptance Was Postponed Until Next Meeting—Members Will Meet Contractor.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 19—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders met at the Leupp bridge in Franklin township, Saturday afternoon. After viewing the same, organization was effected at the Berkeley Hotel in Bound Brook. The members of the board were all in attendance.

There was considerable discussion about the new bridge and it was finally decided not to accept it, the matter being laid over until the next regular meetnig.

There seems to be some dissatisfaction in regard to the structure and Member Gibson was authorized to have the contractor, William T. Kirk, meet him at the bridge and talk over the subject. It is said, Mr. Kirk has not seen the structure since it has been completed.

A resolution was offered, postponing the date of receiving of bids for the Mountain avenue road, in Bound Brook and vicinity, from February 17, to March 4.

TRESTLE FIRE.

Fire Department Called Out in the Cold Early This Morning for a Blaze.

While the thermometer flirted with the zero mark, the members of the local fire department were called out by an alarm from box 63 at 2:15, this morning. It was sent in by Roundsman John Flynn for a brisk blaze in the trestle work of the Campbell Press Works on South avenue near Berckman street.

The trestle is composed entirely of resinous ties with large wooden bins overtopping, all of which were in flames. The chemical engine was used first without effect and two streams were put on. A loss of $200 resulted before the fire was put out.

The firemen had a hard time of it while at work as the spray from the streams fell upon them and completely covered their clothing with ice. The trestle work was also coated and it was with great difficulty they moved about.

KITCHEN PROMISED.

Societies at Hope Chapel Agree to Donate Funds for It.

At a special meeting of the officers of Hope chapel, held Saturday, it was decided to begin at once raising sufficient funds for a modern kitchen to be erected in the rear of the present buildings. All the societies connected with the chapel have promised support and the Ladies' Aid Soceity immediately agreed to donate $200. It is estimated that $1,000 will be needed for the purpose.

Mr. Chapin Pleases.

Prof. C. E. W. Griffith, who is at the head of the Shakespeare School of Chicago, says of Mr. Chapin, who will portray Lincoln at the Y. M. C. A. Hall this evening: "He impresses me as being the best dramatic reader on the Lyceum platform today, a masterful artist through and through and a cultured polished gentleman."

Celebration at Three Bridges.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Higgins, of Three Bridges, celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of their wedding, Wednesday evening. Fifty friends were present including two daughters from this city, Mrs. Howard R. Higgins, of East Seventh street, and Mrs. John Hyler, of West Front street.

Filling in Ditch.

Workmen are very busy in filling in the ditch in front of the new houses which have been recently erected on West End avenue. The ditch is a deep one and when the work is completed it will add greatly to the appearance of the street.

LOCAL PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL

Rev. J. W. Richardson Announces His Resignation as Pastor of Park Ave. Baptist.

GOES TO STAMFORD, CT.

Has Decided to Accept Call Made by Church Where He Was Formerly Located—He Made Announcement From the Pulpit at the Morning Service.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, who for the past ten years and two months has been the pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, has accepted the recent call to return to the pastorate of the Stamford, (Conn.,) Baptist church. Announcement of this was made yesterday at the morning service in the Park Avenue Baptist church, when Mr. Richardson gave his decision in the matter. To many the decision was not a surprise, but by others it was believed that Mr. Richardson would remain in this city and continue the good work which he commenced years ago. Every seat in the large church was filled at the service and with great expectancy the members of the church and congregation waited for the announcement.

As soon as the decision was made known, it was noticed that nearly everyone present was visibly affected and there were not a few moistened eyes. Thoughts of severing pleasant associations of many years' standing brought deep feeling of regret to all, but in the light of the explanation offered by the pastor, there were few who could say that Mr. Richardson's decision was not for the best.

The statement made by Mr. Richardson is as follows:

"To the Officers and Members of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield.

"Dearly Beloved:—

"After an unbroken pastorate of ten years and two months, we are called upon to confront an issue of vast importance to us both. On Monday evening, January 12, by a unanimous vote, the Stamford Baptist church invited me to return to the pastorate of that church. I have prayerfully and thoughtfully considered the whole subject in its bearings upon your future and mine.

"Carefully have I weighed the fact, that during my pastorate with you, no discord or dissension has marred our loving relations, and that today no sort of bitterness exists. Keenly have I appreciated the golden opportunities which Christ has placed so freely at our disposal. It has been a constant pleasure to meet and fellowship with so many warm, steadfast friends in the outside community. And the harmonious relations between the associate pastors and their congregations in Plainfield, have been of the most cordial and delightful character; all of which have contributed to make the idea of removal from this beautiful city doubly difficult.

"On the other hand, the remarkable providence which brought about the perfect unanimity of the recall to Stamford. The fact, that not directly, or indirectly, have I used any influence or means to produce the above result; together with the hearty enthusiasm displayed by the Connecticut brethern towards me, have deeply impressed me with God's meaning.

"I wish to be obedient to the Divine Will, which I believe is revealed through these circumstances; and therefore, directed as I believe by the Holy Spirit, I do hereby resign from the pastorate of the Park Avenue Baptist church, for the purpose of assuming the pastorate of the Stamford Baptist church. With your permission I desire this resignation to take effect on Sunday, February 15, 1903.

"May the Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ richly abide with you all, and guide you in all ways.

"Lovingly your pastor,

"J. Wilbor Richardson."

Of course, not a thought of a successor to Mr. Richardson has as yet been expressed. This matter will have to be brought before the church in due form, when action will be taken. It is likely that there will be a meeting of the church very soon, when action will be taken on the resignation. Then will follow plans for filling the pulpit. This will make three Plainfield churches without regular pastor. Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, the First Baptist church and the Park Avenue Baptist church.

NEW STATION FOR ASBURY

RAILROADS WILL UNITE TO PUT UP A NEW DEPOT THERE.

Will Probably Change Location of Freight Depot and Run Sunday Trains.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, Jan. 19—Surveyors of the New York and Long Branch Railroad are at work staking out the grounds around the station here, and it is said that ground will be broken within a few days for a new building. Superintendent Rufus Blodgett recently paid a visit to the station and when questioned would not deny that a new station was going up. Land on the west side of the tracks has been purchased, and this, it is said, will be devoted to a new freight depot.

The present freight depot is within the jurisdiction of Ocean Grove, and the railroad holds it only by reason of a compact with that place not to stop trains on Sunday within the limits of the Twin Cities. If a new depot is built the railroad will be at liberty to stop its trains here whenever it pleases.

The new station and depot, if erected, will be put up jointly by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which are jointly interested in the New York and Long Branch Railroad. The land purchase, although made through third parties, is said to have been made by the Pennsylvania.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The habit of indiscriminate expectoration is still prevalent in this city in spite of the efforts put forth by the Board of Health in trying to stop it. Men will enter a drug store for instance and spit upon the floor while smoking a cigar or waiting for a car. As it evaporates the microbes of pulmonary diseases are inhaled by the clerks and thus the most deadly diseases are spread about a community. On the streets it is gathered up by women as they sweep by with their long skirts and thus the foul stuff is brought into the houses, there to allow the deadly microbes to do their work. It requires but a step to go to the edge of the sidewalk to expectorate and for the sake of decency, at least, all men should take these extra steps if they must spit.

Nickel Steel Rails.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has decided to use nickel steel rails on all heavy curves. It has ordered 5,000 tons of them at a cost of $74 a ton. The standard steel rails can be purchased for $28 a ton, but as the nickel steel rails last much longer, the latter will be cheaper in the long run.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

GIFT TO REFORMED CHURCH

MOST OF MISS ALIDA VAN SCHAIK'S FORTUNE IS BEQUEATHED TO IT.

Bequests of Will Which Has Just Been Filed in the Surrogate's Office.

Members of the Reformed church in America will be interested in knowing that a New York woman, Miss Alida VanSchaik, has bequeathed to that denomination a large part of a half million dollars. Part of this amount, $12,000 is specifically devoted to the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick.

Miss Alida VanSchaik died December 28 at her home at 59 West Forty-eighth street, New York. The will was filed Monday in the Surrogate's office and was executed on March 11 last. $3,000 is to be given to the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed church, in trust, the income to be devoted toward the maintainance of missionaries; $12,000 is left to the Board of Education of the church for the foundation of and maintainance of scholarships in the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick, "for pious and indigent young men," and another $12,000 is left for the foundation of similar scholarships in the Western Theological Seminary at Holland, Mich. $2,000 is left a brother, Henry VanSchaik and $15,000 is left Alida Van Schaik Banks, daughter of John V. S. Oddie to be free from the control of her husband, and to go to the Western Theological Seminary in the event of her dying without children. The house at 25 East Sixty-second street, New York, and $40,000 go to a niece, Elizabeth V. S. Winthrop, and to Mrs. John V. S. Oddie is given the use of 59 West Forty-eighth street, with $64,000 in addition.

The residuary estate goes to the General Synod of the Reformed church for the general religious and charitable purposes of the corporation

THEATRICAL.

This evening, Col. John C. Fisher will celebrate the 100th performance of his latest musical play "The Silver Slipper" at the Broadway Theatre, New York. The occasion will be celebrated with expensive and beautiful souvenirs, typical of the name of the play—silver slippers that were imported from Germany. The souvenirs could not be otherwise than in keeping with the lavish and stupendous manner in which Mr. Fisher presented this most delightful of English musical plays to the American theatre going public. That "The Silver Slipper" will continue at the Broadway for months to come and that there will be more souvenir performances there is not the slightest doubt. The same all star company remains, with Sam Bernard the inimitable German comedian; dainty and petite Edna Wallace-Hopper and the debonair Cyril Scott at its head.

"The Liberty Belles," the new musical comedy by Harry B. Smith, presented by that famous combination of talented men and beautiful women known as Klaw & Erlanger's Troubadours including Harry Gilfoil, will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House, Manhattan, for one week only starting today. This delightful novelty has scored the greatest hit among the musical productions of the past many seasons. Unique in its conception, splendidly staged and played by a company of extraordinary talent, it caught New York as no other piece has done in years during a run of four months at the Madison Square Theatre last season. A large number of very entertaining musical numbers are interpolated during the action, which greatly enhances its value as a diversion. This piece will be found very pleasing by those who delight in music, wit and humor intermingled in an interesting comic story.

Annual January Sale of Silver-Plated Ware at ½, ¼ and ⅓ Reg. Prices.

This is not the accumulation of odds and ends left over from the holidays that so frequently appear in many of these January sales.

These are fresh, new goods straight from the factories of many of the largest manufacturers in the business.

They represent surplus stocks, and, in some instances, patterns that are not to be continued, but every piece is worthy of its full value. We procured the several lots at much below regular prices to close, and we offer them on the same basis—viz., at one-half, one-quarter and one-third of their actual value.

NEW YORK SCHOOLS

State Superintendent Skinner's Annual Report.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION A SUCCESS

A Lack of Thoroughness in Elementary Branches Complained Of—Bible Reading Without Sectarian Teaching Allowable.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—In his annual report to the legislature State Superintendent of Public Instruction Skinner advocates the taking of $150,000 from the free school fund for the payment of the tuition of the nonresident pupils in academic grades. This would give the superintendent a control now in the hands of the state regent. The report shows that $38,441,308 was expended the past year for education. During the past school year there have been fifty-seven college graduate certificates granted, making a total of 947. This proves that the ranks of trained teachers are increasing.

The statistics on compulsory education show a hearty co-operation between state and local authorities. It is evident that the enforcement of the law requiring a United States flag to be displayed near every public school building in this state meets with public approval, since reports for the past school year show but 140 infractions of this law as against 315 in 1901.

Average cost of maintenance last year was $27,090. This is insufficient and less than other states provide. Our normal schools lose their best teachers because progressive localities offer more attractive salaries.

The attention of the legislature is particularly called to the lack of thoroughness in elementary branches in our schools, with a view to the enactment of corrective measures. Instances are cited where the eight years of grade work is cut down to give more time to the academic work, and the classes in English are cut out to allow for classes in Latin, French and German.

That extracts from the Bible are read without comment by the reader in every public school in New York city, while in the rest of the state it is not generally done, leads Superintendent Skinner to announce boldly that despite the ruling of his predecessors that it violates the constitution, he will not stop such reading in other portions of the state, provided there is no sectarian teaching accompanying it. In a report to the legislature Mr. Skinner calls attention to the fact that the legislature in 1838 refused to enact a law forbidding the reading of the Bible in the schools. He says: "During the seventeen years that I have been connected with this department I have never known of an appeal or protest from an inhabitant of the city of New York with reference to reading the Bible in the schools of that city, although it has been daily read in every one there during all that period."

A Brain Fatigue Meter.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Among the curious exhibits that the Prussian ministry of public instruction will include in its educational display at the St. Louis exposition is an apparatus for measuring mental fatigue, which is widely employed. It is called an æsthesiometer and measures the sensitiveness of the skin, which corresponds directly to brain fatigue, the sensitiveness diminishing as the mind wearies. The instrument, which is applied to the forehead or cheek, consists of a bar of polished steel divided into millimeters, which registers the skin's sensitiveness. This device has wholly displaced the erograph.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 19.—Two men are dead and two others are perhaps fatally injured as the result of the explosion of a freight locomotive on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near Monrovia. The dead are: Lewis Hahn, fireman, Baltimore; James Graham, fireman, Baltimore. Conductor Charles Cutsail and Brakeman Newman are thought to be fatally injured from cuts and bruises and the inhalation of escaping steam. All were brought to Baltimore hospitals, where the two first named men died last night.

China Does Not Answer.

PEKING, Jan. 19.—China has not yet replied to the note signed by all the foreign ministers here, with the exception of United States Minister Conger, informing the Chinese government that the failure to fulfill its obligations in refusing to pay the war indemnity on a gold basis, as provided for by the peace protocol, would entail grave consequences. The government is undoubtedly hard pressed for money, although if the provincial officials collected the revenues honestly the indemnity easily could be raised.

General Booth In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 19.—General William Booth of the Salvation Army spoke to 10,000 people in the Cleveland theater yesterday. Three services were held. One hundred and fifty converts were made as a result of the general's exhortations. An important army conclave will be held here, beginning Tuesday and lasting until Friday. Four hundred delegates from the Cleveland district will attend.

Tillman's Victim Still Alive.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 19.—The latest bulletin issued by Dr. Guerry concerning the condition of Editor Gonzales says: "Wound dressed and found to be in satisfactory condition. Drainage from the wound was in healthy condition. Patient stood the dressing very well indeed. Pulse, 122; temperature, 102; respiration, 30."

RICH FIND OF GOLD

News of Fabulous Wealth Comes From Dawson.

A WILD STAMPEDE IN PROGRESS.

The New Strike Is In American Territory North of Tanana River and Three Hundred Miles From Its Source.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 19.—A special from Dawson says a tremendously rich strike of gold has been made fifteen miles north of a point on Tanana river, 300 miles from its source, in American territory, and a stampede to the scene is in progress.

A special to the Times from Dawson says that a tremendously rich strike, the magnitude of which has not been equaled since Bob Henderson told his wonderful story of the Klondike, has been made eighteen miles north of a point on Tanana river 300 miles from its source. The district is in American territory. Circle City has been depopulated, and a wild stampede of prospectors from all the surrounding country is in progress. As yet few have reached the place.

The holes that have proved the wealth of the country were sunk late last winter, and the first man to reach Dawson from the new country has just arrived. He is a Japanese named J. Wada, well known in Dawson, where his veracity and honesty are unquestioned. So far the report has not been spread to any extent in Dawson, but the little that has been told has created an excitement that surely means a stampede.

The gist of Wada's report is that the district resembles the Klondike in its physical formation, but has a heavier growth of timber. Gold in widely different kinds had been found in eight different creeks when Wada left for Dawson on Dec. 22.

The original strike was made on Pedro creek, running parallel with the Tanana, about eighteen miles from the river. This creek is staked for miles.

Mrs. Maybrick May Lose Title.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 19.—Mrs. Florence J. Maybrick and her mother, the Baroness von Roques, will, it is said, lose all title and interest in 2,552,302 acres of land in Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky, valued at about $7,500,000, unless Mrs. Maybrick is released from prison in England in time to testify in a suit now pending in the chancery court of this city. Charles O. Saville, clerk of the court, said last night that the suit had been filed in the chancery court about seven years ago by Judge Leo D. Yerrell of Emporia on behalf of Mrs. Maybrick and her mother and has been in the court ever since.

Two Fires In Ithaca.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Fire completely gutted a student rooming house at Stewart avenue and Osmond place. The house was occupied by Mrs. Ella Harding, with her two sons and daughter and P. C. Eringer, A. H. Kohn, J. Kohn and A. D. Alcott, Cornell students. They were awakened by a dog barking just in time to escape in their night clothes. One student jumped from an upper window. The loss is $9,000. A second fire which broke out about the same time destroyed the grocery store and residence of City Tax Collector Jesse Stephens on Cascadilla street. The loss is $8,000.

Oil Company In Receiver's Hands.

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 19.—The San Jacinto Oil company, one of the largest concerns in Dallas, operating in the Beaumont field, has been placed in the hands of a receiver on the application of the Texas Cotton Products Company of Texas, which company had a contract with the San Jacinto Oil company for a large quantity of crude oil. The differences between what the contracts called for and the present price for oil approximates $1,500,000. There are about 6,000 stockholders of the company scattered over the United States.

Prison Population Decreased.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The annual report of the state prison commission, made public last night, supplements the report of the superintendent of prisons published a week ago and includes figures showing a notable decrease in the total prison population for the last few years. The report again calls the attention of the legislature to the contention that it is absolutely essential to the success of the present prison plan of convict employment that there should be no legislative exemptions from the provisions of the prison laws.

Rogers' Silver Plant Closes.

MERIDEN, Conn., Jan. 19.—A big surprise was sprung on the 1,000 employees of the silver plated ware manufacturing company of C. Rogers & Bros. when upon receiving their pay envelopes they found inclosed notice of their dismissal. The sweeping edict included every employee of the big factory, from the president, Cephas Rogers, down to the least paid person on the roll.

Sultan's Troops In Fight.

TANGIER, Jan. 19.—Definite information has reached here that the sultan's troops came in contact with the forces of the pretender on Jan. 13. It was an outpost affair, but there were many casualties on both sides. The sultan did not meet with a general disaster, as has been rumored. A serious engagement, however, may follow at any moment.

Abram S. Hewitt Dead.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Abram S. Hewitt, former mayor of New York and representative in congress from 1874 to 1887, is dead.

NIGHT WORK IN MINES.

Lackawanna Company Tries an Experiment to Increase Coal Output.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 19.—As an experiment the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company operated its Brisbin, Cayuga and Diamond collieries in this city Saturday night until 10:30 and its Storrs colliery until 8 o'clock, making fifteen and twelve hours respectively for the day. The output of the collieries for the day was 8,500 tons, or 2,200 more than their normal output. The result was entirely satisfactory, and the mines can be run every night if the men will work.

A canvass was made of the men working at the different collieries of the company, but only at the mines mentioned would the men volunteer to work. The company has two washeries that ran all night and four that worked yesterday. The Saturday and Sunday shipments of the company aggregate 64,000 tons. Up to date the shipments of the company from its collieries exceed by 75,000 tons the shipments for the same period of December.

Miners Meet Today.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 19.—The fourteenth annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America began here this morning. Every train has brought delegates. President Mitchell arrived last evening and went immediately to his hotel. Mr. Mitchell was met at Greenfield by the reception committee, representing the Central Labor Union of Indianapolis; John J. Appel, August Kuhn and Mortimer Lovering, representing the citizens, and Eli Hirschburg and Gus W. Kevers of Elks.

STUCK IN THE SAND.

North German Lloyd Steamer Lahn Aground Near Gibraltar.

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 19.—The North German Lloyd steamer Lahn, Captain Malchow, from Mediterranean ports for New York, went ashore at early morning at Tumara, five miles east of the rock of Gibraltar. There was a heavy fog and rain was falling at the time. On board the steamer are 300 saloon passengers and 1,200 emigrants. She is in no danger, and salvage steamers are with her waiting for high tide to get her off. The Lahn is stern on to the sea. The weather is moderate.

In an interview the agent of a salvage company here said: "The stranding of the Lahn is attributed to thick weather and the heavy rain. When off Tumara, about five miles east of the rock of Gibraltar, before daybreak the Lahn unexpectedly stranded on a sandbank."

The heavy easterly weather which prevailed in the morning shifted to the westward in the afternoon, and the sea is now calm.

All attempts to float the Lahn have been unsuccessful. The steamer probably will be compelled to transfer her passengers and cargo. Two attempts to pull off the stranded steamer were made at high water by the British admiralty tug Energetic, the United States cruiser Hartford and the tugs Newa, Heraclides and Hercules, but the Lahn remained fast on the sandbank.

HEAVY EXPORT TRADE.

Government Report Shows Big Increase Over Last Year.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The export trade of the United States has resumed its normal and expansive condition. From the low figure due to the failure of the corn crop last year and the unusual demand at home the export figures have increased from $88,000,000 in June to $148,000,000 in December and reached the highest mark ever made by exports in the month of December.

June, July and August of the year 1902 were the only months since August, 1899, in which the export figures fell below the $100,000,000 line, and this was due to the causes above indicated. With the arrival of the new crops of breadstuffs, cotton and provisions the exports have rapidly advanced, the increase in December over the preceding month, as shown by the statement of the treasury bureau of statistics, being about $23,000,000, of which the value of $11,000,000 is in cotton, $5,000,000 in provisions, $4,000,000 in breadstuffs and $1,000,000 in mineral oils.

The December exports are $11,000,000 in excess of December, 1901, $3,000,000 over the banner year of 1900, $10,000,000 more than in 1898.

Crew of Foundered Ship Rescued.

CHATHAM, Mass., Jan. 19.—Two life saving crews, one from Monomoy and the other made up of volunteers from this town, rowed out into Nantucket sound to the assistance of the crew of the Machias schooner Emeline G. Sawyer, Captain Keith, in the teeth of an icy northwest gale. The volunteer crew won the race and carried the shipwrecked mariners to land. The schooner, which is ashore on Common flats, will probably be a total loss.

Battleship's Dead Buried.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 19.—The remains of the six men who were killed by the explosion of a powder charge on board the United States battleship Massachusetts while at target practice off Culebra island were buried in the military cemetery here. The explosion occurred in the starboard after eight inch turret and was due to the accidental discharge of a percussion primer while the breech of the gun was open.

M. de Blowitz Dead.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Henri Georges Stephane Adolphe Opper de Blowitz, for many years correspondent of the London Times in Paris, is dead here. M. de Blowitz experienced an attack of apoplexy a few days ago. He was born in 1832.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

Jeffries-Corbett Will Probable—Baseball Magnates Meet.

BUFFALO, Jan. 19.—J. H. Herman, manager and match maker for the Fort Erie Athletic club, announces that he will offer a purse of $25,000 for a twenty round boxing contest between Jeffries and Corbett. He has written to the champion and ex-champion making the offer, and if satisfactory answers are received he will at once post a forfeit of $5,000 as a guarantee that the contest will take place without interference.

"Do you anticipate any interference from the Canadian authorities?" he was asked.

"It is not certain that the match will be pulled off in the Fort Erie clubhouse. It will be remembered, however, that three championship contests between lightweights and middleweights have already taken place across the river, and there has been no infraction of the Canadian law governing boxing contests. Joe Walcott beat Jim Ferns for the welterweight, Frank Erne lost the lightweight championship to Joe Gans, and Tommy Ryan checked 'Kid' Carter's aspirations for the title of middleweight champion. They all were good, clean contests."

"If you receive satisfactory answers from Jeffries and Corbett, when do you propose to hold the contest?"

"Probably in June."

Baseball Magnates Meet.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 19.—The adjourned meeting of the National Baseball league opened here today. It is understood that the New York injunction will not interfere with the meeting, as it lies against ratification only, and it may be some time before such action will be reached. While Dreyfus has power of attorney to vote for the Philadelphia club as well as for the Pittsburg club, of which he is president, he is enjoined from voting for either club, and this would leave Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago alone with the voting power in the meeting on the question of ratification. It is stated that Boston has signified its affirmative vote, and New York and Brooklyn are the only ones in doubt. Notwithstanding the resort to the courts by President Brush and the comments of others those who are here are confident that the peace compact will finally be ratified.

New York Sporting Man Dead.

PHENIX, Ariz., Jan. 19.—Augustus F. Tuthill, a member of the New York Stock Exchange and well known in sporting circles as manager of the late Jack Dempsey, the pugilist, is dead here of bronchial pneumonia, aged forty-seven.

BIG GUN TRIED.

New Sixteen Inch Cannon Found to Be Accurate.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The most powerful gun ever built in America, a huge sixteen inch coast defense rifle, has been successfully tested at the government proving ground, Sandy Hook.

The gun was fired three times in the presence of several hundred army officers, a few civilians and one representative of the legislative branch of the government, Congressman Gillette of Massachusetts, who was invited as a member of the appropriations committee.

The three tests were marked by the wonderful accuracy with which they fulfilled the mathematical calculations of the army experts who have had charge of the gun's construction. The three shots also proved that the special smokeless powder made for sixteen inch guns had been accurately prepared.

The gun cost $100,000. It was said at the tests that the gun undoubtedly would be mounted at Sandy Hook. General Crozier said that while its range at its highest elevation was about twenty miles it could be used to hit objects only at a distance of four or five miles. Objects farther away could not be seen.

Will Visit Mrs. McKinley.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 19.—On Thursday morning, Jan. 23, prominent members of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution will go to Canton to present to Mrs. McKinley an elaborate memorial of her husband, who was a compatriot of the society. The party that will go to Canton will include prominent members of the society from every state in the Union. They will gather in Cleveland on the evening before to attend the annual banquet of the society.

Pulp Mill Wrecked.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 19.—One of the great digesters in the sulphite mills of the Dexter Sulphite Pulp and Paper company at Dexter, eight miles from this city, exploded, wrecking the entire pulp mill. The loss is placed at $75,000. The cause of the explosion is a mystery. George Hunt of Dexter, in charge of the plant, was blown fifty feet and instantly killed.

Lorenz Received Coldly in England.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Dr. Lorenz, the Austrian surgeon, has left here for Vienna. He said before starting for Austria that he had been rather coldly received by many English surgeons, who viewed his methods with suspicion.

Elopers at Menton.

MENTON, France, Jan. 19.—The crown princess of Saxony and M. Giron, with whom she eloped, have arrived here and intend to stay two months. They have taken the name of M. and Mme. Andre Gerard.

Eight Hurt In Collision.

REMINGTON, O., Jan. 19.—A head end collision occurred on the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern railroad here, resulting in eight persons being injured, three seriously.

CRUISER OPENED FIRE

Kaiser's Ship Shelled Venezuelan Fort For an Hour.

WITHOUT WARNING OR PROVOCATION

The Panther's Attack Was Effectively Answered by the Guns From San Carlos—Three Men Wounded.

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, Jan. 19.—The German cruiser Panther shelled Fort San Carlos, at the entrance to Lake Maracaibo, Saturday afternoon for one hour. The fort returned the fire with four guns. The Panther withdrew in the direction of Curacao.

Fort San Carlos is twenty-two miles from Maracaibo and commands the entrance to the lake or inner bay.

A correspondent here has received the following letter from General Bello, the commander of the fort:

"Yesterday afternoon at half past 12 Fort San Carlos was attacked and shelled without any provocation on our part, without previous notification or the delivering of an ultimatum, by the German cruiser Panther, which tried to force the entrance. After a fight lasting an hour, during which the fort used only four guns, the Panther was obliged to abandon the fight and retreated in the direction of Curacao. The fort has suffered no damage, and only three men were wounded."

There have been popular demonstrations on the streets here as a result of the shelling of the fort.

The Dangers of Railroading.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A statement prepared by the interstate commerce commission shows that during the three months ended Sept. 30, 1902, there were 263 persons killed and 2,613 injured in train accidents. Other kinds of accidents, including those sustained by employees while at work and by passengers in getting on or off the cars, etc., bring the total number of casualties up to 12,007, the killed numbering 845 and the injured 11,162. During the three months covered by the statement the traffic of a large majority of the railroads has been heavier than ever before, necessitating the employment of new men for service in train and yard work. The total number of collisions and derailments was 2,448. The damage to cars, engines and roadway by these accidents amounted to $2,198,500.

Platt's Re-election Seems Assured.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The election of a United States senator to succeed Thomas Collier Platt will be the most important legislative event this week. Thus far there is but one Republican candidate in the field, and he is Senator Platt. Both Senator Platt and Governor Odell have expressed the belief that he will be re-elected. Tonight at 9:30 o'clock, after the regular Monday evening session, a caucus of the Republican legislators will be held in the assembly chamber, while the Democratic senators and assemblymen will hold a caucus in the senate chamber. The Democratic legislators will name Hon. John B. Stanchfield of Elmira as their candidate for United States senator. For regent of the university the Republicans intend to name Charles A. Gardnier of New York.

Lucania Faced Tempests.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The Cunard liner Lucania, from Liverpool and Queenstown, had a very stormy passage, with strong westerly gales and high, dangerous, confused seas. On Monday, Jan. 12, an enormous sea boarded the steamer and flooded the saloon deck on the port side. The tremendous body of water filled up the decks and swept overboard the deck steward, Frank Hardy; knocked a passenger down and tumbled him about so violently that he was badly cut about the head. All effort to save the deck steward was rendered futile by the tempestuous condition of the weather.

Irish Leader's Predictions.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—John Redmond, M. P., the Irish leader, responding to a Nationalist address presented to him at Edinburgh, said he believed that the friends of Ireland would soon see a measure become a law which would heal the wounds of centuries and give the Irish people a chance of living in peace and prosperity on their own soil. If this chance of settling the Irish land question was lost by the rejection of the measure, continued Mr. Redmond, there would be an overwhelming justification of so strong, menacing and dangerous public movement in Ireland as he would be sorry to see.

Catholic Cathedral Dedicated.

WATERBURY, Conn., Jan. 19.—With elaborate ceremonies conducted by Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, assisted by several prominent New England clergymen, St. Patrick's church in the Brooklyn district was dedicated yesterday. It is estimated that there were 5,000 visitors in town, special trains coming from Winsted and Hartford. Hundreds were unable to gain admittance to the church.

May Tie Up Railroad.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 19.—The employees of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad have threatened a tie-up of the entire system because General Manager Waldo has refused to deal with the federated board representing the various branches of labor on the road. This refusal was made last week when the board wished to present a demand for an advance in wages.

Sultan's Brother-in-law Dead.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 19.—Mahmud Pasha, brother-in-law of the sultan of Turkey and leader of the Turkish Reform party, died here in exile.

ONE EFFECT.

There has been so much talk of late concerning the proposed improvements that it seems proper to go into detail regarding them. In another column will be found an outline of the changes which the police department contemplates making if the Common Council makes the necessary appropriations.

Chief of these improvements is the installation of a police signal call system, with boxes located at all parts of the city. This would undoubtedly greatly increase the efficiency of the present police force as it would furnish a means of almost instant communication with headquarters instead of compelling the officers to depend on private telephones in the neighborhood as at present. Its installation would also mean a police patrol wagon which would respond to calls from all parts of the city.

A new police headquarters in a building constructed for that purpose is also planned and it seems quite likely that it will be authorized. This will contain the city court room, the city jail, a stable for the police patrol and accommodations for a number of patrolmen who will be quartered there so as to be always ready for service. It is said that the city can really save money by building such a municipal structure, the interest on a bond issue being considerably less than rent.

There is just one thing about it, however. If the city builds a police headquarters the city hall project is removed from the present generation. A city hall would undoubtedly contain provisions for that department and the establishment of a distinct building would do much toward killing any scheme to build a city building for all the departments combined. The members of the Common Council are quite well satisfied with their present quarters in the Smalley building so that it does not look as if there was any chance of action regarding a city hall in the near future.

This session of the Grand Jury promises to be one of unusual importance to Plainfield. There has been considerable discussion regarding "speak easies" and illegal liquor selling in Plainfield in the past and the present investigation of the Grand Jury promises to renew the interest tenfold. This morning saw quite a host start for Elizabeth to be examined by the Grand Jury. The findings of that body will be awaited with much interest.

Never before has a single twelve month brought about so many changes in the local pastorates. Yesterday morning brought the announcement that Rev. J. W. Richardson had resigned his charge at the Park Avenue Baptist church to accept a call from Stamford, Conn. During the decade that he has been in charge of the local church, Rev. Mr. Richardson has made many friends who will now see him depart with the keenest regret.

While there has been some very temperate weather, the winter so far has done nothing to win the title of a mild winter. Just at present the ice men are well satisfied with the prospects for several crops of ice.

The Legislature meets again this evening. Some new bills may be expected.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

When it is a question of laces, embroideries, and linen articles, you can rest assured that Peck is an authority. He always carries a superior line of goods and they cost no more than an inferior quality.

If you have not examined the handsome line of pianos at G. H. Kenyon's piano store on West Front street, you have no idea what you can purchase for a comparatively small amount and on easy terms. There are several makes to select from.

All the year round the owner of the house is thinking about its outside appearance. He should hie himself to James C. Hansen, of East Front street, and have him furnish estimates for its painting. Hansen is a practical house painter and decorator and employs none but the best workmen.

There is as much difference in cigars as there is between cabbage and tobacco. Every dealer claims his particular brands are the best but if Dobbins' Yara cigars are once tried and that delicious natural flavor is once tasted Mr. Dobbins' claim that his cigars are the acme of the cigar-maker's art will be found to be true.

No matter what kind of a watch you have it is bound to get out of order. No matter what kind of a watch it is that gets out of order L. Moraller & Son, the Park avenue jewelers, can repair. No matter what others claim they can do, these jewelers accomplish the best results in repairing anything in the jewelry line.

From now until the time of removal into their new building, Woodhull & Martin, the dry goods firm, will offer bargains in every department. When the new store is opened all goods will be new, yet the Plainfield people should not let this opportunity go to make their purchases. The goods now in stock are all desirable and are offered at low prices.

Just as America is held the peer of all other nations, so is Rockdale print and creamery butter regarded by experts as the best of all grades in the market. It requires a greater expense to manufacture it, as none but the best dairymen are concerned, and yet the price in comparison is extremely low. Millions of pounds are sold annually in this country and its excellent quality has never been questioned. It is retailed in this city only by Neuman Brothers.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan, of Albert street, preached in the M. E. church at Rahway, last evening.

—A regular meeting of the Board of Trade is to be held in the office of H. C. Runyon, tomorrow evening.

—The women of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the church for sewing. A full attendance is desired.

—Miss Justina Smith, of the borough, will entertain the card club, of which she is a member, at her home Wednesday evening.

—Following the regular prayer meeting at the First Baptist church, Wednesday evening, there will be the church business meeting.

—Mrs. Robert Rushmore, of West Eighth street, will soon issue cards for a reception to be given at her home Thursday, January 29, from 4 to 7 o'clock.

—C. M. Nagle, the druggist, will give up his present residence, corner of West Front and New streets, April 1, and will remove to another property on West Front street, which he is planning to purchase.

—The Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet in regular session Friday afternoon in the church at the usual hour. All the members are earnestly requested to be present.

—Nelson Peterson, of Watchung avenue, who has been engaged in the florist business with his father for several years, has severed the connection in order to assume the management of a large greenhouse on North Broad street, Newark.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Services were held in the Presbyterian church yesterday as the church is being papered and repainted. It is planned to improve the interior of the church a great deal. It is now being wired for electic lights, which will be placed everywhere, and all oil lamps will be dispensed with. One very large cluster will be placed in the centre of the church to take the place of the present large chandelier. New carpet will be placed on the floors and the walls will be repapered and decorated.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wynkoop, of Front street, entertained a number of the members of a Plainfield lodge of which he is an officer, Saturday evening. All enjoyed a very pleasant time.

The family of Superintendent Coyle, of the Levering & Garrigues factory, entertained Philadelphia guests, yesterday.

Miss Edna Smalley, of East Orange, has returned home after a visit at the home of Mrs. L. B. Nelson.

Adam Dealaman still continues to improve and is expected to be about again by spring.

The Willing Workers, of Holy Innocents' church, held a meeting Saturday afternoon.

Miss Viola Hill is again in a very critical condition and her recovery is very doubtful.

The Literary Circle will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Lester Meserole.

Herbert Richardson, of Plainfield, spent yesterday at the home of James Craig.

Rev. N. J. Sproul entertained a friend from out of town yesterday.

The children of Jacob Hurley are recovering from a slight illness.

A meeting of the banjo club will be held this evening for practice.

Haselwood Craig is spending a few days out of town on business.

Regular services were held in the Methodist church yesterday.

Firman Gise has purchased a horse of Garretson & Gray.

The young daughter of Luke Hurley is ill.

NEW MARKET.

LeRoy Clawson, of Samptown, had his leg, which was broken, removed from the plaster cast on Saturday and will soon be able to walk again as well as ever.

There will be considerable rivalry for the offices of collector and assessor at the spring election, as the salaries for those places have recently been raised.

Skating was good again yesterday on the lake and a large crowd of out-of-town people enjoyed the sport.

Regular services were held yesterday in the First Baptist church.

Aaron Brower is ill and is in a very critical condition.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Judge Vail's refusal, Friday, to grant a license for a hotel near Galvin's Park met with general approval. While the hotel itself is far removed from the village, still those opposed felt as though Scotch Plains would be better off without a hotel there for the present at least.

The weekly shoot of the Brookside Gun Club, held Saturday afternoon, called out a full attendance of the members. The honors of the day went to Manager George Johnston.

"Young Christians in Training for Church Work" was the topic discussed by the members of the B. Y. P. U. at their weekly meeting in the church parlors last night.

Mrs. George H. Johnston and children have returned from a week's visit at the home of Mrs. Johnston's brother, Francis Flannery, of New York.

The week of prayer services, which have been held every night the past two weeks at the Baptist church, was brought to a close Friday evening.

Mrs. John R. Cockrane, who has been visiting Miss Susie Parse, returned to her home in Brooklyn, yesterday.

The members of the Epworth League held an interesting weekly meeting in the church last night.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company will hold its regular monthly meeting in its rooms tonight.

Skating at the "back pond" has been forbidden while the annual crop of ice is being harvested.

Chas. D. Stout has returned from an extensive business trip through the New England States.

Miss Sadie Reger spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in New York.

DISEASE IN HAND.

Scotch Plains Has Developed Several Cases of Contagious Disease—No Epidemic Feared.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 19 — Several cases of diphtheria have developed at Scotch Plains and some of the residents have been somewhat fearful lest there should be an epidemic. There is little chance for this, however, as the Board of Health has the several cases well in hand and every precaution is being taken to prevent a spread of the disease.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh, has the disease and Dr. Sinclair is in attendance. Dr. Westcott is attending Howard McDonough, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McDonough. Miss Walpool, the daughter of Lyman Walpool, was taken ill Saturday and Dr. M. B. Long has been called. It is believed that she has diphtheria. There are two more suspected cases which will be determined upon today.

Strict quarantine is being maintained in every case and with great care it is believed that further spread will be prevented.

ESCAPED AGAIN.

Thos. Jackson Broke Out of Isolation Hospital at New Brunswick Saturday, and Is Still at Large.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Jan. 19—Thomas Jackson, the small-pox patient who escaped from the emergency hospital Friday night but who was eventually recaptured near Franklin Park, again broke out of the hospital early Saturday morning and has not been recaptured yet. When he was arrested a pair of stout handcuffs were placed upon his wrists and they were kept on him when he was again placed in his ward.

Still wearing the handcuffs he succeeded in breaking the lock of a door and, after threatening the nurse, George Applegate, and the watchman, John Savage, he disappeared and has not been seen since. He is believed to be making his way towards Kingston.

OLD HOUSE GOING.

Old Timer on Watchung Avenue Will be Replaced by Modern Dwellings.

The work of demolishing the old Ruttman house on Watchung avenue at the corner of Kensington avenue, is in process. The property, owned by DeWitt C. Ivins, will be improved and in place of the old house there will be erected handsome residences. The old house stood formerly where S. A. Ginna's handsome residence is now located and forty years ago it was one of three houses on Watchung avenue between Seventh street and Woodland avenue. It was then occupied by Jacob Laing, father of E. M. Laing, of Park avenue.

Preached Here.

Owing to the fact that his wife is quite ill, Rev. Dr. Henry M. Sanders, of New York, who is preaching at the First Baptist church, this month, was obliged to return to New York after the morning service, yesterday. He returned to Plainfield in time to preach in the evening to a very large congregation. Dr. Sanders' preaching has attracted considerable attention during the month and the congregations have grown rapidly.

reference to increasing the pay of the regular men, from the chief down. Under the present system Chief Kiely receives $1,200 a year, Sergeant Frederickson gets $65 a month, the roundsmen get $63 a month, while the patrolmen receive $60 a month. The city now furnishes the policemen with clothes and has always paid for all time lost. In this particular the city has frequently carried men for weeks and some times months at a time owing to sickness. Under the new plan the men would lose all time off, except the regular time given, such as vacation and days off. Every member of the department will buy his own clothes but will receive more money.

The increase would give Chief Kiely $1,500 a year, Sergeant Frederickson $80 a month, the two roundsmen $77 a month and the patrolmen $75 a month. To do this would mean a saving to some extent to the city, and it is believed that $18,000 a year appropriated to the police department would cover the expenses. The bonds issued in building the new headquarters and installing the patrol system would not be paid for in one year, but those living in succeeding years would help to liquidate the indebtedness.

TO HELP HOSPITAL.

Potter Press Works Employes Donate Toward Support of a Bed at Muhlenberg.

At the regular quarterly meeting of the Potter Press Works Mutual Aid Society, held Saturday evening, in Coward's Hall, George Krymer, was elected treasurer and Edward Mosher, a member of the finance committee, to complete the unexpired term of Aaron Mrttox. A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring treasurer, Thos. Caleen, who has held the position for seven years. It was decided to donate $25 toward the support of a bed at Muhlenberg Hospital.

At the completion of the business cigars, the gift of President James Patterson and Secretary Humpston, were passed and songs and monologues by George A. Zeisz were enjoyed.

Thistle Club Officers.

The following officers have been elected by the Scotch Thistle Club: President, Alexander McDuff; secretary and treasurer, Thomas McNeil; entertaining committee, Andrew Campbell and David Bowden. Burns' birthday anniversary will be observed Saturday evening by an entertainment and reception to be held in K. of P. Hall on West Second street.

Tonight at 8 o'Clock.

"Endeavorers in Training for Church Work" is the subject of the Endeavor meeting in Trinity Reformed church tonight. Robert Clark, Jr., will address the meeting and all are invited.

Music at Boynton.

Prof. Cavello and his orchestra, of the Columbia Theatre, Newark, has again been engaged for next season at Boynton Beach. This will be the third season for the orchestra at the beach.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Lewis Bennett, of Watchung avenue, is detained at his home with a severe attack of tonsilitis.

Miss Loree, of East Fifth street, is detained at home by an illness which threatens pneumonia.

Miss Caroline Edinger, of Pennsylvania, has returned home after visiting friends in Plainfield.

Mrs. Samuel Townsend, of Washington Park, who is detained at home with an attack of pleurisy, is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Ginns, of Watchung avenue, left today for Florida, where they will remain until spring.

Mrs. E. W. Mills, of West Front street, has returned from Brooklyn, where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frank Fulton.

W. D. Williams, Miss Mullen and Miss Thompson, of Woodhull & Martin's store, returned to work today after enjoying a vacation of one week.

Dr. and Mrs. Long, of New York, who have been spending some days at Dr. Long's former home in Grove street, have returned to their home.

Allan B. Laing, of Grove street, who has been seriously ill for some time, is now able to be out for the first. He is gradually regaining his strength.

J. A. Smith, of Central avenue, who has been seriously ill with typhoid fever, has recovered sufficiently to go out. He was at his store on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Smith, of Grandview avenue, have returned from Morgansville, Monmouth county, where they went to attend the funeral of Mr. Smith's sister.

Miss Madeline Reed, of Washington Park, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, continues to improve. Thus far her symptoms have been not favorable for an early recovery.

REAL HUMAN TANK.

Man Drink a Big Pail of Beer at One Draught Without Showing the Least Effect.

A committee of English brewers recently visited America to study the methods of the large breweries in New York.

While looking over the Ruppert brewery the conversation turned on the privilege accorded to employes to indulge in the malted beverage. To the Englishmen's great surprise they learned that there was no restriction placed upon the men.

"But are you not afraid that their over-indulgence might interfere with their work?" Col. Jacob Ruppert, the host, was asked.

"Oh, not at all. No amount of beer that they drink can affect our men," replied the colonel. "Why, we have a foreman who can drink a pail of beer at one draught without showing the least effect."

This statement, says the New York Times, called forth such an expression of doubt that the foreman was summoned.

"Fritz," said the colonel, "these gentlemen seem to doubt that you can drink a pail of beer without stopping. Now, I want you to fill one of your big pails, bring it in here, and prove what I have said."

This was done, and, without turning a hair, the German assimilated the contents of the pail.

"My word!" exclaimed one of the Englishmen. "How did you manage that?"

"Oh, dot was easy," said the fat Teuton, with a proud smile. "To make sure dot I don'd make no mistake I first fill de bail und drink it outside, to try it once. Den I fill it again und drink it in here."

BRASS WEDDING RING.

It Was Purchased by an Insane Man Who Expected to Marry Alice Roosevelt.

Ferdinand Kenzel, a laboring man residing at Delafield, Wis., was recently examined as to his sanity and committed to the hospital. He has been laboring under a delusion that he has been promised the hand of Alice Roosevelt as soon as the president should die. He has made plans for a wedding. There were several unusual features about the case. He had bought a ring at a toy store, which he declared was given him by the president in behalf of his daughter. This ring was one which retails for about ten cents, and has a green glass setting. At his home he has another ring, brass, 18 carats fine, with which he was to make Miss Roosevelt his bride. Then he had also purchased some linen table cloths of turkey red, napkins of bandana blue, and other similar home furnishings. He said they would have to start cheap, but maybe Teddy would give him some white stuff later on. He is well educated, and speaks five languages fluently.

She Kissed the Wrong Man.

Mrs. Sarah Plunket, of Concordia, Kan., is on her way to her old home in Ohio, happy in the thought that she kissed her husband before leaving home. She has not yet learned that instead she kissed a stranger. On the way to the train, Mrs. Plunket stopped at her husband's store, and was told he was at the barber shop. She had only a minute and she rushed into the shop, bent over a man whose face was covered with lather, kissed him in the mouth, and charged him to write every day. Her husband was in the next chair, and the astonished man she kissed never saw her before, but she boarded her train without knowing the difference. When the shaving was over the man who was kissed and the husband shook hands.

Onions as a Medicine.

It is said that onions eaten raw are a preventive of and sometimes a cure for malarial fever.

MYSTERY IN FIRES.

Fourteen Conflagrations in Forty-Eight Hours Terrify a Family Down in Tennessee.

Residents of Weakley county, Tenn., are stirred up over a series of mysterious fires that have been breaking out in the house of Josiah Page, about two miles from the town of Gleason. The first blaze sprung from apparently no cause whatever last Thursday, and was promptly extinguished by Page and his family. Not more than an hour later the house was again discovered on fire, in a different place, and the blaze was again extinguished. By this time the family was excited, and they began to hunt for the cause of the mystery. Then even while they were looking at the house another blaze was seen creeping out near the roof.

Persons from Gleason heard of the occurrence, and to satisfy curiosity A. S. Brummitt, president of the bank of Gleason, in company with Dr. Bandy, Dr. Bledsoe and other responsible citizens, went out to be convinced that there was nothing at all in it. The party had not been there more than 15 minutes when, to their surprise, a blaze was seen shooting out from the roof of the house, and to make the proposition more unreasonable, after that was put out other fires started in less than 30 minutes.

The members of the family are honest people of average intelligence and are terror stricken, having removed everything from the building and taken their household goods to other quarters. Fire had broken out 14 times in 48 hours, and hundreds of people are flocking out to witness the sight. The writer of this drove out to the place, and, though incredulous, stood and saw the fire start from the west gable of the house, though no one was within 50 feet of the building. The whole community is wrought up over the matter.

NEW STREET COSTUME.

It Consisted of a Suit of Pink Pajamas and Made a Milwaukee Copper Blush.

The Milwaukee correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer relates this story of a pretty woman, a suit of pink pajamas and a big policeman. "What is the charge?" asked the judge.

"Disorderly conduct—wearing a suit of pajamas in the street," replied the officer in the witness box.

The pretty woman in the prisoner's dock smiled sweetly, the court looked surprised, and the big policeman blushed, and the pink pajamas said nary a word but lay there in plain sight of prisoner and judge and policeman.

Vivian Partell lives in Marinette. She has a fad. It is the wearing of pajamas—not only during the hours of slumber, but as a lounging costume for women. She came to Milwaukee to introduce the costume, and thereby hangs the tale. Policeman Brost was walking down the street last evening when the natty figure of the woman caught his eye. "Where are you going?" inquired the officer. She said: "I am introducing pajamas as a neat and attractive apparel for general house wear." She paid a fine.

Very Helpful Admonition.

Information for travelers was imparted by a thoughtful genius in Ireland, who engraved the following warning on a stone near the banks of a rivulet in the town of Strabane: "Take notice, that when this stone is out of sight it is not safe to ford the river." This is somewhat similar to the famous finger post which was erected in Kent, England: "This is a bridle path to Feversham. If you can't read this, you had better keep to the main road."

How to Make A Speech In Public

IF a woman under the age of 100 can do even so simple a thing as to walk down a church aisle in the presence of others without thinking what those others are thinking of her appearance, she is an exceptional woman. An overwhelming, frightening self consciousness is the bane of the feminine sex. You see it in the silly vanity of even small girls when they strut along the street in new frocks or watch to learn if others are impressed with them. The whole sex, from five to ninety-five, is eaten up with this wretched vanity. It causes stage fright. It is not self conceit, but the lack of it. In the girl child it is the beginning of a false education; in the grown woman it is the distressing result of that education. Women have been trained to regard the tout ensemble of mere physical appearance as the all in all of the female being; consequently they are always in a stew in regard to that appearance.

This eternal self consciousness cripples a woman when she would speak in public. It peeps out evermore in the oratory of clubwomen. It is the direst enemy to their success in that field. Get rid of it, then. But how? Well, resolve once for all that you will get rid of it or die. Make yourself cease to think about the impression you are making on others. If you find you are doing this in spite of good resolution, check yourself instantly. Think of something else. Do this in all the affairs of life. In proportion as you do it, in proportion as you can merge your petty personality into the infinite life, to that exact degree you will really begin to be somebody.

Would you like to make a speech? Sit down first, quietly and alone, and think very earnestly with all your powers of concentration on what you want to say. Don't for one second let the chilling, killing, accursed thought of whether your audience will consider you, Jane Smith, brilliant and wise, remain in your mind. Just think of what you, Jane Smith, desire to say in all good will and modesty. Make a perfect picture in your mind of yourself standing before the audience speaking this matter.

Then prepare your speech. Never read it if you can possibly avoid it, but speak it. Stand up like a man and look people in the eye and let yourself go. Hurl your sentences winged with the magnetic force of your soul. Women's clubs will fall to pieces if women do not stop reading those long, stupid papers.

If you have only a five or ten minute address to make, do not write it at all. Put upon paper the heads of what you would say; then talk the speech over to yourself in your mind till you are familiar with it as with A B C. That is the best way of all to make a speech.

Then speak distinctly, in a clear voice. How acquire this clear, distinct voice? Bring your voice forward from your throat and issue it from your lips, opening your lips moderately wide so it can get out. To understand exactly what I mean, take, for instance, the sentence "Braid broad braids, my brave babes." Pronounce it first back in your throat in the ordinary crude, slovenly way in which we American people manage the voice; then throw your tone forward and send it from your front teeth and the tip of your tongue, drawing your lips slightly backward at the corners to give the sound room to get out, and you yourself will be surprised at the difference.

Pitch your voice on a low key, so you will not shriek or squeal; then, in the name of all the saints, speak loud enough. A woman who cannot make herself heard in a given audience has no right to waste their time by attempting it. Life is short.

A last word as to dress. Do you want your hearers to pay attention to you instead of to what you have to say? Then trick yourself out in your most show-offish rig, putting on all your war paint and feathers and furbelows. Do you want them to heed what you have to say? Dress yourself with the utmost neatness, particularly as to your feet, hair and neckwear, but otherwise be just as plain and unornamented as is compatible with being well dressed. And don't wear your hat while speaking.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

In the bluish-gray of dawn, six of the colony renewed work on "The Jumping Jupiter," Light, misty clouds obscured the eastern sky and a vapor hung over the lake. As the sun mounted the heavens this fog slowly lifted.

Mr. Rockwell was working on the bow of the boat, laying the flooring which served as a deck. He paused a moment to rest, and looked out toward the black gateway to the bay. Something invited his gaze. He shaded his eyes with his hand.

"What is that?" he exclaimed, pointing in the direction of the rock, where Mr. Pence had so narrow an escape. All eyes were turned to the point indicated by Mr. Rockwell. In the freshening morning breeze, a triangular white flag fluttered from the ledge of rocks.

"What does that mean?" said Sidney. "No one here has placed a flag on that rock."

Mr. Pence and Mr. Haven were at work in the bungalow. They were sent for, but had no knowledge of the flag. No member of the party had been across the bay since Monday. Certain it was that the flag had not been there the preceding day. It was a large white flag and could not have escaped notice.

"Let's investigate this," said Sidney. "It is well to be cautious."

He went to the bungalow and brought back four rifles. Mr. Kent, Mr. Morton and Mr. Vincent were selected to accompany him and they were soon on the raft and down the bay. They circled around the rock from a distance, but saw no sign of human beings. There seemed to be a pile of boxes and packages on the apex of the rocks.

"We will go in," said Sidney. "Mr. Kent and I will keep a lookout."

Mr. Morton and Vincent pushed the raft forward and they swung in back of the rock. It was low tide. The first thing that attracted their attention was a 15-foot yawl or dingy, well up on the shore, with its painter wrapped around a tree. This boat was brand new; not a scratch showing on its varnished sides. The handles of its four oars showed no traces of having been used. It was such a boat as four men could safely use in ordinary weather, and specially fitted for service on such a reach of water as "Morton's Bay." A hurried examination revealed no name and gave no clue to the manufacturer. It was a model from which thousands have been made.

On the brow of a rock was a pile of boxes and cases. The flag floated from a staff, which was propped up by a large stone. Just below the flag was a tab or card such as express companies use, tied firmly to the flagstaff. Mr. Morton read the inscription. It was as follows:

> On board the Shark, May 18th.
> To Messrs. Palmer J. Morton, Andrus Carmody, John M. Rockwell, Simon Pence, R. J. Kent, Hiram Haven, Sidney Hammond and L. Sylvester Vincent, guests of Hestoria Island and Bungalow, with the compliments of > WALTER B. HESTOR.

Two of the boxes were heavy, and water was dripping from them. An examination showed that they were packed with ice. There were 15 boxes. The yawl was pushed into the water and loaded with as much of the freight as could safely be carried. The remaining boxes were placed on the raft. The beach being clear—the tide was at its ebb—Mr. Haven and Mr. Morton walked along the cliffs and back to camp. Sidney rowed the yawl and Vincent took charge of the raft. Aided by a favoring breeze, he made good time. The boxes were deposited on the deck of "The Jumping Jupiter" and opened. There was lively curiosity concerning their contents. The first box yielded several hundred pounds of choice cuts of steak, and roasts of beef. The second one contained an assortment of legs of lamb and other fresh meats. These were at once taken to the storehouse. The meat was in excellent condition and would keep fresh for many days.

There were crates filled with vegetables, lettuce, strawberries, radishes, and all the garden luxuries of that season of the year. It was a tempting array, and L. Sylvester Vincent was in his glory. Then there were cases of champagne, a box filled with pickles, table sauces, oils, etc. There was a supply of fresh meat and vegetables sufficient to last a week or ten days, even if the castaways used nothing from the boundless resources of the island.

"A sirloin steak will taste good again," said Mr. Kent as he hammered the top from the last box. He displayed to view a top layer of the latest magazines. Then he found a number of new books and a varied assortment of May publications. In the bottom of the box were copies of newspapers. There was a rush for these papers.

There were copies of the New York papers dated from May 2d to May 12th, also copies of New Orleans papers as late as May 14th. In addition to these were copies of Chicago and Philadelphia papers from the time of their departure from New York up to dates comparatively recent.

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Rockwell, after ten minutes had elapsed, "we have read enough to indicate that none of our families has suffered from death or serious illness up to the time these papers were printed. We can postpone a study of less important matters until our morning's work is done. Let us proceed to our task and do our reading later."

This suggestion was agreed to, and Vincent carried the precious box to the bungalow. The news from the great outside world from which they were separated acted as a stimulus to their energies. It was nearly 11 o'clock before Mr. Carmody gave the signal to cease, and they returned to the big dining room, where a tempting dinner awaited them.

There was no afternoon siesta that day. In the bright sunlight, the veranda was alive with flaming headlines and rustling newspapers. For two hours scarcely a word was spoken. Each man read in silence; intent on those items of news in which he had a personal interest. Again they lived over the events of the 18 days which had passed—this time not on the decks of a yacht, or in a tropical wilderness, but in New York.

L. Sylvester Vincent broke the spell. He had searched paper after paper and finally came upon a modest item in The New York Record announcing his disappearance.

"I don't seem to cut much ice in this mystery," he said in an aggrieved tone.

THERE WAS A ROAR OF LAUGHTER.

There was a roar of laughter, in which Vincent joined.

"Never mind, Vincent," said Mr. Kent, "you are the only one in the party who will quit winner on this deal. If you save those beastly idols, you will be fairly rich, and your picture will be in all the papers. You will yet be famous. Did you see this, Mr. Rockwell?"

Mr. Kent read the following from The Record May 4th:

"It is a matter of sincere regret that Mr. Walter B. Hestor, the famous special correspondent of The New York Record, left this city on a cruise through the Mediterranean shortly before this outrage occurred. All westbound steamers have been requested to communicate the facts to Mr. Hestor, in order that his services may be secured at the earliest possible moment. No journalist living is better qualified to unravel a mystery of this character, and The Record hopes to be able to announce the co-operation of Mr. Hestor in a few days."

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

The Country Dance in Ireland.

"The country dance, the cross-roads festivity of the Irish peasantry, which had practically become a thing of the past in Ireland when I was there five years ago," said the Rev. Father Fielding, of Chicago, "is again in full swing in the old country, much to the delight of the lovers of an Irish Ireland. A puritanical spirit totally alien to Irish character," he continued, "arose among the Irish clergy a decade ago, and every enjoyment and pastime of the young country folk was frowned upon. The great work done by the Gaelic league in Ireland has changed conditions. The league now pays Irish pipers and fiddlers to play at the crossroads dances, when, in view of all the old folks, the 'boys and girls of Erin' enjoy themselves just as they did in the time Lever wrote about."—Philadelphia Record.

Last of a Species of Parrot.

Ornithologists will regret to learn that Guilding's Amazon parrot, a rare bird inhabiting the mountains of St. Vincent, has in all probability become extinct, owing to the recent volcanic phenomena in the island. The species was said formerly to occur only on the Souffriere, hence it became known as the Souffriere bird. The great eruption of 1718 drove many specimens to seek shelter in the other highlands of St. Vincent, but their numbers were considerably reduced by the fearful hurricane of 1898, and there is reason to fear, so I am told by an ornithological friend, that the few survivors have all perished in the eruption of May last.—Scotsman.

Concerning Names.

"Apropos of the eternal domestic question, an English woman relates this experience: "I engaged a maid named Pearl, and as I simply couldn't ask a Pearl to fill the coal scuttle—happy woman to have one to fill—or to holystone the doorstep, I said: 'I would rather call you by some other name. Have you a second one?' 'Yes,' replied the damsel, brightly, 'my second name is Opal.' So I stuck to Pearl. At one time I all but engaged a maid named Hermione, but upon asking her: 'Have you a black dress, white caps and aprons?' she replied, acidly: 'Yes, I have; but I'm not going to wear 'em. Ma didn't christen me 'Ermione for to wear a livery.'"—N. Y. Tribune.

Dissatisfied American Women.

The American woman is restless, dissatisfied. Society, whether among the highest or lowest classes, has driven her toward a destiny that is nor normal. The factories are full of old maids; the colleges are full of old maids; the ballrooms in the worldly milieux are full of old maids. For natural obligations are substituted the fictitious duties of clubs, committees, meetings, organizations, professions, a thousand unwomanly occupations.—Everybody's Magazine.

Woman's Self-Defense.

Once upon a time a woman who believed that a man had spoken wrongly of her called on him to defend himself and to convince him that he had done her an injustice.

She began her defense by talking, and though he proved that he had never said what he was accused of saying she continued to defend herself by talking, and after that she went on talking in her defense.

Moral—There is a womanly art of self-defense.—N. Y. Herald.

Lost Opportunity.

Tess—I met that pompous Mrs. Jordins on the street to-day, and I was so mortified. You see her name was right on the tip of my tongue—

Jess—But you couldn't think of it, eh?

"Not that at all. The trouble was that I blurted right out: 'How d'y do, Mrs. Jorkins?' when I might have said 'Snorkins,' 'Porkins" or something else to make her mad."—Philadelphia Press.

Woke Him Up.

"Did you know that in the Arctic regions, Mr. Staylate, they have nights that are six months long?"

"So I have heard, Miss Laura."

"Yes. I was just thinking what characteristic evening calls you could make up there."

"Dear me, is it as late as that? Good night."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Quite Neighborly.

Whyte—How do you like your new house? Do your neighbors show a friendly disposition?

Greene—I guess so. They sent over to borrow our ping-pong set the other night while we were having an evening party.—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

Their Revenge.

Judge—I wonder why babies always scream and cry without any apparent reason.

Fudge—They probably do it to have revenge on the women that make them stand for all kinds of silly baby talk.—Baltimore Herald.

Not Returnable.

Cholly—You say this ring is guaranteed for a year. Then, I presume, you will take it back if I care to return it within that time?

Salesman—Oh, no. We guarantee the ring, not the engagement.—Judge.

A Sticker.

Father—This whipping is going to hurt me more than you.

Son—Well, I guess you'll stick to that idea as long as you don't feel the stick.—Judge.

Softened Grief.

Wilson—I lost that fine silk umbrella that I carried in town to-day.

Mrs. Wilson—O, what a pity!

"Still, there is one consolation. It wasn't mine."—Somerville Journal.

NEW YORK RAILROADS.

Increased Earnings and Increased Expenses Shown In Report.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Great increased gross earnings by the steam surface railroads operating in New York state are shown by the annual report of the railroad commission to be submitted to the legislature this week, but almost corresponding increase in the operating expenses is reported.

The report declares that the gross earnings from operation of the steam surface railroads for the year ending June 30, 1902, are $293,347,453; gross earnings from operation for the year previous, $276,676,101, an increase of $16,671,351. There are included for 1902 some earnings of the Rutland railroad not included in 1901, leaving the increase of gross earnings $15,337,926.

The increase in gross earnings in ten years has been $84,500,000. In 1902 operating expenses were $204,775,365.21; net earnings from operation, $88,572,087.85, $2,271,605.24 more than in 1901. The dividends declared were $4,911,417.62 more than in 1901. The percentage of dividends declared to capital stock was 3.26 as compared with 2.82 in 1901.

A decrease of half a cent per ton per mile in profit of hauling freight is disclosed. To reimburse themselves the companies are now advancing freight rates somewhat, says the report, claiming that the profit which they receive for the work done is less than in former years and is not sufficient. They advanced wages and have made very extensive improvements in construction and equipment. The increase of rates may be viewed with calmness by a state which may regulate the actions of its corporate creatures, for, if the result of such increase is the creation of a just public sentiment against extortion, the remedy will be applied through the legislature.

Sixty-two miles of steam railroad have been built in the state this year.

The average number of persons, including officials, employed was 199,373. In 1901 it was 184,854. The total amount paid in 1902 was $[illegible],251,509.04; in 1901, $109,596,678.2[illegible]

The number of persons killed was 762, of which 87 were passengers; injured, 1,868, including 483 passengers, 33 less killed and 318 more injured than in 1901.

Passengers carried by steam surface roads numbered 87,388,825.

A CHINESE TESTIMONIAL.

Von Ketteler Arch Dedicated With Unusual Ceremonies In Peking.

PEKING, Jan. 19.—The dedication of the Von Ketteler memorial arch yesterday was an impressive ceremony. The arch was erected by China. Baron von Ketteler was the German minister who was killed by Boxers at the outbreak of the Boxer trouble. The dedication took place in the presence of a brilliant assemblage of diplomats, many Chinese officials, all the military officers in Peking, the entire foreign community of the city, as well as German officers and civilians from Tientsin and other cities. The streets and roofs from which a view of the function was to be had were crowded with Chinese.

The German troops were aligned in the street south of the arch, while the Chinese soldiers occupied the corresponding position north of the memorial. Baron von der Goltz, first secretary of the German legation, official in behalf of Germany, and Prince Chun, brother of the emperor, who was sent to Germany to apologize for the murder of the minister, represented China at the altar while imperial sacrificial vessels were erected before the arch. When Prince Chun arrived, he was escorted to the arch by Baron von der Goltz, and he poured out a libation in honor of the dead man. He then spoke as follows:

"This monument is to be a warning to the people, a sign of the friendly relations between our two countries and a symbol of peace."

To these words Baron von der Gol replied:

"This monument has been consecrated to the emperor of Germany by the emperor of China as a permanent proof of the anger of the Chinese emperor. In erecting this monument China fulfills an obligation it took up after the events of 1900. The monument shall stand as a sermon to posterity and as a lasting symbol of the desire of the Chinese government to promote friendly relations with foreign governments."

These two speeches were read in German and in Chinese. After the dedication the German troops marched under the arch, while the bands played national airs.

A Victim of Yellow Fever.

PANAMA, Colombia, Jan. 19.—Lieutenant Mitchell, a graduate of Annapolis, who was an officer on board the Colombian government gunboat Bogota, died here Saturday night of yellow fever. Several of the Bogota's officers left here for the United States about two weeks ago. Lieutenant Mitchell was prevented from accompanying them by the illness which has resulted in his death.

Battleship's Cockswain Dead.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A short cablegram to the navy department from Admiral Higginson, at San Juan, Porto Rico, announces the death of A. S. Tacke, the cockswain of the United States battleship Massachusetts, who was fatally injured in the powder explosion in the eight inch turret of that vessel Friday while off Culebra island.

SPORTING NEWS

WINTER SPORTS.

Owing to the poor condition of the ice the hockey game scheduled for Saturday between the Plainfield High School and North Plainfield High School team was not played. It will be played tomorrow afternoon on Hermann's pond, and this afternoon the Plainfield High School team will hold a practice game with the '04 class team on Hyde's pond.

Pink Luncheon.

The Misses Waring, of Park avenue, gave an enjoyable pink luncheon at their home Friday to a number of the young married people. Among those present were Mrs. John G. Drayton, Mrs. Evarts Tracy. Mrs. G. Herbert Taylor, Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring.

Was for Riding on Sidewalk.

The charge against John Cox in the police court, Saturday, was for riding his wheel on the sidewalk and not for using profane language as might be inferred from the article in The Daily Press of that date. He apologized, however, for his conduct toward Patrolman McCarthy, who made the arrest.

On Charity Ball Committee.

Among the men, well-known in Plainfield society, who will act on the floor committee of the coming charity ball to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, are Edward R. Finch and Burritt Shepard, of "The Gables," Fanwood.

Stricken by Paralysis.

Garrett VanWinkle, of 822 Madison avenue, is very ill and his life is despaired of by his family. A stroke of paralysis several days ago rendered him helpless and for the last few days he has been in an unconscious condition.

Recovering From Bite.

Chester Denton, of Washington avenue, who was bitten by a dog several days ago, is improving every day. At first the laceration caused much pain, but this has disappeared and the lad is able to walk about with little difficulty.

Mattox, Mrs. Sadie Baglin; good and welfare, Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mrs. John R. Naylor, Mrs. S. C. Terry, Mrs. John Manley, Mrs. Edward DeVine; home and employment, Mrs. Charles B. Stephens, Miss May E. Howlett.

Mrs. John Manley, who was recently elected junior vice president, resigned this position and Mrs. Charles Westphal was elected and installed in her place.

TOURNAMENTS BEGUN.

Park Club Bowlers Started Contests at Individual Tournaments.

Park Club bowlers were out in force Saturday evening for the opening of the ten-pin and "cocked hat" individual tournaments. While the committee in charge had announced that the matches in these tournaments might begin before Saturday, that day really marked the beginning of the play.

In addition to those who contested in the two tournaments there was quite a crowd of members and their friends who turned out to take advantage of the privileges of the club.

Found by Unknown Man.

While Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, of Elmwood place, was walking on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, she lost her pocketbook containing several dollars. The book was found by a young man and returned to the owner. Mrs. Dobbins does not know who the party was that found it, but desires to express her thanks to him.

At Annual Exhibition.

The annual exhibition of the Furniture Buyers' Association will be held in the Grand Central Palace, New York, this week. J. V. E. Vanderhoef, buyer for Woodhull & Martin, will be in attendance during the entire display.

Farewell Dinner.

Before his departure for Arizona, yesterday, City Judge William N. Runyon tendered a farewell dinner to a party of friends at the Waldorf-Astoria. Covers were laid for six. He will be absent two or three weeks.

The crowned heads of every nation, The rich men, poor men and misers All join in paying tribute to DeWitt's Little Early Risers.

GLASSES AND FISTS.

Were Chief of Weapons in An Unscheduled Incident of Dance at Berkley Hights.

What started out to be a quiet dance under the auspices of the Berkely Heights Social Club, in a large hall at that place, Saturday night, ended in a Donnybrook fair demonstration through, it is said, the pugnaciousness of some of the attendants from Plainfield.

Matters were progressing nicely when a rustic from Meyersville stepped on the dress of a young woman from this city and she immediately called on her escort to protect her. He did so by hitting the Meyersville man and almost immediately rallying parties sprang to the side of the combatants. The fight waxed sharp and warm, beer glasses and fists being the principal weapons of offense and defense. Peace was eventually restored.

Organ Recital.

Tomorrow night there will be an organ recital at the Grace M. E. church when Norman Landis, organist of the Presbyterian church, Flemington, will preside at the organ. Raymond A. McGee, basso, will assist in the programme. No admission will be charged but a silver offering will be taken.

For Draining Purposes.

Street Commissioner Gavett is having a force of men at work clearing out the ditch below Clinton avenue, near South Second street. This ditch, which takes much of the surface drainage in that locality, has filled up with sand from the streets and it has become necessary to remove this.

District Meeting.

The semi-annual Elizabeth district meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society will be held at Westfield Wednesday, when a number of the more prominent workers from this city will be present. There will be two sessions, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon.

Council Meeting.

The Common Council will meet this evening in adjourned session and consider several important matters, including that in reference to increasing the salaries of the police and the installation of a patrol system. The matter will come up at a later meeting for final decision.

Musical Treat.

Anna Webster-Powell, the well-known prima dona soprano and Signor Eugenio de Pirani, composer and pianist, will be at Jacobs Theatre, Elizabeth, tomorrow evening. This will be an excellent opportunity for local music lovers to hear these talented musicians.

Coffee Party.

A coffee party was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Otto Keller, of Park avenue, when there were twenty present. The afternoon was spent in a general social time during which refreshments were served in the form of coffee, ice cream and cake.

That Long Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Langford and daughter, Miss Dorothy Langford, of Albert street, passengers on the overdue steamship St. Louis, arrived home Saturday night. They are all well, but very tired on account of their long trip.

Changed Light.

At the suggestion of the light committee from the Common Council, the electric light company has changed a light on West Front street in toward the sidewalk so that there may be no shadows as before.

BROWN STILL TO COMMAND

THE STOCKHOLDERS REFUSE TO SEE HIM RETIRE.

After Defeating Brown and His Friends, the Other Party Has to Give In.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 19—The war of the stockholders of the Somerville Woolen Mills is about at an end, as far as can be learned, but James Brown, Jr., the largest individual share owner, was not put down as easily as could be expected.

After it was found that Mr. Brown would not take a lesser position with the company and still remain, but that he intended to land over the workings of this vast industry entirely to his conquerors at the annual meeting, it was realized that a stranger taking charge could not succeed where Mr. Brown, who built up the enterprise and knew the business from top to bottom had failed to pay big dividends.

Thus it was that those, who remembered how the industry had flourished in the palmy days of its career, said Mr. Brown should be retained with full power as treasurer and manager.

Several resigned from the Board of Directors elected last Tuesday and tomorrow, it is said, their places will be filled with Brown men, making the board half and half, i. e., composed with half of Brown's adherents and half of his opponents'. Friday, the members of the board who had not resigned, organized as follows: President, Matthew Suydam, of Franklin Park; vice president, John E. Mc Murtry, of New Brunswick; secretary, Ezekiel B. Allen, of Somerville; treasurer and manager, James Brown, Jr.

Shake Off Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, January 27. Train leaves New York, foot of Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day leave Washington at 9:50 p. m., January 28, and arrive Jacksonville at 7:40 p. m., January 29. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en-route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. Its free for the asking. 1 10 5 eod c 2

Getting Ready.

Company K's military minstrels are getting in their best "licks" for their performances this Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the Casino. They have many surprises in store for the big house which awaits them. There are up-to-date songs, southern medleys and funny jokes, brand new, to be broken on the opening first part. The olio is resplendent with novelties, and in all the show will be first-class in every particular. The sale of seats has been very large and in fact the house has been nearly sold for the opening performance. There are a few good seats left, however, for the Thursday night performance.

Special Instructor.

W. L. Holbert, of the International Correspondence Schools, of Scranton, Pa., is giving instructions through a special instructor to his students at Somerville and Bound Brook, and is negotiating to opening classes here. Mr. Holbert's success in Plainfield has been very flattering. His headquarters are with Armstrong, the druggist, Park avenue.

Park Club Show.

Wallace P. Guilford, chairman of the committee having in charge the entertainment to be given at the Park Club, Saturday evening, January 24, has about perfected arrangements for the same. The entertainment will be divided into part musical and part variety.

NEW SENATOR OF SOMERSET

Samuel Southard Childs is a New and Interesting Figure at Trenton.

MADE HIS WAY IN LIFE

How the Founder and Principal Owner of the Childs' Restaurants Rose to His Present Position in Life—He is a Public Spirited Man—What He Has Done.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 20—Among the new and interesting figures in the senatorial chamber is Samuel Southard Childs, the newly-elected State senator from Somerset county. He is the founder and the principal owner of the Childs' dairy restaurant system, which extends over a large section of the country and which has made him a rich man.

"Sam" Childs, as he is known by his friends, was born on a farm near Bernardsville, and he was one of a family of ten children There was lots of work on the farm to be done by Sam and his brothers, so that very little time was left for them to attend school. This disadvantage was rectified to a certain degree by the fact that the district school teacher boarded with the Childs family and devoted part of nearly every evening to instructing the children. Sam Childs was always an ambitious boy, and appreciated the benefits to be derived from knowledge. He made good use of the school teacher's assistance and gained a thorough understanding of bookkeeping and higher arithmetic.

There is a story told about Senator Childs that forcibly illustrates the ambitious hopes he entertained when still a bare-footed lad. He and several companions were in search of blackberries one hot summer day. They stopped to rest on the summit of the high ridge of hills back of the Childs' farm. The point commanded a magnificent view. The boys expressed their appreciation and "Sam" exclaimed:

"When I'm a man I intend to be rich and to build a house on this spot." His career has proved his determination. He did become rich, and upon the spot he selected when a youngster is the site of Bairn's Brae, Senator Child's handsome and comfortable home.

Young Childs prepared himself for the United States Military Academy, and in 1887 received an appointment. After a year at West Point he left to accept a position in the engineering corps of New York City. As it was necessary to have lived in the city six months before entering upon his new duties, he got a position in one of A. W. Dennett's restaurants. While there Mr. Childs became impressed with the possibilities in that kind of a restaurant business. He decided to abandon an engineering career and devote his attention to supplying the public with meals.

With his brothers, William Childs, Jr., and Ellsworth Childs, he opened a restaurant on Courtland street, New York City. As in all new ventures, there were many difficulties to overcome, but Mr. Childs, with the aid of his brothers surmounted them all. The growth of the business in the last twelve years speaks for itself. The Childs brothers have about twenty restaurants in New York, five in Philadelphia, two in Newark and one each in several smaller cities. The general character and equipment of these quick-lunch places are well-known.

Mr. Childs is a public-spirited man. He resides in Bernardsville all the year round and shares with the villagers many of the privileges his wealth has brought him. He has spent $20,000 in bringing from his mountain home to Bernardsville a much-needed water supply. He has also constructed an electric light plant upon his property, and he has run a line to the village so that the residents are supplied with electricity at a nominal cost. Mr. Childs is a member of the Basking Ridge Presbyterian church. He has built at Basking Ridge a public library, which is maintained largely at his expense.

Senator Childs has always been a Democrat. Two years ago he was a Presidential elector on the Democratic ticket. In the fall of 1901 he was a candidate for the Assembly, and was defeated by only forty votes. He is a man of strong, sturdy character, yet quiet and unostentatious.

IN WARNING OTHERS THEY ALMOST DROWNED

Two Young Men Had Narrow Escape From Drowning in Tier's Lake Saturday.

WENT TO WARN OTHERS

KENNETH MAYER TUMBLED IN AN AIR HOLE HE DIDN'T SEE.

Chas. Holstein Went to His Rescue and Fell in Too—Both Were Finally Dragged Out and Suffered No Serious Results.

Kenneth Mayer, whose parents live on Mountain avenue, and a companion, Charles Holstein, of Somerset street, went skating at Tier's lake Saturday and while the former was busy warning other skaters away from dangerous holes in the ice he fell in the deepest part of the pond and in trying to save him, his companion, young Holstein, lost his footing and fell headlong into the water. The two boys were rescued with difficulty.

The two boys arrived at the pond at about 10 o'clock and for a time they watched the men harvest the ice until they heard a scream at the fartherest part of the pond and started out to see what was the matter. A young man had broken through the ice and was being fished out by skaters.

Young Mayer saw a number of skaters coming across the pond straight for the very same hole in which the young man had fallen and as he started forward to warn them of their danger he stepped in an air hole and down he went. He carried a hockey stick and this fortunately caught on the ice and he was able to hold himself up until his friend Holstein arrived.

In his excitement, young Holstein stepped too near the opening in the ice and he fell in head foremost. He disappeared beneath the ice and it was several seconds before he came to the surface. As soon as he appeared he was caught by other skaters and hauled out onto the ice.

The two young men were sent to their homes where they had some dry clothing put on and yesterday they were able to attend school not in the least suffering from their icy bath.

AMONG MINIATURES.

Miss Meade's Picture Included in Marie's Famous Collection.

Miss Leontine Meade, formerly of Mercer avenue, who is spending the winter in Berlin, is a niece of the late Peter Marie, prominent in New York social and art circles, who died last week at his home in New York. His "Gallery of American Beauty," consisting of four hundred miniatures of well known and beautiful women of society in New York, Boston, Newport, Philadelphia and other cities during the last twenty years, is to be presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, of New York. The miniature of Miss Meade is in this collection and will be regarded with interest by the many friends who know her.

CARS STOPPED.

Trouble With Boilers at the Power Station Was Responsible.

The Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railroad Company was unable to run its cars into this city for over an hour yesterday afternoon on account of trouble with the boilers at the power station.

It was late in the afternoon before the Elizabeth cars were running and many people were obliged to wait at the trolley waiting room on Watchung avenue until the repairs were made.

Brave Jerseymen.

Sunday's issue of the Newark News contains an article on "Brave Jerseymen who are serving or have served their country in the regular army" in which Lewis H. Rand, of this city, is mentioned. He is now a first lieutenant having been promoted from second lieutenant of engineers in February, 1901. He entered West Point in 1895 and graduated four years later.

Called on Director.

Freeholder Krausse and several friends from Elizabeth were in Plainfield, yesterday, calling on friends. During the afternoon they called on Captain J. Frank Hubbard, director of the Board of Freeholders, who is detained at his home by illness.

In Justice Hand's Court.

Summons have been issued from Justice Hand's court in the contract case of the Book-keepers' Publishing Company against Fred Stack. The papers are returnable Monday.

REPEALER FOR MEEKER ACT

One of Sixty Bills Introduced at Last Evening's Session of the Legislature.

NEW NORMAL SCHOOL

Special Commission Recommends One in Northern Part of State, and Bill Introduced to Locate It in Essex—Anti-Pigeon Shooting Bill Introduced Again.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, January 20—Both houses of the Legislature held brief sessions last evening and then adjourned until this morning. The only business of importance was the introduction of a host of bills. More than sixty made their appearance and contrary to rule nearly as many were introduced by Senators as by Assemblymen. Among the number were several which have long been talked of, and that promise to furnish much food for argument during the session.

Assemblyman Edgar Williams, of Essex, introduced his anti-pigeon shooting bill, which passed the House last year after a bitter fight, but was sidetracked in the Senate, where it was smothered in committee. The bill provides a penalty of $100 for shooting live pigeons from traps or furnishing birds for such purposes.

Senator Hudspeth introduced a bill to repeal the Meeker law of 1901, by which municipal elections in New Jersey were consolidated with the general elections in the fall The Hudson Senator served notice in introducing the bill that he was prepared to push the measure, and asked that public hearings be given to discuss its merits. The Hudspeth bill provides that the terms of all municipal and charter officers which expire on May 1 shall be abridged so that they shall expire on May 1 of the same year in which they now end. A direct effect of this would be to shorten the term of Mayor Fagan of Jersey City by eight months, and the same would be true of other city officers throughout the State, whose terms under the Meeker act end on December 31.

The special commission appointed last year to consider the establishment of a new normal school reported, recommending that such an institution be built in the northern section of the State. The report was accompanied by a bill, introduced by Assemblyman Calby, providing for the building of the school in Essex county.

Senator Gebhardt came to the fore with a bill to curb trusts by providing that no corporation except railroad companies shall have an authorized capital stock exceeding $100,000,000. He also introduced a redraft of the bill of 1901 authorizing the United States Pipe Line Company to operate under the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad in Hunterdon county, and again introduced concurrent resolutions providing for the election of Assemblymen by districts, and declaring in favor of the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people.

Summit's Hotel Closed.

The Beechwood Hotel at Summit closed its doors Saturday, thus practically terminating the effort to make that famous hotel a prosperous winter resort. The hotel was closed on account of the necessity of repairing the boilers. The hotel is one of the handsomest in New Jersey and it is said to have cost $250,000. It was erected as an all-year-round hotel, but has been a failure as such.

Foot Crushed.

William Young, of Liberty street, received a crushed foot at the Pond Tool Works, yesterday afternoon, through a heavy weight falling upon it. He was removed to his home where medical attendance was furnished. It is probable he will be incapacitated for a long time.

Fair in Rectory.

The Young Woman's Guild of St. Stephen's church will hold a fair in the rectory Tuesday afternoon and evening, February 10. The members of the organization are working to make it a distinct success.

Unique Features.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold a social and entertainment with unique features, Thursday evening, in the chapel of the church.

MAYOR'S PLAN FOR PARKS

WILL OUTLINE IT AT BOARD OF TRADE MEETING TONIGHT.

Expected to Explain Fully How He Would Go About Securing Them.

At this evening's meeting of the Board of Trade, Mayor O. L. Jenkins will be present and explain fully to the members his ideas in regard to the establishment of one or more parks within the city limits.

It was he who first suggested the matter and the board immediately took action. At the last meeting the subject was discussed but as none of the members had any fixed plan it was decided to invite the chief executive to present his. He has given the matter much thought within the past few years and has pointed out the need of breathing spots on every possible occasion.

At the meeting tonight Harry C. Runyon, who has been secretary of the board since its organization, will present his resignation. The growing needs and responsibilities of the office have so grown that he is forced to relinquish it in order to devote all his time to the practice of law.

HEARING OF JURY APPEALS

TWO PLAINFIELD LAWYERS FIGURED IN THE CASES.

Tried Before Justice Schenck in the Somerset County Court Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 20—Judge Schenck took up the jury appeals in the Somerset county courts here yesterday.

The first case tried was that of Charles J. McNabb ads. John C. Betzold. The latter is a resident of Warren township. He owns a house in Plainfield and that being too far for him to go to collect his rent every month he said he had Mr. McNabb, who is a lawyer and real estate agent, do it for him. Mr. Betzold said the rent was not turned over to him in full and sued for what he believed due him. Horace Codington, of Somerville, was counsel for Mr. Betzold and Isaac P. Runyon, of Plainfield, for Mr. McNabb. A verdict was rendered in favor of Mr. Betzold for $39.

The case of John P. D. Kirch ads. Lemuel A. Tunison was next tried. Suit was for money borrowed of Tunison and money claimed to have been collected for him by Mr. Kirch. Horace Codington was counsel for Mr. Tunison and Wm. K. McClure, of Plainfield, represented Kirch.

INDIAN ARCHITECTURE.

Subject of Lecture Before the Monday Afternoon Club.

Under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club, Prof. A. F. D. Hamlin, of Columbia University, gave an illustrated lecture on "The Architecture of India" in the Casino, yesterday afternoon. It was enjoyed by a large audience.

The speaker has made a long study of the subject and his explanations were lucid in every detail. He dwelt on no period in particular, but went over the entire field in an exhaustive way. His remarks were made clearer yet by excellent stereopticon pictures.

Visited New York Schools.

Miss Alberta E. Waterbury and Miss Elizabeth Yoran, both teachers in the North Plainfield High School, went to New York yesterday and visited schools Nos. 158 and 160, where they saw some fine exhibitions of school work by the pupils in metropolitan schools. They returned last evening with several very practical ideas which they will utilize in their class rooms.

Royal Arcanum Meeting.

A district meeting of the Royal Arcanum will be held in Masonic Hall, West Front street, tomorrow evening. It will be held under the direction of the Grand Council and members of the order from all parts of the district will attend. Grand Regent H. I. Bowne will preside. Ten councils will be represented.

Organ Recital Tonight.

The organ recital which is to be given by the choir of Grace M. E. church this evening promises to be a very successful affair. Norman Landis will preside at the organ and Raymond McGee will sing. No admission will be charged but a silver offering will be taken.

—Rheaume has a large supply of the best Lehigh coal in stock and is receiving daily shipments of the same. He delivers all orders promptly and at the regular price, office, 140 East Fourth street. 1 20 6

CITY TO FIGHT DAMAGE SUIT

Street Committee Given the Authority to Act in Trouble With Sewage Disposal Co.

POLICE PATROL SYSTEMS

Police Committee Will Look Into Different Systems as to Merits and Cost and Report at Next Meeting—Members of Board of School Estimate Were Named.

When the Common Council met in adjourned session last evening there were two important matters that engaged the attention of the members. One was a consideration of a report from Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh regarding the suit of the American Sewage Disposal Company against the city of Plainfield for the alleged infringement of certain rights. The other matter was a resolution offered by Mr. Randolph, chairman of the police committee, authorizing the police board to inquire into and examine the various police patrol systems, including the Gamewell system, ascertain the cost and merits of each and report at the next regular meeting. This resolution was adopted after a forty minutes' recess of the Council, during which time Mr. Torrey, of the Gamewell company, was present and explained to the members the system represented by himself.

Regarding the suit of the American Sewage Disposal Company against the city, Mr. Daniel stated that the taking of testimony on behalf of the complainant would begin during the week commencing January 26, and in view of this he offered a resolution providing that all matters and questions involved in this suit be referred to the committee on streets and sewers, that committee being requested to confer with the corporation counsel with authority to take such action as will best protect the city's interests. It is likely that the taking of testimony will occupy at least a week, and it will be necessary for Mr. Marsh to be in Boston and represent Plainfield in whatever is done in this suit. The action, it will be remembered, is brought to recover damages from the city for the use of a certain system, which the complainant company claims to have a patent on and the sole right to use.

In reference to the installation of a police patrol system, the Council, as previously stated, seems to be a unit. Mr. Torrey was present at the meeting of the Council and, during the recess, explained the working of the Gamewell system. He said that he had gone over the territory in Plainfield and believed that his system could be installed here at a cost of about $5,000, exclusive of a patrol wagon or horse. This figure represents the cost and installation of the system itself. The Council seemed to be favorably inclined to the proposition, but in order that no unfair methods might be ascribed to the members it was thought best to have the police board examine other systems and the cost of same and report back to the Council.

A third important matter considered was the appointment of two members to the Board of School Estimate. Mr. Daniel nominated Mr. vanHerwerden, one of last year's members, and Mr. Tyler, a new member this year, and they received the unanimous vote of their colleagues.

A request came from President C. J. Fisk, of the Board of Health, for an electric light on Rock avenue near the isolation hospital, and this matter was referred as were also two other petitions, one for two fire hydrants, on East Second street, between Richmond street and Netherwood avenue, and another for two electric lights on East Second street and Johnston avenue.

Mr. Daniel reported back the petition of Mrs. Sarah R. Runyon, of Park avenue, asking for the remittance of $18.70 tax money which she claimed she paid in error, it having been paid once before. Mr. Daniel stated that after investigation it was learned that Mrs. Runyon's claim was just and he moved that the amount claimed be returned after she had produced her receipted bill at the office of Collector Smith.

This concluded the business and the Council adjourned.

CLASS WILL GRADUATE FROM BOROUGH SCHOOL

No Truth in the Rumor That There Will be No Graduation Exercises Next June.

CHANGE IN CURRICULUM

WILL NOT AFFECT THE GRADUATING CLASS THIS YEAR.

Change From Three to Four Years' Course at Request of State Board of Education—Other School Matters.

Rumors to the effect that there would be no graduation class in the North Plainfield High School were shown to be without any foundation this morning when Superintendent Homer J. Wightman said that there was no truth in the report. He said that the State Board of Education does not recognize the three year's course in the High School as fitting the pupil for a diploma and that after only a four year's course would be recognized. The twenty-four pupils in the graduating class this year would be graduated as usual. The four year course will take effect a year from now.

When the semi-annual re-adjustment of classes takes place at the school the two fifth grade classes will be conducted under the one session plan, the same as all other grammar grades. Miss Alberta E. Waterbury will have charge of the preparatory class and in the curriculum will be inaugurated a new course in commercial geography. The re-adjustment takes place February 2.

The attention of the teachers and the Superintendent has been called to the fact that there are a number of pupils who come to school as early as 6, 7, and 7:30 o'clock in the morning. This is caused by the fact that the parents of these children go out to work and the children are left to themselves so they congregate about the school. All pupils who have been in the habit of coming to school so early will leave their names with the Superintendent and he will provide them with special permits so that they can have the use of one room and some one there to look after them.

WOULDN'T WAIT.

Clothes Line Thieves Departed Despite Edward Mundy's Earnest Requests to Remain.

Two daring robberies took place in the borough last night, which have the police of North Plainfield on the qui vive.

Edward Mundy, of Chatham street, was awakened last night by a loud noise in the yard and arising found that two men were at work removing the clothes from the clothes line in the yard. He called upon them to desist but they took to their heels and ran taking about $10 worth of clothes with them.

Another robbery took place at the home of Albert Perry, of Harrison avenue, when a valuable overcoat was stolen from the front parlor of his house. A shabbily dressed man applied at the back door for something to eat and while Mrs. Perry was giving him what he asked a confederate walked into the front parlor and stole the overcoat.

AFTER "SPEAK EASIES."

Expected That Twelve Indictments Will be Result of Grand Jury's Investigations Yesterday.

As exclusively mentioned in Saturday's edition of The Daily Press, the Grand Jury at its sitting, yesterday, heard evidence in the local police department's charges against illegal and Sunday liquor sellers. Out of sixty-five persons called to court but fifteen were asked to testify. Most of these came from the West End although the violators included in the complaints are from every part of the city.

It is understood that if indictmens are returned about twelve persons will be made defendants.

Teacher Ill.

Miss Ethel Whalen, teacher of music at the North Plainfield High School, sent a telegram to Superintendent Wightman, last evening, to the effect that owing to a heavy cold she would be unable to be present at the session of her classes today.

Quarantine Raised.

The quarantine has been raised at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Runyon on Madison, where Mrs. Runyon was ill with diphtheria and tonsilitis.

WATER SUPPLY FOR 'PLAINS

Plainfield Water Supply Company Will Lay Water Mains to Scotch Plains.

TO INSTALL HYDRANTS

Fanwood Township Committee Will Make Contract With Water Co.—After Many Years of Effort It Has Finally Been Arranged to Have Pipes Laid to Village.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 20—After several years of anxious waiting the residents of this place have hopes of securing a water supply from the Plainfield Water Supply Company. Time and again this matter has been agitated, but for various reasons the matter was delayed. The principal trouble was that the people of the town did not take a sufficient interest in the matter to warrant the laying of a main from Fanwood to this place. They would not guarantee to take the water and there was some hitch about fire hydrants.

This trouble is now apparently overcome and at a recent meeting of the water company it was practically decided to lay a main through the town. If this is done the company will install twelve hydrants for fire purposes. There are many who would now take the water and be glad to abandon their old wells and pumps for an absolutely pure and unfailing water supply.

Of course, the Township Committee will enter into a contract with the Plainfield Water Supply Company for the fire hydrants at a certain sum each per year. The company has notified T. J. Nichols, president of the Township Committee, of its recent action and there is rejoicing that the 'Plains is to enjoy one of many improvements needed to make the place ideal in every respect as a residential section.

CONTRACTING MASON.

Jacob Gulick Died at His Home on South Second Street Yesterday From Paralysis.

The death of Jacob Gulick, the well-known contracting mason, occurred at his home on South Second street, yesterday morning. He had been ill for several months suffering from the effects of a paralytic stroke.

Mr. Gulick was sixty-six years old and came to this city in the early eighties from Clinton, Hunterdon county, where he has many relatives. He engaged in the masonry business which he followed up to a short time before his death. He leaves a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Jacob Schlick, and four sons, Austin, Harry, Charles and George, all of whom reside in this city.

The funeral will be held from his late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be at Hillside.

Strangers Day.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. Thursday afternoon will be observed as "Strangers Day." On this day similiar meetings will be held all over the country and methods will be discussed for the advancement of temperance principles among foreigners who come to this country. An interesting programme has been arranged for the meeting.

Forty Defendants.

Acting as referee for the Court of Chancery, Counsellor George Ball commenced, yesterday, taking testimony in the case of Mary E. Holtor against J. B. Mills, et als, on foreclosure procedings. The case is rather an unusual one from the fact that there are in the neighborhood of forty defendants. The plaintiff is represented by L. A. Clement.

Trustees Elected.

At a meeting of the Crescent Avenue church congregation, last evening, Ernest R. Ackerman and Robert H. Cook were elected trustees to succeed themselves. Practically no other business was transacted, as reports and other matters are to be heard at the annual meeting which takes place in the spring.

In Honor of Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Drake, of West Third street, entertained a party of friends at their home, Saturday evening, in honor of several friends from Brooklyn, Lebanon, Pa., and Bridgeton. The hours were passed pleasantly with games, music and dancing.

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

Herbert W. Buxton, of Madison avenue, has gone to St. Louis on a business trip.

Richard Randolph, of West Eighth street, has returned from a business trip to Connecticut.

W. D. Williams, of Woodhull & Martin's store, spent Sunday in Newark with his aged father, who has been quite ill.

Augustus C. Hoagland, of Hill & Shupp's store, has returned from Asbury Park, where he was called by the illness of his mother.

Miss Kernochan, of New York, who has been spending several weeks with her sister, Mrs. N. W. Currie, of Central avenue, has returned home.

THEATRICAL.

"A Queer Little Ostrich" is the title of a new song for Gertrude Quinlan that has been introduced in "The Sultan of Sulu," George Ade's witty musical satire that has scored one of the biggest kind of hits at Wallack's in New York. The song is a comedy number, something on the order of the famous "Bumble Bee" song that Miss Quinlan sang in "King Dodo." Miss Maude Lillian Berri, the prima donna, will also have a new song this week, entitled "Dangle Him Lightly." This was one of Mr. Ade's original numbers for the opera, but was crowded out because of the length of the performance. "Dangle Him Lightly" will supplant Miss Berri's "Palm Branches Waving," a straight descriptive song that has not the characteristic satire of the other number.

Clyde Fitch's society drama, "The Way of the World," is to be produced by the stock company at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre in February, with Miss Minnie Seligman in the role filled by Miss Elsie De Wolfe. Mr. Proctor has secured the exclusive right to present the piece in New York City, and all the original scenery (which was uncommonly effective) will be used at the Fifth Avenue. Within a few weeks a splendid production of "Camille" will be given at that theatre. All negotiations have been completed for the production of "Hearts Are Trumps" there before many weeks.

Shake Off Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, January 27. Train leaves New York, foot of Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day leave Washington at 9:50 p. m., January 28, and arrive Jacksonville at 7:40 p. m., January 29. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en-route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. Its free for the asking. 1 10 5 eod c 2

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

House Passes Several Bills—Senate Considers Cuban Reciprocity.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The house transacted considerable business yesterday. Several miscellaneous measures were passed, among them the senate Hawaiian fire claims bill. The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, the third of the regular budgets, was passed, and fair progress was made with the District of Columbia appropriation bill.

During consideration of the diplomatic bill Mr. McClellan (N. Y.) precipitated a discussion concerning our diplomatic and consular service which took a wide range and led to some rather scandalous charges against our consular representatives in Mexico by Mr. Slayden (Tex.). Mr. McClellan submitted figures to show that our consulates, compared with those of other first class countries, were underpaid, but overmanned. Mr. Grosvenor (O.) declared the charges against our consular officials were unjustified, maintaining that it was the opinion of European publicists that we have the most efficient consular service in the world.

Mr. Bailey (Tex.) objected to consideration by unanimous consent of all bills from the Republican side on the ground that the senators from New York had interfered with a matter purely local to the state of Texas. A discussion arose which was terminated by Mr. Cullom moving an executive session to consider the Cuban reciprocity treaty. After half an hour in executive session the doors were reopened, and Mr. Foraker continued his remarks favoring statehood for Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico. The senate at 5:20 adjourned.

The senate devoted two brief executive sessions yesterday to the Cuban reciprocity treaty. At the first session the treaty was read at length and at the second session Senator Cullom, who, as chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, has charge of the treaty, made a statement of its purpose and effect. Senator Bacon, also a member of the foreign relations committee, gave notice that he would have some amendments to the treaty to offer and asked the privilege of making them public, following the example of the senate in making the treaty itself public. This request was denied after considerable discussion on the ground that it would be impolitic and unwise. Senator Cullom's statement was exhaustive. He produced a mass of figures to show the extent of the commerce between the United States and Cuba and gave reasons for a belief he expressed that the ratification of the treaty would cause a rapid increase in the trade between the two countries.

GONZALES IS DEAD.

Shot Fired by Lieutenant Governor of South Carolina Proves Fatal.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 20.—N. G. Gonzales, editor of the Columbia State, who was shot on the street here by Lieutenant Governor James H. Tillman, a nephew of United States Senator Tillman, is dead of his wound.

The announcement of his death has revived much of the feeling of antagonism against Tillman which developed when the circumstances attending the shooting became known. Tillman is in jail, and with the certainty that he will be tried for murder there is some talk of summary punishment.

Since the shooting, with encouraging reports from the bedside of the wounded editor, resentment against Tillman had somewhat died away.

Those who recalled the bitterness of the attacks on Tillman in the State, written by Gonzales, to which he attributed his defeat for the office of governor, were disposed to condone the act as long as there was hope that the victim would recover.

Since the announcement of Gonzales' death, however, few can be found who attempt to justify the shooting.

Ogdensburg's Large Lake Trade.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The value of the United States customs imports of all classes at Ogdensburg during the year just closed was $15,307,667, with duties of $275,000, giving Ogdensburg the second place in importance as a port of entry on all the northern lakes and rivers, Chicago standing first. There was also entered merchandise under consular seal to the value of $3,700,000 on which the duties were $1,900,000. In the coastwise trade 784 vessels entered with a tonnage of 400,000, and 885 cleared. Nine hundred and forty-five vessels entered from foreign ports, the clearances being 945. The exports amounted to $4,200,000.

Expense Clause Unconstitutional.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Justice D. Cady Herrick of the supreme court has handed down a decision declaring unconstitutional that portion of the election law requiring candidates for public office to file within ten days after election a statement of their election expenses. Judge Herrick rules that the law creates a new condition for holding public office not contemplated by the constitution and is therefore of no effect.

Killed a Black Bear.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 20.—George Sprague, an Adirondack guide, killed a large black bear at Meacham lake. Sprague was cutting a hole through the ice to get water when he saw the bear coming down the side of the mountain. He returned to his camp, secured a rifle and brought bruin down with one shot.

Santo Domingo Settles.

SANTO DOMINGO, Republic of Santo Domingo, Jan. 20.—The Dominican government has paid to Minister Powell the balance of $50,000 due on the Sala claim. This payment virtually disposes of the matter. The political situation here is unsettled.

BOWEN HAS ARRIVED

Our Minister Comes as Venezuela's Special Envoy.

SOME WILD RUMORS SET AT REST

Actual Expenses Only Paid by Castro—No Extravagant Sums Offered—Adjustment of Claims Will Now Proceed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Minister Bowen arrived in Washington today. Concerning the published reports that he had been offered extravagant sums of money by President Castro to represent the government of Venezuela in the dispute with Germany and Great Britain, Minister Bowen said that many false statements had been circulated. "When the question of remuneration was mentioned," he said, "I informed President Castro that I would not accept more than was required for my actual expenses, and I put an outside limit of $5,000 on the agreement. This was paid me in gold on my departure from La Guayra. That is all I asked, and it is all I will receive."

Minister Bowen was accompanied by his wife. It is understood that the representatives of Great Britain and Italy do not feel it incumbent on them to await the coming of Baron Speck von Sternburg before beginning their conferences with Mr. Bowen. Neither the London nor Rome foreign officials are inclined to favor settlement of their claims by a joint commission, the point being made that they are not interested in the claims of each other or of Germany.

It has been agreed that the claims of private citizens for injuries suffered in Venezuela shall be the first to be adjusted. These claims in the case of Germany are believed to aggregate nearly $500,000, while those of Great Britain are between $200,000 and $300,000. The powers will insist upon an early settlement of these obligations, and so far as Great Britain and Italy are concerned they are prepared to accept a reasonable guarantee for prompt payment. All hope that the United States intends standing surety for these obligations has been dismissed, but an effort will be made to secure them either by the customs collections of Venezuela or by proceeds of a Venezuelan loan. A cash payment will be demanded so far as Great Britain and Italy are concerned, provided a satisfactory guarantee by Castro is offered.

The method of procedure in settling the claims will depend upon Minister Bowen, as the representatives of the powers have instructed that the first move along this line is to come from Venezuela's representative. Mr. Bowen is here to act solely as Venezuela's special envoy. The state department has made it plain to the powers that the United States does not intend to take a hand in the Washington conferences and merely will act as the means of communication between the Venezuela envoy, Mr. Bowen, and the representatives of the powers.

The allied powers have not committed themselves as yet regarding the raising of the blockade. No such request has been made, and as one diplomat put it yesterday, "We do not intend to cross that bridge until we come to it." But intimations have reached Washington that Italy and Great Britain are not inclined to favor a continuation of the blockade after the negotiations have been opened.

Delaware Senatorial Fight.

DOVER, Del., Jan. 20.—The ten regular Republicans held a conference and after being in session less than an hour adjourned without having discussed the Democratic proposition. The Union, or Addicks, Republicans met and signed a caucus call for all Republican assemblymen to meet in the hall of the house of representatives to caucus for senator. The Union Republicans decided to bar the Democrats from all legislative council. The Addicks members after securing twenty-one signatures to their call for a caucus appointed three members to wait upon the ten regular Republicans and try to reach some agreement.

Priest Shot at Mass.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 20.—While celebrating mass in the Kumkapu cathedral upon the occasion of the Armenian Christmas the Armenian patriarch, Ormanian, was wounded by a shot from a revolver in the hands of a drug clerk named Agap Hatchikian. The patriarch's wound is not fatal. His shooting is believed to have been the work of a committee of agitators. The drug clerk was almost lynched after he fired the shot.

Another Silver Factory Closed.

LYONS, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Officials of the International Silver company, from Meriden, Conn., have closed down factory D in this village and taken the books to Meriden, after placing Judge Collins and Dr. Dwight S. Chamberlain, president of the Lyons National bank, in charge. No reason was given for shutting down the plant, in which extensive improvements had recently been made.

Coal Miners Imprisoned.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 20.—By a rush of coal two miners, Peter Yeslavige and Joseph Buteavage, were imprisoned in a chamber of the Silver Creek colliery at New Philadelphia. Reserves went vigorously at work, and, though hundreds of cars of coal have been removed, the men have not been reached, and there are no indications whether the men are dead or alive.

Three Men Burned to Death.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Three men were burned to death in a fire in the furniture factory of the Haywood Bros. & Wakefield company at 392-396 Madison street late yesterday.

PLATT FOR SENATOR

One Dissenting Vote In Joint Caucus at Albany.

RE-ELECTION IS NOW ASSURED.

The Three Bolters Absent When Vote Was Taken—C. A. Gardner Named For Regent to Succeed Upson. Democratic Nominations.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The joint Republican caucus last night nominated Thomas C. Platt to succeed himself as United States senator by a vote of 108 to 1 for Elihu Root, the latter cast of Assemblyman William A. Denison of Jefferson.

Senators Brackett, Brown and Elsberg and Assemblyman Clark of the Twenty-ninth New York district were absent, it is supposed by intention, other members absent being accounted for. Previous to the caucus brief sessions of the two houses were held.

Charles A. Gardner of New York was chosen by the joint Republican caucus to be voted for as regent of the university in place of Chancellor Upson, deceased.

The Democratic senators and assemblymen held their caucus in the senate chamber and unanimously nominated Hon. John B. Stanchfield of Elmira as their candidate for United States senator and Dr. James L. Milne of Cortland, who practices law in New York, for regent of the university.

The session of the senate lasted but twenty minutes. Lieutenant Governor Higgins presided and the galleries were crowded.

A communication was received from the board of aldermen of New York city requesting the legislature to immediately enact a law permitting the city of New York to expend $250,000 for the purchase of coal for free distribution to the poor of the metropolis. The communication was read to the senate at the request of Minority Leader Grady. It was referred to the committee on cities, of which Senator Horace White is chairman.

Galleries and lobbies were crowded with visitors at the session of the assembly. There was not a vacant desk, the attendance of members being unusually large. As soon as the titles of a number of bills had been read Majority Leader Rogers offered the two resolutions necessary for the selection of a United States senator and a state regent to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Regent Upson.

Assemblyman Burke offered a resolution calling upon the senators and representatives from New York state to support the eight hour bill now before congress. The resolution went over under the rule.

New Jersey Legislature.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 20.—The two houses of the legislature held brief sessions last night and practically nothing was done outside the introduction of bills. There were about thirty bills introduced in each house. President Hutchinson and Speaker Horner presented to each body a report of the state board of education favoring the erection of an additional normal school in the northern part of the state.

Lackawanna Company Heard.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—The examination of Colonel R. A. Phillips of Scranton, general superintendent of the mining department of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, took up the greater part of yesterday's session of the coal strike commission. Superintendent Phillips told of conditions in and about the collieries owned by the Lackawanna company. Like some of the other superintendents who have testified, he believed the men had a right to organize if they wanted to, but no person who is not employed by the company had a right to come in and tell the men or the company what they should do. Much of the witness' testimony was along the same line as that already given by other superintendents.

Stitches In Heart and Lungs.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 20.—A remarkable surgical operation was performed at the City hospital to save the life of Edward Spilker, nineteen years old, who had attempted suicide by shooting himself in the left breast. An aperture was made, and between pulsations the wound in the heart was closed with three stitches. The bullet had also perforated the apex of the left lung. A portion an inch and a half square was cut away, a heavy silk ligature tied about the lung, drawing tubes being established and the chest cavity closed. The patient speedily rallied, and it is believed he will recover.

Von Sternburg Starts For America.

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—Baron Speck von Sternburg, the German charge d'affaires at Washington, sailed for New York on the Hamburg-American line steamer Auguste Victoria today. As cabled on Saturday, the baron asked for a week's delay, but the foreign office thought he had better proceed to his post immediately. The baroness will embark on the Auguste Victoria at Cherbourg.

Sued For Breach of Promise.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Thomas H. Agnew, assistant superintendent of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, has been arrested by Deputy Sheriff Walgering on an order from Judge Seabury of the city court in a breach of promise suit for $10,000 damages brought by Elizabeth Gertrude Gilks, a widow.

Lee's Birthday Kept.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 20.—The anniversary of the birthday of General Robert E. Lee was generally observed throughout this state. Banks and state offices were closed.

SPORTING JOTTINGS.

Another Offer For the Big Mill—New Orleans and Oakland Winners.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Another bid has been made for the championship battle between "Young Corbett" and Terry McGovern. It is of a purse of $10,000 and is made by John R. Robinson, matchmaker of the Scituate Athletic club of Scituate, R. I., which club has been successful in holding many good fights during the past seven months.

Robinson met "Corbett" and Sam Harris, manager of Terry McGovern, at the Lafayette baths, where he informed them that he was sure his club could hold the fight without any interference by the authorities. He also stated that if he was successful in getting the match he would hold it on the afternoon of March 17.

The offer of $10,000 was not satisfactory to either "Corbett" or Harris, and they said they would not fight in the east unless they could fight on a percentage basis.

Charter Oak Stakes.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 20.—Andy Welch of Charter Oak park and the Oakley track at Cincinnati has announced the conditions which are to govern the $10,000 Charter Oak stake at Hartford and the Ohio stake for the same amount at Cincinnati. Both will be this year for 2:09 trotters. The race for each of these big stakes is to be in three heats of one mile each, and the winner of each heat is to receive $1,500, and the second horse in each heat is to get $500. The remainder of the purse, $4,000, is to be divided as the horses stand in the summary, $2,000 to the first, $900 to the second, $600 to the third and $500 to the fourth.

A Surprise at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20.—The surprise of the day at Oakland occurred in the two-year-old race, in which Rose Farr made her debut and at odds of 10 to 1 won from Hoceo and Floriana Bell. At the annual meeting of the New California Jockey club Thomas H. Williams was re-elected president and Adam Andrew vice president.

A Big Bowling Event.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 20.—The biggest bowling event in the history of the sport will be the annual convention and tournament of the American bowling congress at Indianapolis Feb. 25 to March 1 next. The entry list for the five men, two men and individual contests will close at noon Feb. 1. About 2,200 entries are looked for.

Two Favorites Beaten.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 20.—Memphian and Belvino were the only beaten favorites. The latter finished second in his race, but was disqualified for his interference with Lady Alberta. The latter was given second place, and third place went to Ben Frost. Weather cloudy, track heavy.

Lipton Offers a Cup.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 20.—In a letter to the Corinthian Yacht club Sir Thomas Lipton has offered to present a cup as a prize in a yacht race to be held at San Diego in which the Pacific coast club will be invited to participate. It is intended to make this a perpetual challenge cup.

Skating Record Broken.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—W. W. Swan of the New York Athletic club skated a mile at the Hoboken skating rink last night in 2:40, beating the record of 2:41½, made by O. Rudd in 1896.

Boston "L" Men Made Happy.

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—The Boston Elevated Railroad company has issued an order to its employees granting an increase in wages amounting to nearly $250,000 annually. The order provides for an increase according to the length of time a man has served and in addition for a system of pensions after a certain term of years. Learners, who previously have been paid nothing while under instruction, are to receive wages, and extra men will be paid while on waiting orders. Previously the Boston Elevated company has paid a higher scale than any other street railway company in the country, and the increase was a total surprise to the employees and was unsolicited by them.

Five Years For Assaulting Mother.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 20.—Not more than seven years nor less than five years in state prison was the sentence imposed by Judge Pierce upon Joseph Brown, charged with assault with intent to murder upon his mother. He assaulted his mother on Sept. 20 last at their home in Great Barrington because of her refusal to furnish him with money. Mrs. Brown recovered after a long period of suffering.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Four men were burned to death in a hotel at Morrissey, B. C.

Two persons were killed and three injured in a fire in Cleveland.

Eleven persons were arrested in Mississippi for lynching two negroes.

Four steamers sailed from Blyth, England, with coal for America.

Five Chinamen were shot, two fatally, in a Tong war at San Francisco.

Long wharf, Boston, was partially destroyed by fire and the Yarmouth line sheds burned.

One person was killed and thirty injured in a wreck on the Great Western railroad near Sycamore, Ill.

Dr. Charles C. Hendrick, convicted of conspiracy in the Biggar-Bennett case, was released from the Freehold (N. J.) jail on bail.

Cardinal Lucido Mary Parocchi, subdean of the Sacred college and vice chancellor of the Catholic church, died in Rome on Thursday of heart disease. The death of Cardinal Parocchi removes one of the prelates considered to be the most likely to succeed Pope Leo.

Message Sent by Roosevelt to Edward by Marconi.

WELLFLEET, Mass., Jan. 20.—Marconi and his assistants, Kemp, Taylor and Bradfield, are enthused at the unexpected success of getting a message across the 3,000 miles of ocean from here to Poldhu hours before they had thought it possible to send signals across.

During the night a dispatch was received from President Roosevelt to be sent to King Edward as soon as the system was in working order, and Marconi, to test the sending apparatus, practiced sending the message without having attempted to call up the Poldhu station.

Then, having the president's message at hand and thinking that he might not be able to get the English station for a day or so, he decided to send it by the way of Table Head. He did so, calling up the Table Head station.

Marconi then directed the operator at Table Head station to forward the message to England, but he was immediately astonished by the reply from Cape Breton, which was to the effect that he had just been informed by the station at Poldhu that the message had been received direct from Wellfleet.

Marconi said he had no thought of Poldhu getting the message when he first tried the sending apparatus with it, but he was none the less well pleased. The time of the transmission of the message was about four minutes.

Marconi said that the president's message was the first and only message sent by wireless from here to England thus far.

The following is the text of the messages transmitted by the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy between Cape Cod and Cornwall, England, between President Roosevelt and King Edward:

"His Majesty Edward VII.:

"In taking advantage of the wonderful triumph of scientific research and ingenuity which has been achieved in perfecting a system of wireless telegraphy I extend on behalf of the American people most cordial greetings and good wishes to you and to all the people of the British empire.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

"The President, White House, Washington, America:

"I thank you most sincerely for the kind message which I have just received from you through Marconi's transatlantic wireless telegraphy. I sincerely reciprocate in the name of the people of the British empire the cordial greetings and friendly sentiment expressed by you on behalf of the American nation, and I heartily wish you and your country every possible prosperity.

"EDWARD R. and I."

SULTAN OF JOLO DEAD.

His Majesty Yields to an Attack of Cholera.

MANILA, Jan. 20.—The sultan of Jolo is dead of cholera. His mother went to Jolo as a slave. Her career has been compared with the rise in power of the dowager empress of China. She once unblushingly asked the Philippine commission for poison in order to enable her to protect her son in the sultanate.

The sultan, whose name was Hadji Mohammed Jamolol Kirum, had been at different times in conflict with the American authorities and had been difficult to deal with. His claims to sovereignty were indorsed by General Chaffee and caused much discussion at the time.

STRIKERS IN A FIGHT

Lynn Labor Troubles Assume Serious Aspect.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR MOB NEW CUTTERS

Union Shoe Workers, Aided by Police, Attempt to Rescue Imprisoned Workman, but They Are Forced to Withdraw.

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 20.—The shoe cutters' strike is developing into a lively affair, and there is no telling what the outcome will be.

The picketing of the day and events incident to it became insignificant compared with a hand to hand conflict outside Lasters' hall last night. It was the first personal fight of the strike, and, while short, it was very lively.

The fifteen new cutters who went into the Walton & Logan factory left their benches after the day's work and started in an express wagon for Lasters' hall. As the Knights of Labor pickets were on the alert the wagon was quickly followed by a crowd of 300 Knights of Labor sympathizers.

At the hall as each cutter jumped down he was greeted with much verbal abuse. No violence was offered the first six or seven, but the rest were struck at and their hats knocked off or crushed or their clothing torn.

The fifteenth man was taken hold of bodily and carried to the Knights of Labor headquarters as a prisoner of war. Here he gave himself up to the Knights and promised not to return to work at the factory. He gave his name as Gould and said that he came from Auburn, Me. Officers of the Knights of Labor supplied Gould with clothing which he lost during his struggle to escape from his captors.

An hour after the fight several of the boot and shoe workers' union lodged a complaint with the city marshal against the Knights of Labor and asked for assistance to rescue the captured man. One police officer was detailed and with five boot and shoe union officials went to the Knights of Labor headquarters. They gained an entrance to the building, but were met by over fifty of the Knights of Labor, and as the officer had no writ of entrance he, with the boot and shoe men, was forcibly ejected from the building.

At one time it looked as if there would be another hand to hand fight, but after hurling challenges at each other the leaders of the two sides finally withdrew, the boot and shoe workers going back to their headquarters.

During the evening several batches of cutters were brought into the city by the boot and shoe workers' officials, and it was claimed that over 100 were ready to take the places of the strikers in the different factories.

New Cuban Party.

HAVANA, Jan. 20.—The convention or delegates representing three branches of supporters of the Cuban administration—namely, Republicans, Democrats and some men who were formerly Nationalists, has unanimously adopted the principles through which it expects to effect a unification of all President Palma's adherents under the name of the Republican Conservative party. The principal feature of the platform is the carrying out of the principles of the Cuban constitution as it stands, inclusive of the Platt amendment, and not seeking to give other than the most simple interpretation to the language thereof. The platform declares that Cuba is bound by both political and economic considerations to carry out reciprocity with the United States.

Miles at St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 20.—Lieutenant General Miles, U. S. A., accompanied by Mrs. Miles and his party, has arrived here from Moscow after having spent two days in that city. General Miles traveled on a special train and was accompanied by an escort through Manchuria. In an interview the general said he had been impressed with the magnitude and the future possibilities of the country which has been opened up by the Transsiberian railroad. General Miles will remain here several days, then proceeding to Berlin, Paris and London.

Steamer Lahn Still Fast.

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 20.—Further attempts made to float the Lahn have been unsuccessful. The steamer is at present imbedded in seven feet of sand amidships. The British cruiser Bacchante aided in the efforts to float the liner, which were watched by an interested crowd from the shore. The Lahn's cargo continues to be discharged. The saloon passengers have gone ashore and are stopping at different hotels. They say that a panic occurred when the vessel struck, but that owing to the coolness of Captain Malchow it was soon abated.

Garment Workers Strike In Vienna.

VIENNA, Jan. 20.—Twenty-five thousand garment workers and their assistants have gone on strike for an increase in pay and a reduction in their hours. They assert the present piece rates are inadequate and that they are compelled to work from fourteen to sixteen hours a day for starvation wages. They demand a rate of payment which will permit them to live decently and a working day of eleven hours.

Cold Wave Continues.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The extreme cold weather which began Sunday continues, the thermometer registering from 10 to 30 degrees below zero throughout this region.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and warmer; variable winds, becoming fresh southwest.

SOMERSET'S POSITION.

A rather unusual condition of affairs exists in Somerset county. While there are admittedly more Republican votes than Democratic in that county, Somerset is represented in both houses of the State Legislature by Democrats. It was North Plainfield that made the change. While the Republicans gained if anything in the other voting precincts outside of the borough, that municipality swung suddenly over from the position of a Republican strong hold and gave heavy majorities to both Democratic candidates. As a result, they were elected, Samuel S. Childs to the Senate by a substantial figure and S. S. Swackhamer to the Assembly by a narrow margin.

Two of Somerset's representatives must realize that their election was due to the remarkable change in North Plainfield and that without the help of the North Plainfield Republicans they would have gone down to defeat. Under these circumstances it is only natural that both Mr. Childs and Mr. Swackhamer should listen to any suggestions or desires expressed by the North Plainfielders who were instrumental in their election. As a resident of North Plainfield, Mr. Swackhamer would have the special interests of that municipality at heart but, under the unusual circumstances, it will be proper for Mr. Childs to take a somewhat similar view.

Mr. Childs is a new figure in the senatorial chamber at Trenton but, as soon as he learns the ropes, he is likely to prove a very important factor in the affairs of the Senate. He is a man of energy and character and, while he does not say much, he is quick to think and act. In another column will be found quite an interesting sketch of Somerset's new representative in the Senate.

So far there has emanated no request from North Plainfield as to any legislation. It seems likely, however, that the session will not pass by without some subjects of special importance to the borough of North Plainfield being introduced. In that case, Somerset's legislators would be counted on to see that North Plainfield does not suffer at the hands of those who have no love for that municipality or some of its inhabitants.

All over the State, the results of the investigation made by Superintendent Wightman, of the North Plainfield schools, have been awaited with interest. It shows that the vertical writing is more popular with the parents than the old fashioned Spencerian hand but the difference in the vote between the two was so small that the investigation did not serve to answer the question as definitely as was expected. Under the circumstances, however, it certainly looks as if Mr. Wightman was perfectly justified in continuing the vertical system in the schools if he so desires.

Really it would not be a bad plan if the members of the police and fire committees of the local Common Council took a run over to New York this week to the automobile show. The possibilities of the horseless vehicle are becoming greater each year and the improvements to them have been so rapid that their introduction for service in those two departments has passed the experimental stage. A few years now and patrol wagons or fire apparatus pulled by horses will be infrequent sights in up-to-date cities.

New Brunswick is planning to have a new Board of Trade. Mayor Viehmann is at the head of the scheme and he believes that a great deal of good can be done that city. It is rather hard material that Mayor Viehmann has to work with for New Brunswick is not a wonderfully attractive city but advertising will do a great deal and poorer attractions when given excellent publicity often win out over superior advantages that are not properly advertised.

A member of the New York Senate has introduced a bill against the evil of landscape disfigurement by huge advertisements, relates the Philadelphia Record. The time is coming when legislative restraits will no longer be necessary to check this abuse; for business men will soon universally realize that for other than aesthetic reasons the daily newspaper is the best place for advertisements.

Trolley cars are such frequent sights nowadays that one can hardly believe that a patent for the modern trolley car system was just eleven years ago yesterday. When one attempts to picture what will happen in the next eleven years if the progress of the last decade is continued, the mind is dazzled by the possibilities that confront it.

It was just 126 years ago today that a band of British soldiers was defeated near Summit, in this same county, by a little party of American patriots. What a different country now spreads out to the view from the point that the two forces tramped over on that occasion.

Local banking institutions have taken up advertising more extensively than ever before and the results are apparent in the growth reported by each of these organizations.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

No more need of people with weak stomachs complaining that Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is too heavy for them to take. E. S. F. Randolph, the up-to-date North avenue druggist, has assimilated the pure pepsin with phosphoric acid in his special Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with eggs, sherry wine and glycerine so that any child or adult can take it without distressing effects.

There is no need of going to New York to purchase cloth and fur cloaks when the Paris Cloak Store has such a large assortment of these cloaks. At this store you will also find a choice stock of suitings, silk waists and separate skirts, all of the fine quality.

When you purchase a hat at Bonn's millinery on West Front street, you can rest assured that it represents the best style and is made of first quality materials. Bonn has established a reputation for selling the best hats for women at reasonable prices.

How often does one hesitate about putting delicate fabrics in the wash to be sent to the average laundry. G. Meissner, the Watchung avenue laundryman, takes great care in washing all kinds of laces as he does all his work by hand.

Apples, oranges and staple and fancy groceries are the special articles on sale at the grocery store of F. H. Firstbrook on Liberty street, this week. His greening and Baldwin apples are not to be equalled by any one.

Because a suit of clothes is marked "way down" it doesn't mean that you are always going to get your money's worth. The price may be low but how about the quality of the goods? That's a question that needs answering. Harry Werner, the West Front street outfitter, vouches for all wearing apparel he sells.

Fowler, the East Front street confectioner, is receiving many orders at present for his chocolates and mixed candies. They are delicious and are guaranteed to be made only of pure materials.

During the furniture exhibition in the Grand Central Palace, this week, Powlison & Jones will have a representative on hand to secure all the new designs. They have already received some of the newest from the manufacturers which they are showing in their display rooms.

THE ARCH SUPPORT OF THE "DOROTHY DODD"
THE FATAL SPOT

In everybody's foot there is one weak spot, the toes are strong, the ball of the foot is firm, the heel is unyielding, but the ARCH of the foot, under the instep, is a weak place. Being arched it is wholly unsupported; being weak, it is the only place that gets tired, but all the same its the muscle by which you walk, you stretch it at every step. It is the one part of the foot that needs to be helped.

The "Dorothy Dodd" shoe supports the arch of the foot by a special curved shank between the inner and outer soles; this shank exactly follows the arch of the foot, you can walk twice as far without fatigue, just try on a pair,

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Edmund Teel, Jr., is confined to his home by illness.

A practice meeting was held by the banjo club last evening.

The Juniors will meet this evening to transact regular business.

By attending the chicken supper in the Methodist church Thursday evening one can secure the finest chicken that has been had around here in some time.

Although the spring election is still sometime off candidates are already canvassing for the offices which will be vacant. Of course, assessor and collector, two offices which have a salary attached, are the ones most sought after and the contest for those two promises to be especially lively. Both parties will present strong candidates although it is probable that they will have considerable trouble in selecting their representatives.

Adam Dealaman is still in much improved condition from his recent illness.

Hazelwood Craig will return tomorrow from a business trip.

The improvements to the interior of the Presbyterian church are well under way. The work is being done by A. B. Carpenter and Richard Pope.

Stephen Warren, of Easton, spent yesterday with relatives in town.

Miss Marjory Thatcher, of Glen Gardner, has returned home after a visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Alvah Gray.

Theo. Kludshes' new house is well under way and will be finished by spring.

Dr. P. W. Brakeley is in New York today on business.

L. L. Block is recovering the use of his hand which was badly injured by a cut a few days ago.

A meeting of the Epworth League will be held in the Methodist church Wednesday evening after prayer meeting.

NEW MARKET.

While skating on the upper part of the pond known as the "Circle" yesterday afternoon Arthur Titsworth and "Muddy" Pernell went on some thin ice and broke in, while in pursuit of a hockey ball. The water is quite deep at that point and the boys had considerable trouble in getting out. It was only by swimming that they could get near thick ice where their companions could pull them out.

Everything is ready to start cutting ice, which is thick and of good quality.

A meeting of Friendship Social Circle will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Aaron Brower, who is critically ill, shows no improvement and his recovery is doubtful.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Anthony Pfleg, a former resident of the village but now of Elizabeth, has been visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Oliver, of Kearney, were the guest Sunday of Mrs. John Flannery, of Westfield avenue.

Briant Johnston, captain of the proposed school baseball team, is beginning to hustle to make the coming season one of the best and the team the strongest that has ever represented the school on the diamond. Those interested are paying a stipulated sum each week into the treasury so as to be able to purchase the necessary paraphernalia and begin practice as soon as the weather permits. During the month of April Saturday games will be played, after that the schedule will be payed on Wednesdays so as not to conflict with the dates of the regular team.

Rev. G. M. Shott made a business trip to New York Monday.

Miss Sadie Ryno has recovered from a painful attack of inflamatory rheumatism.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company held its annual meeting in its rooms last night. The annual report of President John Robison shows the company to be in a flourishing condition. The past year has been one of the best in the history of the company in the number of new members taken in.

The diphtheria patients, Harold, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Marsh, and Howard, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McDonough, are doing as nicely as can be expected.

David Dunn has about finished cutting the crop of ice at the "back pond." The large house along the pond has been filled with one of the best crops of ice harvested in years.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Henry, of Plainfield, have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Clark.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

James I. Jones, who has been ill for some time with pneumonia, is improving.

Mrs. David Bigley is suffering with an attack of grip.

Miss Marjorie Voorhees, of Metuchen, with several friends, spent yesterday afternoon skating here.

The ice on the pond is in fine condition for skating, and a number were out last evening, enjoying it.

Miss Flossie Smith and Earl Darlington spent the day in New York.

John Conners was obliged to have his injured thumb amputated.

The regular weekly prayer meeting will be held in the lecture room tonight. The pastor is expected home to conduct it.

Mrs. Matilda Forster, the mother in-law of Archie Steengrafe, died yesterday, from cancer. The funeral will be held Wednesday.

PREPARING FOR BALL.

Independent Fife and Drum Corps Held Meeting Last Night.

An important meeting of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps was held last evening at its club rooms on West Second street. It was reported that the new uniforms had not yet arrived but were expected almost every day. The following committee was appointed to arrange for a reception and ball to be held in the near future: S. C. Terry, J. V. Beekman, H. G. Adams, J. H. Adams, F. L. Manchester. Guests will be present from Elizabeth, Rahway and Newark, as well as men of prominence in this city.

At the meeting it was unanimously decided to attend the fair of the Red Men this week.

AT CITY HIGH SCHOOL.

Mr. Chapin Gave Impersonations of Lincoln Before High School.

Benjamin Chapin, the impersonator of Abraham Lincoln, who appeared last evening at the Y. M. C. A., was present at the City High School this morning and gave several interesting impersonations before the school. Although the recitations were without costume, they were all well received and Mr. Chapin's kindness was appreciated by all. In conclusion Mr. Chapin gave a stirring recital of Lincoln's Gettysberg Address.

DEMOCRATS ACTIVE.

Preparing Various Attractions for Their Local Clubhouse.

At the regular meeting of the Plainfield Democratic Club, last evening, it was decided to purchase a pool table and a set of quoits to be installed in the clubhouse for the members. A communication was also read from Congressman Timothy D. Sullivan and William Sulzer, in which they declared their intention of attending the club's reception and ball in the Casino on February 21.

In reply to inquiries we have pleasure in announcing that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is like the solid preparation of that admirable remedy in that it cleanses and heals membranes affected by nasal catarrh. There is no drying or sneezing. The Liquid Cream Balm is adapted to use by patients who have trouble in inhaling through the nose and prefer spraying. The price, including spraying tube, is 75 cents. Sold by druggists or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

MANY DANCED ENMASQUE

MASQUERADE BALL OF THE GERMANIA BENEVOLENT SOCIETY LAST NIGHT.

John Wirth Led the Grand March—Then Followed Dancing for Remainder of Evening.

The second masquerade ball of the Germania Benevolent Society was held last night at the Saengerbund Hall when there were fully two hundred people present enmasque. The affair was a great success and some of the costumes worn were very attractive and ranged from the costume of the German prince and other noble men to the school girl, the negro "mammy" and the clown.

At 10 o'clock the grand march was started and the two hundred guests all arrayed in the different costumes were led by the chairman of the committee, John Wirth, who was also the floor manager. Behind him came the committee all attired as German princes. These were George Zepp, Charles Schantz, Anton Stenzenberger and August Melcher.

The leader took the procession through a number of very intricate figures. After the grand march the dancing was begun in earnest and was continued until early this morning. The music for the dancing was provided by Prof. O'Reilly.

Last night's affair was far more successful than the ball given by the society a year ago and the net proceeds will be correspondingly larger.

Going to Be Great.

Company K's minstrel end men held a rehearsal, last evening, that was gratifying in every particular to the promoters of the affair. Another and final rehearsal of all the participants will be held tonight, as the first performance will be given tomorrow night. Indications point to a full house. A few choice seats for Thursday night still remain unsold.

Married Two Years.

Thirty friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Young, of West Fifth street, tendered them a surprise party, last evening, in honor of the second anniversary of their wedding. The occasion was made enjoyable with the aid of music, games and dancing while a collation was served at a late hour.

Lost and Found.

An Italian girl named Rose Pasqualli, of Grove street, went home from the North Plainfield school this morning. She became lost and it was several hours later when Chief Marshal Campbell found her near Hermann's pond.

New Lincoln Land Company.

The New York and New Jersey Realty Corporation, with an office at Lincoln, in charge of John P. Rhodes, was incorporated at New Brunswick Saturday. The capital stock is $100,000.

Look Out for Pig.

The women of Calvary church will give a musicale and pig supper, January 29, in Reform Hall.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Andrew McCardell, of West End Park, has returned from a pleasant visit to Boston and vicinity.

J. Frank Hubbard, of West Seventh street, who is detained at his home by illness, was reported today as resting comfortably.

Miss VanVliet, of New York York, has returned to her home after a visit at the home of her brother, D. M. VanVliet, of Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Potter, of East Second street, went to New Haven, Conn., Sunday, to visit Mr. Potter's sister. They will return home tomorrow.

James Montross, of East Second street, who has been undergoing treatment in Muhlenberg Hospital for rheumatism, has recovered enough to be discharged from the institution.

—Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., held a regular conclave, last evening, when six men were made knights.

AS LINCOLN REALLY WAS REMARKABLE IMPERSONATION OF THAT ILLUSTRIOUS PRESIDENT.

Was Given by Benjamin Chapin at Y. M. C. A. Hall Last Evening.

Those who attended the entertainment at the Young Men's Christian Association last night really had the pleasure of an evening with Abraham Lincoln. So cleverly was the illustrious martyred President portrayed in voice, manner, action and character that some of the oldest men and women in the audience, who had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Lincoln when he was alive, said that the portrayal as presented by Benjamin Chapin was remarkably near to life.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the Y. M. C. A. orchestra rendered several selections and then Mr. Chapin appeared before the heavy curtain attired as Abraham Lincoln about to go to Washington. Later he appeared as President at the executive mansion at the Capital. Well known incidents of his administration were cleverly shown and some of the never ending list of stories which made the martyred President famous added mirth to the entertainment. Towards the close of the enterainment the story of the assassination was told as being a dream which came to the Executive and the recital of this was so realistic that absolute stillness reigned throughout the hall.

The entertainment ended with a sketch giving the audience an idea of the difficulty experienced by the President in managing his cabinet in those trying times.

Those in the orchestra which rendered the music during the entertainment were: Pianist, Miss Conger; trombones, Kenneth Shupp and G. T. Dunham; 'cello, Dr. Berg; violins, G. H. Spear and Ernest Higham; flute, Ernest Wheeler; clarionette, Mr. Wardner; and director, G. W. V. Moy.

FLORIDA.

Two Weeks' Tour Via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The first Pennsylvania Railroad tour of the season to Jacksonville, allowing two weeks in Florida, will leave New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington by special train on February 3.

Excursion tickets, including railway transportation, Pullman accommodations (one berth), and meals en route in both directions while traveling on the special train, will be sold at the following rates: New York, $50; Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Baltimore, and Washington, $48; Pittsburg, $53; and at proportionate rates from other points.

For tickets, itineraries, and other information apply to ticket agents, or to Geo. W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent, Broad Street station, Philadelphia.

He Held Her.

"See, here," she said, "just tell that clerk I can't wait. I've got to catch a train, and he's been gone fully ten minutes looking for a pair of shoes for me."

"Pardon, madam," replied the floor walker, "but the smaller the size the harder it is to find, you know."

"Well—er—if he'll only hurry a little I'll wait for the next train."—Philadelphia Press.

Bread of Corsica.

In Corsica bread is made from chestnuts without admixture of any other substance. It has not the firmness of ordinary bread, but it is healthful, sweet in flavor, agreeable to eat, and easily digestible. It keeps more than 15 days, and constitutes the chief food of the Corsican mountaineers.—N. Y. Sun.

Spaniards as Gamblers.

In Europe and the new world the most inveterate gamblers are the Spaniards and their descendants. Among African tribes the Haussas run the Chinese very close; and there are some Kanaka tribes in the South seas who push the hazard of gambling beyond the grave.—N. Y. Herald.

COWBOYS AT THE PLAY.

One of Them Tried to Make It Easier for the Heroine by Roping the Villain.

Under a recent date the San Antonio correspondent of the St. Louis Republic writes that there was a fascinating conglomeration of the drama of true, wholesome Texas life at the Grand Opera house last night. Zach Mulhall, general live stock agent of the Frisco, is here with his cowboy band, and they occupied eight boxes at the Grand last night at the presentation of Hal Reid's "Human Hearts."

"Can my boys make all the noise they want to?" asked Col. Mulhall

before he accepted the invitation. He was assured that they could. The band was attired in leather leggins, buckskin shirts, campaign hats and red bandana handkerchiefs. They carried Colt's six-shooters and belts full of cartridges. Miss Lucile Mulhall, the pretty daughter of Col. Mulhall, who can rope and tie a steer in 38 seconds flat and sing an operatic air equal to a prima donna, accompanied the band as sponsor.

After the third curtain the band struck up "Dixie," with such feeling that everybody cheered until they were hoarse, but the climax of enthusiasm and consternation came when Miss Mulhall snatched a six-shooter out of one of the men's pockets and emptied it in the direction of the ceiling. The "boys" were not averse to following her example, and while they continued to play music they punctuated the stirring notes with a fusillade of shots. There was wild consternation in the big audience, but a panic was averted.

There was another tremendous sensation when Jim Hopkins, a big raw-boned cowboy, not liking the way the heroine was being treated, undertook to lasso the villain. While unsuccessful the attempt caught the fancy of the crowd and Hopkins was forced to take the stage and, lariat in hand, bow his acknowledgments.

On the whole, it was a bit of the "wild and woolly west," not witnessed here for many years.

ENTIRELY TOO POLITE.

Exchange of Courteous Remonstrance Leads to Hot Fight at an Irish Ball.

The most characteristic instance of carrying politeness to an extreme came off not long since at an Irish ball. As related by one of the sons of Erin who keenly appreciates a good thing, it seems that one gay Lothario, in crossing the room to request Bridget's hand in the next reel, stumbled over the outstretched foot of Mr. Terence O'Grady, who promptly arose and, in the politest manner, said: "I beg your pardon, sir."

"YE IGNORANT POLTHROON!"

"No offense—no offense, sir, at all," responded the other; "it was my fault."

"I beg your pardon, sir, it was intirely my fault," was the response, accompanied with a graceful wave of the hand.

"No, sir," answered Misther O'Toole, "yer intirely in the wrong, sir; I tell ye it was altogether my fault."

"I tell ye it was not, sir," responded Misther O'Grady; "do you mane to say I'd be tilling a lie, sir?"

"Bad luck to ye, sir, d'ye mane to say I'd be afther tilling a lie, sir, when I till ye it wasn't your fault?" responded O'Toole, quite wroth.

"Bad luck to yer bad brading, ye ignorant polthroon; d'ye think ye'd be getting the better av me in manners?" shouted Misther O'Grady, as with a tip and a blow he laid the unfortunate O'Toole flat as a pancake.

The latter rallied and a rough-and-tumble ensued, which ended in the expulsion of both gentlemen from the ballroom.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

THE INDEPENDENT WOMAN

Why She Desires to Earn Money. Poor Mrs. Oldfoggie.

"I hope the time will come when women will have the sense to stay out of business and remain home and marry, as they should," growled Tom Oldfoggie crossly.

"But what are they going to do if they need the money?" put in his sister.

"Oh, half of them don't. They have parents who could just as well support them, only they want so many frills."

"If they want the good things of life and have brains enough to secure them, why should they deliberately go without just because they don't happen to be men?" retorted the sister, who earned a neat income herself writing clever advertisements.

"They take the bread out of other women's mouths; that's what."

"Do you know that never appealed to me as a good argument," she answered. "If there were any question of favoritism among employers, it might be; but, all things being equal, why shouldn't women stand or fall on their own merits, as men do? What would a man think of his son when he came to the age when boys usually begin to work were the son to remark that he had a sufficient income in his own right and did not think he should be dealing justly by men who were penniless if he took payment for his labor?"

"Humph! But it is different. A woman is a woman, and she ought to marry."

"But they all can't"—

"Their own fault then"—

—"because they are homely or there are not men enough to go around."

"Tut! Nonsense! That isn't the principal reason why girls don't marry. It's because they run after the men too much. Men don't want anything that's easy, and they'd run after the homeliest girl that ever was if she made herself difficult."

"Philosopher!" commented the sister dryly. "I see you have the lovely little characteristics of your sex down fine."

"Look at that Johnson girl, for instance," went on Oldfoggle complacently. "She fairly makes a slave of herself over Jack Bender. She even begs him to come and call on her, and she keeps telephoning him and writing him notes. No wonder the chap is conceited. I pity her if she ever does succeed in getting him to marry her."

"My dear," chuckled the sister delightedly, "don't you see there are five Johnson girls, and it's a case of marry or perish? They must marry! It's dinned into them morning, noon and night. Do you blame a girl for acting anxious under the conditions? If the Johnson girls were each self supporting, they wouldn't be in that wild fever and men would lose their relative importance."

"Humph! But, leaving them out of the question, many women do the proper thing and wait quietly at home to get decently married and have a husband to support them," he persisted.

At this moment Mrs. Oldfoggle, a timid little woman, entered and, clearing her throat nervously, remarked:

BEGGING FOR MONEY.

"I'm awfully sorry, Tom, but I'll have to ask you for $5. The children's boots"—

"Great heavens!" growled Oldfoggle. "Didn't I give you $10 only the day before yesterday?"

"But that was for my winter hat," replied Mrs. Oldfoggle, with spirit. "You surely can't expect me to go bare-headed."

"What was the matter with your last year's one? Anybody 'd think you were a millionaire when I married you. Many's the hat you had to retrim when you were with your father, and precious glad you were to get me and escape it all. There, don't ask me again for money for an age—here it is! Now I want to read my paper. I declare, women are enough to drive a man to the poorhouse!"

Miss Oldfoggle followed the weeping little wife into the bedroom.

"Oh-h," sobbed the latter, "I nearly die of shame when I have to ask him for money! Oh, if I could only earn some! As it is, no matter what he says to me I have to stand it. I can't even leave him. I—I should starve! What can I do? What can I do?"

Miss Oldfoggle looked at her pityingly; then she said softly, "You can teach your children to be self supporting, so that even if they love him they need not be the slave of any man!"

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by LeClaire Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"I should say he was well qualified," remarked Mr. Kent. "I must give Hestor credit for rare talent in the selection of steaks and wines. The poor fellow is as crazy as a bug on most matters, but his mind is perfectly clear on Scotch whisky and cigars. By the way, Pence, did you read those articles about your will? One of the papers say you leave $25,000,000 to endow an old ladies' home, and another says your entire fortune will be devoted to a socialist university. The Philadelphia papers claim that your money is left to indigent actors and race horse people. Is there any truth in it?"

Simon Pence looked up over his steel-rimmed spectacles and he smiled at his questioner in a good-natured way.

"You are too old a man, Kent, to believe everything you see in newspapers," Mr. Pence said, and returned to his reading.

"I have a suggestion to make," said Sidney Hammond, later in the afternoon. "If Hestor remains around these waters—as he is likely to do—there is no telling what he may attempt. It evidently is his intention that we remain where we are for an indefinite period. It is impossible to forecast what vagary his fancy may take. I doubt if he came near the bungalow last night. If it is his idea to keep us on the island and supply us with luxuries, he will object to the construction of such a boat as we now have under way. There is nothing to prevent his quietly coming in some night and towing 'The Jumping Jupiter' out to sea. This would be a calamity and we must run no chances. The yawl he has given us, is not seaworthy for more than three men. If necessary, I am ready to make the trip to the mainland in the yawl, but our best plan is to remain together and finish our boat. In the meantime, we should guard it at night. I suggest that we detail two men to night work on the boat. They can work with lanterns and guard our property at the same time."

"We will do that," said Mr. Morton. "I will gladly take the night shift for a time. Who will go with me?"

All volunteered, and Mr. Morton selected Mr. Haven as his companion.

CHAPTER XXII.

THE ESCAPE FROM SOCIAL ISLAND.

The boat was rapidly nearing completion. They tested their work by weighing the hull down with rocks, but no leaks were disclosed. Each of the eight compartments seemed to be water-tight, and provision was made that in case of a leak the faulty one could be bailed out.

It had been hoped to finish "The Jumping Jupiter" by Saturday night, but this was found impossible. A heavy rain set in Saturday evening and continued all day Sunday. The day was spent in reading, and Monday morning found all much refreshed, and ready to complete the preparations for departure. There were occasional showers during the day, but it was cool. It was found possible to work without the usual afternoon respite. When six o'clock came Mr. Carmody inspected the "Jumping Jupiter" and announced that the boat was finished.

Candor compels the admission that "The Jumping Jupiter" was as ugly a craft as ever stood ready to put out to sea. In comparison, a canal boat was a model of grace, and a Hudson river raft would hesitate to recognize the prototype evolved by the builders on Social Island. The only paint was that used in outlining the name on the opposite sides of the cabin. "The Jumping Jupiter" is easily described. Imagine a 40-foot scow supporting a 24-foot cabin on top of which there were two short masts. These masts supported two lateen sails made of striped window awnings, and the sail-makers made no attempt to preserve any uniformity of design in connecting the stripes. As Mr. Kent remarked, the sails looked "like two teams of convicts engaged in a football scrimmage."

There were thwarts for three oars on each side of the boat. A long oar served as a rudder and a crude windlass supported the rock anchor. But what "The Jumping Jupiter" lacked in beauty she made up in staunchness and utility. There was no chance for her to flounder.

"The Jumping Jupiter is all right," said Mr. Kent, as they stood off and surveyed this marine wonder. "But I object to calling the Jumping Jupiter a 'she.' There is nothing effeminate about this boat. We will call it a 'he.' It is a wonderful boat. It is also a submarine boat, isn't it, Vincent?"

"It started out that way," said Vincent, with a grin. "I hope he won't repeat that performance."

During the evening they placed such furniture and bedding on board as was needed. For two days Vincent and Mr. Pence had been cooking in preparation for the voyage. They had provided huge joints of roast beef, and enough bread to last a week or more. They placed in the storeroom of "The Jumping Jupiter" a store of canned meats and vegetables, huge bunches of bananas, pawpaws and other tropical luxuries. Everything which would hold water was pressed into service. Several casks of fresh water were placed in the hold, as also were extra stores of food, in case a storm should wash the cabin overboard. In that event it was proposed that all should seek shelter below and trust to luck and a sandy beach. The new dinghy was lashed to the roof of the cabin.

There was one thought which disturbed the prospective voyagers, though none mentioned it. Where was Hestor and the "Shark," and would he interfere with their departure? Had he observed their preparations for escape? They could not hope to make any effective fight against recapture, but every man swore to himself to resist such an outrage to the last extremity. That Monday night Sidney and Mr. Kent climbed the cliffs and scanned the sea. There was no ship or craft in sight, but for all they knew the "Shark" might be anchored behind the cliffs which jetted out from the opposite horns of the crescent which limited their range of vision north and south.

At a conference it was decided to put out to sea about 11 o'clock the following forenoon, unless the wind and weather absolutely precluded such a risk. At this hour the tide was favorable, since it swung with a strong current to the north. They aimed to circle the island to the north and head straight for the mainland; which in their opinion was not more than 150 miles to the west or southwest.

"By the way," said Sidney, "have you and Vincent put your idols on board 'The Jumping Jupiter'?"

"I have made a special compartment for them in my stateroom," said Mr. Pence. "We will put them on board to-morrow morning."

"So the good ship 'Jumping Jupiter' is to be a treasure ship, is he?" said Mr. Kent. "How about that, Mr. Carmody? Who owns 'The Jumping Jupiter'? In my opinion, we all own an equal share. Now, this gold shipment is purely a business proposition. 'The Jumping Jupiter' was designed solely as a passenger boat. Any one could tell that by looking at him. It is a great risk to ship 1,500 pounds of gold. We should charge heavy freight. I should say that we should be justified in charging not less than 25 per cent. of the value of the cargo as freight. If Pence and Vincent can use our boat to carry a lot of heathenish idols, I want to carry an equal weight in bananas. Hammond is also anxious to ship some rare wood he has found. Each of us is entitled to at least 750 pounds of freight. 'The Jumping Jupiter' cannot hold any such burden in addition to our common store of provisions and other necessities. What are we going to do about it?"

Mr. Kent winked solemnly at Mr. Carmodv.

CAN'T KEEP IT UP.

Can't Deceive Plainfield People Very Long—They Learn Quickly.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. We are naturally skeptical when, reading a published statement given by some stranger residing in a far-away place, but the circumstances are entirely different when home endorsement is presented. The testimony of local citizens renders deceit impossible. It is so easy for you to investigate. Read this case:

Mrs. Henry Bender, of 118 West Front street, says: "I suffered almost constantly from a dull aching pain across my back and hips. Any hard work always increased it. I was also subject to severe headaches and dizziness when stooping, and though I tried different plasters and home remedies I could not get relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles as mine, got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, used them according to directions and obtained a great deal of relief from them. In my estimation and from my experience Doan's Kidney Pills are a good reliable kidney medicine."

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and co-servative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

Arranged His Own Funeral.

A New York gentleman who recently passed over to the great majority and whose will has been probated, showed a most commendable desire to relieve his heirs of all anxiety as to the final disposition of his mortal remains. In his will the specifications for his funeral were set down minutely. There was to be a casket covered with black cloth, to cost $50; $5 were to be paid for laying him out; $35 for his cremation, $10 for a hearse, $5 for one carriage, $1 for ferry tickets, $3 for removal of body, $4 for "four gentlemen porters;" $4.25 for board of health permits; total, $113.25. No more was to be paid to anyone under any circumstances. The ashes were to be sent to Virginia and planted in a cemetery there.—N. Y. Sun.

Natural Curiosity.

Prof. Angelo Heilprin, whose daring ascent of Mont Pelee caused such a sensation among both scientific men and the general public, numbers among his friends a family which rejoices in the services of an old southern darky. She listened in interested silence to the discussions of the crater's activity with which the family meals were enlivened. Shortly after Prof. Heilprin's return from Martinique he called at the house. During the visit, his hostess, leaving the room suddenly, found the ancient servitor peeping through the crack of the door. On asking sharply the meaning of such action, she was astounded to hear the reply: "'Scuse me, Miss Annie, but I sholey want to see dat man what see de Creator a smoking'."—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Bad Lot.

"Those Chinese are as bad as the savages of Africa," said old Billion.

"Why so?" asked Trillion.

"They actually buy and sell their wives."

"They are a bad lot, that's a fact, and I sometimes wonder whether it is worth while trying to civilize them."

"That's right, how are your family?"

"All well but Maud."

"Anything serious?"

"No; disappointment in love, she calls it. She wanted to marry that poverty-stricken Marshall, but I set my foot down against that most firmly."—Tit-Bits.

Print Shop Regulations in Turkey.

All printing establishments in Turkey, according to a new law just passed, may have only one door, and that opening on to the street. Windows must be covered with close-meshed wire netting, so that no papers can be handed through. A statement must be made a year in advance of the amount of ink required, which will be supplied by the state. A specimen of everything printed is to be kept, and must be shown at any time to a police inspector on pain of a fine.—N. Y. Sun.

Porto Ricans Still Aliens.

Under a decision given in the United States circuit court at New York by Judge Lacombe, Porto Ricans are not citizens of the United States, but aliens. The basis of the decision is that they were born aliens, and that the treaty of Paris did not make them citizens, but left their civil rights and political status to be determined by congress.

Misunderstood.

THE NEW ARMY RIFLE.

Lighter Than the German or Mauser Muskets, But Has Far Greater Penetration.

Gen. William Crozier, chief of the bureau of ordnance, in his annual report to the secretary of war says the improved musket has been completed and tried with very satisfactory results, the various changes not only improving the weapon, but cheapening and accelerating the production.

The rod bayonet is a feature of the new rifle. Its advantage is said to lie in the fact that it lightens the weight of the gun and dispenses with the bayonet and bayonet scabbard now in use, and in the place of which intrenching tools may be carried by the soldier.

GEN. WILLIAM CROZIER.
(Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, United States Army.)

The new piece weighs but a little less than 9½ pounds, considerably lighter than the German and the Mauser, yet has greater velocity and greater penetration. It is noted that opinions differ as to the value of the rod bayonet. The construction of 5,000 of the new muskets has been authorized.

Gen. Crozier embraces in his report the conclusions of the board of ordnance and fortificaiton on the recent tests of the several systems for a new field gun to show why the ordnance department model is superior. He says the bureau is proceeding with the manufacture of field material from designs which it has prepared concurrently with the development of knowledge by tests. Generally speaking the new gun will have a caliber of three inches and will fire a projectile weighing 15 pounds with an initial velocity of 1,700 feet per second. The breech mechanism will be of the ordnance department type with certain modifications for securing safety. The piece will have a recoil of from 45 to 48 inches. Defects developed at the tests on the proving grounds are to be remedied. A new feature will be the bullet-proof shields with which the pieces are to be provided. Capt. Charles B. Wheeler is given credit for the design of the gun carriage.

Princess Waldemar of Denmark, Who Prevented Sale of Islands to the United States.

Princess Waldemar of Denmark, who is credited with having secured the defeat in the landsthing of the treaty ceding the Danish West Indies to the United States, is possessed of great business ability. It is said that she acted in the interests of a syndicate of bankers and merchants with whom she is believed to be associated. This syndicate plans to exploit the islands by establishing a bank, encouraging agriculture and starting steamship lines.

This is not the first venture of this kind in which the princess has been interested. A year ago she engaged in real estate speculation, secured a plot near Copenhagen, which she cut up into building lots, with the sanction of the city, and erected villas, which she rented to wealthy people. She is interested in the development of the Danish commerce in Asia and has secured valuable concessions from the Russian government.

War Balloons Are Costly.

War balloons are frequently made of the bladders of oxen, which are preferable to silk. The rents in a skin balloon close almost automatically, and therefore the leakage is slight. It requires the bladders of about 74,000 oxen to make a medium-sized balloon, and the cost is about $5,000.

IN DEFENCE OF HIS WALLET

WM. A. DE LONG, JR., HAD THRILLING ENCOUNTER WITH NEW YORK CROOK.

Latter Made a Grab for a Plainfielder's Pocketbook—DeLong Equal to Emergency.

William A. DeLong, Jr., who boards at Truell Court, and his pocketbook came very near parting company Saturday afternoon. A New York pickpocket thought he wanted the wallet and its contents more than did the owner but DeLong managed to convince him of the contrary.

DeLong had taken out the pocketbook on his way to the Liberty street ferry to look at a time table it contained. A man jostled him and made a grab for the wallet sending it and its contents flying over the sidewalk. DeLong's fingers reached the collar of the stranger and the Plainfielder administered a hearty kick. The New Yorker made a swing with his good right arm. Then a crowd collected.

Just as the crowd thought it saw prospects of a brisk young fracas, a policeman arrived on the scene and gathered in the crook. DeLong refused to make a complaint and the stranger was allowed to go while a sympathetic but disappointed crowd assisted DeLong in collecting his worldly possessions which were generally scattered about the sidewalk.

AT GROOM'S REQUEST.

Marriage Was Held Sooner Than Expected to Allow Him to Take Western Business Trip.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, Jan. 20—At the home of the bride's father, J. Y. Wilson, Miss Edith Colegrove Wilson, of this place, and John Wayland Peddie, of New York City, were married last evening by Rev. Dr. L. E. Livermore. The affair was a quiet one and neither the bride nor groom had attendants.

It was originally planned to have the wedding a little later, but Mr. Peddie, who is a New York lawyer and banker, is obliged to start this week on an extensive western business trip which will keep him away for several months, and for this reason the wedding was set for last evening.

The bride is a most estimable young woman and she has a host of friends in this place and Plainfield. The groom is also highly esteemed and is associated with many prominent enterprises. Upon their return the bride and groom will reside in New York.

Another Contest.

The bombardment contest which was to have been played at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday will be played this coming Saturday. Much interest has been manifested in this contest which will no doubt be an exciting one.

GIGANTIC TASK OF THE M. E. CHURCH

It Succeeded in Raising $20,000,000 in Period of Four Years.

PLAINFIELDERS HELPED

TWO FROM THIS CITY WERE ON THE COMMISSION IN CHARGE.

Besides Raising That Sum It Aimed to Convert Two Million Souls—It Was Not Quite So Successful in That Line of Work.

To convert 2,000,000 souls and raise $20,000,000 within a period of four years was a gigantic task even for so large a religious body as the Methodist Episcopal church, when it is considered that the vast sum of money involved was to be a special gift and not to include the regular contributions. But so royally has the church supported the recommendations of its Board of Bishops that, although the official reports have not yet been compiled, it is certain that the $20,000,000 was contributed. The spiritual end has not been quite as successful, however, apparently, but special efforts in its behalf have been started.

Interested in this movement with others was Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll who was one of the founders of the Grace M. E. church, of this city, and who is about to leave shortly for South America where he will visit the mission stations there. He was one of the Board of Bishops who have been working hard to carry the project to a successful end. There have been 120 conferences interested in this laudable work. These have been working for their respective institutions as each giver is allowed to designate to what purpose the money is to be devoted. Among the purposes to which this money will be devoted are for universities, colleges, theological seminaries, hospitals, orphanages, shoes for the aged and other benevolent institutons.

As a part of this great undertaking the twentieth century fund conference will try to increase the centenary fund for aged preachers to $100,000 within the next five years. One of the most active workers toward the better support of the conference claimants is William H. Murphy, father of Governor Franklin Murphy.

Some idea of the activity of the commission in the work may be gleaned from the fact that it has distributed gratuitously 10,000 souvenir books, 20,000 contribution cards and many circulars and programmes; has held one general convention, seven district conventions, two conference anniversaries and six regular business meetings. This has been done without expense to the conference or any deductions from the amount contributed.

GOING TO FORECLOSE $500,000 MORTGAGE

Proceedings Started by the Knickerbocker Trust Co., Against Carteret Steel Co.

ON JERSEY PROPERTY

FORMER SENATOR CHAS. A. REED IS LAWYER FOR TRUST COMPANY.

Foreclosure Proceedings Were Instituted at Jersey City Today—In Interest of U. S. Senator Jones a Stockholder in Trust Co.

Foreclosure proceedings instituted by the Knickerbocker Trust Company, of New York, against the Carteret Steel Company were begun today at Jersey City on a $500,000 mortgage held by the former company. Former Senator Charles A. Reed is one of the lawyers representing the Knickerbocker Trust Company in the interests of United States Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada, who is one of the heaviest stockholders in the trust company. The case is an interesting one in that the mortgages were issued on valuable property in Union, Warren and Morris counties.

The Carteret Steel Company, which is located at Carteret, some time ago secured $500,000 on mortgages on these properties. Foreclosure proceedings have been instituted on the ground that some of the $1,000 bonds were not issued at par but were issued at prices averaging fifty cents on the dollar. Those who had paid the full amount on them, or in other words, those who had secured the bonds at par, raised an objection, hence the proceedings.

Very interesting developments are expected to appear and the result is being watched for with interest by many prominent men of wealth in many States who are more or less interested in one or the other of the concerns.

TEST BORINGS.

First Steps Toward Providing the Sewer System for Proposed New Residential Park.

P. H. Conlan, of New York, arrived in this city yesterday afternoon and will spend several days here looking over the ground on the site of the proposed new park in the southwestern part of the city, the details of which were first explained in The Daily Press, with a view of making test borings to ascertain the nature of the soil in that locality. The tests are being made for the purpose of finding out what kind of soil is to be found there and whether it is practicable to lay sewers along the routes suggested. This may be considered as being the first definite move towards securing for this city the $500,000 residential park in which G. Herbert Taylor, of this city, has been interesting Philadelphia capitalists.

TO SAN FRANCISCO.

Newark Veterans Have Arranged for a Special Excursion.

A committee from Lincoln Post, G. A. R., of Newark, has enlisted the services of W. C. Walsh, Jr., district passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, and will run a personally conducted tour to California for the G. A. R. convention to be held in San Francisco this year. The trip will consume about twenty-five days and the number carried will be strictly limited to 125 persons. The committee at present has applications for sixty-four prominent residents of Newark.

Trouble at Skating Pond.

Through the careless use of hockey sticks, a small-sized riot was caused among the skaters on Hyde's pond, yesterday afternoon. A small boy was knocked down with one of the clubs and his friends immediately sprang at the man who held it. He was struck by one of them and matters looked dark until it was learned the boy was not badly hurt.

His Friends Came In.

Harry Keene, of West Fourth street, entertained a party of friends at his home, last evening, in a social way. Great enjoyment was derived by his guests in listening to piano and phonograph selections and other features. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

For Full Amount.

Judgment for the full amount was secured Monday in the case of Sutphin & Mayer, of New York, against Pangborn & Peterson, of this city, on contract. The amount sued for was $140.75. The case was tried in Justice Huff's court.

CITY HIGH WON AT HOCKEY

DEFEATED BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL TEAM ON HYDE'S POND.

Score Was 2 to 0—Some Excellent Team Work by the Winning Side.

The hockey team of the City High School defeated the team of the Borough High School yesterday afternoon by a score of 2 to 0. The game was played on Hyde's pond where the ice was in a better condition than on Hermann's pond where the game was scheduled to be played. The city boys took an aggressive stand from the first and most of the playing was in the neighborhood of their goal.

Neither side scored in the first half. In the second half, the play was much improved on both sides and the city boys got right into the game with some excellent team play. Ulrich made the first goal after some fast work by his team and shortly afterwards Craig shot the puck between the goal posts for the second point. The remainder of the half nothing was done although the puck was continually near the city team's goal. McLaughlin, of the borough team, put up the best game for his side, his individual playing being commendable throughout.

The teams lined up as follows:

Plainfield High School—Forwards, Craig, VanAuken, W. Douglas, Meeker, Daniels; point, Tweedy; cover point, Ulrich; goal, Bock.

North Plainfield High School—Forwards, McLaughlin, Adams, Baldwin, Quaker; point, Armstrong; cover point, Humble; goal, George.

NO DEFENCE.

Chas. J. McNabb Says Judgment Was Secured Without Entering Into Merits of the Case.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Your article headed "Hearing of Jury Appeals" in yesterday's issue works an injustice upon Isaac P. Runyon, as well as myself, inasmuch as Mr. Runyon was obliged to go to trial without a single witness, and therefore was unable to put up any defense to the issue.

The case in question has been on the calendar for three or four terms, having first been won by Mr. Runyon, before the appeal, and every time we were ready for trial, was put off by opposing counsel upon some pretext, until this term and upon the very day I was engaged at the Union county court, he forced the issue and obtained a judgment without entering into merits of the case.

The necessary papers are being prepared to carry the case up.

Yours respectfully,
Chas. J. McNabb.

GIFT FOR SCHOOL.

After Aiding Athletic Association, Seniors Will Buy Works of Art.

At a recent meeting of the class of 1903, of the City High School, it was decided to give the Athletic Association of the school $35 of the proceeds of the senior play "Midsummer Night's Dream," given by the class before Christmas. The remainder of the proceeds will be devoted to the purchasing of works of art for the interior decoration of the High School. This presentation will probably consist of pictures, but nothing definite has been decided. The presentation will be made in June at the graduation of the class.

Horses for Fire Department.

A pair of fine horses are expected to arrive in town this evening, consigned to Stonewall Jackson. They are for use at the city fire headquarters, if they pass the required examination and will replace the horse Frank, who recently fell down and was injured, and was retired from the service.

Surprised by Masquers.

Mrs. Emma Weigmann, of West Front street, was given a surprise masquerade by twenty-five friends, last evening. The participants had a delightful time until a late hour with dancing and music. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Fred Westphal and Mrs. John Adelmann.

Permit for Dwelling.

A permit was granted yesterday at the office of Building Inspector T. O. Doane to Henry Bohl to erect a house to be used as a dwelling at 946 Arlington avenue. The architect is the owner; W. J. Mundy is the mason, and W. H. Bohl is the carpenter.

WORKING FOR CITY'S GAIN

All Sorts of Projects Were Discussed at the Meeting of the Board of Trade.

LOTS OF TROLLEY TALK

Although Mayor Jenkins Wasn't There, the Members Found Many Interesting Subjects Up for Discussion — Election of Officers Held—The Other Details.

Although Mayor Jenkins failed to appear before the Board of Trade at its meeting, last evening, in order to outline his plan for a system of city parks, the organization transacted more business that it has in many months. It marked the annual session and in addition to the reading of reports and election of officers many matters of public interest were discussed at length.

Principal among these were questions in regard to the local trolley service which the board has been agitating of late. The committee appointed to inquire into the Arlington avenue line extension reported a cessation of progress owing to a hitch between the officials of the Plainfield company and Superintendent Radel, of the Middlesex company. This brought out the South Plainfield extension and it was unanimously decided to promote this line, if not over the Plainfield avenue route as has been suggested, by another leading from the present Monroe avenue terminus across private right of way and streets. P. J. McDonough, of South Plainfield, explained in detail how it could be accomplished and, with James E. Martine, C. W. Runyon, B. F. Coriell and H. C. Runyon, was appointed as a committee to take the matter up.

Speaking for the committee appointed to secure a better system of transferring from the trolley company, President Woolston stated that Chandler Riker, of the road, had declared his willingness to assist Plainfield in getting improvements provided the Common Council and property owners would grant the right of way through East Second or East Front streets for additional tracks to accommodate the through line traffic. With these, Mr. Riker is reported to have said, the Elizabeth cars would be sent direct to Dunellen without transferring. Later in the evening this plan was declared by several members to be a blind to secure a direct line through the State. Part of the board believed in recommending a franchise in one of the streets asked but final action was deferred until the committee appointed on the South Plainfield extension made an investigation.

For the committee appointed to inquire into the condition of the city disposal plant, brought about by the North Plainfield Board of Health's charges, W. C. Krausse reported visiting the beds in company with State Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker but that he was not ready to submit any statement. In this connection, however, President Woolston declared the State Board of Health in its next report would assert the beds are in good condition and no menace to health as is alleged.

Mayor Jenkins' failure to appear and talk on parks was explained by Secretary Runyon, who declared the city's chief executive thought it unwise to name any proposed sites at this time for fear of sending the price of the land soaring beyond reach. Not to drop the matter entirely, as many of the members, including Mayor Smalley, of the borough, had attended the meeting expressly to hear the Mayor express his views, a committee composed of Frank H. Smith, D. C. Ivins and J. F. MacDonald was appointed to take it up and report at the next meeting.

Mayor Smalley was given the floor in order to outline the proposed plan for a new street leading from the North Avenue station, between Park and Watchung avenue, to East Front street and what advantages would accrue. According to facts gathered by him it could be done at a cost of $15,000 to the city, another $15,000 to be borne by assessment on abutting property owners. It was only a question of time, he said, when it would have to be done, owing to the congested condition of the business center. The board took no action.

Another question, which was widely discussed, referred to the effect which the early closing movement has had upon the business interests of the city. By most of the members present, who represent the merchant element, it was declared to be a detriment. The gist of the remarks was that the store keepers depend upon the mechanics for trade, that the latter are closely confined during the day and that with everything closed at night they take advantage of the Saturday half holidays and make purchases in Newark or New York. It was deemed advisable to learn the sentiment of every merchant in the city in regard to the matter and this will be done by correspondence conducted by the secretary.

The committee on street lighting reported that the establishment of arc lights in the business center would mean an added cost of $1,300 per annum, or a total of $2,000 for twenty lights. Action upon the report was deferred for one month.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, Charles A. Reed, Frank H. Smith, H. C. Runyon and N. B. Smalley were appointed as a committee to make arrangements for the second dinner of the season under the board's auspices. It is proposed to make it a subscription affair.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, L. B. Woolston; first vice president, J. C. Pope; second vice president, E. A. Kapp; treasurer, E. M. Laing. Secretary H. C. Runyon declined to accept a re-election and he consented to serve for one month until a successor could be secured.

The concluding item of business was the election of the following as members: Charles A. Reed, William B. Smith, H. Texier, J. P. Emmons, V. W. Nash, Sr., J. B. Coward, W. L. Saunders, Herman Klinsman, Michael Higgins, D. W. Littell and Mayor N. B. Smalley.

GAVE AWAY FORTUNE ON HER DEATH BED

Mrs. Kate J. Fisher Did Not Die, But Had Trouble in Recovering Property.

IT WAS TAKEN TO COURT

CASE WAS SETTLED JUST FIVE MINUTES BEFORE IT CAME UP FOR TRIAL.

The Suit Was Brought Against Her Daughter, Miss Anna L. Fisher—Had Signed Over $11,000 in a New York Savings Bank.

Five minutes before the case of Kate J. Fisher against her daughter, Anna L. Fisher, came up for trial yesterday in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth, a settlement was effected between the lawyers, and an unusually interesting case was withdrawn from the court. Reed & Coddington represented the complainant, and Charles J. McNabb, the defendant.

In 1895, Mrs. Kate J. Fisher, of West Fourth street, was taken ill with a paralytic stroke and was not expected to live. When she was assured that she had little or no chance of recovery she signed over $11,000 which she had in a New York savings bank, to her daughter, Miss Anna L. Fisher, also of this city. Instead of dying, Mrs. Fisher recovered. After she had partially regained her health she wanted her daughter to return to her money which, it is alleged, the daughter refused to do.

The mother tried all ways of persuasion on her daughter in an endeavor to regain her money but it was all to no avail and the matter was finally taken to court.

Yesterday morning when Judge VanSickel, of the Supreme Court, rose behind his desk and called case No. 23, it was announced that the case had only a few minutes before been settled; the daughter having returned the money to her mother.

AFTER GREATER CITY SCHEME

REPEALERS INTRODUCED FOR ANNEXATION AND CONSOLIDATION ACTS.

At Request of President Hutchinson, Senator Wakelee Introduced Them in Upper House.

An attempt is being made by the opponents of the Greater Plainfield scheme to repeal the annexation and consolidation laws passed by the Legislature last winter. At Monday evening's session of the State Senate, Senator Wakelee, for President Hutchinson, introduced two bills repealing the annexation and consolidation acts.

WANT HYGEIA PLANT SOLD

Application Made for Order to Sell Factory and Property of Hygeia Ice Company.

IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

Wm. T. Kaufman is Now Receiver, But Interested Parties Desire to Wind Up Concern's Affairs—An Order to Sell From Vice Chancellor is Expected Soon.

Following close by upon an application for a receiver for the Hygeia Ice Company, the details of which appeared exclusively in the columns of The Daily Press at the time, comes an application before Vice Chancellor Emory at Newark this week for an order to sell the property of the concern to satisfy the demands of the creditors. The order is expected to be issued Monday of next week. The application was made through Reed & Codington.

At the time of the application was made for a receiver it was hoped that the business could be made to pay but after a few months under the receivership it has been found necessary to sell the plant at a public sale in order to satisfy interested parties.

The building at the corner of Berckman street and North avenue, wherein the plant is located and the plant itself is valued at $50,000. The office is located in the lumber yard of De Witt C. Ivins on Watchung avenue, where F. T. Ostrom is still general sales agent. The machinery in the plant is of the best style of ice making machinery and was installed at great cost. In fact, it was the great cost of installing the machinery which, it is said, first crippled the concern.

As told only in The Daily Press of November 25, the application was made through a suit instituted by Edward M. VanBuren, one of the heavy stockholders in the company. Others who were heavily interested in the concern were: President, Harry G. Runkle; vice president, O. T. Waring; secretary and treasurer, De-Witt C. Ivins.

The receiver then appointed was William T. Kaufman, of this city, and he has had the management of the business in his hands ever since that time. The date of the sale will not be known until after the order has been issued by the Vice Chancellor at Newark, Monday.

KENNEL SHOW.

New Jersey's Event Will be Held at Orange Next Month.

The New Jersey Kennel Club will hold its second annual bench show in the Armory at Orange, February 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21. The show was held at Newark last year and was in every way a great success. This year arrangements are making on a more elaborate scale, and opening, as it does, at the close of the Madison Square show, will compete for honors with the big event. It is not improbable that many fine entries will be shown at Orange that will not be exhibited in New York. The premium lists are nearly ready for distribution and there are liberal prizes for every class.

William N. LeCato, of Hutton Park, West Orange, has offered a fine silver cup for the best American bred bull dog puppy. Mr. LeCato will judge the bull dogs, being an expert of standing in kennel circles.

Tell of Mission Work.

Miss Nellie Pendleton, who is engaged in mission work among the Italians, in New York, will tell of this work at a meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church Friday evening. Following the meeting there will be an informal social hour.

Tonight's Meeting.

The prayer meeting at Grace M. E. church this evening will be under the direction of the committee on tracts, Dykman Winckler, Miss Agnes Tingley and Miss Grace Carroll. The pastor, Dr. Earp, will address the meeting.

ADIMT THE TRUTH AT LAST

BRUNSWICK PAPERS FINALLY REFER TO PRESENCE OF SMALL-POX.

Declare That There Are Only Four Cases in That City at the Present Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Jan. 21 — After almost a month's silence about the small-pox situation in New Brunswick, during which time the citizens of this town have been left to guess at the number of cases confined in the isolation hospital, the newspapers have at last come out with true statements in which they show that there are now only four cases in this city. There have been no deaths.

At one time rumor had it that there were twenty-seven cases at the isolation hospital and at other times this was exaggerated until many people really believed that there were as many as twice that number. This led to a small sized panic among the people and the physicians were overrushed with applications for vaccinations.

Now it appears that there are only four cases and the people hardly know whether to believe the statement of the papers or to think it is an attempt to quiet their fears and to hide the true condition of affairs.

ONE MORE ATTEMPT.

Meeting of League of American Citizens Has Been Set for Saturday Evening.

A number of men who have become interested in the organization of the League of American Citizens met in Trade Council Hall last evening, but owing to the small attendance it was impossible to make any progress. After waiting nearly an hour it was decided to postpone the meeting to Saturday, that time being considered best for the reason that it is an off night for most men.

A. C. Rogers, who has taken the initiative in the matter, says that after one more attempt he will seek some other town to start the organization, if the next meeting does not accomplish the purpose. He thinks it is a great shame that American citizens are not sufficiently interested in their welfare and the future of the country to secure such legislation as will effectually put a stop to foreign laborers coming to this country only to return to their homes with money earned without becoming American citizens. Mr. Rogers estimates that there will be 70,000 Italians arrive in this country this year and he believes that strong measures should be adopted to prevent the American from losing his position.

YELLOW LUNCHEON.

It Was Given by Mrs. Edward T. VanBuren Yesterday.

Among the informal social affairs of the season none have been more pleasant than a luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren, of Central avenue. The decorations were yellow, the prevailing color being prettily about the table. Covers were laid for ten, those present being Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren, Miss Florence Waring, Miss May Waring, Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, Miss Helen Bushnell, Miss May Evans, Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, Miss Charlotte Lowe, Mrs. Clifford W. McGee and Mrs. James R. Blake.

ROLL CALL SESSION.

Notable Meeting of Local Odd Fellows Monday Evening.

The meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., Monday evening will be a notable one, and one quite novel in this city. It will be a "roll call" session when every member who has ever attended that lodge will be present or send some word either by mail, telegraph, or telephone.

Deputy Grand Master John Becker and staff will be present as well as several other prominent State officials. A feature of the evening will be the social time which will follow the regular meeting when old acquaintances will be renewed.

Cases Adjourned.

The cases of William E. Tuttle, Jr., et. al., partners, against Ambrose Bohrovinsky, and John H. Dahl against Ambrose Bohrovinsky, in the Circuit Court at Elizabeth, which were called yesterday, were laid over until January 26 and February 3, respectively.

King's Daughters to Meet.

The City Union of King's Daughters will hold its semi-annual meeting in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church. Thursday afternoon, January 29, when the usual interesting reports will be presented.

TO ERECT MONUMENT AT WASHINGTON ROCK

Continental Chapter, D. of A. R., is Working Toward That Particular Aim.

PLANS TO RAISE FUNDS

OFFICERS ELECTED AT ANNUAL MEETING HELD MONDAY.

Colonial Loan Exhibit Planned for Anniversary of Battle of Lexington As Means of Raising Funds for the Proposed Monument.

The annual meeting of the Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was held Monday at the home of Mrs. David P. Hall, of Madison avenue, when officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Regent, Mrs. David P. Hall; first vice regent, Mrs. P. V. R. VanWyck; second vice regent, Mrs. Charles P. Leggett; secretary, Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell; treasurer, Mrs. Frederick H. Andrews; register, Mrs. Edward O. Chickering; board of management, Mrs. Rowland Cox, Miss E. E. Kenyon, Miss Brown and Mrs. Isaac M. Field; delegate to the Continental Congress in Washington, February 22, Mrs. John Gray Foster; alternate, Mrs. Henry A. McGee.

It was decided at the meeting to appropriately celebrate on Friday, April 17, the battle of Lexington, by holding a colonial loan exhibit for the purpose of raising funds to accomplish the object proposed, that of erecting a suitable monument at Washington Rock. This matter has long been under the consideration of the Continental Chapter and there is now a snug fund in the treasury for the purpose mentioned. This loan exhibit will be held at the home of Mrs. P. V. R. VanWyck, of West Eighth street.

The question of erecting a suitable monument is in the hands of the board of management and from time to time plans will be formulated to increase the fund now so well started. A dramatic entertainment is proposed as one means. This will probably be given next fall.

History says that Washington Rock is one of the few places in New Jersey where the great general encamped and it is considered flattering that there are some public spirited women in Plainfield and North Plainfield who desire to appropriately mark the spot for the interest and edification of future generations. Now that the women have taken hold of the matter there seems to be but little doubt but what the project will be entirely successful.

NO HIGHER PAY.

Request of New York Division Conductors Was Refused.

The officials of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad have decided, after careful consideration, to deny the request of the conductors on the New York division for higher pay and the adjustment of other grievances. The conductors asked for $3.19 per day and extra pay for time over 11 hours. They are at present receiving $3 per day, and as compared with the wages paid by other roads the management concluded that the present rate was a fair one.

Coal in Box Cars.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad is drawing on its supply of box cars in order to handle its anthracite coal tonnage, regardless of the general demand for these cars in the merchandise traffic. On January 16 there were loaded at the mines 1,522 cars of anthracite coal to be forwarded over the Lehigh Valley, containing a total of 40,500 tons, an average of twenty-six and one-half tons to the car.

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

William D. Thickstun and C. B. Pope have gone south on a pleasure trip.

Harry Barton, Jr., of Spooner avenue, has recovered from an attack of pneumonia.

Miss Eleanor Minton, of West Seventh street, is home from a stay at Chelsea, Mass.

W. R. Shanks, of Raritan, who has been visiting friends in this city, has returned home.

Louis Bennett, of Watchung avenue, is able to be out again after a severe attack of tonsilitis.

Roundsman William Mattox, of Webster place, is slowly recovering from his long illness.

Edward F. Dioren, of West Third street, has gone to Carbonsale, Pa., for a stay of a few weeks.

Miss VanCampen, of Plainfield avenue, who has been visiting at Bound Brook, has returned home.

J. A. Polhemus, of New York, was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hodge, of Plainfield avenue, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. VanCampen, of Plainfield avenue, has left for the west where he is making an extended business trip.

Mrs. William Olmstead, of East Fifth street, who has been ill with tonsilitis, is recovering and will soon be able to go out.

Miss Bowman, of Dunellen avenue, who has for a long time past been a cripple, was recently operated upon at Hahnemann Hospital, New York, is now doing well with excellent chances for an early recovery.

THEATRICAL.

Residents of the suburbs who desire to see Mrs. Fiske in "Mary of Magdala" will welcome the announcement that extra Wednesday matinees of Paul Heyse's powerful drama will be given on Jan. 28 and Feb. 4. Mrs. Fiske made this arrangement in deference to the expressed wish of many persons who have been unable to secure seats for the Saturday matinees. Large as the audiences at Mrs. Fiske's evening performances have been, the Saturday matinees have drawn still greater crowds, and many requests have been made for another matinee each week. Mrs. Fiske has hesitated at this as the strain of her difficult role makes eight performances a week a severe tax upon her strength. The success of "Mary of Magdala" continues unabated and the play is now approaching its seventy-fifth performance, that, curiously enough, will take place on the first Wednesday matinee.

Heading the most attractive bill which Mr. Keith has offered in a long time is Papinta. The second number is furnished by Clay Clement, vaudeville's most recent recruit from the ranks of the legitimate drama. Mr. Clement, supported by his wife and an excellent company, presents "The Baron's Love Story," a condensation of his successful play "The New Dominion." Rapoli, the European juggling marvel; the Pretto Troupe of acrobats; Stuart Barnes, the original monologuist; Klein, Ott Bros. and Nickerson, the well-known instrumentalists; Rae and Brosche, eccentric comedians; John Ford, the step dancer; Keough and Ballard in their farce "A Vaudeville Surprise;" Anna Caldwell, the comedienne; Carson and Willard, the German comedians; Ranzetta and BeLair, acrobatic comedians; Trask and Gladden, dancing specialists, and numerous others will figure on this record breaking programme.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

Many Railroad Men Died.

During 1902, 140 railroad officials of high and low degree died. The oldest was a retired roadmaster, who reached the age of ninety-one years, while the youngest, a passenger agent, was in his twenty-second year. The average age of those who died was sixty-two years.

READING'S PENSION PLAN

HOW PRESIDENT BAER PLANS TO CARE FOR AGED AND SICK EMPLOYES.

Announcement Came As a New Year's Gift to Employes of the Reading System.

President Baer of the Reading company made a New Year's gift to the officers and employes of the company when he announced that all the old employes are to be taken care of and those who had been incapacitated are also to be carried on the pay rolls of the company.

Some time ago the board of directors of the Reading company authorized President Baer to prepare a plan for pensioning old employes. After months of work this plan has been put in shape. The employes are divided into three classes, A, B, and C. The first includes those who have attained the age of 70 years. They are to be retired if they have been continuously in the service of the company for thirty years.

Second, all employes 65 to 69 years of age, both inclusive, who have been continuously thirty or more years in the service and who have become incapacitated may be retired and pensioned; and, third, any faithful employe of the company, irrespective of his age or length of service, who shall have received injuries, in the performance of his duty which totally incapaciated him for his regular or other vocation, or who shall, through sickness becomes so incapacitated may be awarded such sum, as a pension, for such length of time as the president shall determine.

The monthly allowance paid each person under class A and B granted a pension shall be upon the following basis: For each year of service 1 per cent. of the average regular monthly pay for ten years next preceding retirement; provided, however, that the annual disbursement, including the pensions paid to employes of the associated companies shall not exceed $75,000. Should the aggregate pension allowances exceed this amount, in the absence of action by the board of directors increasing the yearly amount usable for pensions, a new rate shall be established proportionately reducing all allowances. Notice of any change of rate shall be given retired employes before the beginning of the fiscal year in which the change shall become effective.

WILL HAVE TO STAND.

Erie Railroad Adopts a New Rule Regarding Italian Laborers.

The Erie Railroad Company has issued orders that hereafter foremen in charge of Italian laborers are not to allow the laborers to occupy any seats in a train in which they are riding, if they are being transported free of charge. They are to ride standing in the baggage cars, and if there is no room they must await the arrival of the first train which has sufficient room to accommodate them. Complaints have been made that these laborers were permitted to occupy seats anywhere in the train to the exclusion of regular patrons.

Lehigh's Annual Meeting.

Much interest is being manifested in railway circles as to the outcome of the next annual meeting of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, which is to be held in New York on Thursday. Rumor has it that one or two of the high officials will resign, which will no doubt result in many changes in the traffic and transportation departments.

SCENE IN THE HOUSE

Woman In the Gallery Shouts "You Lie!" to Mr. Cochran.

ACCUSED GOVERNMENT OF TRUCKLING

In the Senate Beveridge Blocks Quay's Efforts For an Immediate Vote on the Statehood Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The house yesterday passed the District of Columbia appropriation bill and subsequently began consideration of the Philippine coinage bill. The general debate on the District bill was largely devoted to discussion of the Alaska boundary line dispute. Mr. Cochran (Mo.) denounced as a "cowardly surrender" the course of the state department. Mr. Hepburn (Ia.) took up the challenge and countered with the charge that Democratic administrations had surrendered the territory between latitude 49 and 54.40, and also the republic of Texas. While Mr. Cochran was speaking of the "truckling policy of the United States to Great Britain" a stylishly dressed young woman in the gallery leaned forward and cried out, "You lie." She then left the gallery.

The senate passed the legislative, executive and judiciary appropriation bill. When the statehood bill was taken up Mr. Quay demanded an immediate vote, coupling his demand with the statement that he did not care whether any senators desired to speak on the subject or not. The bill, he said, was being willfully obstructed by discussion. Mr. Beveridge denied this, and then discussed the measure, opposing statehood for Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico. On the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Quay submitted a number of propositions for the fixing of a day when a vote could be taken, but to all such Mr. Beveridge objected.

Senator Hanna spoke briefly in opposition to the bill, and at 4:35 the senate adjourned.

Aguinaldo's Petition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Secretary Root transmitted to the senate and house copies of a petition received by him through Governor Taft from Aguinaldo, the late insurgent leader in the Philippines. The petition is a remarkable presentation of the conditions now existing in the Philippines, and Secretary Root hastened to send it to congress because it went a long way toward supporting the statements he had made to the committees of that body and also demonstrating the necessity for prompt action on the part of congress to prevent disaster and distress in the archipelago.

Thousands at Gonzales' Funeral.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 21.—About 2,000 people attended the funeral of Editor N. G. Gonzales, who died from a pistol wound inflicted by Lieutenant Governor Tillman, at Trinity Episcopal church at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, packing the galleries, aisles, vestibule and every part of the building. About 300, unable to find standing room within, remained outside, braving a cold, misty rain, which froze as it fell. With the single exception of the funeral of General Wade Hampton held in the same church last April, the assemblage was the largest and most representative seen in South Carolina in the last quarter of a century. Governor McSweeney, ex-Governor and President Pro Tem. Sheppard of the state senate, now presiding in the absence of the lieutenant governor, most of the members of the general assembly and state officers attended.

Julian Ralph Dead.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Julian Ralph, author and war correspondent, is dead at his residence here. Dr. Calvin S. May, who attended Mr. Ralph, gave the cause of death as dropsy, complicated with ulcers in the stomach and enlargement of the liver. Mr. Ralph was stricken with a hemorrhage while he was acting as correspondent with the British army during the Boer war. A second hemorrhage occurred at St Louis immediately after he had received his appointment as eastern representative at the Louisville Purchase exposition. Mr. Ralph was born in New York on May 27, 1853, and served on the staffs of several of the New York papers. He became attached to the London Daily Mail in 1899. He leaves a widow and five children.

Collision Kills Nine Railway Hands.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 21.—A special from Wenatchee, Wash., says: "Nine men are dead and eight or ten injured as a result of a rear end collision on the Great Northern at a point known as Happy Hollow, just above Chiwaukum. A bridge gang train ran into an engine standing on a rotary snowplow. A car containing fifty men belonging to the bridge crew was thrown from the track. The dead and injured were all members of the work gang. Neither engineer, fireman or brakeman was among the injured."

TELLER LACKS ONE.

A Bad Mix Up In the Colorado Legislature.

A RIVAL SENATE IS ORGANIZED

Governor Peabody Urged by the Wolcott Faction to Call Out Troops In Their Behalf—He Refuses to Interfere.

DENVER, Jan. 21.—Both houses of the general assembly balloted for United States senator at noon yesterday and Henry M. Teller received fifty votes, only one less than is needed to elect. Senator McGuire, a Democrat refrained from voting, but he has said he would vote for Teller if it should appear that he could be elected. Only two Republican senators were in the senate chamber when the vote was taken, and they did not respond when their names were called.

Soon afterward the nine regular Republican senators, with the two who were expelled by the Democratic majority and the eight contestants who were sworn in on the steps of the capitol Monday night, assembled in the lieutenant governor's room and formed a separate organization, the senate officers previously chosen being ordered removed. A ballot was then taken for senator. A resolution was adopted that the senate had reorganized and was ready for business. Subsequently two of the regularly elected Republican senators, Drake and Cornforth, left the Haggott senate and returned to the senate chamber, where they announced that they would act with the "regular senate" and would no longer participate in a "farce."

Edward O. Wolcott, the leading Republican candidate for senator, and his followers are urging the governor to call out the militia to place Haggott and the Republicans in possession of the chamber.

Governor Peabody said that he would not interfere. His friends are advising him to keep his hands off, and they declare that if he shall recognize the Haggott senate no legislation can be enacted at this session, and the state government must go without funds for two years, as appropriation bills could not be legally enacted.

The Republican leaders in the house refused to carry out the Wolcott programme and unseat the eleven Arapahoe Democrats. The senate remains in continuous session, but will not remove any more Republicans pending further aggression by the house.

PLATT RE-ELECTED.

New York Legislature's Choice For Senator—Bolters Cause a Scene.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Thomas C. Platt has been re-elected United States senator by the two houses of the legislature.

The vote in the senate stood: Platt, 25; Root, 3; Stanchfield, 21. The assembly vote stood: Platt, 86; Stanchfield, 57.

The three bolting senators, Brackett, Brown and Elsberg, made speeches explaining why they could not vote for Platt. A dead silence fell over the chamber as these Republicans, classed for years as strong Platt men, declared that they could not vote for Platt because he was not the proper man to choose. Each briefly stated the reasons which impelled his action.

Platt's lieutenants about the chamber were highly indignant over the extraordinary spectacle of Platt, Republican boss, being denounced on the floor of a Republican senate by Republicans.

Charles A. Gardiner of New York, the choice of the Republican caucus, was elected to the board of regents by the full party vote.

Alger Chosen Senator.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 21.—Former Secretary of War R. A. Alger, who by the ad interim appointment of Governor Bliss succeeded the late Senator James McMillan in the United States senate, was elected by the state senate and house to fill out the unexpired term of Senator McMillan, the governor's appointment having been merely to fill the time intervening between the death of Senator McMillan and the convening of the legislature. All the Republicans of both houses and one Democrat voted for Senator Alger. The other ten Democrats—nine in the house and one in the senate—voted for Lorenzo T. Durand, their defeated candidate for governor at the last election.

Delaware Senatorial Fight.

DOVER, Del., Jan. 21.—The twenty-one Democratic assemblymen who have offered any six regular Republicans who will join them to elect a Democrat for the short term senatorship and a regular Republican for the long term had a secret conference last night. The regulars asked for more time to consider their fusion to defeat Addicks, and it was to consider this request that the conference was held and the Democrats called in their state advisory committee. The result of the conference was a refusal to grant the extension, and the time limit will expire after the balloting today.

Connecticut Re-elects Platt.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 21.—The general assembly has re-elected Orville H. Platt to serve as United States senator for a fifth term. He received all the Republican votes except that of Owen E. Case of Barkhamsted, a tobacco grower, who is not in sympathy with the Cuban reciprocity bill advocated by Senator Platt.

North Dakota Chooses Hansbrough.

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 21.—The legislature voted or United States senator in separate session, and Senator H. C. Hansbrough was re-elected, re-

South Dakota Re-elects Kittredge.

PIERRE, S. D., Jan. 21.—A. B Kittredge has been re-elected to the United States senate. The total vote in both houses was: Kittredge, Republican, 119; Bowler, Democrat, 13.

Illinois Succeeds Mason.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 21.—Congressman Albert J. Hopkins has been elected United States senator to succeed Senator Mason.

FOUR HUNDRED WITNESSES.

Strike Commission Has Heard That Number—More to Follow.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—When the anthracite coal strike commission adjourned yesterday, the four hundredth witness summoned before the arbitrators was being examined. Of the 400 witnesses 174 were called by the striking mine workers, 155 by the nonunion men, sixty-three by the operators and eight by the commission. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company concluded its case, and the Temple Iron company began the presentation of its side of the controversy. The companies yet to be heard are the Lehigh Valley Coal company, Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company, Markle Bros. and about sixty other independent operators and the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company. After the coal companies end their case the miners will take up some time in examining witnesses in rebuttal.

The day's testimony did not bring out anything that was particularly new. There was an interchange of opinion during the morning session between Chairman Gray and Attorney C. S. Darrow for the miners on the question of the rights of union men. Mr. Darrow believed a union man had the right to refuse a nonunion man cars in the mines and also had the right to use every power within the law in persuading union men from working with nonunion workers. The unionists, he said, have no right to kill, assault or slander any man. Chairman Gray remarked that the employer has his rights, too; that is, he has the right to refuse to employ union labor. Mr. Darrow agreed with him.

PENNYPACKER GOVERNOR.

Brilliant Inaugural Ceremonies at Pennsylvania's Capital.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan 21.—Samuel W Pennypacker has been inaugurated governor of Pennsylvania to succeed William A. Stone; William A. Brown has succeeded J P S Gobin as lieutenant governor, and Boies Penrose has been elected by the assembly to succeed himself in the United States senate.

The inaugural ceremonies of the governor took place at noon. Immediately after these exercises the lieutenant governor was inducted into office. The house and senate balloted separately during the afternoon for United States senator, the Republicans voting for Senator Penrose and the Democrats for Colonel James M Guffey of Pittsburg.

The inaugural parade was the finest the state capital has ever seen. A large number of political clubs, a provisional brigade of the national guard of Pennsylvania and some of the best marching bands in Pennsylvania turned out to do honor to the new governor.

The Shoe Cutters' War.

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 21.—Although a petition for an injunction had been filed and an order of notice had been issued by the court at the request of fifteen shoe manufacturers of this city against the striking cutters of the Knights of Labor, there was tumult and well nigh bloodshed when the out of town cutters supplied by the Boot and Shoe Workers' union left their factories last night. The strikers and their sympathizers twice almost overpowered the police, knocking down three officers and roughly handling others. But the guardians of the peace under the direction of Mayor Eastham himself managed to beat off the rioters and in addition arrested five men who appeared to be especially obnoxious. As for the peaceful side of the contest the fortunes of the day seemed to favor the Boot and Shoe Workers' union.

Boiler Explosion Kills Four.

COSHOCTON, O., Jan. 21.—Four men were killed by the explosion of the boiler on an eastbound Panhandle freight train four miles west of Bowerstown. The locomotive was hurled sixty feet and crashed down upon a passing westbound freight train, smashing the second car behind the engine. Twenty-six cars were hurled down an embankment.

The Latest Revolution.

PANAMA, Jan. 21.—Passengers who arrived here from Central American ports report that General Luis A. Varahona and Manuel Rivas, having organized a force on the frontier of Guatemala, have started a revolution in Salvador. The president of Salvador, Senor Regalado, has left the capital with a strong following to engage the rebels.

Robbers Raid New Jersey Town.

PARK RIDGE, N. J., Jan. 21.—Burglars carrying dynamite and sledge hammers went through this place on a smashing expedition, and when they left town two safes were in pieces and four places, including the postoffice, were wrecked. The amount of plunder secured was small.

New President For Hobart.

GENEVA, N. Y., Jan. 21.—The Rev. Dr. Langdon C. Stewardson, chaplain and professor of philosophy of Lehigh university, was elected president of Hobart college at the semiannual meeting of the board of trustees.

REPUBLICAN MISTAKE.

It looks as if the Republican party in New Jersey made a mistake when it allowed a member of the minority party in the Legislature to first introduce a repealer for the Meeker election law. Senator Hudspeth, of Hudson, has introduced a bill which provides for the repeal of that act which consolidated municipal and county elections and which has been condemned so roundly on all sides of late. It looks, however, as though the Hudson county Senator had taken advantage of a worthy measure to work in a little politcal scheme as the bill contains a provision shortening the term of office of certain city officials elected under the Meeker act and it would affect Mayor Fagan, the Republican mayor of Jersey City.

It seems doubtful whether Mr. Hudspeth's measure is allowed to go through but it is certain that there is a strong movement for a repealer and that there is every likelihood of a brisk fight in the Legislature in behalf of it. Some of the Republicans will probably oppose the movement but it will be strange if the strong public opinion on the subject will be defied by all of them. Then there are certain politicians who are beginning to think that the act did not work as satisfactorily as they expected it would and who are willing to gain the popular favor that would come by lining up with the opposition.

According to the Trenton True American, Governor Murphy is willing to sign a repealer bill provided it has a referendum clause attached. He did not, however, have anything to say on the subject in his annual message and so far there has been no public stand taken on the question by any of the Republican leaders. It now rests with them to follow the lead set by the Democratic Senator of Hudson or else defy public opinion on the subject which would be foolish in the extreme.

At last the New Brunswick papers have acknowledged the fact that there is smallpox in that city. This tardy statement of facts which the public of New Brunswick is entitled to know is better than no information at all even if it does come at this late hour. The New Brunswick Home News refers to the exaggerated accounts of the epidemic that have appeared in the Plainfield papers. As far as The Daily Press is concerned, the information came from a public official of that city. Had the New Brunswick papers told the truth about the epidemic at first and not attempted to hide it, all exaggerated accounts would be prevented before they found their way into public print. If the New Brunswick papers will follow the example set by The Daily Press and give the truth without exaggeration, it will not injure the city half as much as to allow all sorts of wild rumors to gain currency without contradiction. The truth is never half as bad as the wild stories that accompany it.

It is apparent that the American Sewage Disposal Company is determined to put the city to as much trouble as possible regarding its claims that the city has infringed on its patents for a sewage disposal system. Testimony is now to be taken and the Common Council has given the committee on streets and sewers the right to act in the matter as is deemed advisable. This will probably mean the sending of Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh to Boston to look after the interests of the city in the case. It is well to remember that when this company first presented its claim the subject was referred to the Corporation Counsel and he was of the opinion that the claim could not be substantiated.

It is very doubtful if the anti-pigeon killing bill will be smothered in the Legislature this year. Too much publicity was given to the action last year for the opponents to care to have the dose repeated another year. Now that the bill has been introduced, it will have to be passed or voted down for the public will not stand for any juggling of it this session.

There was good judgment shown in the action of the Common Council, in deciding to investigate all the police patrol systems before adopting any one. While there is little doubt that the contract will go to the Gamewell Company, it is always well to fully investigate any question before making a decision.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The inventory sale at Hill & Shupp's dry goods store is attracting wide attention from persons looking for real values. It is a rare opportunity to secure bargains in seasonable goods. Most of the goods are new and a study of the firm's advertisement will give you a fair idea of the goods offered. The white goods department is also attracting much attention.

P. G. DuBois, of West Front street, is offering a choice assortment of oriental goods, such as you find at Vantine's store in New York. Just now Mr. DuBois is offering a fine assortment of dainty chinaware, perfumery, toilet articles, etc.

You will always find a large stock of shoes for men, women and children at John H. Doane's store on West Front street. The shoes are of the best quality and the prices appeal to all classes.

Sponges, toilet articles, soaps and perfumes are some of the articles which are made a specialty of at T. S. Armstrong's apothecary shop on North avenue.

Many people wonder what to use on hands when they are chapped and rough. Witch Hazel jelly is the one remedy which makes the hands soft and white, and it is procured at B. J. Schreiner's drug store on Park avenue. He has also recently received a large shipment of medicated soaps.

In all his years of business in this city, J. W. VanSickle has continued to hold a reputation as a seller of nothing but the best meats and poultry. In addition he always sells low because he does a cash business. Telephone connection.

A glance about Nagle's pharmacy will convince you that he has one of the finest displays of perfumery and toilet articles in the city. He has a line of both at present that exceeds many holiday arrays. Nagle's is also headquarters for prescription work.

Jerry Foss, the seafood dealer, is now located in his new store on Park avenue, directly opposite North avenue. It is convenient to all his old customers and permits him to display to a better advantage all fish, oysters and clams. He delivers orders as heretofore.

—See Neuman Brothers in regard to something nice for luncheons and teas. They have hothouse tomatoes, fresh mushrooms, fancy Boston lettuce, artichokes and table celery.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Dunellen has lately become quite a mecca for young people in search of a place to get married. Sunday afternoon a couple giving their names as Miss Gertrude Whipert, of Someville, and Julian H. Rhodes, of Camden, came to the Presbyterian parsonage, accompnaied by a couple of friends, and requested Rev. N. J. Sproul to marry them. As he was satisfied by their stories he made them man and wife in short order. They then departed for their home.

A very enjoyable evening was spent by all the members of the Literary Circle, who attended the meeting held yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Meseroll. A large representation of the members was present and every one had a good time. At rolle all the members responded to their names with topics of the times. An excellent paper on "The Evolution of the National Government," was then read by Mr. Meseroll. Afterwards Miss Flora Willguss told of "Alexander Hamilton and His Policy," in an interesting way. The last paper of the evening was by Miss Mary Doolittle about the great artist Raphael. The serving of refreshments ended the evening.

Regular weekly prayer meeting will be held in the local churches this evening at the usual time.

The pay car passed through town on Monday, leaving the usual amount of riches.

Miss Viola Hill is still in a serious condition from a rcecnt illness.

The Juniors held a business meeting lats evening.

The Epworth League will hold a meeting in the Methodist church this evening.

Peter VonTrustern, of Westfield, visited his family here, yesterday.

The Building and Loan Association held a meeting Monday evening to receive the payment of dues.

Edward Taylor visited in Plainfield yesterday.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, is looking for a large attendance at its chicken supper tomorrow night. Supper will be served from 6 o'clock on.

The cornet band will meet this evening for the regular practice.

C. V. Smith spent yesterday in New York on business.

Willard Apgar's store is expected to be finished by April 1.

NEW MARKET.

Prayer meeting will be held in the First Baptist church this evening.

Mrs. David Tabb visited in Plainfield yesterday.

W. B. Smith will shortly retire from the grocery business which will be continued by his present partner, Chas. Thornton.

The band has lately taken in two new members.

A large crowd was skating on the pond yesterday as the ice was good.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

A number of the lovers of good music enjoyed the musicale last night at Jacobs' Theatre, Elizabeth. Anna Webster-Powell, the well-known soprano, and Signor Eugenio de Pirani, composer and pianist, were the stars of the evening's programme.

Special Officer Chas. Hockey, who does patrol duty for a number of the residents of the borough, arrested a suspicious character while going his round Monday night. The officer took him over to the depot and told him to stay there until he completed his beat. It is needless to say when Officer Hockey returned the prisoner had left for parts unknown.

A delegation from Fanwood Council, R. A., will attend the Royal Arcanum district meeting to be held in Plainfield Council rooms tonight.

The two cases of small pox, which fell to the township during the epidemic through this section last fall, cost the taxpayers about $600.

George Traynor, who has been working at the Pederick-Ayer Company, has left to accept a position in Newark shortly.

Jahn Brothers have started their contract on the Woodhull & Martin building going up in Plainfield.

Mrs. Swaney, of Brooklyn, who has been in town settling up the affairs of her sister, the late Mrs. Ann Cleaver, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

The trolley schedule as usual was all tied up last night owing to a lack of power.

There are now four cases of diphtheria in town. The Board of Health has quarantined the houses and it is believed that the disease is now in check. Edna Walpole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynus Walpole, who was taken Sunday removed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Verity. Yesterday the Board of Health fumigated the hotel thoroughly. All the cases are light and the patients are all doing very nicely.

The first annual dance of the S. S. S. S. will be held in the Fanwood fire house, Thursday evening, February 5. The organization is composed of young women living in this vicinity and Plainfield.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Night Yard Master Thomas Bohl met with a painful accident night before last by walking off from the platform of the freight depot and falling to the ground. His back and side were bruised, and his ankle sprained.

A laborer at the coaling station lacerated a finger badly by having it caught in the machinery.

William Hamilton has added to his shop utensils a carriage rubber tire machine.

The Order of Foresters made its annual installation of officers last night at its council meeting, and enjoyed a supper.

The washout in the road by the dam has been filled with stones. The repair was badly needed for some time.

J. A. Cubberley returned yesterday morning from a trip to Providence and Newport.

The funeral service of Mrs. Forster was held this afternoon, the burial rites being conducted by Pastor Cubberley.

SENATE IN SESSION.

Little Done at Yesterday's Meeting of Upper House of the State Legislature.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 21—The Senate had a brief session yesterday, but did nothing outside of the introduction of bills and the confirming of the nominations sent in last week, by Gov. Murphy.

Of the bills introduced, one by Senator Lee changes the county seat of Atlantic county from May's Landing to Atlantic City.

A concurrent resolution was introduced by Mr. Wakelee, agreeing to the judiciary amendment to the constitution that was adopted a year ago. The Senate adjourned for the week.

There was no session of the House.

LARGEST SINGLE VAULT.

Shipped From Safe Works to a New York Banking House.

The first section of what is believed will be the largest single vault in New York City was shipped from the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, yesterday. It was an immense slab of manganese steel and others like it will be completed in quick succession. When erected in the office of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company the combined weight will be in the neighborhood of sixty tons.

In Justice Mosher's Court.

Summons have been issued in Justice Mosher's court in the contract case of the New York Painting and Decorating Company against Van-Winkle. The papers are returnable January 27.

House Disinfected.

The residence of George Hummer, of Stone street, was disinfected today after the recent case of diphtheria which was confined in the house. The patient was Mr. Hummer's son.

—Following the prayer meeting at the First Presbyterian church, this evening, the Christian Endeavor Society will hold a monthly business meeting.

—Rev. Dr. Freeman, who has been occupying the pulpit of the Crescent Avenue church during January, will have charge of the mid-week prayer meeting at the church this evening.

—L. N. Wyckoff has just completed the interior painting and decorating of C. E. Ball's home on Sycamore avenue. The effect is made especially pleasing by some expert graining work of which Contractor Wyckoff makes a specialty.

ANOTHER CRUSHER.

Is Soon to be Erected on Side of the Mountain at the Head of Grove Street.

Preparations for the erection of a large stone crusher on the mountains back of the borough have been started and when the structure has been completed it will be one of the largest in this section of the county, according to the plans laid out by Councilman Harrison Coddington.

Workmen have been engaged for several days in clearing an extensive piece of land at the head of Grove street on which the machinery for crushing stone will be erected as soon as the weather permits after the clearing away of trees has been completed.

The new stone crusher will be a competitor of that now owned by Mayor Smalley. It was rumored this morning that Mayor Smalley and another man had bought the land owned by Mr. Coddington, but when seen at his home the Mayor said that there was nothing in the rumor.

BEFORE THE MAYOR.

Several Charged With Minor Offenses Were Arrgigned Before Mayor Jenkins Today.

Before Mayor Jenkins in the city court, this morning, Joseph Sutphen was arraigned on a charge of drunkenness preferred by Patrolmen Saffron and Flynn. He was found at the corner of Central avenue and Front street, last night, in a helpless condition. He paid a fine of $10.

Charles Barry entered a general denial of violating the hack ordinance against Patrolman Overbaugh's charge. He paid $3.

Sophie Reddick was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct and the use of profane language made by Daisy Brokaw. Through her counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, the defendant secured an acquittal.

Workmen's Dinner.

Central Lodge, Ancient Order United Workmen, will give a dinner to Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash at Hotel Rosell, tomorrow evening. Several prominent visitors will be present.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Harold Brownell, of Elmwood place, is kept at home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. LaRue, of East Second street, have been entertaining relatives from Old Bridge.

Miss Apgar, of East Front street, is spending a few days with her brother, Gillard Apgar, of Brooklyn.

E. A. Embury, formerly of Plainfield but now of Philadelphia, has been spending a few days with friends in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Munn, of Elizabeth, have returned home after a visit at the home of friends on East Second street.

Miss Madeline Reed, of Washington Park, still improves from a recent operation for appendicitis and a speedy recovery seems assured.

Miss LaRue, of Park avenue, who sometime ago fell and fractured her leg, has so far recovered as to be able to get about the house with the aid of a cane.

George Macintyre, of Park avenue, is a daily visitor to the automobile show in New York, where he is learning valuable points about the various machines.

Miss Nettie Leichtentritt, of West Front street, will, this evening, join a party of friends in New York to witness the production of "The Sultan of Sulu."

Mr. and Mrs. Hoff, of Somreville, who have been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. Hodge, of Plainfield avenue, for the past few days, have returned home.

D. OF A. INSTALLS.

Officers for the Term in Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Assume Positions.

At the meeting of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., last evening, the following officers were installed by District Deputy State Councilor Phillip Hanschene, of Elizabeth:

Councilor, H. S. Allen; associate councilor, Mrs. Angleman; vice councilor, Mrs. Fritts; associate vice councilor, G. Thorn; conductor, Mrs. S. VanCamp; warden, Mrs. Benjamin; inside sentinal, Mrs. H. Thompson; outside sentinal, Mrs. Smith; trustee for 18 months, H. S. Allen.

Four propositions for membership were received.

Surprise Wedding Anniversary.

Friends from this city and out of town tendered a surprise party, last evening, to Mr. and Mrs. John Neagle, of Madison avenue, in honor of their wedding anniversary. Music and games were the events of the evening. The host and hostess were remembered with a number of handsome presents.

Death of Mrs. Fairchild.

Mrs. Fairchild, mother of George Fairchild, former chief of the North Plainfield fire department, died suddenly yeterday at her home at Newark, where she had been a resident for a number of years. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Teased An Old Man.

Several boys of the borough were arraigned last evening before Recorder Doud and received severe reprimands for abusing and tormenting an aged Italian of the borough. The boys were discharged after being reprimanded and promised that they would behave themselvei better in the future.

Funeral of Child.

The funeral of the young child of Walter Jenkins, who died Monday, was held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 from the residence of Mr. Jenkins when Rev. E. E. Jackson officiated. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

VIOLATES HOME RULE

New York Franchise Tax Declared Unconstitutional.

A DISSENTING OPINION IS FILED.

The Principle of Taking Taxing Power From Local Boards of Assessors and Giving It to the State Is Wrong.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 21.—The appellate division of the supreme court, Third department, practically wipes out the state tax commission in its decision handed down in the case of the People of the State of New York ex rel. Metropolitan Street Railway company against the State Board of Tax Commissioners. By a vote of 3 to 2 they decide that the special franchise tax law of 1899 is unconstitutional in so far as it takes the power of taxing franchises from the local boards of assessors and gives it to a state board, thus violating the "home rule" principle of the state constitution.

It does not, however, vitiate, but expressly affirms, the state's power to tax franchises. In no one of the four opinions accompanying the decision is the principle of franchise taxation questioned, the sole issue discussed being whether the function of assessment is an exclusively local function or whether it may be withdrawn from the local boards and committed to a state commission. Upon this point and this only the court rules, setting aside the assessment upon the Metropolitan company made by the state tax commission upon the ground that such assessment should be made by the local board of assessors. The franchise tax law, so called, is not a separate law, but is in form of amendments to the general tax law, adding franchises thereto in the class of real property and referring their assessment to the state board of tax commissioners. It is therefore evident that the present decision affects the law only to the extent of removing the assessment of franchises from the jurisdiction of the state commission. It leaves the franchises still in the list of taxable property, to which, as the four opinions unanimously agree, the legislature had the power to add them, and permits the local boards of assessors to tax them at their full value.

The decision is by Judges Parker, Kellogg and Chase, Judges Chester and Smith dissenting. The prevailing opinion is by Parker, P. J., with concurring opinion by Kellogg. Both dissenting judges also file opinions.

The case was appealed by the Metropolitan Railroad company as a test case of forty-seven similar cases from Justice D. Cady Herrick's affirmation, pro forma, of the report of Judge Earl as referee, who held the law constitutional in all its bearings.

Twelve million dollars—$3,000,000 a year since 1899—is affected by this decision, and if it is sustained need not be paid by the corporations. But the new assessment by the local boards will undoubtedly be much heavier and subject to great differences between different towns.

Bowen's Recall Reported.

CARACAS, Jan. 21.—The local committee of the Matos revolutionists caused to be placed during the night under the doors of all the leading merchants and citizens of Caracas copies of a circular, in which it was set forth that the committee had information from Washington to the effect that Mr. Bowen, United States minister to Venezuela, had been recalled by President Roosevelt; that as a result of this step no peaceful arrangement of the present trouble was in view and that the present blockade could not be raised. The object of the distribution of this circular was to stop merchants and others from subscribing to the government forced loan. It was reported here that this circular was printed on board the German warship which is at present off La Guayra.

Prisoner Breaks Jail.

WOODBURY, N. J., Jan. 21.—James Stites, alias Harry Davis, a prisoner charged with robbery, has escaped from the Gloucester county jail here. Sheriff Springer had put most of the prisoners in their cells and was about to pass a door behind which Stites had hid himself when the latter pounced upon him and after knocking him down wrested the keys from him and, running along the corridor to the yard, scaled the jail fence and escaped.

Aged Couple Drugged.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Jan. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. John Barlow were drugged while sleeping in their home near Rock Lane, Johnson county, by unknown persons. Mrs. Barlow was found dead in bed and her husband unconscious on the floor. The old couple lived by themselves, and it is believed the deed was committed for the purpose of robbery. Mr. Barlow's recovery is doubtful.

Riots in Northern Portugal.

LISBON, Jan. 21.—Serious riots have occurred at Fundao, province of Beira, in northern Portugal. All the male inhabitants of Fundao armed themselves with scythes and effected the rescue from the police of certain poachers who had been arrested. The police fired on the villagers, killing four and wounding many. The shooting is expected to result in another outbreak.

The Lahn Finally Floated.

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 21.—The North German Lloyd steamer Lahn, from Mediterranean ports for New York, which grounded on a sandbank off Tumara, five miles east of the Rock of Gibraltar, Tuesday morning, has been floated. The Lahn is now anchored in this harbor apparently undamaged. She is repairing her rudder and will sail today for New York.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.
GEO. B. WRAN, City Clerk, Pro tem.
Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 5, 1903.

AN ORDINANCE

to Provide a Separate Sewer or Drain to Carry off the Surface water in West End Avenue.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1 That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that a separate sewer or drain to carry off the surface water or the water flowing into Green Brook, be constructed in and for the City of Plainfield in West End Avenue from the terminus of the present storm sewer to Green Brook, with the necessary appurtenances to complete the same, said separate sewer or drain to be of the dimensions and material, and to be laid in said street, and along such lines and at such grades and in such manner as indicated and specified on map on file with the City Clerk of the City of Plainfield, entitled: "Map of Storm Sewer in West End Avenue, City of Plainfield, N. J., Dec 1902"

Section 2. That the costs and expenses to be incurred under this ordinance shall be paid with money to be raised by taxation (by general tax for street improvements) pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, as other moneys are raised in said City.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT. Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, Administrator of William H. Dunn, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the twenty-eighth day of January next.

THE WORLD OF FASHION.

New Silks and Dainty Thin Goods For Summer.

Scarcely has lovely woman recovered from the fatigue of Christmas and New Year's when she finds that she must take up the white woman's burden again and haunt the shops, for, behold! they are full of the new silks and the dainty thin goods for next summer. Just think of it! It seems to be an unwritten law that early in January the white underwear sales take place, and they are followed by the advance of all the lovely and delicate materials for summer. This is done so that during the forty days wherein women fast and repent they are enabled still more to mortify the flesh by dressmaking, for, be it known, most of the summer frocks are made at this time. If there is any one thing more certain than another to mortify the flesh and cause tears of penitence to flow, it is to have a dressmaker in the house. So lovely woman has, as usual, managed to kill two birds with one stone.

The new silks are mostly satin finish foulards and soft finish satins. These are printed, and they are almost equally divided into two large and small designs. There are perhaps twenty-five different designs in blue, and the blue runs through several shades, the majority of indigo shades being in rather subdued tints. The designs are especially quaint, like those seen in some old forgotten ragbag in a farmhouse attic. One pattern has a close ground in shades of blue, and over this is a larger pattern in white stars or arabesques or clusters of dots, as the case may be. Others have a dark blue ground with white crescents and arabesque designs or geometrical figures. But there is none where the pattern is as large as it was a season ago. All the figures are neat and close, and the smooth satiny finish adds to their beauty. Few of the silks of this class are crisp, but are instead soft and pliable and clinging.

If there are many navy and indigo blues in these pretty silks, there are quite as many more in black and white, for all the designs are duplicated. The black and white summer silks are really beautiful, and some few gowns already made as samples show deep flounces or double skirt effects quite as often as plain skirts. But skirts seem to be much wider around the waist and are often shirred down two or three inches. Lace, both black and white and often in combination, is used to trim them. Insets, insertions, borderings and separate pieces as applique are put on as before wherever lace seems called for.

There appear among the new cottons and other washable materials muslins with wavy stripes, dotted gauze, plaid organdie, satin striped mulls, printed batistes, grenadines in silk and cotton, very soft and dainty; batistes with lace stripes and with Jacquard weaves of flowers in various colors, and an immense line of linen, both plain and embroidered. These grass linens are expected to be very popular, and they certainly deserve it. The most of them are embroidered in silk, which gives them a rich appearance. There is also a long list of beautiful designs in St. Gall embroidered swisses. That these are lovely may be inferred from the fact that it took our great lawmakers a long time to decide whether these embroideries should be entered through the custom house as lace or embroidery. They are so much like lace that one hesitates to call them embroidery, but, whatever they are, they are beautiful.

All the foregoing are the thin fabrics, but there are many really handsome printed dimities, homespun linen and cotton suitings, thick in appearance, yet light; all sorts of fancy bourrettes, with their rough tufts; canvas, mercerized duck, looking like silk; reps, etamines, crash in all weights and an infinite number of percales and ginghams of every variety, striped and checked.

A model of an evening dress of white satin striped mull is shown here. The stripes are arranged to go around, and the whole dress is trimmed with bands of lace insertion. The dress is worn over a pink silk slip and has a pink belt and a breloque of pearls at each shoulder. With this are seen the new lace glove mitts. The glove proper reaches above the wrist, and the lace rises to the shoulder.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"I have thought of that," said Mr. Carmody. "I have found some beautiful marble, and would like to take back some of those carvings from the ruined temple. It certainly is not fair to let two men monopolize the carrying capacity of 'The Jumping Jupiter' for their private gain."

"That is right," said Mr. Morton. "We must be fair in this matter. I think that 25 per cent. is too low a rate. It should be at least 33 1-3 per cent. The gold is worth $360,000, as near as we can estimate, and this will make the freight charges $120,000. This will be divided equally among six of us, or $20,000 each. Mr. Pence and Mr. Vincent will have $240,000 to divide between them. As a matter of equity, we all have an equal share in this gold, since it was discovered by these men in the performance of a common duty. But we will waive that. I insist that $120,000 is not too much to charge for freight."

"I think ten per cent. is enough," said Mr. Pence. "Be fair, gentlemen, be fair!"

"'The Jumping Jupiter' has an absolute monopoly of this business," said Mr. Kent. "It is not customary for shippers to fix rates. If you and Vincent do not like our way of doing business, transfer your trade to some other firm. This is not a matter of sentiment. As a stockholder, and as a man who made the masts of 'The Jumping Jupiter,' I move you, Mr. President, that we accept this freight risk for 33 1-3 per cent. of the value of the gold, and retain the merchandise as security until such time as proper settlement is made."

"I second the motion," said Mr. Haven.

"All in favor say aye," said Mr. Rockwell.

Six men roared "aye!"

"Those opposed say no!"

"No! No!" shouted Simon Pence. Vincent did not vote. Mr. Kent had nudged him to keep quiet.

"It is an outrageous rate, and I will never pay it!" said Mr. Pence. "Why do you fix such an unheard-of rate?"

"'The Jumping Jupiter' is a trust, and we need the money," said Mr. Kent. "I am afraid those grinning idols will hoodoo us as it is. I move that we leave them behind, Mr. President. The best we can get is a lawsuit."

"I will pay the rate! I will pay it!" exclaimed Mr. Pence. "I was only joking."

"Draw up an agreement, Hammond, and have it properly signed and witnessed," said Mr. Rockwell.

Sidney did so, and Mr. Pence and Vincent signed it. Early the following morning the idols went on board "The Jumping Jupiter."

Tuesday morning broke fair and clear, with a steady but freshening southwest breeze. Never had the island looked lovlier than on the day set for the departure of the castaways. It seemed as if the feathered denizens of the tropical forests had surmised their plans, and had gathered to bid them Godspeed with a noisy chorus. Their brilliant plumage glistened in iridescent hues through the foliage around the bungalow. The chattering banderlogs watched the preparations with curious interest. One very bold monkey ventured so near that Vincent, by a sudden rush, covered him with a large sponge basket. After much maneuvering he succeeded in clamping a chain over his neck and triumphantly led him captive to the deck of "The Jumping Jupiter."

"Here is our mascot!" he exclaimed, as he fastened the chain to the windlass. "He is ugly enough to stand off all the idols."

The monkey made a dash for Vincent's leg, but missed it by an inch. Vincent named him "Socks," on account of his white feet, and "Socks" was duly accepted as a mascot and a passenger.

There was a final survey of the bungalow to see if any necessary article had been overlooked. The windows were closed and barred and the keys deposited in the box under the tree where Hestor had found them. The big triangular sails were raised, the ropes cast off and "The Jumping Jupiter" slowly crawled away from the stone pier.

"We're off!" said Mr. Kent. "Good-by, Social Island! I have had a mighty good time, even if we were kidnapped."

"So have I," said Mr. Morton. "It has been a pleasant vacation, but an expensive one for me."

The monkey made frantic tugs at his chain, and set up a yell, which was responded to by hundreds of his brethren on shore.

"Keep quiet, you fool!" said Mr. Kent. "You will not be lonesome or homesick. You are going to New York."

But "Socks" was not to be consoled. He jabbered and fought until exhausted. Later in the day he became calmer, and seemed to be resigned to his fate.

By unanimous consent Sidney Hammond was made captain of "The Jumping Jupiter." He accepted the position and promised to discharge the duties to the best of his ability. He admitted an unfamiliarity with craft of "The Jumping Jupiter" class, but was confident that "he" would prove seaworthy. Once away from shore, they caught the benefit of tide and breeze, and swept out towards the gateway. Mr. Pence took one long look towards the rock where he had spent three awful hours. As they approached the outlet of "Morton's Bay" Sidney gave his first order. He glanced at the white breakers and shouted:

"Man the oars!"

Six of the men stood at the long sweeps. A critical moment was approaching. They were headed straight for the surf. Sidney saw that there was a heavy swell rolling in. He stood by the tiller and issued his instructions in a calm voice.

"When I give the word bend to your oars and row as hard as you can," he said. "There is not any danger, but we must help counteract the force of the surf. We shall make it readily enough. All ready? Row!"

The bow of "The Jumping Jupiter" rose slightly as the first incoming roller struck the raft. Mr. Pence was the only one not at work, and he looked at the foaming combers ahead with eyes lifted in terror. There was a strong breeze between the cliffs, and to Sidney's delight the boat was under good headway. The men pulled vigorously at the sweeps. The bow of "The Jumping Jupiter" sank in a way that was sickening to Simon Pence. The next moment a green wall of water fell with a crash. "Socks" gave a shriek which was smothered as the water rolled over him. The raft groaned from end to end. There was a sound of breaking glass.

"Row! Row hard!" shouted Sidney. For an instant the boat wallowed backwards. Then a strong gust of wind filled the sails and everyone bent to the oars. The next wave did not break.

"Once again!" shouted Sidney. There was a big wave coming. It towered overhead, but broke before it reached the boat. There was a smother of foam and a roar like that of Niagara, but "The Jumping Jupiter" was not to be stopped. In a few seconds they were past the danger line and out in deep water, where the swells rolled in regular lines broken only by ripples caused by the breeze. The oars were taken in and fastened to their places.

A cheer went up when they saw that immediate danger was past. Vincent went to the rescue of "Socks," who was dripping with water and chattering with fright, but entirely subdued.

"You are a mascot, all right, 'Socks,' old boy!" said Vincent, as he loosened the chain so that the monkey would not choke to death. "This beats climbing trees, doesn't it?"

Mr. Carmody and the others made an examination of the hull of the boat. The strain had caused a slight leak in the third compartment, but they had no difficulty in stopping it. The kitchen was somewhat disarranged and a number of dishes broken, but the damage was not serious. "The Jumping Jupiter" had successfully withstood its baptism and thus far had justified the hopes of the builders.

"I DO NOT UNDERSTAND IT," SAID SIDNEY.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

SPORTING NOTES.

Baseball Leaders Fail to Agree—Results at New Orleans and Oakland.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 21.—The National Baseball league had the hearing of the injunction cases at Philadelphia postponed until Friday so as to continue consideration of the conference report on terms of agreement with the American league at its adjourned annual meeting.

This change was not accomplished until after a protracted struggle. All representatives of the defendant clubs, as well as the plaintiffs, were at one time ready to take the train for Philadelphia.

Although every effort was made for unanimous action and much was said about what might happen if the proposed peace agreement should not be finally ratified, the vote continued to be 6 to 2 on most of the propositions or 6 to 0 on some when the New York and Brooklyn clubs refused to vote, and in two cases it was 5 to 3 when Boston voted with New York and Brooklyn. It is believed that the vote on ratification after the injunctions shall be disposed of will be 6 to 2, and it is stated that a vote of three-fourths of the members is sufficient, although there have been claims that a full vote is necessary on such propositions.

Yosemite Club's Offer Accepted.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—John Hertz, manager of Benny Yanger, announces that he will accept the offer of the Yosemite club of San Francisco for a fight between Yanger and Young Corbett. Yanger's manager posted $1,000 forfeit and declared that he would allow Corbett to make all the conditions of the match. The weight insisted upon by Corbett in his negotiations with Jimmy Britt of 130 pounds at the ringside is acceptable to Yanger's manager, who offers to make a side bet of $2,500 or fight without a side bet, as Corbett may prefer.

Death of a Famous Rifleman.

YONKERS, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Lewis M. Ballard is dead in his sixty-sixth year after an illness of four months. Mr. Ballard was a member of the famous All-America rifle team which in 1874, 1875 and 1876 defeated all comers at home and abroad. After personally outshooting all competitors at Wimbledon he was awarded a medal which was presented to him by Princess Louise of England. Mr. Ballard also won the first bicycle race ever ridden in this country in 1869.

Ice Racing on Lake Champlain.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., Jan. 21.—The opening day of the ice races at this point was attended by a large crowd. The races were close, although, owing partly to the temperature being about 10 degrees below zero, the time was slow. In the 2:50 class Alcy W., b. g. (Page), won in three straight heats; best time 2:30. In the 2:14 class The Duke, b. g. (Sprague), won in three straight heats; best time being 2:28¼.

New Orleans Results.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.—Frank Rice, Tioga and John Peters were the winning favorites. Criterion, who started in the third race, broke down and did not finish. In the fourth race Lord Neville was caught in a jam on the backstretch and fell. Regaining his feet, he ran away four miles. Weather clear; track heavy.

Kenilworth Won Handicap.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—Kenilworth in the six furlong handicap at Oakland took up 127 pounds, and, after Money Muss and Sylvia Talbot had set the pace, won easily in the fast time of 1:13. Money Muss was favorite, but there was a strong play on Kenilworth at post time. The weather was cloudy; track fast.

Keene Rents Newmarket House.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The statement is published here that James R. Keene has leased Lord Rosebery's house at Newmarket and intends to spend the greater part of the year there. Mr. Keene's American trainer, Matt Allen, will arrive at Newmarket with a string of horses in a few days.

Fight Called Off.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Jan. 21.—The fight between Joe Flaherty of Lowell, Mass., and Hayes Muhs of Durnatt, Ia., set for last night at this place, was called off on receipt of word from Governor Cummins that the fight would not be allowed.

Good Roads Convention.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 21.—In the afternoon session of the good roads convention a resolution was adopted requesting the legislature to make an appropriation of $2,000,000 at its present session so that 470½ miles of improved highways for which the boards of supervisors have petitioned this year may be built.

Garment Workers' Strike Grows.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Mail says the number of striking garment workers in Vienna has now increased to 19,000. As this is the height of the Viennese season, continues the correspondent, it is expected that the employers will be obliged to capitulate.

DR. LORENZ PRAISES AMERICA.

Says Our Doctors, Hospitals and Nurses Lead the World.

VIENNA, Jan. 21.—Dr. Lorenz, on his arrival here from London, spoke freely regarding his impressions of the United States. "Above all," said the doctor, "I was struck with the magnificent charity of the Americans and their immense gifts to educational institutions and hospitals. Their willingness, even their anxiety, to spend money in aiding others is almost beyond belief."

Next to this condition Dr. Lorenz said he had marveled most at the large number of alleged healers in America, naming Christian Scientists and faith curists of every description, who seem to flourish there. The doctor was enthusiastic with regard to the practice of medicine in the United States and declared that American doctors, nurses and hospitals lead the world.

"American physicians represent progressiveness," continued Dr. Lorenz, "while the English physicians are extremely conservative. In America it was difficult to accommodate the doctors and students who desired to attend my clinics, while during my last week in London many of the most eminent surgeons showed no interest in the new methods, while others who were present declared the old way to be the best."

Dr. Lorenz said in conclusion that he anticipated revisiting the United States, but that it was impossible for him to tell when he would have the opportunity.

PITTSFIELD CASE CLOSED.

Men Responsible For Accident to President's Party Plead Guilty.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 21.—The distressing incident connected with President Roosevelt's visit to the Berkshire hills last summer, when his carriage was demolished by an electric car and his secret service guard, William Craig, killed, has been finally closed in the superior court.

The motorman, Euclid Madden, pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter and was sentenced by Judge Pierce to six months in the house of correction and ordered to pay a fine of $500, while the conductor of the car, James T. Kelley, who was also indicted, had his case placed on file. The case was not tried, for after pleading not guilty last week to the indictment the two defendants retracted their plea and threw themselves upon the mercy of the court.

Both men were very popular here, and it was generally believed that in Madden's case at least sentence would not be greater than a fine, but District Attorney Malone, who came here from Greenfield to try the case, severely arraigned Madden before the court, charging him with criminal negligence and especially referring to his reply to the president immediately after the accident that he had the right of way.

Mascagni Gets Appointment.

ROME, Jan. 21.—Minister of Public Instruction Nasi has officially confirmed the nomination of Pietro Mascagni, the composer, to the directorship of the Rossini lyceum, the musical conservatory at Pesaro. Signor Mascagni was deprived of the directorship of the Rossini lyceum last summer in consequence of his having undertaken a concert tour in the United States. The position in question is the highest in the Italian musical world. The salary connected with it is $2,400 a year.

Ice Cutters' Strike Settled.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 21.—The strike of 400 ice cutters at Rockland lake has been settled by compromise. The men went to work this morning. The men wanted $2 a day, but agreed to accept $1.75.

BASKET BALL.

Newness at the game resulted in the I. C. T. basket ball team suffering an overwhelming defeat at the hands of the Hope Y. M. A., in the latter's gymnasium, last evening. The score was 46 to 4. The new team demonstrated, however, that with practice, its members will yet be heard from.

PLAYED WELL.

Organ Recital at the Grace M. E. Church Was a Decided Success.

The organ recital given last night at the Grace M. E. church was a great success.

Norman Landis, the organist of the First Presbyterian church at Flemington, presided at the organ. The selections rendered were exceptionally fine. Raymond A. McGee, basso, sang several selections which were cleverly rendered. Some of the most difficult pieces by classical composers were played upon the new organ with such effect that the good qualities of the organ and the skill of the player were at once noticable.

TROLLEYS STOPPED.

Didn't Run Between Cranford and Elizabeth for Two Hours.

Owing to repairs being made to the boilers at the Elizabeth end of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company's line, there were no cars on that system running between Cranford and Elizabeth for two hours yesterday afternoon, between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 o'clock. The cars were able to go from this city to Cranford, but from that town there was no trolley communication whatever.

OLD RESIDENT HAS FINALLY PASSED AWAY

Ethan Lanphear Died At His Home On Central Avenue Yesterday Afternoon.

HIS AN EVENTFUL LIFE

HAD TRAVELLED VERY EXTENSIVELY AND WRITTEN SEVERAL BOOKS.

Fatal Illness Began a Year Ago, But He Had a Wonderful Vitality—Was Nearly Eighty-Five Years of Age—Story of His Life.

Ethan Lanphear, one of Plainfield's best known citizens, died yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at his home, 502 Central avenue, following an illness which extended over a year's duration. His wonderful vitality was shown to the last for it was only a few days ago that he wrote a letter to his brother at Nile, N. Y., telling him of his illness and condition.

Ethan Lanphear was born March 2, 1818, at Westerley, R. I., and was one of fourteen children of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lanphear. In 1819, the family moved with the aid of a yoke of oxen from Potter's Hill, R. I., to Alfred, N. Y., a distance of five hundred miles. The trip was made in twenty days. During middle life Mr. Lanphear was impressed by observations that the more learning a preacher had the more he was inclined to preach new doctrines. This led him to travel over the country in all but two States. As a result of this he wrote his first book "Observations of Religious Practises and Preaching for Eighty-one Years." This book was followed by two other books along the same line. The books had a large sale. In early life he was a milier and also farmed to some extent.

Mr. Lanphear was within two months of being eighty-five years of age, yet he seldom used glasses and up to the time he was detained at home enjoyed fairly good health. He was a Seventh-Day Baptist and in former years attended the church of that denomination in this city. He leaves a wife, a brother, Nathan Lanphear, and a sister, Mrs. Wright, of Nile, N. Y., and another sister, the wife of Dr. Maxson, of Syracuse, N. Y.

The house in which he died, corner of Central avenue and West Fifth street, as well as the two houses, one on either side, were all built by him. He has lived in Plainfield over thirty years.

The funeral services will be held from the late home at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and another service and the burial will take place at Nile, N. Y., at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

FOR YOUNG FOLK.

Auxiliary to Hebrew Congregation Held a Meeting and Social Last Evening.

The Plainfield Hebrew Juvenile Auxiliary Society, which was organized December 10, last the purpose of promoting the welfare of the young people of that faith and to assist the Hebrew congregation, held a regular monthly meeting and social last evening in the synagogue on West Front street. The society has a membership of forty-five and nearly all were present last evening. Meetings are held twice a month.

The entertainment consisted of an opening address by Maurice Block, in which he extended to all a hearty welcome and impressed upon those present the objects of the society. This was followed with recitations by Samuel Rotberg, Miss Sadie Leichtentritt, Phillip Leichtentritt and songs by Miss Rose Rosestein and Miss Jennie Jacobson. There was a closing address by H. Netheim, after which refreshments were served.

During this social time, a pleasing entertainment was provided by a phonograph, operated by S. Frucht. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Flora Leveine, chairman; Miss Sara Newmark, Miss Nettie Leichtentritt, J. Molidsky and Maurice Block.

Miss Edith Tracy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, of West Eighth street, has gone to New York to spend the winter with relatives.

GLACIAL GEOLOGY OF NEW JERSEY GIVEN

State Geological Survey Has Prepared a Report Containing Much of Interest.

SOON TO BE PUBLISHED

TELLS OF GREAT ICE SHEET THAT ONCE COVERED PART OF JERSEY.

Terminal Moraine Extends Near This City—Origin of the Lake in Northern Jersey Explained—The Report Is in Two Parts.

The New Jersey Geological Survey has in press, almost ready for publication, a full report upon the glacial geology of the State, which will contain much information of popular interest.

During the glacial period—the most recent of the geological epochs, although not less than 8,000 or 10,000 years ago—the northern portion of the State was covered with a great ice sheet, just as the interior of Greenland is covered today.

Along the State line the ice was probably from 1,000 to 1,500 fees thick on the mountains and 1,800 to 2,500 feet in the valleys. It extended as far south as Belvidere, Hackettstown, Dover, Morristown, Summit, Plainfield, Metuchen and Perth Amboy, along which line there was accumulated a great belt of sand, gravel and bowldery clay, known as the terminal moraine.

The rock surface beneath this great sheet of ice was profoundly altered. Sharp peaks were worn off, ledges were rounded down and the whole surface grooved, scratched and polished. Many of these polished surfaces are now visible along the Palisades and Kittatinny mountain, as well as elsewhere in the State.

When the ice finally withdrew it left the surface mantled with a layer of tough bowldery clay, called till, while along the valleys were plains of sand and gravel deposited by the flooded river to which the melting ice had given origin.

In some valleys large lakes were temporarily formed in front of the ice sheet. In these great beds of clay were deposited, and on their shores deltas and beach lines were formed. Lake Passaic, in the basin of the upper Passaic river, was the largest of these, and its varied stages are clearly shown in the report by a series of carefully prepared maps.

The numerous lakes of Sussex, Passaic and Morris counties, in every case, owe their origin to the great ice sheet, for they occupy either valleys, which were dammed up by drift, as is the case with Lake Hopatcong, or basins in the drift itself.

Part I of the report is of more general interest, describing as it does the glacial drift, the origin of glaciers, their methods of work and the changes in the surface of the country wrought by them. Part II contains detailed descriptions of the glacial deposits of the northern part of the State.

The report contains about 800 pages and is abundantly illustrated by maps, half-tone plates and figures, which explain and illustrate the text.

Dr. H. B. Kummel, the State Geologist, is desirous that all citizens of the State interested in these matters should receive a copy of this report, and requests for it will be filled until the edition is exhausted. However, the cost of mailing several thousand reports of this size is more than the funds of the survey will warrant.

It will be necessary, therefore, to require the recipient to pay the express charges.

MINSTRELS TONIGHT.

Company K Will Appear at Burnt Cork Performance Tonight.

From the advance sale of seats a crowded house is sure to greet Company K's minstrel troupe at its opening performance tonight. The doors will be opened early and those who care to enjoy the orchestra concert in charge of W. E. MacClymont, should be in attendance at 7:45. This is promised to be a distinct treat in itself. Colonel Collins and his entire staff will occupy the boxes and many distinguished military men from various parts of the State will witness the affair.

The troupe had its concluding rehearsal, last night, and every act was found to be in readiness. In costume the members present an excellent appearance.

Exposure to Wet,

dampness and cold, invariably results in a sudden chill, which if not attended to immediately will cause a cold. By mixing a teaspoonful of Perry Davis' Painkiller in half a glass of warm water or milk, the whole system will be heated and the danger of cold avoided. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25c. and 50c.

SOLDIER BOYS AS MINSTRELS

Opening Night of Company K's Minstrels Proved to be a Decided Success.

THE AUDIENCE PLEASED

Good Singing and Local Hits Were Features of An Excellent First Part—Olio Was Highly Enjoyable—Everything Went Off Very Smoothly.

Songs and funny sayings, music and dances, interspersed with high-class orchestral selections, was the offering Company K's minstrel troupe gave in the Casino, last evening, when the members made their initial bow to the public as entertainers. From the rise of the curtain on the first part until the closing overture surprises followed each other in close succession and the result was a performance which evoked roars of laughter and highly delighted the large audience. Long before the concluding number the military boys were made aware through the medium of unstinted applause that their efforts in black face comedy were crowned with success.

The performance opened at 8 o'clock with a swinging and catchy overture, "Coming Through the Rye" by an orchestra of fourteen pieces under the direction of William E. MacClymont and when the curtain was rung up, the troupe was disclosed seated in the customary half circle. On the end were Fred J. Pope, A. M. Seiders and A. I. Littell handling the bones and William L. Holbert, W. B. Harsel and Robert M. Clark with tambos. The genial face of Josseph C. Martin was in the center as interlocutor and his interpretation of the part was excellent.

The remainder of the members composed the chorus as follows: Oliver R. Pearson, Charles Hayes, James Conkling, William S. Richards, Stephen Stover, Captain W. B. Martin, F. G. Wikoff, John M. Lewis, Paul Whitall, J. Everitt Reighton, Walter Sampson, Leonce Texier, Robert Goldsack, H. B. Kitchell, H. Mc Gilveray, John W. Turner, James Frazee, Clarence Bilyeu, Horace J. Martin, Jr., Vernon Waters and Alfred R. Trenchard.

A medley overture of popular airs was the initial number and it was sung in a manner that augered well for what was to follow. In addition to a solo, each of the end men were armed with a bunch of "roasts" on local celebrities which they delivered with good effect. Robert M. Clark sang a parody on the "Good Old Summer Time" in which the delights of camp life at Sea Girt were disclosed; Augustus Seiders contributed "My Princess Zulu" with a whistling chorus; Fred J. Pope gave "Under the Bamboo Tree" and W. B. Harsel rendered an original comic song that took well.

One of the most catchy and laughable musical numbers was "Mr. Dooley" sang by A. I. Littell, substituting local words. Among those who came in for good natured "knocks" were Tax Collector Frank H. Smith, Mayor N. B. Smalley, City Judge William N. Runyon, William Townley, "Carrie" Higgins, Thomas Muir, of the Daily Press staff, and Ralph L. Morrow, local correspondent for the Newark News.

Other selections in the first part were "I've Got My Eyes On You," by Harry Kitchell; "Dear Old Stars and Stripes, Good Bye," by Horace J. Martin, Jr.; "King of the Winds," by Captain W. B. Martin; and "The Sons of Ham" with a pretty marching effect by the end men. The concluding number was a medley of national airs by the entire company.

The second part or olio was made up of high-class vaudeville numbers anyone of which would gain distinction upon the professional stage. With but one exception the artists were from this city. Clarence Pope and William Hickey formed an acrobatic combination that would be hard to excel. Their act was frequently interrupted by applause which they richly deserved for feats in tumbling and contortion work.

Fred Frey, a Plainfield boy who has gained renown for fancy dancing, went through some of his most difficult steps dressed in a dazzling costume of green, red and white set off by an immense diamond of some twenty candle power. He was re-

Tracey & Swantant are the architects, and A. A. Stryker is the carpenter and mason.

'PLAINS SCHOOL IS CLOSED

HEALTH BOARD DECIDED TO STOP SESSIONS UNTIL NEXT MONDAY.

New Health Ordinance to Give the Board Necessary Power is Being Passed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Jan. 22—New Board of Health ordinances were passed upon last evening at a meeting of the Township Committee of this town as a preventative measure against the further spread of diphtheria in this locality. Those present at the meeting were Township Committeemen T. J. Nichol and Theodore Brackman; Dr. F. W. Westcott, Assessor Charles H. French, and the attorney, W. R. Codington, of Plainfield. The ordinances were passed without any objection and they were ordered advertised.

There are at present four cases of diphtheria in Scotch Plains and two in Willow Grove. In spite of this small number of cases the people of that vicinity are somewhat alarmed lest the disease should spread to a general epidemic like that which visited the 'Plains about fifteen years ago. The present ordinances of the Board of Health have proven to be inadequate to cope with the situation and it was found necessary to draft new ones which was proposed at a meeting held at the Township Hall, Tuesday evening.

The Board of Health of Scotch Plains has ordered that the public schools be closed until Monday. The school at Willow Grove has also been closed until the first of next week.

ADMITTED GUILT.

The Man Who Swindled Undertaker Entered a Plea of Guilty.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 22—Samuel Manning, who last week swindled George W. Cole, of Plainfield, by passing a worthless check, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Vail and will be arraigned Saturday for sentence. It has been learned that he is a clever swindler and that he is known in many cities in this and other States under various aliases.

Court Closed Until Monday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 22—Court closed here yesterday until Monday. Causes Nos. 5, 6 and 8 will be called Monday. Cause No. 21 was also set for trial on Monday in the Circuit Court, but it was announced that it had been settled outside of court. Causes 22, 15 and 16 are off until the May term.

Debating Society.

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Debating Society, which was to have been held Saturday evening and which was postponed until Friday evening, will be held at the appointed hour. Officers will be elected at that time and a full attendance is desired. A short session of debate will be enjoyed by the members.

Water Heater.

A water heating apparatus will soon be installed in the West End Hose Company's headquarters. The apparatus will be like the one which has been in use at the headquarters on East Second street for some time, where it is used to heat water for bathing purposes.

Fell Off Wagon.

Thomas Clacy, a driver for A. M. Griffen, the hardware merchant of East Front street, had a severe fall from his wagon yesterday in front of the store. He was rendered unconscious and was carried into a nearby building where he was revived.

Talk to Endeavorers.

At the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church, Friday evening, there will be an interesting talk by Miss Nellie Pendleton who is city missionary among the Italians of New York. There will be a social time afterward.

Church Social.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church a social will be held in the chapel of the church this evening.

TO INTEREST OTHERS IN ROYAL ARCANUM

A District Meeting of That Order Was Held in This City Last Evening.

IT WAS THE LAST OF A SERIES OF TEN MEETINGS HELD IN THIS DISTRICT.

Members of Plainfield Council and Neighboring Branches of the Order Attended the Meeting in Goodly Numbers.

The first district fraternal gathering of Arcanumites to take place in this city was held at Masonic Hall last evening when two hundred members of the Arcanum in this city and in other towns in this district were present and enjoyed a pleasant evening listening to stirring addresses by prominent members of that order and enjoying a programme furnished by a New York entertainer of note.

The session was one of a series of ten district meetings which have been held throughout this district. The last one was held at Jersey City several weeks ago when there were about 2,000 members present. The meeting last night was the last of the series and the primary object for holding the meeting was to interest outsiders in the order. The number of visitors who were present last night augered well for many new members for the local order.

Delegations were present from Adelphic, No. 1015, Bridgewater, No. 1375, Fireside, No. 715, Greenbrook No. 1725, Plainfield, No. 711, Bound Brook, No. 1339, Cranford, No. 1469, Fanwood, No. 744, Metuchen No. 1675, and Roselle, No. 1384. All of these delegations brought with them a number of visitors.

The State officers who were present were, Grand Regent H. J. Bowne, of Hoboken; Grand Vice Regent J. M. Washburn, of Jersey City; Grand Orator S. Kenyon Messick, of Cranford, and Past Grand Regent L. A. Lightfoot, of Westfield.

The committee which had the meeting under their supervision was H. R. Ward, of Jersey City; W. C. Hayward, of Passaic; W. C. McKever, of Rutherford; R. E. Pelouz, of Rahway; Harold Porter, of Jersey City; W. Collier, of Bayonne and John D. Beach, of Bayonne.

The session was called to order by Grand Regent H. I. Bowne, of Hoboken, who made a short address of welcome during which he touched upon the objects of the Arcanum and the benefits to be derived from the order and urged that those who were not already members of the order to join.

George F. Curtis, of New York, was introduced and entertained with original monologue selections and story telling. His entertainment was well received and later in the evening he was urged to appear again before the assemblage.

The speaker of the evening was the address by Rev. John Handley, of Long Branch, who told in an interesting and forceful manner of the great benefits of the order. He proved to be an eloquent and humorous speaker.

Following the meeting proper, a gathering was held among the members when the characteristic social side of the order was shown to the visitors.

Will Visit Here.

Prior to his sailing for Europe, Auguste Saltzman will visit Plainfield to meet his many friends. He expects to be abroad some time and while away he will represent the American firemen at a grand convention to be held on the other side.

Gave a Musicale.

The Misses DeCamp, of West Front street, entertained a few friends at their home Tuesday evening at a musicale. An attractive programme of vocal and instrumental music was presented, after which refreshments were served.

To Act on Resignation.

There will be a congregation meeting within a few days at the Park Avenue Baptist church to take action on the resignation of the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson.

To Initiate a Number.

Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will initiate a number of candidates at the meeting, tomorrow evening. A full attendance of members is desired.

Date for Trial.

The contract case of Harris against Aspinwall will be tried in Justice Nash's court Wednesday, January 28.

HOW SOMERSET TREATS TRAMPS

A Little Light on the Present Methods Employed by Freeholders of Somerset.

WHAT IS ACCOMPLISHED

Attempt to Legislate Tramps Out of Existence Ends in Withholding Aid From Worthy Ones, and Costing County More to Care for the Professional Heboes.

(By a Special Correspondent.)

Somerville, Jan. 22—The Freeholders of Somerset county are just now going through their annual farce of holding up the bills connected with the county jail. At the regular monthly meeting held Tuesday of last week the bills of the sheriff for board, those of the justices of the peace for commitments, of the constables for service of warrants, the doctors for attendance on sick prisoners and druggists for medicines were laid over until Monday to be further acted upon by the auditing committee of the board.

They were then again laid over until next Tuesday, when they will again be laid over, and they will continue to be laid over until next May, when they will be paid.

The board is laboring under the hallucination that every person applying for lodging for the night at the jail is a professional tramp, and, as such, is immune from cold and hunger and must be refused admittance. Acting on this inspiration it ordered the Sheriff to bar the doors to all applicants. This was two years ago. Previous to that time the Sheriff was authorized to admit all applicants, and for keeping them over night and, as was generally the case, giving them their breakfast, was allowed 25 cents. When it occurred to the board that vagrancy could be abolished by simply the passage of a resolution by that body, they were shut out. The result is that the worthy applicants, who are in a large majority, plod along, while the old "rounders"—the ones aimed at—commit petty, or even serious, misdemeanors, and spend the winter in the jail. The officers of that and neighboring towns, in the discharge of their duty, haul them before the magistraters, who, as duty bound, sentenced them to the county jail for definite terms, or hold them for the April Grand Jury. Either alternative suits the hoboes, providing the term, in the former case, is not too short a one.

For the commitment of a tramp under the disorderly act, the justice recevies 25 cents, the officer is entitled to a certain remuneration and the Sheriff receives 37 cents for his commitment and discharge in addition to 35 cents a day for his board during the term of his imprisonment. As a consequence, the bills maintaining the jail have more than doubled in the last two years, and the beneficiaries are just the ones not wanted. The taxpayers of the county foot the bills without any serious protest, and some even smile as they pay the Freeholders their two-per and mileage for meeting in extra conclave and attempting to abolish sin, misery and misfortune by legislation.

The ones entitled to their fees are often inconvenienced by the board's action, but they know their money is good in the spring, when the sun dispels fogs and things, and they enter no vigorous protest. In the meanwhile the board is happy, the tramps are comfortable and contented, those entitled to remuneration are not worrying and the taxpayer don't kick.

LARGEST SINGLE ORDER.

Shipped From the Pond Tool Works Early This Week.

The largest single order the Pond Tool Works has ever handled was shipped the fore part of the present week. It consisted of six carloads of material belonging to the immense planer which the shop has been constructing for a concern at Youngstown, O. The bed of the machine is forty feet long and the uprights fourteen feet high, making it the largest the Pond Company has ever turned out.

—Rheaume has a large supply of the best Lehigh coal in stock and is receiving daily shipments of the same. He delivers all orders promptly and at the regular price, office, 140 East Fourth street. 1 20 6

THREE ARE POISONED BY CANNED SALMON

Two Children of C. Van D. VanZandt and His Guest Had Narrow Escape.

NOT FULLY RECOVERED

DISASTROUS SUPPER AT HOME IN THE BOROUGH MONDAY EVENING.

Mrs. VanZandt and Youngest Child Did Not Partake of the Canned Salmon and Thus Escaped the Poisoning—Others Ate Heartily.

Eating canned salmon came near having very serious consequences for the household of Cornelius VanD. VanZandt, of 183 Watchung avenue, in the borough, Monday night. As it was, Mr. VanZandt's two children, a boy and girl, aged twelve and ten respectively, and his cousin, a young man who was visiting at the house, were taken violently ill with ptomaine poisoning and are only now recovering from its effects.

For supper that evening, canned salmon was served and the two children and the young man partook heartily of it. It so happened that Mrs. VanZandt and her baby did not eat any of it. Mr. VanZandt is a travelling man and was away at the time. Shortly after supper, the three were seized with violent cramps and Dr. Clawson was hurriedly summoned. He found them all in a serious condition but the young girl's case was the worst and it was feared for a time that the poisoning in her case might be fatal.

Towards morning, she showed some improvement and the severity of the attack diminished. While the three victims are now able to be around the house, they have not yet fully recovered from the effects of the poisoning.

FOR FREEHOLDER.

Friends to Number of Seventy-Five Gave Him a Party Last Evening.

Seventy-five friends tendered a party to Freeholder Augustus Mobus at his home on Somerset street last evening when a most enjoyable evening was spent in playing cards, dancing and listening to music. Those who favored with selections were C. M. Meeker, Peter Blake and Thomas Trainor. A sumptuous repast was served at a late hour and then dancing was resumed until early this morning.

Some of those who were present were Mayor N. B. Smalley, Chief Marshall and Mrs. William B. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nelson, Miss Annie Texier, Edward Texier, Miss Jennie Devine, Mrs. Hoerster, Miss Elvira Hoerster, William Demler, Stonewall Jackson, Clifford Schorb, Mr. and Mrs. Meeker, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Blake, Frank and Frederick Winn, Harry Winn and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cleaver.

FUNERAL OF JACOB GULICK.

Services Held From the Residence on South Second Street.

Funeral services over the remains of Jacob Gulick were held from his late residence on South Second street, yesterday afternoon, with Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, in charge. The attendance was large, being made up of relatives and friends from this city and other places. Floral tributes were numerous and pretty.

Following the obsequies the body was interred in the family plot in Hillside cemetery. The casket was borne by William Gray, Sr., Randolph Marsh, Andrew Muir and David F. Stewart.

Dinner Party.

A dinner party was given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, of West Seventh street, for a few friends. The decorations were a feature, pink being the prevailing color. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frenaye, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren, Mr. and Mrs. G. Herbert Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring.

Lecture on Korea.

Under the auspices of the Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue church, an illustrated lecture will be given on "Korea," in the chapel of the church Saturday, February 14.

Elected Members.

The Plainfield Clinical Society met Tuesday evening in regular session and elected Dr. P. J. Zeglio and Dr. Norman H. Probasco to membership.

EVENING OF WHIST.

Miss Lou Young Entertained Lenox Whist Club Last Night.

Miss Lou Young, of East Front street, entertained the Lenox Whist Club at her home last evening. The first and second honors for the women were won by Miss Lou Young and Miss Lou Piker, while Armstrong Mulford and Frank Marcley carried off the honors for the men. Following the play a social time was a feature and refreshments were served. The club will be entertained Tuesday evening, February 3, by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leek, of East Second street.

OLD CITIZEN PASSED AWAY

GARRETT VANWINKLE DIED AT HOME OF HIS DAUGHTER.

Successive Strokes of Paralysis Finally Proved Fatal—Lived Here Over Quarter Century.

Following an illness of more than a year, Garrett VanWinkle, one of Plainfield's best known citizens, passed away yesterday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Leggett, of Madison avenue. For the past twelve months he had been subject to slight strokes of paralysis which kept increasing until his system was unable to withstand the attacks.

Garrett VanWinkle was born in Bergen county in 1838 and in his earlier years worked as a ship carpenter at Greenpoint. He afterward engaged in the real estate business which he followed up to 1875 when he removed to this city. While here he followed carpentering until he retired from active life. He was a member of Trinity Reformed church and also of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Leggett, the daughter with whom he lived, and Mrs. Virginia Chickening, who also resides in this city. In addition there are four brothers, John H., William H., Daniel and Jacob R., all residents of the city or borough.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be at Hillside.

STARTED TO RUN.

Just As Runaway Began, Joseph Logan Grabbed Horse's Bridle and Halted It.

The bravery of Joseph Logan, a colored coachman, alone saved two children from being thrown out of a runaway carriage on West Front street, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Deiling, of Fanwood, and their two children, Rya and Dorothy, drove into town yesterday to do some shopping. They tied their horse to a post in front of Woodhull & Martin's store, near the postffice, and went inside to purchase some articles. They left the children in the carriage.

The horse became frightened at a passing wagon, broke loose from the post and started to dash down the street. The children's screams attracted the attention of Logan who rushed out and grabbed the plunging steed by the bridle bringing it to a standstill.

One of the children was thrown out by the sudden stopping of the carriage, but was uninjured.

WILL NOT JOIN.

Masons' Union Decides Not to Go Into Building Trades' Council.

Following a full discussion of them atter from all standpoints, the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, Local No. 41, at a meeting, last evening, decided not to ally itself with the local Trades' Council. The masons are considered to be one of the strongest and most influential unions in this section and their assistance would materially increase the Council's weight in trade matters.

Mid-Winter Current Events.

The mid-winter meeting of the Current Events Club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Clapp, of Mercer avenue. After a business meeting a pleasing programme was given consisting of a piano solo by Miss Griscom and a number of songs delightfully sung by Mrs. Ward, the contralto soloist of the choir of the First Baptist church. Refreshments concluded the entertainment.

Change in Choir.

Miss Martha M. Henry, the soprano of the Crescent Avenue church choir, has felt compelled by ill health to resign her position to take effect February 1. Her singing has been very much enjoyed and her departure will be greatly regretted.

LEAGUE WILL START ANEW

Changes in the Basket Ball League Make it Advisable to Adopt New Schedule.

INCLUDES FOUR CLUBS

Opening Game of New Schedule Will be Played Between I. C. T. Club and Hope Y. M. A. Friday Night, Jan. 30—Alis A.A. Has Decided to Withdraw.

After a little delay occasioned by changes in the membership of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League, the series of contests for the local basket ball championship will be resumed. As the composition of the league had altered materially since its start, it was deemed best to start anew as far as the schedule was concerned and go forward without further change. As now arranged, it will be a four-cornered contest, the organizations represented being the the Hope Y. M. A., the I. C. T. Club, the Y. M. C. A. and the Plainfield Reform Club. Owing to the lack of a place to practice and the inability of most of its players to be present at many games, the Alis Athletic Association felt it necessary to withdraw.

Activity in the league was resumed at a meeting of the executive committee, held in The Daily Press office last evening. The resignation of the Alis A. A. was accepted and the Y. M. C. A. and the Plainfield Reform Club were admitted to membership. It was decided to start the schedule with a game between the I. C. T. Club and the Hope Y. M. A. in the latter's gymnasium Friday evening, January 30. Following that a schedule of twelve games to be played every Monday and Friday night was arranged. Each team will meet each other team once in its gymnasium and once in the gymnasium of its opponent. As all the clubs are provided with gymnasiums of their own, this arrangement is now possible.

In order to make it fair for all, it was decided to pool the gross receipts and divide them equally among the four clubs at the end of the season. The referee and umpires in each game will be selected from out of town. Another meeting of the executive committee will be held next Wednesday evening at The Daily Press office when the representative of each team will file a list of the fifteen eligible players.

The meeting was presided over by Robert A. Meeker, president of the league, and the clubs were represented as follows: Hope Y. M. A., J. Fred Wharton; Y. M. C. A., Joseph W. Gavett; I. C. T. Club, Charles B. Morse; Plainfield Reform Club, Edward P. T. Smith.

DOG BIT TWO.

Their Wounds Were Cauterized and Owner Readily Consented to Allow Animal to be Shot.

Alvah E. Hoagland and James Duncan were bitten by a dog on West Front street yesterday morning while walking along that street. The injuries were severe and they were obliged to go to a physician to have the wounds cauterized.

The owner, Edward Gorz, of 1216 West Front street, when informed that his dog had bitten two men readily consented to having the animal shot, and Patrolman Higgins put the dog out of the way with a well directed dog bullet.

In Justice Huff's Court.

In Justice Huff's court judgment has been given the plaintiff in the contract case of J. A. Blatz against Theodore French and John French, and possession has been given the plaintiff in the landlord and tenant case of Smith against Kiederling. Judgment has also been given the plaintiff in the contract case of Sutphen & Meyer against Pangborn & Peterson. Justice Huff yesterday issued papers in the contract case of W. H. Smith against David A. Evart, returnable January 30.

Quoit-Pitching Contest.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet this evening and continue the quoit-pitching contest. At present Somerset Council is in the lead by a few games.

An attractive array for luncheon at Neuman Brothers: Hothouse tomatoes, artichokes, fancy table celery, Boston lettuce and fresh mushrooms.

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

Edwin Deremer, of South avenue, has gone to Erie, Pa., on a business trip.

Mrs. Edward Thorn, of East Second street, is recovering from a recent illness.

Mrs. Charles S. Lee, of East Ninth street, has returned from a visit out of town.

Mrs. J. R. Truell, of Central avenue, left yesterday for a four days' trip to Boston.

Mrs. Henderson, of High Bridge, is visiting her son, Wilbur Henderson, of West Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Sandford, of East Front street, are planning a pleasure trip to Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Dunn, of Sandford avenue, are enjoying a pleasure trip in North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thorburn, of East Front street, are entertaining friends from Exeter, N. H.

Miss Lillian Halkin, of East Second street, has returned from a week's stay with relatives at Montclair.

Assemblyman William Newcorn returned home yesterday from a business trip to Philadelphia and Trenton.

Doorman Thomas McCue, of the local police department, who has been ill for a long time, shows no signs of improvement.

Dr. T. S. Davis, of Park avenue, who has been confined to his bed with the grip, has so far recovered that he is now able to be out again.

Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street, is confined to his bed suffering with an attack of the grip. He is being attended by Dr. VanHorn, of this city.

Miss Dorothy Keller, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keller, of Harrison avenue, is ill at the home of her parents. Dr. Pittis is the attending physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leland, formerly of Plainfield, are now sojourning in Mexico, where the climate agrees with Mr. Leland very much. He has entirely recovered from a recent illness.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The following item, clipped from the New York Evening Telegram of yesterday, is somewhat amusing: "Sad plaint comes from Plainfield, N. J., of a man who has $34 a month and no legs, but wants a wife. He says he's spent $150 in three years advertising, but can't get a helpmate. Bit out of our line, but he might try the Exchange Column."

One of the cleverest little books which have been issued so far this year is the Derby Anniversary Calender. It is a calender in reality, for Webster defines a calender as a collection of dates. The Derby Calender consists of important anniversaries for every day of the year. In the book there are 6,000 different dates between its two covers and after each anniversary there is a reference to a more detailed explanation in the encyclopedia. Its arrangement is very fine and is designed to assist the student, the editor, the merchant and the professional man as well as the writer, and preacher.

Shake Off Wintry Blasts.

The months of January and February are the most disagreeable to the northerner and delightful are they for the Florida tourist. The trip to Jacksonville is through a section as historic as it is picturesque and the service to that point via the Royal Blue Line is the best. The New Jersey Central is going to run an excursion to Jacksonville on Tuesday, January 27. Train leaves New York, foot of Liberty street, at 8:30 a. m., arrive Washington at 2:10 p. m., same day leave Washington at 9:50 p. m., January 28, and arrive Jacksonville at 7:40 p. m., January 29. The round trip rate from New York and vicinity is $50, and includes also sleeping car berths, meals en-route, transfer and hotel accommodations in Washington The arrangements are such that the care and worry of the journey are in the hands of the railroad company, and the tourist has the entire time for enjoyment. The New Jersey Central has issued "A Little Yellow Book" on this Florida trip; if you want it send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York. Its free for the asking. 1 10 5 eod c 2

AFTER THE AUTO DRIVERS

ASSEMBLYMAN SCOVEL HAS INTRODUCED BILL ON THE SUBJECT.

Follows Out Governor's Suggestions, But Goes Him Several Better.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 22 — Automobilists touring country roads back in Jersey will have a hard and probably slow time of it, although they may not lack for excitement, if the bill introduced in the House by Mr. Scovel, of Camden, becomes a law. The Scovel bill is in accord with the Government's recommendation for an act limiting the speed of the autos, but goes it several better.

In the first place, the Camden statesman wants a State examining board of five members, appointed by the Governor, who are to examine the auto knowledge of all would-be chaffeurs, professional and amateur and, if they can pass muster, grant them licenses at $5 each per annum. After the first year the license must be renewed, but the examination is omitted.

Next, Mr. Scovel wants the speed limit everywhere in the State to be fifteen miles an hour, and makes a fine of $50 for each violation.

But the proposition that will bring joy to the country constable and woe to the automobilist is that wherever and whenever a constable, policeman, watchman or other officer orders an automobilist to halt and show his license, halt he must. If he doesn't, he is liable to a fine for not halting, even if it proves later that he had a license all the time.

THEATRICAL.

The permanent stock company at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, next week will give a revival of Francis Hodgson Burnett and Stephen Townsend's "Lady of Quality." Minnie Seligman and Mr. Bramwell will assume the leading roles with a strong supporting company. If there is any truth in the old saying, "laugh and grow fat," there will be much need of obesity tablets at Proctor's Twenty-third Street next week. A strong laughing show has been scheduled, with several splendid headline acts, including "The Holly Tree Inn," a dramatization by Augustus Thomas of Dickens' famous story of Gretna Green. After a very successful week of all star vaudeville, the permanent stock company will return to Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre next week in Franklin Fyles' splendid war drama, "Cumberland '61," with Ned Howard Fowler and Edna Archer Crawford in the principal roles. "Rosedale," Lester Wallack's famous English melodrama will be the attraction at Proctor's One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre next week, with Adelaide Keim and James E. Wilson in the leading roles. At Proctor's Newark playhouse a superb bill will delight the patrons of that pretty theatre. The headliner will be one of Newark's favorites, Harry Watson, Alice Hutchings and Company. Others on the bill will be McWatters, Tyson & Co., in "Scenes in a dressing room," Dan and Dolly Mann in the "Way Down East" of vaudeville, "Mandy Hawkins," the Hollands, acrobatic comedians; Claudius & Corbin, banjoists; Albert C. Waltz, skatorial artist; Ed. Mullan and his dog, "Dixie," and many other good acts from the variety field.

Burial Here.

A. Lincoln Craven, who died in Philadelphia, Saturday, was buried privately yesterday at Hillside cemetery. He was the husband of Mrs. Kittie Ross Craven, formerly of Plainfield avenue. They were married about three years ago.

In reply to inquiries we have pleasure in announcing that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is like the solid preparation of that admirable remedy in that it cleanses and heals membranes affected by nasal catarrh. HOT SHOT FOR UNION

Chairman Gray Makes Strong Remarks In Court.

DISTRICT PRESIDENT FAHY'S ACTION

Refused Mine Superintendent "Permission" to Erect Boiler House Needed to Save Property—Mr. Mitchell's Order Ignored.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—The sessions of the coal strike commission yesterday were enlivened by some interesting testimony. The feature of the sessions was Chairman Gray's rather strong remarks in commenting on an incident where District President Fahy of the miners' union would not grant "permission" during the strike to a contractor to erect a boiler house at a colliery which was necessary to preserve the mine from damage. The president of the commission said he hated tyranny no matter whether it was practiced by an operator, a miner or any one else.

During the morning session the Lehigh Valley Coal company, which opened its case after the Temple Iron company closed, placed a union miner on the stand to testify about what seemed to be a trivial matter, and on cross examination he proved a good witness for the miners. He said there would be trouble in the anthracite regions so long as the coal companies insist upon paying the contract miners by the car instead of by weight. This opened a discussion between counsel for both sides and the commissioners which consumed much time. The result was that the commission will devote an entire day to hearing arguments on both sides of the question.

R. S. Mercur, a district superintendent of the Lehigh Valley's collieries in the Mahanoy and Shamokin districts, gave some interesting testimony which livened the proceedings considerably. The men in his collieries worked on an average, he said, about seven hours a day. The miners, he continued, will not produce any more coal as a result of President Mitchell's "hurry up" order. They claim there is no coal shortage and that it was a scheme of the operators to show the men are earning large wages.

Chairman Gray remarked that the miners should come to Wilmington, his home, and see poor people standing around waiting to buy a bucket of coal at 17 and 18 cents a bucket.

Mr. Darrow asked the witness why he did not work two shifts, and he replied that he could not get the men to cut enough coal to keep the breakers going ten hours a day. If the union will furnish men, he will put all of them to work.

Mr. Mercur told of the troubles in keeping the water from accumulating in the mines during the strike. He said the company had contracted with a man to build a boiler house for Packer colliery No. 5. The strikers refused to permit this to be done. They would not even permit the material to be taken from the railroad cars. Finally the contractor wrote to District President Fahy asking permission to erect the boiler house, and the labor leader replied, "On account of existing conditions I cannot grant you the permission which as I understand from your letter you request."

The letter further stated that Mr. Fahy was willing to meet him and discuss the matter.

Chairman Gray asked the witness if he did not apply to Mr. Fahy, and he replied he did not. The president of the commission sarcastically asked the witness why he did not with due submission go to see Mr. Fahy and appeal to him to permit the building of the boiler house. He might have softened a little, added the chairman.

Mr. Darrow protested that the matter should not go any further until Mr. Fahy was heard. Mr. Fahy was not present, therefore nothing could be done. The chairman and Mr. Darrow then had an animated colloquy over the matter, during which Judge Gray said he did not like the word "permission" as used by Mr. Fahy. This was a free country, and he was not educated up to using it in the way Mr. Fahy had employed it. He added he hated tyranny no matter whether it was practiced by an operator, a miner or any one else. The chairman delivered his remarks with much force, and the incident created considerable of a stir in the courtroom.

House Rent Exceeds Salary.

BERLIN, Jan. 22.—Ambassador Tower has nearly closed the lease of a stately residence on Koenigsplatz, near the reichstag building and overlooking the Thiergarten. The property belongs to the estate of the late Herr Prinzheim, the banker. It has two carriage entrances, is larger than the French embassy and is somewhat smaller than the British embassy. The rent considerably exceeds the ambassador's salary, which is true also in the case of the American embassies at London, Paris and St. Petersburg.

President Wilson's Father Dead.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 22.—The Rev. Joseph R. Wilson is dead at the home of his son, Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university. Dr. Wilson was eighty-one years old and was born in Steubenville, O. He was widely known as a Presbyterian minister and was for thirty years stated clerk of the Southern Presbyterian assembly.

Gompers to Visit Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has authorized President Gompers to proceed to Porto Rico to investigate labor conditions in the island and aid the wage workers in organizing. He also was authorized to aid in preventing the enactment of an affirmative injunction law in Alabama.

THREE SHIPWRECKS

Seven Lives Lost on the New Jersey Coast.

BRAVE WORK OF THE LIFE SAVERS

Four of the Crew of the Barkentine Abiel Abbott Saved—A Joy Line Steamer and a United States Tug Have Been Lost.

MONMOUTH BEACH, N. J., Jan. 22.—Two members of the crew killed by falling masts, four swept overboard and drowned and the captain and four men saved by means of the breeches buoy, one of them dying later from exposure, however, is the substance of the story of the wreck of the barkentine Abiel Abbott, which went ashore in the night near Harvey Cedars. She was bound from Turks islands for New York, laden with salt, and was in command of Captain I. B. Hawkins.

When the barkentine struck, rockets were sent up by the crew as signals of distress and were seen by persons on shore. The Ship Bottom life saving crew was notified and lost no time in getting out its boat, but owing to a tremendous sea which was running it was found impossible to launch the boat. Several attempts were made to launch the craft, but the heavy surf made all efforts unavailing.

Owing to the darkness nothing could be made out of the vessel, and only the flash of the rockets could be seen. At daylight the stranded ship was discovered lying about 500 yards from the beach. Another attempt was made to launch the lifeboat, but this, too, was futile. The vessel was seen to be rapidly breaking up, and not long after daylight some of the spars were seen to crash down on the deck. It is supposed that it was then that two of the crew were killed. Heavy seas were continually dashing over the doomed vessel.

About 8 o'clock in the morning, as it was still impossible to get out a lifeboat, the life saving crew ran its rocket apparatus down to the shore and after repeated attempts managed to fire a line across the deck of the stranded ship. It was caught by the survivors of the crew and make fast, and a breeches buoy was rigged, in which the captain and four men were brought safely ashore. They were in a terribly exhausted condition owing to exposure.

United States Tug Wrecked.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., Jan. 22.—The United States tug Leyden, bound from San Juan, Porto Rico, for Newport, is on the rocks on the south side of Block island. Nine of her men landed in a small boat, and the remainder of the thirty-three who composed her crew were brought ashore in the breeches buoy by the New Shoreham and West Side life saving crews. The tug is hopelessly wrecked, as she is well in among the ledges, and the seas are breaking clean over her. Lieutenant Chester Wells was in command. She struck in a dense fog and a heavy sea shortly after noon. The Leyden was of the largest type of naval tug, schooner rigged and of 450 tons displacement. She was built at Boston in 1866 of iron at a cost of about $100,000.

Joy Line Steamer on the Rocks.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 22.—The steamer Seaboard of the Joy line while on her regular trip from New York to Boston put into Dutch Island harbor owing to thick and heavy weather and in trying to make anchorage ran upon the rocks on the south end of the island. The steamer was so badly damaged that she will probably be a total loss. Her bow lies high out of the water, with her stern less than thirty feet from the lighthouse.

Odell Wants Early Decision.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Governor Odell and Attorney General Cunneen in joint conference decided that every effort should be made to get an immediate decision from the court of appeals upon the adverse ruling of the third appellate division in the franchise tax matter. After a harmonious conference the attorney general, under the instructions of the governor, decided to request the court of appeals to hear the case at the earliest moment possible, so that if the decision is affirmed there may be immediate legislation if necessary not only to compel the corporations to pay a future tax, but to pay the back tax already assessed, which amounts to between $14,000,000 and $15,000,000.

Woman Recluse Dead.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Caroline Groshon, East Chester's centenarian and recluse, is dead of old age at the Fordham hospital in the borough of the Bronx, where she had been taken about a week ago. Caroline Groshon, at one time reputed to be the prettiest girl in East Chester, led the life of a recluse since the death of her sister fifteen years ago, with only her pet dog Gyp to keep her company and comfort her. Miss Groshon every night got up at midnight and sat at the window, with a loaded revolver and her aged dog at her side, waiting for burglars she supposed were hiding outside.

NO AGREEMENT REACHED.

Baseball League Officials Still In Session.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 22.—The National league officials were to have met at 10 o'clock yesterday morning to hear the minority and majority reports of the committee of the whole on the proposed peace agreement with the American league. The minority report was not ready then, and its framers kept members of the league in waiting until 5 p. m.

This report was made by the New York and Brooklyn clubs. Meantime representatives of the Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis clubs who had signed the majority report early in the morning, with President Pulliam and others in the hotel lobby, spent the entire day like passengers in a railroad waiting room who had missed morning connections and at nightfall ascertained that traffic was temporarily suspended.

The two Boston representatives, Soden and Conant, have been courted all week by both sides. While they were a unit in everything, Conant was with the majority in the lobby and Soden was with Brush, Ebbitts, Vonderhorst and Knowles in their room preparing the minority report.

During the afternoon President John T. Brush of the New York club, as plaintiff in the injunction suits at Philadelphia, communicated with his attorneys, and last night it was announced that the suits had been dismissed, so that the Pittsburg and Philadelphia clubs are no longer restrained from full co-operation in voting to ratify the joint peace agreement, and then it was also stated that the league, as such, would proceed "to fight it out to a finish."

The minority report was a resume of the objections that have been presented during the week by the New York and Brooklyn clubs. This report is said to have undergone eliminations as well as revisions during the day. While protesting against the peace agreement as a whole and also against the method of its adoption by the committee, in which it was held that the National committee exceeded its authority, the report protested especially against the third section, under which the players were awarded; the fifth section, which included New York in the American circuit, and the ninth section, that specifically binds each of the sixteen clubs of the two leagues to the compact.

Corbett Will Not Fight in the East.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—"Young Corbett" has accepted as final the interdiction put upon his proposed boxing bout with Terry McGovern before the Scituate Athletic club by Governor Garvin of Rhode Island. Corbett says his taste of New England antiprizefight laws last summer in Connecticut was quite sufficient, and he has called off the Scituate negotiations. California, he says, seems to be the only place where he and McGovern can come together without fear of the law.

Favorites Left Behind.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.—Not a favorite finished first yesterday. Robbins' bad ride on Apple Sweet spoiled the filly's chances in the second race. Arnold K. in the third race and Philo and Amigari in the fourth were practically left at the post. Gin Spray was run up to $1,005 and bought in. Weather threatening; track heavy and lumpy.

Large Entry List at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 22.—More than 150 owners are represented in the list of entries to the stakes of the new Louisville Jockey club, including all the leading western stables. Omitting the steeplechase handicap, which naturally has a limited number, the stakes have averaged more than 100 each, the total being 991 entries.

Oakland Results.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—Well played horses were successful at Oakland today. The feature was the mile and a furlong handicap, in which there were four starters. The Fretter was a slight favorite and led most of the way. Ishtar stopped badly after showing speed.

Brown Defeats Wesleyan.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 22.—Brown defeated Wesleyan 12 to 10 at basketball in the Lyman gymnasium here. The game was very interesting, and at one time the score was 10 to 6 in favor of Wesleyan.

Much Married Preacher Guilty.

PORT GIBSON, Miss., Jan. 22.—The jury in the case of the Rev. Marion Lane, alias Jean Skyles, charged with bigamy, returned a verdict of guilty. Skyles was one of the most learned theologians and eloquent orators in the state. The evidence tended to show that Skyles had been married seven times. After his last marriage Skyles fled to Texas and was captured at San Antonio. The defense was insanity.

Well Known Manufacturer Dead.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Jethro W. Clute is dead at his home in this city, aged seventy-nine. For many years he was a member of the firm of Peter I. Clute & Sons, who operated an iron foundry here for over half a century. During the civil war the engine and boilers for the Monitor were built at this foundry, of which Mr. Clute was then proprietor.

Goebel Case to Be Retried.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 22.—The court of appeals has overruled a motion by the commonwealth for a rehearing of the appeals in the murder conspiracy cases of Caleb Powers and James Howard. The court held that it had no jurisdiction to reopen the business of a closed term. Both defendants will get new trials.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; fresh northwest winds.

SAN CARLOS SHELLED

German Warships Open Fire on Venezuelan Fort.

VILLAGE IS REPORTED IN FLAMES

Eyewitness of Bombardment Says "Fire Was Rapid and Terrific, Venezuelan Gunners Answering Splendidly."

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, Jan. 22.—Three German war vessels, supposed to be the Panther, Vineta and Falke, have been shelling the fort of San Carlos for several hours. The fort returned the fire.

A press correspondent in a rowboat approached to within three miles of the fort. The roar of the guns was terrific. The Panther appeared to be not more than 500 yards from the fort. Her guns were being fired every minute. The fort could not be seen for the clouds of smoke, but it was plain that the Venezuelan gunners were answering the German fire splendidly and with great rapidity.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon an explosion occurred apparently in the fort, and a denser cloud of smoke covered part of the ramparts. A number of Indian fishermen were intercepted fleeing from the direction of the fort in their dugout canoes. They reported that the smoke seen was from the burning village of San Carlos, which had been shelled by the German ships and was in flames.

VENEZUELA'S CONDITION.

Blockade Must Be Raised Previous to Negotiations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Raising of the blockade is Venezuela's condition precedent to the formal institution of negotiations with the powers for a settlement of their claims. Her representative, Minister Bowen, has presented this proposition to the representatives of the allies here, and it has been cabled to the foreign offices at London, Berlin and Rome. Little progress can be made pending the receipt of the answers, which, it is expected, will be in the nature of a joint reply and may not reach Washington for several days.

Considerable reticence is being maintained by the negotiators as to the preliminary steps, and they are averse to discussing the nature of Venezuela's initial proposition until a reply to it has been made. It is understood, however, that in asking that the blockade be lifted Minister Bowen let it be understood that he was in a position to offer a suitable guarantee for the payment of the just claims of the allies. He did not state, however, what this surety was.

THE HEWITT FUNERAL.

Last Rites For New York's Former Mayor Attended by Notable Throng.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Famous men from far and near, but especially those to whom the welfare of New York city is dear, assembled in Calvary church to pay a last tribute to former Mayor Abram S. Hewitt. The services began at 10 o'clock, conducted by Bishop Potter, Bishop Satterlee of Washington, former rector of Calvary church; Rev. Dr. J. Lewis Parker and his two assistants.

Mrs. Abram S. Hewitt personally selected the musical programme, which Lacey Baker, the organist of Calvary church, directed. There were no solos, but the full vested boys' choir sang without instrumental accompaniment save the funeral march played at the beginning of the service.

The pallbearers were Alexander E. Orr, Charles Stewart Smith, John E. Parsons, William Butler Duncan, R. Fulton Cutting, William E. Dodge, Mayor Seth Low, Morris K. Jesup, J. Pierpont Morgan, H. H. Rogers, John Fritz, John Kean, Andrew Carnegie, H. E. Howland, John B. Cadwallader, J. E. Kennedy, Jacob H. Schiff, Lord Charles Beresford and E. Thomas.

Only the immediate members of the family and a few of the pallbearers accompanied the body to the grave. Interment was in the Peter Cooper plot in Greenwood cemetery.

Steel Trust Plans Improvements.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The presidents of the subsidiary companies comprising the United States Steel corporation are holding day and evening sessions in this city and will probably not adjourn until the end of the week. More than ordinary importance is supposed to attach to these meetings, because they are the first to be held since the corporation announced its profit sharing scheme. Plans involving an outlay of at least $25,000,000 are being formulated by the presidents. The money will be used in modernizing certain plants and concentrating the work of others. Pittsburg, Cleveland and other western cities are expected to figure extensively in these plans, which are subject to the approval of the finance committee.

Tutuila's Government.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A bill vesting in the president authority to appoint persons to govern the island of Tutuila in the Samoan group has been reported from the committee on the Pacific islands by Senator Foraker. Its provisions are similar to those provided for the island of Guam and place in the hands of the president's representative full authority, civil and military. The duty on goods imported into the United States from Tutuila is fixed at 50 per cent of the rates from foreign countries.

Venice Votes Repair Funds.

VENICE, Jan. 22.—The municipality of Venice has voted a further credit of $70,000 to be devoted to the restoration of historic buildings. A total of $200,000 will be spent to this end.

NEED OF A PUBLIC PARK.

Generally, personal expressions of a public need precede the authoritative expression of public need by the officials in power. Plainfield's need of a public park has often found expression during the past few years by private citizens, especially by the new residents, who have come from towns where there are public parks and pleasure grounds.

In a city the size of Plainfield, there are many homes with small yards or none at all, and the occupants feel the need of a near-by place of resort, easy of access by foot or trolley where they can enjoy the beauties of nature, feeling they have a right to the place as citizens of a town in whose ownership the park should be. The park of West Eighth street is a strolling place for near by residents, but it is too much in town for a day's pleasure and there is not enough variety of landscape for the delights of picnicking.

One observer of this lack in Plainfield's perfections, like the wise woman from Philadelphia who was quick to suggest to the Peterkin family some very sensible notions, was of opinion that land intersected by Green brook, either in the direction of Dunellen or Scotch Plains would make a charming park, the brook affording facilities for boating and a home for aquatic animals, besides enhancing the beauty of the landscape as nothing but water can. The wise woman suggested, as did the Mayor, that the value of land at the present time would make purchase possible whereas its increase as time rolls on would make ownership by the city more difficult.

It sometimes happens that a large hearted land endowed individual earns the gratitude of generations by a gift to a city for such a purpose. Betsy Williams was such an one when she gave the beautiful Roger Williams Park to the city of Providence. One cannot wander through the quaint rooms of the old farm house which was the donor's home without revering the far sighted woman who believed in beauty as well as utility and who gave this farm for a city's pleasure, which is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

Oh for a Betsy Williams to merit the gratitude of Plainfield's coming generations!

As the county jail is located at Somerville and there are very few residents of North Plainfield who ever get up there, the method of meeting the tramp problem in Somerset county is something which is not generally known to North Plainfield. For the enlightenment of our readers, we furnish a few pertinent facts today. They will be read with interest. Everybody must realize that the tramps are an ever present evil and they must be provided for some way or other. They cannot be legislated out of existence. The sooner the Freeholders of Somerset county realize this, the better it will be for those who happen to foot the tax bills in that county.

A trolley line to South Plainfield would be an excellent thing especially when it is remembered that the Lehigh Valley Railroad can be reached at that point. As long as a continuation of the Arlington avenue line does not seem to find favor, it will be well to advocate the extension of the line, which now ends at Monroe avenue and West Seventh street, so that it reaches the point desired.

There are signs that the Board of Trade is getting thoroughly waked up. And being fully awake, it is preparing to do something. The fact of it is that it has already started in that direction. There is plenty that such an organization of energetic citizens can do and, from present appearances, there are a number of those lines of action that are being followed.

A prominent grocer says, according to the Philadelphia Record, that one company has advertised its soups so extensively and persistently that the people have ceased to ask for any other kind, and that all the other soups are now sold at half-price.

There is no getting ahead of Scotch Plains. Last week, a license was refused for an inn and tavern in Fanwood township and now the water mains of the Plainfield Water Supply Company are to be extended to that village. Horrible.

An exchange says that pigs may be fed on anything you like, including coal, and they will like it too. We would suggest that dollar bills would make a cheaper bill of fare.

Legislative gossip says that the berth of commissioner of banking and insurance is going to David C. Watkins, of Gloucester county, without a doubt.

Another banquet is one of the good things which the Board of Trade has in store for Plainfield.

APPOINTED CLERK OF ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE ON RAILROADS AND CANALS.

Was Defeated for Assembly, But More Successful Colleague Didn't Forget Him.

Dr. Myron J. Whitford, of New Market, who was defeated at the last election when he ran for Assemblyman in Middlesex county, has secured one of the legislative plums which recently dropped at Trenton. He will receive $300 a year as clerk of the House committee on railroads and canals.

Whitford was an Assemblyman from Middlesex last year and became well-known throughout the entire State as being the father of a bill for a million dollar university which was pigeon holed and never was passed.

Whitford was nominated last fall but was low man on the Republican ticket and a Democrat, B. Michael Gannon, beat him out. Assemblyman John Montgomery, of the same county had such a close shave himself, that when he got the chairmanship of the committee on railroads he offered the clerkship to Dr. Whitford and the doctor jumped at the chance of helping to make laws another session even if he could not have a vote.

DUNELLEN.

The Plainfield Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution is planning to raise funds to erect a monument on Washington Rock, the well-known point on the mountain back of here. If such a monument is erected it can be seen from a great distance.

Quite a number of young people from here are singing in the comic opera "The Pirates of Penzance," which will be given in Plainfield, the latter part of the winter. They all attended a rehearsal which was held last evening.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Aluminum Press Company was held in New York Tuesday afternoon. Nothing was done about the new factory which it was proposed to build at this place.

Prayer meeting was held in the Methodist church last evening with a large attendance. After prayer meeting the Epworth League held a short regular meeting.

A number of small houses will shortly be erected on the Sandford property, which is now occupied by Mrs. Kean.

A meeting of Court Dunellen, I. O. F., will be held Monday evening when important business will be transacted.

Walter Clawson, of this place, is doing the mason work on the new store at Clinton avenue.

Work on the Lasher-Pray Color Company factory near here has not yet been commenced.

Sheriff Carmen, of this county, was in town on business Tuesday afternoon.

The cornet band held a regular practice meeting last evening.

A meeting of the W. C. T. U. is being held this afternoon.

Mrs. Fred Dickerson is spending today in New York City.

Mrs. P. W. Brakeley is spending the day in New York City.

Mrs. Clayton Coons is spending today in Plainfield.

NEW MARKET.

W. B. Smith proposes in the near future to build a number of new houses in order to invest some of the money he received from the Fair estate.

As soon as the ice is thought to be all right ice cutting on the lake will be started. The engine used to run the machinery has also been hauled here.

Dr. Whitford was at the State Capitol at Trenton yesterday. He is clerk for the Assembly committee on railroads and canals.

Prayer meeting was held in the Baptist church last evening with a large attendance.

Band practice will be held this evening in the room over Rogers' coal office.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The annual election of officers for the ensuing year was held at the meeting of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, Monday evening. The following will be at the helm during the next year: President, John Robison; foreman, Philip Jahn; first assistant foreman, Richard Robison; second assistant foreman, Harry Flannery; secretary, William VanValkenberg; treasurer, William H. Lake.

The membership committee of Fanwood Council, R. A., held a meeting at the home of William E. Collins, Tuesday night. Plans were talked over for increasing the membership of the council. A smoker will be held in the council rooms in the near future.

The No Name Club, composed of a number of the young women in town, organized for the purpose of meeting together once a week for mutual pleasure, will meet tonight at the home of Miss Josie Marsh.

Past Regent Wm. E. Collins and a delegation from the local Royal Arcanum Council attended the district meeting of the order held in Masonic Hall, Plainfield, last night.

Tickets are out for the benefit entertainment of the baseball team which will be held in Excelsior Hall on the eve of Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 11.

The change in the temperature, yesterday, put a stop for the time being to the skating, which has been enjoyed for the past two weeks.

The Boys' Club held its weekly meeting in the Methodist church last night.

Miss Marion Johnston is enjoying a week's visit with friends in Brooklyn.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mr. Huyler, who with Mrs. Huyler, is at present boarding with Mrs. Riddle, has not yet decided to make his residence here, but will probably do so. He has a position with the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Mrs. Hannah Nelson has erected a handsome monument on her burial plot in the South Plainfield cemetery. The weight of the stone is said to be fifteen tons.

Fred Latourette, whose foot was injured by a nail a week ago, is able to be about the house.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Haight, of Raritan, was in Plainfield yesterday calling on friends.

Mrs. Phillip Voorhees, of 109 Randolph road, is a guest of Mrs. Theodore Gross, of Brooklyn.

Mrs. J. V. N. Willis, of Prospect place, who has been ill for some time past, is much improved and is now able to go out every day.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sandford, of Sandford avenue, are enjoying a pleasure trip to Mexico on A. V. D. Honeyman's tour. They will be gone for about three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph I. Tolles, Jr., of Ossining, N. Y., are rejoicing over the arrival of a young daughter. Mr. Tolles is the son of Councilman R. I. Tolles, of Westervelt avenue.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Certified milk is the only kind sold by Wm. Lindsay & Son, of Mountain avenue. This firm serves hundreds of people in Plainfield and you never hear any complaint from patrons of this dairy.

Stanley's florist store on North avenue is one of the best known places in this city to secure flowers for all occasions whether it is for a wedding, a reception, or for a funeral. Potted plants are made a specialty of at this store.

"Everything for the sick room" is one of the standards of Hodge's pharmacy in the Y. M. C. A. building Not only the required medicines but many other necessities that help to ease the patient's illness, Hodge also makes a specialty of toilet articles.

The sudden changing of the temperature both indoor and out causes many colds. The best remedy for severe colds is Powers' Honey of Colts Foot and Tar which he sells at his Somerset Pharmacy. Powers' Beef, Iron and Wine is a fine tonic for building up the system.

A better euipped market than that of Fred Endress' is not to be found in the State. There can be had anything in the meat, poultry and game line, all of the highest grade, while a complete seafood department handles nothing but the best fish. Telephone orders if not convenient to call.

The New York Painting and Decorating Company, of Park avenue, is showing a fine assortment of exclusive designs in wall-papers and if you intend to have your rooms papered it will pay to examine this stock. This company will also be glad to have your contract for work in painting or papering.

The "Dorothy Dodd" shoe is made only for women and it is constructed on scientific principles. It is neat and lasting, attractive in appearance and hygienic. More "Dorothy Dodd" shoes are sold annually than any other woman's special made of footwear. They are handled in this city only by M. C. VanArsdale.

An exceptional opportunity is offered by N. K. Barnes, of 245 West Front street, to persons looking for good groceries at a low figure. This is a great closing out sale and all goods must be sold by April 1. A look at the advertisement in The Daily Press will give you an idea of the baragins offered.

called twice and even then the audience seemed to want more. A slack wire walking act was contributed by Michael Burke, who needs no introduction to local audiences. He went through all his usual feats and added several new ones that were astounding. George Carroll, of Elizabeth, sang several ballads in a creditable way. Fred Moore, of the same city, picked a mandolin in masterly fashion.

The concluding number of the olio was a travesty on the famous "Florodora" double sextette entitled "Has Your Mother Any More At Home Like You" in which an octette of men and "women" danced and sang. It was one of the evening's hits. Those who appeared in this number were Robert M. Clark, A. I. Littell, Horace J. Martin, Jr., and Fred J. Pope, men, and Joseph C. Martin, Robert Goldsack, Alfred Trenchard and Clarence Bilyeu, "women." "America" rendered by the entire company with an original grouping effect brought the performance to a close.

While every member of the company rendered assistance in making the affair the success it was, special mention is due W. L. Holbert, an old time exponent of minstrelsy, for his work as instructor in connection with R. M. Clark, William E. MacClymont, who acted as musical coach and director of the orchestra and William Holmes, who taught the members the dancing steps. The members of the company who acted as ushers were Harold Whitney, Nathan Hort, Charles A. Peterson, George L. Apgar, Frank Stiglitz, Elias Giles and Arthur Phillips.

This evening the second performance will be given with one additional number in the olio while new songs and jokes will be substituted in the first part.

—Miss Giddis, of this city, has secured a position in the local telephone office as an operator.

A SHOWER OF RATS.

Thousands of the Rodents Borne by a Tornado Over a Town in Algeria.

The town of Bougie, in Algeria, was lately visited by a shower of rats.

For many years thousands of rats, in company with many hundreds of monkeys, inhabited the Couraya, a high mountain towering over Bougie. The great storm which swept them from the mountain arose early in the afternoon, and soon developed into a furious hurricane. A huge funnel-shaped cloud of dust and stones hurled itself over the mountain, destroying everything in its path. Oddly enough most of the monkeys managed to hold on to the pine trees, although the larger portion of them were killed; but literally thousands of rats were carried high into the air and strewn in vast numbers over the Grand Phare and the suburbs of Bougie.

The Kabyle tribes of the neighborhood, who are extremely superstitious, were terribly frightened and fled in all directions, spreading terror over the district. They believed that the rats were sent down from the skies to punish them, and that the end of the world had come. In the town the more intelligent Arabs were less superstitious and promptly set to work to kill those rats which were not already dead. But there were so many of them still alive and they found such convenient hiding places that the hunt is still going on.

The suprefect of Bougie went out into the country on his motor car to reassure the Kaybles, and finally succeeded in pacifying the chiefs so that the people returned to their homes.

REVEALS INCONSISTENCIES.

Absurdities in Dress Are Brought Out in Noticeable Way by the Camera.

"If women would but remember," remarked the photographic artist, "that the gown when composed of more than one material should look like one garment worn over the other, they would save themselves from some grievous artistic errors in dress. Take the case of the double sleeve now so popular. The idea is that of a comparatively heavy outer sleeve, cut away to show the lighter and generally prettier arm covering, and a woman with any artistic feeling always preserves that effect, even though she may not act on any definite principle.

"But artistic feeling is a rare thing; therefore, the double sleeve is the occasion of many artistic atrocities. One actually sees such sleeves cut in two at the elbow in order that the puff of silk may be inserted, thus leaving the lower half without any apparent connection with the shoulder, and nothing to prevent it, so far as the eye can see, from sliding off the arm. The sleeve may with perfect propriety be slashed at the elbow to show a silk lining, but to cut it in two for the purpose of inserting another material is merely making patchwork of it. Another custom is to put the material with which the sleeve terminates over, instead of under, the predominating material, thus destroying the idea of an undersleeve entirely, and leaving the construction without any show of reason for its existence.

QUEER USE FOR HUMAN SKIN.

Mummies Ground by Machinery and Converted Into Paint for Artists' Colors.

Not many persons are aware of the fact that the best brown paint used by artists is made from human bodies. The bones and skin, which are ground up by artists' colormen and sold in tiny tubes, are those of mummies taken out of the Egyptian mausoleums.

When a person died in Egypt a century or two B. C. he was preserved in the finest bitumen. The remains of a body treated thus in those times on being unwrapped to-day present an appearance similar to light-colored leather. The bitumen and the leather-like remains are ground down by machinery, and turned into a beautiful brown liquid paint which is the delight of all artists.

In the manufacture of artists' colors, animal, vegetable and mineral substances are largely used, states the Detroit News-Tribune. Crimson and purple lakes and carmine are all obtained from the cochineal insect. Sepia is the dark fluid discharged by the cuttlefish to render the water opaque for its own concealment when attacked by a larger fish. Prussian blue is made by fusing the hoofs of horses with impure potassium carbonate, and ultramarine is obtained from the precious mineral known as lapis lazuli.

Buddhist Center of America.

It is stated that San Diego, in southern California, is fast becoming the Buddhistic center of America. In one house there has been erected a shrine to Buddha, and the owner, a woman of means, has brought a Buddhist priest from India, who gathers a large congregation together every week.

Bed Worth a Fortune.

Countess Anna de Castellane, once Anna Gould, sleeps in the great bed of Mme. de Sevigne, than which there is no finer in all the world. It is made of gilded cedar wood inlaid with precious stones, and has painted panels by the greatest masters of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 25—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—An evening with Chinese missions.—Acts xvii, 24-31.

One special feature of the Christian Endeavor topics for 1903 is the prominence given to missions. The last topic of each month is devoted to this subject, and in most cases definite mission fields are selected for study, such as China, Africa, South America, India and Japan. Such a course of missionary studies should arouse great interest and, properly conducted, cannot but greatly increase our missionary interest, information and zeal.

To what extent this will be done depends entirely upon the intelligent direction given to this work. Glittering generalities may be indulged in on the general subject of missions, but not so on Chinese missions. Information will be needed, which can be obtained only by consecrated effort. Every missionary committee should obtain or prepare a special programme for each of these evenings with missions and, cost what labor or sacrifice it may, should see that they are made a success.

In an evening with Chinese missions the following phases of the subject should be covered by papers or addresses or by one treating the entire subject:

1. The Chinese. Mission study among any people should begin with a study of the people. And what an interesting subject of study the Chinese are! The area inhabited by them embraces a million and a half square miles. The population of the empire is not less than 350,000,000. The Chinese occupy one-tenth of the habitable globe and form one-fourth of its population. Their history runs back for forty centuries, the most of which time they have been practically isolated from the rest of the world. Their recent history is well known and most interesting.

2. Chinese religions. China has three religions: (1) Confucianism, which is more a philosophy than a religion, dealing principally with the duties toward the state and in the home; (2) Taoism, and the author of Taoism was Lao Tse, who lived at the same time as Confucius, and it is an abstruse system full of superstitions and of idolatry; (3) Buddhism, which was imported and claims many of the Chinese among its devotees.

3. The effects of Chinese religions. In these we see their weakness. Morally, socially and politically the Chinese are an inferior people. The most revolting vices are practiced, immorality is widespread, woman is degraded, and the masses of the people are hopeless for time and for eternity.

4. Chinese missions. The Nestorians first introduced the gospel into China. The Protestant missionary movement covers three periods—first, 1807 to 1842; second, 1842 to 1860; third, 1860 to the present time. While there have been many discouraging features in Chinese missions in recent years, yet there is great hope for the future. The greatest obstacle is their intense hatred of foreigners, which caused the Boxer rebellion and the martyrdom of missionaries. But it is fervently expected that here again "the blood of martyrs will become the seed of the church" and that present adversity will aid to ultimate success.

5. Denominational Chinese missions. In addition to surveying the mission field in general, each society should pay special attention to the work of its own denomination in this great oriental empire.

With these millions in China calling to us by their need for the gospel, how can we be indifferent to foreign missions? If one soul is worth more than all the world, what about the 350,000,000 souls of China? Is there nothing we can give or do to make it possible for them to hear and to be saved?

Workers With Christ.

We are workers together with Christ. What an honor! The Christian's mission is to teach lost men the way of life, introduce them into the church of God by the rite of baptism and then build up the church on her most holy faith. The sweetest privilege God gives to man is that of uniting with the Lord Jesus in bringing a lost world back to God.—Rev. J. Foster Wilcox, Vice President New York State Union.

Preaching Tour Around the World.

Rev. E. S. Ufford, the author of the famous song "Throw Out the Life Line," is making a preaching tour around the world. When he left his home in Holyoke, Mass., on this long journey, the Christian Endeavor union of the city gave him a silk banner with a daintily wrought C. E. monogram on it. He displays this on the front of his organ in all the services which he conducts.

In the Home of the Tenth Legion.

Fifty-two out of fifty-five members of the Christian Endeavor society in the church of which Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle Smith is pastor are pledged givers of one-tenth of their income to benevolent work. This society is the home of "the Tenth Legion."

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 25, "Christian Stewardship." Text, Matt. vi, 19-34; Acts xx, 35; II Cor. ix, 7; I John iii, 17-18.

The Christian doctrine of property, and the rights of men in property, is:

First.—God is maker and ruler and owner of all things and all men.

Second.—Every man is obligated to acquire and use property for his own needs and those of his fellow men.

Third.—For this acquisition and use of goods and things he is responsible to God and shall eventually give account.

On these three principles rests the whole framework of human industry and government. It is a view of matters different from that held by any other religion the world has ever known. It necessitates a different adjustment of the relations of men in society from what is possible under any other system. It must revolutionize human customs and establish a new order. If God owns and man occupies the world as tenant or steward and must work for and account to Him for all he gets and uses, we have an entirely different conception of things from the view which has prevailed outside Christianity. Whatever a man's ability, opportunity and desires, he must ever have regard for the rights, needs and wishes of his fellow men. It is evident that the Christian view does not entirely control matters in any Christian land as yet. But great advance has been made in the world since Christ came. Changes come slowly, and it is well that they do. Men must gradually see more clearly and grow into the new conditions.

This stewardship of wealth reaches every person in the community. It requires that all shall labor in some manner. Each should labor according to the full measure of his ability. No amount of wealth inherited or acquired can excuse a man from doing his share for other men as well as himself. Neither millionaire nor tramp has a right to shirk.

Great emphasis is laid at the present time on the desirability of Christians giving one-tenth of their income to benevolence. This is good as far as it goes, but should in no manner be allowed to obscure the truth that all belongs to God and should be used in such manner as will best advance His cause among men.

Business should be done by all Christian men, not for their own private gain merely or principally. Regard for the needs of other men must ever be kept in view and the will of God in general and particular. Herein lies the key to all future adjustment of capital and labor.

Christian stewardship means more than the contribution box by far. It means doing business for the glory of God and benefit of men.

Nuggets.

Sinners are first driven, then drawn, to God.

The conversion of a sinner is a greater wonder than the creation of the world.

Do not think to begin to live when thou art ready to die.

The worst of the ways of God are better than the best of the ways of sin.

If sin be in the fashion, we must be out of it.

We must be sick of sin before we can be dead to sin.

There is no sin a man can be tempted to but he will find greater comfort in resisting than in indulging.

If we be not humble for sin, we derogate from the majesty of God; if we despair under it, we derogate from His mercy.

We should fear to think that before God which we are afraid to do before man, for God knows our hearts better than any man knows our faces.—Rev. John Mason.

Disloyal to the Master.

When a Christian is at peace with any sin in his own life, when he is reconciled to any evil habit or becomes indifferent to anything in his own character which renders him unlike Christ, he is disloyal to his Master. In like manner when a citizen of the kingdom of God is at peace with any sin of society, becomes reconciled to any evil habits of the community or indifferent to anything inconsistent with the full coming of God's kingdom on the earth, he is disloyal to the kingdom.—Josiah Strong, D. D.

More Blessed.

It is infinitely more blessed to be pierced with the arrows of conviction than to be wounded with the fiery darts of Satan, because the wounds of the former are healing, but the wounds of the latter are poisonous to the soul.—American Friend.

Armed For the Fray.

Every man who has on the whole armor of God will be sure to have war with the devil.—Christian Instructor.

Faith's Prayer.

Lead me, dear Lord, by Thine own hand
Where'er the path may go;
It may be fair or desert land,
I do not need to know.
I only need to trust Thy care,
To know Thy love is sure,
To let Thee all my burdens bear
And in Thy strength endure.

Teach me, dear Lord, in Thine own way
Whate'er I ought to be;
The lessons may be hard to say,
The path too dark to see,
But, holding fast Thy pierced hand,
I cannot go amiss;
Until I reach the unseen land
By faith I'll walk in this.

Guide me, dear Lord, by Thine own eye
In every step I take;
So shall I feel Thee always nigh
And live for Thy dear sake,
And, looking up to Thee, my Guide,
Through darkness or through light,
May I in trustful faith abide
Till faith is lost in sight.
—Christian Work.

What the New Woman Is Doing

"YOU can be sure the people in that boarding house are all from a country village," said Miss Wantrell, the city woman. "They don't talk anything but personalities, and they make fun of one another constantly behind backs. It makes me think of Flipton, where I used to teach school. There were women in that town who knew every movement of their acquaintances and twisted the most innocent acts into something to be criticised or ridiculed. They watched the postoffice to see how often people got letters. They peeked out behind their closed blinds to study their neighbors' clotheslines. If patched garments were displayed, these gossips did everything but publish the fact in the village newspaper. If a man, married or single, called at a house of an evening, the town knew of it next day, and motives were imputed to the man which he in his wildest moments could hardly have dreamed of."

"But are country people worse gossips than city folk?" I asked.

"Indeed they are. In the city there is always somewhere to go and some excitement to occupy the thought. The city woman who undertook to keep track of her next door neighbors would be driven into nervous prostration."

Now, is what Miss Wantrell said true? Is the air of country villages full of poisonous gossip, the microbes from which ferment in the souls of the women who live there and wither up and kill all sisterly tolerance, all noble, broadening growth and aspiration? Flatly, I do not believe it.

Of old humility was considered the virtue of women and slaves.

No new woman is ever found in an old woman's home.

If men, law and custom do not stop discriminating against and persecuting the feminine sex for being wives and mothers, the feminine sex will in time cease to be either. Men may as well know now that this is the ultimate of that financial independence for women which is coming as fast as time can bring it. Normal woman naturally likes man, but now that she is able to earn her own living it will have to be a tolerably fine man who can woo and win her. She more and more looks at the man himself, not at the "support." Let the man take notice accordingly.

Isn't it about time some women learned to mind their own business?

Do not glory in weakness and cowardice. Glory in courage and strength.

That noble organization, the National Council of Jewish Women, has now more than 7,000 members. Its president, Mrs. Hannah G. Solomon, favors an international gathering of Hebrew women at the St. Louis exposition.

Pathetic is the story that a granddaughter of Patrick Henry, Mrs. Virginia Henry Beasley, aged, penniless and friendless, is now waiting to die in a charity home at Ithaca, N. Y. She is eighty-seven years old, but apparently as able to earn her own living as she was at twenty, for she says: "My father was a son of Patrick Henry. He owned a great plantation on which there were 1,000 slaves. The war wrecked my father's fortune." Mrs. Beasley was brought up in the old helpless, useless way to do nothing. That was her greatest misfortune. The southern woman of the new school is bravely earning her living.

A to do is made over the fact that there is now living in Kentucky a woman eighty-two years old whose grandmother-in-law once refused to marry George Washington. Well, what of it?

Two ablebodied widows, mother and daughter, advertise in a Long Island paper for husbands, one apiece, to take care of them. Those two ablebodied widows will find themselves much better off if they hustle and take care of themselves. Men in these days are not marrying women to take care of them.

The writer of a letter printed in the Philadelphia North American says she is a widow, eighty-seven years old, that she reads without glasses and does her own housework. That is the right sort of widow. Let us have more of them.

Women's clubs, especially woman suffrage clubs, should have each Feb. 12 an impressive celebration of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, the man who believed in giving the ballot to all, "by no means excluding females."

It is said that Mrs. Armour of Sierra county, N. M., is increasing her wealth at the rate of $25,000 a year through the breeding of Angora goats. She has a herd of nearly 30,000 of these goats. One of them, Columbia Paschal, is valued at $1,500. Four years ago Mrs. Armour found herself a widow with nothing but nine little children that were not exactly assets for purposes commercial. She had no money, but took a few goats on shares to rear and tend. She located a claim in a spot where there was pasture for them all the year, built a cabin and worked and waited. Her eldest son is now in college.

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

For half an hour Sidney held his course straight out to sea. Then he headed to the north. The big lateen sails were pulling splendidly, and though the craft responded slowly to the tiller, there was no trouble in holding her to the course. They now had a clear view of the coast.

"Where is the gateway?" asked Mr. Carmody, who had been looking intently along the shore for some time. "I cannot see it."

"I can see it," replied Sidney, "but I would never suspect it was an inlet unless I knew it to be a fact. From any point at sea the rocks look solid and continuous. The gateway is just south of our flagstaff. Do you see it now?"

It was as Sidney said. The coast was so formed that no inlet showed. Half a mile from shore there was nothing to distinguish the entrance to the bay from a score of ragged indentations in the black cliffs. As they proceeded they came to the ridge of rocks which formed the north horn of the crescent. This they imagined to mark the north boundary of the island, but as they neared it they found it was but the south end of a bay which seemed to be 12 or 15 miles across.

"This is a pretty good-sized island, Hammond," remarked Mr. Kent, as this new panorama spread out before their view.

There was a puzzled expression on Sidney's face. As Mr. Kent spoke, the massive outlines of the snow-white peak, which had been seen from the island, slowly came into view above the hills along the coast. The land now opposite them was low and fairly flat. The big rock on their port side was seen to be the end of a spur of small mountains which came down to the ocean.

"I do not understand it," said Sidney. "There is no such island as this on any of our maps? Where can we be? This island is at least 40 miles long and perhaps longer. That must be the northern end of it."

Sidney pointed to the cape perhaps 15 miles away. It was now two o'clock in the afternoon, and Mr. Rockwell and Vincent announced that dinner was ready. They stretched an awning over the afterdeck and set a table beneath it. Sidney lashed the tiller in position and all proceeded to enjoy the repast. A haze was stealing over the ocean and the wind dying out. For a time "The Jumping Jupiter" had been making four or five miles an hour, but the breeze, as it came heavy with perfume from the shore died down until it was barely strong enough to straighten out the striped sails.

"Well, Capt. Hammond, what do you think of it?" asked Mr. Morton as he lit a cigar and leaned back in his chair.

"There is but one thing to do," said Sidney. "We must keep on this course until we round that cape. At this rate it will be dark before we make it. We will stand well out to sea, so as to have plenty of leeway in case of an east or northeast wind."

The big mountain peak was now almost exactly to the west of them.

"If that is old Popocatepetl, as I think it is," said Sidney, pointing at the huge purple mass, "Vera Cruz is only a little northwest of here. When it gets dark I will hold her north, and take no chances of running ashore on this island."

As the afternoon wore away, the haze settled and slowly blotted out the shore line. They crawled along at hardly two knots an hour. It was exasperating progress, but there was no help for it. In the evening the haze lifted and showed the cape still in the northwest. This proved that the tide was pulling against them. The wind died away to a breath, and the sun sank, a huge red ball of fire in a bank of orange clouds. At ten o'clock the wind swung into the southeast and freshened, but the haze yet hung over the sea, and Sidney held his course to the north.

All but Sidney and Mr. Kent retired to the bunks and slept soundly as if on an ocean liner. Save for the bank of fog, it was a perfect night on the water. The raft swayed gently to the deep breathing of the sea, and the masts groaned in musical cadence to the rippling of the water. At midnight Mr Kent took the tiller, and Sidney stretched himself on a steamer chair and enjoyed two hours of untroubled slumber. He awoke and relieved Mr. Kent, who then took his nap.

Twice during the night Sidney turned the boat to the west, and held that course until the hollow thunder of the surf warned him to stand out. At about three o'clock the breeze quickened, and a 20-mile breeze sprang up, coming straight from the west. This compelled him to cease any more landward experiments, and "The Jumping Jupiter" rolled along at a five-mile-an-hour rate.

"It is satisfaction to know that we are going somewhere," said Sidney to himself. "We must be past the cape by this time. If the fog lifts with this breeze, daylight will show where we are."

As he spoke there was a faint glow in the eastern sky. Mr. Kent awoke with a yawn.

"Where are we at?" he asked.

Sidney shook his head.

"We are headed north," he said.

CHAPTER XXIII.

THE RESCUE.

Representatives of the New York Record watched every European port for the arrival of Walter B. Hestor and the steam yacht "Shark." According to all calculations, the yacht was due at the Azores not later than May 12th, but no word came from these islands. Day succeeded day with no news of the famous millionaire correspondent.

In the meantime the detective staff of 40 picked newspaper men under Jack Stevens was indomitable in zeal but barren in results. Mr. Chalmers was steadily losing faith, but by no word or action did he disclose his loss of confidence to Miss Carmody. He prepared the leader for an article to be published in The Record on Wednesday, May 17th, in which was set forth the discoveries which had been made pointing to Hestor as the prime mover in the conspiracy. This was in keeping with his promise to Miss Carmody. In the meantime Editor Van Horne had sailed for New York, but was not due until the 22d or 23d of the month. In a cipher cablegram Chalmers had given his superior the essential facts concerning Hestor. The reply of Robert Van Horne was prompt and decisive in instructing Chalmers to make public the facts. The inference was plain that Mr. Van Horne had no hesitancy in sharing his managing editor's suspicions. Mr. Chalmers therefore prepared a four-page article, and awaited for the day fixed for the disclosure.

Miss Carmody ordered the steam yacht bearing her name put in commission, and her captain announced that he was ready to weigh anchor on an hour's notice.

At three o'clock Tuesday afternoon a cablegram was handed to Mr. Chalmers. It was in the cipher which had been given to the reporters working on the mystery. Translated it read as follows:

"Havana, Cuba, Tuesday, May 16. To William Chalmers, New York Record: Have solved mystery. Col. John McIntyre, of Havana, built Hestor bungalow year ago. Hestor designed it. Located nine hundred miles southwest of Havana. McIntyre will act as guide. McIntyre is in Havana with me. I saw the 'Shark' Sunday in Gulf. Wire instructions to Hotel Pasaje. Also wire $500. Claim special reward of $50,000.

"BERNARD SEYMOUR,
"Envoy Extraordinary."

Chalmers dashed into Jack Stevens' room with the cablegram.

"Can we rely on that?" asked Mr. Chalmers. "Seymour was deceived once. He may be wrong again. What do you think?"

"I think he has found our man!" said Stevens without a moment's hesitation. "That cable sounds like business. It explains Seymour's silence. He is the luckiest reporter in the country. I would stake my life he is right."

"We will take the chance," said Chalmers. "Do not say a word. We will leave for Havana to-night. Be ready to start at seven o'clock. You will go by rail."

CAN'T KEEP IT UP.

Can't Deceive Plainfield People Very Long—They Learn Quickly.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. We are naturally skeptical when, reading a published statement given by some stranger residing in a far-away place, but the circumstances are entirely different when home endorsement is presented. The testimony of local citizens renders deceit impossible. It is so easy for you to investigate. Read this case:

Mrs. Henry Bender, of 118 West Front street, says: "I suffered almost constantly from a dull aching pain across my back and hips. Any hard work always increased it. I was also subject to severe headaches and dizziness when stooping, and though I tried different plasters and home remedies I could not get relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles as mine, got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, used them according to directions and obtained a great deal of relief from them. In my estimation and from my experience Doan's Kidney Pills are a good reliable kidney medicine."

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

MILITIA BILL SIGNED.

Considerable Ceremony Attached to President's Act.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—President Roosevelt has signed the militia bill recently passed by congress. The final act in the making of the new law was attended by a pretty ceremony. Gathered around the table as the president appended his signature to the measure were Secretary Root, Secretary Shaw, Assistant Secretary Sanger, Representatives Dick, Parker, Stark, Wiley, Conry, Gaines and Bristow, all of the house committee on military affairs; W. E. Marsh, secretary of the committee; General H. M. Byers, adjutant general of Iowa; General Bird Spencer, adjutant general of New Jersey, and Colonel E. J. Dimmick, secretary of the National Guard association.

After the president had signed the bill Secretary Root delivered a brief speech of congratulation to the committee on the enactment of so excellent a measure. General Dick, the author of the bill and the president of the National Guard association, made a fitting response.

President Roosevelt then spoke of the merits of the bill. He expressed the hope that no president ever would be confronted by such an emergency as would render it necessary for him to avail himself of the services of the troops provided for in the bill, but congratulated the committee and the country on its enactment and said he regarded the citizen soldiery of the nation as a most important factor in the protection of the country. The president gave the pen with which he had signed the measure to Colonel Dimmick.

WILCOX GETS THIRTY YEARS.

Verdict In Second Trial For Murder of Cropsey Girl Same as the First.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 22.—After being out twenty hours the jury at Hertford, N. C., in the case of James Wilcox, charged with the murder of Miss Ella Cropsey at Elizabeth City, returned a verdict of murder in the second degree, and the defendant was sentenced to the penitentiary for thirty years, the full limit of the law. Wilcox's attorneys gave notice that an appeal will be taken to the supreme court. The prisoner will be returned to jail at Elizabeth City, where his alleged crime was committed, to await the orders of the court.

The crime of which James E. Wilcox was found guilty is alleged to have been committed at Elizabeth City on Dec. 20, 1901. He had called at the home of Ella Cropsey, and when leaving at 11 o'clock at night he called the girl out into the hall. This was the last seen of her alive. Her body was found in the river 300 yards from her home thirty-seven days later. A bruise was found on her head. The state asserted that this was due to the fact that she had been hit with a blunt instrument and then thrown into the stream.

Wilcox was convicted of murder in the second degree at the first hearing last March in Elizabeth City, but on account of a demonstration in the court during the trial a new trial was granted and the case moved to an adjoining county. The jury which tried the case the second time was composed of eleven white men and one negro. Five of the former are Quakers.

Railroad Sold.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 22.—The Brockville, Westport and Sault Ste. Marie railroad has been sold at auction at Brockville under a first mortgage foreclosure of $1,250,000, the Knickerbocker Trust company of New York being the plaintiff, and was bid in by Charles H. Holm of New York, representing a New York syndicate capitalized at $2,000,000. The road is forty-five miles long, standard gauge, was built in 1892 and has since that time been operated as the Brockville and Westport railroad. The new owners will extend the road to Sault Ste. Marie and operate it.

THE COLORADO FIGHT.

No Progress Made Toward Electing a Senator—Rivals Cannot Agree.

DENVER, Jan. 22.—A joint session of the two branches of the general assembly for the election of a United States senator was held yesterday, but only Democratic members participated, and there was no election. After concurring in adjournment of the house until 2 o'clock Friday the Democratic representatives proceeded to the senate chamber, where the joint session was called to order by Senator Adams, president pro tem. of the senate. There were present twenty-six senators and twenty-five representatives, a total of fifty-one, which is the number required to elect a senator.

Three Republican senators were in the chamber during the session, but withdrew before a ballot was taken. Senator McGuire, a Democrat, also retired after the joint session had refused to excuse him from voting, leaving only fifty members present. Several members objected to the proceedings on the ground that the joint session was irregular, and five Democrats besides McGuire refused to vote for senator. On the joint ballot 45 votes were cast, all being for Henry M. Teller. The joint session then adjourned for the day.

The Republican leaders say that any action of the joint session is illegal and invalid, as the house had adjourned. They agreed to an adjournment of the house until Friday in order to give the two senators a chance to make peace, and they did not anticipate the plan of the Democrats to hold a joint session.

The Republican senators held an executive session. Lieutenant Governor Haggott presiding, and at the conclusion the members said there was "nothing to give out." All efforts to bring the two senates together have proved unavailing.

LYNN'S LABOR TROUBLES.

Manufacturers Say They Will Employ Only Members of the Union.

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 22.—Little trouble was experienced last night when the Boot and Shoe Workers' union cutters left their work and were taken under police escort to their headquarters in Lasters' hall. This fact is believed to be due to the determined stand taken by the authorities and not to any change in the attitude toward the strike breakers on the part of the crowds that filled the streets. Only one arrest was made, and he after being seized by City Marshal Burckes attempted, it is said, to assault that official.

In the afternoon before the police details had been sent out on the streets the men were addressed by Mayor Eastham and City Marshal Burckes. The mayor told them they were to use every effort to prevent a repetition of Tuesday night's disorderly scenes. They were told to carry their clubs, and, while they were to use great discretion, they must not be afraid to wield them if it was found necessary to do so.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union placed fifty more cutters at work this morning.

The Manufacturers' association of Lynn has adopted a resolution containing this paragraph:

"It is our belief that the question at issue is not generally understood. We have an agreement with the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, and we are bound to live up to the terms of our agreement and will not under any consideration bind ourselves to any other contract. We have therefore decided that we will employ only members of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union."

PHILIPPINE COINAGE.

House Debates the Bill—Quay Holds Up the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The house spent yesterday in debate on the Philippine coinage bill. The minority offered a substitute providing for the introduction of the American currency system into the islands, and it received powerful support from Mr. Hill (Rep., Conn.), who declared on the floor that the proposition for the extension of the American system had the support of Secretary Shaw and other high officials of the treasury department.

For three hours Mr. Burnham (N. H.) addressed the senate in opposition to the omnibus statehood bill. Becoming fatigued, he suspended his remarks for the day. Mr. Cullom explained the necessity for considering the Cuban reciprocity treaty and appealed to Mr. Quay to permit an executive session

PARK BOWLERS BROKE RECORD

They Captured Three Straight From Cranford Casino in Whirl-Wind Style.

SOME GREAT SCORES

Park Club Rolled 881, 840 and 910, Establishing a New Record for High Score in the League—Cranford Bowled Well, Never Below 800—The Scores.

THE DAILY PRESS BOWLING LEAGUE.

	Won.	Lost.	Ave.
Westfield Club..	6	3	.667
Roselle Casino..	4	2	.667
Park Club.....	5	7	.416
Cranford Casino	3	6	.333

Not since the Daily Press Bowling League was organized has any team made such a whirlwind showing as did the five of the Park Club in its series with the Cranford Casino on the latter's alleys last evening. Roselle's achievements in the past faded into insignificance beside the games that the Parks rolled. They won all three of the games despite the Cranford bowlers were at their best and rolled high scores. But there wasn't anybody who could have beaten the Parks last night. In their first and last games, the Parks broke their record for highest score rolled in the league made last week. In the first game they rolled 881 and in the second 910.

When Cranford came here earlier in the season it took two out of three from the Parks and the hearts of the latter were nigh broken. It was with the intention of doing something that Captain William R. Faber gathered together the pick of his bowlers and went down to Cranford. Cranford can roll a good game on its own alleys but the game that the Parks put up simply took the breath away from the home team. It was magnificient. Finding themselves in such fast company, the Cranford bowlers put up a good game but they finished forty-one pins behind. The veteran, Dr. C. R. Thiers, rolled high score for the evening, 224.

Neither team was quite so good in the second game but it was still a hot pace, both sides going above 800. The Parks had the better of it from start to finish and won out 840 to 805.

But it was the last game that fairly dazed the Cranfordites and knocked out all existing records for both alleys and league. The Parks rolled as if they had been born and brought up there while the pins fell with much joyousness for every one except Catpain Faber. He had a series of "splits" that would have discouraged anybody but the Parks. They ran away from Cranford soon after the start and would have given the 1,000 mark an awful rub but for the hard luck that fell to the share of their captain. The windup was as strong as the game and showed the Parks 94 pins to the good. Three of the Park Club five rolled over 200 in that game.

The individual scores:

Plainfielders Were Present.

The third in the series of teas being given on Thursdays during January by Mrs. Charles J. Fisk and Mrs. Lee Ashley Grace at their New York homes, were given yesterday afternoon, and like the other affairs they were well attended by a number of society folks from New York and this city. Many friends in Plainfield have been remembered with invitations to these teas and they have proved to be delightful social gatherings.

Cutting Ice.

A record in ice cutting was made one day last week at Watchung by the Natural Ice Company. On the day in question, in four and one-half hours, 1,030 tons of ice were cut and put in the ice houses. This represented 8,240 cakes weighing 250 pounds each. The ice is all of the best quality and is very clear and smooth.

TO LIGHT STATION PARK.

Laying Pipes to Carry Electric Wires to Light Park.

Workmen in the employ of the New Jersey Central commenced work, this morning, laying pipes from the station on the south side of the tracks to East Fourth street which will be used to carry electric wires. Before spring the grounds will be placed in readiness for lights in every part of the little park. Special attention is to be paid to the driveways which will be fully protected from accidents at night.

NEARLY STRANGLED.

Trolley Rope Caught Man Around Neck as He Stood on the Back Platform of the Car.

Samuel D. Haselton, of South street, Elizabeth, was severely cut by a trolley rope while standing on the rear platform of an Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railroad trolley car which was going from this city to Elizabeth yesterday morning.

While the car was speeding between this city and Westfield the trolley pole slipped off the wire and as he had been handling the rope, it slid over his chest and around his neck. The strength of the spring on the pole pulled the rope taut. The conductor rushed to his assistance at once. The rope cut a deep gash across his neck from which the blood flowed profusely. He bound his handkerchief about the wound and went to his home when he arrived in Elizabeth.

STATE DIPLOMAS.

Pupils in Borough High School Will Have to Take Four Years Course to Get Them.

Up to the present time pupils in the North Plainfield High School have been given State High School diplomas after completing only three years' courses in English and commercial studies. Recently the State Board of Education has decided that in these courses it will be necessary for the pupils to successfully finish four years of study in order that a State diploma can be secured which will entitle them to save one year at the State Normal School at Trenton.

The four year course of advanced English has been arranged for those pupils who desire State diplomas. Those who only desire the High School certificates may receive them without taking the additional course. This led to the rumor that there would be no graduating class from the Borough High School this year which has been shown to be without any foundation.

TOO MUCH FOR JOHN.

He Fell Into Temptation and Went to Jail This Morning.

Friends and drinks for friendship's sake proved the undoing of John Morecraft, yesterday afternoon. He met the former early in the afternoon and they induced him to take the latter. The result was the complete overpowering of John and when he left a trolley car at Jefferson avenue he was unable to make any progress. Patrolman McGinley found him there last night and took him to police headquarters. This morning he was sent to jail by Mayor Jenkins for twenty days.

In Justice Huff's Court.

In Justice Huff's court the contract case of Hirst & Henderson against Marsh has been adjourned for one week, and the contract cases of the C. C. Folding Mattress Company against Rosell, Bennett, Sloan & Company against G. W. Scribner, VanHorn against Boland are returnable January 30. The case of Zimmerman against Grander, in tort, is returnable January 30.

An Enjoyable One.

Like previous affairs the annual turkey supper, under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, will this year be an enjoyable one. It will be given in the lecture room of the church, Thursday and Friday evenings, January 29 and 30. Supper will be served from 6 to 9 o'clock.

To Protect Store Front.

A temporary awning has been erected in front of the new store of Woodhull & Martin on East Front street to shield the new mason work, which forms the front of the first floor, from the storms and falling bricks and mortar from the floors above.

Talked Too Much 'Tis Said.

Lewis Ely, a tinner, has preferred charges against a fellow workman whose name is withheld for spreading abroad stories which are damaging to his character. The trial will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Justice Mattison's court on Somerset street

SOME NEW APPLICANTS WHO WANT LICENSES

Council Believes That the Present Number of Saloons Should Not be Increased.

BUT MAY BE CHANGES

HINTED THAT GALBRAITH MAY NOT GET LICENSE AGAIN.

Chance of Another Applicant From That Neighborhood — Others Talked Of for Both the West and East Ends.

When the Common Council meets at the regular February session the various applications for liquor licenses will be presented and final action will be taken at the March meeting. It is not generally believed that there will be any increase in the present number, unless there should be a new application for a saloon on West Third street, near the one now conducted by Mr. Galbraith. It has been hinted in certain quarters that a new application is likely to come from that section of the city and that it is now an open question as to whether Mr. Galbraith will secure a renewal of his license.

Then there is some talk of a licensed place in the West End of the city in the vicinity of Clinton avenue. It is said, by its advocates, that in view of the many new industries in that section there is a demand for such a place, where the workingman can refresh himself without coming all the way to the heart of the city. This matter is not definitely settled, however, and it is possible that no application will be made from that section.

There was some intimation that a new application would be received for a place in the East End of the city in the vicinity of the Scott Press Works, but that the applicant was discouraged on the ground that he would fail to secure a license. The policy of the Council is to keep the number of licenses down to the present limit and to keep the saloons as near together as possible. Heretofore, the city has had little trouble from saloons and this is no doubt due to the fact that they are located where the police can keep their eye on them.

TO LAST RESTING PLACE.

Funeral of Ethan Lanphear Held in This City Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral services of Ethan Lanphear were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late residenc, corner of Central avenue and West Fifth street, where a large number of friends gathered to honor the memory of one who had lived among them for many years.

The services were in charge of Rev. Dr. L. E. Livermore, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at New Market, assisted by Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, this city. The service was a short and simple one for the reason that later in the afternoon the remains were taken to Nile, N. Y., where this afternoon at 2 o'clock another service was held. The interment will be at Nile.

Dr. Livermore accompanied the remains and he conducted the services this afternoon.

New Choir.

After next Sunday a mixed quartette will sing at the First Presbyterian church, where up to the present time there has been a male quartette. The new quartette will be composed of Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; Mrs. Stephen H. Tugwell, alto; Sydney R. Titsworth, bass, and Elmer Cutting, tenor.

All May See.

The second of Miss Cady's piano recitals will take place at the home of Mrs. R. P. Lincoln, of West Eigth street, tomorrow afternoon. In order that all might see the pianist to better advantage, a temporary platform has been placed in the music room, elevating the instrument to a considerable height.

Married in New York.

Thomas Arthur Stine, of North Plainfield, and Miss Consuello Frost Beattie, of New York, were married Wednesday evening at the Church of the Holy Faith, New York. After an extended wedding trip the couple will take up their residence in New York.

SCAFFOLD FELL; MAN INJURED

Harry Johns Badly Hurt at Bound Brook—He Can't Give No Details.

IS STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Says That Two Other Men Were Badly Hurt, But No Details Can be Learned—Johns Came Home to Borough and Then Fell Into An Unconscious State.

As a result of the collapse of a scaffold on a house near Bound Brook, Monday, Harry Johns lies at his house at 96 Jackson avenue in a dazed condition with large cuts and bruises about his head and the skin on his shoulder and many of the muscles torn away. In his ravings he says that two men fell with him and that one fell on a picket and was transfixed through the abdomen. The third was removed to his home in Somerville badly injured.

The accident occurred Monday. Johns, who is a house mover, went to Bound Brook to figure on a job. While there some men were engaged in hauling some lumber onto the roof by means of a scaffold recently erected. Johns said when the men got up on the scaffold that it was unsafe but the contractor said it would hold five men and so the carpenters climbed upon it. They asked Johns to help them haul up some lumber when the planking gave way and the three men were hurled twenty-six feet to the frozen ground below.

As near as can be learned from the ravings of the injured man, all three were rendered unconscious. They were attended to by neighbors and each was then sent home.

Johns said he could get home alone but as soon as he arrived at his home on Jackson avenue he became unconscious and has been in that condition ever since, excepting for short periods when he has been out of his head and raved about the man who was impaled on a picket.

This morning when a Press reporter called at the house, Mrs. Johns said that Dr. Albert Pittis had just left and that her husband was still unconscious. She knew nothing about how he came to be injured excepting from the statements he makes when he is raving.

At the Somerville hospital nothing was known of the accident and no one had been received there suffering with any injuries from Bound Brook.

WILDWOOD SOLD.

J. D. Loizeaux Purchased Valuable Property at Sheriff's Sale.

The handsome Hart property at Metuchen, known as "Wildwood" was sold Wednesday under the sheriff's hammer.

The place was sold some time ago to satisfy a mechanic's lien and was bought by Joshua D. Loizeaux, of this city. He sold it to William J. R. Thiers, of this city, and Frederick C. Jennings, Mr. Loizeaux's partner, took a mortgage on the property.

Wednesday's sale was on a foreclosure of this mortgage by Mr. Jennings. The property was again knocked down to Mr. Loizeaux who paid $4,000 for it. The decree and costs amounted to $3,670.

SECOND "AT HOME."

Given by Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth and Her Daughter.

The second and last "at home" given by Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth at her home on West Eighth street, was held yesterday afternooon between 4 and 7 o'clock. The receiving party included Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth, Miss Mary Wadsworth, Mrs. J. F. Harman, Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Mrs. Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Miss Lou Symmes, of Hartford, Conn., Miss Helen Martin and Miss Marjorie Fleming. Those who presided at the tea table were Mrs. Fred G. Meade and Mrs. John Gray Foster.

The decoration were of pink and green which gave to the parlors and reception hall a very charming appearance.

Installed the Others.

District Deputy Jere VanWinkle visited Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., last night, and installed the following officers who were not included in the appointed ceremony: Prelate, Isaac Kennedy; master-at-arms, Victor Lorton; inside guard, Jas. Anderson.

MINISTREL SHOW EVEN BETTER SECOND NIGHT

Company K's Performance Went Through in Very Satisfactory Fashion.

THE NEW JOKES SPRUNG

ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE AT CASINO WAS WELL PLEASED.

March Written by W. E. MacClymont for the Occasion—Received An Ovation—There Was Also Fine Music and Singing.

With the advantage of one night's experience, Company K's minstrel show at the Casino last evening proved even more successful than the night before. The audience was enthusiastic, found the jokes of the end men very funny and thoroughly enjoyed the singing and music.

Some new jokes were cracked and End-man W. L. Holbert sprang one on the spur of the moment, which was appreciated more perhaps by the participants than the audience, when he told of how any man would look troubled if he had a 40-inch waist put into a pair of 36-inch trousers. Several of the topical songs had new stanzas added for the occasion.

Some of the friends of Captian W. B. Martin sent him a bouquet which was presented during his solo. The end men amused the crowd by accepting as a matter of course that it was intended for one of them.

Particularly pleasing was the work of the orchestra under the direction of William E. MacClymont. During the intermission between the first and second parts, the march "Off to the Front," written by Mr. MacClymont and dedicated to Company K, was played and received quite an ovation from the audience.

Of the songs given in the show the parody on "Mr. Dooley," which was sung by A. I. Littell, probably contained the most local hits and greatly amused the hearers. The following are the words for some of the best hits:

Who was the cop upon our force who's famous in the land,
Who is a foxy sharp old sleuth, plays ball to beat the band,
Who spoils the business of the folks who sell without a right
Cider, whiskey and other stuff that make some people tight?

CHORUS.

'Tis Maurice Higgins. 'tis Maurice Higgins, Higgins——O!
He's no imitation like Carrie Nation
Is Maurice Higgins——O.

Who is it sits upon a bench that looks so very high,
And looks down on offenders with his stern and eagle eye?
Says he "Now come your money pay or down to jail to go.
I'll hand you over to the chief, so now cough up your dough."

'Tis Billie Runyon, 'tis Billie Runyon, Runyon——O!
He is a wonder, he sings like thunder,
Does Billie Runyon——O.

Who is it owns a little place that's just across the brook,
Who's been in politics long enough to write a great big book,
Who turned the county upside down and made Lou Thompson swear,
Who's mayor, judge, recorder, cop and everything over there?

'Tis Newton Smalley, 'tis Newton Smalley, Smalley——O!
He made a great fuss when he tried to join us,
Did Newton Smalley——O.

There are two men who make you mad with their apparent lies,
They'll wake you up in the dead of night and question you thus wise—
"Now has your father had a fit or your mother gone away?
O, come, give us a personal, we are short of news today.

'Tis Tommie Muir, Tommie Muir,
From the Daily Press he weekly draws his pay,
The other mean sucker is Archie Hacquer,
Who on the Courier pages has his say.

This is a game I certainly like for no one can get back,
There's lots of people in the town I'd like to hit a whack,
There's genial Frank, who collects the tax, the editor of the News
The deacon of the Daily Press I think I could amuse.

But Mr. Dooley would get unruly,
For if this song I make too great a use,
A pen he'd borrow from Mr. Morrow
And roast me in the Newark Evening News.

Supper for Workingmen.

A delightful supper was served last evening at the Y. M. C. A. for the benefit of the workingmen of this city. There were fourteen present. Miss Pessinger, Miss May Howlett and Miss Deborah Winn assisted in serving the supper.

Ice Houses Filled.

Harvesting on Tier's lake was completed Wednesday night, and the houses belonging to John H. Tier are filled to their capacity. This is the earliest he has secured a sufficient quantity in many years.

WHO WAS IT?

County Authorities Are Trying to Discover Identity of the Victim.

Although the body was interred several days ago, the county authorities are making an effort to learn the identity of the man ground to pieces on the New Jersey Central at Netherwood, last week. A slight clue has been obtained which may lead to some result and officers are following it up. Several large pieces of the clothing have been held and these will be held for inspection if any relatives can be located.

BADLY SCALDED.

Mrs. Charles Post Upset a Boiler of Hot Water on Her Back Saturday Morning.

Mrs. Charles Post, of East Third street, was fearfully scalded on the back by hot water Saturday morning while at work about her culinary duties about the house. While still suffering considerable pain she is now rapidly recovering.

She was engaged in cleaning the kitchen when she lifted a large boiler full of water from the stove to a table near by. As she turned away the table leg broke and the boiler was hurled on her back. She was severely scalded, the skin being peeled from off the most of her back and from her arms. She was placed in bed where she was attended by a physician. It is feared she will be disfigured for life.

PLAYED GAMES.

That Was Feature of Social Given by Ladies' Aid Society of First Presbyterian Church.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the First Presbyterian church, the monthly social was held last evening in the chapel of the church. Games were the feature of the affair, ping-pong, bean-bag, crokinole, blind man's buff and several other games being provided for the entertainment of both young and old.

Turns were taken in playing some of the games. Cards were distributed and the guests played in the order of the number on these cards. A bell was sounded to start the games and another tap was used to bring them to a close. In this way everyone had an opportunity to play.

After an evening of games refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Charles Hazeltine, Mrs. William W. Dunn, Mrs. Russell Bond and Mrs. Harry Williams. This committee was assisted by Harry Williams, who took charge of the various games.

ANOTHER MINSTREL SHOW.

Orange Field Club is Planning to Give One in March.

A meeting of the Orange Field Club was held last evening in its new rooms in the Stillman building when it was decided to hold a minstrel show some time in March in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. Three New York professional minstrels have been engaged to coach the members and some professional talent will also be in the circle. John and James Galvin, who are well-known in this city as theatrical men, will assist in the programme.

Church Open Daily.

Following the custom of a number of New York churches, the Brick Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, is the pastor, has been open to the public daily between the hours of 9 a. m., and 5 p. m. A sign on the front of the building announces that all are welcome there for rest, meditation and prayer. This is the second Presbyterian church thus to open its doors to visitors and worshippers every day.

G. E. Marx Coming to Town.

George E. Marx, formerly of Plainfield, but now assistantant superintendent of the Berkshire Industrial Farm, Canaan Four Corners, N. Y., will be in Plainfield Monday and Tuesday of next week and anyone wishing to see him in regard to the Industrial Farm may make an appointment by sending a note to The Daily Press office.

Tells of Local Exhbit.

"Exhibit for Charity Workers" is the subject of an interesting article appearing in the New Jersey Review for January. It was written by Miss Emma L. Adams, librarian of the Public Library, and tells of the exhibit recently held there, when books treating of the subject of charity in all its various phases were exhibited.

To Study Lesson.

The teachers of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Nelson Runyon, of East Ninth street, for the study of the lesson. Rev. G. M. Shott, of Scotch Plains, will teach the lesson.

BANQUET FOR GRAND MASTER

Central Lodge Honored A Member Now State Head of the A. O. U. W.

HELD AT HOTEL ROSELL

Given in Honor of Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash Last Evening—Number of Distinguished Guests Were Present—Was An Enjoyable Affair.

On the occasion of the first official visit of Grand Master Workman Vincent W. Nash to Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, last evening, the members very appropriately gave their fellow townsmen and high officer a banquet at Hotel Rosell, after the meeting held in the lodge rooms. There were other dignataries present from various parts of the State and altogether the affair was complete in every detail.

At the meeting of the lodge prior to the banquet two candidates were initiated. District Deputy Grand Master Workman F. P. Fowle, of Irvington, presented Harvey R. Thorn and Joseph Kingston with emblematic watch charms for bringing in new members. This is in accordance with a plan inaugurated by Grand Master Workman Nash at the beginning of his term. After the meeting the members adjourned to the hotel, where everything was in readiness for them. There were eighty-three men who sat down to the tables to partake of the very excellent menu prepared by Proprietor A. B. Rosell.

As the hour was late when the dinner was started, and it was the desire of those present to hear from the officers, the speechmaking began before the dinner was concluded. Master Workman J. Alfred Wilson was the toastmaster. His witty remarks were enjoyed immensely as he introduced the various speakers, the first of which was Mayor Olin L. Jenkins, who is a member of the Workmen. His Honor gave a short talk. In an amusing way he told of the experience of some of the members as they came to him to be examined for membership, and he paid deserving tribute to Grand Master Workman Nash, telling how faithfully and earnestly he has labored for the interests of the Workmen.

Following the Mayor, Mr. Nash was introduced and received a hearty welcome from all. In a brief speech he recited the success of the Workmen in New Jersey during his term. He told of the slight loss by reason of the change to the classified plan and stated that he believed that the time had arrived when this order will go forward increasing in membership and prestige. He said that the suspended list is small, while since December thirty new members had been received. He spoke of the excellent financial condition of the lodge and said that he believed that no doubt his successor would reap a good harvest from earnest effort made this year.

Grand Outside Watchman F. P. Fowle, of Irvington, pictured with incidents the inception and growth of the Ancient Order of United Workmen and predicted for the organization, success that cannot be retarded.

The next speaker was Deputy Grand Master Workman Washington I. Tier, Rahway, who gave an enthusiastic short talk which had a tendency to stir the members to greater activity.

Past Chairman of the Finance Committee William Newcorn gave the members some excellent advice. He praised Mr. Nash for his efforts during a critical period and urged the members to put forth greater effort toward the success of the lodge. In conclusion other remarks were made by District Deputy Grand Master Workmen Flagg, of Upchurch Lodge, of Westfield, and J. W. A. Bauersachs, a member of the Grand Finance Committee.

Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, was organized December 26, 1888 and today it has a membership of 219. It is of the most energetic lodges in the State and has accomplished great good since its birth. The committee having charge of last evening's affair consisted of L. J. Spicer, Harvey R. Thorn and Theodore J. Mason.

—At Neuman Brothers tomorrow: Boston head lettuce, celery, green beans, cauliflower, brussel sprouts, radishes, cucumbers, romain lettuce, egg plant and fresh mushrooms.

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

J. H. McVey, of North avenue, has been visiting his brother at Elizabeth.

Miss Stella Apgar, of East Front street, has returned from a visit with her brother in Brooklyn.

Mrs. George F. Edwards, of Cranford, has been visiting Plainfield friends for a short time.

Charles M. Wilson, of West Sixth street, has about recovered from a severe attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. Milburn and daughter, Miss Helen Milburn, of this city, have been visiting friends in Raritan.

The Misses Kittie and Mamie McGuirk, of this city, have returned from a visit with relatives at Raritan.

Rev. John McMurray, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, has returned home after spending a few days at Rockaway.

Miss Hattie Loree, of East Fifth street, is very much improved from a critical illness and her physician looks for an early recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Leonard, of Perth Amboy, have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Leonard's sisters, the Misses Marsh, of Madison avenue.

CLAIM INSANITY.

Grounds for Defence of Man Charged With Murderously Assaulting Elizabeth Man.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 23—It turns out that Thomas Hunt, who is a prisoner here, charged with a murderous assault on Max Knoll, an Elizabethport saloonkeeper, is not a resident of Newark, as was claimed, but belongs in Bayonne. His home was at 448 Avenue E, that city. He has been separated from his wife for some time, she leaving him because, it is alleged, he would not support her. Lawyer James H. Dougherty, of Elizabeth, will defend Hunt, and the plea set up will be that of insanity. It will be shown, it is claimed, that thirteen months ago Hunt swallowed poison in a glass of beer in a Bayonne saloon

Knoll, his alleged victim, still lies in a serious condition, but the physicians at the Elizabeth Hospital now have a slight hope he may recover. While in a fit of delirium on Monday he vainly tried to jump out of a window at the hospital.

Box for Charity Ball.

Among the holders of boxes at the Charity Ball to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, February 5, is Mrs. Charles J. Fisk who, with her family, is spending the winter in New York.

One Hundred Dollars a Box

is the value H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. THEATRICAL.

Grace George probably is the only star in this country whose plays all have been written by American authors. The first of these, "Her Majesty," was from the pen of J. I. C. Clarke, one of the editors of the New York Journal. Then followed "Under Southern Skies," the work of Lottie Blair Parker, a native of Massachusetts, and "Pretty Peggy," by Frances Aymar Matthews, a resident of Brooklyn. In each case, the piece produced by Miss George proved to be the greatest success of the man or woman responsible for it.

The Whitney Opera Company has scored a marked success in "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" at the New York Theatre, New York. All critics declare this to be the best American opera since "Robin Hood." It is a great novelty in every aspect and is drawing immense audiences to the New York, such eminent men as Senator Depew and ex-Gov. Black highly commending it. The latter has seen it several times. Many of the musical numbers have attained a great vogue and are being widely sung and whistled and played by orchestras. An especially attractive number is the song and chorus, "Katie, My Southern Rose," sung by William G. Stewart and Union officers and introducing a promenade of officers and Southern belles arrayed in the great crinoline and hoop skirts worn during the Civil War period. Another big feature of the opera is a great waltz scene in which forty officers and Confederate young women are disclosed in an old-fashioned dance with all its extravagance of movement. The effect is novel indeed and is repeatedly encored. Seats for "Johnny" may be secured by mail orders, accompanied by remittance, directed to Louis F. Werba, manager New York Theatre.

LITERARY.

Everybody's Magazine begins most appropriately with an article on India—"The Courts of the Rajahs." This is apropos of the great "dubar" at Delhi. Both text and illustrations are graphic exponents of the India of the past and the India of today. Justus Miles Forman's exquisite love story, "Journey's End," is concluded; Alfred Henry Lewis takes, for his third article in the series, "Great Days in Great Men's Lives," the forceful part played by Franklin in negotiating with England the Treaty of the Peace of Paris. There is a stunning character study of the adventurous Englishman, Sir Rajah Brooke—"A Viking of the East," by H. S. Canfield. An account of Miss Jane Addams of Hull House and what she has done for the poor of Chicago will be found very interesting. Booker T. Washington continues "Work With the Hands," with the fourth paper of his autobiographical example. Oscar King Davis's "Incidents of Service in the Philippines and China," is full of thrilling stories of courage drawn from several campaigns. "The New Medical Science of Preventon," by Dr. Thomas L. Stedman is a timely exposition of the real value of physical culture. In the matter of short stories there is "The Rapier of Ferrara," by Atherton Brownell, a dramatic love story; "Hygeia at the Solito," by O. Henry, and "A Japanese Gentleman," by C. V. C. Mathews, the latter a Japanese Washington love story.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

HARMONY PREVAILS

Session of Baseball Leaders Ends In Love Feast.

PEACE PACT UNANIMOUSLY RATIFIED

The National League, After Sixteen Years' Experience and Much Discord, Now United For a Profitable Season.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 23.—The National Baseball league has concluded its sessions of four days and nights. The closing day was as harmonious as the previous three were discordant. The unanimous vote by which the league ratified the peace agreement before daybreak was continued and everything done. When the meeting opened two of the clubs had injunctions hanging over them, and the representatives of other clubs came to the meeting with their war paint on. Before the members separated they had a memorable love feast, in which all participated except John T. Brush, who previously had left for Indianapolis.

President Pulliam said: "While acting under the advice of attorneys I declared a few days ago that everything was as clear as the noonday sun. That is just how it turned out—a perfect understanding and all round acceptance of the peace compact."

Harry R. Vonderhorst said: "I am thankful that we got together. Everything is now satisfactory to Brooklyn and all around."

President Ebbetts said: "Brooklyn is satisfied. We didn't understand the peace compact at the outset as we do now. We have been liberally treated by our associates."

James A. Hart of Chicago said: "We wasted a lot of time, but even that turned out for the best, as it resulted in a full understanding of all."

John T. Brush said: "The New York club has always been for peace. I am glad we reached an understanding. Now let us have baseball, not talk."

A. H. Soden said: "Boston was for peace, and we got it to our fullest satisfaction."

Frank DeHaas Robison said: "After sixteen years' experience in the National league I will say that we were never so close together as after this meeting, and before it we were farther apart than ever before. We understand the situation and each other as we never did before, and the feeling could be no more satisfactory."

Dreyfus, Conant, Knowles and others concurred in this opinion, with additional praise for Herrmann.

The New Cup Defender.

BRISTOL, R. I., Jan. 23.—The work on the new ninety footer, the largest aspirant for cup defending honors, has been inspected by Mr. C. Oliver Iselin, who will manage the boat during the coming yachting season. Mr. Iselin saw the workmen setting up and fastening some of the frames as well as the placing of a few of the braces in the mastheadwake. The chain plates have also been started, and some of the plates have been put in in the webs of the sternpost. Mr. Iselin found the boat all framed amidships, and some work had been accomplished in raising the midship section of the gunwale. This section will act as binders in keeping the top of the frames in place. As has been announced, the new boat shows a flat floor to a striking degree, but out on the forward underbody as far as the frames are set up the boat is V shaped.

Favorites Were Defeated.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23.—Favorites met defeat in the six events on the card yesterday. Nitrate was looked upon as a certainty in his race and under pressure his price receded from 6 to 5 to 2, but he was beaten a head at the post by Hargis. The stewards have ordered the refusal of further entry of the horse Alfred G., and the mounts of Jockey J. Winkfield are restricted to the horses of his employer, Ed Corrigan. The weather was clear and the track heavy and lumpy, with a path.

Tempting Stakes at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Jan. 23.—The Saratoga Racing association has raised the value of the Ballston Cup (for hunters) to $2,000 guaranteed, the Beverwyck to $2,500 guaranteed and the Shillelah to $2,000. The association has also added a new stake, the Saratoga Champion, for three-year-olds and up, weight for age, $5,000 added, distance one mile and a quarter. The value of the Saratoga Handicap has been raised to $12,000.

Good Racing at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—The three-year-old handicap at Oakland proved to be one of the best races witnessed this season. Four clever performers went to the post, with Proper of the Jennings stable a pronounced favorite. A driving finish resulted between Proper and Claude, Burns outriding J. Daly and landing his mount a winner by a nose.

Parr Outwrestles McInerney.

BUFFALO, Jan. 23.—Jim Parr, the English champion wrestler, defeated Tom McInerney of Ireland at the Olympic Athletic club, Parr won two falls, the first in 32:25 and the second in 24:25.

Another Brick Trust.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 23.—A combine of all the manufacturers of refractory brick who are outside the Harbison-Walker combine has been arranged with a capital of $15,000,000. It is the purpose of the company to buy the plants outright and to operate them as one concern, with Pittsburg as the headquarters.

SHELLING CONTINUED

German Warships Renew Attack on San Carlos.

TWELVE VENEZUELANS ARE KILLED

Commander of Fort Says More Than 1,600 Shells Were Fired—Strange Action of Germany Calls Forth a General Disapprobation.

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, Jan. 23.—The bombardment of Fort San Carlos by the German cruisers Vineta, Panther and Falke which was continued Wednesday afternoon until 6 o'clock was resumed again at daybreak. The first shells were hurled at the fort at 4 o'clock at long range. At 6 o'clock the Panther, being of light draft, closed in and again became actively engaged. The fort replied. At 8 a. m. the engagement was proceeding as fiercely as ever.

Twelve dead and fifteen badly wounded Venezuelan soldiers were counted in the fort at 7 o'clock Wednesday night by a press correspondent.

The Panther left her position close in to Fort San Carlos which she took up earlier in the day Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and joined the Falke. This ship was half a mile outside the bar and about five miles from the fort.

At 3 o'clock the correspondent in a rowboat approached one side of the fort out of range and from this point witnessed the long range fire of the German cruisers, which was continued from 3 until 6 o'clock. The Vineta and the Falke were close together and nearer the fort than the Panther. The first two vessels at a range of four and a half miles poured in a continuous rain of shell upon the fort and only stopped firing with the advent of dusk at 6 o'clock. At this hour the German vessels retired seaward, after having made a second ineffectual attempt to land troops in the village of San Carlos, situated at the base of the fort.

At 7 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the correspondent, who was accompanied by a government telegrapher bearing a telegram from President Castro to the commandant of San Carlos, landed on the island and entered the fort. The walls of the fort are terribly battered, and there were many evidences of the fierce engagement.

Twelve dead Venezuelan soldiers were counted behind the ramparts, and fifteen other men, seriously wounded, were lying on a low platform. The fort is literally covered with pieces of broken shells. It was seen that a great many of the German shells had not exploded.

The magazine had a very narrow escape, two shells having come within an ace of penetrating it. The walls of the fort which face toward the entrance of the lake suffered particularly and were greatly damaged. It is estimated by the commandant, General Bello, that the German ships fired more than 1,600 shells at Fort San Carlos.

Although the damage inflicted upon the fort by the sustained fire of the German cruisers is very great, it is not all that could be expected from such a continuous fire from modern high power guns. The village of San Carlos suffered greatly. The aim of the German gunners appears to have been inaccurate, for more than 60 per cent of their shells exploded in the village before reaching the fort.

The cannon mounted at San Carlos have not sufficient range to reach the Falke and the Vineta, so the fire from those vessels was not returned, as they kept out of reach of the Venezuelan artillery. The Vineta and Falke are of too great draft to cross the bar. The Panther alone can do this, and this fact explains why the last mentioned cruiser was the only one to come in close to the fort.

Some of the artillery on the fort has been destroyed by the German fire, but there are still five guns that can be used.

General Bello is a soldier of remarkable courage and daring. He has shown great bravery and is in no way intimidated. He will not abandon the fort, but will resist as long as it is possible for him to do so. He swears that on Jan. 17, the occasion of the first bombardment, the Panther fired upon him first without reason and without provocation.

The report that the biggest of the three attacking vessels was either an English or an Italian ship is untrue. It is known that all three vessels are German.

The Venezuelan gunboat Miranda is in Lake Maracaibo. It was doubtless the intention of the Panther in trying to pass the fort and get into the lake to capture this vessel. The passage over the bar that leads into the lake is narrow, and the fort commands it. General Bello is confident that he can sink the Panther if she attempts to get by with the fire of the five guns that remain to him.

GERMANY BLAMED.

Sentiment at Washington Strongly Against Bombardment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—It is said at the White House that the Venezuelan situation has become too serious for the president to give even an intimation as to what the administration thinks of the bombardment of the fort at San Carlos by the Germans. It is stated at the state department that the patience of this country is being sorely tried by the warlike actions of the Germans.

It is understood perfectly here that the German naval officers in command have no initiative in the Venezuelan situation. Every time they fire a shot or bombard a fort or seize a ship they have direct orders to do so from the German foreign office at Berlin.

Many public men believe the United States should demand of Germany a cessation of her course while the peace negotiations continue.

Such a policy embarrasses these negotiations and may prevent a satisfactory conclusion. In fact, it is believed by some that Germany is trying to force our direct intervention with the idea of making us responsible for Venezuela's debts and assuming a practical protectorate over that country.

German Foreign Office Uninformed.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—The foreign office is very impatiently awaiting official news from Maracaibo. The German newspapers express amazement at the fact that the government had not arranged for prompt information, "particularly in view of the nervousness of public opinion in the United States." General Boguslawsky, retired, the well known writer on military matters, discussing the press telegrams, says: "The commander of the Panther in the first incident was merely making the blockade effective on his station by seeking to prevent the carriage of coffee through Colombia. The second bombardment was probably intended to chastise the insolence of the Venezuelans and their exultation over the first affair."

Disliked at Rome.

ROME, Jan. 23.—The second bombardment of Fort San Carlos by the German warships has produced an unfavorable impression here generally, as the necessity for a recourse to violence is considered to have passed. Government officials are most cautious in expressing opinions of the matter in view of the peculiar situation of Italy, that country being allied with Germany independently of the Venezuelan affair. Officials, however, say frankly that Italy will continue her efforts looking toward conciliation, as she has no resentment toward Venezuela and is seeking only to effect the payment of her claims.

THE COLORADO CONTEST.

Some Speechmaking, but No Results. Both Factions Obstinate.

DENVER, Jan. 23.—Prior to the assembling of the Democratic members of the senate and house in joint session at noon yesterday they held a caucus at which they listened to speeches by the leaders of the party in Colorado. United States Senator Thomas H. Patterson stated that Senator Teller felt keenly the neglect of six Democrats to vote at the joint session on Wednesday, thereby defeating his election.

Alva Adams, Charles S. Thomas and Thomas J. O'Donnell declared in speeches that Teller was the only logical candidate. Senator Teller was greeted with applause. He said that he had not attended the meeting to find fault. He believed the Democratic party was paramount to the interests of any one man. He said he had not withdrawn and did not intend to, but if things came to such a pass that the party could not agree upon him he was willing that his friends should support the party choice.

"Certainly not," said Edward O. Wolcott, the leading Republican candidate for senator, when asked whether he would withdraw if Senator Teller would do so. Mr. Wolcott said no contingency could arise which would cause him to withdraw.

LAKE CARRIERS AGREE.

Plan of Reorganization Adopted at Detroit Without Dissent.

DETROIT, Jan. 23.—Without a dissenting vote the plan for the reorganization and incorporation of the Lake Carriers' association was adopted at the convention here.

The Lake Carriers' association will be organized under the laws of West Virginia with a capital stock of $20,000, and the articles will be filed as soon as possible. Members will be entitled to one share of stock for every hundred net tons they have enrolled in the association. The stock will be valued at $1 per share. The headquarters of the association will be located at Detroit.

White House Reception.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt's reception in honor of the judiciary, the second of the formal evening affairs of the season at the White House, took place last night. There was a very large attendance, but the arrangements for handling the crowd were perfect and everything passed off without any apparent hitch. There was no attempt at elaborate floral decorations, only a few roses and carnations being set in vases on the mantels, and the niches and corners in the rooms being set with palms and other foliage. Those present included the entire membership of the supreme court and the local judiciary, members of the senate and house and a large contingent of resident society. The presidential party included the members of the cabinet and the ladies of their families. The president received about 2,000 callers. Mrs. Roosevelt wore a gown of white silk, with pearls. Miss Alice Roosevelt's dress was of yellow and white.

Will Make Tennessee a Dry State.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 23.—The senate has passed the bill to extend the provisions of the four mile law to towns of 5,000 population and under by a vote of 20 to 12. This is a temperance measure, and the effect of it will be, it is stated, to drive liquor out of every town and county in the state, with the exception of the eight big counties. The passage of the measure through the house is assured.

Engineer and Fireman Killed.

FREEPORT, Ill., Jan. 23.—A Chicago Great Western passenger train which left Chicago for St. Paul at 6:30 o'clock last night struck a broken rail at South Freeport and jumped from the track. The engineer and the fireman were killed, and several passengers were injured. The train is burning.

DEFEAT FOR LEADERS

American Currency and Coinage For Philippines.

BILL DRAWN BY COMMITTEE KILLED

Twenty-eight Republicans Joined With the Democrats to Carry the Substitute—Senate Spends the Day on Statehood Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The house leaders went down to signal defeat yesterday when the house by a vote of 145 to 128 rejected the Philippine coinage bill reported by the insular affairs committee and adopted the substitute offered by the minority for the introduction of American currency and the American coinage system into the islands.

The insular committee includes in its membership the chairmen of the most powerful committees of the house, Mr. Cannon, chairman of the appropriations; Mr. Hitt, chairman of foreign affairs; Mr. Payne, chairman of ways and means; Mr. Hepburn, chairman of interstate commerce, and Mr. Tawney, chairman of the committee on expositions. They reported a bill to establish the gold standard in the islands and to authorize the coinage of silver pesos of 416 grains, to be made legal tender at the rate of two pesos for one gold dollar.

The majority members made a gallant fight for their bill, but a considerable number of Republicans—twenty-eight on the final vote—under the lead of Mr. Hill (Conn.), Mr. Fowler (N. J.) and Mr. McCall (Mass.) joined with the Democrats and carried through the substitute. The fact that Secretary Shaw and other high treasury officials were quoted on the floor as favoring the substitute aided in the overthrow of the committee bill. Their opinions were advanced as against those of Governor Taft and other members of the Philippine commission.

The substitute passed provides that the lawful money of the United States shall be legal tender in the Philippines and declares the coinage laws of the United States to be in full force there. It provides for the redemption of the Mexican and Spanish silver, not including any Mexican pesos imported into the islands after March 15, 1903, at their bullion value as declared from time to time by the Philippine commission, the silver coin authorized by the Philippine government act to be redeemed at the rate of two pesos for $1 of United States currency.

The statehood bill occupied the entire attention of the senate except for a few routine matters which came up during the morning hour. After a brief executive session an adjournment was taken.

Tax on Michigan Railroads Reduced.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 23.—Announcement is made by the state tax commission that the first assessment of Michigan railroads under the new law, which provides for an ad valorem tax on this property instead of the old specific tax on gross earnings and which was announced recently as reaching an aggregate valuation of $208,212,500, has been reduced $9,522,000 by the commission.

Wrecked Tug's Crew Safe.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 23.—The torpedo boat McKee, which was sent from the torpedo station to the assistance of the wrecked tug Leyden, has returned from Block island, bringing the crew of the Leyden. None of the men on board was injured, although all were exhausted from exposure and from their battle with the seas.

An Exceptional Portiere Offering.

We are preparing to take inventory and find some few Portieres which we are unable to duplicate. They are every bit as good as the new goods, for there is a splendid assortment of colors and designs among them, some have fringe, some have cord edge and some plain edge. As the number is small, we would advise an early morning call from those desirous of procuring some of these exceptional bargains.

SOMERSET'S COURSE.

Just as soon as Somerset county realizes that it cannot drive North Plainfield and attempts to cater somewhat to that municipality, there is going to be a wonderful improvement in the relations between Somerset's choicest community and the rest of the county. By geographical arrangement or community of interests, North Plainfield does not belong in Somerset county. An arbitrary line was fixed and it placed North Plainfield in Somerset. The day is coming when North Plainfield and Plainfield will be one city and, unless wonderful changes come to pass in the meantime it will not be as part of Somerset county. In the meantime, however, it would be a very wise thing if Somerset changed its present policy and attempted to make things as pleasant for the borough as possible.

In order to improve the relations between the borough and the rest of Somerset, one of the first things that the county ought to do is to wake up. You cannot truthfully deny it, Somerset is way behind the age. Its methods are antiquated, it lacks modern conveniences that all up-to-date counties possess. It is altogether the product of a bygone generation.

Yesterday's Daily Press threw some light on the methods of the Somerset Freeholders. Is that the course to be pursued by an up-to-date county? Not a bit of it. The Freeholders have been so afraid to support any plan that provides for the expenditure of a little money for the benefit of the county. You can't have advantages unless you pay for them. But there is a difference between practical modern business methods and "any old way" of conducting county affairs. Just look over that article in yesterday's Daily Press and see one instance of the methods employed.

It is up to Somerset county. That may be slang but it expresses the situation wonderfully well. There is no immediate prospect that North Plainfield will leave Somerset county. If that county is wise, it will be up and doing and so conduct its affairs that North Plainfield will begin to even feel proud that it is a part of Somerset county. But to do that it must revise its methods and rise above the petty desires of certain of its political leaders.

This tramp question is only one little illustration. There are many others and The Daily Press may have something to say regarding them from time to time.

This year's automobile show is said to be a great success. According to the reports many thousand machines have already been sold there. Then the general public has drifted into the big Garden and had a chance to see the best of America's horseless vehicles. There are some foreign machines on exhibition and those who know declare that the American built autos are the gainers by the comparison. It is believed that automobiling will receive a wonderful boost as a result of this exhibition. These machines are now common sights in Plainfield and there is every reason to believe that the coming year will see the number owned here greatly increased.

It would be well if the members of the present Legislature would remember what the object of the annexation and consolidation acts was before they voted on the repealers for them. They were intended expressly to allow the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield to work out their own salvation without outside interference. The annexation act has been acted upon by the people of the borough but neither city nor borough has had the chance to express itself regarding consolidation. Any interference on the part of the Senator from Mercer or anyone else is therefore entirely unwarranted at this time.

Lovers of good sport are well pleased with the news that the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League will resume its activity in the near future. That organization is once more on a firm basis and there is every reason to believe that the season's schedule will now be played with the greatest harmony. One particularly satisfactory feature of the present arrangement is that all four clubs included in the league have gymnasiums of their own. Three of them will accommodate quite a number of spectators so there is promise that the basket ball enthusiasts will have plenty of opportunity of witnessing their favorite sport.

Although Mayor Jenkins did not deliver his expected address on public parks to the Board of Trade Monday night, it did not show that he had lost interest in the scheme. On the contrary, his reason for not going into details on the subject was for fear that publicity along certain lines would defeat the ends he was aiming at. This leads one to believe that His Honor is going to lose no time in bringing this idea to a practical application.

This bill introduced into the State Senate by Senator Strong, which provides for stated salaries for the Sheriff and other county officials now paid by fees, is stirring up all kinds of excitement throughout the State. There is plenty of opposition to it but the idea seems to meet with general favor from the public at large. It will provide for a suitable salary for the officials in question and may be the means of saving some money for the county interested.

While no formal action has been taken by the Common Council to the effect that a police patrol system is to be established in this city, there isn't any doubt that it will be. The Common Council is looking into the matter now, such action having been recommended by Mayor Jenkins in his annual message, and will act as soon as the necessary details are secured.

Mayor Smalley is quoted as having nothing to say regarding the passage of the repealers for the annexation and consolidation bills except that the borough is able and will continue to be able to take care of itself no matter what is done either at Somerville or in the Legislature.

Besides being experts on the rifle range, the members of Company K have demonstrated that they are very clever at the art of entertaining.

MISS FISHER'S SIDE.

Says Her Mother Was in Fairly Good Health When She Gave Away the Money.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The article in your issue of January 21 entitled "Gave Away Fortune on Her Deathbed," in relation to the suit of Kate J. Fisher against her daughter, Anna L. Fisher, is erroneous in many respects and in extreme need of correction.

In the first place the amount was far from $11,000, it being only $1,064.42. In the next place Mrs. Fisher was not ill at the time of the gift but in fairly good health and the gift was really a donation for services rendered. Mrs. Fisher did not attempt to regain control of the money or make any request for its return from that time on and did not do so now of her own accord.

The case has been amicably adjusted, and terms of settlement are known to all parties having an interest in it and are exactly the terms offered by myself when the first request was made for its return.

CHAMPIONSHIP AT BALTUSROL

NEW JERSEY STATE GOLF ASSOCIATION FIXES DATE AND PLACE.

A New Handicap System Adopted at Annual Meeting Held This Week.

The new president of the New Jersey State Golf Association is Lionel H. Graham, of the Baltusrol Golf Club, this being Mr. Graham's third term in this office. Baltusrol has been chose as the place for the holding of the annual championship and the dates selected are June 4, 5 and 6, provided they are sanctioned by the Metropolitan Golf Association. Thirteen of the sixteen clubs were represented at the meeting held this week and among the five new members elected are Country Club, Atlantic City; Arsdale Golf Club, East Orange; New Brunswick Golf Club, Cape May Golf Club and Madison Golf Club.

There will be a new handicap system for the rating of players and as the change is a radical one much interest is manifested in it. It will become the standard method for amateur handicapping throughout the country. In a nutshell, it is proposed that clubs adopt as a basis for their handicapping the par score of their links. Club handicaps, as a rule, are at present based on the bogie of the course or the play of some scratch player. This system is inaccurate from a handicap committee's point of view because bogie is altogether too elastic.

Among the delegates at the meeting were S. A. Crnikshank, Colonia; Thomas R. Vanboskerck, Hillside Tennis and Golf Club.

MRS. VAN BUREN'S LUNCHEON.

The Second of a Series Was Given by Her Yesterday.

The second and last of a series of luncheons was given yesterday by Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren at her home on Central avenue. Like the first affair, it was marked by several pleasing features. A clever color scheme was presented in light green and light pink.

Those present at the luncheon were Mrs. G. Herbert Taylor, Miss Maude VanBoskerck, Miss Lucy Otterson, Miss May Holly, Mrs. John G. Drayton, Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson, Mrs. George S. Ring, Miss Edith L. Burt, Miss Cornelia Hyatt and Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The many friends of Miss Edith Wilson, youngest daughter of James Wilson, of this place, have been greatly surprised by the announcement that she was married Monday to John Wayland Peddie, of New York City. The wedding was not expected to have taken place till spring but the departure of the groom for the west for a long period made it necessary that the ceremony occur at once. It was performed at the bride's home by Rev. L. E. Livermore and was witnessed only by the immediate relatives and closest friends of the happy couple. The trip west will now be converted into a wedding trip.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, served a large number at its chicken supper held in the church last evening and cleared a goodly sum. The supper was a very bountiful one and was greatly enjoyed by all who partook of it. Mrs. Thomas Todd was in charge of the candy table and those who acted as waitresses were Mrs. Bowlsby, Mrs. A. Vail, Mrs. Herlich and Mrs. Giddes.

Another operation was performed on Miss Viola Hill yesterday by the Drs. Hedges, to relieve, if possible, her serious condition.

Zika Osmun has started a stage route between here and New Market. If the patronage is sufficient stages will run ever hour.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Building and Loan Association was held in George Day's office last evening.

The estate of the late Helen Kuldoshes has been probated. The estate goes to the four sons in equal shares.

The Afternoon Card Club will hold a meeting next Tuesday at the home of Miss Dunham.

Adam Dealaman is now able to get out of bed and get some exercise around his room.

Alfred Purser, of Brooklyn, will sing a solo in the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Charles Davie and family, of Fanwood, have moved into the Dealaman flat.

Robert Lowrie is confined to his home by quite a severe illness.

Miss Florence Dickerson spent yesterday in New York City.

A regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held yesterday.

William Liable has been entertaining his brother.

NEW MARKET.

W. J. Davis and family are now well on their way to California. They will take a route through a number of southern cities. The trip will take quite a long time.

William Ackerman is recovering from the effects of a fall down stairs and a consequent illness. The fall occurred while Mr. Ackerman became dizzy.

Harry Nelson, of Plainfield, has started a barber shop in town to take the place of the absent Moody.

Aaron Brower is in a very serious condition and his recovery still seems doubtful.

Abram Nelson has been laid up for a few days with the grip.

The cornet band held regular practice last evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Boorough Fire Company was held Wednesday night in the company's rooms. The treasurer's report shows the company to be in a flourishing condition. The election for department officers resulted as follows: Fire chief, Chas. Sheelen; first assistant, J. H. L. Todd; company officers, foreman, W. M. Maxim; secretary, R. R. Thompson; president, H. P. Robinson. A proposition was made to the company by the Council to build a jail in the fire house. The plan did not meet with the approval of the members and so it was rejected.

Borough Collector Chas. Scheelen has his tax budget for last year nearly cleaned up. But few have failed to make their returns and Collector Scheelen expects to clean up the list during the month. There is one thing the borough has enjoyed during the present collector's association with the office, that is a scarcity of delinquents. It has been a case of pay up or being brought before a justice to make excuses. It has generally been "pay up" as the record shows no delinquents for 1901 or 1902.

Special Officer Hickey's experience on Monday night, when he gathered in a suspicious character, only to have him make his escape again, while being held at the railroad station, proves that the borough needs a jail of some kind where prisoners can be held for safe keeping.

The weekly teachers' meetings of the Baptist Sunday-school, which were discontinued during the two weeks of prayer service, were resumed last night, the teachers being entertained at "Home Dawn," the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Parks.

Mrs. C. S. Woodruff, who is to lecture on Porto Rico at the Methodist church on the evening of January 30, is the mother of Rev. C. C. Woodruff, a former successful and popular pastor of the church, being now stationed at Little Falls, this State.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. M. A., held its weekly meeting in its rooms last night. The members are taking renewed interest in the weekly meetings and the attendance is very good. Only routine business was transacted last night.

Funeral services of the late Edward Terry, who died at his home at Alton, Wednesday night, will be held from the home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company is arranging to have its building wired for electric lights. The contract has been given out and the work will be finished during the coming week.

A new up-to-date meat market will be opened tomorrow at the old John R. Marsh stand, by A. J. Brace. All kinds of meat will be sold at reasonable prices.

Rev. G. M. Shott will begin a series of talks tonight at the weekly prayer meeting of the church upon the miracles of the old testament.

John Alberts is out with a new rubber tired close carriage to meet the demands of his increasing livery business.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Middlesex Water Company is filling in the grounds around the pumping station with coal ashes and cinders.

Miss Mabelle Cubberley took part yesterday in a debating contest at the Whittier Grammar School, Plainfield.

John Geary, who has had an attack of grip, was out yesterday, but is still in a physically weak condition.

Mr. Hazel, a farmer, living near the coal storage, has bought Jerome Ross' farm at Bonhamtown.

The little daughter of William Silence, of Oak Tree, is recovering from an attack of measles.

Mrs. David Bigley has been ill several days with the grip. She is now improving.

Mrs. William Hough is suffering with an attack of measles, but is now better.

Mrs. Mary Thickstun visited Mrs. T. C. Laing, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Hoffman is again confined to her room by illness.

Mr. Snowden has had an attack of the grip.

Miss Helen Weaver is ill with the measles.

Hold Court in Middlesex.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 23—Judge Schenck, of the Somerset County Courts, will hold court at New Brunswick Monday and Tuesday of next week. He will hold court there until Judge Woodbridge Strong recovers from his recent illness. Court has not been held at New Brunswick during this and last week, on account of the illness of Judge Strong.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Suits can be made over to look like new if they are taken to S. Hirsch, of 432 Watchung avenue. Mr. Hirsch makes a specialty of this branch of the dressmaker's art and also devotes much care to the remodeling of furs.

The Gayle Hardware Company is headquarters for everything to be found in a first-class hardware store. If your home needs re-furnishing with anything in the hardware line it will be to your advantage to trade at this store.

Patrons of M. Weinberger, the West Front street clothier, are always satisfied with the clothing purchased at his store. There is a fine finish, a perfect fit and durability in the clothing sold by Mr. Weinberger. His stock is large and complete as to sizes.

Charles Conover & Company, painters and decorators, of Elmwood place, do only first-class work. This firm has already a large number of satisfied customers and the business is steadily increasing. The firm thoroughly understands its business and guarantees all work to be of the best.

Although the new year is quite young, you will learn to appreciate time if you carry one of J Hervey Doane's watches. At this jewelry store you will find a large assortment of the best makes of watches, jewelry, clocks, etc. A first-class repair department is maintained where only first-class work is done.

Housekeepers are very often at a loss to know what to get for luncheon or tea but a visit to the store of R. W. Barnes, of Park avenue, will soon settle the question. Tomorrow's offerings are: Lettuce, spinach, California and Florida oranges, apples, bananas, cocoanuts, potato salad, Flemington sausage and smoked liver.

DIRECT MAIL.

The Morning Mail for Elizabeth No Longer Goes to New York First.

Commencing this week the morning mail from Plainfield and points along the line of the New Jersey Central west of Elizabeth, will be received direct in that city. It used to be the custom of the postal department to send the mail to New York for sorting and distribution, after which it was returned over the railroad to that city, reaching the office early in the afternoon. This inconvenienced many business men who would fail to get checks, etc., in time to deposit the same day.

Now the mail will be received earlier and allow business men plenty of time to transact business with their banks without being subject to any delay.

To Take Charge of Hospital.

Mrs. Sophia Gerold, the trained nurse, who recently went to Delhi, N. Y., to attend the wedding of her sister, returned a few days ago in response to a telegram from the Board of Health asking her to take charge of the smallpox patients at the isolation hospital.

FOR PANAMA CANAL

Treaty With Colombia Signed at Washington.

IT NOW GOES TO THE SENATE.

Long Delay Had Led to Reports That the Route Had Been Abandoned—Differences Satisfactorily Adjusted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The treaty between the United States and Colombia for the construction of the Panama canal by the United States has been signed in this city.

The canal treaty was signed at Secretary Hay's house, Mr. Hay acting for the United States and Dr. Herran, the charge d'affaires of Colombia, who had been specially given full powers to negotiate the treaty, signing in behalf of Colombia. The treaty will have to go to the senate for ratification

No details of the signature of the treaty are obtainable, but at the presidential reception at the White House last night the news that the treaty between the two countries at last was an accomplished fact leaked out and later was confirmed authoritatively on inquiry in official quarters.

Fears had been entertained until this week that Colombia might not be willing to accede to the wishes of the United States in the matter and that recourse to the Nicaraguan canal project might be forced on the government of the United States. But this week events took a more favorable turn, and Colombia transmitted instructions and authority to Dr. Herran, its representative in the United States, that made possible a conclusion of the long pending negotiations.

The principal obstacle for some time to the conclusion of the treaty, it is understood, has been the price that the United States was to pay in the shape of a cash payment and by way of annual rental for the strip of territory along each side of the canal right of way. Some time ago there was a hitch over the question of the extent to which control by the United States over this strip of land should go, Colombia objecting on the ground that the provisions requested in the treaty by the United States would mean a relinquishment of sovereignty by Colombia over part of her territory, but this matter was amicably adjusted, as was a difference as to the lifetime of the lease of the strip of land in question, the final result being a practical cession in perpetuity of the strip to the United States for canal purposes and incidental police control and protection of the canal right of way.

NO ALL NIGHT LICENSES.

Police Commissioner Greene's Latest Order Surprises Hotel Men.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Hotel and restaurant keepers in all parts of the city and especially in Captain Miles O'Reilly's precinct, the Tenderloin, are dumfounded at the edict which has gone out from police headquartrs to the effect that no more all night liquor licenses will be granted.

This is a most unexpected move on the part of Police Commissioner Greene, but he seems determined to deny absolutely to all hotels and restaurants any more all night permits. They will be issued only to balls of a higher order. Even the Waldorf-Astoria hotel is without an all night permit.

This is the first time in the history of the police department that a reputable hotel has been unable to get an all night license whenever it wanted one.

The rule has been for a hotel to apply for each night's special license separately. There is a law by which an all night license can be issued for a month ahead, but very few applications are made for more than a week at a time, and most of them are for only one night.

The fee is $10, and the hotel or restaurant proprietor generally applies to the captain of police in whose precinct his hotel is located in the afternoon. The captain approves the application, and it is sent to police headquarters.

In Death Not Divided.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—United for forty years as husband and wife the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Willet Coles Ward were laid at rest together yesterday in the family vault in old Trinity churchyard. For twoscore years they had traveled life's road together, scarcely being separated for a day, and they passed into the next world almost hand in hand. Mr. and Mrs. Ward had lived at 318 West Ninety-first street. Both belonged to old New York families.

Mail Sacks Scarce.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The postal service is confroated with a stringency in the supply of mail sacks and pouches and has called on all postmasters to forward immediately all available sacks, pouches and mail locks to the various mail equipment depositories. It is estimated that there are 200,000 mail sacks and many thousands more of pouches and locks lying idle in postoffices throughout the country.

NEW FASHION MATERIALS.

The Hairy Zibelines, Mohair Roxana, Mystral, Floconne and Others.

All the hairy zibelines are among the favorites in the way of woolen stuffs for midwinter, and well they may be, for they have a richness and apparent warmth while they are really light and flexible. They are so very rich that they require little if any trimming, and by wearing an inner waist of chamois and a fur collar one can look perfectly well dressed for any day. Gray with silvery white hairs is very elegant. There is soft blue with the overlay of white hairs and dark plum shades also covered with the white hairs. Ivory white has the silvery ones on the surface, and the green with the overlying white hairs obtains a delicate watery look. Red in a dark shade is covered with the white so that it becomes a most beautiful shade of pink. No matter what the combination, the same soft and elusive beauty is the result.

Plain skirts, with sometimes two deep shaped flounces somewhat like a double skirt, are handsome, but the long, sweeping lines of a plain skirt are the most elegant. It all depends how one wears a dress for the effect it has. This particular goods looks best when made quite plain as to skirt except, perhaps, that seams may be slotted to emphasize the seam lines.

In the design offered herewith the side seams are slotted and left in a small inverted plait at the end of the seam. Such a skirt is cut in five gores only. The bodice is in blouse shape in front and a basque in the back. There are Norfolk plaits on each side of the waist down to the belt. The basque part is set on separately under the belt. It has two lines of buttons, and in the front there are many small buttons to match set on in clusters of three. The sleeves are the best liked of the newest styles and are large at the wrists and finished off with black velvet cuffs bordered with Persian castle braid in rich colors and with a little metal in it for brightness. The flat collar and revers are done in the same way.

All black zibeline and camel's hair are most ladylike materials for street attire. There is also a new thin stuff called mystral, with rough dots and spots on it. This is to be made up over taffeta of light contrasting color or in glace taffeta all black. In many cases this is so made up that there are open-work places with insets of lace or the different parts are joined by handsome fagoting.

Another fine new stuff for nice gowns is the mohair roxana, which is slightly armure in weave. Besides this, there is the handsome empress cloth, which was a great favorite some years ago. Satin striped voiles are new and very soft, with exceptional draping qualities. Some of the mystrals are also striped. These are really for early spring, but a few favored ones have them now. Floconne is made up into rich looking suits for midwinter, especially in those suits where there is a jacket to match the skirt.

Such materials, with the exception of the mystral, can be made into suits like the illustration and worn through the whole winter. Quite a number of bayadere stripes are seen, and Roman colorings in certain dress materials and ribbons are shown. They are pretty when judiciously employed. Plaid in large design is much affected, especially for waists, and they are certainly striking. Worn with dark skirts they are not too gaudy; besides, they are always trimmed in a manner to tone down the large pattern and high colors.

Regular Irish frieze is again fashionable for short capes in the Red Riding Hood shapes, and it is a matter of personal taste whether the cape is lined with red and the hood also treated the same way or whether the cape is left natural. The collar can be high and flaring in any of the present styles or flat with a revers. But the hood is part of the garment and should not be left off. Some of those capes are made quite long and trimmed with fur or some one of the heavy braids.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

The Views of Three Good Husbands

THE views on the woman question of a man who has been tried in the furnace of matrimony and not found wanting are entitled to a most respectful hearing. Therefore a little time ago I addressed to three liberal minded, intelligent married men of experience the following questions:

1. In your opinion, should a husband give his wife regularly a fixed sum for her own use, which she is to spend as she pleases? If so, what per cent of his income should this sum be?
2. What do you consider the duties of a wife to be?
3. Are you willing to allow your wife the same liberty of personal action that you claim for yourself—for instance, in her comings and goings night and day and in her absences from home?
4. Has either a husband or wife any right to attempt to control the other in politics or theology?

Here are the answers:

No. 1.

Dear Miss Sharp—It seems to me that the best way to answer these questions is to give you a peep into the conditions that prevail in my own home.

1. We run no accounts, except with the iceman and milkman, which bills we pay weekly. We have an arrangement that whenever my wife breaks into her last ten dollar bill she notifies me, and I give her whatever sum she wishes. If she has a dressmaker's bill to pay, she tells me the amount and that is added to the usual amount; if it is near rent day, the rent is also added. When a surplus accumulates in my pocket from my wages (my only source of revenue), it goes into one of three savings banks. We have three bankbooks—one a mutual one, one mine and one hers. If it is to be put to the mutual account, I give it to her and she deposits it; if to her account, she deposits it; if to mine, I deposit it. Thus there is no need of an allowance, as there is never any question brought up as to what my wife does with the money she handles.
2. To attend to the household duties, doing whatever work she desires and hiring the rest of the work done.
3. We freely accord to each other equal liberty of personal action as to our comings and goings.
4. No.

No. 2.

1. Yes. The percentage of course will depend entirely upon circumstances. I should say that of the surplus (over actual living expenses) she should have 25 per cent, while the remainder should be put away in the bank.
2. Strictly speaking, to do the work equitably devolving upon her as conscientiously as the husband does that which falls to his lot; socially, to be the chum and adviser of her husband, just as he should be the chum and adviser of the wife.
3. This is a difficult question to answer briefly. Broadly speaking, I should say "No." The very element of physical danger would make it inadvisable, to say nothing of the fact that, inasmuch as the wife's duties are mostly at home, it is but fair that she should spend the greater portion of her time there, just as it is necessary that the husband shall spend most of his time at his place of business. On the other hand, the woman who is worthy of the name will not wish to do anything which she should not do, and the husband ought to permit things to go pretty close to the limit before interfering and then only when he has such a good case that he will be able to convince his wife that what he says is prompted not by a desire to be captious or to abridge her liberties, but by the desire to point out an error of judgment, which she will see as readily as he has seen it. It will also strengthen his position if he is able to add that he should be thankful to have her do likewise by him if their positions were reversed.

4. No, no, never!

No. 3.

1. Yes. The wife should have as much money to spend on herself as her husband has for himself.
2. To manage the household affairs and the servant or servants; to look after the children; to be cheerful, agreeable and companionable.
3. Yes, so far as such liberty may be exercised with due regard to her safety and to the proper conduct of the home.
4. No.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

Chalmers issued a few instructions to his assistant and hurriedly explained what had happened. A few minutes later he was on his way to the Carmody mansion, having first ascertained that Miss Helen was at home. In a few words he explained what had happened. The young heiress was radiant with joy.

"I knew you would find them!" she exclaimed. "From the moment you said we could not fail, I was sure of success! Oh, isn't it splendid! I could cry for joy!"

"This is no time to cry," said the practical Mr. Chalmers. "We must start for Havana at once. How soon can you be ready?"

"I can be ready in an hour," said Miss Carmody. "Mrs. White is here. She is going with me. Can you go, Mr. Chalmers?"

"Certainly I can go," said that gentleman. "You did not intend to leave me behind, did you?"

"Why of course not," said Miss Carmody, "but I am so excited I do not know what I am saying. Will Mr Stevens go with us?"

"He will go by rail and boat, and we will meet him in Havana," said Chalmers. "You had better send word to your captain at once. Tell him I will be on the yacht by seven o'clock. Please warn him to keep the destination a secret. Do not forget to take along lots of wraps; it may be cold on the ocean."

Chalmers returned to his office, and for an hour was busy with instructions to his assistants. He issued orders that The Record should give no hints of pending developments, and selected a special cipher to cover new possibilities. He then proceeded to the pier and boarded the yacht. Miss Carmody and Mrs. Isabel White had arrived, and the latter was in a flutter of excitement. The yacht swung on her keel and headed down the East River and out into the bay. Before twilight had faded, the "Helen Carmody" was well out to sea and making for Havana with a "bone in her teeth."

The "Helen Carmody" was a fine specimen of marine architecture. She was fitted with every convenience and luxury. She was larger than the "Shark," having more staterooms and more powerful engines. While more comfortable and stauncher, she was not so fast as the "Shark." Mr. Carmody had sacrificed speed for room and artistic effect, yet there were few yachts that could show a wake to the "Helen Carmody."

It was late Saturday afternoon when the frowning heights of Morro castle were seen across the waters, and it was nearly midnight when they dropped anchor in the harbor of Havana. It was decided to remain on the yacht until morning, so the "Helen Carmody" lay within easy distance of the shore.

Sunday morning a yawl put out from the Havana docks. It had as passenger a small man with a "sandy" moustache, and hair which could be classed under no other color than red. He sat straight and looked dignified. He wore a natty suit of gray, with a large carnation in the lapel of his coat. This was an important event in the life of Mr. Bernard Seymour, but he felt equal to the occasion. There was a subdued twinkle in his blue eyes, which no assumption of dignity could entirely offset. He critically watched the perspiring Cuban at the oars. Then he looked at the "Helen Carmody."

The yawl came alongside the brass-railed gangway.

Capt. Baldwin, of the "Helen Carmody" stood at the head of the gangway. Mr. Bernard Seymour saluted him with an impressive gesture.

"Good morning, Captain!"

Capt. Baldwin bowed but said nothing.

"I am Bernard Seymour; special commissioner of The Record," said Mr. Seymour. "Present my card and my compliments to Miss Carmody and Mr. Chalmers."

"Come aboard, Mr Seymour," said Capt. Baldwin. "I am glad to meet you."

"Ah, is this Seymour?" said Mr. Chalmers, who now appeared. "Glad to meet you, old man. Accept my congratulations. I hope you are not mistaken in your man."

"I never make but one mistake on the same case," said Seymour, shaking hands cordially with the managing editor. "When can I pay my respects to Miss Carmody?"

"Here she comes now," said Chalmers. Miss Carmody came forward radiant in a yachting costume of white broadcloth, trimmed with gold braid.

"I have the pleasure of presenting Mr. Bernard Seymour," said Mr. Chalmers.

"I am delighted to meet you, Mr. Seymour," said Miss Helen as she extended her hand. "I have heard so much of you it seems as if I knew you. I am glad to welcome you aboard the yacht."

Mr Bernard Seymour bowed profoundly. He had framed a speech, but it had eluded him. He felt that he must say something.

"You can't lose me. I am glad to meet you, Miss Carmody. The pleasure is all mine."

There was a twinkle in his eye which was irresistible, and Miss Carmody laughed until the color came to her cheeks, and she looked more charming than ever. She took Mr. Seymour in charge, and induced him to tell the story of how he came to solve the mystery of the Hestor bungalow. Mr. Chalmers listened to Mr. Seymour's carefully prepared narrative.

"When I received Mr. Chalmer's telegraphic advices," said Mr. Seymour, "I made up my mind that the first place to search was along the lumber docks. I thought it all over, and said to myself, it is like this: If Hestor has built a house in tropical America the lumber probably came from New Orleans, which is the great lumber market of the south. The contractor might hail from any place, but naturally he would ship his material from New Orleans. It was nearly dark when I arrived in the city. I went to the hotel, looked at my mail, and went from there to the docks. I questioned stevedores, dock-wallopers, sailors and levee men of all descriptions. I went finally to a resort frequented by such men. There were probably 50 of them in the room. I picked out a smooth-looking colored boy and told him I would give him $5 if he would ask every man present if he ever helped load lumber for a man named Walter B. Hestor. I told him all about Hestor; that he was a newspaper man who owned a yacht called the 'Shark,' and that he was eccentric, and liberal with his money.

"He was a bright coon," said the veracious Mr. Seymour, "and he wanted to earn that money in a hurry. He got on top of a beer keg and made a speech. Once in a while he would misstate a point, and I would correct him. When he was through a darkey, with a face as black as the ace of spades came forward and asked me how much I would give to know what boat that lumber was shipped on. I did not want to appear too anxious, so I offered him $2. We went to one side, and he told me that about a year ago a man arrived in New Orleans with a yacht called the 'Shark,' and that the owner superintended the loading of a lot of lumber, doors, windows and stuff on a schooner called the 'Sam Walker.' He described Hestor to a dot. He said Hestor's chief amusement was to throw money to the negroes along the levee to induce them to sing and dance. He would stand on the 'Sam Walker' and throw coins by the hour, until the levee was black with darkies. I knew he had the right man. I gave him the $2 and promised him $10 more if he would locate the 'Sam Walker' for me. At about midnight we found that the schooner was at Lake Pontchartrain, and was going to sail the next morning. I paid my colored friend and started for the 'West End.' I found the 'Sam Walker.' I wanted to get the information without exciting suspicion. I learned that the first mate was ashore in some of the drinking resorts of the place. Then I ran across a friend of mine who was much intoxicated. I used him as a tool. Early in the morning I found the first mate. From him I learned that the schooner was going to Havana. He was pretty full, and I bribed him to let me go aboard the schooner. There was no way to shake my friend, whose name is Bender, so we took him along.

"IT IS NOT ON ANY ISLAND."

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?
In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.
The security is not removed from your possession or is any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.
This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.
With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.
Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

THE COAL SHORTAGE.

Miners and Operators Blame Each Other Before Commission.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—The question of who is responsible for the apparent shortage in the supply of anthracite coal was the subject of considerable debate yesterday by the attorneys representing the parties before the strike commission. It was testified to that the miners are not obeying President Mitchell's request to make extra efforts to produce more coal to relieve the situation. This was followed up by James H. Torrey and Everett Warren, both of Scranton, who represent several of the large companies, challenging the correctness of Mr. Mitchell's statement that 3,000 men are idle and ready to go to work. C. S. Darrow, for the miners, replied that he would show that it was the operators and not the men who were responsible for the shortage in the production. "If I don't," he said, "I will ask the commission to find against us."

The Lehigh Valley Coal company closed its case, and the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre company consumed a few hours in presenting its evidence. This company closed shortly before adjournment and the independent operators of the upper region then took up the operators' side of the controversy. It is expected the hearing will last ten more days. The commission informed the attorneys on both sides this afternoon that it would like them to confine their final arguments to about four or five days. The lawyers will agree among themselves as to the division of time. The miners want half the time allowed by the commission.

OUR GREAT INFLUENCE.

Former Postmaster General Smith Speaks at Chicago Banquet.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—More than 250 prominent advertisers and publishers were present at the annual banquet of the Agate club, which was held at Kinsley's last night. The principal address of the evening was made by ex-Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith, who spoke on "The Greatest of National Advertisements." Mr. Smith said in part:

"Our moral influence is equal to our material strength. The great powers of Europe are engaged in a rivalry of contention as to which is the best friend of the United States. England and Germany combined against Venezuela, but both declared before they began that they would enter upon no violation of the Monroe doctrine.

"The United States speaks out for arbitration, and they both respect her voice and accept her will. Our state department protests to the signatories of the Berlin treaty against the oppression of Roumania, and our remonstrance is heeded and the amelioration of her proscriptive laws already begins. We remonstrate against too severe indemnity from China, and the allied powers, exacting as they may be, are constrained to moderate their terms. We stand for moral right, we stand for magnanimity, we stand for justice among nations, and the righteous influence of our position makes itself felt throughout the world.

"We have a mission in commerce and in civilization, we embody the spirit of liberty and humanity, and we have no right to let our light diminish!"

Severe Storm In Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 23.—Newfoundland is experiencing a very severe snowstorm. All traffic on the railroad is impeded and trains are three days overdue. It took six engines and four snowplows to extricate passenger trains bound for St. John's from the snow. Steamers are also greatly delayed, as gales are sweeping the coast. The northern seaboard is blockaded by arctic ice, and costal steamers have been forced to abandon their trips to the north.

American Victory In Siberia.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 23.—The right of Americans to prospect for gold and other minerals in eastern Siberia has been granted. Within the area of 200,000 square miles bordering on Bering sea and the Arctic ocean, given as a mining, trading and development concession to the Northwestern Siberia company, the same privileges have been extended to the American prospector as to the Russian.

Long For Senator From Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 23.—Congressman Chester I. Long has been nominated by acclamation by the Republican legislative caucus as a candidate for United States senator. All the other candidates withdrew.

SPORTING NEWS

WINTER SPORTS.

The hockey team of the North Plainfield High School has been practicing every afternoon on the various ponds in this vicinity, although the ice was not strong enough yesterday to admit of a practice game. Several games are being arranged with local and out of town teams.

The freshmen of the North Plainfield High School are trying for places on the regular hockey team of the school. Some of the players show much cleverness and it is possible that a team will be organized and the two teams will play against each other during this winter.

BASKET BALL.

The City High School basket ball team will play a game with Leal's School team, Wednesday, February 4.

All members of the I. C. T. basket ball team are asked to meet in the rooms at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for practice. The committee in charge of the masquerade reception arrangements is to have a meeting at the same time.

Reason Vs. War.

A very able article on the subject of "Reason Against War," published yesterday in The Christian Intelligencer, yesterday, was from the pen of Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue. His solution to this great question is in arbitration.

Evening Social.

The G. G. Social Club met at the home of Miss Fannie Bell, of Somerset street, last evening. Whist and games were the features of the gathering. The club will hold its masquerade dance the second Tuesday in March.

TO SEND PASTOR SOUTH.

Faithful Workers of Mt. Olive Baptist to Raise Funds for Him.

The Faithful Workers, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, will give a concert Thursday evening, January 9, at the home of Mrs. Dempsey, 640 West Third street, for the benefit of Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the church, who has been very ill. The concert will be given by home talent. No admission fee will be charged, but refreshments will be for sale and the entire proceeds will be used to send Pastor Jackson to Asheville. N. C., where his physician says he must go to regain his health.

Soloists at Musicale.

Martin Korff, violinist, and Miss Charlotte Conger, pianist, were soloists at an elaborate musicale given at Delmonico's by the Minerva Society yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Marion Harland, the writer, who was present, engaged both Mr. Korff and Miss Conger for her concert at Delmonico's next month and the Minerva Society have also re-engaged them for an affair to be given in Carnegie Hall shortly. The Minerva Society is one of the largest and most prominent in New York.

Back Again, Tim.

Timothy McCarthy, a character well known to the police, was sent to jail for twenty days by Mayor Jenkins, this morning, for drunkenness and disordery conduct. He was arrested at the corner of Park avenue and Second street by Patrolman Vanderweg, last night. McCarthy recently completed a term in the county jail for stealing $10 from an East Fifth street resident.

In Justice Mattison's Court.

AUXILIARY BOOMS.

Supper and Entertainment Held by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the local branch of the Ancient Order of Hibernians held a supper and entertainment in the rooms of the order last evening after the regular weekly business meeting. There were about 300 people present who listened to a few addresses by prominent members including Patrick Casey, who six years ago organized the auxiliary. Judge Mahon, of Elizabeth, was one of those present and he made a stirring address on the advantages to be derived from joining the order.

An entertainment was also provided after the meeting which consisted of songs, recitations and music. In the reports which were read it was shown that there had been paid out $800 during the past year for sick benefits and that there was now $1,000 in the treasury.

Dancing was enjoyed during the evening, the music for which was rendered by Prof. Frazee.

BUILDING BOOM.

James Totten is Going to Build Five Modern Houses in the West End Soon.

A small-sized building boom is about to commence in the West End through the enterprise of James Totten, of West Fifth street. On a strip of land extending 165 feet along John street, near Fourth, he will shortly begin the erection of five large houses having all modern improvements. John Mundy will do the carpentering and James Stryker the mason work. They are to be completed by spring.

The plot is part of the Vail property and it is said other sections have been purchased by other parties for the same purpose. Several cellars have been staked for houses to be erected in the vicinity by individuals.

BETTER SERVICE.

Postal Telegraph Company Is Preparing to Do Better in Plainfield.

The Postal Telegraph Company is now fitting up the building at 153 North avenue to which its local office will be removed from Park avenue shortly. In its new location, the office will be handsomely fitted up and will be kept open nights until 12 o'clock. The business has so increased that Manager Joseph Mondeau will have an assistant and one or more messengers will be added to the service. Workmen have just completed installing an entire new call-box system and the local service will be otherwise improved.

COAL FOR HIGH SCHOOL.

Vice President Besler Gave Valuable Specimen of Peacock Coal.

W. G. Besler, vice president of the Jersey Central Railroad, today presented to the City High School a valuable specimen of anthracite coal. It was what is known as "peacock coal" and is very rare indeed whether there is a coal strike on or not. The specimen is distinguished from other kinds of coal in that it is iridescent and shows all kinds of colors in the sunlight. It will be placed in the mineralogical collection at the school.

SAVED FROM DROWNING.

Miss May Richardson Had Narrow Escape at Tier's Lake.

Miss May Richardson, a four-year-old girl living on East Front street, fell into Tier's lake, near the Watchung avenue raceway, this morning, and narrowly escaped drowning. She became exhausted in attempting to reach shore when she was pulled out by William Bailey, a ten-year-old boy, who plunged in after her. Beyond the drenching she was not hurt.

Fell Through Window.

While Lafayette Rosenstiehl, the Somerset street barber, was washing windows in front of his store yesterday afternoon, the ladder slipped and he was precipitated through a large plate glass window. The force of his fall threw him across the window sash and this saved him from falling to the street below. He was badly cut about the left hand and also on the face. He was not seriously injured.

Proceeds of Organ Recital.

The proceeds for the organ recital which was held at the Grace M. E. church, Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the choir of that church, will amount to $24. This is considered as being very good considering the fact that the night was a stormy one. The committee which had the arrangements in charge was: Rev. E. L. Earp, John Steiner and Miss Alice Carroll.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

TO Smith Gibbons, Charles S. Runyon and Mrs. Charles S. Runyon, his wife, Katharine Hodgdon, Henry W. Hodgdon, William Sexson, Elizabeth Sexson, Mary Utter and Samuel Utter, her husband, and Albert L. Runyon and Mrs. Albert L. Runyon, his wife.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein Francis Wood, Mary Anna E. Wood, Alexander C. Wood, William Haden and Mary Anna E. Wood, Jr., Trustees under the last Will and Testament of Richard Esterbrook, dec'd, are complainants, and Hattie L. Gibbons and others (including yourselves) are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the complainants' bill on or before the fourteenth day of March, next, or in default thereof such decree will be made against you as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by John B. Mills and Annie B. Mills, his wife, and Francis S. Runyon to Mary Esterbrook, Francis Wood, Mary Anna E. Wood, Alexander C. Wood and William Haden, trustees under the last Will and Testament of Richard Esterbrook, deceased, (the said Mary Esterbrook having since died, and the said Mary Anna E. Wood, jr., was substituted as Trustee in her place and stead), said mortgage dated March 11, 1899, and recorded in Union County Clerk's office in Book 156 of mortgages for said county on pages 404, etc., on lands in the City of Plainfield, in Union County, New Jersey.

And you, Charles S. Runyon, Katharine Hodgdon, William Sexson, Elizabeth Sexson, Mary Utter and Albert L. Runyon are made defendants because you are some of the heirs at law of Francis S. Runyon, who died seized of an undivided one-half interest in said lands, and thereby claim to own an interest in said mortgaged lands.

And you, Samuel Utter are made defendant because you are the husband of Mary Utter one of said owners of said mortgaged lands and you may thereby claim an interest in the same.

And you, Henry W. Hodgdon, are made defendant because you are the husband of Martha E. Hodgdon, deceased, who was one of the owners of said mortgaged lands, and you may thereby claim a right of curtesy in the same.

And you, Smith Gibbons, are made defendant because you are the husband of Hattie L. Gibbons who owns a portion of said mortgaged lands and thereby may claim an interest in the same.

And you, Mrs. Charles S. Runyon are made defendant because you are the wife of Charles S. Runyon above named and because you claim an inchoate right of dower in and to your huband's share in said mortgaged lands.

And you, Mrs. Albert L. Runyon, are made defendant because you are the wife of Albert L. Runyon above named, and because you claim an inchoate right of dower in and to your husband's share in said mortgaged lands.

SOCIETY FOLK MEET AT VARIOUS GAMES

Friday Night Club Provides Some New Amusements at Casino Last Evening.

SOME CONTESTS ENDED

NEXT WEEK WILL SEE A HIGHLY ORIGINAL CHAFING DISH CONTEST.

Progressive Hearts Was Chief Feature Last Night, While the Ping-Pong and the Bowling Tournaments Were Ended.

The Friday Night Club met last evening for the third time since it was organized and the Casino was again the scene of a very animated assemblage of people who spent the evening in the several contests arranged by the committee and in social intercourse. Something new was introduced at last night's meeting and that was the serving of refreshments by a corps of waiting maids.

The main feature of last night's meeting was progressive hearts. There were nineteen tables in the main reception room of the hall and the game was continued until shortly after 10 o'clock. Each table kept its own score. A Japanese playing card case was the women's prize and was won by Miss Anna Miller. The men's prize was a stag horn silver mounted cork screw and was won by Alex. VanOss.

Last week a bowling tournament was started and it was played off last night with Dr. F. C. Ard the winner of the men's prize and Miss Helen Brown the successful competitor for the women's prize. The trophy was a silver cup provided for this tournament by the committee.

The ping-pong tournament which was opened the first night the club met was played off last night. The prizes were two silver cups, one for the women and the other for the men. Frederick W. Clark won the men's prize and Miss Margaret Goddard scored highest for the women's prize.

Games of badminton, ping-pong, pool and billiards were played during the evening. In order to secure more room for other games the ping-pong tables, excepting those where the tournament was being played off, were placed upon the stage in the main hall.

Next week the feature of the evening will be a chafing dish contest in which there will be a score of chafing dishes presided over by amateur chefs and a suitable prize will be offered for the best viand cooked in this manner. This will prove to be a unique feature as well as an enjoyable one.

The attendance at the meeting last night was even larger than it was last week and among those present were a number of people from out of town who were invited to be present and take part in some of the games.

WORDS OF PARODY.

Too Hastily Written Copy Furnished Daily Press Responsible for Error.

In giving the words of A. I. Littell's parody on "Mr. Dooley" as sung at Company K's minstrels, an error was made. They read in last night's Daily Press "The other mean sucker is Archie Hacquer." They should have read "The other nerve racker is Archie Hacquer." The copy was prepared by the author in such a hurry that no compositor can be blamed for making the mistake as only a mind reader could have read it the way it was intended and sung.

Debate With Jersey City.

A meeting of the newly organized debating society of the Y. M. C. A. was held last night when a communication was received from a Jersey City society inviting the local debaters to come to that city Friday evening, Feb. 5, and debate the question—"Resolved, That the United States Government Own, Control and Operate All Coal Mines." The invitation was accepted.

State School Board Thanks S. D. Drake for Offer of a Site.

Silas D. Drake, of Lincoln, yesterday received a letter from State Superintendent of Public Instruction Charles J. Baxter, informing him that should the State make the necessary appropriation for the erection of another State Normal School, the State Board of Education will be pleased to consider his offer for a site, mention of which was made recently. Mr. Baxter thanks Mr. Drake for his interest in the matter and assures him every consideration. The site in this city offered by Mr. Drake is on Woodland avenue.

LOCAL CAPITAL INTERESTED

PLAINFIELD BANANA GROWERS' ASSOCIATION HAS BEEN ORGANIZED.

Plans to Raise Bananas in Honduras —Details of the Plan and How it Will Work.

Banana growing in Honduras by a New Jersey corporation with Plainfield officers and stockholders is the latest proposition to interest local financial circles The Plainfield Banana Growers' Association has been quietly organized and now its formation and objects have just been made public. In its selection of trustees it has been particularly fortunate as the president is Mayor O. L. Jenkins, the treasurer, J. Fred MacDonald, president of the Watchung Silk Company, and the secrearty is City Collector Frank H. Smith. ihe attorneys are Reed & Coddington.

Briefly outlined the plan is as follows: The LaMesa Plantation Company agrees to clear, plant, cultivate and manage a banana plantation until it is under full cultivation, under the supervision of a representative of the Plainfield company, before transferring it to the local concern. No funds will go to the plantation company until all is complete and it has been found that everything is as agreed. Meanwhile the payments of the subscribers for stock will be deposited in a trust company where they will draw interest until paid over to the LaMesa Company. In case of any failure of the latter concern to comply with all the provisions, the money will be paid back to the subscribers with interest.

Each share of $150 represents an acre and it is declared that a conservative estimate of the net receipts per acre amount to $40. Allowing 10 per cent. for management, it would make a profit of $36 a share or 24 per cent. a year, 2 per cent. a month. The Honduras syndicate, which operates the Honduras railroad but is not interested in this project, has declared that with proper handling the returns should amount to at least $40 an acre.

"INDY" IS DEAD.

George O. Stevens' Famous Little Dog Died This Morning— Did Many Tricks.

"Indy," the knowing little dog possessed by George O. Stevens and the pet of everybody in town, is no more. He died this morning from an attack of pneumonia that the skill of Dr. Herbert was unable to combat.

His name was "Independence" because he was born on a Fourth of July six years ago and because he would perform none of his numerous tricks for anybody but his owner. It was Mr. Stevens' ambition to make him the peer of the canine family in "stunts" and he succeeded. So great was his fame that offer after offer of large amounts was made for him but without success. He never parted from Mr. Stevens and was always with him, even when he rode a bicycle, as "Indy" had a seat in front where he sat.

MISSION WORKERS.

Entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Giddis, of Codington Avenue.

The Ladies' Home Missionary Society of the Grace M. E. church was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Giddis, of Codington avenue, last night. There was a large number of people present who enjoyed the evening in listening to instrumental music, games and recitations. A good sized collection was taken which will be donated to missionary purposes. At a late hour refreshments were served.

Orchestra to Attend.

As a means of promoting sociability and assisting in the general good time at the annual turkey supper to be given at Trinity Reformed church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week, the Y. M. C. A. Orchestra will be present both nights and render a programme of excellent music.

BANQUET MARKED TENTH YEAR WITH PRUDENTIAL

Was Given by Superintendent Ball to the Members of His Local Staff.

THE SEVERAL SPEAKERS

MR. BALL WAS MADE MEMBER OF THE PRUDENTIAL "OLD GUARD."

Local Agents and Representatives From Home Offie at Newark Sat Down to Excellent Banquet at Hotel Kensington.

The trite and significant saying that the Prudential Insurance Company has the strength of Gibraltar was appropriately reversed last evening at a banquet given by Superintendent Charles E. Ball to his staff and six representatives from the home office in Newark. In view of the fact that the company has made such rapid strides during the past year, it was unanimously decided that Gibraltar has the strength of the Prudential Insurance Company. This was verified in the statement that Gibraltar stands still, while the company is rapidly advancing.

The affair not only maked the completion of Superintendent Ball's ten years of service with the company, but was given as a reward for faithful services performed by his efficient staff. A happy feature was the presentation to Mr. Ball of a handsome certificate and silver badge by Division Manager Edward S. Alston, in recognition of the ten years' service. This places Mr. Ball in the Prudential "Old Guard" and in class B. The recipient of this honor accepted it in a few well chosen words. There were a number of speeches during the evening and all paid deserving praise to Mr. Ball for his untiring efforts and for the banquet.

It was 8:30 o'clock when the guests sat down to dinner and for over an hour all thoroughly enjoyed the fine menu. There was nothing but praise for Proprietor Staats, who prepared a dinner of exceptional merit. Toward the latter part of the banquet, Mr. Ball, who acted as toastmaster, introduced the various speakers. Williard Hamilton, assistant secretary from the home office, was the first speaker and he compared the relationship between industrial and ordinary insurance, showing how closely they are linked together and how one must follow the other. His talk was filled with enthusiasm and he gave the men some valuable pointers.

Supervisor Henry Overgne, of the home office, followed, and he gave a few interesting figures. He said that in 1892, ten years ago, the collections amounted to $7,500,000, while in 1902 it was $31,000,000. The new business ten years ago amounted to $97,000,000, while last year it was $272,000,000. The insurance in force ten years ago was $193,000,000 and last year it reached $802,000,000. Mr. Overgne was pleased to announce that there was a decrease in lapses and he urged the men to beat the company's and their own record this year.

Supervisor G. W. Munsick, also of Newark, was the next speaker and he briefly cited a few of the essential qualifications of a succesful agent. He said that the agent must believe in his business, in his company and in himself. He believed that the Prudential Insurance Company is one of the greatest companies on earth, if not the largest and showed how other companies had copied its methods. He said that everything but life insurance costs more today and the company is planning to give its men more money.

Assistant Superintendent Hope, of Somerville, one of the hustlers in the company, gave a short talk telling of the success attained in that field. He reported 6,000 policies in force with 4,000 more people to insure. He was followed by Chief Clerk Louis V. Ash, of Newark, who gave a brief and interesting talk of the company's success. Division Manager Edward S. Alston's talk was listened to with great interest for he told of the work in the Plainfield district. He said that Plainfield stood sixth last year on a pro rata basis, first in securing ordinary business and ninth in industrial, and sixth in joint results. Seven agents wrote $130,000 worth of business and among the honor men he mentioned Agents Haley, Schibel, Bailey, Riddle, Ball, Seals and Hulsizer. He spoke of a new plan just inaugurated to increase the salaries of

RUSHED ABOUT SCANTILY CLAD

Harry Johns, in Delerium of Illness, Fled From His Home During the Night.

ALARMED THE BOROUGH

Injured in Fall From Scaffold Monday—Thought His Enemies Were Pursuing Him and Went to Chief Marshal Campbell for Protection—Suffering From Exposure.

With mind temporarily unbalanced by injuries received from a falling scaffold at Bound Brook, Monday, Harry Johns, of Jackson avenue, escaped from his house last night, attired only in an undershirt and ran about the streets of the borough in an endeavor to escape from some friends who, he cried, were trying to kill him. The whole neighborhood was aroused by the cries of the man and in a short while a half a dozen men and boys were in pursuit. He was finally captured at Chief Marshal William Campbell's house on Somerset street, where he was seeking protection from those he affirmed were his enemies.

As told only in yesterday's Daily Press Harry Johns, who lives with his family at 97 Jackson avenue, was injured with two other men Monday at Bound Brook by a falling scaffold and since then he has been delirious most of the time. He was attended by Dr. Albert Pittis.

A close watch has been kept over him since he has been ill but last night he eluded his nurse and succeeded in escaping from the house. As he reached the street he broke into a run and yelling like a mad man he dashed down that thoroughfare. A friend, who was at the house, dashed out into the cold night air in pursuit. When Johns reached the middle of the street at the junction of Somerset street he tripped on the trolley tracks and fell headlong on the ground. He picked himself up and continued down Park place to Duer street and from thence to Lincoln place to Somerset street where he was found at Chief Campbell's house. The cry of "police" being raised by people who were unaware of the cause of the disturbance brought several marshals to the scene and they assisted in taking him back to his house.

Dr. Pittis was called and found that the man was suffering from exposure besides several cuts and bruises about the body and feet. The man is considered to be in a serious condition and is still delirious.

As told in yesterday's Daily Press the man is a contracting house mover and was in Bound Brook figuring on a job when two men on a scaffold asked him to assist them in hauling some lumber up to the roof from the ground. The scaffold gave way precipitating the three men to the ground.

NOW FOR PROGRESS.

Title and Full Ownership of Music Hall Was Conveyed to S. F. Sherman Yesterday.

Final papers were signed yesterday whereby the title and full ownership of Music Hall was conveyed to S. F. Sherman, the theatrical man who is to re-open the place.

Nothing now stands in the way of the improvements he has contemplated and his architect will visit this city, Monday and arrange for again taking up the work of alteration. Wednesday a large force of men will be placed on the job and they will not stop until it is finished.

Mr. Sherman announced yesterday that the hall would positively be opened on the last day of March with a strong attraction.

Setting Up Lathe.

Louis H. Morgan, of New Market, who is the superintendent at the Pond Machine Tool Works, is at present located at Youngstown, O., where he is setting up the large lathe which was recently shipped from the plant in this city. The lathe is said to have been the largest ever built by the local concern.

Mrs. Pope Building House.

It is Mrs. E. R. Pope, of Park avenue, who is building the dwelling house corner of Park avenue and Fifth street, and not Howard A. Pope, as previously stated. Mrs. Pope purchased the property some time ago and then decided to improve it.

WHAT VOTING MACHINES WOULD COST JERSEY

There Would be 1,114 Necessary, Making a Total Cost of About $577,000.

UNION COUNTY'S SHARE

PRACTICAL POLITICIANS SEEM TO FAVOR THEIR INSTALLATION.

One Explains His Reasons for Advocating Them—Public Sentiment Appears to Favor the Adoption of the Voting Machines.

Governor Murphy clearly voices public opinion in recommending the adoption of voting machines in this State. Everybody seems to be in favor of them. One of the most surprising things about it is that the practical politicians advocate the use of these machines. One of these explained the reason to a newspaper correspondent.

"These voting machines," he said, "would do away with corruption at the polls. There would be no possible way under their use of knowing whether the purchaser of votes secured his goods. The most disgusting and repulsive business that a practical politician was called upon to perform under the old system of organization work was vote buying, and seeing to it that he secured the worth of his money.

"With these machines in use there will be no possibilty of identifying the purchased ballots and self-respecting men can cheerfully take a part in organization work. The change would redeem our politics from its most degrading feature and elevate it to a higher plane. Many men who have for years refused to go near the polls because of these foul taints would come out and vote in this cleaner and purer air. The objection has been raised that these machines do not insure absolute secrecy. When a split ticket is voted there is a distinct and audible click, and those who hear it know that the voter has not put in 'a straight' ticket. But this little defect, if it is one, can easily be cured by prohibiting anybody but the voter from approaching within earshot of the machine, or of requiring that the machine be inclosed in a soundproof booth."

A pertinent and pressing question will be, if the Legislature adopts the machine for general use, whether the State or the counties shall pay for them. A large amount of money is involved. There are 1,114 voting precincts in the State, and if a machine were bought for each precinct the total cost would be, at $500 for each machine, $577,000.

This would take a pretty big lump out of the surplus if the State should buy them. If the counties should be required to buy them the cost to each county would be as follows: Atlantic, $14,500; Bergen, $31,500; Burlington, $21,500; Camden, $44,000; Cape May, $8,000; Cumberland, $16,500; Essex, $87,500; Gloucester, $10,000; Hudson, $91,500; Hunterdon, $13,500; Mercer, $30,000; Middlesex, $21,000. Monmouth, $28,000; Morris, $27,500; Ocean, $12,000; Passaic, $30,500; Salem, $9,000; Somerset, $12,000; Sussex, $10,500; Union, $29,500; Warren, $13,500.

As, however, persons can vote much more rapidly by the use of these machines than under the present system, it is probable that many of the existing election precincts can be consolidated. The number may possibly be reduced by several hundred. This can only be determined after a practical test of the capacity of the machine in actual operation.

Want Barbers Licensed.

The Journeymen Barbers' State Association will hold a meeting tomorrow evening at 6 o'colck at Ehrmann's Hall, Springfield avenue, Newark, to consider the bill to be introduced in the Legislature for a State Board to license barbers. There will be present delegates from various places in the State, including Plainfield.

Term Almost Over.

Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash visited Alpha Lodge, A. O. U. W., last evening. Mr. Nash's term in his present office will expire about March 1, when it is expected that Grand Foreman Cadmus, who is postmaster at Bayonne, will succeed to the office.

As Executrix.

Mrs. Long will act as executrix of the estate of her husband, the late General Eli Long, of Grove street, in the borough.

PACKAGE SOCIAL.

Ladies' Aid Society of German Reformed Church Arranged Event.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church has decided to hold a package social Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, February 3 and 4 at the church parlors.

Tuesday evening the entertainment will be presented by William Schorb with illustrated songs. A quilt will be chanced off at this time. Wednesday evening there will be a package social and all the members and their friends are invited to come and bring a package to be auctioned off. Refreshments will be served at this social.

BEST DECORATED WINDOW

JOHN P. POWERS RECEIVES FIRST PRIZE FROM RIEGERS PERFUMERY CO.

Won Prize Against Druggists of the Country—Substantial Amount in Gold.

Congratulations on every side have been rained upon John P. Powers, proprietor of the Somerset Pharmacy, on his good fortune in securing the first prize offered for the best decorated window during the holidays, offered by the Riegers Perfumery Company, of California. Mr. Powers will not give out the full amount but says that it is a good sized gold prize.

The first he knew of his good fortune was last night when he received a letter from the California concern telling him that he was the winner of the contest in which there were 7,000 druggists throughout the United States. The second prize will be awarded to Crane & Wagner, of Chicago, and the third prize will be awarded to Wischerth & Dozier, of Brooklyn.

Mr. Powers' window was arranged in a very attractive manner representing a California flower garden with a little railroad running through it. In the window and on each car of the miniature train was displayed some of the perfume. It attracted much attention.

Mr. Powers is the first New Jersey druggist to receive a prize from the concern, as most of them have been distributed among western druggists.

The proprietor of the Somerset Pharmacy is a graduate of the College of Pharmacy of New York of the class of '93. He was associated with H. P. Reynolds, of this city, for five years.

BLAZE AT POTTER'S.

Spontaneous Combustion Started a Little Fire in the Paint Closet Thursday Evening.

A fire was narrowly averted at the Potter Press Works, Thursday evening. William Mack was busy at a lathe when he remarked to Assistant Superintendent George Lawson that he smelled smoke Nothing was thought of the remark at the time but later the odor became very noticeable and the assistant superintendent again had his attention attracted to it. Mack broke open the door of the paint closet. There in a corner was a pair of workingmen's overalls, in the pocket of which was a bunch of waste.

The waste had caught fire by spontaneous combustion and already had burst into a good sized flame. The blaze was extingished without much trouble.

Drum Corps Getting Equipped.

A special meeting of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps was held las night when a committee was appointed to go to New York, today, to look at some new drums and other paraphernalia. Those who have this matter in charge are: Frank W. March, Frank L. Manchester and Marion Brokaw. It was announced that the new uniforms, which were expected to arrive some time ago, would be here today. The corps will attend the fair of the Red Men, in Saengerbund Hall next week, Thursday night.

Death of Somerset Resident.

Abner Randolph, one of the best known farmers in Somerset county, died yesterday at his home, near East Millstone, at an advanced age. He was the father of the Randolph brothers, of Bound Brook, who are engaged in the mineral water business.

NEW TROLLEY ROUTE TO SOUTH PLAINFIELD

Board of Trade is Looking Into the Advisibility of Building That Way.

IS WANTED BY MANY

THE NEW ROUTE IS SHORTER AND THROUGH AS GOOD A TERRITORY.

Arrangements Can be Made to Start From Monroe Avenue Terminus and Run Through Private Right of Way.

Through the suggestion made at the Board of Trade meeting, Tuesday evening, it has been found that Plainfield avenue is not the only route by which South Plainfield may be brought nearer this city by means of a trolley road.

Acting on remarks made by P. J. McDonough, a business man in both places, members of the board have looked over the ground designated by him and have found it practicable to run a line not only shorter but in just as good, if not better territory. The route will be suggested to the trolley officials as soon as possible and in company with the committee from the board will be taken over it.

The new way is stated as beginning at the present Monroe avenue terminus of the Fourth street line along the former street to Sherman avenue. By private right of way it can then be taken through the Maltby property and several other large tracts direct to the low ground just below the mill pond. This is controlled by Frank Bergen, of the Middlesex Water Company, who has already informed the officials that they have his permission to build a trestle to the opposite side. From there the remainder of the way is any easy matter as it is but a short distance to the Lehigh Valley Railroad station.

South Plainfield is now the only suburban town that is not tapped by an electric road from this city and it is one that the trolley people have long been trying to reach. Heretofore Plainfield avenue was thought to be the only feasible route but it has been impossible to begin operations owing to property owners withholding consent. Those on the new route suggested are not only anxious to have the line pass that way but are willing to help by any means possible to carry it to success.

In conversation with the store keepers and leading citizens in South Plainfield, Mr. McDonough learned that one and all wanted the trolley and wanted it bad. By it a great deal of new territory could be opened up, some thirty or forty residents of the smaller place employed in this city could reach their work easier and it would practically bring the Lehigh Valley road into Plainfield. This is no small factor as is known by those who have travelled back and forth by the road's stage route.

At the next meeting of the local Board of Trade the committee appointed to look into the matter will render a report and it is thought the members will unite in giving support to the object.

Miss Bushnell's Luncheon.

Miss Helen Bushnell gave a luncheon today at her home on Central avenue, for a few friends. The decorations were unusually attractive. Those present were Miss Florence Waring, Miss May Waring, Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, Miss Fanny Cox, Miss May Evans, Miss Mary Whiton, Miss Louise Holly, Mrs. Edward M. Van Buren, Mrs. Clifford W. McGee, Miss Helen Bushnell and Miss Edith De Russy, of New York.

Elected to High Positions.

It is with no little pride that the friends of Augustus D. Shepard and Jared K. Myers, of thts city, learned that at the annual meeting of the American Bank Note Company held Jan. 20, Mr. Shepard was elected chairman of the board of trustees and Mr. Myers was made second vice president. In this staunch institution it is gratifying to know that two Plainfielders of unquestioned ability have much to do with the management of its affairs.

Funeral of Miss Reed.

The funeral of the late Miss Lizzie Reed, who passed away at Philadelphia early in the week, will be held from the residence of her sister, Mrs. Moses Carey, at 313 Filmore avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Rev. Mr. Bean will officiate. The interment will be in the Methodist cemtery.

THEATRICAL.

"Mr. Blue Beard," the Drury Lane spectacular extravaganza which Klaw & Erlanger present as the successor to their remarkable hit of last season, "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," received its American premiere at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, Wednesday evening, representing an expenditure of $150,000 by the Drury Lane corporation of London and an additional outlay of fully $60,000 in its translation to the New York stage by Klaw & Erlanger.

The new piece is "Drury Lane" only so far as the costumes and scenery are concerned. The enormous success of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" last season was unquestionably attributable to the fact that the book and score were practically American, possessing quick action, snap and humor and a large number of lively specialty features. Klaw & Erlanger followed the same policy in preparing "Mr. Blue Beard" for presentation here. The original book and music were practically discarded and John J. McNally and Frederick Solomon provided a new libretto and score. While the familiar tale of "Blue Beard" is retained as the theme of the story, the predominant interest of the book is entirely humorous, as in "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast." There is, of course, a sentimental interest, but this is for the serio-comic order, making mainly for laughter. A large number of musical specialties are introduced throughout the piece, which is played with that entertaining spirit and dash so pleasing to New York theatre patrons. It is presented in three acts, each of which presents a measure of entertainment more than equal to most attractions in their entirety.

In reply to inquiries we have pleasure in announcing that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is like the solid preparation of that admirable remedy in that it cleanses and heals membranes affected by nasal catarrh. There is no drying or sneezing. The Liquid Cream Balm is adapted to use by patients who have trouble in inhaling through the nose and prefer spraying. The price, including spraying tube, is 75 cents. Sold by druggists or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The New Brunswick Y. M. C. A. is out of debt as the result of securing a legacy from a former saloon-keeper amounting to $4,000. In the minds of some people there is a doubt whether it were better to have a mortgage or the drinks on the building.—Newark News.

There is a discussion going on in North Plainfield as there is in many other places, as to the advantages of the vertical system of penmanship over the Spencerian system. Superintendent Wightman is endeavoring to get the opinions of parents about the matter. If he can get any definite conclusions upon which he can decide which system to adopt, Superintendent Wightman will do a public service. The system which will produce the most legible writing is what we want.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

The general belief since the recent election has been that the Meeker anti-spring election act will not be repealed at the present session of the Legislature, as the local leaders of the Republican party are unanimous for the retention of the law upon the statute books. But now that a bill for the repeal of the objectionable act has been introduced by a Democrat—Senator Hudspeth, of Hudson—Governor Murphy has frankly declared that in case the bill is passed, he will sign it. The attitude of the Governor will give the friends of the repealer some encouragement, though it does not mean that the Senator and Assemblymen will rush to the support of the Hudspeth measure.

There appears to be a considerable sentiment among the lawmakers in favor of adding a referendum clause to the repealer, and such an addition would also meet with the approval of Governor Murphy, who is perfectly willing that the people should be given an opportunity to pass on the measure. Such a plan would be eminently satisfactory to the opponents of the Meeker law. There is no doubt in their minds that by far the majority of the voters of the State are thoroughly opposed to the consolidation of the elections, and with an opportunity of expressing their desires on that subject, untrammelled by any other issue, there is little doubt that the Meeker act would be overwhelmingly repealed. It would therefore be gratifying to them if the new bill should pass with a referendum clause attached.

In spite of the declaration of the Governor, however, the changes for the passage of the Hudspeth bill are not rosy. If the Meeker act remains on the statute books, and the Legislature passes the primary reform and the voting machine bills, the first named will be largely robbed of its powers for evil. That is one cause for satisfaction to the friends of honest election.—Newark News.

Former Secretary of State George Wurts, whose public services at Trenton and whose long connection with newspapers and with politics have made him thoroughly familiar with the controlling forces of Legislatures, writes in his paper, the Paterson Press: While our conviction remains unaltered that the Meeker law is a bad one, we do not share the opinion of some of our esteemed contemporaries which esteem the law as lightly as we do, that it is likely to be repealed this winter. If the Republican party, which passed the law, had been defeated at the last election, or had narrowly escaped defeat, there would have been a good prospect of the repeal of the Meeker law. But that nearly 20,000 Republican plurality in the State will, we feel almost sure, be effectively used to discourage any movement for repeal. The Republican leaders at Trenton will probably urge that it will be good politics to leave the law alone."

There is no doubt that Mr. Wurts has stated correctly the arguments that the party bosses will use, with fair prospects of convincing the lawmakers unless the people make evident, in no uncertain way, that they desire the repeal of this unpopular act. As the News has already pointed out, the signing of the petitions placed in circulation by the Citizens' Union of East Orange will be one way of making manifest the feeling of the public, while personal appeals to Senators and Assemblymen will be still more effective. With proper effort, the News believes the people will be able to regain the privilege of electing the local officials without having the issues beclouded with partisan State and national issues. But half-hearted work will not accomplish the desired end. Over-confidence in the power of the press is sure to result in the defeat of the popular movement. Not until the legislators feel that their constituents are watching their course in this matter, and propose to hold them responsible at the polls for their action or inaction will the repeal of the Meeker law be assured.—Newark News.

ANTITRUST BILL.

The Littlefield Measure Adopted by Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The judiciary committee of the house has adopted the antitrust bill which was prepared by the subcommittee of which Representative Littlefield of Maine is chairman. The bill was reported to the full committee by the subcommittee as a substitute for the Littlefield publicity bill. The committee authorized the bill to be favorably reported to the house.

Six hours were given by the judiciary committee to consideration of the bill before a final vote on its adoption was reached. There were differences between members as to several features of the bill, and much discussion was had. Votes were taken on several sections, but none was disturbed. A few changes in punctuation and one verbal change were made. On the question of favorably reporting the bill to the house the vote was unanimous, the Democratic members and some of the Republican members reserving the right to propose amendments when the bill is before the house.

Representative Littlefield, chairman of the subcommittee which formulated the measure, expects to make his report of the bill to the house by Monday, the text of the report to accompany the bill being practically complete.

It is said that on some of the votes affecting sections of the bill Republicans and Democrats voted on the same side.

The house passed 235 private pension bills. They included pensions to the widow of General Franz Sigel at $100 a month, the widow of General Francis Negley at $500 and the widow of Rear Admiral Henry F. Picking at $40.

The Alaska delegate bill was passed. It provides for the representation of the territory of Alaska in the house of representatives by a delegate. It also defines the citizenship and the qualification of electors and creates the machinery for the elections, the date of which shall be the last Tuesday in September. The first delegate is to be elected next autumn and is to hold a seat in the Fifty-eighth congress.

The statehood bill again occupied the attention of the senate. During the debate several spirited colloquies occurred, in which senators of both sides of the question charged the others with obstructing important legislation. Mr. Burnham continued his remarks in opposition to the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

During the morning hour Mr. Fairbanks made an ineffectual attempt to secure consideration of the immigration bill.

FORT FIRED FIRST.

German Commander Says Venezuela Was Aggressor.

OFFICIAL REPORT SENT TO BERLIN.

Panther While Passing the Maracaibo Bar Was Attacked—Returned With the Vineta For Punishment.

BERLIN, Jan. 24. — Commodore Scheder, commander of the German fleet in Venezuelan waters, officially reports the bombardment of Fort San Carlos from Maracaibo, under date of Jan. 21, as follows:

"On the 17th inst. while the Panther was passing the Maracaibo bar she was unexpectedly attacked by Fort San Carlos, which opened a heavy fire on her. To this the Panther replied, and a cannonade was exchanged for half an hour. Owing to the difficulties of navigation the Panther then desisted.

"In order to exact an immediate punishment for this attack, the more so as the Venezuelan government had proclaimed it a victory, I bombarded the fort, with the Vineta, on the 21st inst. and destroyed it."

WANT BLOCKADE RAISED.

Venezuelans, Suspicious of Germany, Look to United States for Aid.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Jan. 24.—"Raise the blockade" is now the cry of Venezuela. While in the interior there is as yet no suffering, at the seaports the action of the powers has thrown many stevedores and fishermen out of employment. Besides, so long as hostile men-of-war are before the ports there is danger of bombardment, with casualties in its train, and unconcealed fear that in spite of the Monroe doctrine an attempt may be made to carve up the republic.

Having intrusted her case to Minister Bowen, thus indicating that she is willing to make an immediate settlement, Venezuela feels that the powers should remove all apprehension of further bombardment by lifting the blockade.

Appreciating the weakness of the fortifications of his country and fearing that in case of action damage might be inflicted upon one of the blockading ships, which would increase the financial burden imposed upon his government, President Castro has given instructions under which no offensive operations will be begun by his artillerists.

Germans in Venezuela, discussing the action of their government, generally approve of what it is doing and say the measures enforced should be so severe as to convince every Venezuelan that Germany proposes to protect her interests, whatever the cost. These men advocate foreign control of the country. They do not want government by the United States alone, but they would like joint control, in which Germany would participate. The Venezuelans are apprehensive that their territory is in danger, and they look to the United States to save it from partition.

Another Version of the Affair.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—In a dispatch from Willemstad, Curacao, the correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "On Wednesday the German gunboat Panther, which was insecurely anchored off San Carlos, moved in close to the Castillo battery, which fired one shot as a warning. The Panther disregarded the hint. Another shot was fired from the Castillo battery. Thereupon the Panther opened fire and continued the cannonade for half an hour, when she retired. The Vineta immediately began a heavy bombardment of Fort San Carlos, seriously damaging the fort and the houses in the vicinity."

Fort Still Holds Out.

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, Jan. 24.—At the latest reports Fort San Carlos was in the possession of the government forces, and the bombardment by the German warships was still going on. There has been no material change in the situation. The gunboat Panther was the only vessel to come inside the bar. Communication with the fort is very difficult. Great excitement prevails in Maracaibo.

Small Slice For Bank's Creditors.

SILVERTON, Colo., Jan. 24.—The receiver of the Bank of Silverton, which closed its doors on Jan. 2 because of the suicide of James H. Robin, president and principal owner of the bank, has made a report showing the total liabilities to be $177,718, including deposits of $151,718. The creditors, it is said, will receive between 20 and 25 cents on the dollar.

King Oscar Very Ill.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 24.—It is reported on excellent authority that King Oscar has collapsed both mentally and physically, chiefly in consequence of overwork and worry, due to the present strained relations of Sweden and Norway. It is expected that he will abdicate shortly in favor of Crown Prince Gustav, his eldest son.

Will Not Sell to Tobacco Trust.

HAVANA, Jan. 24.—Four of the largest cigar factories here have inaugurated an independent movement by the signing of sworn agreements to refrain for ten years from selling their brands or plants to the tobacco trust. Other factories are expected to do likewise.

For a New Cuban Capitol.

HAVANA, Jan. 24.—The house of representatives has appropriated $500,000 for the construction of a capitol. At present the [illegible] senate are located [illegible] and a long distance apart.

CABINET HAS TREATY

Favorable End of Negotiations Gives Pleasure.

THE ANNUITY FIXED AT $250,000.

This Is the Only Change Made In the Original Draft—Document Sent to the Senate For Ratification.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Yesterday's meeting of the cabinet was one of the most important held in several weeks. Subjects of great moment were discussed fully, the session continuing for two hours. All the members of the cabinet were present, Secretary Hay leaving his home for the first time in several days to attend the meeting. He presented a draft of the Panama canal treaty just signed, and both the president and his associates in the cabinet expressed satisfaction with the results achieved through the long and difficult negotiations.

The treaty is identical with that drawn by this government several months ago and at that time submitted to the Colombian government, with the single exception of the amount of annuity to be paid Colombia for the right of way of the canal. This government proposed an annuity of $100,000, while Colombia demanded $650,000. The Colombian government's demand was based, it is stated, upon the ascertained returns from the Panama Railroad company in port dues, etc., which Colombia did not desire to have reduced. During the several months of negotiations Colombia agreed to all points in the treaty proposed by the United States with the exception of the annuity. That has been the point of difference for many weeks, and at one time it threatened to break off negotiations entirely. Secretary Hay communicated directly with the Colombian government, intimating that some agreement must be reached as soon as the United States desired to enter on the construction of the canal if it was to be constructed by the Panama route. For several days active efforts have been making to secure an agreement, but not until Thursday were they successful. The Colombian government then, through Mr. Herran, the charge d'affaires here, agreed to accept an annuity of $250,000. This was entirely satisfactory to the president and Secretary Hay, and while it is a larger amount than was offered at first, it is believed by administration officials that the senate undoubtedly will accept the figure named in the treaty, particularly after it is made clear that a lesser amount would deprive Colombia of income which she is now actually receiving.

All other points than this one of money compensation remain as they stood in the original draft of the treaty and are completely satisfactory to the United States government.

By the terms of the treaty the United States agrees to make a cash payment of $10,000,000 in gold to the Colombian government and after the expiration of nine years to pay a rental of $250,000 per year. The lease of the strip of land to be used for the canal and for canal purposes is practically made perpetual, the provision on this point being that the first lease shall be for 100 years and renewable thereafter in terms of 100 years at the pleasure of the United States. The strip is to be ten kilometers or about six miles in width, and over this territory the United States is given police and sanitary jurisdiction, although it is explicitly specified that Colombia does not surrender sovereignty over it. The United States is to have the privilege of free importation of vessels and material to be used in the construction of the canal. It also is given the right to improve, use and protect harbors at both the Atlantic and Pacific ends of the canal. The grant is made exclusive to the United States, and no taxes or rentals are to be charged in addition to the gross sums of $10,000,000 cash and $250,000 annually.

It was not Secretary Hay's intention to transmit the signed treaty to the senate yesterday, but after the president and the cabinet discussed it the conclusion was reached that it would be advisable to send it to the senate at the earliest possible moment. The formal letter of transmittal, therefore, was prepared at once, and late in the afternoon the treaty was sent to the senate. The president and members of the cabinet are confident that the treaty will be ratified at a reasonably early date without encountering serious opposition.

The Venezuelan situation was discussed at length, but it can be said by authority that no change in the attitude of the United States is in contemplation at this time. This government will continue its policy of "sitting tight." The bombardment by the German warships of Fort San Carlos is regretted sincerely by officials of the administration because of their apprehension that it may complicate seriously the pending negotiations between Minister Bowen, as the representative of Venezuela, and the representatives of the powers. However, while the administration regards the bombardment as unwarranted, the United States has no intention of taking official cognizance of it.

Some consideration was given to the proposed antitrust legislation now pending in congress. Regret was expressed that the impression prevailed in some quarters that the bill reported to the house from the judiciary committee was an "administration measure." It is made clear that it is not an administration measure and does not represent entirely the views of the administration on what antitrust legislation should be enacted by this congress.

MANY WITNESSES HEARD.

Coal Strike Court Gets Little Information.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—The independent operators of the Wyoming and Lackawanna regions, in which Scranton and Wilkesbarre are situated, occupied the time of yesterday's session of the coal strike commission. The attorneys representing the thirty companies in these two regions called about a dozen witnesses who represented different concerns.

In the examination of these witnesses the lawyers tried to avoid as much as possible the repetition of testimony already presented by the larger companies. Therefore the examination was confined to the particular company with which the witness was connected. Nothing of importance was elicited.

There was unanimity of opinion, however, that the lack of discipline among the miners and the restriction of their earning capacity, testified to by witnesses for the large coal companies, is more pronounced since the union came into the anthracite field than it was before the men were organized.

The independent operators in the Hazleton region opened their case today. The firm of G. B. Markle & Co. is among these operators.

Mine Operators to Blame.

BOSTON, Jan. 24.—The statement was brought out indirectly that the increase in the cost of bituminous coal for New England is due in a large measure to the fact that the operators who control the bituminous mines have taken advantage of the necessities of the people to obtain additional profits. The witness, S. P. Burton, Jr., representing Castner & Burton of Philadelphia, was loath to express this fact in direct words, but the questioning of Senator Apsey and Representative Schofield, assisted by Attorney General Parker, elicited the fact.

Coal Prices Tumble.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 24.—The price of coal has taken a big tumble, and now it can be bought at the rate which prevailed before the "famine." All the companies have reduced the prices, the reduction going into effect at once. For the past several weeks coal has been selling here at $6.50 and $7 per ton. The reduced price at the breaker is $3.00 for stove, $3.10 for pea and $2.25 for buckwheat. The reduction will affect the whole country.

PEACE NOT IN SIGHT.

Colorado Senatorial Fight Goes Merrily on Without Results.

DENVER, Jan. 24.—The house, which adjourned on Wednesday until 2 o'clock yesterday, held only a brief session in the afternoon. No steps were taken toward unseating any more Democrats.

Radical measures have been adopted by the Republican senate, which held an executive session in the lieutenant governor's office, to abridge the authority of the rival body and accomplish the removal of its officers. To this end resolutions were adopted notifying the state treasurer and auditor that W. H. Adams, president pro tem.; Charles M. Sprague, secretary; J. Dooley, sergeant-at-arms, and his assistants, have been removed from office and are not entitled to any pay for their services as officers and employees of the senate from and after Jan. 19, 1903.

A motion was unanimously carried that the state printer be notified not to take anything to print, except at his own peril, from any other body assuming to be the senate of Colorado except that which is certified by the president of the senate, Lieutenant Governor Haggott or the secretary of the senate, C. F. Haggar.

Governor Peabody is still using his influence to bring the two senates together, but appears to have made no progress in that direction.

An additional barricade is being erected for the protection of the Democratic senate. Carpenters were at work today putting up heavy doors in the corridors leading to the cloakrooms of the senate chamber. Part of the guard will be placed at these doors should an attack be made on the chamber with a view to securing possession. This obstacle must first be passed before any outside force can reach the anterooms.

Boers Seek Site For Colony.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 24.—Dr. W. F. Reitz, former secretary of the Transvaal; General Samuel Pearson, who took an active part in the fight against British mule shipments to South Africa via New Orleans, and several other prominent Boers left New Orleans today on a special train, which the Southern Pacific placed at the disposal of Dr. Reitz and the Boer party, and began a journey which will take them through the rice and cattle country of Louisiana and Texas and the ranges of the west as far as California. It is reliably reported that a great Boer colony will be established in Louisiana or Texas.

Lieutenant Evans Acquitted.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan. 24.—First Lieutenant H. Clay Evans, Jr., whose trial by court martial on the charge of neglect of duty was begun at Fort Monroe last Wednesday, has been honorably acquitted. The alleged offense was the repeated absence of Lieutenant Evans from certain classes, it being assumed that he was willfully neglecting his duties. It was shown at the trial that the lieutenant's absence was due to illness. His uncle, Major Evans of Tennessee, defended the case.

Snow In Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 24.—A snowstorm has been general over Kansas. No severe cold accompanied the snow, but the weather is growing colder. The show was especially heavy in the central portion of the state.

DUFF'S REFINED MOLASSES

"Gingerbread" boys and girls, in thousands of homes, are made sweeter, healthier, and happier by DUFF'S REFINED. All cooking of which it forms a part, is more wholesome, finer flavored, surer to please, than when other molasses is used. There's a richness and sweetness in DUFF'S REFINED, that ordinary molasses never possesses. And its baking qualities speedily show, in the light loaf of gingerbread, or in the crisp snaps or tender cookies. The plain top or screw cap, full weight cans, in which it is sold by grocers, keep it as it is made—the purest, cleanest, sweetest molasses that can be bought. Booklet of choice recipes, free, on request.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Heavy Buying of Better Class of Goods, Though Prices Are High.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Heavy transactions in merchandise are reported, but there is much complaint regarding the slow movement of freight. The situation as to general lines is aggravated by the precedence given fuel over all other freight except live stock and perishable goods. Notwithstanding the extensive increase in transporting facilities during the past year some roads have been compelled to decline consignments, and in many cases where a large number of cars were desired only one was provided. Earnings thus far available for January surpass last year's by 5 per cent and those of 1901 by 16.2 per cent.

Labor disputes are few, the most serious occurring in the footwear industry between two organizations of workers, the employers having no direct part in the controversy, wages and hours apparently giving satisfaction. In some other industries further advances in wages are reported. It is conspicuous in practically every section of the country that despite high prices buying is liberal and of the better qualities of goods, while dealings, as a rule, are on more of a cash basis. Demand for building materials is unusually brisk for the season, and prices of lumber at the south have advanced.

Although fortunate sections are receiving a better supply of fuel, the situation is still serious, and many pig iron furnaces have been added to the idle list. As producers have sold their capacity for some time, there is little new business and no effort on the part of sellers to secure contracts; hence prices of pig iron are steady and new transactions light. Traffic conditions are conspicuously bad in the vicinity of Pittsburg, and there is no prospect of permanent relief until railway facilities in that region are greatly enlarged.

TO IMPEACH JUDGE HARNEY.

Montana House of Representatives Favors Proceedings.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 24.—Steps have been taken by the house of representatives to institute impeachment proceedings against Edward W. Harney, judge of the second judicial district court at Butte. By a vote of 39 to 28 a resolution introduced by Representative Connor, Republican floor leader of the house, was sent to the judiciary committee as follows:

"Resolved, That Edward W. Harney, a judge of the district court of Silver Bow county, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors and of malfeasance in office, and that five members be selected by the house of representatives to prepare articles of impeachment and to present them at the bar of the senate and to prosecute the same."

Five Republicans voted with the Silver Bow Democrats and labor members, whose seats are being contested, and eleven others to table the resolution, which, however, was passed.

Harney is the judge who instituted the disbarment proceedings against A. J. Shores, leading counsel for the Amalgamated Copper company, now pending in Judge McClernan's court at Butte. It was Judge Harney who decided the Minnie Healy mining case and whose name was involved in sensational affidavits filed as part of records of the case.

GUILTY OF TREASON

Colonel Lynch Sentenced to Death In London.

LED IRISH BRIGADE IN BOER WAR.

Convicted Member of Parliament Takes Sentence Coolly—Death Penalty Not Likely to Be Inflicted.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Colonel Arthur Lynch, member of parliament for Galway, has been found guilty of high treason by a jury in Lord Chief Justice Alverstone's court because he led the Irish brigade against England in the Boer war. He was immediately sentenced to death by the lord chief justice.

Lynch took his sentence coolly. When asked if he had anything to say before sentence was rendered, he replied:

"Thank you, I will say nothing."

After the sentence he simply bowed his head to the court and was taken away by the warders. The lord chief justice gave Mrs. Lynch permission to see her husband.

It is almost certain that Lynch will never be executed, but that his sentence will be reduced to a term of imprisonment, probably ten years, by the king or to exile to some foreign country, as Ireland would be thrown into a state of redhot indignation should he be put to death.

The jury was out but a short time. Before it retired brief addresses were made by counsel on both sides.

When the defense closed its case, Counsel Shea said to the jury:

"Colonel Lynch took the oath of allegiance to the South African Republic in order to facilitate his newspaper work and be able to accompany the Boer commanders without the fear of court martial.

"When he sailed for South Africa, he had no idea of becoming a burgher."

Replying for the prosecution, the solicitor general, Sir Edward Carson, maintained that Colonel Lynch had joined the Boer army as a discontented Irishman, "thereby committing a most cowardly and most serious act of treason."

"His naturalization," continued the solicitor general, "was only a flimsy pretext."

Mrs. Roosevelt's Musicale.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Roosevelt gave another of her Friday evening musicales at the White House last night, to which a large number of guests were invited. There was an interesting programme of fourteen numbers, which included selections from popular songs and from the classics. Mr. Albert Lockwood was the pianist, with Mrs. May Pomeroy Graves as accompanist and Mrs. Dora C. Howard soprano. Those invited included the members of the cabinet, the greater portion of the diplomatic corps, senators and representatives, officers of the army and navy, United States Minister Herbert W. Bowen and Mr. Vanderbilt and the Right Rev. John L. Spalding. Preceding the musical entertainment the president and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained at dinner.

Women Trampled to Death.

NEW York, Jan. 24.—In fleeing from a fire next door that did not menace their safety in the least three women were killed, a score or more seriously injured, and twice that number were trampled under foot yesterday in the tobacco factory of L. Miller & Sons, at 155 and 157 Crosby street, which runs back to Elm street. The loss of life and injury to limb were due to a panic in the ranks of the Italian cigar makers, male and female. Men beat women down with fists and bludgeons in the mad rush from an imaginary danger. Men crowded women from fire escape ladders and walked on the prostrate forms of women.

To Curb Divorce Business.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Episcopal, Presbyterian and Methodist committees, in furtherance of common action by religious bodies to secure uniform marriage and divorce laws, have met in this city and have elected an executive committee, of which Bishop Doane of Albany has been made chairman and the Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, secretary. The delegates agreed in the opinion that common action by all religious bodies in America is desirable to abate the number of divorces and to secure uniform laws on the subject of marriage.

Shot Baby on His Knee.

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 24.—Joseph Arthur of Lawnside, a village a few miles south of here, accidentally shot and killed his two-year-old child while he was examining a revolver which he believed to be empty. Arthur was holding the baby on his knee while inspecting the weapon, which in some way yet unexplained was discharged, killing the child.

Earth Shook In South Carolina.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 24.—An earthquake shock was felt here at 8:11 o'clock last night. There was one distinct shock, which was not sufficient to cause any damage to property or even to occasion serious alarm. Reports from points near the city indicate that the shock was felt throughout lower South Carolina.

Transport Dix Believed Safe.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 24.—Careful inquiry fails to find the slightest foundation for the report that the United States transport Dix has foundered. The Dix sailed from Seattle Dec. 31 direct for Nagasaki and is not due there for two days yet. Major Bingham, quartermaster at Seattle, discredits the rumor.

HANDS OFF!

Hands off, Senator Hutchinson! This question of the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield is not one that interests any of the Legislative representatives of Mercer county in any way save to see that the people be allowed to settle a question of local interest without any outside interference. Senator Hutchinson is not a resident or property owner in either of the interested counties. What has he to do with the Greater Plainfield question anyway? When he introduced those repealers for the annexation and consolidation acts, he entered into a controversy which needs none of his attention. It must and shall be settled by the people interested and Senator Hutchinson and other outsiders must keep their hands off!

Perhaps Senator Hutchinson has forgotten what happened last winter. Those annexation and consolidation acts were passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor with the express idea of allowing the people themselves to settle the question which concerned them alone. There has been a vote, according to the provisions of the annexation act, on the question of changing the county boundary line. It was defeated. There still remains the consolidation bill and there are those who believe that consolidation without changing the county lines is the only true way to solve the problem. This will come up in due time. The people are entitled to a chance to express themselves on this question. It is a mere matter of local interest and as such it should be settled by those interested. Therefore we say, Senator Hutchinson, hands off!

Last fall's election was an object lesson to some people. If Senator Hutchinson will stop a moment and think, he will see that it applies to himself as well as others. North Plainfield is a law abiding community but it doesn't fancy having other people try to run its affairs and it has taken a practical way of showing that fact. Has Senator Hutchinson so little regard for the interest of his party as to desire to make the feeling against it greater? If he has then Mercer better look around and get a new senator who knows his business.

Some of the newspapers of the State have failed to keep in touch with the situation and now proclaim that the reason for repealing the annexation and consolidation acts is that their passage cost the Republican party the county of Somerset in the election last November. Senator Hutchinson knows better. So do the members of the Legislature. It was the obstinancy of certain party leaders who wanted everything and refused to meet a fair compromise and who insisted on trying to interfere in North Plainfield affairs.

The Congressional candidate received North Plainfield's support last fall. If Mercer county's Senator insists upon interfering, however, the Mercer county man who is in Congress now may want to run for re-election, and is likely to discover the situation changed. This greater city question is for Plainfield and North Plainfield to settle and the less assistance the rest of the State gives this community, divided against itself, in settling its own trouble, the better it will be.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

"St. Valentine's Day" will soon be here and if you wish to make a selection of pretty valentines to send to your friends you will find a good assortment at A. M. Harper's store on Park avenue.

The place to buy your bread and cake, is Warnock's bakery where they make, the kind that always "tastes like more." Ice cream they have, that's pure and nice—just try it once and you'll try it twice—as many others have done before.

When in search of first-class dry goods go to Putnam & DeGraw's store on West Front street. The stock is complete with most desirable goods and only the best quality sold. The men's furnishing goods department is one of the attractions at this store.

The Miller oil heater has been the means of saving many Plainfield families from a heavy coal bill that season. It gives out enough warmth to make any large room comfortable and is neat and economical. It is handled in this city by Joseph W. Gavett.

With some people it makes no difference where they buy drugs, toilet articles or have prescriptions compounded, but it does make a difference and this you will see if you trade with L. W. Randolph, the West Front street prescription druggist. His store is first-class in every particular and prompt service, best goods and care is exercised in every detail.

CITY JOTTINGS.

COULDN'T DECIDE.

Wetumpkah Tribe Questions Admitting Women to Social Affairs.

Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, Improved Order Red Men, met Thursday evening, and a feature was a debate as to whether women should be invited to the entertainments and suppers given by the tribe. Jerry Foss and Oscar A. Campbell could not decide the matter, so Fred Firstbrook and Michael Armstrong took a hand. It was impossible for them to come to a conclusion and it was finally left to Mr. Armstrong to decide the question.

On Thursday evening, February 12, the tribe will give a clam chowder supper and it is quite likely that the affair will be made a "stag."

The Catholic parsonage is now well on the way toward completion.

Mrs. James Martin is recovering slowly from a severe illness.

Miss Edith Boice is confined to her home with a sprained ankle.

A meeting of the Willing Workers will be held this afternoon.

NEW MARKET.

Mrs. Hannah Nelson has recently had a monument erected in the South Plainfield cemetery. It weighs twelve tons.

A dime social will be held at the home of Miss Cora Dayton some time next week by the C. E. Society.

Friendship Social Circle will meet next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Fred Nelson, of Watchung.

Joseph and Frank Penrose have been entertaining relatives from Lambertsville this week.

Mrs. L. E. Livermore is in Connecticut with her mother who is very ill.

Mrs. James Dunham is recovering but slowly from her recent illness.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The light epidemic of diphtheria, which has alarmed the residents during the past week, seems to have been checked by the Board of Health. No new cases have been reported and the four who are suffering from the malady are all doing nicely. The public school will reopen again Monday morning, it is expected, but the attendance will no doubt be small.

Tickets for the baseball entertainment to be given on the eve of Lincoln's birthday, February 11, are selling fast. Everyone in town is interested in having a ball team for next season that will even surpass the brilliant record made by the team of 1902. At the close of the entertainment the younger supporters of the club will enjoy a dance.

A. J. Brace has opened an up-to-date meat market in the old established stand conducted for so many years by the late John R. Marsh. The village has been without a meat market for nearly a year. The residents depending upon wagon deliveries from other towns for their supply.

The scarcity of coal in other sections of the country has not affected the local coal dealers. Since the strike was called off coal enough has been received to meet all the demands of the residents of the village and borough.

Landlord Ivamy has had two stoves put in to his dancing pavillion and other improvements made to help keep the pavillion warm. Naylor's orchestra will continue to furnish the music for the Saturday evening dances.

The Board of Managers of the Public Library is arranging to hold an entertainment in the near future for the purpose of helping to replenish the library treasury which has been depleted for some time past.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be as usual, Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7; evening preaching in the parlors of the church, 7:45.

It hardly seems possible that Scotch Plains is to have city water through the main streets of the village within a few months. It has been a long wait and it is hard to realize the fact.

A mayor, collector, assessor and three councilmen are to be elected and from present indications there will be two tickets in the field for the voters to choose from.

Saturday evening prayer meeting at the Methodist church tonight will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Bayliss, of Somerville.

The political bee is already beginning to buzz in the borough although the annual election is six weeks away.

Mrs. Ann Dobbins and family, who have been residing at Kearney for the past year, will remove back to town this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davies, of the borough, have removed to Dunellen so as to be nearer Mr. Davies' work.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A special meeting of the Township Committee was held recently at which an ordinance was introduced to make the township officers salaried instead of depending on the fee system as at present. It was advanced to a second reading, and will come up for final consideration on February 3 at 8 o'clock, when the public will be given an opportunity to be heard on the question.

An auction sale of the personal property of the late William J. Elliott will take place Wednesday on the farm, a mile from here, on the New Market road.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley occupied the pulpit of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at New Market this morning in the absence of Pastor Livermore.

It is announced that a change in the Lehigh Valley time table will take place tomorrow.

Miss Marian Bigley is visiting Mrs. Harry Tappen, of Plainfield.

Tomorrow's Meeting.

James F. Parker will speak and Miss M. H. Cromwell will sing at the Y. M. C. A. meeting, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. Parker is an exceptionally strong speaker and Miss Cromwell interprets Gospel hymns with unusual feeling.

Gong Circuit Went Wrong.

Thursday evening the fire gong sounded at 8:20 o'clock, on account of a break in the circuit caused by the blowing out of a fuse in the lines. The whistle blew again last evening at exactly 8 o'clock from the same cause.

the agents and he said it must meet with success.

The speech-making was concluded by Joseph Atkinson, editor of the Weekly Record, published by the Prudential Insurance Company. He gave a rousing talk and filled the men with enthusiasm to go forward and do more business than ever. He urged all to read the Weekly Record. He considered the twenty seven year life of the Prudential one of marvelous growth, which he believed was due to the efforts of President J. F. Dryden and Vice President Leslie D. Ward.

In all there were forty-four guests at the dinner, and all but two were directly connected with the Prudential. All joined in hearty words of praise for Superintendent Ball and promised to stand by him in the future even better than in the past.

PIG HEADED.

We are not pig headed enough to believe that all meats are the same. We know they're not. Different packers have different methods of treatment and varying degrees of quality are the result. Our Hams Sausage and Shoulders of our own curing are the best in the market, and cut from Jersey Pork only. A fine variety of Seafood Oysters and Clams can be found in our Seafood Department.

NOW IT'S "PING POODLE."

New Game with Which Suburbanites Amuse Themselves on the Train Going Home.

Have you ever played "ping poodle?" If you are a commuter and don't know anything about the game you are behind the times. Most of the suburbanites are now indulging in "ping poodle" with as much enthusiasm as they formerly displayed over their games of whist or pitch, reports a Chicago exchange.

"Ping poodle" is simply an elaboration of that venerable child's game, known as "spots." A square is made with any given number of spots in it. Then these spots are made into smaller squares by means of pencil marks. The man who has to fill out the last square loses the game.

On the suburban trains each spot usually counts for five cents, and the loser must pay the winner the sum of the spots. If there are 64 spots in a square, the man who makes the last pencil mark must produce $3.20.

The other day a number of railroad men were playing "ping poodle" when a suburbanite who lives at the farthest station on the loal division appeared. When the game had been explained to him he insisted upon playing 128 instead of 64 spots. It was an hour before the game was finished, and then the new-comer found that he owed his opponent just $6.40. But the veteran "ping poodler" had passed his own station during the excitement of the game, and as he was unable to catch an incoming train, he was obliged to spend the night with his victim, who after much persuasion finally agreed not to pay his loss.

WOMEN AT POTTERS' WHEEL.

Classes Being Formed All Over the Country for the Purpose of Learning the Art.

The newest outlet for women's energy is pottery making. The famous Rockwood works were started by a woman, and many women are now turning their attention to the possibilities of the wheel, combined with deft fingers and delicate fancy, in the manipulation and designing of clay, reports the Brooklyn Eagle.

All over the country women are becoming interested in pottery making. Classes are being formed and find enthusiastic students ready to join them. Several classes are already in operation in Brooklyn, and are giving time to the acquisition of this practical art. A local artist, who is a member of one of these potetry classes, says:

"The work is and will be for some time to come crude and imperfect, but there is so much enthusiasm manifested and promise of good work to come, that the outlook is very promising. It is proposed to have courses in pottery connected with china painting societies. This will be a great step in the right direction for them, china painters will not be dependent on conventional shapes in pottery, and the necessity of the same design being used over and over again, but each woman can design and model her own pieces, and thus give opportunity for the introduction of original types."

CREAM DOWN HIS BACK.

But the Duke of Fife Was Not Disconcerted by Awkwardness of the Server.

M. Bortsch, the caterer for the Carlton club, the fashionable London organization much patronized by royalty, had an amusing experience with the Duke of Fife, son-in-law of King Edward, while the latter was at Savoy, says a London paper. "I was waiting on the Duke of Fife one evening," said M. Bortsch, "when his grace was giving a small private dinner party in the patience-room. There was hardly room to pass behind each guest. The soup was Bortsch—a costly Russian potage made from boiled duck and served with sorrel, vegetables and cream—and just as I was serving it round an accident happened. In one hand I had a plate of soup and in the other my cream. The duke was talking earnestly to me and so intently did I listen to him that I did not know I was dropping all the cream in a hideous thick stream down his back. Wha did I do? I made no fuss and gave n alarm. The duke went on talking and laughing with his guests with the back of his exquisitely-fitting dress coat one mass of thick cream. I got two or three soft serviettes and as I served his grace with each course I gave him a rub. By the time we had come to the ice there was nothing left of the cream except certain faint traces, for which I fear, his grace's valet was unjustly blamed."

The Army Baked Bean.

"Beans are the soldiers' mainstay," says Thomas P. Dillon, a retired United States cavalry officer. "The American soldier, at a pinch, can equal the performance of an Arab on a handful of dried dates—he can ride and fight all day on a mere handful of beans, properly prepared. There is nothing to equal the army baked bean."

Little Iron in Japan.

The Kobe Chronicle, speaking of the imperial iron foundry in Japan, says that it has proved a failure because of the limited supply of ore in that country, and that the government hopes to secure the privilege of working the rich Hangang iron mines in China.

Atmospheric Elements.

Besides oxygen, nitrogen and carbonic acid, there are present in the atmosphere five other elements—argon, neon, helium, krupton and xenon.

STRIKING FASHIONS.

Wide Capes on Tailor Mades—Velveteens Popular.

One of the most striking features of the winter tailor made is the large collar or cape arrangement which covers the shoulders and is a revival of the large Richelieu collar of point lace which was worn in the summer. Such a cape gives extra warmth in the winter and makes a fine background for a stole of fur.

The costliest simplicity is the keynote of the best fashion, but some of lesser lights will aim at elaboration. The woman with a small income must use much discrimination in buying just now, as styles are likely to undergo a great change. She can, however, make little mistake if she buys anything that is really good of its kind.

In Paris they are wearing a great deal of velveteen, both striped and spotted. Sometimes it is trimmed with fur. It is being used in pale shades for reception gowns, especially in fawn and gray. Parisians always show their good taste by dressing in complete harmony, and their fancy for gray is very pronounced.

The pretty blouse shown is of velvet with a front of white silk and chiffon applique. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONABLE COLORS.

Green Is on the Wane—New Shades of Red and Orange.

There is no doubt that the popularity of green is on the wane in exclusive circles, whereas the fashionable champagne shade is in the ascendant and will continue so for some time. The new mulberry red is in vogue, and so are, even more than ever, smart combinations of black and white.

There is a new shade of orange which runs into flames—that is to say, it is considerably shot with pink. This will be immensely popular and extremely becoming when subdued with lace.

Soft laces, tulles, gauzes and crepes de chine, as well as nets, are all pressed into service for evening wear. Despite the use of some beautiful satins and brocades the softer fabrics are certainly the most popular, while the all lace dress is never really out of fashion.

A great deal of oriental embroidery is used both for day and evening wear. Colored cloth embroideries are extremely useful on cloth frocks. In fact, with the exception of gold braid, they are the only permissible trimming. Nothing is smarter for the morning gown of utility than the practical blue or black cheviot or rough goods simply made, heavily stitched and pressed, with the slightest touch of harmonious color introduced into the waistcoat revers or cuffs.

An up to date maid's cap and apron are here shown.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Guess.

"This is the laundry," said the agent who was showing them through the house. "Here, you see, are stationary washtubs."

"Ah! Why do you call them stationary?" inquired the bride to be. "Is it because colored goods won't run in them?"—Philadelphia Press.

NAUGHTY CHILDREN.

They Are an Unnecessary Evil In the Household.

It is the worst possible policy to call a child naughty.

"You are such a naughty child!"

"I think you are the naughtiest little boy I ever saw!"

These are expressions which not only rouse a passion of resentment in a child's breast, but harden him as well. The child's point of view is the right one too. He may have broken a vase or he may have been disobedient, but does this one fault make him wicked and depraved? If so, he might as well go on in earnest.

Too much discretion cannot be exercised in correcting a child. In every case, when possible, his sense of honor or pride should be appealed to. Punish the child, but make your punishment a logical one. Never punish without explaining.

Children, even the tiniest ones, are more capable of reasoning than we give them credit for being. If your child is bad tempered, selfish or a story teller, in nine cases out of ten it is your own fault. If you had taken these faults in their very beginnings, when the child was perhaps a mere baby, you would not have to keep correcting him now and devising new forms of punishment. The trouble with the average mother is that she waits until the child is "old enough to understand." When the child is old enough to show signs of a fault, then he is old enough to be restrained from committing that fault and to be helped to that end in the kindest and most patient of ways.

Very few children need heroic handling, but all need watchful and constant care, together with advice suited to their small understandings. Never, if possible, break a child's spirit or pride. Do not scold or reprove him in the presence of company. Speak to him quietly afterward.

Above all, be just in your treatment of the little ones. Let your "No" be a "No" and your "Yes" a "Yes," and do not let circumstances or the presence of other people make you relax your laws. Once the child realizes that you cannot be coaxed or fretted into giving in, he will resign himself to the situation, particularly if you have made the justice of your position clear to him.

By using reason and kindness, mixed with a proper amount of firmness, no mother need have "naughty children."

HELEN CLIFTON.

Fashion Notes.

The Monte Carlo coats continue to be well liked, and they are dressy. But for the rough stuffs the two piece blouse suit is the best style. Hats seem to have grown flatter than ever, but somehow they all manage to remain quite as becoming as ever. Toques of dress material are undeniably stylish and not so very economical as one might think, for though the body of the hat is made of the pieces of stuff left over it requires a master hand to make a toque look well, and some fine trimming must be found to go on, though probably it will look as though it did not cost much. Still the toque has a reason to be, and that is that a whole suit of anything is the vogue. One toque was made of nub cloth as to crown and brim, though this last was almost hidden under a thick wreath of velvet autumn leaves. The effect was rich and seasonable.

The White Fad.

White is the one great fad of the season, and the fad demands that the gown, cloak or wrap shall be of fine broadcloth covered with rich and heavy lace, this either dead white or cream. String and ecru are also employed where the shade of the gown makes them suitable. On light gray the ecru lace shows beautifully, and the string color also finds its proper place. All mat white lace and gowns are also seen sometimes, but the beauty of the lace is not shown so well as where there is a slight difference in the shade. The New York horse show presented to us the fashion of wearing white in every case where it can be worn, and it is now used in many places for which it is manifestly unsuitable. Many women on the street seem so overdressed and conspicuous that they look positively vulgar.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"The next day I became acquainted with the captain, a man named Parker, and found him a mighty good fellow. By leading the conversation gradually up to contractors, and to my friend Hestor, I learned that Col. John McIntyre was the contractor, and that he lived in Havana. It seems the schooner was loaded with lumber for Col. McIntyre. The second day out it turend and blew a gale and carried us away off our course to the southwest. It was late in the afternoon when we passed a steam yacht, which seemed to be headed for New Orleans. She passed us to starboard. Capt. Parker sized her up through a glass and said:

"'There is that yacht you were talking about, Seymour. That is the "Shark."'

"He was positive about it. The first mate also said it was the 'Shark.' She was about a mile and a half away, and they could not make out her name. Both knew the 'Shark' well, and were dead sure they could not be mistaken.

"The gale set us back so much that we did not reach Havana until Tuesday morning. Col. McIntyre was not at the pier, and I had considerable trouble finding him. He lives out on Vedado street, and I jumped into a carriage and went out to his house. He had just left to go into the country. I went after him. It was noon before I stood him up."

"Where is Col. McIntyre now?" asked Chalmers.

"He will be here soon," said Mr. Seymour. "Jack Stevens has gone out to his house for him. When we found you were in the harbor, Jack went for the colonel, and I came to pay my respects to Miss Carmody. I am never looking for the worst of it."

Mr. Seymour raised his hat and saluted Miss Carmody.

"But to my story," continued Seymour. "I found Col. McIntyre a gruff old dog, and he tried to stand me off. He said it was none of my business whether he had built a house for Hestor or not. I saw it was no use trying to 'con' the colonel. He was too wise. So I told him the whole story. You should have seen his eyes stick out. At first he wouldn't believe a word of it, but finally he changed his mind. He said Hestor was such an erratic fellow that he would not put anything past him. Then he thawed out and told me everything."

"What island is the house on?" asked Miss Carmody with suppressed excitement.

"It is not on any island," said Seymour. "It is on the coast of Mexico, south of Vera Cruz. From Col. McIntyre's description, it is a place you would not find in a thousand years. The Mexicans and Indians never go near it. They imagine that it is haunted by the ghosts of some old ruined city, which is said to be near there. There is a small inlet opening into a bay. You cannot see this inlet unless you are close to the shore. There is only one pilot, except Capt. Waters of the 'Shark,' who knows the way in through the rocks and shoals. Any boat drawing more than five feet of water would be smashed to pieces. Here comes Jack Stevens and Col. McIntyre."

The new arrivals were welcomed on the yacht. Col. McIntyre was a thickset, broad-shouldered man, with an immense black mustache, and a complexion almost as dark as that of a mulatto. But his fierceness was all external. There was little to his story which has not been told. Hestor had contracted with him to build a bungalow on the shore of the Gulf of Mexico south of Vera Cruz. Hestor had prepared the plans, which, when slightly modified by Col. McIntyre, were sufficient for the purpose. He purchased the lumber and materials in New Orleans, and sailed with three carpenters for the site selected. Extra workmen were secured at Vera Cruz. The three carpenters were then working for Col. McIntyre in Havana.

"Can you take us direct to the place, Col. McIntyre?" asked Miss Helen.

"I can take you there, but we could not take the yacht in without a pilot," said Col. McIntyre. "The surf is very heavy, and it is dangerous for small boats. We had a pilot from Tampico. My advice is to pick him up on the way down, and then we will have no trouble. When will you start?"

"Just as soon as you are ready, colonel," said Chalmers. "We must take on coal, but that will not take long."

"I am all ready," said Col. McIntyre. "I am a very busy man, and have some contracts on my hands which require my constant attention, but when Mr. Seymour told me about this I dropped everything. I am entirely at your service, Miss Carmody," said the gallant colonel.

"I do not know how to thank you, Col. McIntyre," said Miss Carmody. "It is not necessary for me to assure you that we shall not permit you to suffer any financial loss on account of your kindness."

Early in the afternoon the "Helen Carmody" glided swiftly out of Havana harbor and took a course almost due west. It was night before the ragged coast of Cuba faded in the eastern sky. The day was warm, but it was pleasant under the awnings and the six passengers thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon.

Mr. Seymour told some of his newspaper experiences, and kept the party in laughter and good spirits. In the evening Mrs. White took her place at the piano, and persuaded Miss Carmody to sing. Her voice was singularly sweet and sympathetic. Capt. Baldwin and several of his officers stood in the doorway and enjoyed the musical treat. Then Mrs. White played some familiar airs, and all joined in the chorus.

It was midnight when the voyagers retired to their rooms. The weather continued fine the following day, which passed without incident worth recording. Mr. Chalmers seemed to have no difficulty in monopolizing most of Miss Carmody's time. This did not escape the attention of Mr. Seymour.

"That will be the next kidnapping case," he remarked to Jack Stevens as Chalmers and Miss Carmody promenaded past them.

Tuesday morning the snow-capped peaks of Mexico lifted their crests out of the ocean, showing faint and purple in the distance. It was late in the afternoon when the yacht dropped anchor in Tampico harbor. Col. McIntyre, Seymour and Stevens went ashore in search of the pilot, and Mr. Chalmers escorted Miss Carmody and Mrs. White through the streets of the quaint old Mexican town. Col. McIntyre made the discovery that the pilot had been in Vera Cruz, and would not return until late at night. There was nothing to do but wait. It was midnight when the schooner on which the Mexican pilot had shipped dropped into the harbor, and to the delight of all he was found on board. Col. McIntyre explained what he wanted, and when Chalmers offered the necessary financial inducements the pilot consented to make the trip. It was three o'clock in the morning before the "Helen Carmody" was headed in the direction of Vera Cruz.

An early breakfast was served Wednesday morning. The pilot announced that they should be at their destination between 11 and 12 o'clock that forenoon, and all were excited. Miss Carmody was pale but composed. The hour was fast approaching when her hopes would be crushed or her happiness made complete. Her heart throbbed at the thought that all her hopes might crumble into nothingness. There was no positive proof that Hestor had taken his captives to the bungalow. The tears came to her eyes several times, but she checked her emotions, and laughed at some of Seymour's characteristic remarks.

The yacht was running almost due south, and was about 15 miles off shore. There was a faint haze over the water, but it was lifting in the quickening west breeze. Mr. Seymour was seated near the bow of the yacht.

"Look at that for a schooner yacht!" he exclaimed, pointing ahead and a little to starboard of their course. "That is a beauty! Look at those sails! Wouldn't they stop you! Capt. Baldwin what is the techinal name for that class of ship? It is not classified in my marine books."

Capt. Baldwin was studying the strange-looking craft through his glasses. He did not answer Mr. Seymour's question, but stepped to where Chalmers and Jack Stevens were standing.

"Do you know the missing men by sight?" he asked.

"I do," said Chalmers.

"Look at the men on that boat through this glass. They are signalling to us."

Chalmers took one long, searching look. They were rapidly approaching the odd-looking craft. The men on board of it were frantically waving handkerchiefs and cloths.

"It's them!" said Chalmers. "I recognize Sidney Hammond and Mr. Kent!"

Chalmers rushed to where Miss Carmody and Mrs. White were seated abaft the rear deck house.

"I think I have good news, Miss Carmody," he said. His face bore evidence more eloquent than words. "Do not get excited. I think we have found Mr. Carmody and his companions. Come along."

Miss Carmody turned pale for an instant, and almost staggered as she started to rise. She took Chalmer's proffered arm and walked rapidly forward. The whistle of the "Helen Carmody" sounded a long, shrill blast. The motion of the engines ceased, and the yacht swung to port. As it did so the raft came into full view, not a thousand feet away. Eight men in yachting suits were standing on the roof of a low cabin, waving their arms and yelling like Indians. An answering shout went up from Seymour, Stevens and Col. McIntyre. Again the whistle sounded its welcome note, and the screw churned the gulf as the signal was given to back water.

"There's papa!" exclaimed Miss Carmody. Her hand tightened convulsively on Chalmers arm, but she did not faint or go into hysterics. This was not a Carmody trait.

"There he is—God bless him!" she exclaimed, as Mr. Carmody waved his hand and shouted: "God is very good to us—they are all safe!"

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

TITLES WERE UP FOR SALE.

French Nobleman Conferred Knighthood and Decorations on All Who Would Buy.

Prince de Vitanval is a man of courage and imagination. He is a young Frenchman, whose real name is Laforge, who has just returned to Paris after serving a six months' sentence for unlawfully selling orders of nobility. His history, says the New York Commercial Advertiser, is interesting as showing what a young man of imagination and courage can do. A year or so ago he began to negotiate with the vatican for a title. Had he, a penniless youth, asked for a simple knighthood of St. Gregory he might have had some trouble in getting it, but his aim was higher than that. He asked for the title of prince. The papal nuncio said it would cost him $10,000, and he requested the nuncio to get the patent. The vatican made him prince and he forgot to pay for the honor, which minor fact, however, has not invalidated his title.

As soon as he got his title he organized an order of knighthood, which he called the "Order of St. Leon," and began to sell titles for this at a good price to any one who wanted to buy. A decoration is very dear to a certain class of Frenchmen, and the prince prospered so much that he contemplated buying an estate on the Riviera which would place his princedom on a secure foundation. About this time the law stepped in and decided that he had no right to sell the decoration. He was prosecuted and sentenced to serve six months in jail and pay a fine of 1,000 francs. He paid the fine and served his sentence.

ITALY'S FADING GLORY.

One More of Her Historic Buildings Said to Be on the Verge of Collapsing.

Alarming accounts come from Aquila as to the condition of the campanile of San Bernardino. A large crack has appeared in the southwest corner of the tower, which is described as in imminent danger of collapse, says a report from Rome.

It is possible that the imagination of the local correspondents is still under the enlivening influence of the Venice catastrophe, but the commanding officer of the garrison at Aquila considered the danger grave enough to necessitate the evacuation of part of the barracks adjoining the tower, and a special engineer has been sent to ascertain the measures necessary for its preservation.

The campanile of San Bernardino was built in 1472. It was struck by lightning, which knocked down several feet of the upper part, in 1667, but the earthquake of 1703, which destroyed many buildings in the neighborhood, left it untouched.

At a recent congress of engineers at Cagliari a motion framed by the architect, Luca Beltrami, was read, which met with loud applause. The motion proposes in defense of Italy's historical buildings a radical reorganization of the whole bureau which is charged with their care.

The most important suggestion is that traveling inspectors should not hold their appointments for life, but their appointment should be renewable according to the merit of their work.

FIGURES FOR FLY-TIME.

Twelve or Thirteen Generations Produced in a Summer and Millions from One Fly.

An exchange quotes a distinguished entomologist as saying that a single female fly will lay 120 eggs during her life of 10 to 15 days, and that of these 90 or 100 will produce other flies, says The Louisville Courier Journal. During a summer 12 or 13 generations of these flies will be produced, so that millions in one season may be the descendants of a single fly. "Millions" is a feeble word to express the number that would be produced under this estimate. Putting the first generation at 100, and allowing that half of them are females, the second generation would number 5,000, with 2,500 females. The third generation would number 250,000, the fourth 1,250,000, and the fifth 62,500,000. Continuing the calculation on the same system to the twelfth generation, we should get a grand total of 4,882,812,500,000,000,000, or expressed in words, four quintillions eight hundred and eighty-two quadrillions, eight hundred and twelve trillions, five hundred billions, a number quite inconceivable. Estimating the population of the earth at a billion and a half, this would give 3,255,208,333 1-3 flies to every man, woman, and child on earth, all the descendants of one fly in a single summer.

DeWet's Military Status.

Gen. DeWet, the sturdy Boer leader, carried his independence with him to London and showed it in marked fashion during his interview with Colonial Secretary Chamberlain. The latter addressed him as "Mr. DeWet," whereupon the warrior from South Africa corrected him by saying "Gen. DeWet." Almost immediately afterward Mr. Chamberlain repeated the "Mr." and DeWet said, sternly: "General or nothing." Then the suave Chamberlain followed Lord Kitchener's example and recognized the military status of his visitor.

Ought to Be Meadville.

A curious political situation is presented in Greenwich, Conn., where three rich men, each named Mead, have been nominated on separate tickets for members of the state assembly. There are 2,700 voters in the town, and of these almost ten per cent. are of the same name, including the wealthiest and most influential citizens.

TREED BY A MANIAC.

Thrilling Adventure of a Lineman Near a Madhouse.

Fortunately, He Had a Telephone with Him, and That Saved His Life—Wanted to Cut Him to Pieces.

"We all meet with strange adventures in this world, I guess," said an old lineman to a Cincinnati Enquirer reporter, "but I think I had an experience that beats many a one. While engaged with the Bell Telephone company, I was sent out one day to find the trouble between the office and the insane hospital at Indianapolis.

"An attendant escorted me from place to place; but while I was in the hall examining the telephone he was called away. I was busy with my work when a hand was laid on my shoulder and a voice at my elbow said:

"'Say, is that the safe where you put my money?'

"Astonished I looked up, and into the face of an elderly man who looked every inch the gentleman, being neatly and carefully dressed. For a moment I was too much surprised to answer, for his appearance at first belied the inference I drew from his question, but a closer observation revealed an unnatural expression in his eyes; so, remembering where I was, I knew he was a maniac. Thinking to humor him, I said:

"'Yes, I put it there; it is a good place for it.'

"Quick as a flash he caught up a heavy stool that was standing near and brought it down with all his might on the telephone, crushing it.

"'Give it to me, quick—quick!' he gasped, but I didn't stop to give him anything, but just started on a run for the door, and there met the attendant, who soon quieted the poor fellow and led him away.

"I had to make another trip to the city for another telephone, and as it was late by this time I didn't go back until the next day. When I got out there I found several 'trusties' guarded by their keepers working in the garden. I saw my friend of the day before busy with a large knife topping turnips. He glanced up at me, and I saw a quick, angry gleam shoot into his eyes.

"AIN'T THIS A BEAUT?"

"I had to climb a tree in an isolated part of the yard to unfasten a wire that had in some way caught on a limb. I connected my test set and called up the wire chief and explained the case to him, so with the work I had done and talking to him 20 minutes must have passed. I started to get down, and when I reached the lower limb looked for a place to drop. But I didn't drop, for there, standing at the foot of the tree, stood my crazy man, the knife still in his hand.

"'Come down!' he yelled. 'I know you. You are the man that stole my 5,000. Give it up to me, or I will kill you, you thief! Come down or I will come up there and cut your heart out!'

"But I didn't come. I scrambled higher and yelled for help.

"About this time another inmate came sauntering along and at once took a hand in the game and held the plank for my friend, who soon made good headway, and I saw in a few moments he would reach me.

"I yelled again, but no one came. At that instant an idea flashed into my brain. I quickly attached the test set and called the wire chief at the office.

"'For heaven's sake call up the insane hospital and tell them to send help to me, or I am a dead man! There are two lunatics after me and one of them is coming up the tree with a knife a foot long! Hurry, hurry, for God's sake!'

"With a surprised exclamation he cut me out. I looked down and found the man was in the tree, and was coming toward me, snarling like a wildcat.

"Closer he came, until he was just below me, when he seated himself on a large limb, and, flourishing the knife, yelled:

"'Look at this. Ain't it a beaut? Won't it cut you, though? It is sharp! I will cut you up like a steak!'

"He started toward me and had one hand on my foot, and I had just raised the other to kick him, when several keepers rushed up; two of them climbed the tree, and just as he raised the knife to strike they reached him and threw a rope around him. So intent was he on doing for me that he did not see them, and was easily taken."

BASKET BALL.

Saturday, January 31, the New Brunswick Y. M. C. A. will be entertained by the local Y. M. C. A. A basket ball game will be played after which the New Brunswickers will be given the freedom of the building during the time allotted.

The following games of basket ball have been arranged by the Y. M. C. A.: January 30, Polytechnic Institute, of Brooklyn, in Plainfield; February 4, Leal's against City High School, in the Y. M. C. A.; February 9, New Brunswick against the local Y. M. C. A., in this city; February 18, in the afternoon, City High School and the Hasbrouck Institute, in this city.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

In an interesting game of quoits played at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening the North Plainfield A. C. defeated the Big Five by a score of 5 to 0.

TO FURNISH ROOM.

Willing Workers of Trinity Church Reached Decision at a Social.

The Willing Workers, of Trinity Reformed curch, tendered a surprise last evening to Mrs. Oscar Woolley, of Watchung avenue and Race street. The evening was very pleasantly spent in games and enjoying instrumental music.

Early in the evening the party, numbering thirty, gathered at the residence of Lafayette Rosenstiehl, of Somerset street, and from there went to Mrs. Woolley's home where they burst in upon the unsuspecting host, quite bewildering her.

During the evening it was decided to furnish the class room at the church, the funds for which will be raised among the members.

Attended Installation.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander, Mrs. Edward Townley, Col. Perry and Miss Lida Day were among those present at the installation of officers of Hancock Division, Union Veterans' Union, in New York, Thursday evening.

Elected Treasurer.

At the meeting of the managing directors of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation held Thursday, when officers for the year were elected, Frank O. Herring, of Park avenue, was elected treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. David Kenney, of Rockview avenue, have returned home after a month's stay in California.

HEAD CUT.

Peter Peterson Found Lying Unconscious on West Front Street Last Night—Cannot Explain.

Peter Peterson, thirty-five years old, of Evona avenue, was discovered lying at the corner of Grant avenue and West Front street, last night, in an unconscious condition. Word was sent to the police and a patrolman had him taken to headquarters.

Dr. Lufburrow was summoned and found the man to be suffering from a bad gash in his head and a split ear.

He was unable to give a clear explanation of how he was injured beyond the fact that he fell. The police say he was intoxicated.

MIXED UP.

Horses, Harness and Wagon Were All Heaped Together.

A mix-up of horses, harness and wagon occurred at the corner of Park avenue and Front street, this morning, when Adam C. Blair started to turn his team.

A sharp pull on the near horse caused it to fall dragging its mate down upon it. In a moment both animals were all entangled while the wagon, a two-seated surrey, rolled against them. They were finally separated, but not before the harness was rendered almost useless. The pole of the wagon was broke, but escaped damage otherwise.

AT ITALIAN MISSION.

Miss Pendleton Told Endeavorers of Her Work There.

At its regular meeting, last evening, the Christian Endeavo Society, of the Crescent Avenue church, enjoyed a talk on Italian mission work in New York City, given by Miss Pendleton who has spent a long time in the field.

Afterward the members enjoyed a short social period during which an informal programme of musical selections was given. Refreshments were served at the close.

Sprained Her Ankle.

Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins, while walking along West Front street, in the vicinity of the First Baptist church, early last evening, severely sprained her ankle by stepping in a hole in the sidewalk. With much difficulty she reached her home in Elmwood place. She will undoubtedly be detained at home for a number of days, being unable to bear the slightest weight on her foot.

Plaintiff Wins.

Justice Huff has given a verdict for the plaintiff in the contract suit of the Brown Powder Works against the Manhatting Heating and Ventilating Company. Carlos Gallup represented the plaintiff.

Joined the Marines.

Frank Ayres, of West Front street, passed an examination, Thursday, for entrance to Uncle Sam's marine service. He will probably sail on a transport for the Philippines, Monday.

THISTLE CLUB DIDN'T FORGET BOBBIE BURNS

Anniversary of Birth of Scottish Bard Was Celebrated Saturday Evening.

'TWAS A GREAT TIME

FITTING CEREMONIES WERE HELD AT K. OF P. HALL.

There Was Singing, Instrumental Music and Recitations and Then All Joined in the Famous Scottish Ballads.

The 144th anniversary of the birth of "Bobbie" Burns, the Scottish poet for whom every true son and daughter of the Land of the Heather cherishes an affection, was observed with fitting ceremonies by the Thistle Club, Saturday evening. They were held in K. of P. Hall and the affair proved a characteristic gathering of Scotchmen, informality prevailing during the entire evening.

Alex. McDuff, president of the club, presided as chairman and announced the following programme: Songs by Thomas Hendry, James Stewart, Alex Fraser, Alex. Campbell, Mrs. William Wilson, Miss Jessie Campbell, Mrs. William Gray and Mrs. William Nicholson; violin selections by William Wilson and Hugh Gray and recitations by Alex Fraser. Interspersing these, remarks appropriate to the occasion were made by the chairman and by Councilman William Gloak and Robert Kenney. Afterward the gathering united in singing many of the familiar Scotch ballads, several of which were favorites of the great poet.

The concluding feature of the evening was the serving of a genuine Scotch supper with all the favorite edibles, including scones and oat cakes, prepared in the main by Mrs. David Bowden and Mrs. Head. It was thoroughly enjoyed.

The entertainment committee which arranged the details and supervised consisted of William Gray, Arthur Campbell and David Bowden.

STATE COUNCIL WINS.

Dispute of Junior Order of United American Mechanics Settled in Favor of Jerseymen.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 26—Vice Chancellor Pitney Saturday, in Trenton dismissed the case of the National Council of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics against the New Jersey State Council of the same order. The decision, which is a far reaching one, awards to the State Council the amount of $20,000 involved in the litigation. The decision also dissolves all injunctions.

This probably concludes the fight between the National and State Councils. The State Council seceded from the National Council and refused to pay a per capita tax assessed by the National Council. Thereupon the latter went into court to attempt to collect it. The State Council has not paid any tax in nearly three years. The Chancellor decided in the State Council's favor on all points.

To Strive Incessantly.

Rev. Dr. Joseph Elder, of New York, occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church, yesterday morning and evening. In the evening he gave a discourse on the topic of "The Strenuous Christian Life." His principal thought was that in order to attain the highest mark it is necessary to strive incessantly. He said that the Scripture interpretation of this is that to those who ask it shall be given, but works must accompany the faith and asking.

Result of Icy Plunge.

Charles Holstein, of Summit avenue, who was one of two boys who fell into Tier's pond recently while skating, is now in a critical condition suffering with tonsilitis as a result of the wetting received that day. Dr. Hedges is in attendance.

Won a Pipe.

In the contest for a meerschaum pipe which was held at the cigar store of Herrman Keller, on Somerset street, the prize was won by Thoams Waldron, of Lincoln place. The highest number was 42 which was held by Mr. Waldron.

To Act on Resignation.

There will be a meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church and congregation Wednesday evening, when the resignation of the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson, will come up for consideration.

RAIDED COAL TRAIN.

Crowd Boarded Stalled Train and Coal Was Plentiful for a While.

Coal in a certain section of the West End is more plentiful today than it has been since high prices put it out of reach of most poor people. It all came about through a New Jersey Central train, heavily laden, with the precious anthracite, getting stalled on the grade just below Plainfield avenue, Saturday afternoon.

The wheels had barely stopped revolving before a swarm of men, women and children to the number of fifty poured out of back yards and clambered on top of the cars. Coal was kicked, shoveled and dragged off, while the trainmen looked on helpless. It appeared as though everybody would get a supply for the next six months when the raid was stopped by a pushing engine getting the train in motion.

KEAN TO MEET LAW MAKERS

WILL GIVE THEM A RECEPTION AT TRENTON THIS EVENING.

Elizabeth Journal Declares That Stories About His Absence Were Untrue.

United States Senator John Kean will hold a reception and give a luncheon at the Trenton House at Trenton this evening. It will be one of the most notable receptions held in Trenton in years. Gov. Murphy will attend it, as will all the State officials and members of both houses, and local leaders have been invited from all parts of the State.

Senator Kean's absence at the opening of the legislative session last Tuesday week gave rise to gossip, and some of those who are unfavorable to his re-election in 1905 took occasion to spread a rumor that he was at cross purposes with the powers that be in State affairs and showed it by remaining away.

The fact that Senator Dryden was there to greet the lawmakers at the opening of the session emphasized Senator Kean's absence and gave a semblance of truth, in the minds of some, to the rumors.

The truth of the matter is, says the Elizabeth Journal, Senator Kean was unavoidably detained by urgent public business in Washington. He intended being present at the opening of this session and had made plans to that effect, but at the last moment his plans were frustrated by conditions over which he had no control, and he sent a telegram explaining the situation and conveying his regrets.

There is absolutely no warrant, declares the Elizabeth paper, for the statement that Senator Kean's relations with any of the State leaders are unfriendly. It is a falsehood made out of the whole cloth. He is not only in perfect accord with the present party management, but no important matter or policy is decided on without his counsel and co-operation.

COLOR DANCE.

Everybody Who Goes to Anniversary Dance of I. C. T. Must be Dressed in Red.

At a special meeting, held Saturday evening, the members of the I. C. T. Club decided to hold its anniversary dance on Tuesday evening, February 10, instead of the following night as was originally planned.

The affair will have many unique features, as it will be the first of a series of "color" dances, so much in vogue among the colleges. Every attendant is required to be dressed in red so far as possible, the women wearing red dresses and the men student gowns of a red material. Red dominoes will cover the features thus making it a masquerade. In this way a very pretty effect is gained and a great deal of amusement is occasioned.

The second in the series will be orange and the third blue, thus forming the colors of the club.

Made An Officer.

Bert A. Brown, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Bristol, Conn., was recently elected secretary and treasurer of the Bristol Specialty Company. Mr. Brown is also consulting engineer at the Bristol Electric Light and Power Works.

Offering Postponed.

The offering for the Board of Ministerial Relief at the Crescent Avenue church was postponed yesterday to next Sunday morning, February 1.

—Rheaume has a large supply of the best Lehigh coal in stock and is receiving daily shipments of the same. He delivers all orders promptly and at the regular price, office, 140 East Fourth street. 1 20 6

MATCH AND LACE CURTAIN

BROUGHT ABOUT A BLAZE THAT FIRE DEPARTMENT LOOKED AFTER.

Two Fires Yesterday Afternoon Kept the Department Busy—Oil Stove Started Second.

Two fires, neither of which resulted in any great damage, kept the local fire department busy, yesterday afternoon.

The first was the most serious and occurred at 1:50 in the apartments of George Townley, who occupies the second floor of Robert Armstrong's residence on East Fourth street. Townley attempted to strike a match when the head flew off and into a lace curtain, igniting it. With other occupants of the house, he attempted to prevent the flames from spreading but without success. The department responded to an alarm from box No. 15 and extinguished the blaze. The damage to furniture will amount to $100 while that to the house is slight. For some reason the box was pulled twice, causing a second round of the alarm to be given.

Just three hours later the second alarm was sent in from box No. 53 for a small fire caused by an oil stove in the home of George Rankin on Berckman street. The damage was trifling but Mr. Rankin was severely burned in throwing the stove out of doors.

"THE QUIVER."

Second Number of the Randolph-Cooley School Paper Has Made Its Appearance.

The second number of "The Quiver," published by the Qui Vive Society of the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School is just out. It appears in a very attractive blue cover in the centre of which is the monogram of the society. The publication is an improvement over the first numbers, the stories and short sketches being not only entertaining, but more interesting. The board of editors is as follows: Editor-in-Chief, Miss Helen T. Batchelor; assistant editors, Miss Elinor G. Waring, Miss Margaret Lowe, Miss Ruth C. Fredericks, Miss Helen M. Cruikshank, Miss Ellen D. Burke; business managers, Miss Dorothy Burke and Miss Marion Smith. Announcement is made that Miss Batchelor has gone to California for a few months and during her absence Miss Waring will take her place.

FOR SERVICE IN SNOW.

Horses in Fire Department Have to be Doubled Up During Storm.

Beginning with yesterday and continuing as long as the streets are made heavy by snow, the fire department apparatus which answers alarms will be hauled by teams. The chemical engine has been temporarily retired and its horses have been placed on No. 2 hose wagon. The single horse from the latter has been placed with the single horse of No. 1 hose wagon making a team. The remainder of the apparatus will be hauled the same as heretofore.

Residential Changes.

H. Victor Keane, of West Front street, has leased John Rafferty's house on Grant avenue, opposite Sixth street, and will take possession February 1. Mr. and Mrs. Holz, of New York, have leased a flat in the Voehl building on East Front street and will take possession February 1. These rentals were made through the office of the Mulford real estate agency on North avenue.

Stranded Trolley Car.

When the 9:45 trolley car was leaving the East Fifth street switch yesterday morning, bound for Elizabeth, the trolley pole slipped off the wire and before the car could be stopped the trolley wire was pulled from its fastenings and the pole was wrenched from the top of the car. The car was stalled until another car arrived and towed it back to the car barns.

Upright Piano for Sale.

Private party must sell nearly new high grade mahogany piano, cost $400. To satisfy a lawsuit and must have money at once, will sell for $190 cash. Anyone looking for a great bargain should not miss this rare opportunity. Examine the instrument and be convinced of the same. Address P. O. Box 724, Plainfield, N. J.

To Close McVey's Hotel.

John H. McVey, who has conducted a hotel on North avenue for a number of years past, has decided to go out of the business and take up his residence at Red Bank. The furnishings of the hotel will be sold at auction early next month. It is said that the property will be used as apartment houses.

Lunch-Box Social.

A lunch-box social will be given at Bethel chapel, tomorrow evening.

A UNIQUE PROGRAMME GIVEN AT PARK CLUB

New York and Local Talent Entertained a Crowd That Filled the Hall.

FOR THE BUILDING FUND

THE "FAMOUS SMITH FAMILY" MADE A DECIDED HIT.

Parts Impersonated by Members of the Club—Introduced by S. St. John McCutchen—New York Talent Was Excellent.

One of the most successful entertainments ever given at the Park Club was that of Saturday evening when a programme of exceptional merit was presented to the delight of an audience that was much too large for the clubhouse. The fact that, despite the crowd, all remained throughout the entertainment speaks more than words for its excellence. The affair was given for the purpose of raising money to add to the much needed building fund. To Wallace Guilford, much credit is due for the arrangement of the programme. He was able to secure several of his New York friends to take part and in their several parts they were eminently successful. Interspersing the numbers given by those from New York, there were selections by home talent, equally as enjoyable.

Raymond A. McGee, accompanied by Miss Cornelia Hyatt, opened the programme with two bass solos, "Myself When Young," and "The Two Grenadiers." It has been some time since those at the club have had the pleasure to listening to Mr. McGee and his singing was a treat. The next number consisted of two piano solos by Miss Saidee Mae Howell, "The Lark is on the Wing," and "March Wind." Miss Howell's work was delightful. The third number comprised two soprano solos by Mrs. Frank Weedon, of New York. She sang "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," and "Bird of My Lady's Bower." Her rich sweet voice called forth the highest praise from everyone.

"The Famous Smith Family," (imported), was then introduced by S. St. John McCutchen. To appreciate this portion of the programme one had to be present. William Gilbert, who is an artist with the brush, pictured on a large sheet all but the heads of a number of well-known characters, and the heads were supplied by several members of the club. At either corner at the top of the sheet were Miss Berry and F. O. Ball, who represented "cherubs." In the centre was F. H. Ball, who took the part of "Father Smith," while to his left was Miss McCutchen who was presented as the "Tall Miss Smith." The Smith family cat appeared in the person of Herbert S. Rogers and close by stood "Mother Smith" in the person of Mrs. Walter M. McGee. Directly opposite was Walter M. McGee, appearing as the Cornell College football player. The athletic girl was Mrs. W. L. Murray, and last but not least were the Smith twins, Miss Daisy Elsberg and Laurens H. Van Buren. They took an amusing part by singing "Listen to My Tale of Woe."

Mr. McCutchen explained all the eccentricities of the Smith family and his witty remarks and the queer actions of the participants caused no end of fun. This was really the unique part of the entertainment.

Following this portion of the programme, there were comic songs by Frank Weedon. He is an artist of no mean ability and the songs given convulsed the audience with laughter. He was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Weedon. John Avery sang two tenor solos, with a third for an encore. The first two numbers were "O Lovely Night," and "Obstination," and they showed the true quality of his fine voice. He was followed by Miss Cornelia Hyatt, who gave two violin selections, "Serenade," and "Berceuse." Miss Hyatt handles the violin in a masterly way and it was a pleasure to listen to her rendition of the numbers chosen.

H. L. Hall caused much laughter in the rendition of comic songs in the negro dialect. He sang two clever selections and in addition gave some off-hand talk about trusts, tariff, etc., which produced no end of fun. He was recalled several times until his supply of jokes and songs was exhausted.

The programme closed with the

SOMERVILLE IS PREPARING

TO BUILD AN ISOLATION HOSPITAL ON LOTTERY FIELD.

South Bound Brook Has Number of Cases and Has Trouble in Enforcing Quarantine.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 26—The members of the Board of Health of this place have become alarmed at the spread of small-pox in the neighboring towns of South Bound Brook and New Brunswick and will take every precaution to keep the dread disease out of Somerville. It has been decided to build an isolation hospital, at a cost of about $1,000, in that part of the place owned by the town, the lottery field. No cases have been reported here as yet, but the board realizes the danger and has had a conference with the Board of Town Commissioners, who think it wise that in times of no such virulent diseases to prepare for them.

At South Bound Brook at least seven cases are reported in the negro colony. The school has been closed and a stringent quarantine has been placed on the infected district. One victim was prone to run about, but the authorities threatened to shoot him if he did not stay within the limits of the quarantine.

SIMPLE SERVICE.

Funeral of Garrett VanWinkle Was Held From Residence of His Daughter Saturday Afternoon.

Marked by a simple service in keeping with the life of the man, the remains of Garrett VanWinkle were laid away, Saturday, to their final resting place. The service was held at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Leggett, 822 Madison avenue, and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends, including a delegation from Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, was in charge and spoke impressively to the bereaved ones. He also offered up a heartfelt prayer.

Following the obsequies, the remains were interred in Hillside cemetery, the casket being borne by four nephews, Edward, Charles, Nelson and Jeremiah VanWinkle. The floral tributes were quite numerous and set pieces were presented by Plainfield Council and Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters, of Trinity Reformed church.

TO CLOSE OTHER WORKS.

Safe Company Will Concentrate Its Entire Plant in This City.

Notice has been posted in the local works of the Hibbard-Rodman-Eiy Safe Company that on April 1 the Perth Amboy factory of the concern will be closed down. In the meantime the employes will gradually be brought to this city after which the best of the machinery will be sent over. The local shop is busier at present than it has ever been, running both day and night, while the day shift works four hours overtime.

Visited Old Friend.

Rev. William S. Hubbell, of Central avenue, attended the Westminster Presbyterian church, of Elizabeth, last evening, where he led in prayer. Rev. Mr. Hubbell is an old friend of the pastor of that church, Rev. Mr. Mott, and he occupied the pulpit last evening with the pastor.

Celebration at Somerville.

Lodge of the Castle, No. 82, K. of P., of Somerville, will hold an anniversary celebration, this evening. Among the visiting Knights from all over this section of the State will be delegations from Perseverance and Unity Lodges, of this city.

Auditing Borough Books.

E. L. Suffern, the expert accountant residing in the borough, assisted by S. R. Struthers, is now engaged in auditing the books of the borough collector and treasurer. The work will probably be completed within the next two weeks.

Will Go South.

As soon as arrangements can be completed, Rev. E. E. Jackson, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, will leave for Ashville, N. C., for his health. He has been very ill, but has recovered sufficiently to be about the house.

Supper by Men.

The men of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will probably give their annual supper in the church this week. These affairs have been very pleasant and no doubt this year's efforts will exceed all previous ones.

—No butter in the market can surpass Rockdale print or creamery for high quality or excellence. Sold only at Neuman Brothers.

MISS CADY'S RECITAL.

Second of Series Held at Residence of Mrs. R. P. Lincoln, of West Eighth Street.

From a group of modern composers, embracing French, American, Polish, Scandinavian and Russian, Miss Harriette Cady selected a programme of unusual excellence for her second recital, Saturday afternoon. It took place at the home of Mrs. R. P. Lincoln, of West Eighth street, and was very well attended.

As in her first appearance, Miss Cady showed a wide versatility and a delicacy of touch that enabled her to interpret the numbers. They were from Chaminade, Saint-Saens, McDowell, Hendricks, Mason, Leschetizky, Paderewski, Grieg, Sjogren, Schytte, Sinding, Arensky, Tschaikowsky, Rubenstein and Maszkowski. One of the numbers by Schytte was dedicated to Miss Cady. The recital concluded the series which had been arranged.

BITTERLY CONTESTED CASE

ZANOAI AGAINST WYCKOFF FINALLY FINISHED AT SOMERVILLE.

But the Jury Failed to Agree—Other Somerset County Court Business.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 26—After a three days' session the case of Ferdinando Zanopi against Dennis Wyckoff came to a close Thursday night in the Somerset County Courts here. It was the most bitterly contested of all the trials of the December term. On the side of the plaintiff the lawyers were Azariah M. Beekman and James J. Meehan, while Alvah A. Clark and John A. Frech represented the defense.

Zanoni lived in Raritan and under an execution Wyckoff, who is a constable, took a piano and stool from him. He claimed that, being a married man living in the State, he was entitled to the $200 exemption, but the constable paid no attention to this assertion, taking the instrument for a former friend of Zanoni, in payment of a debt. The case was twice tried before and in each instance Zanoni got a verdict in his favor. This time, however, the jury failed to agree. The defense asserted that Zanoni had once agreed to let his friend have the piano in payment of the debt.

In the Criminal Courts Friday, Judge Schenck suspended sentence on Ralph J. Ecker, who was arrested on a charge of petty larceny and pleaded guilty on allegation. Ecker was immediately released, on his promise of good behavior in the future. He has been in jail for some time.

In the Orphans' Court many matters came up, but the most of them of any importance were postponed. The celebrated Isaiah Coriell will case has been adjourned until the ninth of February.

AFTER HYPNOTIZER.

Former Plainfielder Claimed the Hypnotizer Induced Wife Away.

Joseph Sohl, formerly a resident of Plainfield but now manager of the Passaic Opera House, appeared in the Yorkville Police Court, New York, Saturday, as complainant against Lawson Hermann, a professional hypnotizer. Sohl said the hypnotizer had induced his wife to leave her home in Passaic three weeks ago and had since held her under "hypnotic spell" so that she would not return to her husband.

The prisoner, when arraigned, said that he had engaged the woman at $10 a week to act as his subject and she had voluntarily made the agreement. Hermann explained that in his opinion the action was one of jealousy. The Magistrate adjourned the examination until yesterday so that Sohl might produce his wife.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE.

Represented at the Amherst College Alumni Banquet.

The Amherst College alumni held a reunion Thursday evening in New York City at Delmonico's. A good alumni representation from the college was present at this time, Plainfield being represented at the banquet by Col. Mason W. Tyler, Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson, Councilman W. S. Tyler, Boardman Tyler and Fred W. Goddard. The speaker of the evening was Professor Tyler, of the college faculty, who is a brother of Col. Mason W. Tyler, of this city.

Dr. Richards to Address.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, will address the King's Missionary Circle, at Warren chapel, Thursday evening, Feb. 5, at 8 o'clock.

WORKING TO ORGANIZE AGAINST ALIEN LABOR

League of American Citizens' Adopted a Constitution at Meeting Saturday Night.

TO ORGANIZE BRANCHES

THE ORIGINATOR OF THE LEAGUE, A. C. ROGERS, MADE AN ADDRESS.

Considerable Enthusiasm Was Manifested — Arrangements Were Made for a Mass-Meeting to be Held in the Near Future.

One of the most encouraging meetings of the League of American Citizens, since the scheme was inaugurated in this city several weeks ago, was held in the Trades' Council chambers Saturday evening. The attendance was fairly good and the enthusiasm at the meeting waxed warm. Several local union leaders were present and made short addresses on the subjects of the league. Refreshments were served during the meeting.

The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by the orginator of the league, A. C. Rogers. He told in a few words the object of holding the meeting and told how an organization of that kind could do much good in helping union men to attain the objects which they have been striving for so long, namely, the discouragement of foreign labor and the encouragement of employed skilled American labor.

W. C. Tracey was elected secretary pro tem of the meeting and he read over the constitution which was adopted. The constitution says that all American citizens over twenty-one years of age are eligible to membership without regard to race, color or creed. The entrance fee will be 25 cents and the regular dues 10 cents a month. Meetings will be held every two weeks.

Arrangements are being made to hold a rousing mass meeting in this city in two weeks, or at the call of the chairman, A. C. Rogers. It is hoped that Samuel Gompers or John Mitchell will be here as invitations will be sent to them to be present.

It is the intention of the promoters of the league to start a branch organization in New Brunswick within a few weeks and also one is Elizabeth sometime next month. Permits have been granted to Unions in Baltimore and Chicago to organize societies in those cities.

FIRE UNDER HEARTH.

Was Just Getting Under Way When Smoke Alarmed Household of L. Borsum, of Woodland Ave.

But for its timely discovery, a small fire, which occurred at the home of Louis Borsum, of Woodland avenue, at 3 o'clock this morning, would undoubtedly have resulted in a serious conflagration. As it was it took the firemen an hour to put it out and damage was caused to the extent of $125.

The family was aroused by smoke and a telephone alarm was immediately sent to headquarters. Hose wagons Nos. 1 and 2 responded and found the blaze among the timbers of the first floor caused by a hearth fire. They had been smouldering and were just getting in nice shape when discovered. At the time the occupants were awakened, smoke was in every part of the house.

Rev. Mr. Griffin Preached.

Rev. W. T. Griffin, U. S. consul at Lamoges, France, whose home is on East Seventh street, occupied the pulpit at Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning. He preached a strong sermon from the text "According to the glorious Gospel of the blessed God, which was committed to my trust." Mr. Griffin gave a discourse which was attentively listened to by a good-sized audience, considering the stormy weather.

Telegraph Office Changed.

The office of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company will soon be moved from Park avenue to North avenue in the office formerly occupied by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, adjoining the Smalley building. A number of years ago the telegraph office was in that same place.

Pulpit Supply.

The pulpit at the Crescent Avenue church will be occupied next Sunday by Rev. Dr. S. E. Wishard, of Salt Lake City, Utah, and in the evening, Rev. Dr. Thomas C. Hall will preach. Dr. Hall will occupy the pulpit during February.

ANOTHER ROAD MAY CROSS NEW JERSEY

Big Railroad Fight, With Millions Involved, is a Possibility in the Near Future.

GOULDS AND PENNSY

THE PROPOSED RAILROAD OF GOULDS WOULD BEGIN AT ELIZABETH.

All Jersey and Part of Pennsylvania is Interested in This Gigantic Con-t, Which is Really Believed to be Approaching.

The people of New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania, or such part of them as live along a line described as extending from Elizabeth, near Newark bay to Trenton on the Delaware, and Marietta on the Susquehanna, says the Elizabeth Journal, are interested in the fight which is now on between the Goulds and the Pennsylvania Railroad.

They see in the present movements a possibility of a new railroad through that section of the country, with possible connections as far west as the Pacific coast.

For nearly a month past men have been quietly at work securing options upon or purchasing land in Bucks, Montgomery and Chester counties, Pa., without stating the object for which the land is to be used.

Near Morrisville, opposite Camden, options have been secured upon several farms, and in one or two instances it is said that a strip 100 feet wide has been purchased.

All these options and purchases have evidently been made with a view to affording a direct route from a point north of Philadelphia to the Delaware river, striking Trenton in the southern portion, where it would be the least difficult to secure a right of way across the entire city.

In a direct line, less than two miles away, is the present terminus of the Trenton and New Brunswick Railroad.

In Chester county, Pa., work is being done within forty miles of Philadelphia, upon a line which seems to be without an owner. There is more than a suspicion that the Philadelphia and Western Railroad Company has a hand in the construction, although those in charge of the work are singularly ignorant when questioned relative to the same. But the road is being built, and it is evident that it is to be double track, the same as the Gould line in Maryland, and the same as the Western Maryland is to be made.

The Trenton and New Brunswick Railroad officials have denied emphatically that their road is ever to be other than an electric railway, but they cannot deny that they have a steam railroad charter and a 100-foot right of way nor do they say that they will not sell if the proper parties come along.

But even if they did not sell a parallel road could be constructed, under the laws of New Jersey. And should the Pennsylvania Railroad put up a fight in Elizabeth and delay the building of a rival road across the Delaware and through the city there is nothing to hinder going a few miles further north and crossing the Delaware without first obtaining permission from Congress.

Owing to the fact that the line, according to present options, extends to South Trenton, where the river is navigable, it would require the consent of Congress to construct a bridge, although such bridge, once constructed, would not be impeded by navigation to any extent worthy of mention.

Should a line be carried across the Delaware at a point about seven miles above Trenton it would be possible to take advantage of the old roadbed of the abandoned Mercer and Somerset, which once extended from Somerset Junction, on the Belvidere division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, to New Brunswick.

The section from New Brunswick to Millstone is still in operation, but the balance, some 20 miles, was abandoned a quarter of a century ago owing to the incoming of the Philadelphia and Reading, which competed at the important points.

This roadbed was graded for a single track, but to enlarge it enough to accommodate two tracks would be a small matter, and the majority of the landowners, who are now in legal possession of the abandoned route, would prefer that it again be occupied by a track, provided that they were compensated, and in many cases they would give it free.

In but few instances, and then only for a very short distance has the old grading been destroyed.

A clash between the mighty forces represented by the Pennsylvania's $150,000,000 capital, and the Goulds' proposed $300,000,000 syndicate, would possess interest for more people than those living along the route mentioned.

A member of the New Jersey Legislature has in his possession a bill permitting the construction of a railroad bridge across the Delaware, and representatives of a syndicate antagonistic the Pennsylvania are keeping an eye on New Jersey's lawmaking body.

There will be big things doing pretty soon, and it is not too much to say that the day when there will be one or more through railway lines between the Atlantic and Pacific is not so far away as some people imagine, and the fight between the Western Union Company, a Gould protege, and the Pennsylvania Railroad, may have more back of it than would appear upon the surface.

CONFERENCE OF CHARITIES

NEW JERSEY ASSOCIATION WILL MEET AT TRENTON NEXT MONTH.

The Second Annual Meeting Will be Held February 19 to 20—The Officers.

The New Jersey conference of charities and corrections, which was instituted in Trenton last year, will hold its second annual meeting in that city, February 19 and 20. The success of the plan of conference-holding has been assured, and it is expected that this year's assemblage will be even more enthusiastic than was that of 1902.

Following the lines laid down by educators, child study will be the most important subject upon the programme. The tendency of philanthropic work in New Jersey is toward child saving and incidentally the entire problem of the maintenance of the home. Among the subjects proposed for discussion are wife desertion and non-support legislation, family care for dependent children, women's reformatory, probation and organized play.

It is also understood that a specific plan for a State board of charities and corrections will be presented.

The conference officers are: President, Emily E. Williamson, Elizabeth; treasurer, Robert L. Fleming, Jersey City; secretary, William H. Allen, Jersey City; assistant secretaries, E. R. Johnston, Vineland; Sarah Manton Van Boskerck, Plainfield; A. W. McDougall, Orange; vice presidents, ex-Governor Foster M. Voorhees, Elizabeth; Rev. Amory H. Bradford, D. D., Montclair; Rt. Rev. Bishop James A. McFaul, Trenton; Mrs. Stewart Hartshorn, Short Hills; Charlton T. Lewis, LL. D., Morristown, and the following executive committee: Francis B. Lee, Trenton; Professor J. H. Finley, Princeton; Mrs. Laban D. Ennis, Newark; Bleecker Van Wagenen, Orange; Charles T. Currie, Blackwood; A. M. Teston, Atlantic City; Rev. Frank A. Fay, Jersey City; Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander, Hoboken; T. L. McConnell, Smith's Landing; Mary Sinton Lewis, Morristown; Hugh F. Fox, Bayonne; Otto Otterson, Jamesburg.

THEATRICAL.

The term "howling success" was never more aptly applied to any attraction presented on the American stage than to Jerome Sykes' performance of "John Doe" in Klaw & Erlanger's magnificent production of "The Billionaire" at Daly's Theatre, New York, where all records of this house since it was built have been broken. From the time the curtain rises till it falls on the last scene, the audience is kept in a roar of laughter. In fact, when the people leave the theatre they are actually tired from merriment. "The Billionaire" is one of the strongest appeals to the humorous side of human nature that has been originated in years. Although comic interest predominates the piece, there is much in it that is a response to the artistic, especially in the scenery and costumes and in several of the more important musical numbers. Klaw & Erlanger display a very happy faculty for getting together a comic show that is artistic in the highest sense and is humorous without resort to horseplay and low buffoonery. Their great success in this line of productions is unquestionably due to the fact that they appeal to refined people and present such attractions in a manner acceptable to them. They aim at the highest standard in all that they do. The result is the best people are Klaw & Erlanger's supporters and follow all their attractions and projects with unusual interest.

—The Union Bible class, taught by Rev. D M. Stearns will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Tuesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

PLANS FOR STATE MEETING

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS OF JERSEY GETTING READY FOR CONVENTION.

Although It Will Not Be Held Until Next October at Orange.

The executive committee of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union met in Newark this week and began its work of outlining the work for the State convention to be held at Orange in October. There was a large attendance, nearly every county in the State being represented. Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, State president, occupied the chair.

The programme committee, consisting of Rev. B. B. Ware, of Camden; Rev. Dr. Conelius Brett, of Jersey City; Rev. A. Edwin Kerigwin, of Newark; Rev. P. T. Pockman, of New Brunswick, and Rev. J. R. Thompson, of Bound Brook, reported that the programme for the State gathering will provide for a two days' meeting, October 15 and 16. There will be a report from each of the nine State departments, to be followed by an open parliament. The convention sermon and four addresses will be delivered by prominent Endeavor pastors throughout the State and adjoining States.

Rev. Dr. F. E. Clark, president of the United Endeavor Society, and former general secretary, John Willis Baer will be two of the principal speakers. The usual conferences and rallies will be held and a junior parade will be a feature of one of the afternoon sessions. An effort will be made to secure a ten per cent. increase in membership by July 1. This is in charge of a special committee. Several minor changes will be made in the State constitution, a committee being appointed for that purpose.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Many persons are very superstitious about the number 13 yet few know that a silver quarter of a dollar has many unlucky qualities about it, if there is any truth that number 13 is unlucky. A quarter dollar has 13 stars, 13 letters in the scroll in the eagle's bill, 13 feathers in the eagles tail, 13 feathers in the eagles' wing, 13 parallel bars on the shield, 13 horizontal stripes, 13 leaves on the olive branch, 13 arrowheads and 13 letters in the words "quarter dollar."

A copy of the Commercial Advertiser, cable edition, of Honolulu, together with a copy of "Paradise of the Pacific," an illustrated holiday book, has been received from Wm. F. Dunn, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Honolulu. The paper is exceptionally well edited and contains a wealth of good news about its own country as well as other countries. This particular edition is devoted principally to the latest triumph, that of the completion of the Pacific cable. The event was marked by a general celebration among the people. The paper and illustrated book is right up-to-date typographically and otherwise and shows in an interesting manner the progrese being made in that part of the world.

The editor of The Daily Press has just received, with the compliments of the publishers, a copy of the Kodol Almanac and 200 year calendar, which is certainly a most unique and useful book. By reference to this calendar the day of the week, of any given date in any month of the year, from 1776 to 1976, may be found at a glance. This information can not be found in any other publication extant. Another feature of remarkable interest that this publication possesses, is its weather forecasts. Messrs. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, are sole owners and publishers of the Kodol Almanac and 200 year calendar, and while several millions of copies are in circulation, they have yet a few hundred copies of the first edition, and will send one copy to any one enclosing a two cent stamp, with a request for same, provided this paper is mentioned.

Rev. T. E. Davis, a Presbyterian clergyman of Bound Brook, has in his possession a very interesting relic of that Somerset county town in colonial days. It is the impress of a seal of Queen Ann, made in 1756 by Isaiah Younglove, who was a commissioner of the peace at Bound Brook at that time. The seal is on the end of a knife handle. Isaiah Younglove settled at Bound Brook in 1738, going there from Connecticut. He had six sons and six daughters. His third son, Isaiah, Jr., served in the "Jersey Grays," under Colonel Dayton, and went to Fort Stanwix, and from there to Oswego, where he was wounded and captured by the Indians. He was taken to Toronto, and was the first prisoner of war exchanged. The exchange took place at Lake George. He afterward furnished General Schuyler with much information about the British. After the war he returned to Bound Brook, where he died and was buried in the old Presbyterian burying ground.

STATE RIFLE ASSOCIATION

REPORTS RECEIVED OF WORK DONE DURING THE PAST YEAR.

The Organization is in Good Financial Standing—The Officers Chosen.

The report of the secretary of the board of directors of the New Jersey State Rifle Association, at a meeting held recently, showed an unusually favorable condition of affairs, there being 162 members in good standing, during the last year twenty-eight new members having joined. Many of the new members are National Guard officers of the States of New York and Pennsylvania and Washington, showing that the association is quite National in its scope.

The report of the treasurer shows a surplus of $1,062 96. The receipts from the annual rifle meeting, held at Sea Girt, illustrates in a most effective way the increased popularity of these National meetings. There were received from the entries, etc., $5,426.64, an increase of $1,884.69 over last year. The assets of the club are $16,372 82 and the liabilities $8,120, showing an excess of assets over liabilities of $8,252.82.

Officers for the ensuing year have been elected as follows:

President, Franklin Murphy, Governor; first vice president, Maj.-Gen. P. Farmer Wanser; second vice president, Brevet Brig. Gen. G. E. P. Howard; third vice president, William Hayes, Esq.; treasurer, Brig. Gen. Bird W. Spencer; secretary, Lieut.-Col. Charles W. Parker; assistant secretary, Lieut. Albert S. Jones.

GAME WARDEN'S TROUBLES

SOME OF THE EXPERIENCES OF DEPUTY WARDEN HAWKINS, OF THIS COUNTY.

How He Hunted All Night for a Pond and How He Came to Find It.

The New Jersey game wardens have some interesting experiences, in the course of their business. Deputy Hawkins, of Roselle, who has had a good deal to do with stocking the lakes of the State with fish, tells how he spent a night last year looking for a pond and drove around it half a dozen times with a colored guide, who didn't know where the place was, though he thought he did and had the presumption to say so.

"About 4 o'clock in the morning," says Mr. Hawkins, "we came out of the woods, after driving since 6 o'clock, with two inches of snow on our backs and a wagon load of ice-bound fish. In order to see that the fish were alive and had enough air, I had to chop off the ice that covered the tanks. We saw a light not far away and made for it, finding an old darky chopping wood. I asked him if he could tell me where the pond was.

"'Sure, Massa. I know where it is,' he said, chopping more vigorously, 'but I'se mighty cold and got ter build da fire.'

"The sight of a little cash warmed him up, though and we found the pond in ten minutes. We had travelled around it five times."

This is only one of the many experiences told by the deputy game warden of his winter work in stocking the New Jersey lakes and ponds with game fish. Once when he took 25,000 black bass from Washington to Hoboken he was told by the superintendent of the Fish Commission at that city that he would be lucky to get to Hoboken with forty per cent. of his fish alive, according to the customary death rate among travelling fish. But after the best management Mr. Hawkins wrote to the superintendent and had the satisfaction of informing him that only two had died on the journey. "One was crushed with ice, and the other died a natural death."

Digging a Cellar.

A new concrete cellar is being dug under the drug store of E. S. F. Randolph at the corner of North and Watchung avenues. The cellar will be used when completed for the storage of goods. It will be as long as the store and will extend under the sidewalk both in front and on the side.

One Hundred Dollars a Box

is the value H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. MISSING VESSEL SAFE

The Dawson City, Given Up For Lost, In Port.

A LONG AND TEMPESTUOUS VOYAGE

Last Heard of the Steamer, Which Left Nome Oct. 29, Was More Than Two Months Ago.

PORT TOWNSHEND, Wash., Jan. 26.—The steamer Dawson City, from Nome, which long ago was given up as lost, has just entered the bay here. On Oct. 29 last the steamer Dawson City left Nome, bound to Dutch Harbor, Alaska. Since leaving Nome she had been reported only once, That was on Nov. 13, when she was spoken headed for Dutch Harbor.

The entire trip was marked by a succession of accidents and exasperating delays, while the fury of the elements seemed to combine to hinder her passage to her destination. Soon after starting south the boilers commenced leaking, with the result that the fresh water supply was consumed. Then fuel began to run short, and the vessel was forced to resort to such canvas as could be fashioned into sails. The vessel put into Port Moller for fuel and water and after remaining two weeks started again, only to run into fierce storms which drove her from her course. Again fuel ran out, so the Dawson City headed for Dutch Harbor to refill her bunkers and tanks. At this port her sailors deserted and refused to continue the voyage.

The run from Dutch Harbor to this port was made in twenty-two days, which is considered a very good showing, considering the weather and the facilities for handling the vessel.

Connecticut's Former Governor Dead

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 26.—Former Governor Charles Roberts Ingersoll, aged eighty-two years, is dead at his home here from general debility incident to old age. Mr. Ingersoll contracted the grip last spring and had been ill since, although he was not confined to his bed until two weeks ago, since which time he failed rapidly. Charles Roberts Ingersoll was a native of New Haven. He graduated from Yale in the class of 1840 and was admitted to practice at the New Haven county bar in 1845. Mr. Ingersoll was seated in the Connecticut legislature from 1856 to 1871. The Democratic party in 1871 placed Mr. Ingersoll's name at the head of their ticket for governor. He was elected and after serving that term was again overwhelmingly elected in 1873.

China's Troubles Increase.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 26.—The steamers Athenian and Tremont have just arrived from the orient, both having sailed from Yokohama and arrived within an hour of each other. The steamers bring further news of the revolution in Nansu. One correspondent telegraphs to the Shanghai papers from Lasheknow to the effect that unless Tung Fuh Siang is suppressed the powers will soon find themselves face to face with a bigger revolt than that of two years ago. Missionaries already are beginning to leave the threatened district. A correspondent of the Shanghai Mercury in Nansu wires: "A crisis is imminent, and the officials are powerless to act. The taoti is suppressing news. There is cause for grave apprehension unless Tung Fuh Siang is suppressed."

Funds For Fighting Plague.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 26.—The charity commission at Mazatlan has received up to date $130,000 for use in combating the plague. Money is still pouring in from all parts of the country. The official bulletin from Mazatlan reports four deaths and four new cases for Wednesday last and for Tuesday five deaths and two new cases. The total number of cases in the hospital was forty-four, of which five were serious. Dr. J. P. Grimes, the bubonic plague expert, who offered his services to the government, has been ordered to hold himself in readiness to proceed to the stricken city.

Rushing Naval Work at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 26.—There is an unusual degree of activity at the naval training station, and, judging from the large number of men employed, it looks as if rush orders had been received. In the machine shop alone there are twenty-five mechanics at work, and in all the departments the work is being carried on to their utmost capacity. The work of assembling harbor defense mines, which are to be supplied to all the battleships in commission, is being pushed ahead, and as fast as the outfits are ready they will be shipped to the various vessels.

Governor Odell's Sister Dead.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Miss Ophelia Odell, the elder sister of Governor Odell, is dead at the home of her father, ex-Mayor Odell, in Grand street. Miss Odell had been ill about a week with an attack of the grip and was under the care of Dr. John T. Howell. A day or two ago complications developed which made her condition serious. Death was due to œdema of the lungs. Miss Odell had not been in good health for some time. The governor and other members of the family were at her bedside when she died.

Adler Says Farewell.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Felix Adler said farewell to the Society of Ethical Culture at the regular meeting of the society in Carnegie hall preliminary to taking his seat as professor of ethics in Columbia university. For the next three weeks his place will be occupied by Professor Nathaniel Schmidt of the University of Chicago.

Annual January Sale of Silver-Plated Ware at ½, ¼ and ⅓ Reg. Prices.

This is not the accumulation of odds and ends left over from the holidays that so frequently appear in many of these January sales.

These are fresh, new goods straight from the factories of many of the largest manufacturers in the business.

They represent surplus stocks, and, in some instances, patterns that are not to be continued, but every piece is worthy of its full value. We procured the several lots at much below regular prices to close, and we offer them on the same basis—viz., at one-half, one-quarter and one-third of their actual value.

GERMANY GIVEN LIE

Venezuelans Say the Panther Fired the First Shot.

BOMBARDMENT WAS PREMEDITATED

President Castro's Secretary and the War Minister Both Declare the Attack to Have Been Without Provocation.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 26.—A correspondent has been making inquiries with a view to ascertaining whether the German gunboat Panther or Fort San Carlos fired the first shot.

The foreign minister said: "The Panther on Jan. 17 attacked the fort first without provocation. The gunboat approached the fort and fired on it. We can guarantee that the attack was premeditated and planned in Berlin. The proof of this assertion is a letter we received on the morning of Jan. 16 from Curacao and which President Castro retains in his possession notifying us that San Carlos would be attacked between Jan. 16 and Jan. 18—that is to say, before the arrival of United States Minister Bowen at Washington. Another proof that the attack was premeditated is the circumstance that General Bello, who is in command of the fortress, received no notification as to the object of the Panther in approaching the fortress similar to the written ultimatum that the Germans transmitted through the United States consul to the Venezuelan representative at Puerto Cabello when Fort Libertador was shelled."

The letter referred to above has been communicated to certain legations.

The correspondent also saw Dr. Torres Cardenas, President Castro's secretary. Dr. Cardenas was at first unwilling to discuss the matter, but afterward said: "The Panther attacked first. We have proof of it. Germany may try to explain her conduct by asserting that the fort fired on them first, but we deny it. It was not the fortress, which is immovable, that called on the Germans. No, it was the Panther, which was enforcing the blockade outside the bar, six miles from the fortress, which one morning came and attacked the fortress. Why should we attack? Have we tried since Dec. 9 to trouble the Germans, English or Italians, notwithstanding their aggressive policy? Our role was finished a fortnight ago. Mr. Bowen, the United States minister, represents our interests, and we were patiently and silently awaiting the result of his mission when this sad event occurred. Compare the conduct of England and Italy with Germany's system of enforcing the blockade. You will see that the latter alone has interest in creating trouble."

The Venezuelan war minister said: "The report that we fired first on the Panther is stupid. Venezuela, being aware that the guns of the fortress were inferior and of shorter range than the German guns, had learned by the experience of the shelling of Puerto Cabello that if any one suffered it would be the fortress."

CONFERRING WITH BOWEN.

Ambassadors of the Powers Discuss Venezuelan Question.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A long conference between Minister Bowen and Sir Michael Herbert, the British ambassador, followed by shorter conferences between Sir Michael, Signor Mayor des Planches, the Italian ambassador, and Count Quadt, the German charge d'affaires, indicates diplomatic activity in Washington over the Venezuelan situation. All the negotiators decline to discuss the results of the meetings, but general statements by them that the situation warrants hope of early relief is signficant of what has been accomplished in the last twenty-four hours.

By this time the London, Berlin and Rome foreign offices are in possession of Mr. Bowen's third proposition, stating the nature of the guarantee he is prepared to offer for Venezuela if his initial request is complied with and the blockade raised at once. Strict reticence is maintained by all the negotiators as to the nature of this guarantee, and until the joint reply of the powers is received this will not be disclosed.

Count Quadt has been advised by the German foreign office of the reasons for the bombardments of the San Carlos forts. This explanation agrees with that cabled from Berlin.

No definite action is expected regarding the blockade before Wednesday. Throughout the negotiations here Mr. Bowen has dealt separately with the foreign envoys, while they have kept in constant touch with one another. There has been no joint action on their part.

The important fact has developed that the triple alliance against Venezuela was far more comprehensive than was at first supposed. The agreement between Great Britain, Germany and Italy involved not only a joint initiative action for the collection of their claims, but each of the three powers pledged itself to lift the blockade simultaneously.

An Agreement This Week.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 26.—A dispatch to the Petit Bleu from Berlin states that an agreement in the Venezuelan question will be reached this week and that a commission appointed by the United States government will be charged with the administration of all the maritime customs offices of Venezuela. A dispatch from Rome says that the Patria asserts that the Venezuelan blockade will be raised today.

A HEARING.

When the annexation and consolidation bills came before the Legislature last winter a hearing was held to give the opponents of the measure an opportunity to have their say. It was brought out at that time that the only real objection against them was that they contained no referendum clause. At the request of Senator Charles A. Reed, such a clause was added by the Senate committee and the bills went back to the House where the amendment was approved. Those who attended the hearing before the Senate committee will remember distinctly that the few men who did appear against the measures opposed them on the ground that the people's opinion on the subject should be obtained first before any change was made.

When they were made laws, both of these bills contained the referendum provisions. Thus was the fight transferred to where it should be, the interested community. It could not have been fairer. Even the opponents of the measures had to admit that the place to settle the question was right in the city and borough.

Now the Senator from Mercer, who has nothing to do with the case, introduces bills for the repeal of these two measures. Under one of them there has been a vote. The question of consolidation has not yet come before the people of either city or borough. It is most inadvisable to repeal these laws at this time. The opponents of the greater city scheme had an opportunity to be heard before the measures were passed. It is the duty of the legislators at Trenton to give the advocates of the subject a chance to be heard before these repealers come up for a vote.

If the opponents of the greater city scheme want fair play, let them join with the advocates of the measure in demanding a hearing from the Legislature before they are acted upon. When one remembers the great throng which went to Trenton in behalf of those measures and the comparatively small representation against them, there can be little doubt as to what would be the result of a hearing for these proposed repealers.

Governor Pennypacker, of Philadelphia, has some ideas of his own regarding the freedom of the press and he gave vent to them in his inaugural address. The trouble has been that Pennsylvania politics have not been the kind to desire newspaper notoriety. It is likely, however, that the Governor's expression of opinion will not improve his treatment at the hands of the Pennsylvania press.

Although there may not have been as many events of such importance as those of the last year and the year before, Plainfield's society circles have found this winter a particularly enjoyable one. In place of a few happenings of overwhelming magnitude, there have been frequent events of minor importance which have really made the season more pleasant than the previous ones.

Very proper is the stand taken by the Board of Trade on these proposed repealers for the annexation and consolidation acts. A special meeting of that body will be held tomorrow evening to roundly denounce the interference of Senator Hutchinson and to demand that he and other outside legislators keep their hands off.

At last the Stillman Music Hall has passed into the hands of the new owner and the public of Plainfield is assured that the local playhouse will be opened as soon as possible.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

During this week, John Wirth will make a specialty of fresh confectionery and Boston brown bread. All goods are delivered free.

The New York Bargain Store, 324 West Front street, is closing out its stock of fleece lined underwear, overcoats and rubber goods at cost.

I. H. Boehm still has his inventory sale on at his store and if one would take advantage of the remarkably low prices which are always to be found at this time of the year, now is the time to buy.

The New York Bargain store on West Front street, is one of the best places in this city to purchase clothing and furnishings because there the low prices are one of the great features of the store.

Every patron of S. Scheuer & Company, of West Front street, is a satisfied one. The people who trade with this firm of grocers never have any reason to complain, for they get full value and only first quality goods are handled. Prompt delivery a specialty.

"A stitch in time saves nine," is a trite saying that often proves true with a slight cold. If neglected it gradually gets worse until some more serious illness is the result. Avoid all trouble by seeing Shaw and purchasing some of the remedy that does the business.

Dudley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, is making a specialty of his own preparations, "Dentizone" tooth wash and paste. They are both the pink of perfection in the care of the teeth and Mr. Miller has had great success in the sale of these articles. They will preserve the teeth and keep them clean.

Have you noticed how popular the A. and P. goods are? They are not only used extensively in this city but in every part of the globe. That's because they are always guaranteed and are sold as low as possible. At the local store at 137 West Front street, all the best brands of the company's goods are sold.

You make no mistake neither do you take any chances when you trade with Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler. All goods are of the first quality and just as represented. Mr. Vail prides himself on honest work and he guarantees satisfaction. The optical department is complete and eyes are examined free. The repair department is thoroughly equipped and only first-class work executed.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Harry Adams has resigned his position with the Prudential Insurance Company. He expects to secure another position very soon.

—The regular rehearsal of the Hope Y. M. A. Minstrels has been postponed from tonight until tomorrow evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

—All bills against the city must be submitted to the city clerk before January 29, in order to be passed upon at the next meeting of the Common Council.

—The Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will hold its regular meeting Friday morning at the Crescent Avenue church.

—The Rasores Club will meet tomorrow morning with Mrs. J. E. Tracy, 440 West Eighth street. The roll call will be answered with quotations from Wadsworth.

—Grand Master Workman Nash and J. W. A. Bauersachs have returned from Camden, where they went on Saturday to attend to business in connection with the Ancient Order United Workmen.

—Charles Suhr, the musician, has developed considerable talent for amateur photography work. A few days ago he took an excellent photo of the law office of V. W. Nash, Jr., with the latter seated at his desk.

WOODHULL & MARTIN.

singing of plantation melodies, arranged by Mr. Guilford. A quartette, consisting of A. Willis West, Laurens H. VanBuren, James Dodd and Raymond A. McGee, sang these selections in true style. Mr. McGee and Mr. West were dressed to represent women.

At the close of the programme, a number of the guests remained for a short informal dance. In the arrangement of the affair, mention should be made of Mrs. Samuel Townsend and Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, who assisted Mr. Guilford in preparing for the entertainment.

PERSONAL.

Harry McComas, a former resident of this city but now of Newark, spent Saturday and yesterday in town with friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Alexander McComb Mason, wife of the late Mason Bey, of Cairo, Egypt, was a guest last week at the home of B. J. Shreve, of Grove street.

Superintendent Bittenbender, of the Prudential Insurance Company, with office at Clinton, has returned home after a visit of a few days with Plainfield friends.

Harry Johns, of 97 Jackson avenue, who was injured recently at Bound Brook and who has been in a delirious condition since, is somewhat better today and is more rational.

Rev. Dr. Eder, who occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church yesterday morning and evening, was entertained at the home of Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue.

Whitfield French, of West Fourth street, who has been ill for some time with pneumonia, and who was reported to have been somewat better Saturday, shows no signs of improvement today.

John Avery, of New York, spent Saturday and Sunday with his friend, Rev. L. R. Howard, of West Fifth street. Mr. Avery took part in the entertainment at the Park Club, Saturday evening.

Fred Bennett, a former Plainfield boy, now one of Uncle Sam's gunners on the torpedo boat, "Winslow," returned to duty at Newport, R. I., yesterday, after a pleasant stay with Theodore Smith, of Allen place.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Regular services were held in the Methodist church yesterday but in the evening some special music was rendered. Alfred Purser, of Brooklyn, was present and sang a baritone solo in an excellent manner that was much appreciated. Mr. Purser formerly resided here and a number of old friends were present to hear him sing.

The sidewalks throughout the town were cleaned off quite promptly yesterday after the storm and the walking is fairly good. There are a few property owners, however, that need attention from the street committee.

As soon as the ground is soft enough the gate at the Washington avenue crossing will be put in. At present there is only one gate on the North avenue side of the track.

A social will be held Thursday night under the auspices of the Epworth League in the Methodist church. The company will be entertained by A. A. Lake.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Elizabeth District will be held in the local church this evening. The Presiding Elder, Rev. Dr. Haleron, will be present.

Regular services were held yesterday in the Presbyterian chapel as the church is still being improved and is closed.

A business meeting of Court Dunellen, I. O. F., will be held this evening in Apgar Hall.

The Afternoon Card Club will meet tomorrow at the home of Miss Lizzie Dunham.

A dance will be given on St. Valentine's eve by some local young people.

Sydney Warren, of Cranford, spent Saturday with friends in town.

The Mandolin Club will give a home musical this evening.

Robert Lowrie, Sr., is improving slightly from his illness.

Miss Viola Hill is improving slowly from her recent illness.

Adam Dealaman continues in the same serious condition.

NEW MARKET.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley, of South Plainfield, preached to quite a large audience in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Saturday morning in the absence of the pastor.

Louis H. Morgan, of this place, is at Youngstown, Ohio, on business. Mr. Morgan is an employe in the Pond Tool Works and is on the business of that concern.

An auction sale of the goods of the late William J. Elliot will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late residence.

Regular services were held in the First Baptist church yesterday but the attendance was small.

The ice was fairly good on the pond Saturday and a large crowd enjoyed the skating.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of the late Edw. Terry, one of the township's oldest and most respected resident, were held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home at Alton. The home was filled with the relatives and friends who had gathered to honor him whom they had loved and respected in life. Rev. Chas. E. Herring, of the Presbyterian church, of Plainfield, had charge of the services. Interment was made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery.

The trolley service Saturday night was very shaky. After 8 o'clock cars were run any way, the majority of them taking hundred yards spurts and then resting for want of power. The local patrons will welcome the new power house as much as they will the advent of the city water.

The borough has one case of diphtheria, Harvey Carter, who has been ill for several days, having developed symptoms of the disease. The home has been quarantined and the Board of Health will use every endeavor to prevent an epidemic.

The storm of Sunday gave the town a deserted appearance but few venturing out. The attendance at all the church services was materially affected. During the afternoon the sidewalks were opened up by the use of the snow plow.

Anthony Alberts won the honors at the weekly shoot of the Brookside held Saturday afternoon. The weekly gatherings are well attended and some of the new material at trap work are showing great improvement at each weekly shoot.

The young son of Michael Angelo, of Forest avenue, is the latest victim of diphtheria. The home has been quarantined. Dr. Westcott is attending the little fellow. The other four patients are nearly all convalescent.

George Stickler, who conducts the old clubhouse at Fanwood, tendered a dance and reception Saturday evening to a number of his friends. Guests were present from the Amboys, Plainfield and Westfield.

Principal Howard D. White, of the public school, has been spending a few days at his home at Carlisle, Pa.

Miss Sadie Reger was the guest over Sunday of the Misses Squier at their home at Rahway.

The merry jingle of sleigh bells were heard occasionally yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

There has been some talk of a new street being opened from Church street to Front street. This would be a great convenience to the people in general.

Our local coal dealers will soon be out of coal with small prospects of receiving more soon.

The snow storm interfered with church attendance yesterday.

John Linaberry is confined at home by illness.

MUST BUILD.

Primary Depaatment of Trinity Sunday-School Has Outgrown Quarters—Must Have More Room.

On account of the steady increase in the primary department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, the Consistory is seriously considering plans for building an addition to the rear of the church, which would give the department just twice as much room is it now has and would give Pastor Schenck a study room. Plans are now out for this addition and the matter will be brought before the Consistory at its next meeting.

In case the addition is built it will occupy all the extra ground from the present structure to the alley in the rear.

DEMOND IN OFFICE.

Somerset's Surrogate Assumed His Official Duties at the Surgate's Office This Morning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 26—William J. Demond, who was sworn in as surrogate of Somerset county November 20, but did not take the office because the term of the late H. Newton Spencer, which was being filled out by his son, had not expired, this morning became the Surrogate in deed as well as in name, when he went in charge of the office.

A. Gibby Spencer, was sworn in this morning as deputy surrogate and will remain as such until April 1. Many believe he will become the permanent deputy.

Carnival of Games.

The social committee of the First M. E. church is planning to hold a social at the church Friday evening. It will be called "A Carnival of Games" and several unique features will be sure to be introduced. Refreshments will be served in a novel manner and a very delightful time is anticipated.

Rock in Snow Ball.

William Gaub, of Duer street, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon while playing with some boy companions. They were having a snow ball fight. In picking up some snow a rock was hidden in the ball and which, when he was struck with it, severely cut his eye.

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

Mrs. J. M. Tier, of Bank place, is kept at her home with an attack of grip.

Mrs. Chris Stahl, of Maple avenue, is recovering from a severe attack of the grip.

Fred Bimble, of Harrison avenue, is ill at his home suffering with quinsy sore throat.

Miss Laura Winthrop, of Bound Brook, has been spending a few days with Plainfield friends.

John H. VanWinkle, Jr., of Duer street, is confined to his home by a severe attack of gastritis.

Miss Edith DeRussy, of New York, has been the guest of Miss Helen Bushnell, of Central avenue.

Miss Shultheiss, of New Brunswick, has been visiting friends and relatives in the city and borough.

Louis Cutter, of New York, spent Sunday at the home of his cousin, F. S. Cutter, of Sandford avenue.

N. W. French, of West Fourth street, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is somewhat improved.

Wm. A. French, of St. Paul, Minn., who has been visiting his brother, E. M. French, left for his home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Leonard, of Perth Amboy, who have been visiting Plainfield relatives, have returned home.

Mrs. E. T. Barrows, of West Eighth street, is greatly improved from a recent illness and is able to leave her home.

Charles W. Fisk, who is spending the winter in New York with his parents, has been visiting in Plainfield for a few days.

Mrs. William A. Woodruff and her daughter, Mrs. H. S. Potter, of East Second street, are both detained at home with the grip.

Dorothy Keller, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keller, of Harrison avenue, who has been ill for the past few days, is reported as being much better today.

Louis Menzenbach, who recently had his feet frost bitten while working on a building on which he was doing some mason work, has so far recovered that he was able to resume his work this morning.

After Borough Taxes.

Henry Meyers, constable and deputy collector of borough taxes is still "gathering in the sheaves" across the brook. He is making hay while the sun shines and is making a personal visitation on all boroughites who have neglected to pass in their checks in payment of their taxes. There are now only a few who have not paid up.

New Place of Worship.

Hereafter the Swedish Lutheran congregation will hold its services in the German Lutheran church instead of Grace P. E. chapel. The meeting hour has been arranged for 3:30 Sunday afternoons. The Sewing Circle connected with the church will meet Thursday evening at 122 Madison avenue.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

LESSER HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY TOLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

Then There Is Mention of Some of the Things That Are Yet to Come.

—The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will meet this evening in regular monthly session.

—Raymond Carver, of New street, has given up his position with the New Jersey Central and will seek employment at home.

—The sewing school will meet at the W. C. T. U. rooms Wednesday afternoon at the usual hour and a full attendance is desired.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the First Presbyterian church, will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—The regular monthly consecration service will be held this evening at Trinity Reformed church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. All are cordially invited to attend.

—The German Benevolent Society will hold a meeting Thursday evening at the home of Charles Schantz, of Park avenue. At that time there will be important matters brought up for discussion and a full attendance is desired.

—James Flammer and Stonewall Jackson have taken a good sized shipment of horses to New York for disposal. The carload left this city this morning. The horses are a part of a shipment of fine animals recently received from the west.

THEATRICAL.

Tonight will witness the opening performance at the Central Theatre of "The Innocent Beauties" Company, one of the biggest and best burlesque organizations travelling. It carries special scenery and electrical effects and some of the best vaudeville artists in America making a delightful evening's entertainment. The usual prices will prevail during this engagement.

Progressive Euchre.

There will be a progressive euchre party at the Park Club, Tuesday evening, February 3.

John Milne, of Harrison avenue, who has been very ill is much better today.

CHAMBERLAIN TREKS

Colonial Secretary Goes to Mafeking by Mule Power.

WARM WELCOME AT VENTERSDORP.

Boer Commando Hears Praises For General Delarey, Who Unexpectedly Appears and Speaks Favorably of English Guest.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain started on Saturday on an interesting wagon trek from Potchestroom to Mafeking, accompanied by Mrs. Chamberlain, Sir Arthur Lawley, Major General Baden-Powell and others. Relays of mules had been arranged to enable the party to travel at about ten miles an hour. There was a picturesque scene outside Ventersdorp, thirty-one miles northwest of Potchestroom. A commando of Boers met the party and escorted it into the town. A bouquet of flowers was presented to Mrs. Chamberlain. The colonial secretary was conducted to the house of the landrost, and the commando of Boers drew up in a half circle outside. Soon after General Delarey arrived and was cordially received by Mr. Chamberlain, who introduced him to Mrs. Chamberlain.

After the presentation of an address of welcome Mr. Chamberlain made a speech to the commando, in which he congratulated the Boers on being the comrades of so great and gallant a man as General Delarey. The colonial secretary continued: "I hope he is my friend, and I hope you all are my friends. We fought a good fight, and there is nothing to be ashamed of on either side."

On the conclusion of Mr. Chamberlain's speech, which was throughout in this vein, General Delarey unexpectedly stepped forward and addressed the Boers in Dutch, declaring his belief that the colonial secretary was "the man to set things right in South Africa."

These speeches made an excellent impression. On proceeding on their journey General Delarey accompanied the party.

Castellane Again Chosen.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—The election of a deputy in the Basses-Alps district, rendered necessary by the invalidation of Count Boni de Castellane's election by the chamber of deputies on Nov. 7, took place yesterday. Count Boni de Castellane was again a candidate and was opposed by Andre Siegfried. The contest was strenuously conducted on both sides. The result of the polling at the town of Castellane shows a majority of 500 for the count. The returns from twenty other electoral stations are still lacking, but the re-election of Count Boni de Castellane seems assured.

Illustrious Dead to Be Remembered.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 26.—State Superintendent of Schools Skinner has issued the following: "Within the next four weeks will occur the birthdays of three illustrious presidents, William McKinley, Jan. 29; Abraham Lincoln, Feb. 12, and George Washington, Feb. 22. These names are inseparably woven into American history in those periods usually considered as having the most important bearing upon our national life. I therefore recommend that in all our public schools exercises be held commemorative of their distinguished lives and services."

Great Fire In Armagh, Ireland.

ARMAGH, Ireland, Jan. 26.—A great fire broke out here yesterday and spread so rapidly that the local fire brigade was unable to cope with it, and assistance had to be sent for from Belfast, thirty-five miles distant. The result of the fire was that ten of the largest warehouses and shops in the center of the town were destroyed, the damage being estimated at $300,000. The trade of the town is paralyzed by this destruction. The timely removal of a quantity of dynamite from one of the doomed stores averted a worse disaster.

Vice President Velasco Banished.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Jan. 26.—The first vice president, Colonel Velasco, has been banished under an executive decree for an indefinite period. A police patrol conducted him to the Peruvian frontier. The reason for this action was that Vice President Velasco, being a leader of the opposition, could not assume the presidency without creating political disturbances. The second vice president, Dr. Anibal Capriles, will assume the presidency when President Pando goes to Acre.

Pretender Threatens Fez.

TANGIER, Morocco, Jan. 26.—News from Fez states that the pretender, Bu Hamara, was then advancing at the head of a large force and had arrived at a point twenty-five miles from Fez. A decisive battle was expected, and should the sultan's main army, which is posted on the Sebu river, be defeated it was thought that the city of Fez would inevitably fall into the hands of Bu Hamara.

Higher Education In New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 26.—The one hundred and sixteenth annual report of the regents of the university of the state of New York shows that during 1902 institutions of higher education, including professional, technical and other special schools, reported 34,364 students and a total net property of $82,931,575.

Professor Ross to Visit Us.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 26.—Presiding at a complimentary banquet given to Professor Donald Ross, the recipient of the Nobel prize for medical research, Sir Alfred Jones announced that the United States had applied to Professor Ross for advice and that he was going to America shortly.

TELLER IS CONFIDENT.

Republicans In Colorado Legislature Say His Election Is Invalid.

DENVER, Jan. 26.—Henry M. Teller, who was elected for his sixth term in the United States senate Saturday at a joint legislative session, in which only Democrats participated, has left the city for his country place at Grand Junction. Governor Peabody, who went to Canon City to spend Sunday at home, was a passenger on the same train. The two met on the train, and Governor Peabody extended congratulations to the senator.

"My election, I feel sure, was perfectly legal and regular," said Senator Teller in conversation with friends, "for I succeeded in getting the majority vote of both houses. I am entitled to a certificate from the governor and shall expect it, but if I fail to secure my credentials I shall be able to take my case before the senate nevertheless."

When asked if he would sign a certificate of election for Senator Teller, Governor Peabody replied, "I will cross that bridge when I come to it."

It is understood, however, that the governor will be in no haste to act in the matter, but will allow the fullest time for the determination of all the issues before he signs a certificate for any person.

The Colorado senator's term will not begin until March 4, and he is not likely to need any certificate until congress shall assemble next December unless an extra session should be called.

D. B. Fairley, chairman of the Republican state committee, whose resignation has been demanded by a vote of a majority of the committee on account of his opposition to the candidacy of E. O. Wolcott for the senatorship, has given out a statement declaring that the Republicans will not recognize Teller's election.

"In my opinion," he said, "the election was illegal, and no attention will be paid to it by the state central committee or either faction of the Republicans in the house or senate. The election is invalid for the reason that the proper officers did not preside over the joint session."

New York State Charities.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 26.—The annual report of the state board of charities to be submitted to the legislature this week says that seventy children are supported at public expense in private institutions and that there are in town and city almshouses 250 feebleminded women, 600 idiots and 200 epileptics, for the care of all of whom "provision should be made in state institutions." Fourteen state institutions, with 8,288 beneficiaries, expended last year $1,265,795. Ten private institutions, receiving state appropriations and having 3,324 beneficiaries, expended $917,259. Of their receipts $691,216 was from public sources. Appropriations for state institutions last year were $1,569,419; estimated for next year, $2,025,348.

British Bark's Rough Experience.

BOSTON, Jan. 26.—The British bark Nile, Captain Symons, which has just made port from Samarang, Java, via Barbados, was between New York and Nantucket on Christmas day. Not until last Friday was she able to get into Massachusetts bay, and that night she was driven off the coast by the northwest gale. The crew of the Nile has had a trying voyage. Six or seven different times the vessel was within a hundred miles of port and each time was blown off the coast. The officers and several members of the crew had their faces, hands and feet frostbitten.

Millionaire Clark's Brother Very Ill.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 26.—Joseph K. Clark, brother of United States Senator W. A. Clark, lies dangerously ill at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. F. Miller, in this city. His physicians say that there is hardly a chance of his recovery. Mr. Clark, with his wife, came from their home in Portland, Ore., to attend the eighty-ninth anniversary of the birthday of his mother. Soon after his arrival Mr. Clark was stricken with brain trouble, which rapidly grew worse.

Archduke Eugene Not to Wed.

VIENNA, Jan. 26.—The newspapers here deny the rumor emanating from Budapest that the Archduke Eugene, one of the second cousins of Emperor Francis Joseph, is about to renounce his rank in order to marry a confectioner's daughter. Archduke Eugene enjoys a large income as the grand master of the Ancient and Noble Teutonic order, one of the chief obligations of which is celibacy.

Oberlin College Chapel Burned.

OBERLIN, O., Jan. 26.—The chapel of Oberlin college has been destroyed by fire, together with its contents, including a $10,000 pipe organ. The fire started in the attic and was well under way when discovered. Loss, $50,000, which is covered by insurance. The building was erected in 1854 and remodeled in 1871.

President Aids Famine Fund.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—President Roosevelt has contributed $100 to the Christian Herald's famine fund for the relief of the suffering peasantry of Finland, 400,000 of whom are reported to be on the verge of starvation. The fund now exceeds $20,000.

Short of Freight Cars.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—The officials of the Burlington road have issued an order that until further notice no freight will be accepted for stations not on its own lines. Shortage of cars is the reason assigned for the order.

Two Killed In Oregon Wreck.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 26.—A serious wreck has occurred on the Oregon Railroad and Navigation line near Pendleton, Ore. It is reported two men were killed.

COSTLY FURS.

Complete Suits Are Made From Lightweight Skins.

Furs were never more beautiful than they are this year, and women are not content with fur wraps only, but must have suits of fur.

Moleskin has more or less taken the place of sealskin, and it lends itself admirably to almost any shape. As a matter of fact moleskin is not heavy, and is therefore one of the best skins to use for blouse and skirts. The prettiest way of treating these skirts is to let in on the hips some stitched cloth of the same shade, fitting the skirt tightly to the knees, where some strappings of cloth may be arranged at the top of a shaped flounce. There must be a certain amount of fullness in these plain skirts, and the flounce should just clear the ground. The bolero or short blouse to correspond can be finished with a cloth or stitched silk band, thereby avoiding necessary bulk at the waist.

Fur as well as cloth coats are usually lined with cream satin with inner frills of lace when an extra elaborate effect is desired at the neck and sleeves.

Enamel or paste buttons are also added, and these sometimes figure as ornaments on the large fur toques which go with these suits. A large moleskin toque relieved with white chiffon and white ostrich feathers is very smart.

In the picture is shown an elaborate evening coat. JUDIC CHOLLET.

COFFEE COATS.

Popular Garments For House Wear. Dainty Effects.

The coffee coat and the petticoat to match have to a large extent taken the place of the negligee. These fascinating little coats are generally made barely reaching the waist line in the back, but having long tabs in front, reaching almost to the knees. They are trimmed with fine lace, embroidery and every dainty touch known to the dressmaker's art.

One of these recently seen was of pale blue taffeta. The lower edge of the jacket was cut in toothed effect, and lines of white insertion covered the body, imitating the pointed outline. The collar was of all over lace run through with tiny baby ribbons. The skirt was of the same taffeta, with the pointed insertings and a wide flounce headed by a beading run through with velvet ribbon.

Equally pretty effects are to be gained with spotted net trimmed with bands of heavy lace and sometimes tiny edgings of fur and lace.

Negligees and coffee coats offer a fine opportunity for combining artistically several short remnants.

In the illustration is shown a dainty evening blouse of chiffon, ribbon and lace. JUDIC CHOLLET

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

The sun broke through the haze, and every figure on the raft showed sharply in the flood of light. At the forward end of the craft a monkey tugged at his chain and jabbered in excitement. Sidney Hammond and Mr. Kent were putting away the lashings of the dingy. The raft was now so near the yacht that Capt. Baldwin gave the order to go slowly ahead, so as to avoid collision.

The boat-boom swung into place, and the gig was lowered. Four sailors leaped into the boat, and with lusty strokes were speeding to the raft. There was quite a sea on, and the gig had difficulty in approaching "The Jumping Jupiter." But in a few minutes Mr. Carmody, Mr. Rockwell, Mr. Haven and Mr. Morton were on board the dancing gig and on their way to the yacht.

As the gig neared the "Helen Carmody," the crew and its guests lined up along the rail and gave cheer after cheer. A stalwart seaman helped them to a firm foothold on the gangway. A moment later, a big, sunburned man held in his arms his brave, beautiful daughter.

"Oh, papa, are you sure you are not hurt,—or sick, or anything?" asked Miss Helen, rather indefinitely, as she stepped back for an instant and through joyous tears looked into her father's rugged and happy face.

"Do I look sick, my pet?" laughed Mr. Carmody. "I never felt better in my life. We are all in splendid health. This seems too good to be true."

"But it is true, papa; it cannot be a dream, even though it seems like one," said Miss Helen, her voice trembling with rapture. "Oh, papa, I was afraid I should never see you again. I could dance for joy. But, papa dear, we must not be selfish. You must meet these splendid men who have worked so earnestly for your rescue."

"So you do not take all the credit for the discovery of your old papa. Eh, pet?"

"Not a particle of it!" exclaimed Helen. "All I did was to hope and pray and trust that God would be good."

"You are a brave little girl," said Mr. Carmody. "To whom are we indebted for this splendid service? Ah, here is Mr. Chalmers! How do you do, Mr. Chalmers? Am I to thank you for this reunion with my dear daughter?"

"Not at all," said Mr. Chalmers, as he shook hands cordially with the great capitalist. "You may thank the lucky star which influences the destinies of the Record."

"Mr. Chalmers is too modest to tell you the truth about what he has done, papa," said Miss Helen, giving the young journalist a look which made him supremely happy. "He has worked day and night. When all looked dark he never lost hope. He thought of everything, planned everything, and everything has happened just as he predicted."

"You are very kind to say so," said Mr. Chalmers, the blood mounting to cheeks seldom flushed by emotion. "But Miss Helen gives me too much credit. It was my good fortune to hold a responsible position on a paper which believes in 'doing things,' and this is one of them. Let me introduce you, Mr. Carmody, to the gentlemen who share with me the pleasure of having been able to unravel this mystery. Mr. Carmody, this is Mr. Bernard Seymour. Permit me also to introduce Mr. John Stevens."

Mr. Carmody greeted these gentlemen heartily, and was introduced to Col. McIntyre. Mr. Rockwell, Mr. Haven and Mr. Kent joined the group. In the democracy of joy or peril, formal introductions are unnecessary. Everyone talked and laughed at once. Mr. Rockwell so far forgot his dignity and the polite conventionalities as to hit Mr. Carmody a vigorous blow on the shoulder—a liberty not in the least resented by that gentleman.

Mr. Haven proposed three cheers for Miss Helen Carmody. As the sturdy yell was given there came an answering cheer from "The Jumping Jupiter."

"What I want to know is this," said Mr. Rockwell, as they watched the gig approach the raft. "What is the name of that island over there?" Mr. Rockwell waved his hand to the west. The haze was lifted so that the shore was clearly visible.

"What island do you mean, Mr. Rockwell?" asked Capt. Baldwin.

"The island we have been occupying for the past two weeks," replied Mr. Rockwell. "We tried all yesterday afternoon to run around it to the north, and when we woke up this morning it was still to the west of us."

"That is a pretty large island," said Capt. Baldwin. "It is nothing more nor less than the North American continent. That is the Mexican coast over there. If you look sharp you can see the cathedral towers in Vera Cruz to the southwest. You must have run past Vera Cruz in the night."

Mr. Carmody laughed heartily.

"So we have been on the mainland all the time, have we?" he said. "Well, that is pretty good. But we might as well have been on an island. A rabbit could not get to 'Morton's Bay,' unless he knew how to swim. Well, we had a good time if we were kidnapped. Here comes Mr. Kent, Mr. Vincent, and Mr. Pence. Sidney seems bound to stick to 'The Jumping Jupiter' until the last minute. I suppose they are taking the gold off." Mr. Carmody explained the discovery of the gold idols in the old ruined temple.

Mr. Carmody formally introduced L. Sylvester Vincent to Bernard Seymour. They shook hands.

"Glad to see you on board the yacht," said Mr. Seymour. "I did not catch the name exactly."

"Vincent—L. Sylvester Vincent, of Chicago," Mr. Vincent replied.

"Oh yes, you are the man I arrested in St. Louis last week."

Seymour then explained to the astounded Vincent the mistake that had been made, and all joined in the laugh which followed.

Mr. Carmody informed Capt. Baldwin that there was a quantity of valuable stores on board "The Jumping Jupiter." The naphtha launch was lowered and several sailors detailed to transfer all articles worth saving from the raft to the yacht. Mr. Vincent returned to "The Jumping Jupiter" and rescued "Socks," who was voted a mascot of exceptional ability.

When Sidney Hammond came on board the yacht he was given a reception which brought a blush of pleasure to his bronzed and handsome face.

"The Jumping Jupiter" was abandoned to "his" fate.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods if not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

A GREAT AUTO SHOW.

Exhibition In New York City Marks New Epoch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The automobile show just closed in Madison Square Garden will be referred to in the future as an epoch in the automobile industry and sport of this country and as the first serious demonstration of America's entry as a rival worthy of recognition among the motor vehicle building nations of the world.

Three times as many persons visited this show as went to that of November, 1901. The total paid admissions up to the closing of the doors on Friday night was 25,381, made up as follows: Saturday, 1,773; Monday, 3,432; Tuesday, 4,522; Wednesday, 5,006; Thursday, 5,483, and Friday, 5,165. With 5,000 added for the closing day's great crowd and 14,000 for the trade tickets, said to have come through the gate, a total of 45,000 actual visitors to the show will have been attained.

The National Association of Automobile Manufacturers and the Automobile Club of America, which joined with the Madison Square Garden company in the promotion of the show, share equally in the profits. Mr. S. T. Davis, Jr., president of the first named, said that the profits coming to it as its share would be so large that the executive committee was considering a rebate to the exhibitors.

That the sales during the week have been unprecedented is without dispute. The retail sales to individuals alone numbered more than 800 machines at an aggregate buying price of $1,000,000.

Heavy Winnings at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26.—The chief event to be decided at Oakland this week is the California Oaks for three-year-old fillies at a mile and a furlong. It will be run Saturday, and a fine field is assured. W. B. Jennings & Co. passed the $20,000 mark in winnings Saturday, when Elliott took the Lissak cup and Tacolaw annexed the two-year-old event. During the sixty-one days the New California club distributed $180,374 in stakes and purses. Twenty-nine owners have won sums in excess of $2,000, while fifty-five have taken over $1,000.

Skater Broke Three Records.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Jan. 26.—Several remarkable skating performances were accomplished at Verona lake, near Montclair, by Morris Wood, the American one mile and three mile amateur champion. In three attempts against the existing figures, at 75 yards, 100 yards and 220 yards, which had been in the care of Father Time for twenty years, ten years and five years respectively, the speedy youngster succeeded in breaking the records.

Slosson Sails For Paris.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—George Slosson sailed for Paris on the steamship Lucania of the Cunard line to play in the tournament for the world's billiard championship at eighteen inch balk line, one shot in, to begin there on Feb. 15. Many of his friends were at the pier to see him off. He assured them that he would do his best to bring back with him the trophy that has been presented as emblematic of the championship.

The Rhodes Scholarships.

BOSTON, Jan. 26.—Prominent educators from Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island held a five hours' conference with Dr. George R. Parkin, agent of the Cecil Rhodes scholarship fund trustees, at Harvard university. The subject under discussion was the method of choosing American students to benefit by the establishment of scholarships at Oxford university by the late Cecil Rhodes. It was finally decided that each state should formulate its own ideas on the subject.

Big Ice Floes In St. Lawrence.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Jan. 26.—The steamer Thorpe, from Sydney to Cape Breton, has arrived and reports the presence of immense ice floes in the gulf of St. Lawrence which extend beyond the range of vision. The floes evidently are arctic ice which has been forced through the strait of Belle Isle and driven to the southward. It took the Thorpe eighteen hours to work her way through the ice. Part of the time she was in danger and received severe damages.

Bucknell Seeks Endowment.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Jan. 26.—A comprehensive policy of expansion was outlined and indorsed at the semiannual meeting of the board of trustees of Bucknell university just held. It is proposed to raise $1,125,000. Of this sum $250,000 will be expended in improving the realty of the institution and $100,000 for increasing the endowment. The president was authorized to enter upon the effort to secure the endowment.

Advance For Railroad Men.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 26.—It is announced by D. J. Burke, who represented the conductors at a recent conference with Baltimore and Ohio railroad officials at Baltimore, that an agreement had been sanctioned by the company granting a 10 per cent advance in wages to date from Jan. 1. The advance extends over all branches of the road and is given to conductors, brakemen and yardmen.

Lockport Newspaper Burned Out.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Jan. 26.—The building occupied by the Daily Review has been destroyed by fire. Three adjoining buildings were badly damaged. The loss is estimated at $35,000. Herman Rhovy, a fireman, was fatally injured.

Murderer Hanged Himself.

MADISON, Ind., Jan. 26.—A man named Shaffer shot and killed Richard Smith at Vevay during the night and when lodged in jail cut his clothing into strings and hanged himself.

PIG IRON PRODUCTION.

Figures For 1902 Show Greatly Increased Output.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—The bulletin of the American Iron and Steel association has received from the manufacturers complete statistics of the production of all kinds of pig iron in the United States in 1902.

The total production of pig iron in 1902 was 17,821,307 gross tons against 15,878,354 tons in 1901, 13,789,242 tons in 1900.

The increase in production in the second half of 1902 over the first half of 1902 was 294,159 tons. The total increase in 1902 over 1901 was 1,942,953 tons. The bulletin says:

"It is remarkable that there should have been such a large increase in production in 1902, when there were serious adverse conditions to contend with, chiefly inadequate transportation facilities, resulting in a short supply of coke and iron ore and the banking for longer or shorter periods of many furnaces.

In 1901 this country made more pig iron than Great Britain and Germany combined, and in 1902 we made more than these two countries and Belgium combined.

Of the 17,821,307 tons of pig iron produced in 1902 the five largest producing states were:

Pennsylvania, 8,117,800 tons; Ohio, 3,631,388; Illinois, 1,730,220; Alabama, 1,472,211; Virginia, 537,216.

Sunday Memorial Services.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house of representatives yesterday inaugurated the experiment of holding memorial services for deceased members upon the Sabbath. It will be followed hereafter during this session and probably will become the general practice in the house in the future. Heretofore the house has broken in upon its legislation work on Friday or Saturday to listen to eulogies on deceased members, but the time has seldom been propitious, and latterly the practice has been meeting with growing disfavor. At the session yesterday tribute was paid to the life and public services of the late Representatives Russell of Connecticut and Sheppard and De Graffenreid of Texas, each of whom died during the congressional recess.

Kentucky Highwayman Killed.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Jan. 26.—Henry Cummings, notorious among the highwaymen of the mountains, met death from ambush here on one of the principal streets. James Adley Turner, who was walking with him, was shot in the arm. The assassins are unknown. It is common report that Cummings killed John Gorham, president of the United Mine Workers' union, two years ago. Greenwood Ward soon afterward and about a year ago Branham Elam, a Kentuckian, while the death of others is generally attributed to him, so that it is almost impossible for officers to get a clew as to the assassins.

The Carnegie Relief Fund.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 26.—Bulletins issued by the Andrew Carnegie relief fund have been posted at all the works of the Andrew Carnegie Steel company, H. C. Frick Coke company and other component interests of the Carnegie company exhibiting for the information of the employees a summarized statement of disbursements for the first year of the fund founded with an endowment of $4,000,000 by Andrew Carnegie for the benefit of employees injured, the dependents of killed employees and the needy superannuated. The total disbursements from the fund last year aggregated $48,213.85.

Floods In Southern Oregon.

ASHLAND, Ore., Jan. 26.—Southern Oregon is in the grip of the most severe rainstorm and flood that has been experienced here in more than ten years. Traffic on the Southern Pacific railroad through the Rogue river valley and across the Siskiyou mountains is demoralized by slides and washouts. Two miles of track near Central Point are rendered unsafe, and slides and washouts have occurred at Wall Creek, near the summit of the Siskiyous. The rainfall has been the heaviest since the establishment of any system on record.

The Carnation League.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 26.—The McKinley Carnation league has issued a call for all to observe McKinley's birthday next Thursday, Jan. 29, by wearing a carnation in the lapel of the coat. As there is opposition to having any more legal holidays this simple observation of the day without any interference with business duties is all that the league contemplates, and efforts are being made to have the first observance a success.

Stromboli Again Active.

ROME, Jan. 26.—After a brief spell of inactivity the volcano Stromboli is again in eruption. Great quantities of lava and stones are being thrown up and to an immense distance from the crater. The cone of the volcano is capped with a thick cloud of smoke. The eruption affords a magnificent spectacle at night, the flames rising from the crater illuminating the sky.

Diphtheria on the Buffalo.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The training ship Buffalo has put into Port Royal with diphtheria on board, and the crew has not been allowed to land until a guard was provided to prevent communication between the crew and the town.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Aeolian Baseball Association have a strong team in the field the coming season and will be pleased to hear from first-class teams for dates. Sunday games will be played out of town. P. S. S. Lenz, Manager, Aeolian Company, Garwood.

Much interest is being shown at the City High School over the formation of the baseball team for the coming year There is much good baseball material in the school and regular practice is all that is needed to develop a winning team which will surprise last year's players. Captain VanAuken announces his intention of commencing an early practice and is now on the lookont for some building where indoor batting practice may be held. This practice will probably begin Feb. 5, if a suitable place can be procured. All candidates for the 1903 team are requested to hand their names to the captain, together with the positions they wish to play and in this way it will be determined what material the school offers.

BASKET BALL.

The basket-ball league of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. played two games of basket ball Saturday morning; the Rough Riders defeated the Iroquois and the Scouts defeated the Mohawks. This should have been the last of the series, but the Mohawks and the Rough Riders are tied, and the deciding game will be played off Saturday, March 7.

The standing of the boys' basket ball league is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Mohawks	4	2
Rough Riders	4	2
Scouts	3	3
Iroquois	1	5

HOCKEY.

The City High School hockey team has arranged another game to be played Wednesday afternoon at Hyde's pond.

The hockey game which was to have been played Saturday afternoon between the Leal's High School and the City High School was called off on account of the snow on the ice.

The City High School hockey team met for practice this afternoon on Hyde's Pond. The snow was cleared off and a lively practice was held. The work was under the direction of Capt. Fred T. VanAuken.

INDOOR SPORTS.

One section of the bombardment contest was played off, Saturday evening, in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, the winning four being Sebring, Scull, Aalholm and Denton. The next section will be played off this week.

Raymond Smith defeated Harry Scull in the semi-final of the handball contest at the Y. M. C. A., Saturday evening, after a hard game. This leaves Raymond Smith and W. E. Neal to play off the final, this week.

WHIST.

The first of the monthly social meetings of the New Jersey Whist Association took place a short time ago at the Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club rooms. Twenty-eight teams competed, including one from Plainfield. Three teams from the Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club tied for first place, north and south, with 163 and 5 plus. The prize was cut for and went to Morey and Martinson. Freeman and Freeman, of Plainfield, won east and west with a score of 219 and 13 plus.

The Baltimore Whist Club made another attempt, Saturday, to defeat the American Whist Club, of Boston, and regain possession of the American Whist League challenge trophy. They were unsuccessful, however, as the Boston team won by six tricks. This is the third time within a month that the Baltimore team has been defeated by the Americans, of Boston. It now looks as if the trophy would be surrendered to the western teams without Baltimore being able to secure the necessary two wins to obtain possession.

BUILDING BOOM IS STILL IN PROGRESS

The Building Inspector, T. O. Doane, is Kept Busy Issuing Permits for New Buildings.

A NUMBER GRANTED

DESPITE THE WINTER SEASON, THE BOOM HAS STEADILY CONTINUED.

Six Permits Granted Last Week—One Was for Four New Dwellings in the West End of City—The Other Permits Granted.

There has been an unusually large number of applicants at the office of Building Inspector T. O. Doane for building permits during the past few weeks which shows that the building boom which has been going on in this city for the past six months has not slackened but is keeping up very well indeed. These permits closed the week's business at the Inspector's office Saturday:

Albert Baker, of 440 West Fifth street, a two and a half story residence on West Fifth street. W. H. Brokaw will do the mason work, and carpentering work himself.

W. D. Bird, of West Third street, to erect a dwelling on West Third street, near Clinton avenue. R. L. Robinson is the contracting architect. W. M. Daly, the mason, and W. D. Bird, the carpenter.

James E. Totten, of John street, near Fourth street, to erect four two story and attic dwellings. Fred L. Lancaster is the architect, J. W. Mundy, the mason, and James Stryker, the carpenter.

Augustis Raeding, of 939 Arlington avenue, a residence on John street, near West Fourth street. F. L. Lancaster is the architect, J. W. Mundy, the mason and James L. Stryker, the carpenter.

James Mottlay, of 524 East Third street, a dwelling two stories in height. F. L. Lancaster is the architect, James Mottlay, mason, and carpenter.

W. A. Gahagan, of 519 Belvidere avenue, to erect a stable. W. A. Gahagan is the architect, W. Stewart is the mason and F. H. Berve is the carpenter.

A permit was also granted to William Hedden, of 718 Kensington avenue, to build an addition to his house on that street. It will be of brick. W. H. Bohl is the contracting carpenter.

CAME HERE TO WED.

Hoboken Supplied Groom; Bride Hailed From Brooklyn.

Justice Hezekiah Hand tied the nuptial knot hard and fast for Horace Schimell, of Hoboken, and Miss Amelia P. Anderson, of Brooklyn, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Powers, of South avenue, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Only a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony. After a wedding trip of one week Mr. and Mrs. Schimell will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Powers after which they will take up their residence in Hoboken.

For Easter Music.

Charles L. Lewis, the musical director at the First M. E. church, is endeavoring to organize a chorus at that church. The chorus will render the Easter music and he is anxious to have as large a choir as possible as the music on that day will be one of the special features of the Eastertide service. A meeting will be held this evening at the Vincent chapel when all those who desire to join the chorus may do so.

Stil Hale and Hearty.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Emmons and Mr. and Mrs. John P. Emmons, of the borough, went to South River, Saturday, to attend the birthday anniversary of Messrs. Emmons' mother, Mrs. John Emmons, who was seventy-eight years of age. Her husband is eighty-nine years of age, and both are hale and hearty and are enjoying the best of health.

Gave Her a Reception.

The Chester, (Pa.) Times, of recent date, says: "Miss Susan Pound, a prominent young woman of Plainfield, is the guest of Mrs. Millard H. Poole, of Tenth and Barclay streets. A reception was given Thursday evening last by Mrs. Poole in honor of her friend which was attended by a large number of guests."

SURPRISE DANCE.

Third of Series of Social Events Arranged for Members of the In and Out Club.

The third event of the In and Out Club is to be a surprise dance at the residence of the Misses Randolph, at the corner of East Front street and Farragut road, Saturday evening, January 31. The committee which has this affair under their supervision comprises: Miss Caroline Randolph, Miss Josephine Randolph, Miss Edith VanBoskerck, Mrs. William Tyler, Miss Minnie Bowen, Miss Ethel Bowen and Miss Steele.

The dances which have been given by this club have been resplendent with unique features and this one which will be given at the close of this week will no doubt be something very clever as no one knows what kind of a dance it is to be and they are at a loss to know what they are to expect in the way of surprises.

SAVED HER LIFE.

John Hopewell Dragged Little Miss Templin Out of Tier's Lake, Where She Had Broken Through Ice.

An exciting rescue from death by drowning was seen by many on Tier's lake, Thursday afternoon, when John Hopewell, of 120 Watchung avenue, saved the life of his companion, Annie Templin, of North avenue, who had fallen into the pond.

The girl and boy were playing "tickly bender" when the ice gave way and the girl disappeared from view. She had gone down for the second time when the young lad grasped her hand and, with the aid of several bystanders, he was able to pull her out of the pond.

The boy, who is but thirteen years of age, received warm praise for his heroic deed.

PERSONAL.

Letter-Carrier Charles Stephens, of the local postoffice, was summoned to Newark, yesterday, by the death of a brother.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Street and Miss Sreet, of St. Louis, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Clark, of 404 West Seventh street.

Mrs. Dunavan, of East Second street, is in a serious condition from the effects of two paralytic strokes occurring within forty-eight hours.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Strictly fresh at Neuman Brothers, tomorrow: Hothouse tomatoes, Boston lettuce, celery, cucumbers, artichokes, brussel sprouts and fresh mushrooms.

Surprised on Birthday.

A surprise party was given to Edward K. Allen, of the borough, Saturday evening, in honor of the anniversary of his birthday. Guests were present from Newark, Paterson, Flemington and Whitehouse, as well as Plainfield. Music was furnished by local talent and both young and old enjoyed dancing until a late hour, after which a bountiful supper was served. The celebrator was the recipient of many useful gifts and he appreciated them all.

Fainted at His Post.

George L. Apgar, who recently secured the appointment as a substitute letter-carrier, was taken suddenly ill this morning just as he was about to start on his route for the first time. He fell in a faint and later was taken to his home in East Front street. Dr. Marcus L. Clawson was called and gave the proper treatment. In the opinion of the physician Apgar's illness was due to stomach trouble and he thinks he will soon be able to return to his duties.

Captured the Boarder.

People at the North Avenue station, Saturday morning, witnessed an amusing encounter between an absconding boarder and an irate boarding-house keeper. The former had checked his trunks and baggage and was making a dash for the 11:44 P. and R. train when the creditor suddenly appeared and a tussle ensued. Matters were straightened out by the boarder producing the amount due for his keep.

Four Confirmed.

A class of four was confirmed by Bishop Scarborough during his regular visitation to St. Stephen's church, yesterday. The occasion was marked by the usual exercises. During his stay in this city the Bishop was entertained by William Palmer Smith.

The Boy Breaker.

"I'm 13 years old, goin' on 13," said the boy to the boss of the breaker. He didn't look more than ten, and he was only nine, but the law said he must be 12 to get a job. He was one of a multitude of the 16,000 youngsters of the mines, who, because miners' families are large and their pay comparatively small, start in the breaker before many boys have passed their primary schooling. From the time he enters the breaker there is a rule of progress that is almost always followed. Once a miner and twice a breaker-boy, the upward growth of boy to man, breaker-boy to miner, the descent from manhood to old age, from miner to breaker-boy; that is the rule. So the nine-year-old boy who is "12, goin' on 13," starts in the breaker.—World's Work.

CHARITY BALL AT HOSPITAL

Will be Held in New Home of Muhlenberg Hospital When It Is Completed.

PERMISSION WAS GIVEN

Charity Ball Will be Held Sometime During May or June, When New Hospital Buildings Are Completed —Will Ask Council for Aid Allowed by the State Law.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital met last evening in regular monthly session. Business mostly of a routine nature was considered. It is proposed by several persons interested in the hospital to hold a charity ball sometime during next May or June at the new hospital, and the board last evening granted the necessary permission for the ball.

As yet plans for the affair has not matured but it is proposed to make it one of the most brilliant held in recent years. The dance will be held in the operating pavillion and one of the wards, which will be ready by that time. Architect Tracy says that the new hospital will be completed by July 1, as scheduled and the ball will practically mark the opening of the institution.

The board decided last evening to petition the Common Council for $1,500, the amount allowed by law for charity institutions. This sum has never been asked for by the board and it seems to be the general opinion that the city should willingly grant this sum annually. It will be of great benefit to the hospital. The petition will be presented Monday evening.

Dr. P. B. Cregar was made clinical assistant at the hospital. The physician in charge at the hospital presented a report for the past month. Twenty-eight patients were admitted, twenty-three were discharged cured, five were discharged improved, one was discharged not improved and one died. There were in all forty-eight patients treated. There were 178 visits to the dispensary.

APPROVED PLAN.

Borough School Board Favors a Change in Arrangement of Classes.

The Borough Board of Education met last night and heard reports and transacted other important business. Regular business was transacted after which the board, after investigation, approved the plan suggested by Superintendent Wightman for the readjustment of the classes of the school. This will put the school in better shape for work and will relieve some of the congested rooms which are now over crowded. With this improvement in working order the school will be in better condition than it has been for some time.

Death of Little Child.

Word was received in this city today of the death of Grace Kline Langdon, the six-months-old daughter of Charles S., and Florence F. Langdon, of Yonkers, N. Y., which occurred yesterday morning after a very brief illness with typhoid fever. The parents were formerly residents of this city and expected to come here on a visit the latter part of this week. The funeral services will be held from the parents' residence, 12 Dudley place, Yonkers, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Landed in Snow Bank.

A horse, belonging to Jethro Carman, of South Plainfield, became frightened at a small sled hauled by a pony at the corner of West Eighth street and Arlington avenue, yesterday afternoon, and ran away. Carman was thrown out but falling into a snow bank escaped injury. The horse was captured after running a block.

No More Gambling.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company has ordered the discontinuance of car gambling in cabooses while lying at terminals. This amusement had gained such headway among the men as to seriously interfere with their work, as well as to affect their wages.

Men's Turn.

The men of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will give their annual social in the parlors of the church, tomorrow evening.

—Neuman Brothers' Java and Mocha coffee at thirty cents and Old Government Java at twenty-eight cents, cannot be surpassed. They make a delicious drink.

MOVING PICTURES AND MUSIC

HIGHLY ENJOYABLE Y. M. C. A. STAR COURSE ENTERTAINMENT.

Greatly Varied Selections of Pictures—Banjo and Mandolin by Fred and Wm. VanEps.

The Star Course entertainment of the Young Men's Christian Association last night was one of the most enjoyable ones of the season. It was brimming over with fun from start to finish, and the musical programme rendered by local talent was exceptionally clever and won much applause.

The entertainment consisted of moving pictures operated by a representative of the American Vitagraph Company of New York. The views were very clear and the studies were very near to life. The evening opened with a reproduction of Jules Verne's "Trip to the Moon, direct." The experiences of the men before they left this mundane sphere and when they arrived at the lunar orb were all graphically portrayed. Pictures of travel, pantomime, transformation and other interesting subjects were reproduced.

During the intervals between the pictures, Fred VanEps, banjo, William VanEps, mandolin, and William E. MacClymont, accompanist, appeared in solos and duets. Their selections were cleverly executed and found much favor with the audience that filled the hall. Their fine work was well supplemented by the satisfactory accompaniments of Mr. MacClymont.

OFFER RENEWED.

Alexander Prizes for Essays on Probation Officer Will be Awarded Again.

It was announced this morning at the City High School that the Alexander offer of prizes for essays on the probation officer have been again renewed. The competition is limited to the graduating classes of the High Schools of the State and two prizes will be offered; a first prizes of $35 and a second prize of $15, for the two best essays of not more than 2,000 words on the Probation Officer of New Jersey.

In the competition last year, the Plainfield High School was well in front, Miss Lulu Fuller taking first prize and Miss Mabel Jenkins, honorable mention, while Linden W. Bridgeman's essay was of such a nature that, had he not exceeded the word limit, he would doubtless also have been among the prize winners.

With such an honor held by the school, the senior class this year will doubtless show an interest in the competition and will strive to retain the honor. The compositions are due June 15.

A NEW TRIAL?

Judge Garretson Will Look Into VanDoren-Traction Co. Case.

Attorney Isaac P. Runyon's motion, for a rule to show cause why the verdict of the jury in the case of VanDoren against the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company, should not be set aside and a new trial held, has been granted by Judge Garretson. The matter is now returnable before the Supreme Court February 17.

Several reasons were advanced as to why the rule should be granted principal of which was that the jury omitted to assess certain damages clearly proven. The verdict returned at the completion of the trial was for $1 in favor of VanDoren.

No One Knows What.

Much interest centers in the In and Out Club affair Saturday night at the home of the Misses Randolph on East Front street and Farragut avenue, because no one but the committee knows what it is to be. It has been reported that it is to be a dance, but all are equally in the dark as to what is the nature of the affair.

Charity Worker.

Dr. Allen, a well known charity worker, will speak tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mead, East Front street, at 3:30 o'clock on "Professional Standards in Charity Work." This conference will be similar to those held last winter under the direction of the co-operative committee of the Organized Aid Association.

To Discuss Repealers.

At the special meeting of the Board of Trade, to be held this evening in the Camera Club rooms, it is hoped every member will be in attendance. The annexation repealer, now before the State Legislature, will be discussed from all sides and it is surmised the board will take some decided action.

VERTICAL SYSTEM IS HIGHEST IN FAVOR

So Declares Superintendent Wightman in a Report He Has Just Prepared.

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES

SO MANY HAVE WANTED TO KNOW RESULTS OF INVESTIGATION.

So He Has Prepared An Exhaustive Report on Question of Vertical Writing Vs. Slant System and Will Send Them Out.

The investigations along the lines of different styles of penmanship has brought to Superintendent Wightman of the borough schools a large number of letters from prominent business people and publishing houses in all parts of the country inquiring as to the results of the investigations and the conclusions arrived at.

So numerous have these letters been that Mr. Wightman has prepared an exhaustive report. In the report he says that the majority of the parents favor the vertical system. That the vertical system is the most rapid is shown in the report and from Thomas A. Edison's letter, which is quoted, and is also far more legible. The objection to vertical writing on the ground that it allows for less individuality, is eliminated by the report based on careful investigation wherein it is shown that "vertical writings put just as much individuality in their handwriting as slant writers." Quoting from the opinion of a well-known banker, Mr. Wightman says: "The easiest writing to forget is the most complicated. A plain signature is very hard to forget."

The investigations have resulted in a complete surprise to the superintendent It was supposed that the slant penmanship would be the most preferred by business people but the answers to inquiries show that they prefer the vertical system on the ground that it is more legible and is quicker. The manager of John Wanamaker's New York store is quoted as saying that, "Writing is for the purpose of being read and therefore the best system is that which can be the most easily read." He says that it is for that reason that he is in favor of the vertical system.

The report which is very comprehensive will be sent to a number of people in this and other States, who are interested in the investigations which have been made here.

JUST FOR ONE DAY.

Unusual Offer Made by the Red Star Trading Stamp Company.

For the benefit of those who have not already begun to save the Red Star trading stamps and to encourage those who are now collecting them, the Red Star Trading Stamp Company is making an unusual offer. Those who cut out the ad of that concern which appears in this issue of The Daily Press and present it at the local store of the company, 119 Madison avenue, tomorrow, will receive $14 in Red Star stamps free. This applies to those who are already collecting and to those who desire to start saving the stamps as well. There is a wonderful collection of premiums offered by this company which can be seen at its store.

To Enlarge T. A. B. Hall.

In order to secure much-needed rooms, the members of the T. A. B. Society are planning to enlarge the hall on West Fourth street. If the improvements are made room will be provided for a larger dancing space, while there will be coat rooms provided for the men and women. These improvements have been under consideration for some time past. The expense is estimated at between $1,000 and $1,500.

Brought Here for Interment.

Miss Charlotte Ann Brower, aged seventy-nine years, sister of the late Wm. H. Brower, died at her home, 135 West Ninetieth street, New York, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Her remains were brought to Plainfield last evening, and after a private funeral service at the home of a relative tomorrow afternoon the body will be interred in the family plot at Hillside cemetery.

Lecture on Mexico.

This evening at the First Presbyterian church Rev. Charles E. Herring, the pastor, will give his illustrated leture on "Mexico." The views are very fine and an evening of much pleasure is promised all who attend.

BOWLERS TO CONTEST IN TEAMS OF TWO

Open Championship in Pairs to be Started at the Park Club Next Week.

A CHALLENGE CONTEST

NEW FEATURE TO BE INTRODUCED AT THE CLUB ALLEYS.

Individual Tournaments Are Progressing Favorably—Preliminary Round in "Cocked Hat" Tourney Ended Saturday.

Never has bowling been more popular among the members of the Park Club than it is today. The individual tournaments at ten-pins and "cocked hat" have served to bring the members out as never before. Now a new feature, which will be particularly attractive to the more expert bowlers, has been arranged by the special committee which was appointed to take charge of the bowling contests, of which F. O. Ball is chairman.

Heretofore the bowling has been confined to individual and five-man team contests. Now it is proposed to decide the open championship in pairs. The contest will be at ten-pins. An opening tournament will be held some evening next week. The pair making the highest score will be entitled to the title of champions until it can be wrested away from them. Challenges will be filed at once and the holders of the title will meet the challengers once a week, after the fashion of the State and National whist tournaments. A victory for the challengers will give them the right to the title to be held until they are defeated.

There will be no handicaps in this event and the aggregate scores will count. Already some of the crack players in the club are beginning to pair off and some thrilling games are promised. One particular night each week will be selected for play and a special social feature will be made of the occasion.

The individual tournaments are progressing favorably and much interest is taken. The preliminary round in the "cocked hat" tournament was completed Saturday night with the following scores: Dr. C. R. Thiers beat F. O. Ball, 36-27, 26-29, 29-28; Chas. Dupee beat C. L. Nichols, 31-20, 42-19; Frank Rogers beat Morris J. Dumont by default; Edward Overton beat Wallace Guilford by default.

SEWER FOR PASSAIC VALLEY

ASSEMBLYMAN BOYD INTRODUCES BILL PROVIDING FOR IT.

Brief Sessions of Both Houses of the Legislature Were Held Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 27—The two houses of the Legislature held brief sessions last night. Early adjournment until this morning was had in order that Senators and Assemblymen might attend a reception given them by United States Senator Kean at the Trenton House.

Thirty-three bills were introduced in the House and thirty-five in the Senate.

Of the House bills, the most important was Assemblyman Boyd's bill providing for the purification of the Passaic riger, by the construction of a trunk sewer to tide water, which was accompanied by the Passaic Valley District Sewage Commission. A new candidate for the Normal School has appeared in Bridgeton and a bill locating the school there was introduced. That makes five cities in all that are after the Normal School. Another bill appropriating $125,000 for improving the present Normal School was introduced and is aimed to defeat the new Normal School project and enlarge the present one.

Each to Bring Lunch.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Bethel chapel will hold a lunch-box social. Thursday evening, in the chapel. Each woman attending is requested to bring a box of lunch and to place a bow of ribbon in the box and wear one of the same color on their dress.

Receiving New Cars.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is receiving fifteen steel coal and gondola cars per day as part of their order of 1,000 now being built by the Pressed Steel Car Company.

COMBINED EFFORT OF RED MEN IS OPEN

A Week's Fair Successfully Starts at Saengerbund Hall Last Evening.

THE ATTENDANCE GOOD

SEVERAL BOOTHS FORM ONE PROMINENT FEATURE OF THE FAIR.

Candy Made in View of the Guests—Given by Wetumpkah and Miantonomo Tribes and Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas.

What promises to be one of the most successful fairs given by a local organization opened in Saengberbund Hall, last evening, under the combined auspices of Wetumpkah and Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men and Iona Council, No. 14, D. of P. It will continue for the remainder of the week and if the other attendances are as large as that of the initial night the result will exceed the promotors' anticipations.

As is usual in such affairs dancing is the main attraction, Professor O'Reilly's orchestra being in attendance. The members are seated on the platform behind a bank of palms, making a very pretty effect. The floor was well filled all evening and under the guidance of Richard Scott, who acted as floor manager, everybody had a good time.

A distinct feature is a candy making booth where the best of confections are turned out in full view by Thomas Cobb and Harry Foster. They are sold by Mrs. Charles Holstein, Mrs. Dencklau and Mrs. Fischer. A fancy counter is much in evidence presided over by Miss Daisy Snyder, Miss Ella Sebring, Miss Kate Daley, the Misses Willoughby and Miss Josie Murphy. The visitors are enabled to purchase many little souvenirs and fancy articles for a small amount. The only contest of the entire affair is for a diamond ring.

Refreshments are served on the main floor by Mrs. Samuel Montross and Mrs. Emma Weigmann and downstairs by Harry Coddington, Frank Foster and Albert DeNise. In the basement the bowling is in charge of William A. Westphal, Henry Haurand and Charles Keller.

The entertainment last evening was furnished by the Edgar trio, of Westfield, and Miss Josephine Murphy. Different attractions will be offered during the succeeding nights.

The committee in charge consists of Robert Humphrey, chairman; C. L. Holstein, Peter Sheridan, M. Kadensky, William Newman, Andrew Stiglitz, Harry Coddington, William Westphal, John Clark, Richard Scott, Mrs. I. H. Boehm, Mrs. Emma Weigman, Mrs. Dencklau, Mrs. Fischer and Miss Daisy Snyder.

PASTOR RESIGNS.

Rev. T. E. Davis Will Give Up His Charge in Bound Brook March 1.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Jan. 27—Rev. T. E. Davis, pastor of the Presbyterian church at this place, tendered his resignation to the church last evening, to take effect on March 1. He will go south for his health where he will attend to mining interests. Rev. Mr. Davis has been pastor of the congregation for the past three years and came to this place from Flatlands, N. Y. He has been very prominent in State Christian Endeavor work.

Contract for Isolation Hospital.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 27—The Board of Health last night in regular session awarded the contract to erect the emergency hospital to John Barras, he being the lowest bidder. He will erect the house at a cost of $664 30. The architect will be P. C. VanNuys. It will be erected on the latter's property near the outskirts of the town.

Going South.

A. I. Smalley, brother of Mayor N. B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, will go south with his family, tomorrow. While south he will visit the homes of J. C. Stanley and August Trust, of East Arcadia, N. C., and will be gone for two months. Mr. Smalley will go further south on a business trip, leaving his family at East Arcadia.

PYTHIANS AT ANNIVERSARY

SOMERVILLE LODGE CELEBRATED ITS THIRTIETH BIRTHDAY LAST NIGHT.

Grand Lodge Officers and Local Knights Were in Attendance at Celebration.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 27—The thirtieth anniversary of the Lodge of the Castle, Knights of Pythias, was held here last night when there were delegations present from Plainfield, Neshanic and Bound Brook. Many of the State officers were present, including Grand Chancellor P. Hall Packer, Grand Vice Chancellor P. F. Shanley, Grand Teller J. W. Laws and P. S. Rockefeller. All the officers made speeches.

The principal address of the evening was made by Judge L. H. Schenck, chief of the Great Tribune, of New Jersey, and several other prominent personages.

Ater the session an entertainment was held in which several local men took part. Those who favored were: W. H. Johnson, H. W. Reusswig, John P. Case and Nelson Y. Dungan. Refreshments were served after the entertainment.

The reports read during the meeting showed that the organization was in a very good financial condition. The local lodge has assets amounting to over $12,000.

ROLL CALL

Brought Out a Crowd at Meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F.

A roll call meeting was the means of calling out a large number of Odd Fellows at the session of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, last evening, when the great hall was filled to overflowing and every seat was taken. In that assemblage were men who had not been in the lodge room in ten, fifteen and in the case of one man, twenty years.

The meeting was called to order by Noble Grand Wilbur Pennington, who presided. After a brief business session the meeting was opened to the pubblic when Past Grand W. H. Schleif, presided and introduced Fred Becker, who entertained with a clever exhibition of Indian club swinging. District Deputy John Becker favored with several recitations and John H. Carney looked after the humorous part of the programme with a very clever German monologue. He also favored with "The Troubles of a German Soldier."

The principal address of the evening was made by Charles E. Raybert, who told of the wonderful advantages to be derived from becoming an Odd Fellow.

Preparing for Drill.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 27—The officers of Companies C and I, of Elizabeth; K, of Plainfield; and F, of Somerville; including Major Dungan's battalion, Second Regiment, National Guard, met last night in the parlors of Company M, in this town, to discuss the matters pertaining to the battalion drill at Elizabeth, Thursday night. It will be a miniature drill in which Companies K and I will represent four different companies.

Death of Mrs. Burns.

The death of Mrs. Charles Burns, of Spooner avenue, occurred this morning at 5 o'clock after a short illness from pneumonia. She was taken ill Friday last and the end came this morning. She was thirty-eight years of age and leaves nine children, the oldest of whom is nineteen years and the youngest two years of age. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Appointed Guardian.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Jan. 27—In the Orphan's Court, yesterday, Judge Schenck, presiding, Katherine M. Finger, mother, was appointed guardian of George J. Finger and Katherine E. Finger, minors. Both parties are residents of North Plainfield. The appointment will be confirmed on Friday of this week.

G. G. Social Club Meeting.

The G. G. Social Club held a meeting last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, of East Third street. Whist and other games were the means of passing a very pleasant evening and at a late hour refreshments were served. The Misses Doyle, Harry Kenslow and Harry Nelson were guests of the club.

Her Seventeenth.

A number of young people gave a pleasant birthday party last evening in remembrance of the seventeenth birthday of Miss Nettie Hapney, at her home at 74 Elm place.

RIDING RINK TO BE BUILT

Part of Comprehensive Plan to Revive Interest in the Casino.

ALL KINDS OF GAMES

Plan to Convert Old Union County Country Clubhouse Into Home for All Kinds of Indoor Winter Sports—Would Have Riding Academy and Horse Show.

The prospect of having a centre of attraction for winter indoor sports is being hailed with delight by many Plainfielders, who have already learned of the proposed plans. While there is nothing definite in the scheme, as yet, the promoters of it are hoping that their plans may materialize and thus place this city in the van with other places, where such institutions are established. It has been said that if Orange can support an annual horse show, there is no reason why this city should not go one better and have a horse show, a riding rink, a gaming room, a plunge bath and all the latest forms of indoor amusement on an elaborate scale. The place proposed for these attractions is at the Casino and plans are now being discussed to transform that property into a place where all of these indoor sports can be enjoyed.

During the past few days an architect, a surveyor and several persons interested in the movement have been looking over the property, ascertaining exactly what can be done with it. It is learned that a riding rink, 75x190 feet, can be built in the rear of the Casino, and this would give plenty of room for riding, in fact, this space would be the largest of any one in this part of the contry. The structure would probably be built of iron, making it better as a fire-proof building and in other respects most desirable. Accommodations would be made for the keeping of at least thirty horses near the academy for the use of patrons. Besides, there are many Plainfielders who have fancy thoroughbred stock who would like an opportunity to exhibit the same under favorable conditions. It is believed that a show the equal of the one in Orange could be arranged annually and it could follow the New York horse show or the one at Orange, whichever plan is considered best.

In connection with the improvements proposed for the Casino, plans are being discussed for enlarging the the Casino so that there will be a large place for amateur dramatics, dancing, etc., at the same time there will be provisions made for new bowling alleys, and rooms for playing ping-pong, badminton, cards and all similar games which can be played indoors. It is also proposed to build a "squash" court, where that popular game can be played.

Another valuable addition to the general scheme of improvement is the baths. A plunge is proposed and probably a shower bath. It is argued that many persons would be glad of an opportunity to play these games provided that they could have the use of baths afterward. Arrangements would be made so that the women, as well as the men, could have the benefits of the baths.

As stated the plans for all this improvement are only being discussed. Several wealthy Plainfielders have had the idea brought to their attention and aside from any personal feeling in the matter they believe that such an institution would tend to make Plainfield more attractive and bring desirable people to this city to live. It is also believed that unless something of this kind is done with the Casino it will never be any great paying investment. Those have who the project under discussion would like to know the sentiment of Plainfielders regarding it and is a sufficient amount of support is assured, no doubt the improvement will be made within the near future.

Penny Social.

A penny social, a most unique affair, will be held at Trinity Reformed church, Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. Each person attending is requested to bring a penny with them.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Since the introduction of the new State Normal School bill, "perfect sites" for the institution have been found all the way from Sussex to the sea. Please stop these discoveries until the school has been caught. It's all right to have them picked out so that the explorers of the State Board of Education can find them when the right time comes, but it does no good to try to make a stew over them now. —Newark News.

New Jersey has always taken a just pride in her open door hospitality to everything advanced and progressive. She is not rash in adopting all new fangled notions but when a thing has been proved to be good she wants it. That is why New Jersey has a large mileage of improved roads than any other State in the Union. And that is why she will not drive those approved good things, the automobiles, off these roads and out of the State by adopting a drastic and unreasonable policy toward these vehicles.—New York Herald.

Inability to find a house that answered the purpose compelled the abandonment for this year of Walter E. Edge's Senate Club idea. The plan was for ten or a dozen Senators to live on the community plan in the capital during the session, the clubhouse to be a sort of social and political headquarters. But house owners wouldn't come to terms, and the club idea dwindled to a parlor and reception room in one of the hotels, where the Senators may drop in after the meeting for a lunch, a smoke or a glass of vichy water.—Newark News.

PREACHERS SECURED.

Those Will Fill Pulpit at First Baptist Church Next Three Sundays.

Arrangements have been completed for the supply of the First Baptist church pulpit during the next three weeks. Next Sunday the regular communion services will be held in the morning and Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes will officiate. He will also preach in the evening. The following Sunday, February 8, Rev. Rush Rheese, president of Rochester University, will preach morning and evening, and on Sunday, February 15, Rev. Mr. Gallup, of Albany, N. Y., will preach. Mr. Gallup has for some time past been an assistant pastor in one of the largest Baptist churches at the New York State capital.

—"Christian Endeavor Day," will be appropriately celebrated at the Crescent Avenue church Friday evening at the regular meeting. The subject will be "Decide Today."

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

If what Isaac Deremer, of Washington, this State, declares to be true, Plainfield possesses a man of the type that writes a small hand to save ink. Listen to Isaac's tale of woe as given in the Washington Star:

"Don't ask Isaac Deremer about his experience clerking in a Plainfield grocery store; he doesn't want to be reminded of it. Isaac was lured to Plainfield by an 'ad' which stated 'good position for the right party.' Evidently the 'right party' was someone without an appetite or feeling, for he had not been at work more than an hour when the boss caught him eating an oyster cracker and told him that he would be docked for anything he ate. In handling some eggs he dropped one on the floor and it was charged against his salary. When he swept the store out he was told not to use the broom more than was absolutely necessary as it was too expensive to wear out."

Newspaper Train Will Run.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company's order to discontinue its mail and newspaper train has been recalled. As the rumor got afloat of the road's intention there was a protest from many business men and publishers which convinced the road that it would not be justifiable to interfere with that service.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

A new meat market has opened at No. 331 West Front street, opposite Grove street, by M. Banny, where your orders for fresh, wholesome, appetizing and nutritious meat can be filled.

T. L. Walsh, of North avenue, makes a specialty of fresh vegetables and fruits. At present his display is one of the best to be found in the city while the prices are of the lowest. All goods are delivered free.

If you will call on G. H. Kenyon, of West Front street, he will explain to you how easily you can own a piano at a low figure and on easy terms. He handles only the best makes and will be glad to show them to you.

With a very small outlay residential grounds now dull and unattractive can be made beautiful by consulting the Belleview Nursery. It is now prepared to furnish trees, plants and shrubs at a price so low as to admit of no excuse for buying.

It is erroneous to imagine good fish is not procurable at this time of the year. The Rogers Seafood Company continues to receive the best every day, strictly fresh. Also the best of oysters and clams. Telephone orders and they will receive careful attention.

The name of Peck is known in every household in Plainfield and vicinity and this is due to the fact that his goods, for many years past, have continued to give the utmost satisfaction. When you trade at Peck's store you can feel perfectly satisfied that you are getting the best the market affords.

Woodhull & Martin's big store is a perfect bee-hive of bargains. You will find a most attractive stock of goods in every department. The men's furnishing department is offering a special line of goods, and in the white and dress goods' departments you will see many bargains in the latest goods, as well as staple lines. The housefurnishing goods' department is completly stocked with an unusually fine line of goods, as is also the carpet department.

State Nurses' Association Has Prepared Bill to Compel Registration of Nurses.

The New Jersey State Nurses' Association has decided on the form of the bill to be introduced in the Legislature to compel the registration of trained nurses. The bill will provide that graduate-trained nurses shall, on presentation of their certificates to the county clerk, be given license to practice their profession. The graduation certificate must be from some regularly incorporated hospital. Nurses graduating in other States and practicing in New Jersey will be registered upon presentation of a certificate showing a course of instruction and study equal to that given in hospitals in this State.

The bill also provides a penalty of $50 upon any one representing herself to be a regular trained nurse, if after the passage of the bill she is not properly registered by the clerk of the county in which she practices.

THEATRICAL.

Mr. Keith has decided to hold over for one week Papinta, the marvellous myriad dancer who is making a sensation second only to that of her first appearance. Charles Grapewin and Anna Chance in their sketch "The Awakening of Pipp" will be the headliners. Stephen Grattan and Maud White, who have not been seen in this part of the country for some time, offer their eminently laughable sketch entitled "Locked Out at 3 A. M." Tom Lewis and Sam Ryan, who have been starring with great success in a musical comedy "The Major and the Judge" are back in vaudeville with their comedy skit "The Two Actors," an act that has always been different from any other. Colby and Way have their ventriloqual comedy sketch. O. K. Sato, probably the funniest and most entertaining of the many comedy jugglers; the Four Rianos, celebrated for their grotesque acrobatic work; The Horse-Shoe Trio in "Hotel Repose;" Avery and Hart, the well-known colored comedians; Barry and Halvers, who have an act impossible to describe and who bill themselves merely as "entertainers;" Mitchell and Love, eccentric commedians; Lew Wells, the musical tramp; E. J. Rice, original monologist; Nellie V. Parker, character songs, and many other performers of the first rank, will be on the programme.

—Miss Mabel Smith, formerly of W. H. Abbott's office on North avenue, has returned to her position, succeeding Miss Lewis, of Arlington avenue, who held the position temporarily.

THE PROPOSED PLAN TO REFORM PRIMARIES

Synopsis of the New Primary Election Bill As Prepared for the New York Herald.

BY ONE OF COMMISSION

SUMS UP THE PROVISIONS OF IMPORTANT BILLSOON TO BE CONSIDERED.

Would Hold Primaries All on Same Day and at the Same Place—The Details of the System to Eliminate Fraud at Primaries.

Without doubt, one of the most important measures which will come before this session of the State Legislature will be the one which aims to reform the primaries. A comprehensive idea of the plan, proposed for their reform by the commission appointed by Governor Murphy for that work, has not been secured by many people and many of the hostile criticisms of the scheme are undoubtedly due to lack of acquaintance with the measure.

To give a fair idea of the proposed plan, one of the members of the commission prepared a synopsis of the measure for the Trenton correspondent of the New York Herald. It gives an excellent idea of the aims of the bill. The synopsis, as published in The Herald, is as follows:

"Primary elections shall hereafter be conducted at public expense. Such primary elections for all political parties shall be held at the same time and place. The time shall be the first registry day. The places shall be the places of holding the said registry in the fall of each year. Said primary elections shall be conducted by the Boards of Registry and Election substantially as general elections for members of Assembly are now conducted, with official ballots, ballot boxes, registry lists and polling booths. The first registry day in cities where registry in person or by affidavit is now required by law shall be held on the —— day of —— in each year, and in districts where the Board of Registry and Elections is now required by law to make up the registry by a house to house canvass, the said Boards of Registry and Election shall sit for the purposes of this act as a Primary Election Board on the —— day of ——.

"The proper municipal clerks shall prepare the primary ballots of all political parties from petitions filed in their respective offices. Not less than ten voters of any political party may file with the municipal clerk of their municipality a petition indorsing any member of their political party as a candidate for the nomination of said party to public office, where such nomination is to be made at the primary election, or as a candidate for the position of delegate to a political convention of said party, where such nominations are to be made by convention, and requesting that the names of the persons so indorsed be printed upon the official primary ballot of such political party.

"The municipal clerks shall prepare official ballots for the primary election of each political party from the names of the persons so indorsed, arranging them alphabetically or in groups, as provided. The municipal clerk may also print upon the official ballot, opposite the name of any person indorsed as a candidate for office, or for the position of delegate, the name of the person who is the choice of such candidate for nomination at the ensuing convention, whenever said clerk is requested so to do by said candidate. The ballots so prepared for each political party shall be the only ballots permitted at the primary elections.

"At such primary election the voters qualified to register for the ensuing general election shall be qualified to vote at such primary. Such voter shall announce his party affiliations, and if challenged, make oath that he voted for the head of the party ticket at the last election and intends to affiliate with the said party at the ensuing election, and thereupon he shall receive from the Board of Registry and Election an official ballot of his political party prepared as aforesaid, and no other, upon which he is to indicate his choice of the candidates of his party to be there nominated, or his choice for delegates to the political convention of his political party, as the case may be, by erasing all other names than those voted for.

"The said Boards of Registry and Election at the close of the primary election, shall determine the persons receiving the highest number of votes for any nomination for office in each political party, or for the position of delegate to the ensuing convention of each party, and shall issue to each such person a certificate which shall entitle the person holding the same to be the candidate of his party at the ensuing general election, or to attend the political convention of his party as a delegate, as the case may be."

CLOTHING STOCKS SACRIFICED

The Surplus and Samples of Three Great Manufacturers.

A RETAILING MASTERSTROKE—the most stupendous distribution and most remarkable value-giving event since the opening of our now famous second floor clothing department. Assortments here never have or never will hold anything but the best of those makers in whom we have the utmost confidence, and every garment, no matter under what condition it is purchased, must come up to exact requirement in the most minute detail of qual ty, fit, fashion and finish. The enormous lots at present involved were secured at almost unbelievable concessions, and it is doubtful if paral el conditions will exist again, at least for another year to come. There is no name more favorably known in the trade than that of Isidor Hammerslough, 54 Lafayette Place, New York City, celebrated the country over for turning out highest grade clothes for man, youth and boy. To the fact that he is retiring from business and closing out his entire stock at cost and a loss may be attributed many of the greatest bargains that this sale affords. Among others contributing are E. E. Phillips, of 715 Broadway, and A. L. Werner & Co., 708 Broadway, who sold us their entire season's accumulation of house and road samples, amounting in all to over fifteen hundred pairs of the "Werner-Made" Trousers. Remember that the poorly fashioned, carelessly finished or sweat shop product is never, under any circumstances, found here, and that every garment carries with it a guarantee of satisfaction for the wearer.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures Indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

GAVE SOLID REASONS WHY

THE SERMON PREACHED BY REV. J. W. RICHARDSON.

At the Park Avenue Baptist Church Last Sunday Morning—A Strong Sermon.

Despite the storm, the congregation at the Park Avenue Baptist church turned out Sunday morning and listened to an interesting sermon on "Solid Reasons Why" by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson.

The text was II Timothy I:12, "I know whom I have believed." The speaker said in part:

"It is an inexorable law, that a tree is known by its fruit; peaches from a peach tree; olives from an olive tree. So Jesus towers infinitely beyond all who have worn a garb of flesh. The fruits of His character are so rich a pure, their very righteousness reveal His holy origin. It is on this basis, that His gospel superbly surpasses all other religions. It is stupendous folly to try and match Bhoodha's five commandments, against the Lord's ten commandments; for superstitious India is Bhoodism crystalized. The silver rule of Confucius bears no comparison with the Lord's 'Golden Rule;' for China is Confucianism in practical operation. The best heathen religions fail to satisfy the intellectual needs, or enonble the spiritual natures of men. But the glory of the Lord's gospel is revealed, in the majestic number of Christian men and women, raised in England and America, and who have blessed the whole world.

"When men throw open the heart to the influences of the gospel of Jesus, a spiritual power is imparted to the soul, which it did not before possess; the emotions are controlled; the passion is subjected to Christian reason, and the flesh is mastered by the soul.

"An Atheist sneeringly said to a disciple, 'Prove that your Jesus is not an imposter, and His gospel a fabrication.' Quick as a flash the disciple answered, 'Impostors do not reform outcasts; a lie has never made a man honest. But faith in Christ lifted me up out of the gutter, where I was a ragged despised bum; and has given me a home, wife, children, respectability, and ten thousand a year on earth; with the assurance of eternal treasures after death.' Facts silenced the Atheist.

"Today there are millions of witnesses whose word ranks high. There are millions of witnesses who have come up out of sin, and renewed their respectability, who raise their right hand heavenward, while saying, 'We could not stand were not Christ our daily helper.'

"There is not a book containing a chapter, which has a single sentence refuting the evidence of a man who declares, that in sickness and trouble Christ helps him. Critics may write their impudent philippics against the Gospel; but no Atheist, dead or alive, has been able to refute the evidence of a Christly life. All the Atheists from Nero to Ingersoll are not able to refute the testimony of a man who declares, 'I was in sin, Christ saved me; I was wretched, now I have sweet peace.' The personal experience of a genuine disciple can not be refuted. Genuine Christians know whom they have believed."

—The Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the Crescent Avenue church, will hold its meeting for sewing Friday afternoon in the church parlors at the usual hour.

PRIMARY REFORM.

Not only in New Jersey but all though the country is much interest taken in the attempt being made by the Legislature of this State to reform the present system of primary elections. The commission appointed by Governor Murphy to look into the subject and prepare the draft of a bill has completed its work and the result of its labors is now public property.

In Plainfield, as well as in other parts of the State, some of the primaries have been conducted in a manner to disgust the honest citizens and everyone who has the welfare of the commonwealth at heart has felt the need of some action that will do away with the present methods. It was just such instances that the commission had in mind and the present bill was the result of the commission's attempt to counteract such undesirable happenings. Will it accomplish the desired end? That is the question which is now being discussed. Something must be done. Is this the solution of the problem? That is the question which the Legislature will attempt to answer this winter.

It is said that many of the criticisms of the measure are made by those who are not fully acquainted with its provisions. With that idea in view, one of the members of the commission prepared a synopsis for the Trenton correspondent of The New York Herald which was published in that newspaper Sunday. It will be found in another column today.

It will be well if everyone reads this synopsis as it gives an excellent idea of what the new bill attempts to accomplish and how it intends to reform the primaries. Then, if these are any opinions, it will be well to let the local representatives in the Legislature know of them.

To the eye of the layman it would look as if this plan would serve to wonderfully improve the condition of the primaries. The only question, which has been raised, is as to the need of providing such complicated machinery and incurring more or less public expense and as to the ability of the unscrupulous politician to carry on his schemes as successfully under the new arrangements as at present.

When the Board of Trade meets this evening, it is sincerely to be hoped that the organization will act decisively regarding these repealers of the annexation and consolidation acts, which have been introduced by Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer. There has been a vote under the provisions of the annexation act but neither city nor borough has had an opportunity to vote on the consolidation question. Under the circumstances, therefore, the Senator from Mercer is trying to take away from the people of both Plainfield and North Plainfield something which they have a perfect right to do. It is up to the Board of Trade to express itself in no uncertain tones regarding this outside interference.

Good Appointment.

Harry G. Adams, of 220 East Front street, has been appointed special representative of the ordinary life insurance department of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, for Plainfield and vicinity. This appointment was made through Frederick J. Pope, of Watchung avenue, assistant manager for the company in this State. The company's business is is growing very rapidly and much good is expected from thir appointment.

Skating Last Night.

The skating on the various ponds, which on Saturday was better than it had been during the entire winter, was spoiled by the heavy fall of snow of Sunday. By last night, however, much of the surface of Tier's pond had been brushed off with brooms and a good-sized space was cleared and the young people enjoyed the sport until late in the evening. In some places the ice was rough but, taken as a whole, the skating was fairly good.

All a Fake.

Miss Kate Dufficy, of Grove street, makes an emphatic denial to The Daily Press of the story appearing in a local paper, January 22, to the effect that she had been attacked by a ruffian at the corner of Grove street and Rockview avenue. She furthermore declares she underwent no experience that evening that might lead to the circulation of the wierd tale.

Testimony in Divorce Case.

Craig A. Marsh has been appointed by Chancellor Magie to act as referee and take testimony in the suit for absolute divorce brought by Mary Allen Thatcher, of this city, against her husband, Herbert S. Thatcher, formerly of Plainfield but now of Chicago. The petitioner alleges desertion. She is represented by Isaac P. Runyon.

Plainfield Represented.

The State convention of St. Patrick's Alliance was held at Passaic, yesterday. John F. Casey, of this city, was among the eighty delegates as representative of Branch No. 7. Among the items of business transacted was a resolution condemning England for its action in sentencing Colonel Lynch to death for alleged treason.

They Will be Missed.

The many friends of Rev. W. T. Griffin and family, of East Seventh street, will learn with regret that they expect to remove from Plainfield to New York city in the spring. The removal is made necessary by the business engagements of Mr. Griffin's son-in-law, Charles H. Clarke.

Approaching Marriage.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Charles E. Houston, son of Former Sheriff Houston, and Miss Nettie Whitehead, both of Elizabeth. The affair will be celebrated tomorrow evening at the home of the bride.

Horse Stolen in Bound Brook.

Word was received at police headquarters, this morning, to be on the look-out for a horse stolen from South Bound Brook, last night. It is described as being a bay mare with white face. A saddle and bridle were also taken.

No Dance Till After Lent.

The Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association will not give another dance until after the Lenten season. This was decided at a meeting held last evening.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The regular quarterly conference of this district was held last evening in the Methodist church. The business transacted was unimportant and consisted merely of receiving reports and statements. Rev. S. K. Doolittle, pastor of the Methodist church, was unanimously asked to return for another year. This action shows very well the harmony and accord with which the pastor and his flock are working for good results and the affection in which he is held. Presiding Elder Dr. Halleron, of this district, presided over the meeting.

Four Italians attracted a good deal of attention by their actions on North avenue late yesterday afternoon. All were badly intoxicated and had reached the "happy" stage. They were shouting out songs in their native tongue at the tops of their voices and otherwise conducting themselves in a disorderly manner. It was thought that they might do harm so they were watched until they disappeared down Jackson avenue in the direction of the brook.

At the meeting of Court Dunellen last evening, Walter Craig was initiated into the mysteries of the order. Routine business took up the rest of the time. Afterwards the members enjoyed a pleasant social time with their indoor games.

Mrs. Willard Apgar, of Front street, has a very painful jaw, caused by an ulcerated tooth and blood poisoning. The face has swelled very much and was very painful.

The Banjo Club held a pleasant home concert last evening at the home of the leader, Miss Emma Nelson. A few friends were present.

Ernest Peters, an employe of the electric light company, is engaged in replacing broken electric lights throughout the borough.

Aaron Stites' new house on the old Quaker road is all finished and a large barn is in course of construction on his property.

Candidates for assessor and collector at the spring election are rapidly coming to the fore.

Mrs. Buckhart, of New Market road, is recovering from a slight illness.

Wm. G. Holton Council will hold a regular meeting this evening.

Thomas Bodine spent yesterday in New York on business.

NEW MARKET.

New houses on the part of William B. Smith, the local autocrat, are being eagerly looked for by residents in this vicinity. A trip to Europe, some housebuilding, and other business ventures are among his reported intended actions.

Skating has been spoiled by the snow on the ice although it has been cleaned off in small spots.

The Friendship Social Circle will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Nelson.

Clarence Sofield is still employed at Pierce's grocery during the indisposition of Fred Ward.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Owing to the new cases of diphtheria, which appeared Friday and Saturday in the borough and village, the Board of Health has thought it best not to re-open school for the present.

Miss Louise Robinson, one of the teachers of the Greater New York schools, spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Freeholder and Mrs. John Robinson.

Fanwood Council, R. A., will hold its semi-monthly meeting in the Library rooms tonight. A full attendance of the members is desired.

Rev. G. M. Shott was in New York yesterday attending the weekly ministers' conference meeting, of which body he is secretary.

The snow of Sunday was hardly deep enough to tempt many of lovers of sleighing into getting their sleighs out for a spin.

Miss Bella Merceir, who has been spending a few days with her sister in Plainfield, has returned home.

Miss Jennie Frantz has been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Putnam, of Plainfield.

Albert Gibbs, of Bayonne, has been visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gibbs.

Miss Susie Parse has returned from a pleasant visit with friends in New York and Brooklyn.

Mrs. James Buckley spent Monday with her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Terry, of Plainfield.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Seventeen men are boarding at the Norman Hotel, while occupied in putting up additional wires for the American Bell Telephone Company.

Melvin Teeple, who is employed in the tower as assistant switch operator for the Lehigh Valley Railroad, had a day off from duty Sunday.

Mary, daughter of John Conway, is ill with whooping cough. She is under the treatment of Dr. W. J. Nelson.

John O'Keefe, who has been suffering with a burned foot for some weeks past, is now out again.

Miss Jennie Kyle, of Park avenue, has returned home after a visit with friends in Plainfield.

Several men from here attended the sale of the goods of Mrs. Lapides at New Dover today

Laborers of the Lehigh Valley Company have been busy clearing the tracks of snow.

Thomas Hurley, who has been ill several days, went to work today.

The children of Mrs. John Teeple are suffering with the grip.

Several Changes.

In the recent changes made at the office of Boice, Runyon & Company, Albert Runyon resigned his position as general manager to be succeeded by H. A. Todd, formerly bookkeeper. The latter's position is filled by the appointment of Peter J. Dilts.

—Raymond Carver, of New street, has accepted a position with the Prudential Insurance Company as an agent.

THEATRICAL.

Before an attendance that packed the house to the doors, the Innocent Beauties' burlesquers gave the opening performance in the Central Theatre, last night. The company consists of twenty-five people. Among the artists who appeared were Dot Windsor, serio-comic; Hamilton & Simon, with their pickaninny, in black-face songs and dances; Glenroy and Russell, comedy sketch artists, and the famous three Renos, French grotesques, in acrobatic specialties. A performance is to be given each night this week with a special matinee, Saturday.

Change of Meeting.

The regular mid-week meeting of the Swedish Pilgrim church will be held Wednesday evening instead of Thursday, as is customary. Rev. Mr. Neilson, of Cromwell, Conn., will be in attendance and make an address.

DEPT'S WORTH YOUR ATTENTION THIS WEEK.

WHITE GOODS, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, MUSLIN WEAR, HOUSEKEEPING LINENS, CLOAKS AND SUITS.

This is the last week before closing our inventory for the year and odd lots of goods will be on sale in many departments. Next week we open our New Year and NEW GOODS in many departments.

See the Saturday Specials at the Store this week.

Corset Department.

The head of our Corset Department having made a careful study of forms, etc., is able to fit any figure with a corset which is sure to be satisfactory. Our stock is large enough to fit any usual form and we gladly have special corsets made for any one who cannot be fitted with a regular form.

Laces and Embroideries.

Already the Spring laces and embroideries adorn the center aisle of our store.

The advance in French styles indicate that more embroidery than ever before will be used the coming season. Many waists are practically covered with it. We can safely say that our showing this year is far greater than any other in the city.

Cloaks and Suits.

We still have a few very desirable skirts, coats and suits at practically your own price. No reasonable offer refused. This is an exceptional chance and has been greatly appreciated by all who have looked at the stock. Do not wait until there are only a few odd garments left.

No Time Like The Present.

Spring Styles.

Although we have not yet had our formal Spring Opening, still we are now showing a fine assortment of 1903 Ginghams, Madras, White Goods, etc. The Corded Madras and Silk Stripe Ginghams are exceptionally fine this year, both in quality and patterns. Also in White and Black and White Pique and Basket Weave we are showing an exquisite line. Never before have the White Goods taken such an active part in the early spring trade as they do this year.

We are still offering some good bargains in

Blankets

as we wish to close out our entire stock by the end of January.

Carpets.

It will soon be time to buy Carpets. Before deciding come in and look over our stock and prices. The department has been moved to the first floor, making it convenient to all who come in the store.

HOUSEFURNISHINGS

Now has enlarged quarters, the entire basement being devoted to useful Household Goods. You will hear from this department in many ways profitable to the retail buyer during the early part of our year.

SETTLEMENT PLANS

Venezuela Offers Pledge For Raising Blockade.

MINISTER BOWEN AWAITS AN ANSWER

Controversy Seems Likely to Be Settled Soon and In a Satisfactory Manner—Unofficial Reports That Powers Accept.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Minister Bowen, acting for Venezuela, in return for the raising of the blockade pledges 30 per cent of the receipts of the ports of Porto Cabello and La Guayra, the same to be collected by a joint commission made up of a representative of each of the powers having claims against Venezuela.

Formal notice of the acceptance of the proposition has not come to Mr Bowen from the representatives of the allies here. However, such unofficial information as has reached Mr. Bowen confirms him in the belief that the pending controversy will be settled "soon and satisfactorily." It is learned that the Italian government all along has favored an honorable compromise and has let its allies know the favor with which it regarded the Bowen proposition while professing a willingness to defer to their views in the matter.

It has developed that the proportion of the customs dues collected at La Guayra and Porto Cabello to be paid to the allies is 30 per cent. These two ports collect a large part of the total customs receipts of the country. Under this arrangement probably a cash payment can be dispensed with, as the customs receipts would quickly defray the pressing individual claims of the allies.

The lifting of the blockade would not mean the complete withdrawal from American waters of the allied fleet, and it is understood that not only will the British American fleet remain in its accustomed winter quarters in the Caribbean, but that the German government will depart from its ancient policy, which has been to get along without station fleets, and will continue the present squadron in American waters as a permanent fleet.

England and Germany Agree.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—It is learned here that Great Britain and Germany have informed their representatives at Washington that they consider Minister Bowen's proposals regarding Venezuela's guarantees to form a satisfactory basis for further negotiations. In addition to the offer of part of the customs of La Guayra and Porto Cabello as a guarantee Mr. Bowen informed the powers that several New York banks had expressed their willingness to undertake the payment of the first claims demanded by the powers upon the basis of such guarantee.

Italy Ready to Accept.

ROME, Jan. 27.—The Italian government is ready to accept the proposition of United States Minister Bowen to set apart a certain percentage of the customs receipts of La Guayra and Porto Cabello as a guarantee for the payment of the foreign claims. The government considers that the guarantees offered by Venezuela through Minister Bowen are sufficient to warrant the raising of the blockade, which, it is understood here, will cease as soon as Germany agrees to the proposals. The foreign warships, however, will remain in Venezuelan waters.

Blockade Off Tomorrow.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 27.—There has just been received here a communication from the British naval officer at La Guayra saying that the blockade will be raised tomorrow.

Mayor of San Juan Suspended.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 27.—Governor Hunt, acting independently of any judicial proceedings, has suspended Manuel Egozoue, the mayor of this city, from office and ordered an independent investigation into the city frauds. A prosecution of Mayor Egozoue is pending before the district court on the charge of destroying the city records, presumably to cover up evidence of peculations, but the consensus of opinion is that it will be impossible to procure a jury to convict him, as the mayor has a great popular following.

Legislators Object to Comparison.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 27.—The lower house of the legislature today made formal objection to its members being compared to jack rabbits. The objection was in the form of a set of resolutions severely censuring a Salt Lake City paper which on Saturday published an article stating that the members from San Pete county "could change places with jack rabbits, and the legislature would be strengthened by the presence of their substitutes."

Smallpox Scare In Biddeford.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Jan. 27.—At a meeting of the mayor and the members of the board of health it was decided to close all places of amusement on account of additional cases of smallpox. The decision of the board will apply to public halls where dances and fairs have been held. Several schools have been closed, and tomorrow the mayor will decide whether to include the parochial schools in the closing order.

Lottery Tickets Seized In Honolulu.

HONOLULU, Jan. 27.—Customs officials have made an important seizure of lottery tickets that were shipped to Honolulu on the steamship Alameda. For some reason the officials suspected Joseph Rothenberg, the ship's barber, and a search of his effects revealed 6,000 Louisiana lottery tickets. The tickets were confiscated, and Rothenberg was arrested.

The Possibilities of Lace—Pretty Blouses.

The up to date tailor is a man of great artistic perception; otherwise he could not cope with the changing modes of the day.

The possibilities of lace, instead of dwindling, increase and get more fascinating every day. Lace berthas are particularly useful in renovating an old frock. These berthas are of various shapes, and every woman can find one to suit her style.

The all lace blouse is more charming and effective than ever. It is worn usually over an oriental satin blouse. It is sometimes made of fine ecru net threaded with black velvet or colored ribbons, while in direct contrast coarse

WOOL BLOUSE.

Irish crochet or guipure is softened with a lining of chiffon or mousseline and used with an equally good effect.

Panne makes charming winter blouses. Some chic examples are in green, made up with coarse lace in the shape of collars and vests. Very pretty, too, are those of plain oriental satin or tucked chiffon. Blouses worn with a short hanging coat of lace or embroidery are smart.

A useful and up to date flannel blouse is shown in the picture. The tie of folded silk is a recent creation.

Little Fur Coats—Useful Cloth Coats and Dresses.

Squirrel makes a charming coat for a small girl, the turndown collar and cuffs being hemmed with ermine. More costly coats for the little ones are made of ermine, with little caps to match trimmed with white osprey and tiny replicas of the fashionable flat muffs.

For the child of moderate means, however, the most serviceable and smart material for a coat is fawn or blue broadcloth with a wide collar of lace or velvet and a wide furry hat to match. This hat can easily be trimmed at home, but the coat should know the touch of skilled hands and should be made loose and comfortable so that it can be worn another season.

Pretty children's dresses are made of that old fashioned material corded mull. These are made with a deep yoke and roomy bishop sleeves, the skirt displaying a hem surmounted by a cluster of tiny tucks.

Many of the large floppy beaver hats are tied under the child's chin by means of wide satin ribbons. Two huge feather pompons often serve as the entire trimming.

One of the latest skirts is shown in the cut. It is pretty made up in cloth or wool veiling.

CHAPTER XXIV.

HOME AGAIN.

"How far are we from Vera Cruz, Capt. Baldwin?"

"About 25 miles, Mr. Carmody."

"You may proceed to that harbor, at once," directed Mr. Carmody.

Mr. Carmody then called a conference in the social hall of the "Helen Carmody." There were present Palmer J. Morton, John M. Rockwell, R. J. Kent, Simon Pence, Hiram Haven, Sidney Hammond and William Chalmers.

"We will be in Vera Cruz in an hour," said Mr. Carmody, when all were seated around the center table. "It is now 9:30 o'clock. We will be in telegraphic communication with New York by 11 o'clock, Vera Cruz time—which is one o'clock New York time. It is unnecessary to disguise the fact that our return to civilization is a matter fraught with much importance from a business standpoint. I am not speaking for myself, as I have no interests which have been seriously menaced by my absence, or which will be affected by my return. This is not true of some present. They have been made to suffer financial loss by their detention. It is but fair that they shall have the right to recoup some of their losses. Now, I am not unacquainted with newspaper men, their methods and ambitions. I am going to ask Mr. Chalmers to waive his rights as a journalist for an hour after our arrival in Vera Cruz, in order that we may send the news of our safe return to our families, and that we may then notify our business associates, and forward such interests in stocks and securities. I am aware that we are under many obligations to Mr. Chalmers and to the New York Record, but I assure him that neither he nor his paper will suffer by granting this favor."

Mr. Chalmers was on his feet the moment Mr. Carmody ceased speaking.

"I am only too happy to grant that request," he said. "Through no fault of the Record, or of its editor, Robert Van Horne, we are implicated in this affair through the unaccountable acts of a man who has been one of our correspondents. Although this is the most important piece of news in recent years, and one in which the paper is entitled to a fair share of credit, I recognize that you gentlemen have interests which are paramount. I will send no message to the Record until the Stock Exchange is closed in New York. Our paper will take its chance with the others. After that hour I shall expect the thorough co-operation of you gentlemen, so that we may be able to place on the wires the complete history of this case, with such acknowledgment of the part played by the paper as you choose to authorize."

"That is the way I like to hear a man talk, Mr. Chalmers," said Mr. Morton. "That is business. I will say to you that I will break my rule and write a statement which you can use if it has any value. Your representatives will find me ready to talk on any subject connected with this affair."

The same promise was made by the other magnates.

"Mr. Seymour and Mr. Stevens are experienced and discreet newspaper men," said Mr. Chalmers. "It takes time to write and put on the wires a story like this. I ask that they be allowed to begin work at once, and I will be responsible that not a word is telegraphed which can appear on the streets of New York before three o'clock this afternoon."

"They shall have every opportunity," said Mr. Carmody. "We will turn this room into a newspaper office right now. Send for Mr. Seymour and Mr. Stevens and we will get to work."

"You can draft me as a reporter," said Sidney Hammond. "I can help out on some of the incidents on the island."

"You see me about Hammond," said Mr. Kent. "He is too modest to tell you the truth about himself."

Seymour and Jack Stevens were sent for and they proceeded to their task with the tact, rapidity and system of experienced newspaper men. They speedily obtained the framework of the story. Upon this they built, incident by incident, the tissue and body of a well-rounded narrative. Mr. Chalmers became a reporter for the first time in years. He suggested the basis of eight signed statements—L. Sylvester Vincent was not excepted. By the time the "Helen Carmody" was anchored in Vera Cruz harbor Mr. Chalmers had the story well in hand. He went ashore with the rescued magnates and with them to the telegraph offices. Chalmers found the manager and arranged for the use of all available wires on and after one o'clock. Mr. Morton and his companions filed telegrams to relations and business associates and once more was in touch with New York.

After a conference with Mr. Chalmers it was agreed not to leave Vera Cruz until late in the evening. It was planned to steam direct to New Orleans, go from there by special train to New York. Mr. Chalmers insisted that he have all the time necessary to prepare and forward his story. At 12:40 Chalmers filed his first news bulletin, and from that moment until ten o'clock at night a corps of telegraph operators was busy clicking the greatest "beat" ever recorded in the history of modern journalism.

It may be mentioned in passing that the receipt in New York of private telegrams from the missing millionaires was followed on the exchange by enormous buying of stocks. There were no rumors to account for the consequent rise in prices and for some time the market stoutly resisted the advance. Then quotations began to rise; slowly at first, but with increasing momentum. Something had happened! What was it?

CERTAIN RESULTS.

Many a Plainfield Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Plainfield. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

Mr. S. J. Conklin, traveling salesman for a New York confectionery house, 184 West Front street, says: "I was subject to pain in the back and hips, which at times I felt in my side. I tried different kinds of kidney cures but received little or no relief. I read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills and I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I took three boxes altogether and was wonderfully improved. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and accomplish all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

PIG HEADED.

We are not pig headed enough to believe that all meats are the same. We know they're not. Different packers have different methods of treatment and varying degrees of quality are the result. Our Hams Sausage and Shoulders of our own curing are the best in the market, and cut from Jersey Pork only. A fine variety of Sea-food Oysters and Clams can be found in our Seafood Department.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. DOBLIN A PERJURER

Admits He Swore Falsely In Lessler Bribery Case.

SENSATION FOR NAVAL COMMITTEE.

Witness Who Testified That Quigg Had Told Him to Offer $5,000 For Congressman's Vote Repudiates His Testimony.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Philip Doblin repudiated all of his testimony in the Lessler bribery charges at yesterday's hearing before the naval affairs committee. He swore that Quigg had never authorized him to offer Lessler $5,000 for his vote on the Holland boat bill and that all his testimony on that point given on Saturday was false.

His testimony was as unexpected as it was sensational. He said he made the statements he did on Saturday to substantiate Congressman Lessler's charges. He declared that he knew nothing of them until summoned to Washington by Mr. Lessler, who told him what he would be expected to say before the subcommittee conducting the preliminary investigation.

Lessler was much excited when he heard Doblin's refutation. "I would have staked my life on him," said Lessler. "I cannot understand what he means by his testimony today."

Quigg and his counsel, De Lancey Nicoll, were as much surprised as Lessler at Doblin's action.

The sensation came after the committee had heard the testimony of Leonard J. Obermeir, who is an attorney of New York and a friend of Representative Lessler.

Gustavus Rogers, attorney for Doblin, wanted to put in a statement for his client, but Representative Wheeler insisted that Doblin should be put on the stand.

Mr. Rogers asked for immunity for Doblin for any statement he might make now. The committee refused to grant this.

Doblin was then sworn. He said:

"My testimony on last Saturday was untrue in regard to my being called to Washington and my conversation with Lessler. The fact is, the statements I made regarding Mr. Quigg are untrue.

"I was told by Lessler, 'You've got to stand for this story.' I said, 'That can't be.' 'Then I am politically dead,' he said. 'All you have to do is appear before the committee and substantiate my story. I have seen the speaker and it will be all right.'

"Take the midnight train. Come to me. Keep confidential. Signed, 'Monte,' was the message I received. I came. 'Monte' is Lessler.

"I have had correspondence with Lessler, and all his letters are signed the same way. He had prepared an article and I read it. When he got up he said, 'Do as you want to.' I told him I could not stand for the statements. He said, 'You've got to.' He said he would see the committee and the hearing would amount to nothing. Lessler then went away. His secretary came and told me I could get in and nobody would know of it, as I could go in a private elevator.

"I was then brought into the committee room, and Mr. Foss gave me a cigar and made me believe they were all friends of Lessler and that anything I had to say was all right. I talked with them about politics. They told me everybody was so friendly that finally I said I'll go on and back up Lessler, and it will be a cinch.

"I did so. Then I thought the committee would make a report and there would be no more to it.

"I went home and got a telegram from Lessler which said, 'Statement all right. Have no fear,' and signed 'M.'

"I got another telegram then from Mr. Foss to come and appear before the naval committee. I thought it was a friendly thing, and when I came it was a question of substantiating myself and Lessler, of telling the truth. I now retract every word that Mr. Quigg ever asked me to offer Lessler money."

Doblin swore he had deliberately come before the commitee and told a lie to injure Lessler's political enemies.

Professor's Hair Caught Fire.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—Professor Mommsen, whose flowing white locks are conspicuous at all the scientific gatherings in Berlin, almost lost his hair. He climbed on a ladder to the topmost book shelf of his library to get a volume and held a candle too near his head, with the result that his hair caught fire. The professor succeeded in throwing the skirts of his study gown over his head and smothered the flames. His face was considerably scorched, and his locks were partly consumed. The professor remarked to the members, "It is all over with my beauty."

Maine Politician Dead.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 27.—Colonel Henry S. Osgoode, friend and campaign manager of James G. Blaine and well known in political, business and social circles throughout the state, is dead after a brief illness of erysipelas. Colonel Osgoode had been manager for the American Express company in this city for nearly a quarter of a century. He also was principal owner of the Portland Evening Express.

APPALLING DISASTER!

OVER SCORE KILLED IN AWFUL RAILWAY CRASH.

Philadelphia Express Crashed Into Rear of Local Train Well Filled With Plainfield Commuters Near Westfield.

PLAINFIELD PLUNGED IN DEEPEST GLOOM.

With over a score of its citizens dead and many more injured, most of them seriously, all Plainfield stands aghast at the terrible disaster which occurred on the Jersey Central Railroad at 6:45 o'clock last evening, half a mile west of the Westfield station. One of its famous Philadelphia express trains, going at full speed, crashed into the rear of a local train, well filled with commuters most of whom were returning to their homes in this city and Dunellen. Three cars of the local train were ground to splinters and another car partially wrecked. The passengers were tossed into the air or buried beneath the ruins where fire soon added to the horrors and carried a torturing death to those pinned beneath the wreck. Never has such an awful blow fallen on the city. Never has the Jersey Central known an accident of such proportions.

All the city was horror stricken when the first news of the disaster reached here. Each minute brought fresh tidings of the terrible event and added to the horror instead of allaying it. As the wreck blocked all traffic for a time, there were many in the trains following that did not arrive at their usual hour and the anxiety of their relatives and friends was pitiful to behold. Then when the dead and injured began to arrive, the horror of it all was never seen before in Plainfield. And today, there is gloom and sorrowing in every household for some loved one or dear friend who met death in that appalling disaster. There were few who could realize the terribleness of it all yesterday but today it has stunned the city as has no previous calamity.

According to the evidence of all, the block signal system of the Jersey Central Railroad, which is one of the finest in the country, was in perfect working order at the time of the wreck and after it. The only conclusion to draw, and the one which the officials of the railroad have taken, is that the engineer of the second train failed for some reason to see the signals and thus brought about an awful event. With over a score of others, the engineer met his death in the wreck.

Today the morgue is crowded with the charred and mangled remains of the victims while Muhlenberg Hospital is crowded way beyond its capacity with the injured ones.

HOW WRECK WAS CAUSED

Details of Collision and the Circumstance Which Led Up to It.

From the information given out by the railroad officials and the statements of passengers and eye-witnesses of the affair, it is possible to give as authentic an account as may be without the story of the engineer.

Train No. 13 is schedule to leave New York at 5:45 o'clock. Yesterday afternoon it was composed of seven coaches and a combination baggage and smoker. The rear car was also utilized as a smoker. The train runs as an express to Elizabeth and then stops at Westfield, Netherwood, Plainfield and goes on to Somerville. It is customary for that train to take the fourth track at Cranford and allow the Philadelphia express, which leaves New York at 6 o'clock, to pass it in the neighborhood of Westfield. Yesterday afternoon, the crew of No. 13 received orders to proceed to Dunellen before taking the fourth track.

Shortly after passing Westfield, the engineer discovered a hot journal. The packing around it caught fire and began to blaze. The train stopped half a mile west of Westfield station and the heated bearing was cooled. The flagman was sent back. Many of the passengers left the train to see what was the trouble. They had returned to their seats, the flagman had been called in and the train had just begun to move when the Philadelphia flyer came rushing along and plowed directly into the local. The flagman waved his red lantern and sprang to one side.

According to the testimony of hundreds who looked at the block signals immediately after the disaster, they were working without trouble. They seemed in perfect order. From all evidence obtainable, the engineer of the express did not observe the block signals.

William Verson was the gateman at the Broad street crossing at Westfield. He says that the signals were set against the Philadelphia express. When that train bore down on him, he waived his red lantern. As the train passed by, he exclaimed, "My God, they'll all be killed. He hasn't seen it."

Just at the instant that the express crashed into the forward train, Train No. 126, a local starting from Somerville, was passing on the main eastbound track. None of the cars on that train were derailed although a portion of the car sides was torn out and nearly all the windows broken. The passengers were badly shaken up.

Engine No. 27, of the Atlantic City Railroad, was drawing the Philadelphia express. The engineer was W. E. Davis, of Philadelphia. There were one combination baggage and passenger coach, one passenger coach and two Pullman cars, all vestibuled, in the train. The conductor was George McErven, of Philadelphia. The train was a heavy one and, according to the statements of its passengers, was moving at about forty miles a hour. The brakes were applied but a few seconds before the crash came.

The huge locomotive of the express train plowed through the last car of the local as if it had been pastboard. The car was reduced to kindling wood in a moment. Passengers were hurled through the air. Through the second car, the engine went and it, too, was reduced to fragments. Its passengers were either buried beneath the wreckage or tossed one side. The third car, which contained many women, was split in twain. One side was thrown to the right while the remainder of the car rolled over and lay diagonally across the track resting against the fragments of the other cars. The fourth car had its rear end stove in and it was derailed and twisted to the left although not overturned. The fifth car was partially derailed but not otherwise damaged. The remaining three cars were not damaged and were subsequently used as a hospital train to convey the injured to Plainfield.

All of the express train remained on the track. The engine and tender were covered with debris which caught fire at once. They soon became a mass of broken and twisted metal. Windows throughout the train were broken and all the passengers were badly shaken up but none were seriously injured. While not crowded, the train had a fair complement of passengers on board.

According to the stories of those who were on train No. 13, there were some twenty-five people in the rear car. As many more were in the second and fully thirty in the third. Many passengers had alighted when the train stopped at Westfield. Among those in the rear smoker were four young men who were playing cards in the back seat.

Several people, who were in Elizabeth when the Philadelpia express passed through, make the statement that there appeared to be a leak in the steam chest or cylinder, a cloud of steam almost concealing the engine. They advanced the theory that the steam must have hidden the signals from the view of the engineer.

A NEVER-FORGOTTEN SCENE

Those First Few Moments Immediately Following the Crash Before Aid Came.

In less time than it takes to tell it, three of the passenger coaches were reduced to kindling wood and half a

By Eye-Witnesses

Probably the most complete account of what followed directly after the terrible crash occurred, was told a Daily Press reporter by C. A. Wegeforth, manager of the Grand Opera House, of Philadelphia, who was a passenger on the express train:

"I had just gotten up from the first coach near the front of the train and gone to the parlor car to speak to a friend. Hardly had I been seated when a mighty crash came that sent us flying in all directions with the chairs piled upon us. There was absolutely no warning and as the train continued to move, rocking from side to side, my first thought was that it had left the track. But as the train on the east bound track rushed past us ripping out window panes I realized it was something more serious.

"As soon as the onward motion stopped I rushed out and the scene that met my eyes will haunt me to my dying day. Men and women with maimed limbs, some almost disembowelled, were crawling in all directions. From out the mass of wreckage that was piled high upon the express engine, miserable unfortunates cried piteously for the help we were unable to give. Only for an instant was this visible for suddenly a sheet of flame swept the splintered mass from end to end and we were all driven back. I attempted to reach one young woman who was held down by a heavy beam but it was useless and I was forced to withdraw with her moans ringing in my ears.

"Lying near the track in a heap of snow was a woman whose lower limbs were crushed, while she pillowed her head upon the breast of a man evidently her husband. The latter essayed to rise but as he did a low cry burst from him and he sank back. I then saw one of his legs was shattered from the hip down. With the assistance of several other passengers I carried them to a nearby house and afterward continued in the work.

"It seemed an age before either doctors or fire department arrived and in the meantime all we could do was to tie up splintered limbs with improvised bandages. The horrible scenes were constantly recurring and it is a wonder to me that anybody maintained nerve enough to carry on the rescue work."

HEROINE OF THE DISASTER

How Mrs. Harkson Opened Her Home and Cared for Dying and Injured.

Trying ordeals like last night's disaster generally bring to light some hero or heroine. One of the latter was revealed in Mrs. Alfred Harkson, of South avenue, whose home is directly in front of where the wreck occurred.

Hearing the crash and shrieks of the dying, she ran to the rear of the yard and saw the horrible sight. Then without a moment's hesitation she grasped an axe, demolished the fence bounding the tracks and called to the rescuers to bring the injured to her home. She herself helped several into the kitchen and leaving them, ran to a neighbor's where she telephoned for the Westfield fire department and police.

At the house again she found herself alone with the dying and while administering spirits to some, she took the names and addresses of others whose life blood was ebbing. Five people died in her parlor and still she worked on, never depending upon a woman's prerogative to faint. She snatched sheets and coverlets from her beds to make bandages, rolled up the rugs for head rests and even directed the removal of bodies through the hallway to the porch where they were laid in a row to await identification.

"It was awful," she said to a Press reporter, "but I just couldn't stand still and see those poor people suffer. I am covered with blood and sick at heart from the sights I witnessed but as long as there is an injured man or woman to be cared for I shall do my best. My only thought has been for the poor mothers and sisters of those who have been killed and I wish I could comfort some of them as I have helped the unfortunates in their last moments.

All who came in contact with Mrs. Harkson during her work are loud in their praise of her conduct. She is rather petite in form and looks anything but the part she acted.

SAW THE TRAIN APPROACH

Wm. Palmer Smith Was on Rear Platform of the Ill-Fated Local.

Perhaps the only eye witness of the terrible accident who saw the approach of the colliding train and who is the only one who sounded a warning of the impending collision was William Palmer Smith, of Belvidere avenue, who, when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter immediately after he returned to his home from Westfield, said:

"Just after we passed Westfield I stepped out upon the rear platform of the train which came to a stop about half mile this side of that town owing to some trouble with the running gear. When the train came to a stop a brakeman took a lantern and ran along in back of the train.

"Soon the engine whistled for the brakeman to return and the train started again. Just as our train was getting up speed a light appeared some distance in the rear. I watched the light draw near thinking it was an approaching train and that it would switch off to another track.

"While I was still watching the light, which approached with great speed, I suddenly realized that a collision was about to take place. Hastily throwing open the rear door I yelled to the unsuspecting passengers, about thirty in number, to jump and then, casting one glance in the direction of the light which was then almost upon us, I jumped from the train and the next instant an awful crash came.

"When I recovered from the shock of my jump I saw the train a mass of ruins and the pitiful shrieks of the passengers mingled with the sound of hissing steam as it escaped from the damaged engine, made an awful babbel of sounds.

"People were seen crawling out from beneath the cars. Some were injured and others who escaped injury began to assist those who were pinioned under the wreckage."

WHY SHERIFF CARMAN DIDN'T SERVE PAPERS

Found Himself at a House Where There Was a Case of Scarlet Fever.

BUT HE DIDN'T KNOW IT

TOOK HEALTH INSPECTOR FOR MAN OF THE ESTABLISHMENT.

Didn't Stay When the Inspector Explained—Some of the Troubles of Middlesex County's New Sheriff in Performing Duty.

The new sheriff of Middlesex county, William Carman, is having his troubles since he has been in office and is gaining experience every day. Saturday morning he went to Sewaren to serve some papers. His ring at the door bell brought forth a man's smiling countenance of whom the Sheriff, in his blandest Gaston and Alphonse bow, requested admittance.

Returning the bow the man smiling replied that it would be very unwise for him to enter the house as he would be obliged to hustle him out again.

"But I must come in," persisted the Sheriff. "I, sir, am the Sheriff of Middlesex county, William Carman, by name. You will probably remember seeing my picture on rail fences and stone walls during the recent campaign when I defeated Theodore Booream by a tight majority. I demand admittance in the name of the law."

"Yes, yes," replied the man behind the door," I do remember you. So you are the man I voted for. I am so glad to have an opportunity of shaking your hand, what, these papers for me? Oh no I don't belong here.

"You see its this way," volunteered the man, as he handed back the papers, "they have scarlet fever here and I am the Board of Health Inspector. Well now what in the world is the matter with the Sheriff, he does seem to be in a hurry. I wonder if I detained him."

When the Sheriff arrived at a safe distance from the house he stood on a pile of sawed logs and shouted back: "I'll send 'em over by mail."

NEW FERRYBOATS.

Erie Railroad Has Just Given Out Contracts for Three.

The Erie Railroad Company has given out contracts for three new modern ferryboats which is in line with the company's policy to improve all parts of the service. The boats will be double-decked, 224 feet long and 64 feet wide. They will have propellers at each end and will be among the fastest boats on the Hudson river. Two will be in service by November 1 and the third by December 31 next. Their cost will be nearly $230,000 each. The addition of these boats will enable the Erie Company to put more boats in service on its Twenty-third street line to meet the requirements of the increasing uptown travel. Two of the new boats will be built by the United States Shipbuilding Company.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

Change of Pulpits.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, will exchange pulpits with Rev. Mr. Tulp, of Marconnier chapel, next Sunday. Dr. Schenck will preach at the chapel in the afternoon at the usual hour, and Mr. Tulp will preach at Trinity Reformed church in the evening. This arrangement is only for next Sunday.

New Signal Towers.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad is building two large electric signal and switch towers at each end of the long trestle over the Newark Bay. The improvement will be installed to protect and control the new four-track junction at these points.

THE Y. M. C. A. PLANS FOR EXTRA COURSE

Will Give Series of Five Entertainments, If Proper Support Can be Secured.

FINE TALENT ENGAGED

PROPOSE TO START SERIES EARLY IN FEBRUARY.

Opening Programme Will be Given by Park Sisters and Miss Edith M. Norton—Those to Take Part in the Others.

The proposed course of entertainments to be given under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association providing there be a sufficient demand for the same will commence as early in February as possible, and will close the early part of April. The course consists of five of the strongest programmes that might be selected, some of which are well and favorably known to Plainfield audiences.

It is planned to open the course with a musical programme by the famous Park Sisters, and Miss Edith M. Norton, humorist and dramatic reciter. The second entertainment will be given by Chas. F. Underhill, monologist, in his presentation of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's great comedy, "The Rivals." Mr. Underhill will be ably supported by Miss Bianca Holley, a leading soprano of New York City.

Lovette's Boston Stars, who made such a favorable impression in this city last season, are the third attraction on the course. The fourth evening's programme will be given by Miss Gay Zenola McClaren, who will be remembered by many in Plainfield as she appeared in her presentation of the "Sign of the Cross" on the Star Course of two years ago, at which time Miss McClaren was the impersonator of eighteen different characters, and gave a most pleasing and realistic programme.

Miss McClaren is making a great hit throughout the country in her presentation of the four act drama, "Way Down East," and should the association run this course she undoubtedly would be heard in this special work. In connection with Miss McClaren, W. Paulding DeNike, 'cellist, also well and favorably known to the Plainfield public will be heard.

The fifth number of the course is that of the Swedish Ladies' Quartette, a company of vocalists which is strongly endorsed as entertainers of exceptional merit. With this company of artists will be heard of the second time in this city an elocutionist of rare ability in the personage of Miss Adele Weber. Miss Weber was on the regular Star Course about two years ago and is considered by many as one of the most pleasing elocutionists that has ever visited Plainfield.

This course of entertainers is of exceptional merit and will be run providing the necessary number of course tickets are engaged which are sold at a very reasonable price, including a reserved seat. Already a number of people have engaged seats and others who may be desirous of the success of this course should leave their names at the secretary's office or at the drug store of P. B. Hodge, Y. M. C. A. building, at as early date as possible.

THEATRICAL.

Order, elegance, morality, consideration, courtesy, carefulness, discipline, architectural grace and grandeur, entrancing electric illuminations, fairy-like lagoons, canals, cascades and fountains, tropical verdure, mountain scenery and lovely landscapes, picturesque plazas, spacious play grounds, thirty-nine stupendous spectacles, incredible illusions, and original, novel, high-class exhibitions are among the twenty-two acres of features and attractions, costing a million dollars and making the twenty-two acres of "Luna Park and All World's Amusement Exposition," Coney Island, a veritable Eden of entertainment.

Change on Lehigh.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company made a change of time on some of the upper divisions last Sunday, and a new schedule went into effect on the New York, New Jersey, Lehigh, Wyoming and Mahanoy and Hazleton divisions, on the same day.

TRIBUTE TO M'KINLEY

President Roosevelt's Eloquent Eulogy at Canton.

LARGE AND DISTINGUISHED GATHERING

Banquet Given by the Republican League in Commemoration of Famous Ohioan's Birthday. Judge Day Presides.

CANTON, O., Jan. 28.—President Roosevelt last night participated in a notable tribute to the memory of the late President McKinley. He was the principal orator at a banquet given under the auspices of the Canton Republican league in commemoration of the birthday of McKinley. Surrounded by friends, neighbors and business and political associates of the dead president, he pronounced a brilliant and eloquent eulogy upon the life and works of McKinley, a eulogy by many regarded as the most beautiful and heartfelt tribute ever paid to the memory of the distinguished dead.

The banquet was held in the Grand Opera House, the seats being removed from the pit and the house entirely refloored for the occasion. The interior of the building was beautifully decorated with flags and flowers, the floral decorations being particularly elaborate. Festoons of flags were arranged about the balcony and gallery, and the thirteen great banquet boards were massed with roses and carnations mingled with smilax and ferns. An orchestra of twenty-five pieces furnished music.

Among the 457 guests assembled about the boards were some of the most distinguished men in the civil, public and political life of the country. Among those seated at the speakers' table besides President Roosevelt were Judge William R. Day, who acted as toastmaster; Secretary Root, Secretary Cortelyou, General S. B. M. Young, General Leonard Wood, General Luke E. Wright, vice governor of the Philippines, and Surgeon General Rixey.

President Roosevelt said in part:

Mr. Toastmaster and Gentlemen—Throughout our history, and indeed throughout history generally, it has been given to only a very few thrice favored men to take so marked a lead in the crises faced by their several generations that thereafter each stands as the embodiment of the triumphant effort of his generation. President McKinley was one of these men.

If during the lifetime of a generation no crisis occurs sufficient to call out in marked manner the energies of the strongest leader, then of course the world does not and cannot know of the existence of such a leader, and in consequence there are long periods in the history of every nation during which no man appears who leaves an indelible mark in history.

It was given to President McKinley to take the foremost place in our political life at a time when our country was brought face to face with problems more momentous than any whose solution we have ever attempted save only in the Revolution and in the civil war, and it was under his leadership that the nation solved these mighty problems aright. Therefore he shall stand in the eyes of history not merely as the first man of his generation, but as among the greatest figures in our national life, coming second only to the men of the two great crises in which the Union was founded and preserved.

No man could carry through successfully such a task as President McKinley undertook unless trained by long years of effort for its performance. Knowledge of his fellow citizens, ability to understand them, keen sympathy with even their innermost feelings and yet power to lead them, together with farsighted sagacity and resolute belief both in the people and in their future—all these were needed in the man who headed the march of our people during the eventful years from 1896 to 1901. Those were the qualities possessed by McKinley and developed by him throughout his whole history previous to assuming the presidency.

President McKinley's rise to greatness had in it nothing of the sudden, nothing of the unexpected or seemingly accidental. Throughout his long term of service in congress there was a steady increase alike in his power of leadership and in the recognition of that power both by his associates in public life and by the public itself. Session after session his influence in the house grew greater; his party antagonists grew to look upon him with constantly increasing respect, his party friends with constantly increasing faith and admiration. Eight years before he was nominated for president he was already considered a presidential possibility. Four years before he was nominated only his own high sense of honor prevented his being made a formidable competitor of the chief upon whom the choice of the convention then actually fell. In 1896 he was chosen because the great mass of his party knew him and believed in him and regarded him as symbolizing their ideals, as representing their aspirations.

But even as a candidate President McKinley was far more than the candidate of a party, and as president he was in the broadest and fullest sense the president of all the people of all sections of the country.

His first nomination came to him because of the qualities he had shown in healthy and open political leadership, the leadership which by word and deed impresses itself as a virile force for good upon the people at large and which has nothing in common with mere intrigue or manipulation, but in 1896 the issue was fairly joined, chiefly upon a question which as a party question was entirely new, so that the old lines of political cleavage were in large part abandoned. All other issues sank in importance when compared with the vital need of keeping our financial system on the high and honorable plane imperatively demanded by our position as a great civilized power. As the champion of such a principle President McKinley received the support not only of his own party, but of hundreds of thousands of those to whom he had been politically opposed. He triumphed, and he made good with scrupulous fidelity the promises upon which the campaign was won.

The president then spoke of the unforeseen problems which President McKinley had to face brought about by the Spanish-American war and the consequent acquisition of Porto Rico and the Philippines and said:

A weaker and less farsighted man than President McKinley would have shrunk from a task very difficult in itself and certain to furnish occasion for attack and misrepresentation no less than for honest misunderstanding, but President McKinley never flinched. He refused to consider the thought of abandoning our duty in our new possessions. Again his policy was amply vindicated. Peace has come to the islands, together with a greater measure of individual liberty and self government than they have ever before known. All the tasks set us as a result of the war with Spain have so far been well and honorably accomplished, and as a result this nation stands higher than ever before among the nations of mankind.

President McKinley's second campaign was fought mainly on the issue of approving what he had done in his first administration and specifically what he had done as regards these problems springing out of the war with Spain. The result was that the popular verdict in his favor was more overwhelming than it had been before.

No other president in our history has seen high and honorable effort crowned with more conspicuous personal success. No other president entered upon his second term feeling such right to a profound and peaceful satisfaction. Then by a stroke of horror, so strange in its fantastic iniquity as to stand unique in the black annals of crime, he was struck down. The brave, strong, gentle heart was stilled forever, and word was brought to the woman who wept that she was to walk thenceforth alone in the shadow. The hideous infamy of the deed shocked the nation to its depths, for the man thus struck at was in a peculiar sense the champion of the plain people, in a peculiar sense the representative and the exponent of those ideals which, if we live up to them, will make, as they have largely made, our country a blessed refuge for all who strive to do right and to live their lives simply and well as light is given them. The nation was stunned and the people mourned with a sense of bitter bereavement because they had lost a man whose heart beat for them as the heart of Lincoln once had beaten. We did right to mourn, for the loss was ours, not his. He died in the golden fullness of his triumph. He died victorious in that highest of all kinds of strife, the strife for an ampler, juster and more generous national life.

We are gathered together tonight to recall his memory, to pay our tribute of respect to the great chief and leader who fell in the harness, who was stricken down while his eyes were bright with "the light that tells of triumph tasted." We can honor him best by the way we show in actual deed that we have taken to heart the lessons of his life. We must strive to achieve, each in the measure that he can, something of the qualities which made President McKinley a leader of men, a mighty power for good, his strength, his courage, his courtesy and dignity, his sense of justice, his ever present kindliness and regard for the rights of others. He won greatness by meeting and solving the issues as they arose, not by shirking them; meeting them with wisdom, with the exercise of the most skillful and cautious judgment, but with fearless resolution when the time of crisis came.

COAL STRIKE TESTIMONY.

Independent Operators Expected to Finish Today.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28.—Considerable progress was made yesterday by the anthracite coal strike commission, and it is probable that the independent operators will conclude their cases today. The Reading company will follow and will occupy the attention of the commission during the remainder of the week. The testimony presented was varied and interesting, an important witness being Albert C. Leisenring, superintendent of the Upper Lehigh Coal company. Mr. Leisenring said he believed the meeting of employer and employee to be beneficial to both parties, and when asked if he preferred to allow his mine to fill with water rather than grant his men an eight hour working day he said he would rather not break the classified rates, not on his own account, however.

Another witness who aroused the interest of the commissioners was H. K. Christ, a coal breaker builder, who said he was refused "permission" by the district officers of the United Mine Workers to build breakers while the strike was in progress.

P. Edward Ross, a professional accountant, who was called to testify concerning the wages paid by the G. B. Markle company, was compelled to change many of the figures that appeared in the company's answer to the miners' demands, recently published. In every case the amounts were higher than the men had received, the figures ranging from 10 cents to $20. Chairman Gray became impatient with the witness and expressed his displeasure in pointed terms.

Mine Workers Adjourn.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 28.—The mine workers have completed their business and adjourned. The convention has been the most expeditious and harmonious ever held. Many important measures have been considered and acted upon. Among them are the formulation of the demand for an increase of wages of 12½ cents flat per ton on a run of mine basis and a flat differential of 7 cents per ton between pick and machine mined coal, a demand for an increase of wages of inside and outside laborers in proportion to the increase of the miners, the refusal to commit the convention to socialism and government ownership, raising of officers' salaries, the declaration against children working in mines, the demand for an anti-injunction law and the plans for a defense fund.

Rutgers Scholarships Favored.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 28.—Governor Murphy sent to the two houses yesterday the report of the special commission appointed about a year ago to investigate the claim of Rutgers college against the state for $130,000 for state scholarships furnished to pupils under authority of the legislature. The act creating these scholarships was considered of doubtful constitutionality, and no money was paid to Rutgers college on account of these scholarships. The report submitted advocates the payment of the money due and recommends the continuation of the scholarships.

Eight Vessels Fast In Ice.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Jan. 28.—Private dispatches received indicate that the eight Gloucester vessels which are icebound off Newfoundland may not be able to leave their positions until spring. The schooners are valued in the aggregate at $100,000 and their combined cargoes of frozen herring at $60,000. One telegram received states that the ice has crossed the gulf of St. Lawrence, closing up the bays and harbor on the gulf side of Newfoundland.

Suffrage For Kansas Women.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 28.—The woman suffrage supporters have been assured by leading members of the legislature that a bill granting the privilege of the ballot will be passed at this session. The bill has been favorably reported in both houses, and Governor Bailey has expressed his intention of signing it when it finally passes. Republicans generally favor the measure.

Peary Succeeds Low.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—At the annual meeting of the American Geographical society Commander Robert E. Peary, U. S. N., was elected president to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation a year ago of Mayor Seth Low. The rest of the officers of the society were re-elected.

NEGOTIATIONS BEGIN

First Joint Conference on the Venezuelan Case.

A QUESTION REGARDING PAYMENTS.

Allied Powers Expected to Accept Mr. Bowen's Representations and Sign the Protocol For Raising the Blockade.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The first joint conference of the Venezuelan negotiators occurred during the afternoon by appointment at Mr. Bowen's apartments, the ranking diplomat, Signor Mayor des Planches, the Italian ambassador, making the representations in French to Mr. Bowen. The question under discussion was a matter of the merest detail, the envoys wishing to know whether the monthly payments to the allies should be in proportion to the amount of the claims or whether Great Britain, Germany and Italy would receive the same amounts each month until the indemnity was paid. Mr. Bowen said he was quite willing to leave this to the powers themselves to settle and that any arrangement they might make would be satisfactory to Venezuela.

Another detail which has not yet been cleared up involves the question of preferential treatment of the allied powers as against France, Denmark, Holland, Norway and Sweden, Belgium, Spain and the United States in the payment of indemnity. The point was made by Venezuela's representative that were the dispute referred to The Hague tribunal all the powers would be required to stand on an equality and furthermore that as this question did not form a part of the allies' condition precedent to the raising of the blockade it did not seem fair that it should be presented as essential, now that Venezuela had complied with the original proposition and offered a satisfactory guarantee.

This answer was cabled to the foreign offices at London, Berlin and Rome, and it is hoped that favorable answers will be received today. The force of Mr. Bowen's contention has appealed to the allies' representatives here, and there is reason to believe that Great Britain and Germany and Italy will yield on this last objection and sign the protocol for the raising of the blockade. The blockade once lifted, the representatives of all the powers having claims against Venezuela will treat with Mr. Bowen separately for the settlement of their indemnities.

Blockade to Be Raised.

CARACAS, Jan. 28.—The news cabled yesterday that the blockade will be called off is confirmed by the semi-official press here. It is a visible fact that only foreigners are suffering from the effects of the blockade. The Venezuelans themselves are not undergoing hardships, except because of the shortage of salt.

Lake George Guide Dead.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Henry B. Phelps, an old time Lake George pilot, dropped dead in the village harness shop at Bolton Landing. He had been a pilot, hotel proprietor and guide on Lake George for forty years and was a familiar figure to thousands of summer visitors.

Chicago Aids Famine Sufferers.

GRAND CIRCUIT DATES.

Board of Stewards Meets In Boston. Officers Chosen.

BOSTON, Jan. 28.—The annual meeting of the board of stewards of the grand trotting circuit held here a number of new measures were discussed, such as professional judges, barring of hoppies in the standard pacing class and the revision of the proxy system, but the only definite action taken was in the assignment of the race dates for the coming season.

These dates are: Detroit, July 20; Cleveland, July 27; Buffalo, Aug. 3; Empire track at Yonkers, Aug. 10; Brighton Beach, Aug. 17; Readville, Aug. 24; Providence, Aug. 31; Hartford, Sept. 7; Syracuse, Sept. 14; Columbus, Sept. 21; Cincinnati, Sept. 28.

Representatives from Syracuse and Columbus objected strongly to their dates, Syracuse wanting the week previous, while Columbus asked for dates between Detroit and Cleveland. The circuit, however, was adopted by a vote of 7 to 4.

The annual meting resulted in the re-election of D. J. Campau of Detroit as president, while Charles M. Jewett of Boston was chosen secretary in place of S. W. Giles, who retired on account of ill health.

Ice Races on Lake George.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 28.—The first of the series of ice races on Lake George was held yesterday at Caldwell on a kite shaped track, laid diagonally across the lake from the Lake House toward Crosbyside. The attendance was large. Wyreka (Clother) won the free-for-all race; fastest heat, 2:23¼. Muggins (Gondry) won the named race; fastest heat, 2:36.

Favorites Won at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—Favorites won most of the events at Oakland. Rain fell all afternoon, and the track was a sea of mud. The feature of the card was the mile event for three-year-olds. Gold Van opened favorite, but at the close Epicure had the call.

New Orleans Results.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28.—Optional and Ahumada were the winning favorites. The former was run up to $1,200 and bought in. Weather cloudy and sultry; track heavy.

CRAZY WOMEN CREMATED.

Fifty-two Patients In London Hospital Perish.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Fifty-two insane patients, all women, have been burned to death by a fire at the Colney Hatch asylum.

The fire occurred in the Jewish wing of the institution. The flames spread with great rapidity, and before they could be got under control five wooden buildings, including dormitories and the doctors' apartments, were destroyed.

All the efforts of the officials were directed to removing the insane inmates, but the latter became wild with excitement and so panic stricken that not only were they unable to help themselves, but greatly impeded the operations of those trying to save them.

There were nearly 600 women in the burned annex at the time the fire was discovered, and most of them were safely transferred to the main building, which was uninjured.

Some, however, escaped and are still at large.

A CASE OF WHITEWASH.

Naval Committee Concludes Bribery Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The Lessler bribery investigation committee practically concluded its labors yesterday afternoon by administering a thick coat of whitewash to all the principals in the scandal excepting Phil Doblin.

Representative Lessler was the principal witness before the naval committee. His appearance on the stand caused no surprise, and his sweeping denial of Philip Doblin's conflicting statements and charges of conspiracy were very tame compared with the sensational proceedings of Monday.

Senator Quay made an effort to hold the senate in continuous session to consider the statehood bill, but failed to hold a quorum and was compelled on that account to allow the senate to adjourn at 6:20 p. m. He secured another ballot, however, to test the sentiment of the senate, the vote standing 17 to 9 in his favor.

British Steamer Lost.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The British steamer Graffoe, from Glasgow for Buenos Ayres, has sunk off Ramsey island. Six of her crew were saved by a lifeboat. One man lost his life, and the remainder of the crew, numbering sixteen, after being tossed about in a boat in the Irish sea, were rescued by a passing steamer and landed at Cardiff.

Teller's Election Legal.

DENVER, Jan. 28.—Attorney General Miller has given as an opinion that the election of Henry M. Teller as United States senator is legal, and Governor Peabody will sign the certificate of his election as soon as it shall reach him.

Weather Probabilities.

Rain; warmer; fresh east to south winds.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

A Chicago mob, led by women, held up a coal train and looted five cars.

The Stone expedition arrived from Alaska with a large collection for the Museum of Natural History.

Prince Wolffgang zu Stolberg-Stolberg was found shot dead in the park of his castle at Rottleberode, Saxony.

County Attorney Boardman of Minneapolis sued the McClure Publishing company for $50,000 damages for alleged libel.

CANAL FIGHT BEGUN

Plan to Improve New York Waterways Threatened.

GOOD ROADS MEN HAVE A SCHEME

Prominent Republicans Want $50,000,000 For Highways or They Will Defeat the $85,000,000 Canal Proposition.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 28.—While ardent advocates of the canal were in long and serious session yesterday contemplating the expenditure of $82,000,000 for the improvement of the state waterways there was gathered in another room of the state capitol a set of men representing in a great degree the dominant element in Republican politics, planning to so amend the canal bill as to defeat it unless their demands are granted.

Of the dozen conferrees the mention of a few names only is necessary to demonstrate that dominant element of the Republican party is represented in the proposed amending of the bill. Lieutenant Governor Frank Higgins, Speaker of the Assembly S. Fred Nixon, Senators Jothan P. Allds, leader of the majority in the assembly; James S. Rogers, Senator William Armstrong and a dozen others of lesser note practically decided that unless a $50,000,000 state bond issue was added to the $82,000,000 proposed in the canal bill no canal measure would be allowed to pass the legislature and to go to the governor. The additional $50,000,000 asked for is to be expended, according to the plans of this contingent, in building good roads. The farmers and good roads interests are to be appealed to to support the proposition.

These legislators contend that the counties outside of the direct line of the canal receive no direct benefit from the vast expenditure of money proposed under the $82,000,000 canal appropriation. They say that if the canal is to be made available to these outside counties there must be good roads for the farmers and producers to convey their produce to the canal for transportation; that these counties must depend upon good roads for their increase in business, as the canal counties depend upon the canal.

It was also contended that if the state compelled counties benefited to pay half the cost of constructing a state road the same method should be applied to the canal unless the counties directly benefited by the canal were willing that the good roads proposition for $50,000,000 should be attached to the canal bill.

The total amount of bonds which these conferrees demand be issued in the bill is $132,000,000, and under the figures presented by the governor for the $81,000,000 appropriation, with fifty years interest, this would mean an expenditure for the state of $370,000,000.

This is the third directly antagonistic proposition to the canal improvement bill.

TAX SWINDLE UNEARTHED.

New York City Believed to Have Lost Millions.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The arrest of four employees of the city, two of them employees of the department of taxes and assessments, has disclosed, according to District Attorney Jerome, a most stupendous and farreaching plan to defraud the city of a part of its income through the false swearing off of hundreds of thousands of dollars of assessments. The amount involved may reach into the millions.

The alleged swindlers made the tax office their base of operations in impersonating bona fide taxpayers and swearing off personal taxes in the interest of the real taxpayer, who paid for the deception.

The plan of the gang, said the district attorney, was to secure the name of a taxpayer from the books through the instrumentality of the man on the inside.

Then a member of the gang would approach the taxpayer, tell him that through certain influences he could be relieved of paying the tax imposed by the department.

The swindlers represented themselves as officials of the tax department. The district attorney has knowledge of hundreds of cases in which the taxpayer paid the gang well for the service rendered.

Lynch's Sentence Commuted.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Colonel Arthur Lynch, convicted of high treason, has had the death sentence commuted to one of imprisonment for life. By the terms of his sentence he is condemned to penal servitude. Inasmuch as the prevailing sentiment of the civilized world has been so aroused over the case of Colonel Lynch, it is believed that he will be granted a pardon, with leave to get out of the country, in a few years.

Court Says Miller Is Mayor.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 28.—The supreme court has decided that George W. Miller, Democrat, was elected mayor last fall. The election board gave the vote to William R. Munderman, Republican, who has since been holding office. The Democrats contested that decision before the election board, claiming a plurality of seven votes for Miller and then carried the contest to the courts, where today they were successful.

Dowager Empress Lavish With Gifts

PEKING, Jan. 28.—The members of the foreign legations are again embarrassed by lavish gifts from the dowager empress of game, plants and trinkets on the occasion of the Chinese new year. Similar presents were sent to the legations after the last note of the powers to China on the indemnity question.

AN APPALLING DISASTER.

A diaster, the most far-reaching and appalling that Plainfield has ever experienced, has cast a gloom over the city that it will take months to dispel. Over a score of lives have been wiped out and many have been injured more or less seriously. Despite every precaution which human mind can devise, the Jersey Central Railroad is now face to face with the worst accident that has occurred in its annals. Somebody blundered.

The blow has fallen most heavily on Plainfield. Most of the passengers on the ill-fated train came from this city and Dunellen. There is scarcely a Plainfielder who did not know some of the victims of the disaster and so there is hardly a home that is not plunged into deep gloom. It is an awful thing and the sorrow of the whole community goes out to the families where loved ones have suddenly been swept out of existence.

A Normal School is a nice thing to have in any city so it is not surprising that so many communities are attempting to land the coveted institution. It is just possible, however, that the bill to enlarge the present Normal School will result in the sudden collapse of all these booms for the new school.

It looks as if this winter would see no betterment of the conditions surrounding skating in this vicinity. It is to be hoped, however, that another year will see Mayor Jenkins' schemes for public parks and lakes a reality and that the city will assume a guardianship of a suitable resort for skaters.

FEARS THE PROPOSED REMEDY WON'T WORK

"Farmer Orator" J. E. Martine Doesn't Favor Proposed Primary Election Reform Bill.

ARE LAWS ENOUGH NOW

ONLY TROUBLE, HE SAYS, IS THAT THEY ARE NOT ENFORCED.

His Opposition is Not Because He Does Not Want to See Purity in Politics—Thinks Present Laws Cover the Ground Fully.

Primary reform is the cry that has been going the length and breath of this State for the past few years and now the Legislature is about to take the matter up seriously. While some are in favor of the proposed method of reform other prominent politicians are decidedly opposed to it. Those who are opposed to it are not those who are against the measure because they desire to see corruption in politics carried on further but because they claim they can see no reason why more laws should be made governing primaries than there are at present in the statute books, when even these are not enforced.

James E. Martine, one of Plainfield's prominent Democrats, when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter said:

"In my opinion the present laws of this State governing primaries are entirely adequate if carried out according to the full letter. In my opinion there is not any necessity of making further laws for this purpose when the present laws cover the ground so fully. The statutes require the swearing in of officers, a judge and also the tellers and if the law is properly enforced there is very little chance of corruption at the primaries. The law in New Jersey is stringent enough.

"In my opinion the proposed primary election act is prompted from the unseemly squabble that took place last fall in the Republican primary of this district which was the direct result of the wholesale and debauching use of money that was used in that unsavory contest between John Kean and Congressman Fowler.

"Had the officers of these primaries enforced the provisions of the present laws governing primaries there need have been no trouble and there would be no need of further legislation.

"It is absurd to charge that opposition to the proposed law is opposition to pure elections. The opponents are quite as strenuous for pure government as are the advocates of this measure but are opposed to incumbering the statute books with measures not needed and entirely too cumbersome."

UPTOWN FERRIES.

Jersey Railroads Plan to Consolidate Uptown Ferries at Twenty-Third Street.

Provided the negotiations now pending are satisfactory to the New York Department of Docks and the Lackawanna Railroad a conclusive step will be taken in the proposed plan of consolidating all the uptown ferries of the New Jersey railroads at and near the foot of West Twenty-third street. The Pennsylvania and Erie Railroads now have two ferry slips each there. Applications are before the New York City officials for sites for three more slips for the Lackawanna Railroad and the Hoboken Ferry Company.

The application of the Lackawanna Railroad has been favorably received and when the compensation to be paid the city is determined a formal recommendation of the company's plan will be made to the Sinking Fund Commission. It is understood that the railroad has obtained control of the Hoboken Ferry Company, which now operates the ferries that carry its passengers from Hoboken to Barclay, Christopher and West Fourteenth streets.

Jerusalem's Progress.

The members of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., are just now pointing with no little pride to the fact that the lodge is in the sixty-eighth year of its existence and with a membership of 165 starts the year with new officers under the most favorable auspices.

Mrs. Yardley Brown, of Summit avenue, who has been ill with tonsilitis, is able to be out again.

John B. Dumont, of East Seventh street, has recovered from a recent illness which detained him at home.

WILLING TO SETTLE.

Mail Carrier Ruchman Has Decided to Abide by Court's Decision.

In the case of William Ruchmann, the mail driver who was tried recently before Justice Mattison on a charge of cruelly treating a disabled horse, preferred by William E. Pangborn as representative of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, an application for settlement has been made by the defendant. The case was appealed but now the defendant desires to pay the costs of the trial, and the fine of $40 and let the matter drop.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

DUNELLEN.

A number of Dunellenites were injured in the horrible railroad accident at Westfield last night and are at present in the hospital. Among the most seriously injured were Percy Ising and W. S. Fredricks. Mr. Ising was cut and injured internally and Mr. Fredricks was badly scalded about the lower part of the body. It was reported that Mr. Patterson was badly injured but the report last night could not be vertified. Among those slightly injured were Raymond Apgar and William Giddis.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mrs. C. M. Bettman, of North Plainfield, while waiting at the depot Monday afternoon, slipped and fell on the ice, painfully injuring herself about the head. Mrs. Bettman was taken to the home of her sister-in-law, Miss Carrie Bettman. Dr. Westcott was called in and gave the necessary treatment, but it was some time before she could be taken to her home.

Fanwood Council, R. A., held a large and interesting semi-monthly meeting in its rooms last night. The entertainment committee is arranging to hold a smoker in the Council rooms in the near future.

Dr. J. Ackerman Coles is dangerously ill at his home, "Deerhurst," on Mountain avenue. Neglect of a cold has brought on a severe attack of the grip, which threatens pneumonia.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The local coal dealers are again supplied with an abundance of good anthracite coal.

Mrs. Lavina Stewart, of Plainfield, is spending a few days with Mrs. Oscar Thorn.

A number from here attended the sale at the Elliott homestead, this afternoon.

Wm. Pangborn, of Chatham street, is greatly improved from a serious illness. He expects to leave the house soon.

PRAISE FOR DR. RICHARDS

WHAT "THE INTERIOR" HAS TO SAY ABOUT THAT CLERGYMAN.

It Reviews His Career and Refers to His Present Important Charge.

"The Interior," a Presbyterian publication, under date of January 1, publishes a fine picture of Rev. Dr. William Rogers Richards, now pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, on the front page, and also contains an interesting article concerning this noted divine. The article is as follows:

"The Interior takes especial pleasure in presenting on the cover of the present issue a characteristic portrait of the brilliant minister lately installed in the pastorate of Brick church, New York. Dr. Richards is really not native to the Presbyterian heath, but he came from an ecclesiastical country very little alien, was long since naturalized and has been thoroughly assimilated.

"He was born in Boston forty-eight years ago, had his collegiate training at Yale and his theological education at Andover, and was ordained by a Congregational council, which at the same time installed him pastor over the Central church of Bath, Me. Here he continued preaching from 1879 to 1884, when the call of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church of Plainfield, N. J., brought him over the boundary into Presbyterianism. For eighteen years he continued a nobly fruitful ministry there, and under his stimulating preaching and diligent shepherding the church grew into one of the most notable of the whole denomination. Counting in the three missions which have been planted in various parts of the city under the outreaching impulses of Dr. Richards' leadership, the congregation now has a membership of above 1,500, fully a tenth of the population of the community in which it stands.

"It is doubtless true that many well informed Presbyterians wondered when they learned the name of the man whom Brick church had called to its great pulpit; they had never heard of him—for Dr. Richards had done his own home work too faithfully and well to be famous. But those who knew anything of the town of Plainfield did not wonder at the choice, and those who had intimate personal acquaintance with the pastor were even less surprised. When Brick church called him it was not a question of whether he was capable of filling a position so conspicuous, but whether he could be persuaded to leave his loved work at Plainfield, from which many other flattering calls had not sufficed to allure him. Finally however he was convinced that the larger opportunities of the metropolis justified the change of field, and his auspiciously opening labors now encourage anew all the sanguine hopes which were first founded upon his acceptance of this vast and taxing pastoral responsibility."

One Hundred Dollars a Box

is the value H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. APPALLING DISASTER score of lives were blotted out. The scene that faced the survivors of yesterday's appalling disaster as they scrambled from out the wreckage and gazed about them, is one that can never be forgotten. The horror of it all will haunt them to their dying day. The locomotive of the Philadelhpia express was buried beneath the fragments of the cars of the local train. Pinned under the wreckage were several score of men and women. Shrieks and moans filled the air. There was the rush of escaping steam. Then like a flash, before the bewildered passengers had time to grasp the situation, little tongues of flame began to creep over the mass of wreckage.

There were a few who did not lose their heads in this moment of peril. There were scores of brave rescues Men and women were dragged out of the path of the fast approaching flames. But others were not so fortunate. So deep were they under the debris that is was impossible to save them in the brief interval at the command of the rescuers. Their screams for aid grew fainter and finally the fire ended their agony.

Engineer Davis remained at his post at the throttle. There he was found by the emergency corps of passengers and railroad men and lifted out to the ground beside the track.

Word was sent to Westfield and the fire department of that town responded promptly. The flames had done their fiendish work, however, and all the firemen could do was to extinguish the smouldering ruins and assist in the work of disinterring the corpses.

Strange things happened in those few minutes that followed the wreck. The dead and dying were strewn about on every hand. Men suffering from terrible injuries arose and walked to the bank beside the track. Others walked to assist in the rescue work not realizing that their own wounds were serious, perhaps fatal. And yet, it seemed as if the cool heads were in the majority for, among those who escaped, there was little or no noise or agitation. The awfulness of it all seemed to stun them. Those who were not ready to assist stood around quietly in a dull apathy gazing at the picture of ruin and death that was spread before them.

REMOVAL OF THE BODIES

A Sickening Task That Followed the Arrival of the Wrecking Crews.

Not until the wrecking crews arrived from Philadelphia and Elizabethport did the work of removing the bodies from beneath the smoking ruins begin in earnest. At first the laborers crawled about the charred timbers and emerged now and then with what had once been a human being. Blackened beyond recognition and in many cases only a few fragments of flesh, there was no way of telling who it was.

When the huge steam cranes moved the tangled iron work from about the wrecked engine, the anxious crowd, which had been pressing about, turned away sick and partially overcome. Charred trunks were seen on all sides and a nauseating smell of burned flesh added to the horror of the scene. In some instances a shovel sufficed to hold all that was left of a body.

All the while the flames continued to spurt up at intervals and in one fitfull gleam the body of a woman was seen lying on the crown sheet of the engine just beneath the smokestack. It was in such a position that it could not easily be reached and while one man stood over it with buckets of water keeping the fire back, others knocked away the imprisoning iron. It was finally released but in no condition to be identified.

Thirteen of the blackened masses were removed by 12:15 this morning and placed aboard a special train. It was given the right of way to this city but, in order to avoid the weeping crowd of relatives at the North Avenue station, was switched into the freight yards at Berckman street. Wagons had been summoned and the remains were quickly transferred to the morgue, a gang of men having been brought with the train for the purpose. The scenes of the earlier evening when the first crushed bodies were revealed for identification were avoided.

All the injured, who died after being removed or in the home of Mrs. Harkson, were brought here by wagons. In most cases the features were not entirely marred and friends found it an easy matter to identify them. They were immediately prepared for burial and sent to the homes designated.

SCENES ABOUT THE CITY

Awful Scenes at Station and Morgue During Hours After Accident.

At 7 o'clock the first telephone message arrived from passengers who had walked back to Westfield to notify parents, wives and families here that those who were in the wreck had escaped uninjured and that many were victims of the collision. The news of the wreck spread about the town like wildfire and anxiety changed to fear when the passengers on the ill-fated train began to arrive in this city by trolley car from Westfield where they left the scene of confusion, wreckage and death, to hasten home to assure friends that they were not among those who were already counted among the dead.

People who expected friends or relatives on that train began to assemble at the station. There the scene was most heartrending. Women stood in the dense crowd and wrung their hands and wept while the men in their endeavor to learn the latest news beseiged the ticket and telegraph offices but were unable to learn the much sought for details. For almost five hours the grief-stricken people stood about the platform gazing anxiously down the track in search of approaching trains which would bring back the dead and injured. The scene was most pathetic and the wails of the women and men could be distinctly heard on the street.

When the morgue train arrived at the station the ambulance was backed up to the curbing, a cordon of police and depot men was formed and the dead bodies were hurried into the vehicle and were taken to the morgue on West Second street where many anxious people were waiting to hear the worst.

One of the first of the bodies to be recognized at the morgue was that of Roland Chandor. Some of the other bodies were identified by cards and papers in the pockets of the victims.

The crowd about the morgue was almost as dense as that at the station. Some were clamoring for admittance through morbid curiosity while others anxiously waited without with bated breath for news from within, trembling lest those who were identified were friends or relatives.

At The Daily Press office the crowd was quite as large. Crowds blockaded the sidewalk and filled the reportorial rooms where the full list of those who

DEPT'S WORTH YOUR ATTENTION THIS WEEK.

WHITE GOODS, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, MUSLIN WEAR, HOUSEKEEPING LINENS, CLOAKS AND SUITS.

This is the last week before closing our inventory for the year and odd lots of goods will be on sale in many departments. Next week we open our New Year and NEW GOODS in many departments.

See the Saturday Specials at the Store this week.

Corset Department.

The head of our Corset Department having made a careful study of forms, etc., is able to fit any figure with a corset which is sure to be satisfactory. Our stock is large enough to fit any usual form and we gladly have special corsets made for any one who cannot be fitted with a regular form.

Laces and Embroideries.

Already the Spring laces and embroideries adorn the center aisle of our store.

The advance in French styles indicate that more embroidery than ever before will be used the coming season. Many waists are practically covered with it. We can safely say that our showing this year is far greater than any other in the city.

Cloaks and Suits.

We still have a few very desirable skirts, coats and suits at practically your own price. No reasonable offer refused. This is an exceptional chance and has been greatly appreciated by all who have looked at the stock. Do not wait until there are only a few odd garments left.

No Time Like The Present.

Spring Styles.

Although we have not yet had our formal Spring Opening, still we are now showing a fine assortment of 1903 Ginghams, Madras, White Goods, etc. The Corded Madras and Silk Stripe Ginghams are exceptionally fine this year, both in quality and patterns. Also in White and Black and White Pique and Basket Weave we are showing an exquisite line. Never before have the White Goods taken such an active part in the early spring trade as they do this year.

We are still offering some good bargains in

as we wish to close out our entire stock by the end of January.

Carpets.

It will soon be time to buy Carpets. Before deciding come in and look over our stock and prices. The department has been moved to the first floor, making it convenient to all who come in the store.

HOUSEFURNISHINGS

Now has enlarged quarters, the entire basement being devoted to useful Household Goods. You will hear from this department in many ways profitable to the retail buyer during the early part of our year.

IS GOOD INDIAN NOW.

Love Led Allen Walking Shield to the Gallows.

Hanged for Murder of His Sweetheart's Old Mother—Three Years at Carlisle Changed the Girl's Sentiments.

Allen Walking Shield, a full-blooded Sioux Indian, was hanged at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, the other day because the white man's civilization estranged his sweetheart, and because his attempt to elope with her ended neither his way nor her mother's.

Walking Shield wore till his death long, native hair and wrapped a gaudy vermilion blanket about him when he slept in his tepee; so he didn't understand why Mabel Ghost-Faced Bear wore strange clothes when she came back from Carlisle Indian school, and why she looked over his head when he sought to claim her. But he tried the white man's way—went at dead of night to get her and carry her away into the Bad Lands. But it went wrong, for her mamma, Mary Ghost-Faced Bear, intercepted him and he shot her, and now is dead that his sweetheart might have retribution.

Ten or 12 years ago, when Walking Shield was but a reckless, stalwart boy, the Indian maiden admired his prowess and the two became friends. Walking Shield's native restlessness found vent when he robbed the store of Sylvan Winter, the post trader at Ewer Brule agency. With tools passed to him by the Indian girl, he sawed his way from the jail. He ran to safety amid the bullets of the guards, jumping from side to side in zigzag fashion as an Indian does when trying to avoid the marksman's aim.

Walking Shield was now a hero among the Indians, and the officers did not rearrest him, fearing an uprising. Six years ago he and his brother were put in the Deadwood jail for stealing cattle. His brother committed suicide, and one night Walking Shield struck out for the foot hills, and was not recaptured.

"BUT WHAT WAS THAT NOISE?"

While these adventures injured his social standing among the Sioux in no way nor the affection of the girl for him, they were not pleasing to Mrs. Ghost-Faced Bear. Mabel was told in the "ki-vi talk" never to see her lover again. Red blood runs under red skin as well as white, and Mabel Ghost-Faced Bear whispered to Allen Walking Shield she would go with him to some far hunting ground. Walking Shield rode to the cabin lodge one night, but Mrs. Mary Ghost-Faced Bear expected him and the girl was locked in her room.

The next day Mabel was taken to the agency and the outgoing stage carried her away to the Carlisle Indian school. It was three years after when she came back. She was a different girl. Half-civilized now, she shuddered at Walking Shield's deviltry. She would have none of him. Walking Shield went to his tepee and smoked long at a pipe of kinnikinick. It was Mrs. Ghost-Faced Bear who kept the girl from him. Mrs. Ghost-Faced Bear must be pushed away. He decided to wait.

The night of May 8 last the skies were black with tumbling clouds. The gurglings of the approaching storm drove the red men to their tents. But Walking Shield did not sleep. At midnight he saddled his broncho and rode away to the cabin lodge of Mary Ghost-Faced Bear. In front of her door he stopped. The lightning's flashes and the expostulations of the thunder excited his petulant blood and he was soon half crazed. Suddenly he lifted his Winchester to his shoulder and fired through the door.

There was a startled cry within, and a moment later the Indian saw in a flash of yellow light the woman's face at the door. She swung it shut, bolted it and hurried away. Walking Shield fired through the back window and the woman fell dead.

A moment later Walking Shield was rousing the girl he sought. "Somebody shot at me as I passed the tepee," he panted. "Your mother has gone for the police."

"But what was that noise?" asked the girl, as she passed her mother, gasping on the floor.

"It's nothing; just the spitting of the lightning," he urged, as he stepped outside and closed the door.

"I won't go. I want to know who shot," demanded the girl.

For answer the powerful Indian clutched her about the waist, lifted her to the pony's back and rode away down the nearest gulch. But a week later he gave himself up.

FOR THE YOUNGER SET.

Pretty Gowns Both Expensive and Inexpensive.

The favorite material for young girls' dancing frocks is ring spotted net or point d'esprit, which seems to be getting cheaper and cheaper and is quite admirable on account of its fresh appearance combined with its durability. To be effective it must be made very full, and all white or all black is the best, although there are some very chic evening toilets of white or ecru colored net with rings of black chenille.

FRENCH GOWN.

The skirts may be gored around the hips and fall in full folds around the feet or tucked at the waist with a series of flounces from the knees downward. In either case the bodice corresponds.

Artificial flowers are worn in the evening, but they must be of the very best quality to look well. Roses and violets are perhaps the most popular. The most economical materials for dinner dresses are silks, satins and panne, for any one of these will outwear several others composed of light fabrics. Black is always smart, particularly when relieved by a good bertha and trimmings of lace. Girls look charming in black, provided they are not too thin, for black accentuates thinness. Pure white is also trying and requires a fresh, rosy complexion.

A gown of chiffon shirred in panels is the subject of the sketch. This effect is both chic and novel.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ELABORATE DRESS.

Quantities of Lace and Embroidery Are Necessities.

At one period lace coatees were only worn at teatime. Now we use them as additions to evening frocks and even day blouses.

One thing is certain—we cannot dress well without a good amount of lace and chiffon. Never was the latter more popular, and some of the most acceptable gifts for birthdays are those of real lace. The woman who has to content herself with imitation lace, however, need not despair, for the reproductions of the old patterns are delightful and in exactly the right shade.

Lace of a coarse make will be a prominent feature on spring millinery. Some lovely Paris picture hats are of white moire with a regular curtain of fine chantilly lace falling over a brim consisting of endless tuckings of cream chiffon and further adorned with one thick black ostrich plume.

The empire style with its long, straight lines, gives height to the wearer, but should never be selected when there is any tendency to embonpoint or if the figure is overfull or round.

A particularly handsome evening dress of spotted net and silk applique is the subject of the sketch.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FADS AND FASHIONS.

The Craze For Ornamentation—Evening Jewelry.

The craze for ornamentation of every description is getting daily more marked. A fancy for beautiful designs in precious stones is a very praiseworthy one, but if you would be well dressed avoid tawdry rubbish of every description.

Necklaces of jet are a fad with black gowns, and dog collars and pearls are considered very chic.

Solid ropes of pearls twisted together are used as girdles for priceless lace gowns by the favored few who can spend all they desire on dress.

The squirrel set—stole, hat and muff—though rather common, is undeniably smart and very becoming to a fresh young skin, though this fur should never be worn by a pale or fagged out woman.

GRAY SQUIRREL COAT.

Many hats still have most of their trimming on the underside of the brim, but milliners promise a complete change and predict the fall of the single drooping feather. In millinery decorations as well as in every other department of dress oddity is the keynote.

The illustration shows a fancy effect in squirrel fur. These coats are at present all the rage.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT IS WORN.

All White Not Always Suitable. Cheap Millinery.

The prices of good millinery are greatly reduced, and it is just the time to invest in an extra winter hat.

Fur toques are much more elaborate than of yore, the only simple shape being known as the "shah," in ermine, astrakhan, moleskin and mink, with its big brush in black and white. This is not a shape that suits every one.

White still continues to be very popular, but for out of door wear it is very trying, for the sunlight on white cloth is not apt to prove flattering to any but dazzling complexions.

At smart "at homes" and receptions, however, there is nothing so dainty as a white gown, provided it is toned down with mink or sable, and is in keeping with its surroundings. A smart gown recently seen at such a function was composed entirely of cream colored crochet lace over crepe de chine in a deep shade of ivory. The bodice seemed to be an inner blouse of accordion crepe de chine with a loose hanging bolero of the lace ornament with a wide waistband of cream panne. The only color introduced was a large bunch of parma violets.

The picture shows a smart costume which can be made up in any shade of cloth. The hat is especially good and the plaited skirt worthy of notice.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by LeShrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

The news of the Wall street boom came over the telephone to the newspaper office. Mr. Sharp, the acting editor of the Evening Record, was on the alert. In a fever of excitement he awaited the expected word from Mr. Chalmers or one of his assistants. The rival paper, the Evening Gazette, was out with an extra containing a rumor that the lost magnates had been located in South Africa. Mr. Sharp could stand it no longer. It was two o'clock and the market was soaring, but Wall street was as mystified as ever. For a week Sharp had held in type the most startling headlines ever designed in the office. He had been advised that the "Helen Carmody" had sailed from Havana and he knew her destination. It was the day for news from the abducted men. Sharp decided to "take a chance" The following was his first effort in headlines, which covered the front page, and crowded the title of the paper into small type in the upper left-hand corner:

THE EVENING RECORD.
New York, May 24.

RESCUED BY THE RECORD!!!

The New York Record Accomplishes the Greatest Achievement in the History of Journalism!!!

RESCUES THE MISSING MILLIONAIRES!!!

Palmer J. Morton, John M. Rockwell, Andrus Carmody, R. J. Kent, Simon Pence and Hiram Haven

Rescued from the Mexican Coast by an Expedition Fitted out by the New York Record!!!

Wall Street in a Flurry of Excitement!

The brief article which followed contained no information not stated in the headlines, and there was no date line at the head of it. Mr. Sharp was busy preparing a second and more circumstantial announcement when a telegram was received from Mr. Chalmers. A few minutes later the second Record extra was on the street. It read:

"Vera Cruz, Mexico, May 16.—The expedition in charge of William Chalmers, managing editor of the New York Record, has effected the rescue of Palmer J. Morton, John M. Rockwell, Andrus Carmody, R. J. Kent, Simon Pence, Hiram Haven, Sidney Hammond and L. Sylvester Vincent. The kidnapping of these distinguished financiers is the most sensational crime in history. On the evening of May 1, seven of these men were lured on board the steam yacht 'Shark,' owned by Walter B. Hestor, the famous amateur newspaper correspondent. Hestor planned the crime and executed it with the cunning of a maniac. He invited Messrs. Morton, Kent, Rockwell, Carmody, Haven and Pence to join him at a dinner on board the 'Shark,' at which time an important business matter was to be discussed. Mr. Sidney Hammond was invited as legal counsel for Mr. Hestor. L. Sylvester Vincent was present to discuss another business matter with Mr. Carmody. Once out in the Atlantic, Hestor refused to return his guests to New York. He permitted them to send ashore the letters which were received by their relations, and then steamed south. He landed them on the coast of Mexico—on the sixth day—at a point south of Vera Cruz, on a spot which he stated was an island. Here Hestor had fitted up a bungalow on the edge of a lake, connected by a narrow inlet to the Gulf of Mexico. That night Hestor sailed away in the 'Shark.'

"By indefatigable effort, the New York Record traced this crime to Walter B. Hestor. Its detective force, under the charge of John Stevens, located the bungalow. Special credit is due to Bernard Seymour, the famous detective reporter of Chicago, who, by skill and strategy, which will be explained later, found the contractor who built the bungalow—Col. John McIntyre, of Havana. On Tuesday, May 16, Miss Helen Carmody, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Andrus Carmody, placed the steam yacht which bears her name at the disposal of the Record, and in company with her aunt, Mrs. Isabel White, sailed for Havana. William Chalmers, managing editor of the Record, was in charge of the expedition. At Havana, Bernard Seymour, John Stevens and Col. McIntyre were taken on board and the yacht proceeded to Vera Cruz. In the meantime the marooned men had not been idle. They had constructed a seaworthy boat and were out in the gulf, about 30 miles northeast of Vera Cruz, where they were picked up by the "Helen Carmody" and taken to Vera Cruz. They are in splendid health, and their sufferings have been mental rather than physical. They will leave to-night on the yacht for New Orleans, and from thence to New York by special train. The following signed statement is forwarded by request of the rescued men:

"To All Whom It May Concern: We desire to announce our safe return to civilization, in good health and spirits. We are mindful of the mercies of an all-wise Providence, who has watched over and brought us through many perils and difficulties. We take this opportunity to publicly acknowledge our thanks for the splendid services rendered in our behalf by the New York Record, to whose executive ability and foresight is due our rescue from the dangers of the sea, and our safe return to shore. Our gratitude is especially due to William Chalmers, Bernard Seymour and John Stevens. In our opinion, this forced detention was the act of an irresponsible individual and not a conspiracy for any rational purpose. Signed)

ANDRUS CARMODY,
PALMER J. MORTON,
JOHN M. ROCKWELL,
HIRAM HAVEN,
SIMON PENCE,
R. J. KENT,
SIDNEY HAMMOND,
L. SYLVESTER VINCENT.

'Vera Cruz, May 24.'"

Late that memorable Wednesday night, the staunch steam yacht "Helen Carmody" left the lights of Vera Cruz twinkling in the distance, and started on her 900 mile journey to New Orleans. All were fatigued from the excitement and toil of the day, and it was late on Thursday morning when they sat again around the breakfast table in the spacious dining cabin. It was a merry and a contented party. There were 14 around the board—just enough to escape the fatal 13—but Bernard Seymour, being superstitious, counted three times before he was satisfied. Miss Helen Carmody presided as hostess. Never did she look more charming.

Simon Pence came in for much raillery about his gold idols and images. There were many inquiries about "Socks," the monkey.

"There is no chance for you and Vincent to escape that freight bill now," said Mr. Kent. "Here are your idols on Mr. Carmody's yacht. He can impose an extra charge if he chooses."

"No, I will be liberal," said Mr. Carmody. "When we get to New York we will appraise their value, and Mr. Pence can draw his check for one-third of it. Then he and Vincent can make an equitable division and I will do the same."

Mr. Vincent consented with promptness to this arrangement. Mr. Pence sighed and said he would stand to his agreement. The gold appraised about $370,000, and Mr. Pence gave Mr Carmody his check for $123,500. By general agreement this was deposited to Mr. Vincent's credit, making his total share in excess of $227,000. He disposed of many of the idols as curios, and finally found himself in possession of a fortune of $250,000.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires; we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make applications. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

THE CODE OF HONOR.

A New Point to Be Decided by the French Courts.

Latest Parisian Romance Involves Question of Lover's Resentment and Rights Under the "Unwritten Law."

Here is the latest Parisian romance. The characters are:

Lucien David, a well-to-do Parisian.

Mme. David, his wife, who is 35 and the mother of three children, one of them 17.

Jean Syndon, a painter of promise, whose pictures have been praised by Bonnat, Jules Lefebvre and M. Sedelmeyer, the art dealer, and who had been giving drawing lessons to the Davids' 14-year-old daughter. He is 30.

The story opens with M. and Mme. David walking near Etretat, where they were spending the summer. Up to them comes Syndon and kills M. David with a revolver.

Then the question of his motive came up. Everybody concerned in the case seems to have talked. Syndon's janitress talked.

"He is such a nice young man," she said. "He would be all right if it were not for that veiled woman who called to see him every day. She stopped coming here six weeks ago. After that a letter in a feminine handwriting arrived for him every day."

It was just six weeks before that that the Davids went to the country. Syndon's chum talked.

"Last Thursday (three days before the murder) Syndon rushed into the studio out of breath and, exhibiting the keenest emotion," he said:

"'Do you know what he has just done?' he asked. 'He has broken his cane upon my back.'

"'But who?' I asked.

"'M. David, the husband of the woman I love.'

"'And what did you do? You struck back, I hope?'

"'But, no. I could hardly strike

SYNDON SHOT M. DAVID.

the husband of the woman I regard as my wife.'

"'But,' said I, 'you cannot submit to this affront. You will send your seconds to M. David and I hope that you love me enough to count upon me.'

"'No,' he replied, 'I cannot challenge M. David to a duel, but I will telegraph at once to Mme. David to come and elope with me.'

"That evening I saw Syndon again. He was completely downcast.

"'I have just received an answer to my dispatch,' he said. 'She refuses to come and asks for explanations.'

"I tried to demonstrate to him that Mme. David in refusing to elope did nothing but what was natural.

"'I could understand,' I said, 'that the wife might leave her husband, but how could you conceive of a mother who would leave her children?'"

This reasoning failed, as the sequel showed, to convince Syndon. He went to Etretat and killed M. David. He also talked. He told of his relations with Mme. David. Being informed that the family attributed the murder to a quarrel arising over his conduct to the Davids' daughter he said:

"Then that version must be accepted as the true one. It is not for me to be the first to speak. I shall observe all the reserve of a gallant man."

He has nevertheless hired a lawyer famed for eloquence, and the lawyer expects to get him off.

"When he killed M. David," said the lawyer, "the latter had spit in his face and was raising his cane. Note that all the numerous love letters received by Syndon were burned before he started for Etretat from Paris. He cannot, therefore, be reproached with having prepared his defense beforehand; but we do not lack proofs on the state of things that existed."

Mme. David had not said much, except to moan, while throwing herself on her husband's grave, that she would like to kill herself.

The trial is expected to be of especial interest, as it will bring up a new point regarding the "unwritten law," namely, if the husband canes and spits in the face of the lover is the lover justified in killing him?

Killed by a Housefly.

A common house fly bit the thumb of George Lendhurst, aged 56, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and caused his death. His hand and arm swelled, and in a short time his body was twice its natural size, from blood poisoning.

were reported injured and dead was kept. The telephone was kept busy answering the calls of anxious parents and families until early this morning. Many persons rushed in and scanned the sheet and then went away to identify their dead at the morgue or to seek the injured at Muhlenberg Hospital.

A full corps of operators were kept on a continual jump at the telephone and telegraph offices. Anxious friends called up the railroad officials and the telegraph office at the depot while others inquired of friends if they had heard any of the latest details.

About the streets of the town every thing was like the silence of the night. Quietness reigned throughout the city and sorrow and anxiety hung over the town like a pall. Carriages rushed from place to place carrying injured occupants to their homes or to the hospital while the ambulance was driven back and forth from the morgue until all the dead and injured had been removed from the special train which went to the scene of the wreck with local physicians and returned with the handsomely finished cars converted into a receiving vault for the dead or a hospital for the injured.

At 12 o'clock, all the seven bodies, which had arrived at the morgue on the first train, had been identified and fears were quieted in the breasts of many an anxious mother or father, wife or husband. The relief was only temporary, however, for hardly had the last body been recognized before another special train arrived at the freight house bearing thirteen charred and utterly unrecognizable remains. So gruesome was the sight at the morgue that strong men had to turn their faces from the awful spectacle.

CLEARING UP THE WRECK

Physicians From Westfield and Plainfield Early on the Scene—Railroad Men There.

Westfield sent the first quota of physicians to the scene in Drs. Sinclair, Harrison, Cooper, Kinch, Havey and Tubbs. They worked like Trojans applying splints to broken limbs, binding up wounds and in several instances amputating legs that were hanging by shreds. About 8 o'clock they were joined by Drs. Fritts, Carman, Buchanan and Endicott, of this city, who had been summoned by Claims Agent John K. Large, of the railroad. They were placed on the improvised hospital car and found plenty to do in attending those with severe cuts and minor wounds.

General Manager W. G. Besler, Assistant Train Master Charles English, Division Superintendent Huntington, Chief of Detectives William Dougherty and many other railroad officials were early on the scene and directed all the labor connected with caring of the injured, removing the dead and opening the line to traffic.

The latter was a different task from the fact that the men had not only the engine and remains of the cars to get out of the way, but two of the tracks were damaged for nearly three hundred feet. Two wrecking crews were pressed into service, the first coming from Elizabethport at 8:30 and the second from Philadelphia three hours later. Both had steam derricks but it was 1:15 this morning before the first passenger train was able to get through on the west bound freight track. The others were not placed in repair until late today. All the woodwork found in the vicinity was placed in huge piles and burned.

IDENTIFICATION OF THE DEAD

How the Bodies Taken to the Morgue Were Recognized by Families and Friends.

George Cole's undertaking parlors were converted into a morgue last night and all the dead who have been recovered from the wreckage were removed there. As fast as they arrived the bodies were prepared for burial and laid on slabs in the cold room of that establishment where they were identified. Some were so badly distorted by fire and injury that at an early hour this morning there still remains ten bodies which had not yet been recognized.

The bodies of Edgar W. Williams, Harvey Patterson, George Reed, Roland Chandor, Thomas A. Cuming, C. T. Thayer and W. E. Davis were easily recognizable but those of Craig Waldron and H. W. Tomlinson were recognized by their friends by marks on their clothing and other articles on their person.

Mrs. Waldron and L. W. Randolph were enabled to recognize the remains of Craig Waldron by his false teeth and by the figures "31X" on his cuff. These were the only marks of identification.

Roundsman John Flynn recognized the remains of his brother, Edward, charred as they were, by his gloves which he purchased at a local store.

The body of H. W. Tomlinson was a mass of charred flesh and broken bones. It was only by means of an intact commutation ticket in his pocket that Dr. Tomlinson was enabled to identify the remains of his nephew.

The other bodies are entirely without marks of identification except that a woman who may be identified by her dress, part of which still remains; and a man who still has a part of his watch chain attached to a button hole in his vest.

One body was found on the top of the engine crushed. The features are also burned beyond recognition.

PATIENTS AT THE HOSPITAL

Muhlenberg Hospital's Facilities Taxed to Uttermost—Official Bulletin.

Not since the fatal Lehigh Valley wreck at West Dunellen has Muhlenberg Hospital been called upon to furnish cots for so many injured at short notice, but despite all conditions the institution met the emergency.

Superintendent Venner was informed of the wreck at 7 o'clock and within a few minutes had the entire day and night forces of nurses on hand and beds, bandages, splints and all accessories prepared. The nurses remained on duty all night as did Drs. Endicott, Carman, E. W. Hedges, E. W. and B. VanD. Hedges, Pittis, Murray, Probasco, VanHorn, Tomlinson, Long, Boone, Clawson, Buchanan, Cregar and Dundon. Drs. Endicott, Fritts, Pittis, Clawson, Tomlinson, Buchanan and Long were also in attendance at the scene of the wreck.

The following official bulletin was issued by the physicians at Muhlenberg Hospital at noon today, giving a complete list and the condition of the patients at the institution:

McCarthy, Samuel; aged twenty-six, residence 2930 Ogden street, Philadelphia: fireman of Express train, general burns, condition serious.

Balch, Mrs. Madeline; aged thirty-one, Watchung avenue, Plainfield; fracture of right leg at the middle; wounds over the body, condition not serious.

Quereau, Augustin; aged twenty-eight, general contusions, condition good.

George, Howard A., aged twenty; cut on thigh, large scalp wound, compound fracture of right leg; operated upon and doing good.

Clarke, William V., aged twenty-eight; compound fracture right leg, simple fracture left thigh, scalds over entire body; condition critical.

Kanen, Fred; aged twenty-three; contusions over back; condition good.

Apgar, Ray M., Dunellen; contusions left side jaw; incised wounds of scalp; doing well.

Reighton, J. Everitt; aged eighteen; left leg amputated, compound dislocation of right leg at ankle, severe scalds; too weak to be operated upon; will probably die.

Ising, P. M., Dunellen; general shock, lacerated wounds, over knee joint; condition good.

Fredericks, Wilson; Dunellen; aged forty; general burns and scalds over body; doing well.

Davis, James H., aged thirty-four, 1555 Selter street, Philadelphia; engineer of Express train; fractured pelvis, large lacerated wound in right groin; condition critical, will probably die during the day.

Langworthy, C. R., aged fifty-two; compound fracture of right leg, cut under knee; operated on by Dr. Hedges and doing very well.

DISREGARDED THE SIGNAL

Statement Made by General Manager Besler Regarding Cause of Wreck.

The following statement was made by General Manager Besler to a Daily Press reporter last night: "In behalf of the management I would say we have the most perfect block signal system to be secured. That it was in working order when the wreck occurred is proven by the fact that it was still in working order immediately after the accident. It seems to be evident that the man must have disregarded the signal."

THEATRICAL.

"The Peddler" is the name of the new four act comedy drama to be seen at the Grand Opera House, New York, this week. It serves to introduce Joe Welch in a stellar capacity. This play was written by Hal Reid, the author of "Human Hearts" and other successful high priced attractions, and is said to be the best of the plays turned out by his fertile pen. The play is replete with scenes of pathos, as well as high-class comedy, which engage the auditor from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The scenery is by Harley Merry, and shows vivid representations of Herald Square, Pell street, and other well-known New York localities. The company supporting Mr. Welch have all been chosen for their especial fitness to portray the role assumed.

RESTOCKING OF STREAMS

BASS, PICKEREL AND PERCH BEING TAKEN FROM RARITAN CANAL.

Used to Restock Other Streams in the State—Need of Other Legislation.

Employes of the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners of New Jersey are at work in the Delaware and Raritan canal taking bass, pickerel and perch in order to restock the streams of this State. The work will be continued during the rest of this and next month. The experiment of bringing native fish from the Great Lakes has proved to be an unqualified success, say the commissioners.

Yet, withal, the demand for bass and pickerel is greater in all parts of the State than the supply. The bass and pickerel now being taken from the Delaware and Raritan canal will be put into streams where the supply of bait fish to supply the necessary food is excellent. The bait fish were put in last month.

This is regarded as the best time of the year to take the bass from the canal, for the reason that the fish spawn during the summer months.

The Fish and Game Commission has brought before the Legislature the subject of offering for sale pickerel of less than twelve inches in length. At the present writing there is nothing on the statute books regarding the size of pickerel. The commission believes this is wrong. It is pointed out that there is no authority to show that any pike or pickerel of six or seven inches in length is capable of producing its kind. The pike perch is similar in size and general appearance and habits, yet the legal limit of pike perch is twelve inches.

This year special efforts are to be made to elevate white perch fishing to its former high standard. The commission has been using all possible means to introduce these fish in waters deemed suitable to their growth and multiplication. As the Delaware river and its various tributary streams in the lower part of the State have, for over half a century, been noted for perch fishing, the commissioners have used their best efforts to enforce such restrictive laws as would tend to elevate white perch fishing to its former high standard.

There is no law at present placing a limit on the size of this valuable food fish, yet on account of the numerous well-founded complaints received from Barnagat Bay, as well as other waters where thousands of pounds of these fish are yearly caught, and where the fishermen themselves are the complainants, the commission recommends that a law be passed regulating the size of a white perch that is sold or offered for sale, or had in possession, to be not less than six inches in length. Hundreds of pounds of these fish are yearly shipped from this State that are less than five inches in length. Perch of this size do not spawn, and as the supply is not unlimited, the commissioners believe it imperative that proper protection should be afforded.

GONE OUT OF EXISTENCE

SEVERAL LOCAL CORPORATIONS HAVE LOST THEIR CHARTERS.

In Proclamation Issued by Governor Murphy for Failing to Pay State Tax.

A long list of corporations which have "failed, neglected or refused" to pay the State taxes assessed against them for the year 1900, under the laws of this State, have been published in a number of newspapers throughout the State and in the list appears a number of local concerns which have either failed or dropped out of existence.

C. Chapot & Sons' Chamois Leather and Glove Company; the Home Telephone Company, of New Brunswick; The Middlesex Zinc Mining Company; The New Brunswick Driving Association; The Plainfield Furniture Company; The Plainfield Poultry Farm Company; South Side Land and Improvement Company, of Westfield.

Some of these concerns have failed while others have simply dropped out of sight. One of these concerns, the C. Chapot & Sons, Chamois and Glove Company, which was the only company of its kind in this country, and which was located near the Pond Tool Works, burned down and the factory of the company was never rebuilt.

These firms and about a thousand others have forfeited their charters and are inoperative and void.

Small-pox has not yet appeared in Somerville but that town is preparing for it. With energy that is by no means characteristic of that place, Somerville is preparing to spend $1,000 for an isolation hospital for its small-pox patients when it gets any. As there are a few cases here, in New Brunswick and in South Bound Brook, there is reason to believe that the dread disease will find its way there before the winter is over.

LIKED HORSELESS APPARATUS

CHIEF DOANE WELL PLEASED WITH AUTOMOBILE HOSE WAGON.

He Believes That the City Could Save Money by Using One of Them.

Much talk has been going the rounds of late about the possibilities of the new automobile combination hose wagon and chemical engine recently given a trial run in Newark. Yesterday a reporter asked Chief T. O. Doane, of the city fire department, what he thought of the new horseless carriage fire fighting machine for use in this city.

He said that it would mean a saving of about $300 a year, if one was put in commission in this city. He spoke as being in favor of the machine which he saw on exhibition at the automobile show at New York recently. He said that its working qualities had been demonstrated beyond all doubt and that it was one of the most complete machines he had seen or had ever heard of. He has but one objection to it. That is that the fuel used is gasolene. This is liable to explode while filling it although there was no danger of its exploding when near heat as it is confined in a fireproof tank.

One of the most interesting tests for the machine is that tried when there was three feet of snow on the ground when the machine was sent out on a trial run and it made very good time. He said that there was very little likelihood of the machine coming here as has been announced as this city is not contemplating getting any more apparatus for the department just at present.

PLAINFIELD TO PUBLICLY MOURN LOSS TOMORROW

Engineer Davis, After Admitting His Responsibility for Wreck, Died at the Hospital This Morning.

IDENTIFICATION OF THE SEVERAL DEAD BODIES

Now that the identity of the victims of the Westfield disaster on the Jersey Central Railroad Tuesday night has been fixed and preparations are being made for the funerals, the Mayors of both city and borough have issued proclamations suggesting that tomorrow afternoon be observed as a time of public mourning for those who met death in the wreck. Engineer Davis died this morning but before he died he made a statement which fixes upon himself the blame for the accident. A formal investigation has been started by the county authorities and the engineer's statement will be made public when the coroner's jury convenes. Six of Plainfield's prominent citizens were sworn in as a jury late yesterday afternoon and will meet soon to listen to testimony.

Events are following each other with extreme rapidity. Last evening saw all but one of the bodies positively identified and the remaining one will probably be identified today. Several people are reported missing and it may be that some of the bodies were entirely consumed and will never be found. The shock of the awful disaster is still felt by the whole community. Talk of an indignation meeting, started by representative of sensational papers, has amounted to nothing. There has been, however, a wide spread feeling that the whole community should in some way how its sorrow at the great calamity and its sympathy with those in affliction. Participating in that feeling, Mayor Jenkins, of the city, and Mayor Smalley, of the borough, have both issued proclamations.

They are as follows:

Mayor's office,
Plainfield, January 29, 1903.

In view of the awful calamity that has befallen this city by reason of the accident on the Central Railroad on the 27th, inst., and the universal sorrow and sympathy with the afflicted, I respectfully suggest to our citizens that on Friday, tomorrow, between the hours of 2 and 4 p. m., being the time appointed for funeral services of several victims of the disaster, all places of business be closed as a further token of public respect to the memory of those who lost their lives, and of sympathy with their families and friends.

Olin L. Jenkins, Mayor.

To the people of the Borough of North Plainfield:

A disastrous wreck resulting in the death of a score of our citizens has brought affliction upon many families and sorrow to the general community. Bright lives were crushed out by the frightful occurrence and the two municipalities have been keenly shocked by the sudden blow. It is proper that we show respect for the dead and the families left by them. Therefore, I designate tomorrow, Friday, afternoon from 1 until 4, as a time to be set apart for this purpose. I respectfully suggest that all places of business be closed and that sessions in the public schools be suspended.

N. B. Smalley, Mayor.

STATEMENT OF MR. BESLER

His View of the Accident Justified by Statement Made by Dying Engineer.

William G. Besler, vice president and general manager of the Jersey Central Railroad, has been very courteous in his treatment of the newspaper men and has given out the facts discovered by the railroad officials as fast as they were known. In the statement he gave out last evening, he said:

"At the close of today's investigation I am prepared to state that the company is not to blame for this terrible affair. We had in use every appliance known to modern railroading to avert wrecks.

"Now that a day and a night has been devoted to probing this affair I am able to make positive and certain statement to the public," said Mr. Besler. "We intend to make known the truth. We are not making any excuses, for we have nothing to excuse.

"There could have been no slip in the signals. The block lights operate automatically. Should the slightest hitch occur at any time, a red light is automatically displayed to stop incoming trains. A train cannot pass a block light showing a wrong signal unless the engineer deliberately rushes by.

"My first act on getting to the scene of the wreck was to find out what Engineer Davis had to say for himself. From the conductor of the Philadelphia express, I learned that all Davis had said when he was picked up was 'I didn't see. I didn't see,' in a delirious mumble.

"What Davis had on his mind when he drove his train on into the second block, signalled as dangerous, we don't know. I learned this afternoon that a watchman named Varson, stationed at a grade crossing near Westfield, saw the train rushing ahead in spite of the signal to stop. Varson swung his red lantern until the train was almost upon him.

"Human fallibility, that one factor that cannot be eliminated, is to blame. Just why Davis became fallible at the crucial moment no one will be able to tell. With the Standard Code of signals in use on our road, which is the system adopted by the American Railway Association, it seems utterly inconsistent with human probability that such an accident could occur on that eight-mile stretch of straight track. There seems to be but one way to account for it. For some unexpected reason Engineer James Davis gave no heed to the block light, the lights swung by two crossing men and a brakeman sent back along the track from the stalled train, and even took no notice of the red lights on the rear of the train he crashed into.

"He ran a mile and a half beyond the green cautionary signal, which told him that the next block would display a danger or obstruction signal of red. His duty was to slow down when he saw the cautionary signal, prepare to stop at the next block, but he kept on going, and not only ran three-quarters of a mile beyond and into the next block, but continued at full speed a half mile beyond the red danger signal until he crashed into train No. 13, known as the Easton Express.

"In the case of Davis there must have been a temporary lapse of the faculties. An engineer of his experience and ability could not be ignorant of the signals. Even the newest man on the road would not pass a red light, the 'danger ahead' signal. Engineer Davis is not a new man or a substitute on that train. He has been an engineer for six years, is married and lives in Philadelphia. He was in the employ of the Philadelphia and Reading. His train was No. 621, one of the hourly flyers from Philadelphia, a Philadelphia and Reading train operated over the Jersey Central tracks. Davis had a splendid record as a sober, careful man at the throttle.

"How Davis came to drive his train by all these signals and in spite of every possible protection against disaster, crash his train into the Eastern Express, we are at a loss to explain.

"Davis's faculties could not have been impaired by overwork for the day's labor of an engineer between Philadelphia and Jersey City is only five hours. He was a regular engineer and, we have learned, did no other work that day beside his five-hour run. It is hardly possible that Davis could have been color blind. The Philadelphia and Reading Company examines its employes carefully from time to time as to troubles of the eye.

"I must give the lie to the reports that our cars contained coal stoves, which set the train on fire," said Mr. Besler. "All our cars are heated with Baker steam heaters, which are generally in use. The train caught fire from the smoke-box on the engine.

"There is absolutely nothing we have not given out, nothing that we wish to conceal," said Mr. Besler, in conclusion.

"We wish the truth to be known, even should it prove unpleasant to us."

To a Daily Press reporter, this morning, Mr. Besler said: "Engineer Davis made a statement yesterday which is now in the hands of County Physician Westcott and will not, I suppose, be made public until the coroner's inquest. I have been unable to get a copy of it yet. It completely justifies, however, what I said in my statement last evening. For a moment, he turned his attention to some minor thing. It was a fatal moment. As you said in the editorial in yesterday's Daily Press 'Somebody blundered.' That expresses it exactly."

DAVIS DIED THIS MORNING

Engineer of Philadelphia Express Died at Hospital Conscious to the Last.

At 7 o'clock this morning, or just thirty-six hours after he was taken from his wrecked cab, Engineer James Davis, of Philadelphia, died at Muhlenberg Hospital. He was conscious almost to the last and spoke at intervals to his brothers, Martin and John Davis and other members of his family who were at the side of his cot. His last words were, "Tell her (meaning his wife) my last thoughts were of her and kiss all the children for me."

Davis was forty years of age and leaves a widow and five children, the eldest ten years old. He had been in the employ of the P. and R. for many years, having worked his way up to express driver. His brother, John, is an engineer and is the man who caused the terrible wreck on the P. and R. road at Hatfield, Pa., in September, 1900, when twenty people were killed outright. Another brother, Martin, is a fireman on the same road and will be appointed engineer in the spring but his wife told a Press reporter, yesterday that he would not accept it and would probably quit railroading entirely.

Davis' body was sent to Philadelphia this morning and the funeral will be held from his late home, 1555 Selter street, Saturday.

Their Careers.

Of those who met death in that terrible disaster at Westfield, there was not one who did not make his or her home in or near Plainfield. The blow has fallen, therefore, with particular force on this community. Most of those who were thus so suddenly stricken were well-known in the city and borough and their death came as a great shock to a host of friends.

Roland Giles Chandor was the youngest son of Mrs. A. A. Chandor, of 202 East Ninth street. He was in his seventeenth year and had spent most of his life in this city where he was well known. He leaves a mother, three brothers and two sisters. He died instantly.

There was a bright future before Thomas A. Cuming when his career was so suddenly cut off. A native of Brooklyn, he came here in 1893 and entered the Plainfield High School graduating in 1898. He was interested in the bicycle business for several years and then went into real estate as the junior partner in the firm of LaRue & Cuming. The partnership was afterwards dissolved and Mr. Cuming had an office in Brooklyn. Of late he has been one of the trusted employes of George E. Hall and played an important part in the direction of the steam power concern of which Mr. Hall is the head. Mr. Cuming has played quite an important part in the Republican affairs in the Second ward. He was also an indefatigable worker in the Park Avenue Baptist church where he was clerk of the church and secretary of the Sunday-school. He was also president of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school Association. He leaves a wife and infant child.

Horace G. Hand started to come to Plainfield Tuesday evening at the particular request of his mother, wife of Justice Hezekiah Hand, of East Sixth street. It was only recently he married a young woman in Elizabeth and took up his residence there. He was twenty-eight years of age.

One of the brightest young men of the borough was Harold W. Tomlinson, of Verdon street. He was a contracting electrician in New York and was rapidly building up a profitable business. He was a trustee of the Congregational church and an energetic worker at that church. He came from an old Plainfield family. He leaves a wife and two children.

Charles E. Reed resided on Clinton avenue with his family. He was fifty years old. He was little known in Plainfield.

Harvey L. Patterson lived with his parents at West Dunellen and would have been twenty-eight years old next month. In honor of the event City Judge William N. Runyon and other intimate friends in this city had been making preparations to give him a birthday surprise party.

He was a bookkeeper for Sutphen & Meyer, a large glass manufacturing concern in New York, which position he had held for several years. He was very well known in this city especially in fraternal circles being a member of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., of which he was acting Chancellor Commander, Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., Wetumpkah Tribe of Red Men, and a Masonic lodge in New York.

The two former organizations will be in charge of the funeral services which will be held from his late residence, Sunday evening at o'clock. Interment will be made Monday at his former home in Rye, Westchester county, N. Y.

All doubt that Robert W. Happersett was numbered among the charred human trunks at the morgue was removed early yesterday afternoon, when the identification was made complete by F. C. Langhorne, his closest friend. A bunch of keys found in the shreds of clothing was taken to his home on Punam avenue and tried in the doors. Everyone fitted and a small piece of clothing clinging to them was declared to be a part of his attire.

Mr. Happersett was forty-eight years old and was assistant superintendent of Bradstreet's Commercial Agency with which he had been connected for thirty-one years. He had resided in this city fourteen years and lived with his mother and two sisters. He leaves a third sister and a brother.

Frederick Hardingham, who lost his life in the collision Tuesday, was the son of Walter R. H. Hardingham, a New York law reporter having his home on Dunellen avenue. He was twenty-four years of age, and was employed in B. Altman & Son's department store in New York as clerk. He leaves a father, mother, three brothers, Edward, Ivan and Enoch, and a sister, Grace. He was a member of Company K and played on the company football team. His death is mourned by his large circle of friends and by the company, in which he was highly popular.

Elias Giles, who was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Giles, of East Sixth street, had just turned twenty-one. He was employed by the New Jersey Central at its New York office. Like many other of the young victims he was well acquainted throughout the city and was held in high esteem. He was a member of Company K and at the minstrel performances of last week was chief usher.

Athletics were his principal form of amusement and he was prominent in all the contests at the Y. M. C. A. He was a member of its League basket ball team and was regarded as an expert player.

One of the youngest victims of the wreck was Harry Rogers, the twenty-year-old son of A. C. Rogers, of West Fifth street. He was employed as a clerk by the Towne Manufacturing and Novelty Company and was popular with his employers as he was with the young people of the city.

He was one of the charter members of the O Be Joyful Club since merged to the Criterion and was one of the promoters of the dance arranged to be given in the Casino this evening. Out of respect to his memory the affair has been indefinitely postponed and the members of the club will adopt suitable resolutions.

He was an only son but is survived by a sister, Miss Ethel Rogers. He was engaged to a Newark young woman and was to have been married within a short time.

Edward Flynn was the son of the late John Flynn and resided at 440 West Fourth street. He was twenty-five years old and until a short while ago was timekeeper at the Pond Tool Works. Of late he has been working in New York for H. B. Claflin & Company.

In every way he was a model young man and was liked by a large circle of acquaintances. He was a member of several organizations devoted to social pastime and innocent amusement. Roundsman John J. Flynn and Patrolman Charles Flynn were brothers and beside these he is survived by a mother and three sisters.

Miss Lera Linbarger, whose body was identified yesterday afternoon at the morgue as a victim of the collision, was the daughter of David Lee Linbarger, of Perth Amboy. Miss Linbarger leaves two brothers, Dr. Frank Linbarger, of Red Bank, and Clarence Linbarger, of Dunellen. The young woman's death was particularly sad in that she was to have married Dr. Hudson, of Newark, in the spring. Harvey Linbarger and Miss Grace Linbarger, of this city, are cousins of the deceased, who was well known to many in this city.

Charles T. Thayer, of Watchung avenue, who was one of the victims of the wreck, held the position of general superintendent of the New York division of the National Express Company. Up to two years ago Mr. Thayer occupied a position as agent for the United States Express Company in New York, of which Senator J. C. Platt is president. Mr. Thayer was a prominent man in the community and admired by his large circle of friends. He leaves three daughters, Elmer, Mildred and Hannah, and one son, Selden. He was fifty-two years of age.

John Curried was forty-five years old and lived with his mother and three sisters at Dunellen. He was a telegraph operator in the employ of the Central at Jersey City. He was well acquainted in Dunellen but very little known in this city.

The funeral is to be held from St. John's church, Dunellen, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and interment will be made in this city.

James H. Hallett, Jr., was identified, yesterday afternoon, by his father and brother by his gold filled teeth. He was twenty-four years old and was an engraver in the employ of the American Machinists Press.

He resided at New Market with his father, mother, brother and four sisters, all of whom are well-known in this city. He excelled at skating and hockey and had won matches all

WHAT CAME AFTER CRASH

David T. Kenney, of the borough, who was a passenger on the ill-fated train, relates the following in regard to the scene after the crash:

"Sitting with Arthur Cannon in the rear seat of the third car from the end after leaving Westfield, we moved one seat ahead. About one minute later a great impact was felt from the rear which brought every one to their feet, our car was tottering and it seemed as though it would go over but in a few more seconds was stopped and with the end smashed. All hands got out of the car very quickly. A great many went in a direction from the wreck. Mr. Cannon and I rushed back to the rear.

"It was an awful sight. I saw one man lying in the middle of the tracks with both legs off below the knee. With some other helping hands we carried him up on the bank. At the same time others were being extracted from the cars telescoped. During all the time I do not recall hearing a single groan. Cushions were taken from the cars to make the dying and wounded as comfortable as possible.

"F. S. Martin, of Hillside avenue, came with some stimulants and water for those in need. Arthur Cannon ran all the way to Westfield to get stimulants and returned remarkably quick and distributed.

"The first face of one wounded I recognized was Mr. Thayer. Assisted by Roger F. Murray and some others he was carried away from the now burning wreck. I asked Mr. Thayer if he knew me but he did not speak.

"Among the heroes was Will O'Keefe who was seated with Edward Flynn in the rear smoker which was completely shattered. His escape from death was miraculous. Though badly bruised about the head and legs he told those who offered assistance to help the others and see where his friend, poor Flynn was.

"The trainmen did their best. One of them went into the far end of the telescoped car among the tangled iron work and extricated, I think the last one from the wreck to be taken out alive, for at that time the wreck was in flames. On the banks on both sides women from houses in the neighborhood were weeping and lamenting for the misfortunes of the dying and wounded and their friends. It was not known by the spectators looking at the burning wreck that so many bodies were still in the tangled mass about the engine.

"This is the fourth train accident I have been with since the first of January, one being on the Sante Fe California Limited; one on the Pennsylvania between Columbus, Ohio, and Chicago, and one on the B. & O., near Wheeling, West Va."

George Daniels, of West Second street, has returned from a stay with friends at Caldwell.

SCENE IN THE SECOND CAR

George Force Tells of His Experience at Westfield Disaster.

Another Plainfield commuter who was enabled to furnish a clear description of the terrible scenes is George Force, of East Front street. When interviewed by a Press reporter, yesterday, he said:

"I occupied a seat in the car in front of the smoker on the left hand side next the window, Geo. Creveling sitting with me. The seat opposite on the right hand side occupied by Mr. Lines and daughter; in the seat in front of them were Miss Cutter and Miss Pangborn. After leaving Westfield Creveling spoke about the train not switching as usual, and hearing a train approaching I seemed to be under the impression that everything was not all right when there came a heavy crash and I was thrown violently forward and everything became black, at the same time came the crashing of glass, the splintering of wood and the awful grinding of the huge locomotive as it plunged through the rear car and wrought its terrible destruction. During this time our car turned over on the side, the side on which I was, throwing me violently against the window, the people on the side of the car and the seat cushions following on top of me, the locomotive still grinding a few feet behind us, the wheels seeming to revolve several times, and I had given myself up expecting to be ground to pieces. All was darkness except the engine which seemed too horrible to look at and, from which it was impossible to get

"The car was now on fire and it looked as though we might better have been killed outright. Creveling pulled my arm and said, 'come on,' but I was pinned down and could not get out. After frantic endeavors I managed to extract myself and give some one else a lift, but it was so dark I could not see and I went on falling and crawling to the other end of the car. I then saw Creveling again. We both went back into the car and helped Miss Cutter out. I was not in condition to do much now and was taken to Westfield, being badly bruised all over the body and bleeding from the head and by this time weak and stiff."

Everything Was Cleaned Up Before Crowds Reached the Scene Yesterday Morning.

Commuters who left this city yesterday morning on an early train expecting to get a view of the wreck were disappointed because the only evidence of the frightful accident of the night before had been swept away and nothing marked the spot but a few insignificant smoldering fires scattered along the railroad tracks. Hardly a scrap of woodwork remained and the rails which had been torn up for many yards were relaid and all four tracks were in use.

At the North Avenue station when the commuters gathered to catch their trains a general change had come over the men who missed some of their commuter companions with whom they have traveled back and forth for years. The spirit of gayety was missing. Not even stocks and bonds were discussed. The one topic of conversation was the wreck and its awful consequences. As the men took their accustomed seats they seemed buried in the news of the awful catastrophe but they were really hiding a silent tear for some friend who had been killed on that road the night before.

GEORGE P. MELLICK TELLS OF GREAT WORK DONE THERE.

Wonderfully Impressed by Energy and Promptness in Caring for the Injured.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Although not associated with the management of the Muhlenberg Hospital, it was my privilege to spend a few hours there on Tuesday evening in the midst of the distressing activity incidental to the reception and the care of the many injured in the disasterous railway wreck. I am deeply impressed with the efficient manner in which each person performed his or her particular duty in the sudden demands for the immediate relief of the many sufferers; the doctors of our city with their able assistants all so solicitous and tender in the way in which they hnadled and cared for the bruised bodies—the gentle yet businesslike way in which the nurses rendered their part of the work—the activity and judgment displayed by certain of the Governors of the hospital who were there to do their part of the administrative work, caused me to appreciate how proud the city of Plainfield should be in supporting a charity so noble and beautiful as is the work done by this hospital.

At this time those who are regular contributors to its support, and those who have subscribed to the new building project—the need of which is so prominently in the minds of the management of the hospital at this time—may indeed be glad that their names are on the list to help in this good work. It should certainly awaken in the hearts of those persons who have not yet given financial aid toward the creation of the new hospital, a feeling of responsibility, which from now on can not be ignored. Muhlenberg Hospital should never be in need of support. Those who are laboring so industriously, so faithfully towards the creation of the new hospital should certainly see their labor rewarded by generous response on the part of the public to give such money as is needed to complete the work.

May our present sadness result in a greater determination on the part of the people of our city, to open their hearts and check books at this time and let flow into the building fund of the new hospital, a sum of money sufficient to make the task of the completion of the work, easy to those who are carrying the burden, and so remove all difficulties incidental to the carrying out of the plans.

George P. Mellick.

MURRAY'S STORY OF ACCIDENT

Former Assemblyman Was Present and Had Narrow Escape at Wreck.

In describing the accident at Westfield, Former Assemblyman Roger F. Murray, of this city, declared that no words could picture the awful moments following the collision.

"I was on the Plainfield train," said he, "and never can I blot from my mind the catastrophe. I clung to the back of my seat and noticing others attempting to get up shouted that safety demanded them to hold fast. Up and up I went as the car rose and the experience was dreadful. That fire in the coaches was never started from the engine. It was due to the stoves. Stoves in coaches are clearly unlawful; there can be no question about that." Mr. Murray escaped without a scratch.

MUST REPLY.

Otherwise Proposed Series of Concerts by Philharmonic Club Will be Given Up.

The lovers of good music in this city have again been offered an opportunity to enjoy hearing the New York Philharmonic Club and artists of well-known reputation.

Those who have availed themselves of the opportunity to subscribe for tickets are looking forward to the consummation of the enterprise. There are, however, many persons who have had the opportunity to subscribe who have not replied to the printed notices and may not realize that the success of the affair depends upon their interest and subscription without which the concerts must fail.

This is a contingent proposition in support of which not two thirds enough subscriptions have as yet been received. Reply postals are still in the hands of some three hundred persons, and unless a goodly number of these are received within a few days the effort must be abandoned.

Lunch-Box Social.

A lunch-box social was held last evening at Bethel chapel under the auspices of the Young People's Society of that chapel. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing games and in listening to musical selections. Refreshments were served in lunch baskets, each young woman selecting a partner with whom to eat lunch by the color of the string on the package.

Extensively Advertised at 3.50 and 4.00.

WALK-OVER SHOES are probably as well known as any make selling for the same money. Many points of excellence are claimed for them, and although we consider our regular lines at those prices in many ways superior, there is no question about them being great bargains at one-third off and nearly one-half regular prices. Just 600 pairs in this lot, secured at a low figure because of small mishaps in making that detract nothing from their real worth or wearing quality. Mostly patent calf—lacing styles. DAILY PRESS HAD THE NEWS

Its Story of the Westfield Disaster Was in Very Great Demand Yesterday.

A REMARKABLE SALE

Four Thousand Extra Copies Had to be Printed to Supply the Demand—The Daily Press Was Enabled to Give the Public the True Facts of Accident.

So eager were the people for reliable news of the accident that the early morning New York papers hawked about the streets by small boys met with a ready sale. The Daily Press had a bulletin service for the benefit of the people and all during the morning the street and sidewalk in front of the office was blockaded by anxious watches.

Each new name placed upon the death roll was read with eager interest and as the list of injured grew to much larger proportions than it was at first thought it would reach, the anxiety for friends and relatives increased.

The accounts of the collision found in the New York papers were unsatisfactory at best, and when it became known that a special early edition of The Daily Press was to be issued the crowd in front of the office rapidly increased.

At 12 o'clock the presses in the basement began to roll out the sheets of information and for fully an hour the people struggled to purchase papers. As soon as a dozen papers would be printed they would be rushed to the office where they seemed to disappear like butter on a heated stove.

One thousand extra copies were printed besides the regular edition and at 1 o'clock this complete edition was sold out and two thousand half sheets containing nothing but the news of the wreck were printed. By 3 o'clock this extra number had been sold out and another thousand additional copies were run off.

The full and conservative report of the great wreck which appeared in The Daily Press was commented upon by many prominent people yesterday afternoon. The account was given strictly according to the facts as they existed and nothing of an attempt at elaboration was attempted and many of the harrowing incidents of the accident were entirely eliminated, thus giving the people of Plainfield a clean and accurate report of the accident.

TO INVESTIGATE THE CAUSE

Coroners' Jury Empanelled to Look Into Cause of Death of Victims.

The first steps taken by the county authorities towards ascertaining the cause of the death of the score of passengers of the ill fated train was when Coroner Bunting, of Elizabeth, empaneled a jury for the purpose of holding an inquest over the bodies of the victims who lost their lives in the fearful wreck. The inquest will be held over the remains of John Currid, of Dunellen, who was one of the last identified at Cole's untertakirg parlor, early last evening. His identification was established by means of a card found in his clothing.

The jury, impaneled by the coroner, comprised some of the most prominent citizens of this city. They are: Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, City Treasurer William F. Arnold, President of the Common Council John F. Buckle, John J. Kenney, Floyd T. Woodhull, and Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett. The jury was sworn in at 5:30 yesterday afternoon. Dr. F. C. Westcott, of Fanwood, who is the county physician, was also present when the jury was empaneled.

After the jury had been sworn in they viewed the remains and then adjourned until a later date in order to procure witnesses.

The jury selected the remains of Currid as being the only one over which to hold the inquest as all the other deaths would necessarily be caused by the same accident.

The Old Story.

The publication of the annual statement of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, of Newark, New Jersey, is always awaited with interest by its policy holders, and the fifty-eighth annual statement, published in another column of this paper, tells the usual story.

Mr. Martin Warned Them.

An error was made in yesterday's report concerning the warning of the passengers in the rear coach of the train. It was F. S. Martin, of Hillside avenue, who warned the passengers.

Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 29, 1903.

TO A CITY, IN HER SORROW.

I saw the women standing in the rain
There at the railway station; and the night
Was bringing home the wounded and the dead.
For you remember, late last night it rained;
It rained upon the faces of the dead,
It rained upon the living faces here,
The women's waiting faces, in fresh tears.
And we were dumb together, all we men.
For we go forth each morning to the east,
To where the wide blue river meets the sea,
And monumental towers touch the sky.
And in that greater city than our own,
We labor for the homes we call our own;
We labor for one woman, and for those
Who run to call us "Father" when we come
Home at the close of day. But ah! last night
These were our brothers . . . they were nearing home,
When suddenly, without a warning, God
Came in a pillar of fire in the night,
And as He found them, to the last long home
He took them. And their last day's work is done,
And nevermore shall they be weary now
Who sleep tonight the unawakening sleep.

I think I see the little children stand
Beside the window waiting. And papa
Is longer coming home to them tonight.
God keep the little children, when they know!
God help the woman, left to fight alone
The battle for the children of them both!
And may His guardian angel bend and brood
Above them, and with wide white cradling wing
Encompass them, and keep forever safe
The mother and the children fatherless.

We somehow seem survivors, you and I,
Spared in the great affliction still to do
A greater work for God than we have done—
Whatever you and I take God to mean.
We who might well have been of them that died
Or, maimed and in their malformation, live,
God must have meant that we should be alive
More than to bury and bewail the dead,
More than to nurse the living back to life!
We love not less, nor the less greatly grieve
When, greatly grieving, we arise and go
Along their shining track to follow them
To their abiding city in the stars.

—Fullerton L. Waldo.

over the State. He was a crack player on Company K's football team. He resided a short distance from Harvey Patterson and was one of his chums. Up to a few months ago he commuted over the Lehigh Valley road but a change in its time table made it easier for him to walk to Dunellen and take the Central.

The funeral of James Hallet, Jr., of New Market, will be held from the residence of his parents, tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock.

The funeral of Roland Chandor will be held from the home of his mother, Mrs. A. A. Chandor, of East Ninth street, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Interment will be at Hillside.

The funeral of the late Harold W. Tomlinson will be held from his late residence, 8 Verdon street, Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Edgar W. Williams will be held from his late residence, 314 East Sixth street, Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the funeral services over the remains of the late Craig Waldron, will be held from his late residence at 237 East Fifth street.

The funeral of the late Fred. A. Smith will be at his late residence 316 East Seventh street this evening at 8 o'clock.

Services over the remains of the late Frederick J. Hardingham will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at his late residence, 1027 Dunellen avenue.

The funeral of the late Charles T. Thayer will be held from his late residence, 904 Watchung avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 1:30.

Services over the remains of the late Harry A. Rogers will be held from the residence of his parents, 431 West Eighth street, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

Funeral services over the remains of Edward Flynn will be held from his late home, tomorrow morning at 9:30 and from St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Thomas Cuming's funeral services will be held from his late residence, Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock and from the Park Avenue Baptist church, at 1:30. Interment will be made at Stelton.

Edgar W. Williams was thirty-three years old and lived with his wife at 417 East Sixth street. His parents live at 1418 Sixth street, North-west, Washington, D. C.

He was a graduate of the Washington High School, of Columbia University and the National University of Law. He practiced in New York. He went to Porto Rico as secretary to Dr. H. K. Carroll, U. S. Commissioner to Porto Rico. A year ago he married Miss Grace Petrie, of East Sixth street.

Death of A. H. Smalley.

Alfred H. Smalley, well-known to Plainfielders through his proprietorship of the Mountaain House, Minnewaska, N. Y., died at Redlands, Cal., Sunday. From fifty to one hundred families from this city spent their summers at his place. The Mohawk House in New York State which is conducted by his twin brother, is also popular with Plainfield people.

SEVERED THE DRAGGING LIMB

Rescuers of Thos. A. Cuming Found Leg Hanging by Only Few Shreds of Flesh.

One of the horrible incidents of the many at the wreck was witnessed when Stephen A. Krom and Robert Radford, both of this city, carried Thomas Cuming from the ruins. One leg was hanging by a few shreds of flesh and had to be held up in order to prevent its dragging. The mangled limb was a hindrance to Cuming and to the rescuers so Krom took his pocket knife and severed it entirely.

DEATH OF MRS. DUNAVAN.

Aged Resident Passed Away at Her Home This Morning.

After one week's illness caused by successive strokes of paralysis, Mrs. Margaret A. Dunavan, widow of the late William Dunavan, died at her home on East Second street, this morning.

She was seventy-five years old and had lived in this city over half a century. Eight children survive her: Alfred, Lewis, David and Mrs. R. B. Rogers, of this city; Charles, of Rochester, N. Y; Walter, of New Durham; Daniel, of Lincoln, Neb., and Mrs. W. E. Slater, of Somerville. She also leaves three sisters, Mrs Nannah Hodge, Mrs. John Chandler and Miss Jennie Smith, of this city, and one brother, John Smith, of Trenton.

The funeral will be held from her late residence Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be at the Methodist cemetery.

DEATH OF EPHRAIM BOICE.

Passed Away Tuesday Night at the Home of His Daughter.

Ephraim D. Boice, one of the oldest and best known residents of Piscataway township, passed away Tuesday night at 10:30 at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. B. W. Hand, of West Second street. He had been ill but a short time, death ensuing from a complication of diseases.

He was seventy years old last Sunday and up to a short time ago followed farming. He leaves three children, Mrs. Hand. Mrs. Osro Bittle and William Boice, the latter two of Newark.

The funeral will be held Friday at 1:30 from his late residence and at 3 o'clock from the South Plainfield Baptist church. Interment will be at Samptown.

To Assist in Identification.

The remaining charred body at the morgue which has not been claimed will be much easier to identify than those that have been, if relatives will acquaint themselves with clothing worn by missing ones. The last unknown body has a portion of the socks, drawers and one shoe clinging to it. There is also a portion of the feet and legs.

Wish to Make Sure.

Although a body has been claimed as being Miss Lera Linbarger, her relatives are anxious that her death be doubly assured. For that reason they ask that if anyone saw her on the train before the crash that they be informed. Information may be sent to their home at 515 Park avenue or to The Daily Press office.

Coming Home.

A telegram received this morning by his father, from City Judge Wm. N. Runyon, dated Gallup, New Mexico, Jan. 28, states that the party he is travelling with, started on their homeward journey, yesterday, Tuesday. The Judge expects to reach Plainfield Sunday.

Sunday's Meeting.

Rev. Walter T. Griffen, U. S. Consul at Limoges, France, has been secured as the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. John Manley will sing and also Master Alfred Manley, of the choir of the Grace P. E. church.

Death of a Child.

The death of Grace, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund L. McKenzie, occurred this morning at the home of her parents, 1017 East Seventh street. Funeral announcements will be made later.

SUBURBAN NEWS

DUNELLEN.

All the wreck victims from here, who are at Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, were at last reports doing well. Wilson Fredricks is quite badly burned about the legs and arms and is injured about the head, but is not in a serious condition. P. M. Ising is suffering from cuts and internal injuries and shock, but his condition is not considered dangerous. Raymond Apgar received a bad gash in the scalp and a cut below the jaw. The latter injury is the most serious injury and will give him some trouble. William Giddes was thrown through a car window, but miraculously escaped with only slight injuries to one leg. The body of John Cerrid, who resided on North avenue with his sister and was a telegraph operator at Jersey City, was identified by a watch chain, yesterday, and is at Runyon's undertaking parlors. The body is badly burned and is unrecognizable and will probably be interred today. A number of others, who were on the fatal trains, are suffering from shock.

NEW MARKET.

New Market was a sufferer in the wreck and two young men from here were killed. James H. Hallett, Jr., was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hallett and had lived at this place all his life. He was an athlete of some ability and a crack hockey player. A very large number mourn his death. His body was not identified until yesterday afternoon. Harvey Patterson lived with his mother in Center street and was well known in lodge circles in Plainfield. He died soon after being carried from the wreck. Both of his legs were cut off and crushed. Both the dead were young men about twenty-five years of age. The funerals will probably be held today or tomorrow. A number of others from here had narrow escapes, notably Charles Ward and Mahlon Dayton.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Fortunately for the local commuters the 5:45 train from New York does not stop at Fanwood, so there happened to be no local passengers in the fatal wreck near Westfield Tuesday evening. Many of the commuters from the village came out as far as Westfield on the train, then took the trolley to town, saving the mile walk between the village and depot.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Passengers trains of the New Jersey Central Railroad ran over the Lehigh Valley tracks Tuesday night several hours on account of the wreck at Westfield.

GRAND JURY WILL WAIT

Sessions Adjourned to Await Finding of Coroner's Jury on Cause of Accident.

No time is to be lost by the Union county authorities in looking into the causes of the Westfield disaster. The Grand Jury has been in session at Elizabeth and was expected to complete its labors today. When the last of the matters before it were concluded this morning, Judge Vail announced that he would be unable to discharge the Grand Jury at present owing to the need of investigating the wreck at Westfield. He then adjourned the sessions of the Grand Jury to meet again Monday, Feb. 9.

Chief Kiely is now collecting the evidence which will be presented to the coroner's jury. It is expected that the evidence will not be complete until the first of the week. The jury will probably be convened Monday although no date has been definitely set as yet.

STORY OF ENGINEER'S WIFE

She Believes That Leaking Steam Prevented Him From Seeing.

While Engineer Davis has been condemned for allowing his train to crash into the one ahead, facts are coming to surface which bear out the assertion advanced that it was probably leaking steam that prevented him from seeing.

Apropos to this his wife spoke in regard to the matter to a Daily Press reporter, yesterday, immediately after she stepped from a train at the North Avenue station on her way to the hospital. While her voice trembled with emotion she said: "Everybody is blaming Jim for this terrible accident but it was not his fault. Only two days ago I know he told the superintendent that No. 27 leaked all over and clouds of steam were continually pouring in front of the cab. It made no difference to the officials as he was sent out just the same and this awful crash has been the result."

Another phase has been presented by Stephen H. Krom who, with Robert Radford, of this city, lifted Firemen McCarthy from the wrecked tender. As he was being conveyed to one side he kept moaning, "I told you I couldn't see" over and again. This leads many to believe that Davis asked him if he could penetrate the white cloud that enveloped them and his mind clung to the subject when delirious.

SEARCH FOR MISSING MAN

Thought That David L. Miller, of New York, May Have Been Killed in Wreck.

A striking incident of anxiety shown by relatives and friends of people supposed to have been on that ill-fated train and who were missing is shown in the case of David Lorenzo Miller, of New York, a Knights Templar, of the Masonic order, and the untiring search being made for his whereabouts by his cousin, a man named Weston, of New York. Miller has been missing since the wreck occurred.

Shortly after the wreck occurred Weston arrived at the scene and began an inquiry as to the whereabouts of his cousin. He was told that all the victims had been taken to Plainfield. He came here and on the way he talked with a man, whose name is not known. During the course of conversation the man said that he found some buttons and a deer horn handle on the ground. He showed Weston these articles and he partially identified the trinkets as belonging to his cousin.

During the excitement Mr. Weston neglected to ask the name of the stranger and it will be greatly appreciated by the family of the missing man if the stranger will send his name to The Daily Press office as soon as possible.

HE DOESN'T WANT TO LIVE

When Everitt Reighton Discovered That His Leg Had Been Amputated.

Up to yesterday afternoon the pluckiest fight for life was being made by Everitt Reighton, of Park avenue, who lies at Muhlenberg Hospital with one leg severed, another crushed and broken and his body scalded. He was unconscious but a short time, during which his leg was amputated, but on gaining his senses he did not realize it. He was in excellent spirits up to 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when he found the limb was gone. With a low cry he exclaimed to his cousin, "O My God, Stamley, I don't want to get well. With this leg gone I would never be any good." Since that time he has been gradually sinking.

TRYING TO IDENTIFY BODY

Remaining Corpse is So Badly Charred That Chances Are Extremely Slight.

The remaining body at the morgue had not been identified up to a late hour this morning. Several papers have been found in his clothing but the means of identification from these is extremely slight.

Last night Charles Peterson, of Brooklyn, came to this city for the purpose of ascertaining if Frank Townsend, of New York, who was on his way to this city and was supposed to have been on that train. Townsend had been a member of the New York Athletic club and was a forward on the hockey team.

The body is thought to be that of Harold LaBoyteux, a business man, of New York, who lives at 39 Fairview avenue. He has been reported missing.

IS IT A MYSTERIOUS DEATH ANOTHER MURDER CASE?

Body of Man Found On Trolley Tracks Near Elizabeth With No Clue To Death.

WAS IN UNION COUNTY.

INVESTIGATION HAS FAILED TO REVEAL ANY FACTS CONCERNING IT.

Not Believed To Have Been Victim of Trolley Accident—Was Man Held Up And Murdered?—Story of Discovery.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 29—Mystery still surrounds the death of a man at the Elizabeth Hospital Sunday. He was discovered lying bleeding and unconscious on the Newark-Elizabeth boulevard at midnight Saturday by the motorman of a passing trolley car, which was coming from Newark to this city.

The car was backed up and the man was placed on board and brought to the North Jersey Company's office here, where he was carried inside and a call sent for the General Hospital ambulance. He died there without regaining consciousness. Who he is can only be surmised by an honorable discharge paper found in his pocket at Smith's morgue. It states that Benjamin Kellar served in the Seventh Company, Fourth German Infantry, under Prince Wilhelm, from November 8, 1888, until September 4, 1890, and that he was born in 1867. Nothing else whatever was found on the body.

The police theory is the man was assaulted and robbed and then placed on the trolley car tracks. He has a deep wound on the head and a lacerated wound on the hip. The officials of the North Jersey Company here declare the man was not struck by a trolley car, as if such had occurred a report of it would have been made by the conductor of the car. The man was lying on the track that cars run from Elizabeth to Newark.

It was thought at first he resided in Elizabeth, but nothing is known here about him, nor have the detectives in this city been able to get any clue to his identity. He is five feet seven inches tall, weighs about 175 pounds, has black hair and black mustache and wore a good brown suit, black overcoat and light alpine hat.

It is thought very likely the victim belonged to Newark. Some hold ups have taken place recently in the vicinity where the man was found. The body was held at the morgue until County Phyician Westcott made an examination.

THEATRICAL.

A large and well-pleased audience attended the Central Theatre last night to witness the third performance of Innocent Beauties. The show is the best that has been seen at the Central this season and the management deserves credit for securing a high-class attraction of this kind. The bill will be changed tonight for the balance of week. Do not forget the special ladies' and children's matinee for Saturday afternoon at 2:15.

Affirmed Judgment.

In the case of Louis C. Beekman against Metler, an opinion has just been handed down by Judge Vail affirming the judgment rendered by Justice Hezekiah Hand some months ago. It was an action in trover brought by Beekman, through his counsel, Codington & Swackhamer, against the defendant on the assignment of a claim to him by William H. Bohl. Winfield S. Angleman was counsel for the defendant.

Arcanumites Installed.

Grand Deputy Porter, of Jersey City, installed the officers of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, Monday evening, as follows: Regent, Clarence Goss; vice regent, Robert Lowry; orator, G. H. Kenyon; past regent, Edward T. VanWinkle; secretary, Frederick J. Pope; chaplain, Rev. E. M. Rodman; guide, Armstrong Mulford; warden, A. W. Winckler; sentry, Abram DeVine.

To Repeat Minstrels.

Company K's minstrel troupe has under consideration the giving of two more performances in outside cities. An offer has been made by Elizabeth people and it is possible an acceptance will shortly be announced. It would require but little expense to put it on and a neat sum could be added to the building fund.

More Quoit Pitching.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet this evening and continue the quoit pitching contest. The tournament has excited considerable interest and enthusiasm and as the scores now stand either Franklin or Somerset Council is likely to win. The two teams are quite evenly matched.

William Debele, is confined to his home by a severe attack of grip.

CERTAIN RESULTS.

Many a Plainfield Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Plainfield. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

Mr. S. J. Conklin, traveling salesman for a New York confectionery house, 134 West Front street, says: "I was subject to pain in the back and hips, which at times I felt in my side. I tried different kinds of kidney cures but received little or no relief. I read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills and I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I took three boxes altogether and was wonderfully improved. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and accomplish all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 1. "Self Mastery or Slavery." Text, I Cor. ix. 24-27.

Every athletic contest emphasizes the necessity for training. Efficiency never comes by accident. Proficiency is had only by continued exercise. Skill in the use of any power, whether of body, mind or spirit, can be had only by continued application. It is needful, first of all, to learn how a thing ought to be done. Then there must be the repeated attempts to do it until it can be once done properly. Repeated doing correctly will give ease, facility, accuracy and rapidity.

This is the only path to victory, whether in football, study, work or Christian grace.

Mastery over the temper can be had only by restraining the angry word when provoked. It is useless to ask to be delivered from all irritation and provocation. That never will cure a quick temper.

A horse will never be cured of shying by tying up in the stable. No muscle ever grows strong by inactivity. An ax or hoe is better for developing an arm than a sling can possibly be. A hammock may rest a sprinter after a run, but running alone can make him a good runner. If you want to be a good Christian, make up your mind to work at it.

Many are heard to say, "I want to love God better; I want to serve Him more faithfully." That is good as far as it goes, but if it never goes any farther it is no better than a pauper wishing to be a multimillionaire and only wishing. The gift of prayer is more than facility in talking. It comes after long exercise of the soul in communion with God. Who does not recognize the vast space which lies between the soul which can pray with fervor, unction, assurance, humility and boldness and one who pours out a string of words?

Paul describes his own efforts in Christian living as if he was a boxer preparing for the great athletic games of his times. He smites himself to keep the soul in mastery over the body. What need there is at the present time of this robust, resolute Christian living! The seeking for recreation which is emphasized as so necessary under our modern conditions of society can do little toward toning up the moral life. How robust a Christian experience does any one get who frequents the theater more than the prayer meeting? No crew ever was trained for victory in rowing by indulgence of appetite, but by rational use of it.

No more will any one in Christian life acquire self mastery except by exercise of rational control and continuous use of all God given powers. We must think and speak and do the right and keep ever at it.

Helping One Another.

So far as our duties are concerned, we cannot live our lives in isolation. Our duties ray out in every direction. We are dependent upon others; others are dependent upon us. In doing our own part in life we are sure to help some one else do his part. If our work is of no benefit to society, it cannot benefit us in the highest and best sense. But who of us gives so much to society as we really get? If our duties bind us to our fellows, we are also bound by our sorrows and our sympathies. If there are those who, like the Pharisees, put heavy burdens upon other men's shoulders and will not lighten them, there is, thank heaven, a host of others who are seeking to lighten the heavy laden. This is shown in hours of sorrow as well as in hours of toil. There is nothing more beautiful and inspiring than to see how a community may bear up with buoyant sympathy some afflicted, sorrow stricken soul. The consolations of God are great, but He often reveals them through the consolations of man.—Christian Register.

Recognition In Heaven.

"Shall we know each other there?" Do Christians really doubt the fact that the reunion of heaven will include recognition, the meeting again of those who have been separated, the gathering of all the scattered clans? Is God, who gives us daily bread here, so unkind a Father that He will offer us a stone there? If there is immortality, is it to be apart from the sweetness and sacredness of love? Is not this the implication of the Mount of Transfiguration—the saints, who had been for centuries in heaven, knew each other and conversed and were known to Peter, James and John?—Margaret E. Sangster.

Simple Faith.

There was once a good woman who was well known among her circle for her simple faith and her great calmness in the midst of many trials. Another woman, living at a distance, hearing of her, said, "I must go and see that woman and learn the secret of her strong, happy life." She went and, accosting the woman, said, "Are you the woman with the great faith?" "No," replied she, "I am not the woman with the great faith, but I am the woman with the little faith in the great God."—Christian Standard.

By Praise We Give.

By prayer we ask, by faith we take, but by praise we give. In heaven blessing God will be our constant employment, and if we would have a portion of the happiness of heaven upon earth in the enjoyment of divine peace, while seeking to be free from all undue care, while committing all anxieties to Him in prayer and supplication, we must also cultivate the important grace of continual thanksgiving.—Freeman.

The Beauty of Thy Peace.

Drop Thy still dews of quietness
Till all our strivings cease;
Take from our lives the strain and stress
And let our ordered lives confess
The beauty of Thy peace.
—Whittier.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 2. Consecration. Rev. J. H. Doyle.
Topic Prepared by Mrs. [illegible] (Christian Endeavor day.)

The book of Hebrews sets forth the superiority of Christ (1) over angels, (2) Moses, (3) the Aaronic priesthood. The purpose of this comparison is to inspire the faithfulness of the Jewish Christians, who were strongly tempted to give up their faith. In this third chapter Christ's superiority to Moses is set forth. It is also shown that those who disbelieved God under the direction of Moses were punished. How much more certain this would be the case when God was revealed in Christ, a greater than Moses! Therefore the force of the exhortation, "Today, if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts."

The topic speaks of a call to decision and we may inquire: What are we to decide? Who calls us to decision? When should we decide?

1. What are we to decide? Practically our relation to God. This is the position urged upon the Jews who had become Christians. In the midst of trial and tribulation they were in danger of unbelief and of departing from the living God. This they are called upon not to do and are urged to decide in the favor of faith and of God by the sad fate of their ancestors, who decided the other way. God called to the ancient Jews, but they hardened their hearts in unbelief and decided against God. Therefore they never entered Canaan. Their fate should be a warning to us. If not Christians, we should decide for Christ, and if Christians under temptation to give up our faith or our faithfulness we should decide for God. The unbelieving and unfaithful can never enter into God's heavenly Canaan.

2. Who calls upon us to decide? The Holy Ghost. "Wherefore, as the Holy Ghost saith, Today, if ye will hear My voice." The office work of the Holy Ghost is to call sinners to repentance and to build them up in faith and comfort. To this end He calls us by His personal influence through His word, the church and the people of God. The call that comes to us is no human call, but a divine call. God, through His Spirit, calls us to repentance, to faith and to faithfulness. The personality of Him who calls should dispose us to speedy acceptance. An invitation from the president of the United States is equivalent to a command. Much more should a call from God be looked upon in the same light. We should feel that we dare not disobey. "God calls; I must obey," should be our attitude.

3. When should we decide? Today. "Today, if ye hear His voice, harden not your heart." Today is the only day we have. No living being is sure of tomorrow. This spirit strives today, but "My Spirit shall not always strive with men," saith the Lord. Procrastination is most dangerous, for we have no guarantee for the future and no promise that God will still call us even if we live into the future. Today is our only opportunity. Now is the accepted time; now is the day of salvation! Tomorrow may be too late; therefore decide today.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xxxii, 26; Num. xiv, 21-24; Josh. xxiv, 15-18; I Kings xviii, 22; Ruth i, 16, 17; Prov. iv, 25-27; Mark ii, 14; Acts xxi, 8-14; Rev. ii, 10.

An Appeal From Africa.

Between our heaven of blessedness and this hell of Africa's woe and want and wretchedness there is a great gulf fixed—a gulf of selfishness, a gulf of indifference, a gulf of ignorance. And I see no hope of bridging the chasm until we get beyond missionaries and missions and human appeals and get one clear vision of Jesus Christ. Fellow Endeavorer, I do not ask you to pity the heathen, but I do beg of you that you simply treat Jesus Christ right. Is it right to accept the gift of life at the price He paid for it and then give Him only the spare change you happen to have left after your luxurious tastes are satisfied? Is it right to give Him only the odds and ends, the spare moments, the convenient service, the thing that costs you nothing? Is it right to grudge Him even so small a portion as the tenth of your income for the advancement of His cause? Shall we forever crucify the Son of God on the cross of convenience?—Rev. Willis R. Hotchkiss, East Coast of Africa.

For the Temperance Committee.

In these days there is much intemperate temperance talk indulged in, and from adding to it I want to be delivered. I will admit, however, that I am a "temperance crank"—that is, I will make that admission, immodest though it may seem to you, if you will accept the following definition of a crank: "A crank is something of an expert on a subject in which you are not interested."—John Willis Baer.

An Evangelizing Force.

The Rev. B. Q. Denham, one of the vice presidents of the New York state union, in a recent convention address said: "Let us go home and transform our Christian Endeavor society into an evangelizing force. * * * Let us study the word of God, so that the Holy Spirit shall wield that word in our lives."

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work. Address Lock Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.]

31. T. E. P., Pennsylvania.—The pastor of the individual church is the only person whose authority the society is bound to respect.

32. S. M. V., Delaware.—If your membership is too large to be worked profitably in one, there is certainly no harm in having two societies in your church.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

The "Helen Carmody" was favored with good weather, and on Friday evening the low shores of Louisiana crept up out of the gulf. To the east was a vessel which looked like a steam yacht, headed in a diagonal direction, as if to run across the course of the "Helen Carmody."

Mr. Carmody, Miss Helen and Mr. Chalmers were on the forward deck. Chalmers was the first to observe the yacht.

"There is a problem which sailors have to solve," he said. "That boat is headed across our course. Will she cross our bows, or will she go to the stern, assuming she keeps straight ahead? What do you say, Mr. Carmody?"

"She is a bit faster than this boat, I think," said Mr. Carmody. "In my judgment, she will pass at least half a mile ahead of us."

"I do not think so," said Miss Helen "I am loyal to our yacht. We will beat her. Don't you think so, Mr. Chalmers?"

"I think one of us will have to change our course," replied Chalmers. At this moment Capt. Baldwin approached and called Chalmers aside:

"That boat to windward is the 'Shark,'" he said in a low tone. Chalmers took a quick look at the steadily approaching craft. "She is going to cut us off," continued Capt. Baldwin. "You had better pass the word among the men folks, and send the ladies below. I don't know what the intentions of that fellow Hestor are, but he is not going to interfere with the 'Helen Carmody' without a fight."

Chalmers returned to Mr. Carmody and Miss Helen.

"That yacht is the 'Shark,'" he said, quietly. "Capt. Baldwin has recognized her. He does not anticipate any trouble, but he suggests that Miss Carmody and Mrs. White go below for awhile."

"I do not wish to go below," said Miss Carmody, her eyes dancing with excitement. "I am not afraid. They cannot hurt us, can they, papa? Let me stay on deck. I want to see that awful Mr. Hestor and his captain."

"That will not do, Helen," said Mr. Carmody. "Capt. Baldwin is right. You join Mrs. White and remain in the saloon until I call you."

Miss Helen glanced appealingly at Mr Chalmers, but received no encouragement in her meditated rebellion; so she obeyed and went to the lower deck.

Sidney Hammond came rushing forward.

"That is the 'Shark!'" he exclaimed. "Let us prepare for trouble. That maniac means mischief. Where are the rifles?"

Mr. Kent, Mr. Morton and Mr. Pence were enjoying an afternoon nap, but they were quickly aroused and informed of the situation. Simon Pence was in an agony of terror. His knees sank beneath him and he was too agitated to speak. Not so with Mr. Kent. His fighting blood was up in a minute.

"I will shoot that crazy dude full of holes if he or his men attempt to lay hands on me!" he exclaimed. He reached into his stateroom and produced a repeating rifle which he examined carefully and calmly.

There were 20 rifles aboard the yacht. In anticipation of possible trouble Capt. Baldwin had purchased a dozen guns at Vera Cruz. These were distributed among the men and the crew. Sidney Hammond was put in charge of the defense—if one should be necessary. The weapons were placed within easy reach and they waited the approach of the "Shark," which was less than a mile away.

The faces of the men were a study. Hardly a word was spoken. Their faces were flushed with anger, rather than pale with fear. In plain sight was the yacht which had held them captive for days. They viewed the "Shark" as a pirate. Not a man doubted that Hestor was on board, and that he meant mischief. How trim and sleek the "Shark" looked as her prow cut the waves of the gulf! Her brass work glistened like gold in the afternoon sun. On her forward deck was a glint of polished steel. Mr. Kent recognized it.

"There is that rapid-fire gun," he said in an undertone.

Mr. Morton bowed, but said nothing.

Bernard Seymour examined his gun methodically. He ran his eye along the sights and studied the adjustment for distance. He spoke quietly to Sidney Hammond, received a nod of approval and went forward, taking a position near the bow of the boat.

Capt. Baldwin whistled a signal that he would go to starboard. There was no answer from the "Shark." Again the "Helen Carmody" blew a warning blast. In answer the "Shark" ran up a flag signal asking the "Helen Carmody" to "lay to." Capt. Baldwin hesitated a moment. He then gave the word to the engineer to go ahead full speed. They had been running half speed, so as to avoid any chance of a collision. Capt. Baldwin gave a blast to indicate that he would pass the "Shark" to leeward. The "Shark" slightly changed its course and went slowly ahead parallel to its rival, but gradually drawing nearer.

As they came abreast the "Shark" was not 150 yards away. Those on the "Helen Carmody" could see Capt. Waters on the bridge. The crew was grouped on the forward deck.

A tall, slender figure in yachting uniform suddenly appeared by the side of Capt. Waters. Sidney instantly recognized Walter B. Hestor, who raised a megaphone. His voice sounded sharp and clear.

"Stand by; I wish to come aboard!" he shouted.

"Is the 'Shark' in distress?" was the reply of Capt. Baldwin.

"She is not!" shouted Hestor.

The two yachts were so close it was possible to converse without a megaphone.

"Stand off!" shouted Capt. Baldwin. "Stand off! You cannot come aboard. This is a private yacht, bound for New Orleans. Stand off, or I will run you down!"

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

ELIZABETH VIEW OF MERCER SENATOR'S ACT

Elizabeth Journal Declares That Repealers for Greater City Bills Not Needed.

SOME OF THE REASONS

NO NEED FOR ANY INTERFERENCE BY SENATOR HUTCHINSON.

The Elizabeth Journal Contains a Lengthy Editorial on Proposed Repealers for Annexation and Consolidation Bills.

Very proper is the stand taken by the Elizabeth Journal in its editorial column regarding the action of Senator Hutchinson in introducing repealers for the annexation and consolidation acts passed by the Legislature last winter.

The Journal says:

"Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer county, the president of the Senate, has introduced two bills providing for the repeal of the North Plainfield annexation and consolidation acts, passed last year.

"Just why the Senator from Mercer county saw fit to regulate the internal affairs of Somerset and Union counties, when neither Somerset nor Union asked him to do so, remains to be explained. Somerset county has a Democratic senator (Mr. Childs) and a Democratic member of the Assembly (Mr. Swackhamer). The former has not taken any attitude on the annexation and consolidation question, so far as is known; but Mr. Swackhamer is strongly against the annexation. Both the Senator and the Assemblyman from Somerset were elected by the votes of North Plainfield Republicans who favored annexation, yet inasmuch as the remainder of Somerset county is opposed to the annexation of North Plainfield to Union county, it is but logical that the Democratic representatives should be of the same mind. All this, moreover, makes Senator Hutchinson's promptness in introducing repealers still more inexplicable. Why was not Somerset county allowed to speak for herself in this matter?

"And again it is a question whether the North Plainfield consolidation and annexation acts are not functus officii. They were referendum acts. They provide that the people of North Plainfield should, by popular vote, decide these two questions of annexation and consolidation. The people decided them, casting a majority of 116 votes against the proposed change. Having fulfilled the provisions of the law it is the opinion of some able lawyers that the two acts are of no further force; that they have no longer any vitality; they have performed their functions; they are dead. True, other able lawyers hold to a different opinion, but the greater number seem to think the two acts are of no further force and virtue.

"There is still another feature of the case that calls for consideration. It is stated upon reliable authority that the sentiment has greatly changed in North Plainfield since the referendum election, and that were the people called on to vote anew on the questions, they would annex and consolidate by a vote of two to one, if not even a larger vote. Whether this sentiment is correctly gauged or not will be made manifest at the coming spring election, for though there is no direct vote to be taken on these questions, the annexationists and the antis will be again lined up on a struggle for the control of the mayor's office and the Borough Council. If present indications are correct, the annexationists will win by a handsome majority.

To Take Testimony.

Testimony in the suit of the American Sewer Company, of Boston, against this city for infringment of patent, which the former company alleges, will be taken before Examiner Robinson, at Boston, Monday. Craig A. Marsh, corporation counsel of this city, and Street Commissioner Andrew Gavett will go to Boston and will spend a few days there.

Valuable Tract.

J. W. Graceley, proprietor of the Graceley's Hotel on Somerset street, through the real estate agency of William E. Pangborn, has purchased a large piece of property from Tiffany & Company, of New York. The property is a valuable piece of land and Mr. Graceley has, through Mr. Pangborn's agency, sold it again at an advance of $1,000.

Had to Walk Home.

Owing to the fact that the power gave out on the trolley line near Garwood, Monday night, several Plainfielders walked the entire distance to Plainfield. The cars were held up for nearly an hour.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bonney, of Brooklyn, are the guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. F. Randolph, of Park avenue.

ALL PLAINFIELD OBSERVES THIS AS DAY OF MOURNING

Victims of the Westfield Disaster Are Being Laid in Their Final Resting Places.

FIRST FUNERAL HELD LAST NIGHT

OTHERS FOLLOW THIS MORNING, AFTERNOON AND EVENING, TOMORROW AND SUNDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

A Union Memorial Service Was Found Impracticable, But the Mayors' Proclamations Calling For a Period of Public Mourning Is Being Generally Observed This Afternoon—The Details of the First Funeral Services of the Victims.

And now comes the sad task of laying at rest all that is mortal of those who met death in the Westfield disaster on the Jersey Central Railroad early Tuesday evening. With saddened hearts but loving hands, they have begun to place the remains in their final resting place. The whole city was overcome with the magnitude of the disaster when the news was first received. It was horror struck when it was realized that nearly a score of Plainfielders had met their death in the accident. And now, that the funeral cortages are slowly moving to the cemeteries bearing the bodies of the victims, the whole community has laid aside everything to join in mourning for the dead. Although the Mayors of city and borough had recommended that this afternoon be observed as a period of public mourning, it was hardly necessary. There was hardly a home where some of the victims were not known and cherished. The joyeousness, the brightness have all gone out of the life of the community and Plainfield mourns the loss of so many of its loved ones.

Tuesday afternoon saw them all alive and well. Last night the first of them was laid away. This morning several funerals were held. Others follow this afternoon. More will be held this evening, tomorrow and Sunday. There had been some talk of holding the funerals together in one huge memorial service but the local undertakers were unable to meet such a demand and the services had to be arranged accordingly.

Fred A. Smith.

Funeral services of the late Fred A. Smith were held last evening at 8:30 o'clock from the residence of his sister, Mrs. W. A. Wheeler, Jr., 316 East Seventh street, where a number of relatives and friends gathered. The services were conducted by Rev. William Vincent Dawson, rector of St Stephen's church, Netherwood. This morning the remains were taken to Tarrytown, N. Y., where they will be interred today.

John Currid.

The funeral services over the remains of John Currid, who was killed in the Westfield wreck, were held this morning, at 8:30 from his late residence and at 9 o'clock from St. John's church, Dunellen. A large number of his friends and relatives gathered at the house to pay honor to the dead and the services there were very sad. The church was crowded and the services, which were conducted by Rev. Father Dunphy, were very impressive. A number of handsome floral offerings were draped over the coffin. The pallbearers were Terence Ronayne, Edward Leimpeter, John Dineen, George Kuldoshes, Theodore Kuldoshes and Joseph Meiers.

Edward Flynn.

Every available seat in St. Mary's church was occupied at 10 o'clock this morning, when a solemn requiem mass was commenced for the repose of the soul of Edward Flynn. Relatives and friends in great numbers and the entire membership of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, attended. Tears were visible in nearly every eye for the young man was a general favorite with all who gathered at the bier.

A short service was held at his late home on West Fourth street for the family and immediate relatives after which service took place. It was in charge of Rev. Father Donlon, of New York, a relative, assisted by Rev. Father Smith, of Jersey City and Rev. Father Egan, of St. Mary's

Floral tributes were so numerous as to hide the casket from view, while others were placed about the altar Large pieces were sent by the H. B Claflin Company, of New York, for whom he worked, his comrades in the concern and the Knights of Columbus. The other were sent by friends. These tributes were borne by the following flower bearers: John J. Kenney, John P. Owens, Garret Kiely, Richard Birmingham and R. McCormack. The ushers were Lawrence Doyle, Fred Hillman, W. A. Boone and Frank McInerney.

At the close of the mass the remains were taken to St. Mary's cemetery where they were consigned to their last resting place. The casket was carried by John C. Powers, Daniel Carroll, John A. O'Keefe, John Carty, Michael J. Whalen and John Conway.

Henry L. Mahan.

The funeral services over the remains of Henry L. Mahan, of 211 East Fifth street, who was one of those who lost their lives in the wreck were held this morning at 9:15 from the house where Rev. E. M. Rodman and Rev. E. Vicars Stephenson, rector of the Grace P. E. church, conducted the service.

After the service here, the body was shipped to Trenton where the interment took place. The officiating clergyman this service was Rev. Mr. Teimer, rector of the Episcopal church at Trenton, where the deceased was formerly a member. The interment was in Riverview cemetery.

Rowland Chandor.

The funeral services of Rowland Chandor were held this morning at 11 o'clock from the home of his mother, 202 East Ninth street. Among the large number of mourners present were a great many young associates of the deceased. Eloquent and impressive testimony of the high esteem in which the young man was held was evidenced in the profusion of floral tributes. There was a large wreath from the Singer Sewing Machine Company, by whom Mr. Chandor was employed, while from associates and friends there was a number of beautiful flowers.

The services were conducted by Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace Episcopal church, and were exceedingly impressive. After the service the remains were placed in the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery for the present. Later they will be removed to the family vault in Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

The pallbearers, all associates of the deceased, were Kendall Mason, Howard Mason, Harold Phillips, Lester Radtord, Abbott Brainerd and Raymond Cohen.

Charles T. Thayer.

The last sad rites over the remains of the late Charles T. Thayer, were held this afternoon at his late residence, 228 East Ninth street. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, formerly pastor of the Crescent Avenue church and now of the Brick Presbyterian church, of New York. After the funeral services the remains were sent to Buffalo where the interment will take place in the family plot.

Craig Waldron.

The funeral services of Craig Waldron were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late residence on

TRIED TO ROB AT DISASTER

Mrs. Augustin Queneau Attacked by Colored Man While Waiting for Her Husband.

WAS ALONE IN A CAB

She Fought Off His Attacks Until Friends Came to Her Aid—Stories of Ghouls Working at Scene of the Westfield Disaster Are Confirmed by Plainfielder.

Since the wreck there have been reports circulated that there were ghouls at work while the excitement was at its height and that some of the bodies which arrived at the morgue had money and jewelry missing. Little attention was paid to these reports until yesterday afternoon when a Daily Press reporter heard from an authentic source that a local woman, whose husband was one of the victims of the wreck and who now lies in a serious condition at the Muhlenberg Hospital, had to fight for her life with a negro ruffian who tried to eject her from her cab, and at the same time relieve her of her money and valuables. Several other cases have been cited and it has been found that most of these have been correct. It is understood that the Central Railroad Company has several detectives at work on the case.

It appears that among the passengers of the train was Augustin Queneau, of Belvidere avenue. He had been in New York where his business interests are and was returning home when the crash came. He was pinioned between some large timbers and received injuries which have kept him at the local hospital since.

He sent to his wife a telegram saying that he was injured and she, in company with two neighbors, hired a cab and started out for Westfield. When they arrived there the two men got out as did the driver and started for the scene of the wreck in search of the husband of Mrs. Queneau. She was left in the carriage alone half expecting and half fearing that the remains of her husband would be brought to her crushed and bleeding.

Her account of the assault as told to her sister, Mrs. Bullock, of East Second street and Richmond street, and as told to the Daily Press reporter by Mr. Bullock at his home last night is as follows:

"Mrs. Queneau was sitting in the cab alone when footsteps were heard approaching along the road. She was sitting in the dark a little distance from the scene of the wreck, and on hearing the approaching footsteps she leaned out. She asked for news, thinking is was one of the searching party.

"A rough stranger stepped up to the side of the carriage and told her in a hoarse whisper not to utter a word The stranger tried to enter the cab but Mrs. Queneau pushed him out again. Once again he made an attempt to gain an entrance and partly succeeded.

"Finding herself overpowered by the man she screamed loudly for help and in a short time the others came to her assistance. Hearing them approaching the fellow slipped out of the carriage and disappeared around the back of it. Those who had come to the rescue started in pursuit of the man, declaring that they would take his life if they caught him but he had disappeared."

Other cases of the presence of criminals have come to light.

Griffeth Jenkins, a clerk in the employ of Hill & Shupp, who resides on East Fifth street, was present at the scene of the wreck shortly after the collision occurred. To a Daily Press reporter Mr. Jenkins gave a statement of what he saw at the wreck:

"I was standing near the demolished cars a short time after the wreck occurred and was watching some men remove the unconscious form of a woman from out of one of the windows.

"As I stood there too horror stricken to speak, a colored man stepped up beside me and half to himself said, as he saw a diamond flash out from the woman's hand, 'I wonder if there are any diamonds or jewelry in there.' I turned from the fellow who disappeared at once.

"About ten minutes afterwards, just after a brilliant flash from the photographer's lantern was seen I heard someone say to a fellow who

ALL SCHOOLS WILL CLOSE

No Sessions This Afternoon, and the Flags Will Fly at Half-Mast.

This morning Superintendent H. M. Maxson, of the city schools, stated that all the Plainfield schools would be closed and that all the school flags would be placed at half mast. Those who asked to be excused this morning to attend funerals were granted leave of absence.

Superintendent Wightman, of the schools in North Plainfield, issued a statement to the effect that all the borough schools would close their doors this afternoon and that the flags would be raised at half mast on all the school buildings.

Throughout the city there have been a number of flags raised at half mast on residences and some have even placed wreaths on their windows.

AFTERMATH OF THE DISASTER

Many Plainfielders Had Some Thrilling Experiences at Westfield Wreck.

SOME MISSED THE TRAIN

Incidents of the Worst Calamity That Has Ever Visited Plainfield —Some of the Details of How Many Plainfielders Narrowly Missed a Horrible Death.

Now that the excitement of the terrible railroad wreck, which occurred at Westfield Tuesday evening, has somewhat subsided and people are beginning to realize the full extent of the awful disaster, there are many Plainfielders who have exciting experiences to relate which were lost sight of in the details of the accident. There were many who had expected to take the train and for some reason or other did not do so. All of these stories make interesting reading.

Walter Sampson, of East Sixth street, who received injuries in the wreck, Tuesday, was able to attend his business in New York yesterday morning. Mr. Sampson's injuries were very slight, consisting of abrasions on the hand and arm.

Homer Smith, of Woodland avenue, received injuries about the head and face in the wreck Tuesday.

When the list of the missing was first published by Metropolitian newspapers the name of Ralph Phillips appeared. Mrs. Phillips, of Madison avenue, mother of the boy who was supposed to have been among the missing, telephoned to this office and said that Roy Phillips had been found and that he had been missing for only four hours. He was in the train stalled by the wreck and was not injured in any way.

Among the narrow escapes reported in connection with the New Jersey Central wreck, Tuesday night, is that of Wallace Guilford, of Washington Park. He started for the 5:45 train but, being persuaded by a friend to wait for him, let that train go and the two came out on the 6 o'clock train. Mr. Guilford has been congratulating himself ever since and it is said that he is going to remember his friend with a box of cigars.

Fred Hillman, of West Seventh street, was hurrying along to catch the 5:45 train, when a friend stopped him. He then decided to take the next train.

A man, whose name cannot be learned, was similarly stopped while on his way to catch the train which was afterward wrecked. It has been his custom for some time past to ride out in the 5:45 train in the same seat with Charles T. Thayer, who was killed. He missed catching the train by a few seconds.

Boland Treadwell, of First place, was another Plainfielder who narrowly missed the wrecked train. It had also been his custom to take that train every night but, for some unaccountable reason, he missed it by a few seconds.

In connection with the death of Edgar Williams, of East Sixth street, it was learned yesterday that about three weeks ago he made application for membership in Plainfield Counil, No. 711, Royal Arcanum. The application was taking the usual course and within a few days Mr. Williams would have been a member. As the papers have not yet been returned, he was, therefore, not a member at the time of death. Several friends urged Mr. Williams some time ago to join the Royal Arcanum, but for some reason he delayed the matter.

Mrs. Frederick G. Mead and her daughter, Miss Frederica Mead, of East Front street, were among the passengers on the 5:45 o'clock train Tuesday evening. They occupied seats in the forward part of the train and they were not injured.

It was reported yesterday afternoon that there were still two young

DEATH CLAIMS ONE MORE; DEAD NUMBER TWENTY-TWO

William M. V. Clark Died at Muhlenberg Hospital at 7 o'Clock This Morning After Hard Struggle for Life.

CONDITIONS OF THE OTHER VICTIMS

EVERITT REIGHTON IS STILL IN CRITICAL CONDITION, BUT MAKING STRONG FIGHT—THE OTHER INJURED ONES.

Muhlenberg Hospital Was Crowded Before the Wreck Occurred, But All Who Applied Were Cared For—Nurses Who Assisted in Emergency—Other Injured Not at the Hospital—The Present Condition of Those Injured in the Terrible Railroad Wreck.

Another life has gone out. The list of victims of the Westfield disaster on the Jersey Central Railroad Tuesday night has been increased by one. The list of fatalities now numbers twenty-two. Nineteen died at the wreck, one died at the hospital shortly after his arrival there, the engineer passed away at the hospital yesterday morning, William M. V. Clark, a young Plainfield man, succumbed to his injuries at 7 o'clock this morning.

William M. V. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Clark, of 214 East Ninth street, who was a passenger on the ill-fated 5:45 o'clock train last Tuesday night, died at the hospital this morning at 7 o'clock, as a result of injuries which consisted of a compound fracture of the left leg just above the ankle, severe scalp wounds, while he was badly scalded about the face. It was necessary to remove a small portion of bone from the leg and wire the other pieces together. The leg is now in a plaster cast. Dr. Endicott is in attendance.

Hugh Russell Voorhees, of 858 Carlton avenue, was among those injured in the railroad wreck at Westfield, Tuesday night. He is now at his home and his condition is considered favorable for recovery. His injuries consist of deep cut in back of the head; cut over left eye and injury to left eye, cannot see out of it. Mr. Voorhees also sustained an injury to his back and legs and is suffering from extreme nervousness. He was in the last car of the wrecked train and when taken from the wreck was unconscious. Dr. Todd, of Westfield, took care of Mr. Voorhees and put him in charge of a person who said that he would see that he was taken home safely. This person is not known, but Mr. Voorhees or his counsel, Isaac P. Runyon, would be pleased to learn his name.

Dr. Hedges is now attending Mr. Voorhees. The injured man is an advertising specialist with offices at 120 Broadway, New York. His brother, J. Stanley Voorhees, at once retained Lawyer Runyon to look after the interest of the injured man.

George Creveling, of Park avenue, was another Plainfielder injured Tuesday night. His injuries consisted of cuts in the back of the head and across the nose. His clothing was torn into shreds. Upon reaching this city he went to Schreiner's drug store on Park avenue and was properly treated. He is now doing well at his home.

E. Maxwell Honeyman, of Grove street, who was among those reported injured has partially recovered and was able to go to New York the following morning to his work. He received several severe cuts and bruises and suffered from shock.

At the home of Miss Carrie Pangborn, of Linden avenue, this morning it was said that Miss Pangborn was still in a very serious condition. She is confined to her bed and is unable to move. Her injuries consist chiefly in severe cuts and bruises.

The condition of Miss Nina Sergeant, of East Second street, has become quite serious. She was injured internally and complications have followed. Yesterday she was placed in a brace and no one is allowed to see her.

ENGINEER DAVIS' STATEMENT

As Made to County Physician Westcott Wednesday Night at the Hospital.

While the antemortem statement of Engineer James Davis, who was at the throttle of the Philadelphia express in the Westfield disaster Tuesday evening, it still in the hands of Chief Kiely who refuses to make it public, a statement, which is supposed to be practically the same, has been obtained from County Physician F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood. Dr. Westcott was at Muhlenberg Hospital Wednesday afternoon and evening and had a talk with the dying engineer at 6 o'clock. While he did not take down any formal statement, he made notes on the engineer's story.

Through the courtesy of Dr. Westcott, The Daily Press is enabled to give the substance of Davis' explanation of the cause of the accident. When Davis' train left Elizabeth it was two minutes late and the engineer was anxious to make up the lost time if possible. At Cranford, the block signals showed a clear track ahead. It had been customary for the local train to leave the main track at that point and take the freight track, the express passing it in the neighborhood of Westfield. Supposing he had a clear track before him, Davis turned his attention to an injector who was not working properly. Although it took but a moment, the train was travelling fifty miles an hour and his brief absence permitted him to pass several block signals. In this way he failed to see the cautionary signal on the block signal post just east of Westfield, the danger signal on the signal post west of that place and the red lantern that was waved by Flagman Verson at the Broad Street crossing.

The first thing Davis saw, when he looked ahead again, was the rear lights of the local train right ahead. He applied the brakes but the train was travelling so fast that the crash came almost immediately.

PLAYED PROMINENT PART

Dr. Westcott Has Been on the Scene From Time the First Call Was Made for Aid.

In connection with the New Jersey Central wreck no one worked more earnestly and faithfully than Dr. F. W. Wescott, the county physician, of Fanwood. From the time that he first received the news of the terrible catastrophe he has been busy day and night. The night of the wreck he was among the first at the scene and assisted largely in caring for the injured and dead. Aside from his official duties, Dr. Westcott performed gallant service, both at Westfield and in this city.

Company K to Funeral.

The members of Company K will assemble at their armory on East Second street, Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, for the purpose of attending the funeral of Elias Giles, one of the wreck victims, who was a member of the company. The company will go to the house and escort the remains to Trinity Reformed church, where the services will be held. The remains will then be escorted to the cemetery.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. L. W. Randolph.

RAILROAD SETTLING CLAIMS

Work Has Begun and the Company Officials Express Themselves Ready for All.

That the Westfield disaster will cost the Jersey Central Railroad many thousands of dollars is well known. The settlement of the claims is something which will occupy the attention of the railway officials for sometime to come. Naturally there is more or less interest in the subject.

An official of the company was seen yesterday afternoon by a Daily Press reporter and questioned regarding this subject.

"Yes," said he, "we are going to take it up at once. In fact, we have already begun. Several claims have been settled and others are in the course of settlement. As soon as people are ready to see us, we will be very glad to talk with them but we do not wish to press ourselves upon them. There is a proper time for everything. We want to see that everybody gets what is justly due them and no effort will be spared to accomplish that object. If anyone has suffered in person or property, we will be glad to meet them at any time and see that they receive proper attention.

"There's one thing about it, however. There were many who lost property of more or less value at the wreck. A number of these articles were picked up at the scene and are now in our possession. They will await identification at Room No. 10 at the Jersey City terminal. If you happen to know of anyone who lost anything at the wreck, just send them there."

WORK FLOURISHING.

Semi-Annual Meeting of City Union of King's Daughters Held Yesterday Afternoon.

The semi-annual meeting of the City Union of King's Daughters was held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday afternoon, with a very large attendance. It was one of the best meetings the organization has yet conducted.

Ten Circles were represented and gratifying reports were read from two new ones, recently formed in the borough and Netherwood. Excellent reports were presented by the treasurer and the committee on camp work.

Rev. E. L. Earp read scripture and led in prayer and an address was made by Mrs. Isabelle Davis, corresponding secretary of the Central Council of King's Daughters, who lives in New York but is wintering in this city.

Friday Night Club Doesn't Meet.

The regular meeting of the Friday Night Club will not be held this week. It has been postponed for a week on account of the memorial day proclamation issued by the mayor.

With Weak Lungs and Weak Stomachs,

ATTENTION!

The main trouble with the ordinary Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is that many people with weak stomachs are unable to use it, thereby being deprived of one of the best tissue builders and lung tonics of the day. We have formed a perfect mechanical combination of the

NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL,
SHERRY WINE, GLYCERINE AND EGGS,

With the universal digestant—PURE PEPSIN making a food and medicine for the weakest constitution. Consider this matter before it is too late for you to derive proper benefits. Confer with your physician regarding it if you desire. If your lungs are weak act and act quickly.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Fowler's candies are pure and sweet, Fowler's candies are hard to best. His ice cream, too, is just the kind, that lovers of it seldom find.

Some of the finest and choicest cuts are to be found at Smalley Brothers' butcher shop on North avenue. Their delivery system is one of the best in the city.

Some of the finest cigars to be found in this city are those made by M. C. Dobbins at his Park avenue store. The absence of any flavoring in the tobacco used is a feature of these cigars.

Some of the finest laundry work done in this city is that turned out at Meissner's laundry, on Watchung avenue. All the work is done by hand and great care is taken with fine fabrics.

Saturday sales at Firstbrook's grocery are the talk of the town. Every Saturday he gives extra stamps with every pound of tea and coffee and baking powder. His store is on Liberty street.

It is remarkably how handsome a home can be furnished with a small amount of furniture. See Powlinson & Jones and have them offer a few suggestions. Their spring designs are now in and they have some excellent bargains.

Those who are about furnishing or making up dens or cozy corners will be well paid by a visit to the Oriental Tea Room on West Front street, and have a look at the things needed for that purpose or for favors or prizes for card parties and luncheons.

No better display of clothing is to be found in the city than that at Harry Werner's West Front street store. It comprises everything in the men's furnishing line and at remarkably low prices. At present he is making a specialty of overcoats.

At this season of the year it is most essential for one's health that the feet be properly covered with substantial shoes. You will find the right kind at John H. Doane's shoe store on West Front street. A large stock of shoes for men, women and boys in all sizes, are always kept on hand.

Considering the amount of milk used in the average family it is important that only the best be purchased. This kind is sold by Wm. Lindsay & Son, of Mountain avenue. Everything about this dairy is strictly in accordance with the best sanitary plans and it has the approval of the Board of Health.

Norman K. Barnes, the West Front street grocer, is having great success with his closing-out sale of groceries. A glance through the advertisement in The Daily Press will convince you of the many bargains now offered. The entire stock is being sold at rock-bottom figures and now is the time to make your purchases.

It is a pleasure to trade at Hill & Shupp's store, where there is such a large stock of desirable goods in every department. This firm is constantly making efforts to please their patrons and that the firm is successful is evidenced by the steady increase in business. You are sure to get full value every time and first quality goods.

Monroe Avenue M. E. Church Expresses Its Desire to Have Rev. John McMurray Remain.

When the fourth quarterly conference was held at the Monroe Avenue church, Wednesday evening, the members unanimously requested the return of Rev. John McMurray, the pastor, for another year, which will be the fourth. Walter M. McGee and Edwin H. Beekman were chosen delegates to the meeting of the Laymen's Association of the Newark Conference to be held in April, at which time lay delegates will be elected to the general conference to be held in 1904.

The election of stewards for the Monroe Avenue church for the ensuing year resulted as follows: John J. Praed, N. Brouard, Mrs. N. Brouard, Mrs. D. P. Hicks, Edwin H. Beekman, Mrs. I. P. LaRue, Miss Leora Wenzel, N. M. Smith, J. P. Thompson, John T. Stafford, T. W. Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore VanPelt. Presiding Elder Rev. Dr. Halleron, of Newark, was present at the conference and occupied the chair.

FELT TROUBLE APPROACHI

Experience of Chas. C. Burnett Who Was Passenger on Ill-Fated Train.

Among those who had a hair's breadth escape in the wreck at Westfield Tuesday night was Charles C. Burnett, of Madison avenue. His experience was such an exciting nature that he has not yet fully recovered.

Mr. Burnett has been in the habit of taking the 5:45 train about four nights a week, and Tuesday night was one of the four. From the time he boarded the train in Jersey City to the crash, Mr. Burnett says that he had constant misgivings. He felt unusually nervous and after the train left Elizabeth he seemed unable to remain in any one seat very long. He was in the last car, the "smoker," and from there he gradually found his way to the fourth car from the rear, the rear end of which was demolished and upset.

Mr. Burnett says that at one time he had it on his mind to warn the passengers in the last three cars to be prepared for a collision, but upon second thought, changed his mind, for he believed that the people would think him crazy. Usually when he takes the 5:45 train, Mr. Burnett meets Frederick W. Yates, of this city, and the two have frequently stood in the rear part of the last car and watched the "flyer" pass them. Mr. Yates was not on the train Tuesday night and Mr. Burnett did not go to the rear end of the last car.

Regarding the question of stoves in the cars, Mr. Burnett says that the wrecked cars were of the old-fashioned style and were provided with stoves In several ways his attention was attracted to this. He says that Miss Lera Linbarger, who is now dead, occupied the third car from the rear alone just prior to the crash. She sat in a seat next to the stove in the end of the car and her feet were resting against the stove. He afterwards thought it would be impossible to identify her, unless she had a miraculous escape. This he did not believe possible.

Mr. Burnett gives especial credit to several Plainfield men, who were in the fourth car from the rear. He says that they worked heroically in rescuing the injured and dead. When the crash came, Mr. Burnett says he was thrown across the car on top of other passengers. He succeeded in crawling out of the rear end of the car and dropped into a ditch.

WENT TO HER FATHER'S AID

Miss Mary Line's Story of Escape of Herself and Her Father From Wreck.

One of the most narrow escapes from death in the wreck fell to the lot of Miss Mary Line, of East Front street. She was seated in one of the cars that escaped smashing, covered with blood but unmindful of her own hurts supporting her injured father, when seen by a Daily Press reporter.

"It is a miracle how I escaped alive," she said, "and I am yet too dazed to realize my good fortune. I was sitting by my father on the aisle side of the car when the terrible crash came. I was thrown right over him and through the window. At the same time the car turned over with me on the top and I suddenly found myself high in the air. I was terribly cut as you can see but before getting away from the scene I looked for father and after finding him, helped to get him out."

"Yes," added her father, "I am proud of her. A beam held me down and my back was so badly hurt I was unable to help myself in any way. She reached back through the window and aided me to get out and escape from the flames that were beginning to creep about."

To Aid Knights.

After the meeting of the Knights of the Golden Eagle Tuesday night A. C. Hoagland and Frederick Voorhees were appointed a committee to seek out any members of that lodge in the wreck, and render any aid in their power. Their work was greatly appreciated and much valuable assistance was rendered by them in calming the fears of the families of men who were thought to be in the wreck and were injured.

—The regular meeting of the McAuli Auxiliary will be held at the Public Library Wednesday morning, February 4, at 11 o'clock.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. L. W. Randolph.

Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 30, 1903.

A DAY OF MOURNING.

Three days ago Plainfield was stricken dumb by a disaster more appalling than the city had ever known before. A train filled with Plainfield commuters returning to their homes was run down by a fast express and a score lost their lives in the crash that followed. Since then the man, whose neglect of an instant had such terrible result, has paid the penalty of his life for his act.

Today the people of Plainfield are mourning for those who were hurled into eternity without the warning of a moment. It was a disaster that seemed to reach into every heart and home. With solemn service the dead are being laid away and their sorrowing friends are gathering beside the bier to pay tribute to their memory.

It is a sad day for Plainfield. The terribleness of it all comes home to us now with renewed force as we see the long moving processions file through the city streets. There are sad and solemn gatherings on every side. The memory of it all will haunt us for years to come and the gloom which now hangs over the city will take months to dispel.

Herbert W. Bowen, American minister to Venezuela is to be congratulated on the successful termination of his peace-making journey to Washington where he has represented Venezuela in the settlement of claims against that country by Great Britain, Germany and Italy. Public opinion expressed in the editorials of the best papers is to the effect that the "Venezuela controversy is on the verge of settlement largely as the result of Mr. Bowen's promptness in presenting President Castro's proposition and the confidence which all the powers have in him as a peace-maker." America has a right to rejoice in the maintainance of the Monroe Doctrine and the services of her Consul in the interests of peace.

Hardly a week passes that we do not receive a communication on some subject or other with no clue as to the writer. We have stated over and over again that we will publish no articles when we do not know the name of the author. It is not necessary to publish the name but we must know who is the author to show his good faith in supplying it. Occasionally a really good thing finds its way to the waste basket for that very reason. If you write a communication and want it published but without your name attached, remember it is necessary for the editor to know who is the author. Otherwise the communication will not be considered.

New Jersey's present trouble with the pollution of the Passaic river ought to be an object lesson to those who have talked about a trunk line sewer to the Raritan river. If North Plainfield should join Bound Brook and Somerville in emptying its sewerage into the Raritan, it is only a question of a little time when the communities further down the river would bring about a state of affairs similar to that which now eixsts along the Passaic.

This proposed trunk sewer to solve the troublesome question of sewage disposal for the Passaic valley is going to cost about nine millions of dollars, exclusive of the right of way. Of course it will be on a far larger scale than any sewer to tidewater for Plainfield or North Plainfield but it gives some idea of what such things cost.

In giving up posters the Chicago theatre managers say they can get better results from the same amount of money put into increased newspaper space, relates the Philadelphia Record. This is the experience in Boston.

DEAD NUMBER TWENTY-TWO

The condition of Mrs. Nelson Runyon, of East Ninth street, is much better this morning. She is still suffering from the shock however but is reported as doing very nicely. The injuries received are not serious.

G. E. Hall, of Belvidere avenue, is still confined to his home suffering from the severe shock he received. His injuries are slight and he has almost entirely recovered from them.

The condition of Miss Lizzie Cutter, of Sandford avenue, was so much improved when inquiry was made at her house this morning that it is believed that she will suffer no ill effects from her terrible experience. She is still confined to her bed suffering from the shock but is in no real danger.

W. B. Doty, of 314 Park avenue, is much better this morning but is still suffering from the shock. His injuries on the wrists and arms sustained by a fall are rapidly healing.

A. C. Ogden, of East Sixth street, is able to be about the house but is still suffering from numerous cuts about the head, arms and wrists. His condition is not serious.

William VanDeventer, of East Fifth street, is quite out of danger but is still suffering from shock and slight injuries.

The condition of Miss Mary Line, of 248 East Front street, is serious although she is not dangerously injured. Her spine has been found to have been injured and she also received numerous cuts about the face and body and also a number of bad bruises.

The condition of William Dunn, of Norwood avenue, is still about the same. He is suffering with a crushed leg and numerous cuts about the face and hands. His condition is said to be serious.

FOREMOST AMONG RESCUERS

R. L. Crontite, a New York Lawyer, Used Axe to Cut Away Wreckage.

One of the first to start the work of rescuing the imprisoned passengers, was R. L. Crontite, a New York lawyer, who was on the way to visit his parents, Colonel and Mrs. Crontite, of 419 Grant avenue. While still at the scene of the wreck, with his own face so blackened by flame and smoke as to defy recognition, he said to a Daily Press reporter:

"It seems to me one of the most awful things about this wreck, was the oppressive silence which reigned immediately after the splintered timbers settled back. With several others I rushed through the cars searching for an axe and on getting one returned to the burning pile. All that I heard was an occasional moan and the crackling of the flames but nothing else. It was awful, awful.

"I chopped away timbers from several unfortunates and helped them to a place of safety. In doing so I received severe cuts and burns but I thank God I was spared to help others."

Resolutions of Condolence.

Whereas, In view of the terrible calamity that has fallen upon the citizens of Plainfield and vicinity, Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., in regular session assembled on this twenty-ninth day of January, 1903, adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., do by this method extend to the bereaved families our most sincere respect and affection.

Resolved, That this resolution be spread on the minutes of this council and be published in each of the daily papers. Signed,

D. Bodine,
E. Compton,
J. A. Kriney.

was somewhere nearby in the darkness, 'If you touch one of these bodies I'll shoot you through as soon as look at you.' I later saw the fellow addressed slink off towards Westfield and he was lost to view."

It was a noticable fact that on many of the bodies brought into the morgue there was very little valuable jewelry. A relative of one of those who had lost their lives in the wreck remarked in the hearing of a Daily Press reporter that a diamond ring and several shirt studs were missing, and that she had little doubt but that they were removed from the body at the scene of the wreck. On one body there was only a part of a watch chain attached to the vest. The watch and rest of the chain was gone.

An excellent description of the fellow which is supposed to have been the only ghoul at work at the wreck is given by others who heard the threat made by a rescuer. One man said that he would know the fellow in an instant by his extraordinary broad shoulders. He had a slight limp.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A peculiar coincidence in connection with the resignation of Rev. J. W. Richardson as pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, is that the Congregational church pastor at Stamford, Conn., to which city Mr. Richardson goes, has just resigned. A party in speaking of the affair a few days ago, remarked that this is a year for resignations in the pulpit as well as in the business world. Within the past few months four Plainfield pastors have resigned their charges, and in only one case, that of Grace Episcopal church, has the vacancy been filled.

TELEGRAMS OF CONDOLENCE

Received by Mayors of Plainfield and North Plainfield This Morning.

Telegrams of condolences from Mayors of different cities throughout the State began to arrive this morning at the homes of Mayor Olin L. Jenkins, of this city, and Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield. Both of these officials were away from their homes at the time but the telegrams were opened and the contents noted.

The first to arrive here were those from Mayor Henry R. Doremus, of Newark, and are given in full below:

Newark, N. J.

To the Honorable Olin L. Jenkins, Mayor of Plainfield:

I am joined by the people of Newark in sending this expression of sympathy to you and to the people of Plainfield in their bereavement.

Henry R. Doremus,
Mayor of Newark.

NOT BY RAILROAD.

No Truth in Story That Craig A. Marsh Has Been Retained by Railroad Company.

One of the contemptible tricks the "Ambulance Chasers" from New York resorted to to get cases against the Jersey Central Railroad Company has just been discovered. They, yesterday, represented to victims of the Westfield accident that Craig A. Marsh had been retained to defend the railroad company, and used this an argument why the injured persons had better employ outside lawyers. Mr. Marsh was asked today if he had been retained by the railroad company.

"No, indeed," he replied, "on the contrary, I have been retained against the railroad company."

THEATRICAL.

"When Johnny Comes Marhing Home," the spectacular military comic opera which has made such a large and successful run at the New York Theatre, New York, is in its last weeks at this house, where it will end its engagement Saturday, February 14. "Johnny" is a refined performance which appeals particularly to lovers of high class music and spirited action. It is splendidly produced and is in every way a credit to the lyric stage of America.

Mr. Crane made his first appearance on the West side at the Grand Opera House, New York, Monday. The play he presents is the dramatization of "David Harum" with which Charles Frohman furnished him something like three years ago. The cast and production will be the same as that seen at the opening of the season at the Criterion Theatre. Of all the plays Mr. Crane has presented within the last fifteen years—and they number fifteen—"David Harum" has lived the longest. "The Senator" lasted but two seasons and "Brother John" and "A Virginia Courtship" were good for only a season and a half each. Just how long "Harum" will remain popular it is hard to tell. Despite the fact that Mr. Crane has been repeatedly told the work was good for many years, he intends giving it up at the end of the present season. In the comedian's hands the comedy has been wonderfully successful and in several cities it holds the record for large receipts. The keynote of success has been its humor and the capitally drawn character types that it contains. The engagement is for one week only. There will be no advance in prices.

OLD RESIDENT.

Elias Allen Died at His Home on Somerset Street.

The death of Elias Allen, an old resident of North Plainfield, occurred ast evening at his home at 180 Somerset street, after a short illness. He was eighty years of age and leaves two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Schutt, of New York city, and Mrs. Stephen Beeching, formerly of this city. Mr. Allen was the brother-in-law of the late H. N. Spencer, who was surrogate of Somerset county.

The deceased recently lost his wife and since her death he has been gradually growing more feeble until the end came last evening.

The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Benefit Concert Held Last Night at Home of Mrs. Lulu Dempsey.

The benefit concert given, last evening, at the home of Mrs. Lulu Dempsey, of West Third street, for Rev. E. E. Jackson, proved quite a success despite the inclement weather. The attendance was good and the occasion greatly enjoyed.

Professor A. White and Claude Bean were in charge and were assisted by the following committee: Mrs. Louise Taylor, Mrs. M. Berry, Mrs. M. Jackson, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Polhemus.

Trip to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras.

The celebration of the Mardi Gras at New Orleans this year promises to be superb in all respects, and will surpass all other celebrations of the day in pageantry, display and general jollification. The different organizations which take part in this great carnival are better equipped than ever to make it the greatest social event in its history.

The trip via the Royal Blue Line and Southern Lines through the southern States, is both historic and picturesque. The rate to New Orleans from Plainfield via Washington and Southern Lines is $37, via Cincinnati $35.80. Rates from the above point via Washington and Southern Lines to Mobile, Ala., or Pensacola, Fla., $35, via Cincinnati, $33.30.

Tickets will be placed on sale at the above station February 16, and will be limited to return until February 28. c

Missionary Committee of Trinity Endeavorers Is Arranging a Trip.

The missionary committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church has arranged with the Speedwell Company to conduct the members of the society on a trip to the Pacific coast and all are cordially invited to join in the expedition. A commodious air ship has been chartered for the trip, and the start will be made Monday evening, February 16, promptly at 8 o'clock, at Trinity Reformed church. Everything possible will be done for the comfort and pleasure of the tourists, and the journey promises to be a most enjoyable one. Miss Lillian A. Force, is chairman of the committee and Henry P. Seader associate chairman. Transportation will be furnish free to all who go.

MRS. WARING'S LUNCHEON.

Social Affair Held at Home of Mrs. L. E. Waring.

A luncheon was held Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. L. E. Waring at her home on West Seventh street to a number of her friends. The house was prettily decorated in carnations and greens, giving an attractive color effect of white and green. Those who were present were Mrs. E. M. Van-Buren, Mrs. Wm. S. Tyler, Mrs. J. R. Blake, Mrs. C. W. McGee, the Misses Waring, Miss Cox, Miss May Evans, Miss Charlotte Lowe, Miss Helen Bushnell and Mrs. L. E. Waring.

No One Knows What.

The affair of the In and Out Club will be held at the home of the Misses Randolph, of East Front street and Farragut road, tomorrow evening. It is not known what the affair will be. That it will not be a dance is almost conclusive, but the committee has prepared an affair which will be resplendent with novel features.

—They are two kinds of coffee, good and bad. Neuman Brothers, Mocha and Java and Old Government Java are the best of the good. Try them.

Funeral of Mrs. Burns.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Charles Burns took place at her late home on Spooner avenue, yesterday afternoon, in charge of Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel. Interment was afterward made in Evergreen cemetery. The pall bearers were James Patterson, Harry Corlies, Joseph Brown and William Fairbank.

New Office for Lehigh Valley R. R.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has established the new office of second vice president, to which position J. H. Middleton has been elected. His location will be in Philadelphia, where he will have charge of the financial and accounting affairs of the company as well as its purchasing department.

Five "Speak Easies" Indicted.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Jan. 30—The Union County Grand Jury completed its list of findings, yesterday and returned with forty indictments, five of which were Plainfield illegal liquor sellers. The jury was not discharged as it will take up the New Jersey Central wreck.

One-Sided Buildings.

"A good many people find fault with some of the new buildings we are putting up, on the ground that they are one-sided," said one of the superintendents employed by a large construction company. "By this it is meant that they appear architecturally incomplete. Many entrances are placed at apparently inconvenient corners, and large windows and prominent decorations that rightfully belong in certain sections to insure a harmonious whole are now sadly out of place. This lack of uniformity is due to the fact that many buildings in course of construction are not being put up in their entirety. In many cases it has been found impracticable to break the lease for houses on adjoining property which was meant to be incorporated into the area of the new building, consequently the work progresses in sections. When the leases expire and the rest of the ground is available, these buildings will present a homogeneous front."—N. Y. Times.

Marriages Expected.

Only recently the complaint was made that the preparations for a wedding were becoming so elaborate troublesome and costly that young men preferred to remain bachelors rather than undergo the ordeal. In view of this complaint is is reassuring to learn that, owing to the perfection of system established in the county building, weddings may now be performed there with the greatest dispatch. A couple, it is reported, may seek the marriage license window at any time in the day and then depart from the county building man and wife in the space of eight minutes and 20 seconds. The gain over the slow, old-fashioned wedding, which requires weeks for preparation and a whole day for the ceremony itself is obvious. A man may now get married in less time than it takes to ride around the loop. Some improved method of courtship on the lightning express principle doubtless will soon be forthcoming.—Chicago Daily News

KINSMAN'S BLOCK SYSTEM

A PLAINFIELDER'S INVENTION THAT WILL STOP TRAINS.

Works Independent of Engineer—Inventor Believes It Would Have Prevented Wreck.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—A great number of my friends and acquaintances seem to blame or criticise me for neglecting to have my block system in use on steam railroads. My only answer is given by the publication of the enclosed statement of a locomotive engineer on the Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad.

I do not care to discuss the reasons for its not remaining in use on that road, sufficient to say at this time, that apparatus capable of performing such an operation successfully not only once, but many hundred times, is in the nature of things capable of being able to repeat the performance indefinitely.

My block system is especially designed to prevent collisions, resulting from the failure of the manual element in the control of railway trains, by shutting off the motive power and applying the air breaks automatically either on a train operated by a competent engineer, or one who is incapaciated by mental or physical ailments, and that too without the use of any moving parts or tripping devices on, or about the railway. It in no way interferes with the present rival signals or the ordinary method of train control by the engineer, simply performing the functions of both, in cases like that which brought untold sorrow and mourning to this, the most beautiful city, any where adjoining New York. Having perfected such a system for both steam and electric railways it is but proper to allow my friends the opportunity to draw the conclusion, that a person similarly situated would not be likely to leave any stone unturned which would tend to bring him both credit and substantial remuneration.

Neither can it be supposed that mechancial skill has reached its limit in present established devices, or that men in responsible positions have done their utmost to prove for themselves the merits of an apparatus which eminent engineers have said of the apparatus when seen working under every day railroad conditions. "It actually does the work of the engineer and would undoubtedly stop a running train, as well as one controlled by a competent individual."

In my opinion Engineer Davis' mind was resting in the security of familiar and oft-repeated tasks, or was clouded by over taxation, or other distrant conditions resulting from infirmities common to a considerable portion of the human race. No one but practical railroad men, and engineers can begin to guess the number of times the same thing has almost happened. If it does not occur in Plainfield again soon, it will be but a short time before the reader may hear of it elsewhere. With the statement that no railroad will be derived the privilege of proving the correctness of my intimations and statemendts, I remain, Yours respectfully.

F. E. Kinsman.

The letter:

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway.
Chicago Station.
Nov. 6, 1893.

To the Kinsman Block System Co:

Gentlemen: On October first (last) while I was running locomotive No. 614 of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, with eight passenger coaches attached, from Evansville to Chicago, the throttle valve of the locomotive was automatically closed and the air brakes applied by the action of the Kinsman Block System devices, with which the locomotive and track of the road are equipped.

The action occurred near Rogers Park station where there is a curve in the road, and it was impossible for me to see the road but a very short distance ahead. I immediately released the brakes, re-opend the throttle valve and moved ahead cautiously to find on the track just around the curve a freight train on my track moving slowly. Had the Kinsman devices not automatically closed the throttle valve and applied the brakes when they did, a serious collision between my train and the freight train could not have been averted and must have been followed by great damage to both trains and probably by loss of life.

Very respectfully,
George Creighton,
Engineer 614.

Witness to signature,
W. R. Norris.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"Hello, there, Mr. Rockwell!" shouted Hestor, lifting his cap and bowing profoundly. "Did you have a good time? How are you, Mr. Morton? You are so tanned I scarcely recognized you. How do you do, Mr. Kent? Hestoria seems to have agreed with you! Hello, Sidney! Kindly tell your friends, Sidney, that MR. KENT WAS THE FIRST TO REACH HIS SIDE.

I must have the pleasure of their company aboard the 'Shark' at once! They are disarranging my plans. Check your yacht and I will send a launch over after you. There is my old college chum, L. Sylvester Vincent! How are you, old chap! You look like the real thing! No nonsense about this, Sidney! Stop your boat, or I will stop her for you!"

"You keep off our course!" shouted Sidney. "These gentlemen do not care to see you. Go your way and do not molest us. You will do so at your peril. Capt. Waters, that man is insane. You should put him in irons and take him to New Orleans. Are you the captain of a pirate ship? This is Mr. Carmody's yacht, with ladies aboard. We demand that we be allowed to proceed, and request you to do your duty and turn that man over to the authorities. He is a criminal or a lunatic."

"I am, am I!" shouted Hestor. He dashed the megaphone to the bridge and leaped to the lower deck. Like a flash he jumped to the rapid-fire gun. Capt. Waters yelled an order. It was not finished when there came a spit of fire from the muzzle of the gun. Three of the crew dashed at Hestor.

The same instant there was the crack of a rifle from the bow of the "Helen Carmody."

A dozen bullets tore through the glass and mahogany sides of the forward deck house. Sidney Hammond fell to the deck. The "Shark" swung sharply to the starboard, and in a few seconds was speeding away to the east. It all happened so quickly that with one exception the men on the "Helen Carmody" were too dazed to make a move. The wheelsman sent the yacht hard to port.

Mr. Kent was the first to reach the side of Sidney Hammond. There was a stain of red on his shoulder, and they tore and cut away the coat and shirt. As they did so, Sidney opened his eyes. He stared for a moment and jumped to his feet.

"It is nothing!" he said, as he took a long breath. "It is merely a flesh wound. The shock dazed me for a moment. I am all right."

In the meantime the "Shark" continued on its eastern course, and the "Helen Carmody" neared the mouth of the Mississippi. It was seven o'clock in the evening when they took a pilot. Sidney was moved to the forward deck, and all gathered around him to discuss what had happened.

"That was about as rapid a bit of work as ever I witnessed," said Mr. Kent, who had been slightly cut in the hand by a flying piece of glass.

"Who fired the shot from our boat?" asked Sidney, with a slight grimace of pain as his shoulder twinged where the shot had lacerated a muscle. "It was the last thing I heard."

"I fired it," said Bernard Seymour. "And I got your man Hestor all right. Did you see him drop?"

"I did," said Mr. Morton. "His hands went up and he fell into the arms of two of his crew who were rushing forward to grab him."

"Did any one hear the order given by Capt. Waters?" asked Mr. Carmody.

"I heard every word he said," replied Miss Helen.

"You did!" exclaimed her father, a frown darkening his face. "I asked you to go below, Helen, and supposed you would obey me."

"I went below, papa, just as you told me to do," said Miss Helen, contritely. "But you did not tell me I could not look out. I opened the port hole in the saloon, and saw and heard everything that happened on the 'Shark.' When Mr. Hestor leaped from the bridge and ran to the gun, Capt. Waters shouted, 'Stop him! Hold him!' Then he yelled 'Starboard!' to the wheelsman, and rushed down the steps to the deck. But before the men could stop Hestor, he had commenced firing. Then he threw his hands up in the air and the men caught him as he fell backwards. I thought I could see blood on his face."

"This probably terminates Hestor's career as a pirate or a maniac," remarked Mr. Morton. "The government cutters will run the 'Shark' to cover in short order. You are quite a sharpshooter, Mr. Seymour."

"I had my eye on that Hotchkiss gun all the time," said Mr. Seymour. "At first I thought Hestor was making a bluff to scare us. But when he turned loose I knew he meant war. If he had remained back of the shield he would have been safe, and I proposed to drop the man at the wheel and take a crack at the captain. But Hestor stuck his head out to see where his shots were landing, and I let him have it. I have shot some before. The Sioux Indians and I used to exchange compliments before the battle of Wounded Knee, and I guess my shooting eye is all right yet. But I hope I did not kill him."

At midnight the "Helen Carmody" steamed up to New Orleans, landed near Canal street and discharged her passengers on their native soil. They at once proceeded to a hotel.

A surgeon was called and made a careful examination of Sidney's wound. He confirmed the diagnosis made by the yacht steward. He dressed the wound carefully, and advised Sidney to remain quiet for several days. It was late before Mr. Chalmers and his assistants had forwarded to "The Record" an account of this incident.

Mr. Bernard Seymour arose bright and early the following morning, and after a stroll around the Lee Circle returned to the hotel and enjoyed a hearty breakfast. He purchased the morning papers, and selecting a comfortable chair on the veranda proceeded to combine the luxury of a cigar with a perusal of the journals in which his name figured so conspicuously. He was studying a three-column portrait labeled "Mr. Bernard Seymour, the Famous Newspaper Detective," when some one tapped him on the shoulder.

"Haou are ye, Mister Seymour! I swan, I'm mighty glad ter see ye! Haou de ye dew! Haou de ye dew!"

"Hello, Captain Parker! The pleasure is all mine! How are you, Captain? How is the good ship, the 'Sam Walker'?"

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein Francis Wood, Mary Anna E. Wood, Alexander C. Wood, William Haden and Mary Anna E. Wood, Jr., Trustees under the last Will and Testament of Richard Esterbrook, dec'd, are complainants, and Hattie L. Gibbons and others (including yourselves) are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the complainants' bill on or before the fourteenth day of March, next, or in default thereof such decree will be made against you as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by John B. Mills and Annie B. Mills, his wife, and Francis S. Runyon to Mary Esterbrook, Francis Wood, Mary Anna E. Wood, Alexander C. Wood and William Haden, trustees under the last Will and Testament of Richard Esterbrook, deceased, (the said Mary Esterbrook having since died, and the said Mary Anna E. Wood, jr., was substituted as Trustee in her place and stead), said mortgage dated March 11, 1899, and recorded in Union County Clerk's office in Book 156 of mortgages for said county on pages 404, etc., on lands in the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey.

And you, Charles S. Runyon, Katharine Hodgdon, William Sexson, Elizabeth Sexson, Mary Utter and Albert L. Runyon are made defendants because you are some of the heirs at law of Francis S. Runyon, who died seized of an undivided one-half interest in said lands, and thereby claim to own an interest in said mortgaged lands.

And you, Samuel Utter are made defendant because you are the husband of Mary Utter one of said owners of said mortgaged lands and you may thereby claim an interest in the same.

And you, Henry W. Hodgdon, are made defendant because you are the husband of Martha E. Hodgdon, deceased, who was one of the owners of said mortgaged lands, and you may thereby claim a right of curtesy in the same.

And you, Smith Gibbons, are made defendant because you are the husband of Hattie L. Gibbons who owns a portion of said mortgaged lands and thereby may claim an interest in the same.

And you, Mrs. Charles S. Runyon are made defendant because you are the wife of Charles S. Runyon above named and because you claim an ischoate right of dower in and to your huband's share in said mortgaged lands.

And you, Mrs. Albert L. Runyon, are made defendant because you are the wife of Albert L. Runyon above named, and because you claim an inchoate right of dower in and to your husband's share in said mortgaged lands.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

A pleasant meeting of the Afternoon Card Club was held Tuesday at the home of the Misses Dunham. The prize for playing was won by Miss Emma Nelson. The afternoon ended with the serving of refreshments.

Miss Viola Hill, who was recently operated on for appendicitis, is now on the road to recovery. Her physicians consider her case quite a remarkable one as it was not thought that she could get well.

Adam Dealaman is still somewhat improved, although he suffered from shock upon hearing of the wreck.

Mrs. Lewis Tinsman is recovering from her illness and is allowed to sit up for some time each day.

Joel Giddes was obliged to kill a horse which he owned as it was sick and could not be cured.

Mrs. James Craig is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Kissam, in New York.

Regular prayer meeting was held in the local churches at the regular time.

A large attendance is looked for at the Methodist parsonage, this evening.

Robert Lowrie, who has been severely ill, is now able to sit up.

E. S. Spencer, of Jersey City, was in town on business Tuesday.

L. T. Titsworth was in New Brunswick on business Tuesday.

The W. C. T. U. will hold a regular meeting, this afternoon.

Henry Garretson was in Plainfield on business Tuesday.

The Juniors met in regular session Tuesday evening.

John R. Campbell is on a business trip to Boston.

NEW MARKET.

At the next meeting of the Township Committee February 5, some important business will come before the public for approval.

Friendship Social Circle met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Nelson, of Watchung.

The regular weekly prayer meeting was held last evening in the First Baptist church.

Abram G. Nelson was in New York Tuesday on busindss.

The band will not hold a practice this evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The many friends of Prof. L. A. Goodenough, a former principal of the school, now superintendent of the Paterson public schools, will regret to learn of the death of his wife which occurred last week, funeral services being held from the saddened home at Paterson, Sunday. Mrs. Goodenough leaves, beside her husband, an infant two weeks old.

Edward Flynn and Horace Hand, two of the victims of the wreck, were former Scotch Plains boys, having lived here until their removal to Plainfield.

Fred Meyers, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyers, has returned to his home in New York.

Frederick K. Clark has returned from Far Hills, where he has been purchasing some new horses for his trade.

The "No Name" Club, of the Methodist church, met Monday evening at the home of Miss Helen Whitenack.

Wm. H. Day, a former old resident of the village but now of Plainfield, has been visiting friends in town.

The weekly meeting and election of officers of the Boys' Club was held in the Methodist church last night.

Mrs. Chas. Smith, of Westfield, was the guest yesterday of her aunt, Mrs. J. C. Lyons.

Ira G. Walker has purchased the Norman Dunn property on Mountain avenue.

Quarantine was removed from the home of Mr. Shacketon, Monday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Recently a man and woman travelling, landed at this place by mistake. Had it not been for the information given by a bystander, and the assistance of hotel proprietor, Morris Higgins, they might have experienced some difficulty in getting to their destination.

Milton G. Major, chief clerk at the coal storage grounds, has been appointed foreman during the absence of Leslie E. Molineux, who recently was transferred to the Perth Amboy coal wharves, as assistant foreman on account of the increase of business there.

Engineer Benjamin Mundy was called out last night to pilot passenger trains of the Central road from Bound Brook to Roselle.

Morris Higgins is confined to his home by illness. He is under the careful treatment of Dr. W. J. Nelson.

The funeral services of Ephraim J. Boice will be held at the local church Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Thomas Bohl, night yard master here, resumed his duties yesterday.

Marjorie Cubberley has been kept from school a few days by illness.

WANT MORE MONEY.

Local Laundries Agree to a Slight Increase in Prices.

The laundries in this city and in neighboring towns have started a movement to increase the price of laundered articles.

The movement has been started by Hillier & Co., The Westfield Laundry and several local concerns. A circular has been issued to the customers of these laundries in which it states that cuffs will now be washed for 5 cents a pair and collars 2½ cents a piece. Other laundered articles will be increased in price.

It is said that there are a number of other local laundries considering going into the plan and it is affirmed that the reason of this increase in price is because of the raise in the price of fuel.

PREPARING FOR FUNERAL.

Meeting of Perseverance Lodge Tonight to Complete Details.

All members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., are earnestly requested to be present at the meeting to be held, this evening. The organization is to have charge of the funeral of the late Harvey L. Patterson and it is desired by the officials to complete all arrangements. The services will take place at the home of his parents Sunday evening at 7 o'clock and interment will be made at Rye, Westchester county, N. Y., Monday.

To Attend Funeral.

Superintendent George E. Hall, of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school, makes a special request that the members of the Sunday-school sit in a body in the space reserved for them at the funeral services of Thomas A. Cuming, tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

To Visit Six Hours.

On an application presented by Counsellor W. S. Agleman Tuesday, Vice Chancellor Emery named the time of access of James Carson to his children. He is to have them for six hours each Sunday, from 12 to 6, going to the mother's home for them and returning them afterward.

PERSONAL.

Harold Brownell, of Elmwood place, who has been detained at home by illness, is very much improved and will be able to leave the house soon.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?
In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.
The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.
This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.
With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.
Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

HOW TO CO-OPERATE.

Organized Aid Association Workers Held Conference to Discuss Question.

The friendly visitors of the Organized Aid Association held a profitable conference Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, of East Front street. The question how to co-operate and obtain the best results in charity work. Dr. W. H. Allen, general secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, was present and introduced the topic that of professional standards in charity work. Dr. Allen considered organization and co-operative the best solution of the problem.

United action in charity work was advanced as a most valuable aid and prevents in a large measure extra work. Along the line of discussion of the subject reference was made to the probation system, woman's reformatory, juvenile courts, etc. The discussion also brought out some valuable suggestions as to the elevation of the lowest class of people.

The State convention of charity workers will be held in Trenton February 19 and 20 and all persons interested in charity work are cordially invited to attend.

GOLDEN EAGLE ANNIVERSARY.

Arrangements Are Being Made for a Big Time.

Arrangements for a celebration of the anniversary of the local lodge of the Knights of the Golden Eagle were made at the meeting of the members held in its rooms Tuesday night. The committee on arrangements who were appointed to arrange for the affair consisted of H. J. Martin, chairman; A. C. Hoagland, R. V. Kenney, A. R. Vail and C. M. Luckey.

A feature of the anniversary will be an entertainment presented by local talent and some outside talent will also be secured. The entertainment will close with a dance for the benefit of the younger members of the lodge.

WESTFIELD WRECK VICTIMS ARE BEING LAID AT REST

Funerals of Those Who Met Death in Railroad Disaster Held Yesterday and Today.

MANY PRESENT AT THE SERVICES

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON WAS OBSERVED AS TIME OF PUBLIC MOURNING AND ALL STORES WERE CLOSED.

No Business Transacted Between Hours of 2 and 4—Some Impressive Services—Those Who Assisted in Bearing the Dead to Their Last Resting Places—The Funerals of the Victims of Terrible Accident in Detail.

Gloom—so deep and oppressive in its density that it appalled—pervaded the streets and homes of Plainfield, yesterday. In every part of the city men moved about with bowed heads and spoke in whispers. No one laughed but the innocent children upon whose shoulders grief sits lightly or is but momentary.

On every side the solemn black funeral processions, each with its quota of bowed mourners, moved silently by toward the cemeteries. Business houses closed their doors and employer and employes mingled with those already paying their respects to some beloved one reposing in a casket. School children laid aside their books and from every staff flags hung at half mast. Truly, it was a silence that was unnatural and made the stoutest heart quail as only Death can.

The same scenes were repeated today. More victims of the terrible disaster are being laid away and others still await the last sad rites.

Craig Waldron.

There were a number of New York business associates that attended the funeral services of Craig Waldron held yesterday afternoon from the home on East Fifth street. As stated yesterday, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis and Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes officiated. During the services Miss Nan Randolph and David E. Titsworth sang "Sometime the Silver Cord will Break." The service was largely attended by friends and relatives.

The pall-bearers were W. F. Lowry, W. J. Schoonovel and A. N. Wares, of the Baldwin Express Company, New York, where Mr. Waldron was employed for years, and L. W. Randolph, of this city. For the latter Mr. Waldron did private bookkeeping. There were a great many floral tributes from friends and business associates. The interment took place in the Baptist cemetery.

Harry Rogers.

In addition to the host of relatives and friends who filled the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rogers, of West Fifth street, yesterday, when funeral services were held over the remains of their son, Harry, one of the youngest victims, the entire membership of the Criterion Club was present. He was one of its charter members and did a great deal to promote its growth.

Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, was in charge and he was assisted by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis. The latter gave a most impressive talk in which he dwelt upon the uncertainties of life and how little God's ways and purposes are understood by His children. He closed with a heartfelt prayer in which he invoked blessing upon the bereaved parents.

During the service two selections, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Somtime We'll Understand" were rendered by a quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. David Titsworth, Miss Nan Randolph and Elmer E. Runyon.

The floral tributes filled one end of the room where the casket was and were mostly all from friends individually. A large set piece was sent by the Criterion Club.

The body was laid to rest in Hillside cemetery, the casket being borne by William Kennett, James Pope, George L. Babcock, Richard Randolph, Hervey Doane and Irving Niles.

James H. Hallett, Jr.

The last rites over the remains of the late James H. Hallett, Jr., were held at 7 o'clock last evening at his late residence at New Market. The services were conducted by Rev. Arthur Phelps, rector of Holy Innocents church at New Market, and Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the Baptist church of that place.

The service was simple, yet impressive. Rev. Mr. Fletcher offered a prayer and an eulogy was delivered by Rev. Mr. Phelps. He spoke feelingly of the life of Mr. Hallett and in his remarks were words of comfort to the bereaved family. During the service a hymn, "Abide With Me," was sung by a quartette.

The floral tributes were particularly handsome. Some of the pieces were from business and social acquaintances. He was an honorary member of Company K and several of the members of that company were present at the services.

This morning the remains were taken to Hillside cemetery where the interment took place.

Chas. T. Thayer.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Charles T. Thayer were held yesterday afternoon from his late residence at the corner of East Ninth street and Watchung avenue. The services were attended by a large number of very prominent New York men.

At 1:30, the services began with a prayer by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, formerly pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church but now of the Brick Presbyterian church at New York. The hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," was sung by Elmer Runyon.

With a choking voice the minister delivered a short eulogy over the remains and spoke in a feeling manner of the life of the dead man.

The display of flowers at the funeral service was very handsome. Many of the flowers were sent from New York by business and social acquaintances of the deceased.

Shortly after the services were over the remains were placed in the main room of the house where they lay until evening when they were sent to Buffalo. The interment will be in the family plot at Buffalo.

Those who arrived in this city on a special car to attend the services were: Jeremiah DeNowles, superintendent of the National Express Company; George W. Slingerland, superintendent of the American Express Company; Joseph McWilliams, superintendent of the Manhattan Delivery Company; Alonzo Corisa, superintendent of the Joy Line Express Company; W. H. Hutton, ex-general manager of the United States Express Company; William Hutt, assistant superintendent of the National Express Company; and Lewis Harrington, chief of the money order department of the Wells-Fargo Express Company.

Frederick Hardingham.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Frederick Hardingham were held at his home on Dunellen avenue, last evening at 8 o'clock, when there was a large number of people present, many of whom were from New York and Brooklyn where the deceased was very well known in business circles and in social life.

The service was the simple though impressive one of the Plymouth Brotherhood and was conducted by members of the local Brotherhood.

GRAPHIC STORY OF WRECK

Sights at Westfield Disaster as Related by E. Maxwell Honeyman.

One of the most graphic and complete naratives of the Westfield disaster was given by E. Maxwell Honeyman, of Grove street, to a Daily Press reporter, yesterday afternoon.

"I was sitting with Clifford A. Braider in the fourth car from the rear of the train when our train stopped. Leaving Braider behind, I went out to see what was the matter and found that there was a heated journal on the engine. I noticed that we were on the main track instead of the freight track and walked back to see if the 'Phillie,' which I knew must be almost due, was in sight. Away in the distance the headlight of the express could be faintly discerned but, noticing particularly that the block signals were set against it, I dismissed the subject from my mind.

"When the train was ready to start, several of us boarded it close to the engine and walked back through the train. The train was just beginning to move and we had gotten inside the door to the car where we had been sitting when the collision occurred. Looking back through the train, we could see the locomotive of the express plow right through the cars behind us and people, car seats and debris fly in all directions. It was chaos.

"I don't remember how we got outside. I only remember running alongside the wrecked train to see what had struck us. Braider and myself were, I think, among the first to reach the scene. The first man we saw was Thomas A. Cuming. There were several trying to lift him out of the wreckage and we hurried to their assistance. He kept saying 'This is awful!' Although one leg was only hanging by a few strips of flesh, he did not appear to realize it and asked if his leg was badly hurt. Then one of the party severed the shred of flesh that held the limb.

"Then we went to the assistance of the fireman. He had crawled out of the blazing wreck and dropped down on the tracks on his hands and knees. He was carried up on the bank.

"If you had taken a quantity of kerosene oil and thrown it over the cars and touched a match to them, the fire would not have started quicker. I believe that it started from the firebox of the engine inasmuch as the flames first appeared at that part of the wreck.

"There were many assisting in the work of rescue. I remember seeing William A. Townsend and William Coriell there. There were many other Plainfielders who I have forgotten in the excitement.

"Some of the rescuers were cutting away at the top of one of the cars under which a man's arm stuck out. We could only see a portion of his face, not enough to recognize it. The fire was approaching and he begged them to hit him on the head with the axe. I did not wait to see what happened after that. Our attention was next called to a man who was pinned under the gas tank of one of the cars. When that caught fire it looked like a huge blow pipe, blowing out in all directions, part at us and part directly at the man's chest and neck.

"I counted seven persons pinned under the wreck but could not tell whether they were alive or dead. There was one woman in a black gown who was right up near the locomotive headlight. We could not see her face.

"One strange thing we saw. Some of the people who lined the bank made little snowballs and threw them at the fire.

"It was a horrible sight. I can see it every time I close my eyes. I do not think that any of us who were in the wreck will ever forget it. I am thankful indeed that I am alive today to tell the tale."

Two New Factories.

The Lasher Pray Color Company, of North avenue, was granted a permit this morning to erect a factory 50x50x90 feet. H. Wales Lines Company, of Merriden, Conn., are the contracting masons. Spicer & Hubbard will erect a factory on Madison avenue. The factory will be a large one and will be two stories in height.

Urgent Needs.

The Relief Association is in urgent need of second-hand clothing, especially children's wear, for distribution among its cases. Donations may be sent to the Relief rooms, 544 West Front street, or will be called for if a notice be sent to the rooms.

OUT OF RESPECT.

Men of Grace M. E. Church Simply Met and Adjourned.

A meeting of the men of Grace M. E. church was called for last evening at the church for the purpose of forming an organization the mutual helpfulness along social, intellectual and moral lines.

E. E. Winckler was elected chairman pro tem. Out of sympathy for the bereaved and in keeping with the spirit of the day, the meeting was adjourned until Monday evening, February 2, when the work of organization will be completed and the officers elected.

Horses for C. J. Fisk.

Charles J. Fisk, of this city, has recently purchased some very fine horses from John Bratan, of Lexington, Ky. It is reported that the purchase price was $1,500. The horses are thoroughbred drivers and one of them recently captured the first prize at the Kansas City Horse Show.

Given Up.

The men of the Seventh-Day Baptist church who planned a social for Thursday evening at the church have decided to postpone the affair indefinitely.

THE ENGINEER'S STATEMENT

Chief Kiely Says It Has Not Been Given Out—Coroner's Jury Meets Tuesday.

Most of the morning's New York papers, in dispatches dated Elizabeth, quote former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, foreman of the coroner's jury appointed to investigate the cause of the wreck, as giving out the purport of Engineer Davis' statement as made to Chief Kiely and Coroner Bunting. According to it Davis reiterated what he said to County Physician Westcott, that he had left his seat to fix a leaky injector after seeing that everything gave him a clear track at Cranford. He had remained from his post a short time and had just taken his seat at the throttle when he saw the rear lights of the Easton local directly ahead. It was too late to do anything and the crash followed.

Telephonic communication to Elizabeth this morning failed to secure a verification of the report and Chief Kiely was broached upon the subject. He immediately branded the alleged statement as a concoction and said further, "You can say for me that I have the statement and not until the coroner's jury meets will it be revealed. For reasons best known to myself it would not be reasonable to give it out now, but rest assured that if anybody gets it, Plainfield will have it first through the local papers." Officials who coincide with the chief in his stand say that if he made Davis' defense known, other people would make their statements agree when called before the jury or take his as a base for testimony.

Former Mayor Fisk is further declared to have said, "One of the things I am in favor of asking of the railroad company is, that two engineers be placed on all of these big 'camelbacked' or 'Mother Hubbard' engines. The engineer might die of heart disease and the fireman could easily remain in ignorance of it for half an hour. It is almost criminal to have a kind of engine where such a thing could occur."

The meeting of the coroner's jury has been postponed from Monday afternoon until the following afternoon at 2 o'clock, on account of it being imperative for Andrew J. Gavett, one of the members, to be in Boston on that day. The testimony will be taken in the City Council chambers.

JUNIORS FAIR.

Benevolent Council Hear From the Committee Making Arrangements.

At the regular meeting of Benevolent Council, No. 26, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening, three new members were initiated and several propositions for membership were received. Isaac N. Wyckoff was elected to the office of vice councilor and duly installed by the installing officer, Past Councilor Arthur G. Adams.

Interesting reports were received from the committee having in charge the arrangements for the fair to be held by the Council during the week of February 9 to 14.

The members decided that so far as possible they would attend the funeral of the late Horace Hand, a member of Twilight Council, of Scotch Plains, who was a victim of the wreck at Westfield, Tuesday, to be held this afternoon.

SUIT AGAINST CITY.

Engineer Gavett and Corporation Counsel Marsh Looking After It.

City Engineer Gavett and Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh go to Boston today on the injunction and damage case brought in the United States Circuit Court against this city. They have been obliged to change their plans and be back in Plainfield Tuesday, to enable Mr. Gavett to attend the Coroner's inquest in the Westfield accident proceedings, and Mr. Marsh to look after the interests of clients who have retained him to bring damage suits against the Railroad Company.

Extra Corps of Visitors.

The members of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital met yesterday in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church. Aside from the routine business, all of the members were asked appoint themselves as visitors to the hospital during the coming month. This was considered best in view of the recent extra work placed on the hospital staff of physicians and nurses.

ANOTHER DEATH AT HOSPITAL; DEAD NUMBER TWENTY-THREE

J. Everitt Reighton Died at Muhlenberg Hospital at 9:50 o'Clock Last Evening After Strong Fight.

FREDERICKS' CONDITION IS SERIOUS

OTHER PATIENTS AT THE HOSPITAL ARE REPORTED AS PROGRESSING FAVORABLY, ALTHOUGH SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Young Reighton Was Conscious Almost to the Last—Family Was at His Bed Side—He Forgave the Engineer—The Present Condition of the Others of Those Who Were Seriously Injured In the Railroad Wreck.

Another victim has been added to the long list of fatalities of the Westfield disaster. J. Everitt Reighton, after a struggle to recover from the terrible injuries he received, passed away at 9:50 o'clock last evening. The end was peaceful and he retained consciousness almost to the last moment.

With him at the time of his death were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Reighton, Captain Martin and Lieutenant Lewis, of Company K, Stanley Emmons, his cousin, and his two nurses, Miss Rhodes and Mrs. Loomis. Early in the evening while perfectly rational, Emmons spoke to Reighton and told him how people were placing the blame upon Engineer Davis' shoulders. With a piteous look in his eyes he exclaimed:

"I think it's terrible he is being held entirely responsible. I know I have got to go but I don't want anybody to believe I think hard of him for my condition. I'll tell you why. I was sitting in the rear end of the last car with Howard George when someone, Mr. Palmer Smith, I think, shouted for us to jump. Looking out of the back door I saw the express engine bearing down. From both sides of it, sparks were flying high in the air, caused, I believe, by the brakes being set hard. It seems to me he was doing his best after getting past the danger signals if there were any, and please tell everybody I want him to be exonerated."

Reighton's funeral services will be held from Trinity church, Tuesday afternoon, and will be a full military affair conducted by Company K to which he belonged. Interment will be made at Hillside cemetery.

There are now remaining at the hospital eight of the injured persons, and in the generally accepted term they are all doing fairly well. Inquiry at the hospital this morning by a reporter for The Daily Press revealed the fact that the injured people passed a comfortable night. The list of those now at the hospital include Howard A. George, of Craig place; R. M. Apgar, B. M. Ising and Wilson Fredericks, of Dunellen; Fred Kanen, of Watchung avenue; Charles Langworthy, of East Ninth street; Mrs. Madeline Balch, of Watchung avenue, and Samuel McCarty, the fireman, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Fredericks is probably considered to be in the most critical condition, although he had a good night and was resting quietly this morning. His chances for recovery are believed to be fair.

McCarty, the fireman, has shown slow but steady improvement, his general condition this morning being considered more favorable. His mind is perfectly clear and frequently he converses with those nearest to him in the ward concerning the accident. The other patients are also doing well.

The condition of Fred Kanen, of Watchung avenue, the youngest of those injured, is considered bad. His back and legs are injured and he is hurt internally. Drs. Ellis Hedges and Pittis are in charge and are doing all possible. He is but fifteen years old and is employed by Logan & Bryan, of 11 Broadway.

The engineer, J. H. Davis, of the ill-fated Philadelphia flyer, which crashed into the local commuter's train Tuesday evening was a brother to the engineer of the fast Atlantic City flyer, which collided with a milk train near Atlantic City, three years ago, when thirteen people were killed and many others were injured. The accident at that time was caused by the same misunderstanding of signals which characterized the collision of Tuesday night at Westfield.

William A. Conger, of Mountain avenue, has been detained from business by reason of a shock he received in the railroad wreck Tuesday evening. He was slightly cut on the side of the head, but the wound is not serious. Mr. Conger was in the third car from the rear, when the crash came.

PLEASANT RECEPTION.

Given by Mrs. Robert Rushmore, at West Eighth Street; Home.

A reception was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Rushmore, of West Eighth street, Thursday afternoon and evening. The affair was a very delightful one and was followed by a supper. The decorations at the house were of pink roses and carnations and white.

The reception was held between the hours of 4 and 7. The receiving party comprised: Mrs. J. H. Ackerman, Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Mrs. Edward Patterson, Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, Mrs. M. S. Ackerman, the Misses Weber, Mrs. J. W. Sandford, Mrs. Francis deL. Hyde, the Misses Stewart, Miss Wood and Mrs. Arthur Murphy. Music was rendered by a New York quartette who sang in National costume.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Had Been All Planned by One of the Wreck Victims.

Harold W. Tomlinson, of Verdon street, who was killed in the railroad wreck at Westfield Tuesday night, had just prior to the fateful night arranged for a special service to be held in the Congregational church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society tomorrow evening. That service will be carried out as he planned it and will be in the nature of a memorial service to him. All persons who were interested in Mr. Tomlinson will be welcome. F. H. Andrews will make an address on "Heaven and Its Inhabitants," and there will be solos by Miss Miller and Willard Wadsworth.

No Accident.

The ambulance in this city was summoned to Westfield, Thursday night, by telephone and, before the facts could be ascertained, some person started a rumor that a serious trolley accident had occurred at Westfield and a number of persons were killed. Investigation disclosed the fact that a woman, too ill to be moved in a cab, had engaged the ambulance to move her from one place to another.

Died at Hospital.

Gottfried Hoenig, aged forty-nine years, a machinist employed in the Pond Tool Machine Works, died Thursday night at Muhlenberg Hospital, where he had been under treatment for a complication of troubles. He is survived by a wife and six children. The funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 10:30 from the undertaking parlors of A. M. Runyon & Son, Park avenue.

BUSY SEASON THIS FOR LOCAL HACKMEN

Newspapermen and Other Strangers Made Great Demands on City's Service.

FOUND HACKMEN READY

GENERAL OPINION WAS THAT THEY WERE A COURTEOUS CROWD.

Reaped a Harvest and Were Kept Going Night and Day—All Were Kept Very Busy—The Rush Is Not Yet Over.

The old saying that someone's misfortune is another's gain is no more vividly illustrated than in the case of the local cab men and depot hackmen during the few days just passed since the day of the dreadful accident. They reaped a harvest on account of the number of strangers in this city.

There has not been a day since the night of the wreck when there have not been as many as two score newspaper men here. Some came from Newark, some from Trenton, others from New York while there were not a few here from Philadelphia. Elizabeth and even Rahway, Patterson and Camden had a few representatives here.

They were in this city to gather the facts for their papers and in nearly every case one of these newpapermen would hire a cab at the depot, drive to their destination and sometimes several hours were taken up in going from house to house.

Some bargained with the cab men for $5 for as long as they wanted the vehicle. They probably used it for two or three hours and then another reporter would alight from a train and the same performance was gone through. There are some of the men at the depot who boast of having made as high as $10 or $15 in a single day. Others made more while others made much less.

Many of the relatives of the injured or dead arrived in town and were driven to their destinations in the cabs. Almost every train brought in fresh arrivals and where there would be a row of a dozen cabs when the train pulled into the depot there would not be a single one when the cars pulled out of the station again.

Many persons have come into The Daily Press office and spoken of the manner in which the cab service was conducted. The men, as a whole were courteous and polite and seemed to make it their duty to assist strangers in finding places they sought.

The Plainfield Cab Company had every available cab at the service of the people, and its service was also very highly spoken of.

Many of the newspaper men also spoke of the cab men as being the most courteous they ever found in almost any city.

Wheel Dished.

An exciting runaway occurred Saturday afternoon at the training stables of H. G. McIlwaine near the outskirts of this city when Charles W. Fisk, Richard Waring and a colored coachman were thrown out but were not injured. The accident occurred by a wheel dishing suddenly as they were rounding a curve at a high rate of speed. The wagon was damaged and one wheel was ruined.

Buying Horses.

Hugh McIlwaine, the owner of the extensive driving stables near this city, is in Kentucky, where he is purchasing some fine thoroughbred horses. The horses are combination driving and saddle horses and they will be shipped to this city in the near future after which they will be sent to New York markets for sale. He expects to send to this city about thirty head of horses.

Ran Into Post.

The heavy trucking team of William Hand & Son ran away Tuesday afternoon at Netherwood and badly damaged the wagon. The driver, a colored man, dropped down between the shafts and thus escaped injury. The horses collided with a post but they were not injured. The horses are a pair of those recently purchased at Three Bridges.

—The regular meeting of the mid-week prayer circle at the Y. M. C. A., was held Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. parlors when Secretary Manning and Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood conducted the services.

RAILROAD MAN TALKS ABOUT THE SITUATION

Believes That Firemen Should Verify the Signals for the Engineers.

SOME RAILROADS DO IT

CANNOT BE DONE, HOWEVER, ON THE "CAMEL BACK" ENGINES.

Pennsylvania and New York Central Have Firemen Confirm Signals As Seen by the Engineers—About "Camel Back" Type.

While there is heard but little talk of laying the responsibility of blame for the frightful accident at Westfield on the management of the Jersey Central Railroad there has been heard some talk against the engine, known as the "camel back" for passenger use. In this engine there are two men at work, the fireman and the engineer. The engineer occupies the cab alone while the fireman is the sole occupant of a little cab at the rear of the engine where he shovels coal and looks after the steam pressure.

On other railroads, such as the Pennsylvania and the New York Central, the fireman and the engineer occupy the cab and it is a rule on these roads that when a signal comes into sight both take a mental note of it and the engineer has what he sees confirmed by the fireman who repeats the color of the light and says: "'right."

In speaking of this system and the abolishing of the "camel backs" for passenger service on the Jersey Central Railroad, a very well known man in this city, and one who is identified with railroad matters, said to a Daily Press reporter:

"The 'camel back' type of locomotive of locomotive for passenger traffic is in many respects much preferable to the type used on the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central. It has more traction effort and it is claimed that more speed is obtained with less jarring and jolting. The one great objection to their use in this kind of traffic is that the fireman and the engineer are separated by several yards and the signals, as seen by the engineer, are not verified by the fireman.

"This is very important. Signals should be verified for very often a cloud of steam will arise from the front of the engine and temporarily shut out the view of the engineer of passing signals. In a case of that kind the fireman will be able to see the signal and will report to the engineer what the color is and how it was set. It is obvious that this system will often save a repetition of the dreadful accident of Tuesday night and if the fireman was in the cab previous to the time of the recent collision the great loss of life would have been avoided."

MADE BUSINESS.

Greatest Rush Ever Known at the Local Telegraph Office.

The business at the Western Union Telegraph office in the North Avenue station, last Wednesday, was the largest for any one day in the history of the company in this city. During the day 300 telegrams went through the office and over 10,000 words of press matter. Two extra operators were sent from New York to the local office and in all three operators were kept busily engaged sending and receiving telegrams and press. Manager Schermerhorn says that in his experience of thirty years he never before saw such a large amount of business for one.

Change in Meeting Place.

The members of the Swedish Lutheran church who have been holding services in the chapel of Grace Episcopal church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, will hereafter hold services in the German Lutheran church, corner of Mercer avenue and Grove street, Sunday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock, beginning with tomorrow.

To Deliver Big Pump.

William Hand & Son have contracted for the delivering of a large five million gallon pump at the water works department. The pump is one of the Worthington make from Brooklyn and will be delivered in this city some time this week. The work of erecting it will be begun as soon as the weather permits.

No Meeting This Week.

The regular teachers' meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school was omitted this week.

KODOL Digests What You Eat.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammeled action.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

Profitable Football—Racing at New Orleans and Oakland.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 31.—At the Yale football meeting Manager Alan Fox of the university football association made a report in brief to the university of the total receipts and the expenditures of the football season of 1902, the accounts of which have just been closed and audited. The total receipts were $56,400.50 and the total expenses $39,322.65, leaving a balance of $17,077.85. Mr. Fox also reports that about $16,000 of the expense total represented the expenditure upon the additions built on the grandstands on Yale field in time for the Yale-Harvard championship game last November.

Racing at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 31.—Disqualifications altered the results of yesterday's racing materially. Both Balm of Gilead and Pay the Fiddler swerved in the final struggle of their respective races and interfered to such an extent with the contending horses that they were disqualified. Pay the Fiddler was the only beaten favorite. Arausas Pass made a show of his company in the Baby race and landed a good stake for his people. Maxialla has been sold to J. Given for $2,000. Weather fine, track good.

King's Horse Unplaced.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—King Edward rode in an automobile from Windsor to Kempton park yesterday to see his Grand National Steeplechase favorite, Ambush II., run in the Stewards' steeplechase. This race is regarded as being something in the nature of a grand national trial; but, although all the weights favored Ambush II., he was not placed. The race was won by Faviful.

Kenilworth Won Handicap.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—Showers fell at intervals, and the track was sloppy at Oakland. In the six and a half furlongs handicap Kenilworth took up 131 pounds and won easily from Princess Titania and Yellow Tail. Stuyve was practically left at the post. Owing to the condition of the track the hurdles were dispensed with.

OPERATORS' CASE CLOSED.

Strike Commission Has Heard Four Hundred and Ninety Witnesses.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—With the exception of the presentation of statistics the coal operators have closed their case before the coal strike commission, and it is expected the striking miners will begin calling witnesses in rebuttal on Monday. The miners will take up three or four days in rebuttal next week, after which the commission will adjourn to the following Monday. The arguments will consume the greater part of the week beginning Feb. 9. Up to date the commission has heard 490 witnesses.

The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company occupied all of yesterday's sessions. In the forenoon session counsel for the miners and the paymaster of the Reading company differed in their views as to the reliability of averages shown in the wages statements handed to the commission by the company. It developed during the session that a miner who testified before the commission at Scranton had lost his place because he was in Scranton, and the commission exacted a promise from the superintendent of the company that he would reinstate him.

Fatal Accident on the Boston.

VALLEJO, Cal., Jan. 31.—An accident in the engine room of the United States ship Boston, lying in San Francisco bay, cost Edward Lee Baker his life, and another victim, Sanford H. Tate, lies in a critical condition at the Naval hospital, Mare Island, where he was transferred for treatment. The two men were machinists of the United States navy attached to the Boston. While they were endeavoring to repair a leaky valve a plate blew out, and the escaping steam enveloped them.

Fatal Express Wreck.

HAZLETON Pa., Jan. 31.—The fast express train from Wilkesbarre for Philadelphia on the Schuylkill division of the Pennsylvania railroad was wrecked at Lofty, nine miles south of this city, yesterday evening. Robert Moyer of Weatherly and Fred Gerhardt of Belamo were killed. A number of the passengers were injured.

Ice Harvest Ended.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Under the influence of heavy rains and springlike temperature the heavy snow in this section has melted, and the ice has been forced out of Hoosick river. All streams are at high water mark which will put an end to the season's ice harvest in eastern New York and western Massachusetts.

Winter to Succeed Greatsinger.

NEW YORK Jan 31.—At the annual meeting of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company President Greatsinger and August Belmont were dropped as members of the directorate. E. W. Winter, once president of the Northern Pacific railroad, will in all probability be elected president.

ROBBING UNCLE SAM

A Flood of Private Claims Before the House.

LEADER PAYNE'S FUTILE OPPOSITION

He Claims Many of the Bills Have Already Been Paid and Others Are Fraudulent, but Is Overruled.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Yesterday was the last private claims day of this congress in the house, and members with bills on the calendar carried everything before them in committee of the whole. Forty-five bills in all were acted on favorably, despite the efforts of Mr. Payne, the Republican floor leader, assisted by Mr. Cannon and others, to defeat some of them. Many of the claims were old, dating back to the civil war, and a few originated prior to that time. The latter were for balances due for carrying mails in the south when the war broke out. Mr. Payne was particularly insistent in his opposition to these bills, calling attention to the exposure of the fraudulent character of many similar claims in the Forty-fifth congress. He expressed the opinion that all these claims had been paid before. The members interested stood together, however, and voted him down every time he demanded a division.

There were several bills to reimburse postmasters and internal revenue collectors for stamps lost or stolen. One was to pay the balance on a contract for ice furnished the army hospitals in the Mississippi valley during the war. The amount claimed is $80,000 and is for ice at the rate of 90 cents a hundred pounds. Among the others were bills to pay George C. Ellison, an engineer at the capitol in the seventies, $5,000 for the cost of defending himself against the charge of murder, to pay $5,000 to the widow of Samuel Muhleman, one of the victims of the old Ford theater disaster, when the building in which were employed government clerks collapsed, and to refund to the customers of W. H. Jacobs of Lancaster, Pa., the amount of the counterfeit stamps purchased from him.

When the committee of the whole reported the bills to the house, Mr. Payne blocked their final passage by making the point of no quorum. But the friends of the claims refused to be balked. A motion was made to recess until today in order to continue the legislative day, and the sergeant-at-arms and his deputies were sent out to arrest and bring in absentees. It was 8 o'clock at night before the requisite quorum was secured to carry the motion and let the session go over until today.

Distinguished Physician Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 31.—Morrill Wyman, one of the most distinguished physicians of America, has just died at his home here, aged ninety years, after a brief illness. He was the oldest medical practitioner in the state, having been continuously engaged for about sixty years. In the early part of his professional life he invented an instrument for removing fluids from the body, especially the chest. By its use an operation which was previously considered dangerous and was often fatal has been rendered effectually safe and almost painless. Dr. Wyman was graduated from Harvard in 1833 and from the medical school four years later.

Patent Office Report.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The report of the commissioner of patents for the calendar year of 1902 shows a total of 49,490 applications for patents, including designs, and that 27,776 patents, including designs, were issued. In addition there were 110 patents reissued, 2,006 trademarks registered, 767 labels and 158 prints registered. During the year 23,331 patents expired, 4,471 applications allowed were forfeited because of nonpayment of fees and 9,284 allowed applications are still awaiting final fees. The excess of receipts over the expenditures was $159,514.

Mutinous Crew Shipped From States.

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 31.—The crew of the British bark Veronica, which was burned at sea and four members of whose crew are under arrest at Liverpool charged with mutiny and murder, were shipped from Scranton, Miss., forty-one miles from Mobile. Captain Shaw, the commander, is well known in the shipping circles of this port. The crew were taken on board the vessel at Biloxi, Miss.

Chinamen Ordered Deported.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Sixteen Chinamen held in the St. Lawrence county jail for being unlawfully in this country have just been ordered deported by United States Commissioner Gray. During January he ordered thirty-six Chinamen deported. Fourteen were discharged, and thirty-one cases await the commissioner's decision. Appeals have been taken in all cases where deportation was ordered.

Illinois Convicts May Go Free.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 31.—An alleged technicality in the criminal code may free fifty Illinois convicts confined for manslaughter or criminal assault. It is asserted that there is no statute authorizing punishment for these crimes. A test case will be tried soon in the Will county court by application for a writ of habeas corpus.

Indicted For Tax Frauds.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The grand jury has found three indictments against Nathan Springer, one against Philip Baer and one against Walter B. Sawyer in the tax conspiracy case. No indictment was found against Moses Springer.

STRIKERS LEAD RIOT

Wild Scenes In Streets of Waterbury, Conn.

STREET CARS STONED; ARRESTS MADE

Nonunion Motormen and Conductors Placed on City Lines Arouse the Ire of Striking Workmen.

WATERBURY, Conn., Jan. 31.—Riotous scenes about the streets made last night the most exciting since the strike of the motormen and conductors of the Connecticut Railway and Lighting company began twenty days ago. Crowds of people surrounded the cars run by nonunion men in the center of the city, while in the outskirts and along the line toward Naugatuck the progress of the cars was marked by volleys of stones, and in one instance a torpedo of large size was placed on the rail.

The greatest trouble occurred on the Naugatuck line. Every one of the six or seven cars which were run over that line before 10 o'clock had many windows shattered by stone throwers, but fortunately there were very few passengers on any of the cars, and no one was injured. A car which reached Hopeville, near the city limits, shortly before 10 o'clock ran over a torpedo which exploded with force enough to shatter every pane of glass. The motorman and conductor were slightly cut by flying bits of glass, but were not severely hurt. There were no passengers on board.

The car continued on the trip to Naugatuck and on the way back encountered more trouble at the corner of Washington and South Main streets in this city. A crowd collected when the car stopped at this point, and the conductor, Gerald Mayne, is said to have pulled a revolver and to have aimed it at some of those nearest him, threatening to shoot. Two policemen put him under arrest, and he was locked up. A loaded revolver of .38 caliber is said to have been taken away from him.

Afterward the police captured Thomas Day, a boy of fifteen years, and took him to the lockup. He is said to have carried a pocketful of stones.

In spite of the damage to the cars they were kept running on the various lines up to midnight. Excitement about the city was intense.

Chief of Philippine Constabulary.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Captain Henry T. Allen, Sixth cavalry, has been detailed as chief of the Philippine constabulary with the rank of brigadier general. He has been the head of the present force since its organization in July, 1901. He was appointed to the Military academy from Kentucky in July, 1878, and reached the grade of captain of the Sixth cavalry in November, 1898. He rendered excellent service during the Spanish war and in the insurrection in the Philippines in both volunteer and regular establishments. The law which went into effect yesterday authorizes the detail of four assistant chiefs of the constabulary, each with the rank of colonel, but these details have not been made as yet.

Free Coal In Hawaii.

HONOLULU, Jan. 31.—The treasury department at Washington has cabled instructions to Collector of Port Stackable to admit coal at this port free of duty, in compliance with the recent congressional act removing the duty on foreign coal at all American ports and receiving centers. Thirty-four cargoes of coal are now on the way here from Newcastle, N. S. W., and the cabled instructions of the treasury department will result in a saving to the shippers of upwards of $30,000.

German Minister Arrives.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Baron Speck von Sternburg, the German minister to the United States, has arrived in Washington. He was accompanied by the Baroness Speck von Sternburg. They were met at the station by one of the German attaches and went at once to the embassy residence. The baron will not be able to take up the Venezuelan negotiations with Minister Bowen until he has presented his letters of credence to President Roosevelt. It is expected he will do this some time today.

Landslide Blocks the Central.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Traffic on the Hudson division of the New York Central was at a standstill last night owing to a bad slide of clay caused by heavy rains and thaw near Staatsburg, six miles north of this city. The slide covered both tracks for nearly a mile, and in some places the clay was fifteen feet high. Several westbound trains are stalled between here and the slide, which occurred about 7 o'clock. The railroad company put the Harlem division in use for its through trains.

New York State Fair.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 31.—The state fair commission has decided to hold the next state fair at Syracuse during the week of Sept. 7. The commission rejected an alternative proposition to hold it during the week of Sept. 14. The latter plan was suggested in view of the action of the stewards of the grand circuit races at Boston in allotting to Syracuse the week commencing on Sept. 14 for the grand circuit races.

General Strike at Amsterdam.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 31.—At a mass meeting of strikers held here last night a general strike of the Dutch railway men commencing at midnight was declared. During the meeting communications were received from the various railway centers throughout Holland announcing that the men were ready to cease work on a signal from Amsterdam.

POWER PLANT RESUMES.

Damage Done by Lightning at Niagara Falls Partly Repaired.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 31.—At 6:30 o'clock last night the temporary repairs at the Niagara Falls Power and Conduit company's plant were completed, and the electrical famine along the Niagara frontier, due to the early morning fire which was started by a flash of lightning, was practically at an end.

Power was sent out from the plant an hour before that time, but it was not permanent, owing to a short circuit which occurred in the power house shortly thereafter and which seriously burned three men, one of whom may die. The short circuit and the injury of the three men came as a climax to disconcerting incidents which had marked the day, despite the fact that the repairing of the damage in so short a time is considered remarkable.

Never before since the establishment of Niagara Falls power has there been a delay of such magnitude. It was felt directly by thousands of people in Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Lockport and the Tonawandas and intermediate points.

General Manager Huntley of the Buffalo General Electric company is authority for the statement that 150 factories and business places, including several newspaper plants, were shut down or crippled on account of the failure of power.

The situation in the Buffalo newspaper world was unique. The Times was printed on the News' presses, the Express printed the Enquirer and the Courier was printed on the Commercial presses.

W. B. Rankine of the Niagara Falls Power company said that the early reports of the damage were exaggerated. Power house No. 2 was not injured in any way, and no machines, save some in the transformer house, were damaged. The company has cable on hand to replace the 7,000 feet burned. The loss is in the neighborhood of $25,000. The lightning entered the transformer house directly and was a bolt of great magnitude.

NO ANSWER FROM ALLIES.

Minister Bowen Still Confident of Favorable Results.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The European allies have not yet answered Minister Bowen's proposition, made several days ago, that there shall be no preference of claims of Great Britain, Germany and Italy against Venezuela over those of other nations against the South American country.

Minister Bowen thinks the delay should be construed in a hopeful light on the ground that the delay in the answer of the powers indicates that they realize the importance of his position in the matter and are giving the subject careful consideration. He still expects a favorable reply to his contention and believes that the questions at issue will be settled at Washington between himself, acting for the government of Venezuela, and the representatives of the powers.

It has become known that Mr. Bowen has addressed a note to the representatives of the allies which in a measure might be regarded as an ultimatum defining his position. Mr. Bowen declines absolutely to discuss the question, but it is known that he said to the allies that if they persisted in their determination to receive preferential treatment in the matter of the settlement of the claims he would call together the other creditor nations having claims against Venezuela with a view to their making a formal protest against the demands of those who participated in the blockade. The effect of this would be that the other seven creditor nations would be lined up against the three allied powers, with the result that the settlement of the whole matter in all probability might go to The Hague if it is to be settled at all.

McGill University Protests.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—The authorities of McGill university have sent a vigorous protest to Mayor Cochrane against permission being granted for the erection of a Marconi station on Mount Royal. The college people claim that on account of the proximity of the university's physical laboratories to the mountain efficient work would be greatly endangered and the delicate instruments rendered useless.

Union Pacific Strike to Go On.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 31.—President Burt of the Union Pacific railroad met representatives of the striking shopmen of that system to continue the conferences begun in New York three weeks ago. The meeting resulted in the shopmen leaving without reaching a settlement, and they declare the strike will now be continued indefinitely and will be extended over the Southern Pacific system.

Four Injured In Explosion.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 31.—As a result of an explosion at the works of the Standard Oil company four men were more or less seriously burned. One of them, John Slater, will probably die. The others, it is thought, will recover. A safety valve on an oil still blew off, and a tremendous explosion of gas followed. Two oil stills were destroyed. The pecuniary loss is slight.

Slot Machine Owners Indicted.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—A crusade began by the Hyde Park Protective association has resulted in the return of indictments by the grand jury against 121 owners of slot machines in every section of the city. A large majority of the indictments were against cigar dealers and saloon keepers in the downtown district.

Omnibus Statehood Favored.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 31.—The legislature has adopted a memorial to congress favoring the omnibus statehood bill.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Money Plenty at Low Rates—Furnaces Short of Fuel and Pig Iron.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Wall street continues to be the only dull point in the country, and even speculative inactivity is not accompanied by any evidence of weakness. This steadiness in the face of light trading is a good sign, as dullness usually brings a downward tendency. Financial conditions are exceptionally satisfactory, rates for money ruling low.

The merchandise movement from this port for the last week showed an increase of $3,324,166 as compared with the same week last year. Domestic trade and industry continue to prosper, while the fuel situation has grown less disturbing through the special efforts of transporters, aided to no small degree by mild weather.

Miles of loaded cars and thousands of tons of coke piled in the yards at Connellsville tell the story of conditions in the iron and steel industry. Furnaces are closing because of the coke shortage, which at many points is now more acute than at any previous time. By giving coal, live stock and perishable goods precedence over all other freights the railroads helped consumers everywhere, but at the expense of the leading manufacturing industry. Not only is it impossible to move coke freely to blast furnaces, but equally difficult to get pig iron to the mills and finished steel products to consumers.

Locomotives are being turned out of the shops with record breaking rapidity, and other railway equipment is in equally good demand, while structural material is still a feature. Many additional contracts for bridge building are recorded.

Irregularity has marked the course of the leading cereals during the past week, and there was a conspicuous absence of the customary unison in price changes.

Failures for the week numbered 243 in the United States against 301 last year and 30 in Canada compared with 40 a year ago.

EGOZCUE A BAD MAN.

Career of Deposed Mayor of San Juan Shown Up.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 31.—Governor Hunt in issuing an executive order yesterday removing the mayor of San Juan, Manuel Egozcue, from office, said he was in possession of further proofs of that official's negligence and wrongdoing. Criminal action against the mayor is still pending. In the meanwhile there is excitement and consternation in certain circles at the firm stand taken by the governor and Attorney General Harlan. The latter's letter to the governor containing a thorough, masterly indictment covering Egozcue's entire career has been commended by the federal press.

The attorney general in his letter shows that the city lost $95,157 in one item of expenditure, and says he found that the fraud and gross incapability in every department of the city government was "so extraordinary that it is difficult to find a similar instance in the history of municipal mismanagement."

MUST NOT RIDE FREE

Misdemeanor, Says Cunneen, to Accept a Pass.

FORFEITURE OF OFFICE THE PENALTY

New York Attorney General So Rules In the Case of an Assemblyman Offered Free Pullman Transportation.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Attorney General Cunneen has written an opinion, in which he holds that the offering of a transportation pass to a member of the legislature is a misdemeanor; that its acceptance by the legislator would constitute a misdemeanor and make him subject to forfeiture of his office. The following statement of the case is made public by the attorney general:

"About the time of the opening of the legislature the Pullman Palace Car company sent to Hon. Francis G. Landon, member of assembly from Dutchess county, an annual pass, conferring upon him the right of free transportation in the Pullman cars on all lines in the state of New York.

"Mr. Landon, feeling that the corporation had no right to tender him this pass, submitted the question to the attorney general for an opinion.

"The attorney general has written an elaborate opinion, in which he holds and advises Mr. Landon that the pass was offered in violation of section 6 of article 13 of the constitution of the state of New York, that the person who offered it is guilty of a misdemeanor and that if Mr. Landon should accept it he, too, would be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to have his office forfeited in an action by the attorney general in the name of the people.

"The opinion is quite important, as it is generally understood that these passes are given to all of the members of the legislature and by them freely used. After the attorney general had prepared this opinion it was learned that the precise question had been passed on some years ago in this city in an action brought against a notary public to have his office adjudged forfeited because he accepted a similar pass from the Wagner Palace Car company, where the general term of the supreme court held the same as the attorney general in his opinion. The case was appealed to the court of appeals, but has never been brought on for argument, and no opinion was written in the case by the general term."

German Residents Spurn Invitation.

CARACAS, Jan. 31.—The captain of the German cruiser Gazelle, which is anchored at Porto Cabello, on the occasion of the German emperor's birthday sent an invitation to the members of the German colony to celebrate the day on board the cruiser. All refused, one, the head of one of the chief German firms at Porto Cabello, answering: "Tell the captain that his invitation surprises me under the present circumstances, when Venezuela is suffering from an unjustifiable aggression on the part of Germany. I will not attend nor allow any of the young German clerks employed by my firm to attend the celebration."

Upper Hudson at Danger Point.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Jan. 31.—The upper Hudson river near the Glen station is still gorged by a log and ice jam that for several days has threatened to break loose and sweep over everything. Nearly 4,000 logs are jammed in the gorge, back of which the river is twenty-five feet above its usual height. A large section of the railroad above the jam is already inundated. The river has risen three feet during the past thirty hours and is still rising.

Standing of Naval Cadets.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31.—The academic board of the Naval academy has announced the final standing of the members of the 1903 class, which will be graduated on Feb. 2. There are six star men, each of whom earned better than 85 per cent in all examinations. Donald R. Battles of West Mill Creek, Pa., and Alexander H. VanKuren of Howell, Mich., are the honor men of the class.

Compromised With His Caddy.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 31.—David Fleming, the wealthy young man of Philadelphia who has been on the jail limits at Elizabethtown, N. Y., for about a month after refusing payment of a judgment of $6,000 for striking his caddy with a golf stick at Lake Placid last summer, has finally compromised the matter with the caddy's attorneys and was released from custody.

Train Caught by a Landslide.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Warm rain caused a landslide at Besemer's station, near Ithaca, into which a Lehigh Valley passenger train bound for Elmira plunged and barely missed going over Brockton trestle, 100 feet high. Engineer Knight was badly injured, and the passengers were shaken up.

Fatal Mine Cave In.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—News has been received here of an accident in the Gordon mine, near Death valley, in which Gus Hervey, Henry Phillips and George Thomas, while engaged in retimbering the shaft of the Gypsy mine, were buried by a cave in and killed.

Ten Injured In a Collision.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 31.—A southbound Big Four train struck a street car at the Yellow Springs street crossing. It is reported ten were injured, two probably fatally.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; warmer; diminishing west winds, becoming variable.

STILL MOURNING.

While the time of public mourning for the awful calamity, which visited this city, is past, the task of consigning the remains of the victims to their final resting places still continues. The whole community still sorrows over its great loss and there are heavy hearts one very side. A few days will see the last of these impressive services, these solemn processions and then will remain only the memory of the loved ones to find a place in the new routine of life that will begin for the bereaved ones. For those who has suffered in this awful disaster there is general sympathy and a depth of feeling that few can realize who have not seen practical evidences of it. Our hearts bleed for them and even we, who have suffered no loss in our own households, cannot help but feel that the loss has been a personal one and that we are mourners as well.

And with the coming week will come the task of ascertaining the cause of this terrible disaster. The coroner's jury will meet Tuesday afternoon to hear the evidence bearing on the accident. From the statements which have gradually become known, there seems little doubt as to the cause of the accident. There can be no doubt that the Jersey Central Railroad had the most modern methods of guarding against possible accidents and that the accident was not caused by any failure of these to work. Engineer Davis ran directly by the cautionary and danger signals. The only question now appears to be whether there was anything to obstruct his vision at the time. According to a statement made by him the night before his death, he looked for a moment from the path before him and attended to some minor repairs in the cab of the locomotive. While such a thing might be done hundreds of times without any evil consequences, in this one instance it brought about the most disastrous wreck, as far as the number of victims goes, that ever happened on this railroad.

Just as long as the human factor plays a part in anything, just so long will there remain the possibility of a mistake. A combination of circumstances similar to this may never occur again but as long as human fallability has to be reckoned with, there will be the lurking chance of accident.

Never before have the news gathering facilities of The Daily Press been taxed as during the last four days. No effort has been spared, however, to give the people of Plainfield all the truth concerning this disaster and the incidents immediately following it. That the effort has been appreciated we can judge by the remarkable demand for copies of The Daily Press. If those who are desirous of securing any number of copies of any issue will notify us as soon as possible, they will stand a much better chance of securing the desired papers besides greatly expediting our work.

Everyone will be greatly interested in the proceedings of the coroner's jury next week. The Daily Press will give its readers a particularly full account of all its sessions and the testimony taken. As there will be a great demand for copies of The Daily Press at that time, it will be well to order in advance if you are not a regular subscriber.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Although the stores were open business was practically at a standstill yesterday afternoon during the hours which were observed in Plainfield. This town has felt the great sorrow fully as much as Plainfield, as three of its residents are dead and three lie at the hospital seriously injured. The interest now centers largely in fixing the responsibility for the disaster, and in the condition of the men at the hospital. Every bit of information about them is eagerly received and all unite in hoping for their recovery. At present all of them are improving, and no serious results are looked for.

In speaking of the wreck, Wilson Fredericks, who was badly scalded said: "I was sitting reading my paper when the first thing I knew I was lying on the boiler of the engine. It was the hottest place I had been in a long time, and I got out as quickly as I could."

In the fog this morning, J. H. Patterson, father of Harvey Patterson, who was killed in the wreck, failed to see an approaching train at the Washington avenue crossing, and would have been killed but for the timely warning of a boy at the station.

A large number attended the dime sociable given under the auspices of the Epworth League in the Methodist parsonage, Thursday evening, and a harvest of dimes was raked in. A. A. Lake entertained the company with a number of humorous selections.

The Borough Council will meet in the hall Monday evening. All persons having bills against the borough should present them to the Clerk by this evening, to insure payment.

The Beneficial Association of the Levering & Garrigues factory will hold a dance in the Bound Brook Hall, February 20. This will be their first attempt at activity.

A large number of letters are being received every day by persons who were in the wreck from lawyers desiring to take their cases against the railroad.

A sale of home-made cakes, pies and bread, will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms this afternoon by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Wilson Fredericks is quite ill from the shock, resulting from learning of the grave condition of her husband who was hurt in the wreck.

Engineer Davis, who was killed in the wreck, spent his boyhood days here and is remembered by the older inhabitants.

Invitations have been issued by the Misses Van Artsdale for a dance on St. Valentine's eve, in Apgar's Hall.

The farm goods and implements belonging to John Grogan, will be sold at public auction on February 9.

Superintendent Coyle, of Levering & Garrigues' factory, has returned to work after a two weeks' illness.

Mrs. Ernestine Cottrelly, of New York, was in town on business, yesterday.

MORE OF DAVIS' STATEMENT

One Who Claims to Know Says That Press Statement Was Practically Correct.

A Plainfield man of prominence who does not want his name used, told a reporter for The Daily Press yesterday afternoon that the statement in The Daily Press of the statement alleged to have been made by Engineer J. W. Davis to Dr. Westcott, the county physician, was the nearest to the true facts of anything yet published. The man who said this is in a position to know whereof he speaks. He confirmed the printed statement that the cab of the engine drawing the Philadelphia train was filled partially with steam.

The Daily Press informant ventured the statement that the real trouble lay in the fact that the injector which supplies water to the boiler was out of order and that Engineer Davis was trying to fix this injector. The time consumed in this work was much longer than Davis had anticipated and accounts for his failure to watch closely all the signals. To fix the injector which was leaking, it is alleged, Davis was obliged to turn his face toward his train. While in this position, it is said, two minutes were consumed.

The theory advanced is that if the engine had been in first-class order it would not have been necessary for Davis to have taken such chances to repair the leaky injector. Engineer Davis was probably trying to make the best of things and was doing all in his power to make time and prevent a breakdown, which would mean much delay. It is said that in the statement which Engineer Davis made to Justice Huff he claims that his engine was not in the best condition.

John Campbell has been spending several days in Boston on business.

NEW MARKET.

Friendship Social Circle enjoyed a pleasant time at the meeting held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Nelson, of Watchung.

The funeral services over the remains of Harvey Patterson will be held tomorrow evening.

William Thornton is laid up with a sore foot, resulting from stepping on a rusty nail.

Fred Ward has resumed his position in Pierce's grocery after a severe illness.

Hiram Kelley has been confined to his home by illness.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mrs. N. W. Woodruff gave a lecture on "Porto Rico" at the Methodist church last night. The auditorium of the church was well filled with an appreciative audience. The lecture was given under the auspices of the literary department of the Epworth League.

The circulation of books at the Public Library has been stopped for the present, as it was thought best to use every precaution to help stamp the diphtheria epidemic out.

The teachers of the school have been improving the time of their enforced vacation by making their annual visits to the other schools through this section.

Harry Carter, of the borough, who has been suffering from the prevailing malady, diphtheria, is improving very nicely, the case being a very light attack.

Services at the Baptist church tomorrow will be: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U., 7; evening service, 7:45.

A number from town attended the funeral services of the late Edw. Flynn, held Friday morning from St. Mary's church, Plainfield.

Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, who has been seriously ill for the past week with the grip, which threatened pneumonia, is improving.

The children of Ernest Clarks, who have been suffering from whooping cough, have recovered and are able to be about again.

A coating of crushed stone on the sidewalks along Park avenue would improve the walking through the village.

The Township Committee will meet in the town rooms tonight at 8 o'clock.

The public schools will reopen Monday morning.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley will speak tomorrow morning on "A Secret of Weakness and a Secret of Power in the Church." At the evening service on "Some Lesson From the Recent Sad Disaster." The Christian Endeavor meeting at 7 o'clock will be led by Miss M. Nevius on the subject: "Decision for Christ."

The evening social which was arranged by the P. O. of A., Camp No. 1, for February 4, has been called off on account of the late disaster on the Central Railroad.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The stock of jewelry at J. Hervey Doane's store in Park avenue is one of the best in the State. Mr. Doane always has a fine line of watches, diamonds, silverware, etc., and his prices are reasonable.

Everything the choicest and the best value for the money is the policy of Armstrong's Apothecary shop on Park avenue. Pure drugs are dispensed and all the toilet articles usually found in a drug store are on sale.

If it is bought at Shreiner's drug store one may know that it is the best that can be procured. Everything is sold there with the one object of building up a business and consequently the best is always to be secured.

The Gayle Hardware Company is making a specialty of the best kinds of skates, hockey sticks, ankle braces and during the season the sale of these goods has been large. The firm also handles a large line of stoves and hardware in great variety.

No truer axiom has ever been spoken than, "a stitch in time saves nine." Especially is this so of a slight cold which continues to increase with severe consequences. Visit Nagle's pharmacy and procure the proper remedy to break it up at the start.

A better equipped seafood market is not to be found in the city than that of Jerry Foss on Park avenue directly opposite North avenue. It is always supplied with the best of everything in the fish and oyster line, strictly fresh and at low prices. All orders delivered.

The right kind of meat and the right kind of prices are two things that have made J. W. VanSickle's North avenue market popular with the people. He sells as low as possible for cash and the result is favorable to himself and patrons. Telephone connection.

Clothing for men and boys in all sizes at popular prices will always be found at M. Weinberger's store on West Front street. You can depend on the goods being first-class and if after purchasing you are dissatisfied for any reason, Mr. Weinberger will willingly make you a satisfied customer.

All work in the painting or papering line left in charge of Charles Conover & Company, of Elmwood place, will be done right. This firm thoroughly understands its business and only first class work is executed. All orders will receive prompt attention. The firm can be reached by telephone at 226A.

REPAIRING THE INJECTOR

Dr. Pittis Tells of Engineer Davis' Death-Bed Explanation of the Accident.

County Physician Westcott's version of the deathbed statement of Engineer Davis, of the Philadelphia flyer, has been corroborated by Dr. Albert Pittis, house surgeon at Muhlenberg Hospital. Dr. Pittis was present the night before Davis died when he made a statement to Chief Kiely and others Davis was informed that his chances of recovery were slim and that he ought to make a statement. This statement was essentially the same as the now famous "ante-mortem statement" which Chief Kiely has refused to make public.

According to this statement, Davis said that he left Jersey City at 6:13, two minutes late on account of delay on the ferry. They arrived at Elizabeth two minutes behind the scheduled time. Steam was escaping from the steam chest and he discoverd that the injector was out of order. He remained at his post in the cab until the train reached Cranford. After leaving Cranford, he looked ahead and saw a clear track, the block signals all showing white. Then he got down into the cab to fix the injector. He did not give the Easton local a thought, until after he passed Westfield. Having temporarily repaired the injector, he climbed back to his post in the cab. Looking ahead he saw the rear lights of the local apparently a hundred feet ahead. He blew the whistle twice and threw on the air brakes. It was too late and the crash came. Although he knew a collision was inevitable, he remained at his post.

Regarding the speed the train was going, Engineer Davis said that it was impossible to run it faster than thirty miles an hour with the pressure of steam he had at the time. The fireman had not been in the cab from the time he left Elizabeth. He was busy stoking the fires for the steam pressure was low, caused, he claims, by the leak in the steam chest.

Wasn't Hurt.

E. B. Clark, who was reported as being among the injured at the wreck at Westfield, has denied that he had been hurt and said that he escaped without a scratch. Mr. Clark resides on Crescent avenue.

We Are All Familiar with the deep, hoarse bark, grimly called "a grave-yard cough." It is the cry of the tortured lungs for mercy. HAS NEW PRESIDENT

Republic of Brazil Formally Inaugurates Dr. Alves.

Official Career of Chief Executive Gives Promise of Good Things to Come—Belongs to the Republican Party.

Dr. Francisco de Paula Rodrigues Alves, who was elected president of the United States of Brazil last March, was formally inaugurated November 15. The inauguration ceremony took place at the capital, Rio Janeiro, and the occasion was doubly important to the citizens of Brazil, because it was also the anniversary of the proclamation of the republic, the Brazilian Fourth of July.

The new president belongs to the republican party, which is also described as the "conservative," the opposing faction being the federal party. He was born on July 7, 1848, at Guaretinguota, in the state of Sao Paulo. He was graduated from the Dom Pedro II. college in 1866, and in 1870 received the degree of doctor in law at the college of Sao Paulo. Shortly after that he was elected to the state legislature of Sao Paulo, and to the imperial congress in 1887. Emperor Dom Pedro II. appointed him after that as president of the state of Sao Paulo. After the proclamation of the republic, in 1889, he was elected representative of his native state in the First federal assembly, and helped to frame the Brazilian constitution. In 1891 he was appointed minister of the treasury under President Peixoto, and in 1895 was elected federal senator for his state. He resigned his place in the senate to assume the second time the duties of minister of the treasury under President de Moraes. Dr. Alves was again elected to the senate, and again left that body to become the governor of his state, and before his term of office had expired he was chosen to the presidency of the republic.

The Brazilian congress is composed of 212 deputies, representing the 21 districts or states, there being one deputy to every 70,000 inhabitants. Thus, the state of Minas Geraes has 37 members, while several states have only four representatives. The state of Sao Paulo is represented by 22 deputies. The members are elected by popular vote every three years. The senators are also elected by popular vote, three for each state, for a term of nine years each, and the terms of one-third of the upper house expire every three years. When the new president was sworn in 21 new senators were also inducted into office.

DR. FRANCISCO ALVES.
(Just Inaugurated President of the Republic of Brazil.)

The republic has been in existence only since November 15, 1889, but it bears the stamp of stability, and its citizens refer to Dom Pedro and the empire as though these had been matters of past ages. When the royal family of Portugal fled to Brazil in 1815 and founded the kingdom, the Roman Catholic church was established there, and when Dom Pedro was chosen "perpetual defender," the established religion of the country was the Roman Catholic. When the republic was declared all connection between church and state was abolished, and, although there are only about 150,000 Protestants in the republic, against about 15,000,000 Roman Catholics, no obstacles are placed in the way of the minority as to their form of religious worship.

Supported by His Wife.

Not long ago Dr. Edward Brooks, the genial superintendent of the Philadelphia public schools, was asked by one of his youthful friends to listen to the latter's rehearsal of a lesson in which there was a reference to Atlas. "Do you know who Atlas was?" asked Dr. Brooks. "Yes, sir. He was a giant who supported the world." "Ah! Supported the world, did he?" went on the superintendent. "Well, tell me who supported Atlas." The little fellow looked as though he had not given the subject any particular attention, but showed immediate willingness to think it over. The doctor stood looking on, trying hard to keep back a smile; but the youngster finally brightened up and answered: "Well, I guess he must have married a rich wife."

Where Kissing Is Unknown.

Kissing is a delight unknown to the Maori women of New Zealand. When they meet each other, and wish to demonstrate their mutual affection, they grasp each other by the shoulders and rub their noses together. In times of sorrow, when mourning for the death of a relative, for instance, two women will sit together and moan by the hour, all the time rubbing their noses together.

Women Bankers Of the United States

HAND in hand with man's newspaper jokes about women who try to keep bank accounts come items from here, there and all over concerning women who are the "only" bank presidents. Ohio has one of these "only" women bank presidents, Colorado another, while Nebraska calls both these states down sharply for their untruthful claims by pointing with pride to Mrs. Hester Welpton, president of the Exchange Bank in its town of Ogallala, Nebraska boasts of the business ability of Mrs. Welpton and tells the world besides that she is one of the most cultured ladies of Ogallala. Maryland, however, makes a claim which, so far as heard from, has not been disputed, that she possesses the "only" woman national bank president in Mrs. Evelyn S. Tome of Port Deposit. Mrs. Tome is a lady worth $3,000,000. The lady did not herself accumulate this wealth, but inherited it from her husband, who did. When he died Mr. Tome was president of two national banks, one at Port Deposit, the other at Akron. His widow was elected to fill both the posts left vacant by his death, and has discharged with distinguished ability her duties as president of two national banks.

The fact is that at present women bank presidents are not at all rare in the smaller cities of the Union. In almost every instance they have shown themselves eminently capable of holding such places. Woman is a better economist than man; she is more exact and careful in matters of detail, where she has any sense at all.

At any rate, large up to date banking and investment companies are learning the advantage of having a shrewd business woman in their financial department. Every year in our country adds to the number of women investors of money, and they have so much money that even curmudgeony stockbrokers, who have heretofore refused to deal with the feminine customers, now welcome them.

In its New York office a firm of bankers and brokers whose standing is as high as that of any in the United States has a department for women investors, though it has not yet reached the advanced plane of employing women behind its windows, except as stenographers and telegraphers. In the conservative old city of St. Louis, however, two great banking and investment companies have women officials to deal with women investors. In one of them Mrs. Florence M. Lafin has charge of the women's department; in the other Mrs. Frost.

It is through their sympathy with their own sex that women bankers are better able to deal with women investors than men are. A man lacks patience with a timid woman in matters of business, while the timid woman is so afraid of the business man that she sometimes, through nervousness, becomes incapable of talking at all.

Mrs. Frost has been superintendent of the woman's banking department long enough already to increase the business of the institution appreciably. She has a room all to herself, and there the women come and sit and talk to her. She says:

"A woman loses her head when she must speak out loud over a counter at a man, but when she can come in here and sit down face to face with me we talk together as one woman to another, and soon her business is transacted."

Womanly sympathy and gentleness reassure the shy and ignorant investors. Mrs. Frost has the most delicate, difficult and trying of all the tasks set to employees in the bank. One of the woman bank official's customers was an old lady who had carried all the money she owned, $600, upon her person for years, so long that it looked like a wisp of mummy wrappings, yet Mrs. Frost was able to make her feel sure her treasure would be safe in that bank. Another client was a woman who, with her husband, a day laborer, had saved $1,000. He carried it one day, she the next, till their wealth became a nightmare, the care of it had so worked on their simple minds. Of Mrs. Frost's work one of the men bank officials says:

"No man of us could stand the strain."

MARCIA CAMPBELL.

The New Woman and The Old Man

YESTERDAY I sat and listened to the talk of the old man. By "old man" I mean the old style man of any age from twenty-five to 105. I have come to the conclusion it is time for the old man to reconstruct himself to fit the new woman. If he does not, he will find himself left. This old man I listened to was a very old man. His opinions are those of the age of Tiglath Pileser and Jehonadab. He thinks man knows it all and woman knows nothing except as man imparts it to her. His definition of a man is anything that wears trousers. This old man was talking to some new women. They had learned in their childhood that two and two make four. It may be mentioned that they could read Latin; also that they knew how to pronounce French, Spanish and German. But the man was a Briton, therefore a doubled and twisted old man. Yet that ancient and mildewed old man sat there and told the women of the geography, the politics and the government of their own country with the air of one who was announcing great truths which the women would never have heard if Providence by special act had not raised him up to announce them. You observe this is a way men have—old men, that is. They patronize the whole feminine sex and endeavor to explain things down to its capacity. They expect to do all the talking, so as to exploit their knowledge. They resent it if a woman presumes to know anything out of her own head. Such a female creature is extremely unwomanly in the eye of the old man. She makes him feel hurt in his vanity; therefore he never likes her afterward. But the old man is being jarred in his vanity every day these times. Will he learn thereby that he must reconstruct himself and become a new man to match the new woman?

A man who is neither the old man nor the new on the woman question, but who is just lying low and taking observations, confesses himself perplexed over girls. He is a good looking, intelligent bachelor of thirty-five or thereabout, not old enough to be grumpy and set in his ways, yet old enough to have left his gosling days behind. He daily crosses East river in a ferryboat between Brooklyn and New York. Many girl clerks and stenographers do the same. The bachelor says: "When I see these girls, they are always giggling about something. In the morning when they come over they giggle and titter from shore to shore. When they go back in the evening, they giggle and titter all the way again. It seems to me girls don't do anything but giggle. What do they do it for? I never could find out." Can you?

White male lawgivers and makers of rules are always ready to regulate women and negroes. White male men in Richmond, Va., seem to be seriously concerned over the smoking of cigarettes by women, so that they have caused to be posted in places frequented by the feminine sex notices forbidding this indulgence. Why don't they forbid men to smoke cigarettes? Again, in Mississippi "the press and physicians" are so exercised over the growing use of cocaine among negroes, particularly "female negroes," that they are trying to get a law passed against it. Why don't they include white people, too—white people from whom the blacks learned the use of the drug?

If you keep at a thing, only keep at it. It will be accomplished at last.

A good way to make a living is to found a society, supposedly for some good object, then charge those who join it an initiation fee and use the proceeds yourself.

In Switzerland, sometimes in Germany, when a couple are married the husband takes the name of the wife, adding it to his own. Thus, if Mr. Brown wedded Miss Smith she would not be Smith-Brown, but he would be Brown-Smith, hyphenated. The daughter of the distinguished Prussian statesman Adolph Lette married a Mr. Schaefer. Thereafter the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer-Lette.

At a banquet not long since of the students of a great male university there were mobbish rioting and smashing of furniture and crockery that have never been surpassed in New York city's east side slums. Just so. But suppose it had been a "coed" university and ladies had been present there.

Don't do a weak, foolish or wrongly impulsive thing, but if you do don't plead the baby act. Don't cry like a fool or claim the privilege of your sex to get you out of the scrape. Stand up like a full grown woman and face the consequences. The woman who manufactures tears or illness to influence a jury or anybody else is a despicable creature.

If the members of women's clubs can do no better than to waste their nervous energies in election rows, then the formation of women's clubs were a custom more honored in the breach than the observance.

At the last Boston municipal election the thermometer was 10 below zero, yet, according to the Woman's Journal, the women voters came apparently much nearer the figures of their full registration than the men.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

"Finer'n silk," said Capt. Parker, as they shook hands cordially. "Well, I swan, but ye'r er great man; ain't ye? Your picter is in all ther papers. Well, well, well! I swan, ye never can tell, can ye? Who'd a thunk it! So ye are a detective-reporter! Well, well, well!"

The Captain insisted on purchasing the cigars, after which they returned to the veranda. The good sailor seemed to have something on his mind. Once or twice he cleared his throat as if to make some important announcement. Finally he took a long pull at his cigar and said:

"Mister Seymour, seeing as how ye air a newspaper man—though I never would a thunk it—dew ye suppose ye could get my name in the papers about this 'ere matter? I don't care a blamed thing about it myself, but my old woman is just plum crazy ter see my name in the papers. Darned if I don't believe she would be willin' ter have ther 'Sam Walker' wrecked if it would get my name in ther newspapers. I act! Dew ye suppose ye could fix it?"

"Sure, sure thing," said Mr. Bernard Seymour. "It's already in The New York Record. I sent more than a thousand words about you and the 'Sam Walker' from Vera Cruz. I also sent a description of you, and they will probably have your picture. All the papers will copy it. You had better get me a photograph of yourself for use in a more consecutive story I am now writing."

The delight of Capt. Parker was beyond expression. He nearly fractured Seymour's hand in his joyous clasp.

"The old woman will be tickled plum ter death!" he exclaimed. "I have been sailin' 30 years an' nothin' has happened worth printin' until now. Haou much is 1,000 words? A column! Great Scott! Have another segar. Have a box of 'em. This is the greatest thing that ever happened ter the Parker family."

Mr. Chalmers was asleep when a bell boy aroused him and presented a card. He rubbed his eyes sleepily and rebuked the boy in no equivocal language. Scrawled on a card was:

CAPTAIN JOHN WATERS.

The "Shark."

"Tell him to come up at once," said Mr. Chalmers.

Capt. Waters knocked at the door and entered the room. He bowed to Mr. Chalmers and stood by the door, refusing to take a seat.

"The 'Shark' is anchored out in the river," said Capt. Waters without any preliminary remarks. "Mr. Hestor is in a hospital. He is in a bad way. He is shot and crazy. I want to tell you how this happened. I worked for his father before him. He saved my life and I would die for him or his son. I have known Walter since he was a boy. Lately he has been acting queer. He told me those men were political prisoners. I am used to obeying orders and having them obeyed. It was only yesterday that I learned the truth. On Thursday he sent a boat ashore at Mobile and came back with a lot of newspapers. He left one where I found it. Then I knew the facts. Hestor had told me we were going back to the place where we left these men. Of course I know now what he was after. He intended to meet you and stop you. Just as I was about to take matters in my own hands, we sighted your boat. I thought I would humor him. I intended to come to New Orleans and give him up, and stand trial if I have done wrong. He jumped from the bridge, as you saw. One of your men shot him in the head, and he is likely to die. He has not been right since we left New York. I tell you this so you will know the truth. I am going to give myself up to the authorities."

CAPT. WATERS OPENED THE DOOR AND WENT AWAY.

Before Chalmers could say a word, Capt. Waters opened the door and went away.

It was as Capt. Waters said. Hestor was in a hospital. A bullet had plowed its way along the left side of his head, barely missing the temple. The skull was slightly fractured, and there had been a hemorrhage from the brain. When conscious the patient was wildly delirious. Chalmers left instructions that everything should be done for his comfort. The hospital physicians gave little hope. Chalmers secured the best medical talent in New Orleans and wired the facts to a famous New York specialist. He then rejoined his companions at the hotel.

The afternoon papers contained accounts of the tragedy, and related the story of the surrender of Capt. Waters. Before leaving for New York, a conference was held in Sidney Hammond's room. It was the consensus of opinion that Capt. Waters had acted in good faith, and that he was not deserving of punishment. Sidney agreed to obtain bail for him, and for the other officers of the "Shark." On Monday bail was fixed at $10,000 for Capt. Waters, and at $5,000 each for the arrested officers. Mr. Hammond furnished the necessary securities and was accepted as bondsman. For a time Capt. Waters refused to accept bail. He preferred to stand punishment. Sidney argued with him for a long time. He explained that it might be months before a trial would be held. Capt. Waters finally consented to accept bail. He went to a hotel near the jail, and reported regularly three times a day at police headquarters. No argument could convince him that this was not the right thing to do.

The homecoming of the marooned millionaires was an event never to be forgotten by those who participated in or witnessed it. It began at New Orleans. A special train from New York, containing hundreds of relatives and friends dashed into the Crescent city early the following morning. Those who have followed the events portrayed in these pages can imagine the joy of the greeting between the lost ones and those they loved. Great crowds surrounded the hotel, and would not be satisfied until the principals appeared on the the balcony. The mayor made a speech and introduced each man in turn. Sidney Hammond received an ovation as he stepped forward; one sleeve of his coat hung vacant at his side. Nor was the greeting to Bernard Seymour less cordial. There were repeated calls for Miss Carmody, and when that young lady appeared on the arm of her father, the demonstration reached its climax.

In a remote part of the city, white-robed nurses hovered over a man whose staring eyes showed no gleam of sanity. His head was in bandages and he muttered incoherent phrases as he tossed in a fever of delirium.

Among those who greeted the returned castaways at New Orleans was Robert Van Horne, editor of the Record, who arrived in New York in time to take the special train south. Mr. Van Horne did not return to New York with the happy throng. He brought with him three of the most famous specialists in the country, and soon stood at the bedside of Walter B. Hestor. Mr. Van Horne alone knew the recent history of the man who now hovered between life and death. He gave the physicians the essential facts in the case.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

JILTED A REAL KING

Montenegrin Princess Drew Line on Alexander of Servia.

Peremptorily Refused to Marry the Splay-Footed, Knocked-Kneed Monarch of Europe's Most Turbulent Kingdom.

The only living princess who has jilted a king has become engaged to another man.

She is Princess Xenia of Montenegro. Her engagement to the divorced grand duke of Hesse recalls the most sensational and piquant episode of modern royal society.

True, it was only King Alexander of Servia whom she jilted, but he is a real king and there are not many of them.

So overpowering was the sensation of disgust which this misshapen, obnoxious little monarch aroused in the beautiful princess that she literally ran away from him, says the Chicago American.

It is well known that royal marriages are arranged by families and statesmen and that the personal inclinations of the two principals have little to do with the matter. The wishes of the girl in the case are least of all consulted. Princesses are brought up to believe that it is their duty to submit absolutely to the commands of their parents and elders in the matter of marriage. But even in the heart of a princess there may lurk a spark of rebellion, and in this case it burst forth.

Three years ago Alexander of Servia was scouring the imperial, royal and princely courts of Europe seeking for a bride. He needed one sorely, for his throne is very insecure, and without an heir he cannot expect to hold it permanently. After making personal application at the court of Russia and at several others, King Alexander ascertained in the most unmistakable manner that he was not desired as a relative by any of the great reigning families of Europe.

He then made overtures for the hand of the beautiful Princess Xenia, the seventh child and fifth daughter of Prince Nicholas of Montenegro. This country is the smallest among the truly independent states of Europe. Servia is certainly several places higher in the monarchical hierarchy. The prince of Montenegro was therefore desirous of having the king of Servia for a son-in-law, and thereby greatly increasing his prestige in the Balkan peninsula. The alliance was agreed upon.

The poor princess, only 18 years old, innocent, inexperienced, was sent forth, accompanied by a suitable escort, to meet her future husband at his capital, Belgrade.

The meeting of the affianced pair was arranged. The princess stood in her reception room, erect, radiant, a model of Montenegrin beauty, to await the king.

The king shambled forward, grinning, shambling, knock-kneed, hardly able to see.

"Mon dieu, mais vous etes impossible!" cried the princess, speaking in French, as she is accustomed to do.

The cry came from her heart and was the first impulse of an innocent, unspoiled nature. The princess turned away from the king and put her arm around her lady-in-waiting. King Alexander mumbled a few lame words of welcome and tried to cover up the rebuff by suggesting that the princess was suffering from the fatigue of the journey—Princess Xenia glanced at him with a pitying smile and fled.

The action of the princess put an end to the match. Even in royal families it is scarcely possible to go on with preparations for a wedding after the bride has expressed the deepest loathing and disgust for the bridegroom. After the first meeting the princess did not hesitate to repeat her expressions of disgust and to assert that she would rather die than marry King Alexander. There was nothing to do but to take her back to her father's capital, Cettinje.

When Princess Xenia said that King Alexander was impossible, she did not exaggerate. His personal appearance is singularly degraded and repulsive. He has prominent, black eyebrows, scarcely any forehead and a mat of black hair. His forehead appears to have been smashed down over his head with a hammer. His small eyes are extremely weak and recede into his forehead. His nose is small and hooked. He is round-shouldered, knock-kneed and splay-footed.

The Smallest Screws Made.

The smallest screws used in a watch are so diminutive that it would take 150,000 of them to weigh a pound.

SPORTING NEWS

HOCKEY.

The City High School hockey team will meet the team from Leal's School at Hyde's pond, Saturday afternoon.

The game which was to have been played Tuesday afternoon between the hockey teams of the city and borough High Schools was postponed on account of the poor condition of the ice.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball game which was to be played on February 4 at the Y. M. C. A. between the City High School and Leal's School team has been indefinitely postponed on account of the sudden death of Elias Giles.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Manager Munro, of the City High School baseball team has recently arranged a game to be played at Newark on April 16.

Important Sale.

There will be a special master's sale Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at Hotel Rosell, when two lots, situate on Madison avenue near the corner of Third street, will be sold. The lots are 25 feet front and rear each by 112 feet deep. One lot contains two dwellings, and the other lot one dwelling. The property is centrally located and desirable in every way. John H. VanWinkle is the special master in chancery and Codington & Swackhamer, solicitors.

Honored McKinley.

Exercises appropriate to the anniversary of President McKinley's birthday were observed at the City High School Thursday morning. President Roosevelt's speech, given at Canton, Ohio, Tuesday at the commemoration banquet of the assassinated President, was read and his two favorite hymns, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light," were sung by the school.

Thrown Out by Runaway.

William Hardy, of the borough, was thrown out of a wagon this morning in a runaway and had his foot crushed and suffered an injury to the knee. The horse belonged to R. V. VanArsdale, of New street, and ran away on West Second street. Hardy was removed to the hospital in the ambulance. A colored woman was knocked down by the horse but was not injured.

Another Person.

Harry Hann, of North Plainfield, wishes it stated that it was not he who was injured in the wreck of Tuesday night but another person of the same name.

ONE BODY REMAINS.

Still at Cole's Undertaking Parlors Awaiting a Claimant.

One body, or rather a charred trunk, still remains at Cole's undertaking parlors, awaiting a claimant. Several inquiries have been received by Chief Kiely but as yet none have revealed anything definite. With the remains are several pieces of clothing, one sock and a shoe marked, "Meyer Brothers, New York." The local police missing list has narrowed down to one, Daniel Lorenzo Miller having been located in New York yesterday.

Endeavor Day Speaker.

Rev. N. J. Sproul, of Dunellen, has very kindly consented to address the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, Monday evening at 8 o'clock, it being the twenty-second anniversary of the great Christian Endeavor movement. Mr. Sproul will speak on those lines, and a very interesting meeting is looked for. Visitors are always welcome.

Death of Mrs. Randolph.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Jan. 31—Mrs. Huldah Jane Randolph, widow of Manning F. Randolph, aged sixty-seven years, dropped dead yesterday afternoon at her home in this place. The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the late home and from the South Plainfield Baptist church at 2:30 o'clock.

Depends on the Shoes.

It may be of interest to relatives of some of the victims of the Westfield wreck to know that any one who wore congress shoes containing the Hub Gore at the time of death are entitled to $100. All wearers of these shoes are insured to that amount by the company and it will be paid to the next of kin.

—Kenneth Robbie, secretary of the boy's department of the Y. M. C. A., led the services at the prayer meeting at the First Baptist church, Wednesday evening.

GREAT DEMANDS ON THE 'PHONE COMPANY

Local Exchange Did Wonderful Work on the Night of Westfield Disaster.

THE MANAGER'S STORY

TELLS HOW THE EMERGENCY WAS MET BY THE COMPANY.

Some of the Demands of Local Service Occasioned by the Terrible Wreck—How It Figured in Carrying the News.

Many very flattering comments have been made by people in this city since the night of the wreck about the manner in which the service at the local telephone exchange was conducted on the night of the wreck when anxious inquiries were being received from subscriber and those who called up the central office for information concerning those who were injured or dead. Much credit is due the management and the patient and always agreeable operators who worked all night and during the following day answering calls and allaying the fears of those who anxiously inquired for friends missing or relatives at the morgue or hospital. Every thing at that office was running, under adverse conditions with the least confusion.

It would be difficult for one not familiar with the workings of the telephone exchange to realize what the strain was on the operators. The office was crowded with people clamoring for information about the welfare of friends and relatives who were thought to have been on that train. These were all talking or weeping, or calling out names of their friends. With all this going on about them, and half expecting that any of the names received would be a friend or relative, the operators stood by their boards patiently answering calls, and making connections with numbers of places in this city and out of town. The excellent service rendered, reflects much credit to Manager Charles W. Runyon and to his efficient corps of operators.

The conditions at the office and the manner in which the work was handled is best told by Manager C. W. Runyon who gave the following account to a Daily Press reporter:

"The first notice we received of the wreck was at 6:50 when a telephone message was sent to us to send all the doctors we could find to Westfield, that there had been a wreck at that place. I was sitting down to my supper when the operator at the office telephoned to me that there had been a terrible wreck at Westfield. I hardly waited to take a bite, but rushed to the office and sent out messages for the doctors. Messengers were also sent to the homes of the operators of both the day and night shifts. As soon as they arrived at the office they were assigned to their respective boards.

"By the time the operators were at their boards, inquiries began to arrive from subscribers in regard to relatives who had been in that ill-fated train. All the people reported injured were placed upon a list and in a short while we were able to tell those who called up for information where they could find those for whom they were looking. All those who asked for people were supplied with information as soon as possible. Many people were somewhat put out because the entire list of the dead and injured was not read over to them, but it was not possible to do that and keep those who were waiting for some one in particular waiting. All those who asked for specific information were given it to the best of our ability.

"All the six boards were kept busy all night long. The six regular New York wires were kept constantly busy and we made arrangements with other places and borrowed all the wires to the city we could and by 9 o'clock we had fifteen wires busy.

"The boards were attended by eight operators, and two monitors. I had charge of the chief operator's desk and answered all the inquiries regarding the injured or dead. The operators worked all night and in the morning they were relieved by others who worked in relays all day and all night ever since.

"The New York calls were the heaviest we have ever handled in this city. Never before in the history of the company has there been such a tremendous call for New York exchanges and the rush on the fifteen wires was something that only a telephone employe can comprehend.

"Special attention was paid to The Daily Press wire and one operator looked after that all night and the following day. Nearly all the news sent to New York was over The Daily Press wire and the pay stations at Randolph's drug store. Special attention was paid to the hospital and morgue wires. These were given the right of way over almost all other calls.

"Later in the evening the office was beseiged with newspaper men who clamored for information. Some of them wanted a copy of the list of injured but of course we are not allowed to give out any information under a fine of five hundred dollars and we were obliged to refuse them.

"We gave to the people of Plainfield the best service we could and at the same time repaired the telephones in The Daily Press office and other pay stations where the constant use of the machines had used up the batteries."

STILL PLANNING FOR MEETS

DESPITE FACT THAT HIGHLAND PARK TRACK IS TO BE SOLD.

New Brunswick's Horsemen Have Not Given Up Their Favorite Sport—Their Plans.

Although the Raritan Driving Association has offered its track in Highland Park, near New Brunswick, for sale it does not mean to give up holding race meets if it does not dispose of the property. The members have begun already to talk over plans for next summer and will probably open the track, as usual, with a Memorial Day meet.

If the track is not sold it is likely that greater efforts will be put forward by the association to attract local patronage. Every meet held so far has been well attended and individually all have been successful financially. But, taking the balance sheet for the whole year, the association has not been making much, as continual expenses are necessary for keeping the track in order.

A prominent member of the association is quoted by The New Brunswick Home News as saying, that there was no doubt that the track would be the scene of some interesting meets this year. "If no one else will run it," he said, "I will lease it and run it myself. A track here ought to be a paying venture. It ought to be as successful as the track at Plainfield. Down at Freehold a crowd of 3,000 is not considered large, for everybody turns out. Coaching parties come from Lakewood and all around the country and make a gala day of it when a meet takes place.

"With a population of 20,000 right at hand, the track here ought to be well patronized. But the people here do not turn out when meets are held. The country people have been the ones who have patronized our races. The association has somehow or other been unable to stir up local interest and has a hard time, even, to get local merchants to advertise on our race meet programmes. The meets here certainly help town merchants, for they bring people here who would not come otherwise.

"There will be some changes made if I have any influence in the matter. Probably there will not be any racing for big purses this summer, but it is likely that there will be amateur cup racing, as is held on all the big tracks Changes should be made at the track to make it more up-to-date."

"REACH PHILADELPHIA ON TIME."

Policeman Young, in Sworn Statement, Says Those Were the Orders.

Before Prosecutor English at Elizabeth, last evening, Policeman Young, of Westfield, submitted the following sworn statement: "I went to the wreck with the intention of arresting the engineer. I found him pinned in the cab and as I helped remove him to one side he said to me, 'We left Jersey City eighteen minutes late, but I was told I had a clear track ahead and to push through to Philadelphia on time.' He then called for his fireman and when I told him he was safe he said no more. There was no one else near us at the time he made these remarks."

Foresters Growing.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order Foresters, met last evening and initiated seventeen members. The Court now has a membership of 304, probably the largest order in the city. A pleasant time was had in the good and welfare and remarks were made by High Chief Ranger H. H. Lowrie and other High Court officers present.

Memorial Service Held.

A largely attended memorial service was held in Calvary Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, in charge of Rev. Scott Wallace. He delivered an impressive sermon taking as his text, Romans xii:15, "Rejoice with them that do rejoice and weep with them that weep."

T. U. Smith, of Westervelt avenue, is very low.

ANOTNER DEATH AT HOSPITAL

Those who conducted the services were F. C. Jennings, J. F. Parker, and Theodore Loizeaux. Several of the favorite hymns of the deceased were rendered. The display of flowers at the home was very handsome; they were banked about the room in tasteful array.

After the services at the home the body was allowed to remain in the house until 10 o'clock this morning when it was removed to Hillside cemetery where the interment took place.

The pallbearers were Sidney Perrine, Frederick Bowman, Mr. Grant, Edward C. Hardingham, Ivan N. Hardingham and Enoch H. Hardingham, brothers of the deceased

Edgar W. Williams.

The funeral services of the late Edgar W. Williams, one of those who lost their lives in the railroad wreck at Westfield, Tuesday night, were held this morning at 11 o'clock from the home on East Sixth street, where a very large number of friends gathered to unite their sympathies with those of the bereaved family. There was a profusion of floral tributes from many friends and business associates in New York, while many associates attended the services. Prior to coming to Plainfield Mr. Williams lived in Washington and he took up his residence here after completing his work as private secreatary to Dr. H. K. Carroll, special commissioner to Porto Rico.

The services this morning were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, with which Mr. Williams was identified. He was actively engaged in the various interests of the church and he will be greatly missed. Mr. Herring referred impressively to the exemplary life and character of the deceased and offered words full of tender sympathy to the bereaved family.

The interment took place in Hillside cemetery.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Gates, Case, Anderson, Avery and Wheelock.

Robert Happersett.

In contrast with many of the others, the services over the remains of Robert Happersett were extremely simple. They were held at his late home on Putnam avenue, yesterday afternoon and were in charge of Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel. Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, former pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, offered a brief prayer.

There was no singing and but few remarks. Afterward the body was taken to Hillside cemetery where it was placed temporarily in a receiving vault. There were no pall bearers.

Thomas A. Cuming.

Three divines, all of whom had relations with the young man during his life time, were present at the funeral services of Thomas A. Cuming which were held this afternoon, first from his late home on Putnam avenue at 1 o'clock and from the Park Avenue Baptist church at 1:30.

Rev. W. T. Dorward, of Stelton, spoke on the "Ecclesiastical Relations" he had had. Rev. R. B. Hull, D. D., of Brooklyn, "His Early Church Life" and Rev. J. W. Richardson, "His Town Life."

The body was afterward taken to Stelton for interment. The bearers were Joseph M. Hawkins, Charles B. Morse, Dr. N. H. Probasco, S. A. Krom, J. Herbert Richardson and Benjamin Letson, the latter of Stelton. Other details of the funeral will be given Monday.

Who Saw John Currid?

In order to facilitate the work of the coroner's jury, Chief Kiely asks that anyone who saw John Currid, of Dunellen, board the 5:45 train, Tuesday night, inform him of the fact at once. Currid's body was the first viewed and the decision arrived at in this case will suffice for all.

Press Will Publish Pictures.

Through the courtesy of the Newark Evening News, The Daily Press will publish, Monday, excellent pictures of some of the victims of the wreck, and also those of officials who are conducting the investigation.
